With the Commencement Day just a couple of short months away, the question on everyone's lips is: "How did the different disciplines come to be marked by academic robes with hoods of different colors?" Everybody is asking it; I mean everybody! I mean I haven't been able to walk ten feet on any campus without somebody grabs my elbow and says, "How did the different disciplines come to be marked by academic robes with hoods of different colors, hey?"

This, I must say, is not the usual question asked by collegians who grab my elbow. Ordinarily they say, "Hey, Shorty, got a Marlboro?" And this is fitting. After all, are they not collegians and therefore loaded with brains? And does not intelligence demand the tastiest in tobacco flavor? And does not Marlboro deliver a flavor that is uniquely delicious? And am I not short?

But I digress. Back to the colored hoods of academic robes. A doctor of philosophy wears blue, a doctor of medicine wears green, a master of arts wears white, a doctor of humanities wears crimson, a master of library science wears lemon yellow. Why? Why, for example, should a master of library science wear lemon yellow?

Why, Why?

Well sir, to answer this vexing question, we must go back to March 14, 1844. On that date the first public library in the United States was established by Ulrich Sigafoos. All of Mr. Sigafoos's neighbors were of course wildly grateful—all, that is, except Wrex Todhunter.

Mr. Todhunter had hated Mr. Sigafoos since 1822 when both men had wooed the beautiful Melanie Zitt and Melanie had chosen Mr. Sigafoos because she was mad for dancing and Mr. Sigafoos knew all the latest steps—like the Missouri Compromise Samba, the Shays' Rebellion Schottische, and the James K. Polk Polka—while Mr. Todhunter, alas, could not dance at all, owing to a wound he had received at the Battle of New Orleans. (He was struck by a falling praline.)

Consumed with jealousy at the success of Mr. Sigafoos's library, Mr. Todhunter resolved to open a competing library. This he did, but he lured not one single patron away from Mr. Sigafoos. "What has Mr. Sigafoos got that I have not?" Mr. Todhunter kept asking himself, and finally the answer came to him: books.

So Mr. Todhunter stocked his library with lots of lovely books, and soon he was doing more business than his hated rival. But Mr. Sigafoos struck back. To regain his clientele, he began serving tea at his library every afternoon. Thereupon Mr. Todhunter, not to be outdone, began serving tea with sugar. Thereupon Mr. Sigafoos began serving tea with sugar and cream. Thereupon Mr. Todhunter began serving tea with sugar and cream and lemon.

This, of course, clinched the victory for Mr. Todhunter because he had the only lemon tree in town—in fact, in the entire state of Maine—and since that day lemon yellow has, of course, been the color on the robes of masters of library science.

(Incidentally, the defeated Mr. Sigafoos packed up his library and moved to California where, alas, he failed once more. There were, to be sure, plenty of lemons to serve with his tea, but, alas, there was no cream because the cow was not introduced to California until 1937 by John Wayne.)

©1964 Max Shulman

* * *

Today Californians, happy among their milch kine, are enjoying filtered Marlboro Cigarettes in soft pack or Flip-Top Box, as are their fellow Americans in all fifty states of this Marlboro Country!

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College

Vol. XLII - No. 13 | Clinton, South Carolina, March 13, 1964 | Founded 1920

Senators Attack Interest Rates On Student Loans

WASHINGTON (CPS)—Two angry midwestern Senators this week launched an attack on what they termed "outrageous and incredible" interest rates charged for U. S. college and university student loans.

Initiating a plan to clamp a limit on interest rates charged for student loans was Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind. Hartke, who has introduced legislation providing massive college student aid including low-interest commercial loans, said some commercial lenders are charging as much as 60 per cent interest annually.

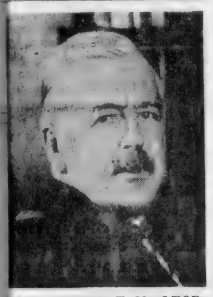
Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., told CPS that he will introduce a bill holding interest rates charged for college student loans to a maximum of 9 per cent annually.

Hartke said some of the commercial firms were "unknowingly recommended by college authorities without realization of their ownership or usurious terms."

Named by Hartke as charging 60 per cent annual interest was the Tuition Plan, Inc. of New York, a subsidiary of C. I. T. Financial Corp.

Hartke also named other firms charging the high interest rates with similar programs. They included Education Funds, Inc., of Providence, R. I., a Household Finance Corp. subsidiary, which Hartke said charged as much as 54 per cent annually in interest.

His study showed that federal (including the National Defense Education Act (NDEA)), state and other non-profit student loan rates ranged from 3 to 6 per cent.



"There can be no question of the need for more favorable loan terms," Hartke said.

Sen. Douglas, a former Chicago University economist, said he would propose his maximum 9 per cent rate as an amendment to the NDEA Act.

It would provide that "no education institution participating in the NDEA loan act may also participate in or cooperate with" any private college-loan program charging students more than 9 per cent a year.

Douglas said he was astonished "at the high rates charged even by institutions which proudly proclaim they are low-cost lenders." He cited the 11-plus per cent interest rates charged by "typical" banks in Allentown, Pa., and Cleveland, Ohio.

But, Douglas said the worst offenders were "small loan and finance companies which have established subsidiaries with philanthropic sounding names.

DR. GEORGE F. MacLEOD

Former Moderator Church of Scotland To Speak at College

A past moderator of the Church of Scotland General Assembly will speak to the Presbyterian College student body on next Wednesday morning in Belk Auditorium.

He is the Very Reverend George F. MacLeod, who served as moderator in 1957-58 and who is currently addressing college audiences as a Danforth Visiting Lecturer. The public is cordially invited to this 10:00 a. m. program.

Dr. MacLeod will speak on the Iona Community he founded in 1938 to restore the ruined Abbey at Iona, regarded as the cradle of Scotland's Christianity. The Abbey was taken over by the Benedictines and twice destroyed by pirates in its first centuries.

It nevertheless became the center of Scotland's Christianity, and the burial place of its kings until the Reformation, when the Abbey was pillaged and its community dispersed. Burial ground attached to the Abbey contains the graves of 50 Scottish kings among them Macbeth, villain of Shakespeare's tragedy.

Dr. MacLeod, a graduate of Oxford and Edinburgh universities, was the first Presbyterian minister to preach in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, since the eighteenth century.

PC Military Cadets Will Visit Jackson

Cadets from the ROTC unit at PC will invade Fort Jackson on March 20-21 for the annual Orientation Program, designed to develop cadets who are in the advanced course.

The program will portray the working conditions, duties, and daily relationships of junior officers with both their superiors and subordinates. Also, the program will give maximum exposure to the life of a young officer.

One of the highlights of the two-day visit is the familiarization of firing on the trainfire course.

The course is fired with live ammunition and is conducted under simulated combat condition. The targets are the "pop-up" type and are exposed to the firer for only a few seconds.

Cadets who will participate in this program are: Bud Alford, Robert Banks, Arthur Baxter, Frederick Boiter, Alvin Boone, Phil Burns, and Danny Charles.

Also, Paul Conger, Bill Edmonds, Donald Fricks, Lewis Hay, Dee Hodges, Cleve Jacobs, Wylie Jones, Creighton Likes, Court Lipscomb, and Randy McCranie.

Al Pearce, Bruce Pruitt, Sherrod Rhodes, George Sease, James Settle, John Settle, John Smith, Bill Tallent, and Joe Upsal.

The cadets will be accompanied to Jackson by Capt. Joe S. Maupin and Sgt. Clark W. Morton, both members of the instructor group at P C.

DR. FRANK A. ROSE

Alabama U. Head To Deliver Address At College Program

University of Alabama President Frank A. Rose will deliver the main address at the inauguration of Dr. Marc C. Weersing as president of Presbyterian College on May 5, PC Trustee Chairman Robert M. Vance announced today.

Dr. Rose will give the inaugural speech of the program tentatively scheduled for 2:45 p. m. in Belk Auditorium. Vance said other leaders in the educational and religious fields also will participate.

Dr. Frank Rose has served as president of the University of Alabama since 1958 and in this capacity has become recognized among the South's outstanding young educators. He went to that position from Transylvania College, where he had been president from 1951 to 1958.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Transylvania, he received a bachelor of divinity degree from Transylvania Seminary and is a minister of the Christian Church.

He has done additional graduate study at the University of London and has received honorary degrees from 5 universities aid colleges.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce named him one of the "ten outstanding young men of the United States" in 1955, and he was elected to the South's Hall of Fame for the Living in 1960.

Georgia Math Prof Aids PC Department

Dr. Marion K. Fort, Jr., professor of mathematics at the University of Georgia, was at PC this week to aid the mathematics department in self-evaluation through observation and conferences.

He also spoke to several science and math classes during his visit.

Dr. Fort is a member of the Committee on the Undergraduate Program in Mathematics. The organization works in various ways to upgrade math education in colleges and universities throughout the nation.

The CUPM is made up of thirty mathematicians who are chosen for their professional specialties, experience, educational interests, and geographic location.

The consultants are available for two-day visits to institutions requesting their services.

College Entertaining Scholarship Hopefuls

The P C campus will witness a convocation of the high school intelligentsia from the Carolinas and Georgia this weekend as fourteen semi-finalists gather for competition for Founder's Scholarships.

They are arriving this afternoon and will be shown around the campus by members of the Blue Key. Friday evening they will be entertained at a banquet, at which President Weersing and Dean Gettys will each make a short welcoming talk.

Selected student leaders will make short talks explaining the functions of their campus organizations.

Saturday morning Dr. Cooler of the Guidance Department will give a series of tests which will be evaluated with other academic material already on hand to make the final selections.

The semi-finalists are: Eugene S. Browder, Jr., Wallace, N. C.; Joseph W. Dunlap, Jr., Darlington; Charles W. Eagles, Florence; George R. Grant, Andrews; Toney J. Lister, Spartanburg; Samuel B. McLaughlin, Waxhaw, N. C.; and John S. Mebane, Dunwoody, Ga.

Also, Miss Sandra L. Olive, Columbia; James H. Powell, Scranton; Richard S. Spencer, Rock Hill; Miss Sarah E. Stribling, Atlanta; Dillard H. Thompson, Jr., Sumter; Miss Frances C. Tt mlinson, Valdosta, Ga.; Victor O. Wilson, Jr., Sumter.

Col. Thackston stated, "We offer about ten Founder's Scholarships a year and financial need of the family will have some bearing on the money, but we will select our scholars on academic ability."

Sandy Hagood New SCA Vice-President

Sandy Hagood, Nancy Harvey, and Jim Bankhead were named vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively of the Student Christian Association in Wednesday's election.

Hagood, a junior from Easley, is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha. He served as treasurer of the SCA last year.

Nancy Harvey is a sophomore from Monticello, Ga. Last year she also served on the SCA cabinet.

Bankhead, an outstanding athlete, is a sophomore from Chester.

Ike Cobb, the newly-elected president, and the three other new officers will be installed later this spring.

The student body by a strong majority also passed the referendum concerning the election of cheerleaders.

Senior Bill Loeble Heads Tau Phi Pi

Bill Loeble, a rising senior from Waynesboro, Va., was chosen to lead the Tau Phi Pi next year at the organization's meeting Monday night.

The vice-president's position went to Susanna Jeanes, also a rising senior, who is from Lyman. Tom Whitaker from Florence was named secretary-treasurer. Whitaker is a rising junior.

After the business meeting, members of the honorary science fraternity listened to a panel discussion on the relationship between science and religion. Doctors Whitelaw, Moorefield, Stump, and Hay composed the panel.

The discussion, which was moderated by out-going president Leon Bullard, included questions ranging from the theological implications of Darwin's theory of evolution to the moral questions involved in the development and use of modern-day contraceptive pills.

Next month the club is scheduled to hear a lecture on the desalianation of sea water for drinking purposes by a well-known scientist. The speaker's name will be announced at a later date.

Chapel Services

Chapel services for the coming week are as follows:

Monday, March 16 — Mr. Glover.

Wednesday, March 18 — Dr. George MacLeod.

Friday, March 20 — Lions Club.

Dr. Marion K. Fort, Jr., Professor of Mathematics at the University of Georgia, visited here this week to aid the Math Department in its self-study. From left to right, Mr. Cannon, Mr. Martin, Mr. Campbell, and Dr. Fort.—Photo by Yarborough.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager ..... Al Pearce
Managing Editor ..... Bill Loeble

Chapel No. 3

For Better Programs...

MONDAY AND FRIDAY CHAPEL programs are often the object of criticism from student, faculty and administration. They are, in many cases, student devotionals which have no real pertinence to or impact on the student audience. Monday services are often under the term "staff devotionals" and vary greatly in their quality.

ONE VIEWPOINT IS SHARED by many people who argue that these religious services tend to dilute the formal Wednesday chapel period and in effect our attitude toward religion itself. Can a student who has a required chapel service every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday; a required Bible class every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday; and a possible optional Sunday service still find the Wednesday service meaningful?

A POINT OF SATIETY is reached no matter what the subject, and this is certainly not untrue in religious matters. In this age of unemotionally presented religion, the multiplication of religious functions leads to a religious apathy.

WHAT IS THE ROLE of the Monday and Friday services if this premise is assumed or partially accepted? Again these programs must be meaningful to the student.

THE DANFORTH LECTURE SERIES, the Drama Club, Mr. Fakkema's film, and the Blue Key presentations have all achieved a high level of value either in student interest or intellectual stimulation. It is quite true that a small campus cannot produce enough internal talent to fill this role two days out of every week. Then what can be done?

LITTLE EXPENSE has been involved in past chapel programs on the whole. Naturally there is a definite need for thrift, but can we afford to exercise it on our chapel programs?

THE AVERAGE COST of a professor alone for a single three hour course is $700.00 to reach an estimated average of twenty students three days a week for one semester. Can we not afford to allocate a great deal more to reach five hundred and fifty students three days a week for one semester?

THIS ANSWER MUST BE affirmative, for nowhere else in our entire college schedule do we have as large a possibility of exercising our religious, intellectual, and social aims.

—BOB ALLISON

Editors' Notebook

THE BLUE STOCKING urges students who have not already turned in their questionnaires to the faculty self-study committee on student personnel to do so immediately.

THESE QUESTIONNAIRES are prepared with the help of student organizations. Their results will be of value only if they receive the full support and attention of the student body.

STUDENTS MAY GIVE their completed questionnaires to Mr. Gunn in Neville 101, to Mr. Adams in Neville 203, or to Mrs Stilwell at the information desk in the administration building.

EXTRA COPIES are available from either Mr. Gunn or Mr. Adams if any student has lost his.

COACH GORDON WARDEN has demonstrated enthusiasm and a spirit characteristic of far too few people in his praiseworthy arrangements for the second annual invitational intramural basketball tournament on the PC campus.

ACCORDING TO ALL REPORTS, the event was an overwhelming success and gained the support of a large percentage of the PC student body as well as that of many students from Erskine, Newberry, and Furman.

COACH WARDEN MADE practically all of the arrangements for the tournament, with the assistance of Don Warlick, and the complications that are involved in any event of this sort are always far more than the outsider and casual observer can imagine.

BECAUSE OF HIS ZEAL, The Blue Stocking salutes and thanks Coach Warden for his outstanding (and often unnoticed) services to the college.

In Defense Of Fraternites

by IKE COBB

This week in Indianapolis, Indiana, thirty-seven college students were arrested in a fraternity drinking party that ranged over nine floors of a downtown hotel.

The incident made headlines in most of the nation's newspapers on Monday morning. The newspaper reports gave scanty details of the goings-on and left a considerable amount up to the vivid imagination of the reader.

Needless to say, that incident has brought criticism and degradation not only to that one fraternity but to fraternities all over the nation. There is little that can be said in defense of this occurrence.

Stories like that incessantly make front page headlines because people enjoy reading about the "corrupt generation" and relish sitting back and casting a glaring eye at the iniquities of college students.

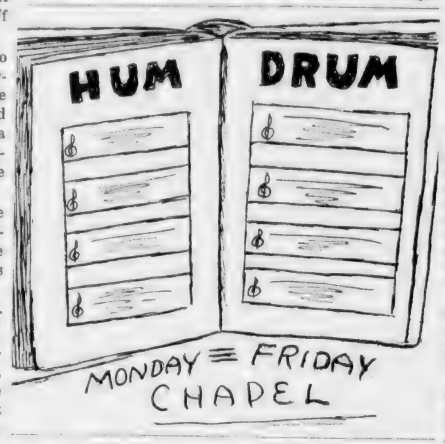
Fraternities have a long and colorful tradition. Their origin dates back to 1683. The fraternity system has wavered through years of depression and war, but it has always managed to come back strong. In retrospect one can see that as time has passed, fraternities have changed to fit the social needs of the day. If our fraternities are to remain strong today and if they continue to be the backbone of campus activity, they must conform to the ideals and goals of the institution of which they are a part.

If the fraternity exists only for hell-raising and drinking, then it has no place as a part of an educational institution.

The fraternity today should be a center of citizenship, loyalty and intellectual pride. It is no longer a haven for "Rah! Rah! boys and "hell-raisers." Most fraternities require the maintenance of a certain average for membership. In some cases, the qualifications for membership are not high enough and should be raised.

Nevertheless, the scholastic goal provides the initiative for some who would otherwise not be motivated to seek academic excellence.

Though our fraternities play a major role in the over-all sphere of campus life, they must give major attention to the over-all purpose of the college.



It is feasible that college officers can no longer tolerate fraternities which attempt to thwart or pervert the solid objectives hammered out by the administration. The fraternity is a useful part of the campus. It's worth is and must be shown through its constructive actions and not merely through empty words.

The fraternity exists to aid in the development of well-rounded men, and its constructive activities mut be considered as well as its undesirable aspects.

The chapter should provide each member with an internship in responsible citizenship. The attitudes which the group honors can become internalized so that they will later emerge and make themselves felt in the home, in the community, and in professional life. The peer group exerts as much or more influence on the individual as professors or counselors.

The fraternity is no place for insignificant loyalties in our present day. It must be a matrix for wider loyalties to mankind, the future, and the academic ideal of learning and culture.

Our Greek chapters of Presbyterian College are worthwhile organizations. They not only provide the leadership for campus-wide activities, but they are the hub around the major part of campus life—athletics, scholarship, and social life.

New Book Portrays Sex And The Co-Ed

"If you are a college male or female, a teacher or school administrator, a parent, a social scientist, a moralist or a novelist —or if you just want to know about the new generation of American jeunes filles for the Hell of it—then this is your book," writes Max Lerner in the Introduction to SEX AND THE COLLEGE GIRL, by Gael Greene, a Delacorte Press Book just published ($4.95).

For this book Gael Greene interviewed 614 students from 102 colleges and universities throughout the country. In group discussions and dormitory gab sessions, college co-eds spoke on love and sex as they saw it. Some of Miss Greene's findings reported in "Sex and the College Girl" are:

The most powerful influence on the campus today is the cool co-ed, "calmly, casually, matter-of-factly erotic."

Traditional moral codes are meaningless to both the "cool" coed and the more conservative college girl of the sixties.

Sexual candor has increased to the point of exhibitionism breeding an atmosphere where sexual freedom—and sexual panic—can flourish.

The gap is widening between the increasingly emancipated college girl and the steadfastly-double-standard male undergraduate.

The collapse of traditional morality, the breakdown of parental authority and adult control is making way for a new sex ethic —sex with affection or "it's right if you're engaged, pinned, lavaliered, going steady or — IN LOVE'."

Born and reared in Detroit and a graduate of the University of Michigan, Gael Greene has been a reporter for the United Press International and the New York Post. She is the author also of "Don't Come Back Without It," and has contributed to such magazines as McCall's, Saturday Evening Post, Cosmopolitan, and Mademoiselle. The author, presently living in New York, is married to a newspaperman.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

After leaving chapel Monday, March 2, I asked a student "What did you get out fo Dr. Moorefield's lecture?" (and make no mistake—this was a lecture in every sense of the word). He gave the question due consideration and replied, "There's no hope of ever getting out of it" (compulsory chapel services).

Earlier I had read with great interest the article entitled "In Hope of Reform" by Bob Allison. After dismissing any 'radical' change, he turns to a more constructive proposal the im-

(Continued on page 4)

BILL LOEBLE
Managing Ed.

Side Comments

Apologies Given For Printed Errors

In this column last week we tackled the problem of the educational atmosphere of South Carolina and consequently aroused a great deal of ire among our readers.

In the haste of trying to gather information and writnig, we printed several erroneous statements and would like to make profound and humble apologies to the appropriate people.

In the first place, we stated that Newberry College lacked accreditation. On the contrary, our sister school has been on the list of accredited institutions in the Southeast since 1936.

The pride and prestige of a college rests to a great extent upon its accreditation. With this in mind, we feel the concern involved with such a statement and hope that Newberry will accept our apologies.

As far as educational bills now before the State Assembly are concerned, news analysts in the state capital predict rapid passage of nearly all educational bills, specifically those dealing with the proposed Educational Television channel for the central part of the state, and with a pay increase for public school teachers in South Carolina.

We wish that we had read the analyses before writing the ignominious column.

Yet, we think that we do have a point, and it is proven by the fact that several State Senators opposed both of these bills. A tinge of apathy yet remains.

Speaking of Sports

with AL PEARCE

Court Priority Rule Expected; Town Answers

The question of "tennis court priority" which was brought forth in this column on February 21st has been received with mixed emotions in the Clinton area.

In Review

Reviewing briefly, the editorial posed the question: why can't the City of Clinton make provisions for the recreational needs of local tennis players other than pouring them onto the college courts? The article stated, in part, that after paying his college fees, a student feels that he should be allowed to use facilities of the college. It also stated that if the townspeople would respect the regulations concerning the use of the first five courts, i.e., letting the college students, faculty, and administraion use the courts at will, the college community would then respect the regulations concerning court number six, i.e., allowing the townspeople free access to it.

As Was Expected

In the edition following the presentation of this vital question a solution was presented. In essence the "solution" was just what had been expected it would be: the posting of specific rules telling townspeople, the college community, and the world about "court priority." The actual rules and regulations need not be repeated now. It is assumed that all who will be playing tennis this spring are familiar with the rules.

Only one "answer," as such, was presented. The letter was not attacking the solution, but it was questioning the use of the word "yokel" in the column's headline: "Local Yokel's Annual Invasion No New Thing." The letter, verbatim, is reprinted below:

Mr. Turner Replies

Dear Editors:

I read with interest the recent sports column in The Blue Stocking.

I am a graduate of P. C. and am now a member of the Executive Board of the Walter Johnson Club. I attended P. C. on an athletic scholarship and am very much interested in helping each year to raise money for the College in order that other young men might have the same opportunity I had.

I intend to continue doing what I can for the College for I am vitally interested in young people and you young people at the College.

As to the tennis courts, it is my opinion that they do belong to the College and it is only right that the sudents and faculty have priority in using them. I have always considered my use of the courts a privilege afforded me by the school and one that I enjoyed, appreciated and perhaps sometimes abused.

The thing that distrubed me mildly was your sportswriter's choice of the word "Yokel" in his reference to us.

I turned to Mr. Webster and he defines the word Yokel in this manner:

"Yokel. Contemptuous. A rustic, a plowboy."

In looking further, one finds that contemptuous, among other undesirable definitions, pertains to, "a state of being worthless or despised."

Further, Mr. Webster defines rustic as "awkward, boorish, unpolished, rude, a rural person naturally simple in character or manners."

It is enough to make one wonder how he could be exposed to P. C. for four years only to be described by such a coarse word, and, if it could be within the bounds of reason that his four years of tenure here could have in any way contributed to this state of being.

Then, too it is entirely possible that one could be a "yokel" when he arrived and only after finishing school and settling down in one place could he properly be called a "local yokel."

Let me conclude by saying that I am not mad at anyone. However, I am somewhat chagrined by my own fallen image to a group I like so well. Now I must labor to improve this image.

I always imagined I cut a pretty fair caper with young folks.

Yours truly,
R. MICHAEL TURNER
Local Yokel

Criticism Appreciated

Mr. Turner's good intentions of criticism are appreciatively received by this writer. For this "fault" we must apologize. and we must also concede the first point in the first game of the set. However, we feel that this point is all we must concede.

Mike Turner is a well-known and well-liked young man in Clinton. He plays an excellent game of tennis, and is by no means a "local yokel." We know and respect him as a man, as a loyal supporter of Presbyterian College in all areas of college growth. We thank him for his letter, and we invite his advice and criticism at any time.

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

Erskine Defeats Furman for Title; PC Tops Newberry for Third

Most Valuable Player Ed Clarke led Erskine College to its second straight championship in the PC Invitational Basketball Tournament last night in a 92-75 win over the all-stars from Furman University.

Clarke's 26 points and strong rebounding put Erskine ahead 47-32 at halftime, and the closest Furman could pull was within 10 points midway of the second half.

NO DOUBT

There was actually no question about the outcome from the beginning, with Erskine jumping off to a quick lead and maintaining control all the way. Despite a 25-point effort from Doug Shaw and the overwhelming support of the fans for the Paladins, the Flying Fleet successfully defended the title it had taken last year.

Presbyterian led all the way to take third place honors in the Tournament by defeating Newberry 91-77. The PC-Newberry encounter was the 7:30 preliminary to the 9:00 Furman-Erskine championship clash on Thursday night.

EARLY LEAD

Led by Frank Markette's 26 points and Tommy Williams' 21, PC built an early lead they never lost. The margin ranged from 5 points with 6 minutes gone in the first half to 18 points late in the game.

Newberry was paced by Tony Grant with 22 points, Chester Floyd with 16, and Tony Whitlock with 15 points. Newberry, although putting up a game effort, was no match for the taller Blue Hose. The outcome was never in doubt after the first five minutes of the first half as PC had obvious control of the game.

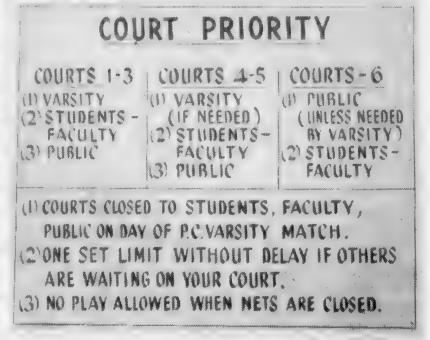
Erskine handed Newberry its third straight IBT defeat Wednesday night in the first round of tournament action, trouncing the Indians 72-47.

In romping to the finals the Fleet kept Newberry winless in two years of play in the PC event. Wallace Vassar's 14 points was high for EC, but Leonard Price, Ed Clarke, and Thelton Powell hit in double figures.

Newberry managed to hold it close the first half, trailing 36-28 at the intermission. But from there on out it was all Erskine as the fleet completely ran over the Indians.

COOL PC

In the second game of the first round action Furman took advantage of two cold spells by Presbyterian to take a 68-62 win.



Leading 23-21 with 5:35 to play in the first half, PC could score only 4 points in the closing minutes while Furman tallied 12. This spurt gave Furman a 33-27 halftime lead, a lead they never lost.

PC went almost 3:10 into the second half before they could score again. In this dry spell Furman scored 6 points, padding their lead to 39-27 with 4 minutes gone in the second half. From then on it was just a matter of holding off the PC ball-hawking and making only the sure shots. Furman did a good job in both of these assignments.

PC kept pecking away at the Furman lead, cutting the advantage from 12 points to only 5 with 2:06 left in the game. The late scoring drive by PC was not quite enough, as Furman advanced into the finals.

ALL-STARS

The Tournament All-Star team included Ed Clarke of Erskine, Doug Shaw and Dave Sparks of Furman, Tony Whitlock of Newberry, and Tommy Williams of PC. On the second team were Tony Grant of Newberry, Fred Mann of Furman, Ronnie Croak and Thelton Powell of Erskine, and Gordan Mayhugh of PC.

THE PROPOSED SOLUTION to the recent tennis court controversy is shown here on one of the two signs erected last week at the courts. It is felt that this plan is the only one that could be worked out under the previous conditions.—Photo by Yarborough.

Sports Schedule

LISTED BELOW is the complete 1964 day by day spring sports schedule for Presbyterian College. It was released today by the Athletic Department.

Date	Sport	Opponent	Place
March 13	Tennis	Pennsylvania	Clinton
March 14	Tennis	Pennsylvania	Clinton
March 17	Golf	South Carolina	Columbia
March 18	Tennis	South Carolina	Clinton
March 19	Golf	Furman	Clinton
March 21	Track	Wofford-Milligan	Spartanburg
March 23	Tennis	Grove City	Clinton
March 24	Golf	Wofford	Clinton
March 25	Golf	Augusta	Clinton
March 25	Baseball	Tusculum	Clinton
March 26	Tennis	Indiana	Clinton
March 27	Tennis	Williams	Clinton
March 28	Tennis	Alabama	Clinton
March 30	Tenis	Harvard	Clinton
March 31	Tennis	Harvard	Clinton
April 2	Baseball	V. M. I.	Clinton
April 3	Baseball	V. M. I.	Clinton
April 3	Golf	Furman	Greenville
April 6	Golf	Belmont Abbey	Clinton
April 7	Baseball	Erskine	Clinton
April 7	Tennis	Georgia	Athens, Ga.
April 8	Track	Davidson	Davidson, N. C.
April 9	Baseball	Mercer	Macon, Ga.
April 9	Baseball	Furman	Greenville
April 11	Track	Emory	Clinton
April 11	Tennis	Citadel	Clinton
April 13	Golf	Augusta	Augusta, Ga.
April 14	Baseball	Newberry	Clinton
April 15	Track	Wofford	Clinton
April 15	Tennis	Clemson	Clinton
April 16	Golf	Citadel-Col. of Char.	Hampton
April 17	Baseball	Furman	Clinton
April 17-18	Golf	State Int. Tour.	Hampton
April 18	Baseball	Mercer	Clinton
April 20	Baseball	Wofford	Spartanburg
April 21	Tennis	Florida State	Clinton
April 22	Baseball	Belmont Abbey	Belmont, N. C.
April 22	Track	Lenoir Rhyne	Clinton
April 23-24	Tennis	State Int. Tour.	Clinton
April 24	Baseball	Citadel	Charleston
April 25	Baseball	Citadel	Charleston
April 25	Track	Davidson Relays	Davidson, N. C.
April 25	Golf	Mercer	Macon, Ga.
April 27	Golf—	Belmont Abbey	Gastonia, N. C.
April 28	Tennis	Georgia	Clinton
April 29	Baseball	Erskine	Due West
April 30	Baseball	Furman	Spartanburg
April 30	Track	Wofford	Newberry
May 4	Baseball	Newberry	Greenville
May 4	Track	NAIA Dist. Meet	Spartanburg
May 4	Tennis	Duke	Durham, N. C.
May 5	Golf	Mercer	Clinton
May 6	Tennis	Miami	Clinton
May 6	Baseball	Wofford	Clinton
May 7	Golf	Wofford	Spartanburg
May 8	Tennis	Furman	Clinton
May 8	Baseball	Belmont Abbey	Clinton
May 9	Tennis	Citadel	Charleston
May 11	Golf	Col. of Charleston	Charleston

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square — Laurens

BROADWAY Theatre
Friday and Saturday Night
CHARADE
Saturday Afternoon Only
AT WAR WITH THE ARMY
Mon.-Tues.-Wed., March 16-
AMERICA-AMERICA

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

As usual, the "after blues" that come with a big weekend have set in.

Everyone seemed to enjoy Military Ball and all the fraternities scored a great success in their social endeavors, according to the reports. The only complaint heard so far is that too many dry weeks remain between now and Greek Weekend.

Going into brotherhood this week were Howdy Letzring and Doug Allen, Sigma Nu; and Peyton Carter and Mike Lowrance, Kappa Alpha.

This weekend Alpha Sigma Phi will hold their annual pledge weekend. The pledges will hold a Saturday afternoon party at Lake Greenwood followed by a record party in their suite that night in honor of their brothers. Both parties will be closed.

Big news among the KA's this week is their annual Old South Ball in Augusta, Ga. Four dances have been planned with the formal ball Saturday night as a fitting climax.

Dennis Hill of Theta Chi pinned Miss Nancy Welch of the University of Georgia.

The Alpha Sigs' new officers are: president, Bill Megathlin; vice-president, Willie Prickett; secretary, Earl Guy; and treasurer, Jim Stanford.

KA officers were appointed by the new Numbers I, II, and III. They are: Charlie Jordan, No. IV, John Morrison, No. V, John White, No. VI, Ike Cobb No. VII, Charlie Meriwether No. VIII, and Mike Smith, No. IX.

Brothers of the week for Pi Kappa Alpha are Jimmy Stewart, Wade Stewart, Bill Gaston, and Randy McCranie. Tim Grey and Lewis Hay received the same honor from Alpha Sigma Phi.

'64 Military Ball Termed "Best Yet" By PC Cadets

Military students have agreed with the cadre in terming Military Ball a great success, according to Capt. Joe Maupin. The saber arch turned out better than ever and attracted a large number of favorable comments, Scabbard and Blade members told The Blue Stocking early this week.

Honored guest at the ball was Brigadier General Creighton E. Likes, Sr., who has been recognized and honored many times for outstanding service in the army.

General Likes served with the 309th Infantry Regiment throughout the campaigns in Europe during World War II.

While serving as regimental executive officer, he won the Bronze Star medal for leadership and skill in planning and supervision of the movement of the entire 309th combat team across the Ludendorff Bridge the day after it had been seized.

In addition to the Bronze Star, his decorations include the American Defense Service Medal, the American Campaign Medal, the European African - Middle Eastern Campaign Medal with three Battle Stars, the Army of Occupations Medal, and the World War II Victory Medal.

General Likes has been regimental commander of the Palmetto Regiment, 118th Infantry, since July 1, 1957.

Other guests present included President Weersing, Col. Thackston, and several townspeople.

Lit Class Attends Lecture In Columbia

Members of Mr. Wayne Gunn's American literature class went Wednesday to meet with the members of a literature class at Benedict College in Columbia.

According to Mr. Gunn, "The purpose of the joint discussion was to gain for members of both classes further insights into the problems of 'Huckleberry Finn,' specifically those problems involved in the racial aspects of Twain's novel."

Letter

(Continued from page 2)

provement of the chapel services.

First may I suggest that here the use of the word 'radical' was most unfortunate. It seems to conjure up all sorts of nasty little images in the minds of the 'right-thinking.' Any attempt to induce compulsory chapel services after a long history of free choice might be termed 'radical.'

Now let us consider the alternative offered—i.e., the improvement of the chapel programs. First, as might well be imagined, a standard of judgment is necessary. Who is to decide whether or not the chapel program is improved? And what means may be used to express this judgment? To these questions I offer the following proposal. Simply notify the students and faculty of the nature of the forthcoming chapel program by bulletin or otherwise. Then the students and faculty are given the right of exercising their freedom of choice. 'Improvement' of the chapel program would then be gauged by the student and faculty attendance.

Let me at this point make it clear that I do not advocate abolishing the chapel program itself since to do so would be an encroachment upon the freedom of choice of those who do wish to attend these services.

Upon reflection, I must admit that the above suggestion has one shocking flaw. Simply that whether or not the chapel program is or is not improved would lie in the hands of the students and faculty — equally. Each through his attendance casts one vote. Unfortunately, this appears to be in opposition to the Christian ideal of the well-known (and rather senseless) wool endowed, cud-chewing mammal.

ALFRED F. ZACHARY, JR.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

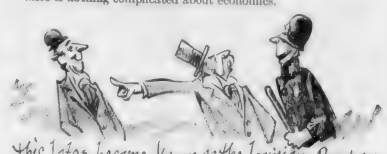
WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

LOCKLEAR'S
TV, RADIO, RECORD SHOP
— IS HAVING A —
10th BIRTHDAY
And You Are Invited To Help Us Celebrate
— With —
AN OPEN HOUSE
MARCH 12-21
SPECIAL PRICES ON EVERYTHING
— With —
FREE PRIZES
3 PRIZES WORTH $167.00
DRAWING MARCH 21 — 8:00 P. M.
307 Ferguson St. Clinton, S. C.

On Campus with Max Shulman



(Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy With Cheek".)

ECONOMICS CAN BE CHUCKLES

Many of you have been avoiding economics because it is so widely known as "the dismal science." Oh, good friends, stop cheating yourselves of many a laugh and cheer, because economics is a positive riot! True, it is called the dismal science, but that is only because it was invented in 1681 by Walter C. Dismal.

It is easy to understand why Mr. Dismal's discovery of economics is today almost forgotten, for the fact is that he himself only stayed with the subject for two or three days. After that he took up embonpoint, which means fatness. It is said that at his apogee, Mr. Dismal reached 1200 pounds. This later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.

It was not until 1776 when Adam Smith published his Wealth of Nations (or Ozymandias, as it is usually known as) that the world came to realize what a rosy, twinkly, fun subject economics is. As Mr. Smith showed in his jocular little treatise, there is nothing complicated about economics.

When there is a great demand for a product, a great supply is placed on the market. When there is a small demand, there is a small supply. Take, for example, castanets. You walk into any average American town today and I'll wager you won't see more than eighty or ninety castanet shops. That is because the demand is small.

For Marlboro Cigarettes, on the other hand, the demand is great. Thus, you will find Marlboros—with all their yummy rich tobacco flavor and pure white Selectrate filter and pliable soft pack and unpliable Flip-Top box—at any counter where cigarettes are sold in every one of our fifty great States and Duluth.

To Adam Smith, I say, belongs the distinction of popularizing economics. Mr. Smith was followed by David Ricardo. In fact, everywhere he went he was followed by David Ricardo. Mr. Smith finally got so annoyed that he summoned a bobby, as British policemen are called, and had Mr. Ricardo arrested. This later became known as the Louisiana Purchase.

Upon his release from gaol, as a British jail is called, Mr. Ricardo reported to his parole officer, Thomas Robert Malthus. They soon became fast friends, and one night over a game of whist they invented the stock exchange, or chutney, as it is called in England.

Well sir, with the British having, you might say, a corner on economics, the French decided that they wanted some economics too. Being, however, a proud nation, they refused simply to borrow British economics, but insisted on inventing their own. At first they tried using the truffle hound as a medium of exchange. When this proved less than satisfactory, they switched to pomade. Discouraged by this second disappointment, they finally shrugged and said, "Oh, who cares about economics anyhow?" and returned to the guillotine and Maurice Chevalier.

America, I am pleased to report, had much better success with economics. Our early merchants quickly broke down economics into its two major categories—coins and folding money—and today, as a result of their wisdom, we can all enjoy the automatic toll station.

Well sir, I could go on and on about this fascinating subject, but I know you're all in a tearing hurry to rush out and sign up for Econ I. So I will leave you now with two kindly words of farewell: Gresham's Law.

© 1964 Max Shulman

* * *

We, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, are tobacconists, not economists. But this much we know about supply and demand: you demand full flavor in a filter cigarette; we supply it—Marlboro!

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College

Vol. XLII - No. 14 | Clinton, South Carolina, March 20, 1964 | Founded 1920

PC'S Robed Choir, under the direction of Dr. Edouard Patte, will begin its spring tour on April 1. The tour will take the choir throughout states in the Southeast.

PC Robed Choir Prepares For Annual Spring Trip

The Presbyterian College Robed Choir under the direction of Dr. Edouard Patte will travel throughout Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi on its annual spring tour.

The tour, which is made up of eight concerts, begins April 1 in Rome, Ga., and continues as follows: April 2, Huntsville, Ala.; April 3, Meridian, Miss.; April 4-5, Natchez, Miss.; April 5, Hattiesburg, Miss.; April 6, Andalusia, Ala.; April 7, Bainbridge, Ga. The choir will return to PC April 8.

This year the theme for the choir's program is the "Covenant Story." The program at each performance is made up of twelve selections. A variety of music is used in order to make each performance an experience of spiritual meaningfulness in religious worship.

The music program includes "Gloria In Excelsis" by Vivaldi; "Bless the Lord" by Ippolitov Ivanov; "Out of the Depths" by Bach; "Go Tell it on the Mountain," a Negro spiritual; "Wondrous Love," a southern folk hymn; "Balm in the Gilead," another spiritual; and "All Praise to God" by Rimsky-Korshakov.

Also: "Adoramous Te" by Palestrina; "O God Our Help in Ages Past" by Croft;" "I Sing of Thee" by Loys Bourgeois; "Cantate Domini" by Hassler, and "Onward Ye Peoples" by Sibelius.

The choir, which is well known throughout the Southeast, travels approximately 5,000 miles each year.

Election of officers for 1964-65 will be held immediately after the spring tour.

Truluck Speaks On Youth Exchange

Mr. Rembert Truluck, Lions Club International Counselor, and Mr. George Cornelson, member of PC's Board of Trustees and Lions Club Director, presented a program of information of the Lions Youth Exchange Program today in chapel.

The program involves a Vacation Visitor venture to be conducted between a sponsoring club in one country and a host club in another.

Under the provisions of the program, a young man or woman between the ages of 16 and 25 is sponsored by a club in one country to live with a family selected by a Lions Club in some other country. The visit may cover several weeks of a vacation period.

In this way the visiting student is given an opportunity to learn at first hand how people live in other countries. Upon returning to his home, the exchange youth will convey his impressions of the experience to the sponsoring club and to other civic organizations.

"This prgram is the most extensive program the Lions Club has ever sponsored," Mr. Truluck said. "It has met with a great deal of success during the past several years, and we hope to interest a number of PC students in the venture."

P. C. Math Professors To Attend Conference

Two P C math professors will attend the annual meeting of the South-Eastern Section of The Mathematical Association of America in Charleston this weekend.

Mr. Cannon and Mr. Campbell will attend the conference which will be held at the Francis Marion Hotel. All three members of the PC Math Department are members of the Association.

Well over two hundred mathematicians from all over the South-East will attend the two-day conference which will formally begin at 2:30 on Friday. The host for the meeting is The Citadel.

The two PC representatives together will present a paper entitled, "On Traditional Versus Modern Algebra," in which they will compare, using statistics, the two courses of basic math that have been taught at PC.

The primary speaker for the conference will be Dr. M. K. Fort, Jr., who holds a Chair of Mathematics at the University of Georgia. Dr. Fort was on the PC campus last week to aid the Math Department in its program.

Mr. Cannon noted that Dr. R. P. Agnew of Cornell University will be the guest speaker for a banquet to be held on Friday night.

Some of the other institutions that will be represented are Vanderbilt, UNC, Auburn, University of Florida, and Florida Presbyterian.

Critic John Ciardi To Speak In Belk

Scheduled to speak here April 8 is John Ciardi, poetry editor of Saturday Review. The eminent poet, translater, editor and lecturer will deliver his address in Belk Auditorium.

Also the former host of the CBS-TV network weekly show, "Accent," Ciardi has developed a rare working knowledge of poetry.

He is well known for his forthright critical articles, for his popular column "Manner of Speaking" and editorials that appear monthly in Saturday Review.

A native of Boston, Ciardi graduated from Tufts College and was recently awarded the honorary degree of D. Litt. by his alma mater. He has taught English at Harvard and Rutgers and is Director of the Bread Loaf Writers Association.

When asked for his lecture subjects, Ciardi replied: "All my life has been a preparation. I don't give speeches: I talk to the eyes I see. I don't recommend that as a general system but it is my way and it works."

Gettys Asks Sophs To Choose Majors

Sophomores should already be thinking about choosing a major field of study, requests Academic Dean Joseph M. Gettys. Arrangements are now being made for pre-registration to be held not later than May 1.

At the time of pre-registration, Dr. Gettys said, sophomores must officially register with the department in which they will be doing their major work. They will also fill out major course cards at that time.

Professor Harris Awarded GE Grant

James C. Harris, PC's Instructor in Economics, has been selected by the General Electric Foundation to attend a seminar on Applied Economics at the University of Chicago this summer.

The seminar, which will be held August 3-28, will deal with subjects including Price Theory Study, Monetary Theory, and Fiscal Power. The study is designed to reveal the latest modes of thought in these and related fields.

General Electric makes these grants available to faculty members of schools not offering a Ph. D. degree in Economics. The purpose of the program is to strengthen the departments in such colleges.

Loan Firms Repute High Rate Charges

WASHINGTON—Commercial finance firms making loans to students of more than 1,000 U. S. colleges and universities this week denied congressional charges of collecting "outrageous" interest rates.

The charges were made by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who accused several commercial firms of collecting as much as 60 per cent interest annually on loans to college students and their parents.

Sen. Paul B. Douglas, D-Ill., has introduced legislation requiring interest rates charged for most college student loans to be no more than 9 per cent. Douglas introduced the bill as an amendment to the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) after Hartke made the charges.

Two of the largest firms accused by Hartke denied the charges, explaining they were providing expensive billing and collecting services—as well as money—for U. S. colleges and universities.

One explanation came from Robert Keir, president of the C. I. T. Financial Corp, which owns the Tution Plan, Inc.

"We aren't really lending money," Keir said. "We're providing a billing and collecting service for over 700 colleges, mostly private, that don't want the clerical work.

"The schools offer this service and turn over the contract of the parent to us. We handle all bookwork and place life insurance on each parent's life."

Rather than gouging, Kier said his firm was making a substantial social contribution by saving colleges money needed for such collecting and billing srevices.

Harold Logan, a spokesman for Education Funds, Inc., a subsidiary of Household Finance Corp., voiced a similar defense.

"Our service cost is enormous," Logan said. "All loans have to be put on a computer."

He said that more than 300 colleges, mostly private, "furnish lists of all students to us." His firm then contacts the parent—all by mail—to offer the loans without credit checks.

"There are very few multiple-year contracts we don't have to change," Logan said. "For example, the University of Denver's tuition is going up $300 next year. We have to change the loan contracts."

Hartke accused Keir's firm of charging 60 per cent interest annually for its loans. Logan's firm, Hartke said, charges as much as 54 per cent under some of its programs.

MARSHALL W BROWN

Dr. Brown Honored By SREB Position

Dr. Marshall W. Brown, president emeritus of Presbyterian College, has been named to the executive committee of the Southern Board of Regional Education by Virginia Governor Albertis S. Harrison, Jr., current SREB chairman.

Dr. Brown is one of only three members who has served continuously on this ten-state board since its inception in 1948. As one of five representatives from South Carolina, he has been appointed and reappointed by five governors of this state. His latest reappointment came last summer by Gov. Donald S. Russell for a term extending to 1967.

The executive committee, to which he has just been named, is composed of one board member from each state and two from the region at large. Members are appointed by the chairman of SREB with the concurrence of the governor of the state in which the member resides.

This will mark the second time Dr. Brown has served as a member of the executive committee.

Change In Holidays

Academic Dean Joseph Gettys reminds students of the change in the Easter holiday schedule.

Easter holidays will begin at 1:00 p. m., Thursday, March 26, instead of 6:00 p. m., as stated in the student calendar. The change will cancel the drill scheduled for that Thursday.

NC Colleges March For Race Equality

CHARLOTTE—Five hundred fired-up college students, many of them white, marched a mile through a steady downpour last Saturday afternoon to affirm to the world their belief in equality for the Negro.

Joe Howell, a Davidson College Senior from Nashville, and organizer of the march, said that 2,300 students and faculty members of nine colleges in the Charlotte area had signed petitions supporting the march and urging President Lyndon B. Johnson to push for a strong civil rights bill.

In addition to Davidson, colleges represented were Johnson C. Smith, Catawba, Livingston, Queens, Belmont Abbey, Charlotte College, Lenoir Rhyne, and Pfeiffer. About 200 of the 500 marchers were white.

The march from the campus of Johnson C. Smith University and back, which took nearly two hours, was watched by curious but generally silent onlookers.

About ten city policemen were assigned to the march, mostly to handle traffic at intersections. No extra men were used.

There were a few taunts from white bystanders, but one elated Davidson student reported, "One white fellow came out of a slum house and congratulated us."

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager — Al Pearce
Managing Editor — Bill Loeble

A Plea For Action

TWO WEEKS AGO in this column we made some attempt to approach the subject of civil rights and to voice our objections to what seem to us high-pressure techniques the administration is indulging in and allowing in its effort to insure passage of the civil rights bill.

SINCE THAT TIME the Senate has heard a motion to call up the bill that was passed by the House in February and is now deeply involved in debate on the measure. It is going to be interesting to observe the color Southern Senators inject as the debate continues, especially when they begin filibustering in a final attempt to prevent the bill from being called up.

SENATOR RICHARD RUSSELL, who is leading the Southern opposition to the bill, has already injected color of some variety by proposing an amendment that would bring about a government-subsidized and voluntary relocation of Negroes so that evehy state would have an equal percentage of the Negro population.

THE PLAN IS NOT completely unworkable and might even to some degree complement President Johnson's war on poverty by scattering it out so that it could be attacked more easily. The plan would undoubtedly also help the administration spend more money than ever while collecting lower taxes since it calls for an expenditure of $1.5 billion.

BUT ESCAPING the responsibility for the race problem or handing it to some other section is no solution. Furthermore, it is not in the least responsible. The responsibility rests with those who live where the problem exists, and we must accept it.

MANY OBECTIONS TO THE BILL have already been voiced. Some Southerners claim that it is the ultimate violation of state sovereignty. We may remind them that state sovereignty went out with the Articles of Confederation and the fact was proved thoroughly enough by what we will term The Unpleasantness, 1861-1865.

MANY IDEALISTS voice an objection that we wish we could share, namely, that any attempt to legislate ethics and moral responsibility is totally wrong. Our faith in man just isn't strong enough to allow us to believe that he will work out his problems if he is given enough time.

FURTHERMORE, IT SHOULD BE evident to any observer of human behavior that the idea of an all-pervading "good will" doesn't have too much effect on a lot of people, so legislation or definition of morals is often necessary. We could cite the giving of the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount to prove what we consider a legitimate point.

OUR OBECTIONS TO THE BILL are mainly to its lack of attempt to properly define "discrimination," despite its 49-page treatment of the subject, and to the fact that it does not adequately circumscribe the powers given to federal agencies to enforce the various aspects of the legislation.

BUT THE PRESIDENT is not likely to heed our objections, nor those of millions of Americans who agree with and support the President's humantarian aims but do not hold sacred every jot and tittle of the Celler Bill.

INSTEAD, HE MAKES IT SOUND as if anyone favoring a limitation on new federal powers in the civil rights field is opposed to giving the Negro the protection of the Constitution. And, as his first campaign speech indicated, he is likely to accept no compromise of any sort on the provisions of the bill.

OF COURSE, NO COMPROMISE will be necessary to get the bill through the Senate. Senator Hubert Humphrey, major proponent of the bill on the floor of the Senate, has made the statement several times that enough votes are already lined up to guarantee passage. The problem is in getting the bill before the Senate.

HUMPHREY HAS PREDICTED that the measure will be passed some time next month, and despite any objections we may have about the bill, we must in good conscience support it. Our reservations are not nearly so strong as our belief that the principles of Christianity are valid and worthy of support, our realization of the fact that racial equality is long overdue in the country, and our conviction that the bill is a far lesser evil than the continued denial of rights to American Negroes.—Walter Wells.

America-America Deserves Honors

by Raymond Summerlin

Life is viewed by most college students as a useless, futile attempt at nothing. We tend to see no real end or purpose to this struggle we term "life."

This thought, that life has no rewards but a vague nothingness in death, is shattered totally by Elia Kazan's "America, America."

This is the true story of Kazan's uncle who went through the same experiences Stathis Giallelis portrays.

Giallelis plays the part of a young Greek who decides that the tyranny of the Turk overlords is too much. He becomes obsessed with the idea of going to America, the land where all are equal and are given equal opportunity.

The movie is somewhat longer than the average (3 hours) but Kazan makes good use of the time and gives in exacting detail the oppression which the Greeks suffered and the great chance America seemed to offer.

Giallelis plays his role to such an extent that you almost want to cheer him on. He is able to give a very authentic characterization to his role because he was himself a Greek of the same economic status.

The overall effect is a very moving one, one of satisfaction, and especially when the young Greek Stavros suceeds in the almost impossible dream of coming to America.

The Right Way

ONCE AGAIN the Danforth Lecture Series has shown its high quality and consequently its ability to create student response in the chapel program. We congratulate those who were responsible for Dr. MacLeod's lecture and visit to this campus and sincerely hope that we shall obtain more speakers from this outstanding series in the future.

THE DANFORTH SERIES has clearly demonstrated that chapel can be of real consequence when outside talent brings in a new method of approach to ideas whether they are old or new, secular or religious.—B. A.

Wednesday: Ten O'clock

by Gary Crawford

Music . . .

Gosh a' mighty what a test! Tell the story of man, forty points, twenty-five minutes, be specific. Smoked three cigarettes. Didn't finish. Wonder if they'll show the cross. Cecil B. DeMille. Scorched my damned tongue.

"Let us stand and . . ."

Too hot. Wish I had waited until after chapel, makes a cigarette better though.

"All hail the power of . . ."

Good lecture. May Day. Gosh a' mighty. All those parties. Wonder if girls know.

'Now let us ta dum ta dum ta dum . . ." and "Now by the ta dum ta dum ta dum."

Music . . .

"Our speaker today is ta dum ta dum ta dum . . ."

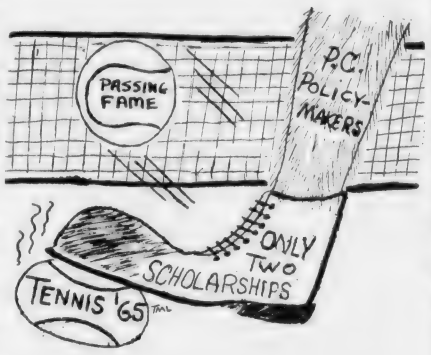
"Let us turn now . . ."

Can't wait'll spring. Trees. Mosquitoes pretty bad. Big black 'uns—sound like a plane at night. Hardy got bit seven times on the hand, cussed everybody. Clogged the screens with toilet tissue. Thought I'd die.

'And Jesus . . ."

Wonder how they feel up there looking out. Wouldn't do it for anything. Letters, notes, newspapers. Baseball season pretty soon. Mantle on the sports page. Good Lord what arms. Run, too. Pony League two hits all season, hit'n middle of the back on a throw to first. Pretty good guys most of 'em. Smith said "damn" once in high school, everybody talked for a month. It was just to boys though. Just like everybody else most of 'em. Ol' Jones, the tear jerker, five year olds came down to be missionaries. All those people in the mountains running around the church screaming. Visions. Bliss. Gosh a' mighty. Pretty good speakers sometimes though.

"And this goes to show . . ."



What an allusion! "Sing heavenly muse." Apollo rescued Hector. Holden Caulfield, wonder what he'd say. He's immature I guess. That ol' professor in the pajamas. He was right though in a lot of things, bet he'd come up with something good. Seems wrong in some respects—all this. Compulsory exposure. Rebellion. We're rebelling against compulsion. The Puritans, Salem, Presbyterian, heavens! Never be abolished, too many ties. Can't really blame em'. Wish they'd make some changes though. Good Lord, they could do something . . .

"I believe . . ."

It's hurting a lot of people It really is.

'And now ta dum ta dum ta dum . . ."

Can't wait'll lunch. Roast beef, air pie too. Maybe onions in the rolls today, they've been everwhere else. Gosh a' mighty!

Dipsy-Doodle Test

To Check Your Observations

by Frank Cooper, Robert Elrod, and Kent Mitchell

This test has been prepared by several members of the student body to test the genius of PC students. To avoid wild guessing you should remember that all wrong answers count 45 points off. All right answers count ½ point. There is a score range of -900 to a possible plus 8. Anything below 0 is failing. One, some, or all of the suggested answers to a question could be correct.

1. In order to study the immediate effects of inflation, one should consult:
   The P C canteen
   The American Economy, by Harris.
   The Communist Manifesto
2. Where would you rather pay $1,600 to go to school?
   Yale
   Harvard
   Presbyterian
   None of these
3. What do you think your chances of survival are on third floor Smyth in case of fire?
   Fair
   Poor
   Very poor
   None at all
4. How can you get a quart of milk a day?
   Own a cow
   Work on a dairy
   Eat in the dining hall
   Have the surname "Borden"
5. Where would you rather take your parents to eat ?
   Stork Club
   Waldorf Astoria
   Judd Dining Hall
6. Your best possible alternative in case of fire on third floor Neville:
   Jump
   Pray
   Parachute
   Leap to burning wooden fire escape one story below.
7. When is the best time to pick up your package from the post office?
   9:01 to 9:106754 MWF
   6:00 to 6:01 TTS
   Sunday 11:00 to 12:00
8. What is the best time of day to get sick?
   7:00
   7:15
   Don't
9. What would you rather do?
   Study in Bailey
   Go blind
10. Which of the following vegetables would you rather have for the next five days?
    Rice and corn
    Corn and rice
    French fries
    Mashed potatoes
11. What would you rather do while working for the maintenance department?
    Take a nap
    Read a newspaper
    Watch "Day in Court" on TV
12. Where are your chances the greatest for waiting in line for a shower?
    Second floor Laurens
    Laurens second floor
    All of the above
13. Choose one of the following fire plans for Smyth during the week of March 23-26:
    First floor haul tail, second floor jump, third floor die
    All occupants on the front side will be sacrificed while back section will fight for their position on the single escape ladder
    First floor run to third, second floor run to third, entire group consult proctor (if present)
14. Which of the following lawn tools could be used in front of Judd
    Ax
    Broom
    Lawn Mower

(Continued on page 4)

PiKapps Undefeated in Tourney; Pounders Meet PiKA's Monday

The Pi Kappa Alphas and the Pounders will clash Monday in the losers bracket of the 1964 Intramural Basketball Tournament. The loser of the game will be eliminated from further play, while the winner will move on to face the undefeated Pi Kappa Phi's in the tourney final on Tuesday night. The game Monday night will begin at 7:30 in LeRoy Springs Gym.

The PiKapps are undefeated by virtue of their clutch play in the first three rounds of the double-elimination, round-robin tournament. Leading the Pi-Kapps in the tournament have been Gordon Mayhugh and James Salvo, along with Mitchell Dennis and Reggie Awtrey.

Two of their three wins have been in overtime, with the third win being over the defending champ Pi Kappa Alpha team by three points. The PiKapps must lose two consecutive games to the same team before they give up their bid for the title.

The only game on Thursday night saw the PiKA's defeat the Alpha Sigma Phi's to advance to the semi-finals of the losers bracket. The taller, more experienced PiKA's were in command of the situation all the way, as indicated by their 38-point margin of victory.

This year's tourney is very similar to the tournament last year. Last year the PiKapps were the undefeated team in the winners bracket, and the PiKA's won in the semi-finals of the loser's bracket. The PiKapps only had to win one of two final games against the PiKa's to take the title, but the PiKA's managed to defeat the PiKapps two straight to take the title. Both teams had to rally to win important games in their brackets to earn a shot at the title, and both of the championship games were close, hard fought affairs.

Returning from that PiKA powerhouse of last year are Leighton Grantham, Bill Tyson, Walter Burch, Jim Johnson, Don McNeill, and Drayton Fowler. Looking for a rematch of the tournament final of last year are PiKapps James Salvo, Gordan Mayhugh, Mitchell Dennis, and Jim Barnhardt of the Pi-Kapps.

Not yet out of the tournament are the Pounders, the well known and highly respected independent team. Paced by Dodge Frederick, Bernard West, Harold Holmes, Pat Sudduth, and Jackie Nix, the Pounders must first defeat the PiKA's to advance into the finals. They, too, must win two in a row against the PiKapps to win the title, providing they don't stumble tonight against the PiKA's.

All three of the teams with the only chance at the championship sported outstanding records this season, and any team can win. Trying to pick the winner of the title is like trying to pull a needle out of a haystack on the first try.

First Annual Plaza Drags To Begin Spring I-M Play

The 1964 Intramural Spring Sports program will get off to a good roaring start on Wednesday afternoon with the First Annual "Plaza Drags." The unusual event will follow the PC-Tusculum baseball game, and will begin about 5 o'clock. Gordon Warden, head of the Intramural Council, will supervise the "drags."

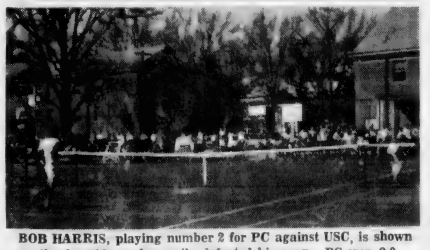
The event is a result of the recent interest in bicycle racing, which has appeared of late as the major sport of Smyth C section. The Smyth racers have developed a fifty yard "Grand Turismo" course, with a "Le Mans" type start.

The course has a sand trap on the back curve, vocal fans, and blood-thirsty peddlers. This combination has provided thrills and chills for the many curious students who find the races a comedy of errors.

The "Plaza Drags" will be run in heats, with members of fraternities, independents, and, as guests of honor, the Smyth C. racers invited to enter.

The races will be from the front steps of Belk Auditorium, down the right side of the plaza avenue, with the finish line being the Bailey parking lot exit. The remainder of the avenue will be designated the "decelerateion" zone.

Pits and scoring stands will be constructed, and several timers will be checking each racers' times. A prize will be awarded the winner.



Sports Schedules At PC Break Loose

The four spring sports at Presbyterian College will see action next week as the Blue Hose compete in six different contests. Because of the Easter-shortened week, most of the PC students will see only the Monday through Wednesday activities, but the tennis team has matches on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Grove City College of Pennsylvania will face the PC tennis squad here on Monday, while Williams College will be here Thursday, Indiana here on Friday, and Alabama here Saturday. The PC team, undefeated thus far in two matches, will also take on Harvard University on Monday and Tuesday of the week following Easter.

The golfers, after splitting their first two matches, will tee up against Wofford on Tuesday and Augusta College on Wednesday. Both matches will be played on the 18-hole Lakeside Country Club, between Clinton and Laurens, where they defeated Furman yesterday 11½ to 6½. In their first match of the season the linksters lost to USC 16 to 5.

Billy Tiller's baseball team will step up for their first bat on Wednesday as they entertain Tusculum College of Alabama on the Young Baseball Field. The baseball team will not play again until the Thursday after the Easter break when they play Virginia Military here.

BOB HARRIS, playing number 2 for PC against USC, is shown on the far side as he easily defeated his man. PC won 9-0.

Blue Hose Trackmen Open With Triangle Meet Next Tuesday

Presbyterian College Athletic Director Cally Gault released the 1964 Blue Hose track schedule, which opens with a triangular meet at Wofford College on Tuesday.

Track Coach Jimmy Vickers will take his cindermen to Spartanburg at that time to face Wofford and Pembroke in PC'S initial appearance. The Hosemen also wind up their season at Spartanburg, when they take part in the NAIA District 26 meet on May 4.

Here is PC's 1964 track schedule:

March 24—Wofford and Pembroke at Spartanburg.

April 8 — Davidson at Davidson, N. C.; 11 — Emory at Clinton; 15 — Wofford at Clinton; 22 — Lenoir Rhyne at Clinton; 25 — Davidson Relays at Davidson, N. C.; 30 — Wofford at Spartanburg.

May 4 — NAIA District Meet at Spartanburg.

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

Speaking of Sports

with GLEN BROWDER

No Romance; Sports Remain Big Attraction

Spring is supposed to be the time of year when a young man's fancy turns to romance and other stuff. But since there's not too much romance or other stuff in P College's neck of the woods, every young PC man's fancy remains unturned and the main attraction is sports.

Answering the call

And now that mid-semester exams are approaching, now that many term papers are due, now that the academic load is beginning to get heavy—this is the time when PC's 500 dedicated students answer the call of higher education by devoting every out-of-class minute to tennis, softball, pool, golf, ping-pong, and horseshoes.

Requirements For Admission

However, before you can become a member of the Presbyterian College Athletic Club there are certain sayings which you have to memorize and repeat often and loud while playing these sports.

Here are a few of these traditional and sacred scriptures to be used on the tennis courts:

"Something must be wrong with this racquet—it won't hit right!"

"I can't serve too good today because I hurt my shoulder yesterday!"

"I can't believe all the bad bounces I'm getting!"

"I ain't believing that shot you just made. You better wipe the ball off after that one!"

You lucky .....!!!

A Year-Long Schedule

There's also another sport on campus—but it's not a spring sport. The PC Drinking Team plays a year-long schedule. Latest reports say the squad is strong again this season—possibly one of the strongest in the long history of high-flying PC Drinking Teams.

Spirits Are High

The squad is deep in experience with 237 lettermen returning. And there are a lot of freshmen who could letter this year. The pre-season estimate from head coaches Charlie and Morgan reads as follows: "We think we've got a real good squad. The boys have been working out hard and the spirit's high!"

I predict a tight season, with Bailey beating out Spencer for the championship!

PC's Baseball Team Opens Here With Tusculum Nine

Presbyterian will open the 1964 baseball season Wednesday afternoon, playing host to the Tusculum nine here.

The starting lineup for this game should be interesting, since only three starters from last year are back. Coach Billy Tiller's team has been labeled inexperienced and weak in hitting and pitching.

But the same thing was said of last year's squad, which went on to post a 98 record and capture the Little Four title. The PC "attack" Wednesday will be a combination of hustle, a tight defense, and luck.

Jackie Nix will open at second, Tommy Williams will play shortstop, and Wade Stewart will handle the catching chores—but the rest of the lineup is anybody's guess. These three men have led the hitting in pre-season practice, along with Henry Lovett, and Leighton Grantham.

A few of the new men have shown potential, and they will probably get a chance to see what they can do against Tusculum.

Coach Returns From Successful Search; Expresses Hopes for Basketball Recruiting

Head basketball coach Art Musselman returned from an extended recruiting trip through Indiana and Kentucky with high hopes for bringing to PC several outstanding basketball players for the 1964-65 season. Musselman, a native of Indiana, talked with "several" boys and their parents about PC and the basketball program here, and plans to shove off again on the 26th to go to West Virginia and Tennessee.

The driving head coach reported that 10 boys will be at PC tonight and tomorrow for try-outs. The 10 a.m. workout tomorrow will be a session of observing the fundamentals, and the 2 o'clock practice game will be a game-like scrimmage. Coach Musselman invited all interested students to come over to the gym to watch both sessions, reminding them that it is hoped that several of the boys here for the try-outs will be at PC next winter playing for the Blue Hose.

At least three boys who measure 6'5" are planning to enroll at PC in September, it was reported. These boys are all outstanding high school or junior college players, with several prospects from Huntington, Ind., Musselman's home. The former Citadel star stated that he hoped to have some more positive commitments when he returns from his second recruiting trip.

BROADWAY Theatre
Friday and Saturday
CHARADE
Saturday Afternoon
AT WAR WITH THE ARMY
Mon.-Tues.-Wed., March
AMERICA-AMERICA

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

As usual, the "after blues" that come with a big weekend have set in.

Everyone seemed to enjoy Military Ball and all the fraternities scored a great success in their social endeavors, according to the reports. The only complaint heard so far is that too many dry weeks remain between now and Greek Weekend.

Going into brotherhood this week were Howdy Letzring and Doug Allen, Sigma Nu; and Peyton Carter and Mike Lowrance, Kappa Alpha.

This weekend Alpha Sigma Phi will hold their annual pledge weekend. The pledges will hold a Saturday afternoon party at Lake Greenwood followed by a record party in their suite that night in honor of their brothers. Both parties will be closed.

Big news among the KA's this week is their annual Old South Ball in Augusta, Ga. Four dances have been planned with the formal ball Saturday night as a fitting climax.

Dennis Hill of Theta Chi pinned Miss Nancy Welch of the University of Georgia.

The Alpha Sigs' new officers are: president, Bill Megathlin; vice-president, Willie Prickett; secretary, Earl Guy; and treasurer, Jim Stanford.

KA officers were appointed by the new Numbers I, II, and III. They are: Charlie Jordan, No. IV, John Morrison, No. V, John White, No. VI, Ike Cobb No. VII, Charlie Meriwether No. VIII, and Mike Smith, No. IX.

Brothers of the week for Pi Kappa Alpha are Jimmy Stewart, Wade Stewart, Bill Gaston, and Randy McCranie. Tim Grey and Lewis Hay received the same honor from Alpha Sigma Phi.

'64 Military Ball Termed "Best Yet" By PC Cadets

Military students have agreed with the cadre in terming Military Ball a great success, according to Capt. Joe Maupin. The saber arch turned out better than ever and attracted a large number of favorable comments, Scabbard and Blade members told The Blue Stocking early this week.

Honored guest at the ball was Brigadier General Creighton E. Likes, Sr., who has been recognized and honored many times for outstanding service in the army.

General Likes served with the 309th Infantry Regiment throughout the campaigns in Europe during World War II.

While serving as regimental executive officer, he won the Bronze Star medal for leadership and skill in planning and supervision of the movement of the entire 309th combat team across the Ludendorff Bridge the day after it had been seized.

In addition to the Bronze Star, his decorations include the American Defense Service Medal, the American Campaign Medal, the European African - Middle Eastern Campaign Medal with three Battle Stars, the Army of Occupations Medal, and the World War II Victory Medal.

General Likes has been regimental commander of the Palmetto Regiment, 118th Infantry, since July 1, 1957.

Other guests present included President Weersing, Col. Thackston, and several townspeople.

Lit Class Attends Lecture In Columbia

Members of Mr. Wayne Gunn's American literature class went Wednesday to meet with the members of a literature class at Benedict College in Columbia.

According to Mr. Gunn, "The purpose of the joint discussion was to gain for members of both classes further insights into the problems of 'Huckleberry Finn,' specifically those problems involved in the racial aspects of Twain's novel."

Letter

(Continued from page 2)

provement of the chapel services.

First may I suggest that here the use of the word 'radical' was most unfortunate. It seems to conjure up all sorts of nasty little images in the minds of the 'right-thinking.' Any attempt to induce compulsory chapel services after a long history of free choice might be termed 'radical.'

Now let us consider the alternative offered—i.e., the improvement of the chapel programs. First, as might well be imagined, a standard of judgment is necessary. Who is to decide whether or not the chapel program is improved? And what means may be used to express this judgment? To these questions I offer the following proposal. Simply notify the students and faculty of the nature of the forthcoming chapel program by bulletin or otherwise. Then the students and faculty are given the right of exercising their freedom of choice. 'Improvement' of the chapel program would then be gauged by the student and faculty attendance.

Let me at this point make it clear that I do not advocate abolishing the chapel program itself since to do so would be an encroachment upon the freedom of choice of those who do wish to attend these services.

Upon reflection, I must admit that the above suggestion has one shocking flaw. Simply that whether or not the chapel program is or is not improved would lie in the hands of the students and faculty — equally. Each through his attendance casts one vote. Unfortunately, this appears to be in opposition to the Christian ideal of the well-known (and rather senseless) wool endowed, cud-chewing mammal.

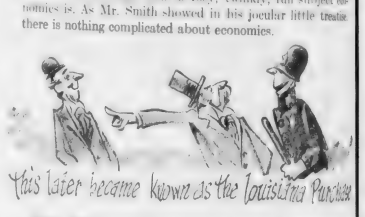
ALFRED F. ZACHARY, JR.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

LOCKLEAR'S
TV, RADIO, RECORD SHOP
— IS HAVING A —
10th BIRTHDAY
And You Are Invited To Help Us Celebrate
— With —
AN OPEN HOUSE
MARCH 12-21
SPECIAL PRICES ON EVERYTHING
— With —
FREE PRIZES
3 PRIZES WORTH $167.00
DRAWING MARCH 21 — 8:00 P. M.
307 Ferguson St. Clinton, S. C.



On Campus with Max Shulman
(Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy With Cheek.")

ECONOMICS CAN BE CHUCKLES

Many of you have been avoiding economics because it is widely known as "the dismal science." Oh, good friends, stop cheating yourselves of many a laugh and cheer, because economics is a positive riot! True, it is called the dismal science but that is only because it was invented in 1681 by Walter C. Dismal.

It is easy to understand why Mr. Dismal's discovery of economics is today almost forgotten, for the fact is that he himself only stayed with the subject for two or three days. After that he took up embonpoint, which means fatness. It is said that at his apogee, Mr. Dismal reached 1200 pounds. He later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.

It was not until 1776 when Adam Smith published his Wealth of Nations (or Oxymandias, as it is usually known as) that the world came to realize what a rosy, twinkly, fun subject economics is. As Mr. Smith showed in his jocular little treatise, there is nothing complicated about economics.

When there is a great demand for a product, a great supply is placed on the market. When there is a small demand, there is a small supply. Take, for example, castanets. You walk into any average American town today and I'll wager you won't see more than eighty or ninety castanet shops. That is because the demand is small.

For Marlboro Cigarettes, on the other hand, the demand is great. Thus, you will find Marlboros—with all their yummy rich tobacco flavor and pure white Selectrate filter and pliable soft pack and unpliable Flip-Top box—at any counter where cigarettes are sold in every one of our fifty great States and Duluth.

To Adam Smith, I say, belongs the distinction of popularizing economics. Mr. Smith was followed by David Ricardo. In fact, everywhere he went he was followed by David Ricardo. Mr. Smith finally got so annoyed that he summoned a bobby, as British policemen are called, and had Mr. Ricardo arrested. This later became known as the Louisiana Purchase.

Upon his release from gaol, as a British jail is called, Mr. Ricardo reported to his parole officer, Thomas Robert Malthus. They soon became fast friends, and one night over a game of whist they invented the stock exchange, or chutney, as it is called in England.

Well sir, with the British having, you might say, a corner on economics, the French decided that they wanted some economics too. Being, however, a proud nation, they refused simply to borrow British economics, but insisted on inventing their own. At first they tried using the truffle hound as a medium of exchange. When this proved less than satisfactory, they switched to pomade. Discouraged by this second disappointment, they finally shrugged and said, "Oh, who cares about economics anyhow?" and returned to the guillotine and Maurice Chevalier.

America, I am pleased to report, had much better success with economics. Our early merchants quickly broke down economics into its two major categories—coins and folding money—and today, as a result of their wisdom, we can all enjoy the automatic toll station.

Well sir, I could go on and on about this fascinating subject, but I know you're all in a tearing hurry to rush out and sign up for Econ 1. So I will leave you now with two kindly words of farewell: Gresham's Law.

© 1964 Max Shulman

* * *

We, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, are tobacconists, not economists. But this much we know about supply and demand: you demand full flavor in a filter cigarette; we supply it—Marlboro!

Communist Speaker Ban Law Challenged

CHAPEL HILL (CPS)— The North Carolina Speaker Ban Law will be repealed or amended next year according to a top-ranking State Democratic Party official.

Democratic Party Chairman W. Lunsford Crew told a meeting of the Chapel Hill Jaycees last Thursday, "I am convinced that in 1965 legislators and educators thinking and reasoning together will amend or repeal this law . . ."

The Speaker Ban, enacted in the closing days of last year's General Assembly, prohibits known Communists or persons who have taken the Fifth Amendment in loyalty investigations from speaking on State-supported campuses.

Crew said, "Repeal of this law will not be as simple as some might think. It is a difficult matter to explain academic freedom and freedom of the mind to many people throughout North Carolina . . ."

Crew concluded, "I hasten to say that it is my firm belief that, if this bill had been given proper consideration with the usual committee meetings, it would never have passed the general assembly. I was the first member of the Senate to oppose this bill, and I must admit I arose with some reluctance.

"I realized that the public in general would feel that any person who opposed the bill would be labeled as friendly to communism . . . I do not fear communism nearly so much as I fear the ultimate cosequences of tyranny of man's mind, and shackles that might be placed upon the voices aid minds of Americans," Crew said.

Dipsy-Doodle Test

(Continued from page 2)

Drainage system
Seed sower

15. Vetville can be improved by
Dynamite
Tearing it down and building slums
Consulting Johnson's poverty plan
All of the above

16. Where is the most logical place to find a polar bear in mid-winter?
North Pole
Siberia
Gray House
South Pole

17. What is the best transportation from Neville to Judd during monsoon season?
Flippers
Surf board
Ark
Waders
Snorkle

18. If you wanted to convert a pagan African to Christianity where would you take him?
Chapel
Dorm
Bible class
Back to Africa

Chapel Services

The chapel schedule for the coming week is as follows:

Monday, April 23 — Rev. Roger Gallion, Laurens.

Wednesday, April 25—Rev. G. Daniel McCall, Highlands, N. C.

Abnormal Psych Group Makes Trip

Members of the personality and abnormal psychology classes toured the Georgia State Mental Hospital at Milledgeville, Ga., this past Wednesday.

The group, made up of eighteen students and Mr. Anderson and Mr. Riggs, was given a guided tour of the hospital and several wards.

The highlight of the visit was an interview with four mental patients who represented various types of mental disorders found at the hospital.

The purpose of the trip was to give the students an idea of the work involved in the treatment of mental illness.

Critical Shortage Of Ph D's Noted

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The nation's increasing demand for a critically short number of advanced degree holders is becoming a chief topic of discussion for graduate school administrators worried about academic standards.

The latest outcry came from the U. S. Council of Graduate Schools during a recent meeting in Washington.

"The situation continues to worsen with ever more threatening implications," said Robert P. Browder, a Council member and a University of Colorado dean.

Browder noted that 40 per cent of college teachers held Ph. D.'s in 1943-54 while only 26 per cent have a doctorate in 1960-61.

Supporting the Council's fears is the increasing drain of Ph. D. holders from college by industry. Even Master's degree holders are finding it more worthwhile to forsake education careers.

BOSTITCH
WORLD'S FINEST, MOST DEPENDABLE, MOST UNIFORM STAPLES
Every strip factory inspected for accurate feeding and driving. Product of the largest manufacturer of stapling equipment.
The CHRONICLE

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY-SATURDAY
MONDAY-WEDNESDAY
A TIGER WALKS
COMING MARCH 26
KISSIN' COUSINS

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

LOCKLEAR'S
TV, RADIO, RECORD SHOP
WILL HAVE THE DRAWING FOR THE FREE PRIZES
SATURDAY, 8:00 P. M.
You Do Not Have To Be Present To Win
5% OFF ON RECORDS
SPECIAL PRICES ON TV's, STEREOS
307 Ferguson St. Clinton, S. C.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

Spring has come, and with it the time for a number of annual fraternity dance weekends.

The K. A.'s had their Old South last weekend in Augusta. The Sigma Nu's plans for their White Star to be held the first part of April are being made. April 3, 4, and 5 the Theta Chi's will go to the University of Alabama for their Rebel Reunion.

Pledge Weekend plans have been made for this weekend by the Alpha Sigs. It is to be held at Horseshoe Falls at 3:00 p. m. They have prepared to honor the senior brothers.

Sunday the PiKA's had their Founders Day Banquet. The chapters from South Carolina and Wofford also attended.

A stag supper was held at Vernon's Wednesday night by the Theta Chi's.

Taken into brotherhood last week by the Alpha Sigs was Conley Alexander, and the Theta Chi's took in G. Wardlaw. The Sigma Nu's pledged Brad Ray.

The newly elected officers of Theta Chi are Bill Anderson, president; Rusty Nelson, vice-president; Arch Hudgins, secretary; and David Worth, treasurer.

Tonight the entire Sigma Nu fraternity will go to Wofford to help pledge their brothers there. The chapter at Wofford is soon to be officially chartered.

The Pi Kapp's announced plans for the annual Ship Wreck Ball to take place during Greek Weekend.

The K. A.'s reported that their Old South was a great success. Bonnie Burgess, the chapter's Rose, was runner-up in the "Rose" contest there.

Brother of the week for the PiKA's is Sandy Hagood, who was operated on for appendicitis.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

COMPLETE LINE OF SANDWICHES, SOFT DRINKS, SHORT ORDERS
Open 11 A. M. — 12 P. M.
TAKE A STUDY BREAK—DROP IN AT THE
VARSITY GRILL

Do Your Spring Shopping at . . . Belk's
Complete Line of Spring and Summer
SHIRTS
2.99 and 3.99
New Shipments Arriving Daily

BROADWAY Theatre
Friday and Saturday Nigh
CHARADE
Saturday Afternoon Only
AT WAR WITH THE ARMY
Mon.-Tues.-Wed., March 16
AMERICA-AMERICA

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Sho
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processi

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

As usual, the "after blues" that come with a big weekend have set in.

Everyone seemed to enjoy Military Ball and all the fraternities scored a great success in their social endeavors, according to the reports. The only complaint heard so far is that too many dry weeks remain between now and Greek Weekend.

Going into brotherhood this week were Howdy Letzring and Doug Allen, Sigma Nu; and Peyton Carter and Mike Lowrance, Kappa Alpha.

This weekend Alpha Sigma Phi will hold their annual pledge weekend. The pledges will hold a Saturday afternoon party at Lake Greenwood followed by a record party in their suite that night in honor of their brothers. Both parties will be closed.

Big news among the KA's this week is their annual Old South Ball in Augusta, Ga. Four dances have been planned with the formal ball Saturday night as a fitting climax.

Dennis Hill of Theta Chi pinned Miss Nancy Welch of the University of Georgia.

The Alpha Sigs' new officers are: president, Bill Megathlin; vice-president, Willie Prickett; secretary, Earl Guy; and treasurer, Jim Stanford.

KA officers were appointed by the new Numbers I, II, and III. They are: Charlie Jordan, No. IV, John Morrison, No. V, John White, No. VI, Ike Cobb No. VII, Charlie Meriwether No. VIII, and Mike Smith, No. IX.

Brothers of the week for Pi Kappa Alpha are Jimmy Stewart, Wade Stewart, Bill Gaston, and Randy McCranie. Tim Grey and Lewis Hay received the same honor from Alpha Sigma Phi.

'64 Military Ball Termed "Best Yet" By PC Cadets

Military students have agreed with the cadre in terming Military Ball a great success, according to Capt. Joe Maupin. The saber arch turned out better than ever and attracted a large number of favorable comments, Scabbard and Blade members told The Blue Stocking early this week.

Honored guest at the ball was Brigadier General Creighton E. Likes, Sr., who has been recognized and honored many times for outstanding service in the army.

General Likes served with the 309th Infantry Regiment throughout the campaigns in Europe during World War II.

While serving as regimental executive officer, he won the Bronze Star medal for leadership and skill in planning and supervision of the movement of the entire 309th combat team across the Ludendorff Bridge the day after it had been seized.

In addition to the Bronze Star, his decorations include the American Defense Service Medal, the American Campaign Medal, the European African - Middle Eastern Campaign Medal with three Battle Stars, the Army of Occupations Medal, and the World War II Victory Medal.

General Likes has been regimental commander of the Palmetto Regiment, 118th Infantry, since July 1, 1957.

Other guests present included President Weersing, Col. Thackston, and several townspeople.

Lit Class Attends Lecture In Columbia

Members of Mr. Wayne Gunn's American literature class went Wednesday to meet with the members of a literature class at Benedict College in Columbia.

According to Mr. Gunn, "The purpose of the joint discussion was to gain for members of both classes further insights into the problems of 'Huckleberry Finn,' specifically those problems involved in the racial aspects of Twain's novel."

Letter

(Continued from page 2)

provement of the chapel services.

First may I suggest that here the use of the word 'radical' was most unfortunate. It seems to conjure up all sorts of nasty little images in the minds of the 'right-thinking.' Any attempt to induce compulsory chapel services after a long history of free choice might be termed 'radical.'

Now let us consider the alternative offered—i.e., the improvement of the chapel programs. First, as might well be imagined, a standard of judgment is necessary. Who is to decide whether or not the chapel program is improved? And what means may be used to express this judgment? To these questions I offer the following proposal. Simply notify the students and faculty of the nature of the forthcoming chapel program by bulletin or otherwise. Then the students and faculty are given the right of exercising their freedom of choice. 'Improvement' of the chapel program would then be gauged by the student and faculty attendance.

Let me at this point make it clear that I do not advocate abolishing the chapel program itself since to do so would be an encroachment upon the freedom of choice of those who do wish to attend these services.

Upon reflection, I must admit that the above suggestion has one shocking flaw. Simply that whether or not the chapel program is or is not improved would lie in the hands of the students and faculty — equally. Each through his attendance casts one vote. Unfortunately, this appears to be in opposition to the Christian ideal of the well-known (and rather senseless) wool endowed, cud-chewing mammal.

ALFRED F. ZACHARY, JR.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

LOCKLEAR'S
TV, RADIO, RECORD SHOP
— IS HAVING A —
10th BIRTHDAY
And You Are Invited To Help Us Celebrate
— With —
AN OPEN HOUSE
MARCH 12-21
SPECIAL PRICES ON EVERYTHING
— With —
FREE PRIZES
3 PRIZES WORTH $167.00
DRAWING MARCH 21 — 8:00 P. M.
307 Ferguson St. Clinton, S. C.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy With Cheek".)

ECONOMICS CAN BE CHUCKLES

Many of you have been avoiding economics because it is so widely known as "the dismal science." Oh, good friends, stop cheating yourselves of many a laugh and cheer, because economics is a positive riot! True, it is called the dismal science, but that is only because it was invented in 1681 by Walter C. Dismal.

It is easy to understand why Mr. Dismal's discovery of economics is today almost forgotten, for the fact is that he himself only stayed with the subject for two or three days. After that he took up embonpoint, which means fatness. It is said that at his apogee, Mr. Dismal reached 1200 pounds. This later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.

It was not until 1776 when Adam Smith published his Wealth of Nations (or Ozymandias, as it is usually known as) that the world came to realize what a rosy, twinkly, fun subject economics is. As Mr. Smith showed in his jocular little treatise, there is nothing complicated about economics.

This later became known as the Louisiana Purchase

When there is a great demand for a product, a great supply is placed on the market. When there is a small demand, there is a small supply. Take, for example, castanets. You walk into any average American town today and I'll wager you won't see more than eighty or ninety castanet shops. That is because the demand is small.

For Marlboro Cigarettes, on the other hand, the demand is great. Thus, you will find Marlboros—with all their yummy rich tobacco flavor and pure white Selectrate filter and pliable soft pack and unpliable Flip-Top box—at any counter where cigarettes are sold in every one of our fifty great States and Duluth.

To Adam Smith, I say, belongs the distinction of popularizing economics. Mr. Smith was followed by David Ricardo. In fact, everywhere he went he was followed by David Ricardo. Mr. Smith finally got so annoyed that he summoned a bobby, as British policemen are called, and had Mr. Ricardo arrested. This later became known as the Louisiana Purchase.

Upon his release from gaol, as a British jail is called, Mr. Ricardo reported to his parole officer, Thomas Robert Malthus. They soon became fast friends, and one night over a game of whist they invented the stock exchange, or chutney, as it is called in England.

Well sir, with the British having, you might say, a corner on economics, the French decided that they wanted some economics too. Being, however, a proud nation, they refused simply to borrow British economics, but insisted on inventing their own. At first they tried using the truffle hound as a medium of exchange. When this proved less than satisfactory, they switched to pomade. Discouraged by this second disappointment, they finally shrugged and said, "Oh, who cares about economics anyhow?" and returned to the guillotine and Maurice Chevalier.

America, I am pleased to report, had much better success with economics. Our early merchants quickly broke down economics into its two major categories—coins and folding money—and today, as a result of their wisdom, we can all enjoy the automatic toll station.

Well sir, I could go on and on about this fascinating subject, but I know you're all in a tearing hurry to rush out and sign up for Econ I. So I will leave you now with two kindly words of farewell: Gresham's Law.

© 1964 Max Shulman

* * *

We, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, are tobacconists, not economists. But this much we know about supply and demand: you demand full flavor in a filter cigarette; we supply it—Marlboro!

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College

Vol. XLII - No. 15 | Clinton, South Carolina, April 10, 1964 | Founded 1920

JOHN SHEFFIELD

BILL GASTON

Gaston, Sheffield Nominated For PaC-SaC Editorship Race

✣ Election Wednesday

Bill Gaston and John Sheffield have been nominated as contenders for editorship of the 1965 PaC SaC, present editor Leon Bellard announced this week.

Contestants in the race for business manager are rising seniors Donnie Hardee and Sherrod Rhodes.

Gaston, a rising senior who served on the editorial and business staffs of his Chester High School annual, is a pre-med student and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Gaston made the following statement to The Blue Stocking:

"The school yearbook should be both a source of pride and enjoyment to every student at Presbyterian. Too often yearbooks tend to be repetitious."

"While a yearbook should measure up to certain standards set by a national judging committee, I feel that the personalities of the individual students should be given foremost attention.

"By emphasizing the individual, the annual would become an important and treasured publication, especially to the present senior class."

Sheffield is an English major from Atlanta and a member of Kappa Alpha Order.

Said Sheffield, also a rising senior, "Since the yearbook is one of the few means whereby a prospective freshman can obtain knowledge of the school, its activities, its traditions, and its student body, I believe that the annual should be a just and complete representation of the college in every aspect. At the same time I think it should have a particularly special appeal to the graduating seniors.

"I've worked with the present editor on the PaC SaC for 1964. If elected editor for 1965, I will certainly do my best to see that the annual maintains the traditional quality it has exhibited in past years."

Hardee, a business major

(Continued on page 2)

Dr. Burnside To Give Paper At S. C. Historical Meeting

Associate professor Ronald Burnside of the Presbyterian College History Department will be in Columbia Saturday attending the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the South Carolina Historical Association.

The University of South Carolina will be the host institution for the meeting which will bring to Columbia historians and guests from all over the state.

A banquet will be held Saturday evening at which Professor Preston Slosson of the University of Michigan will speak on twentieth century dictators.

The object of the Association as stated in its Constitution, is "to promote historical studies in the State of South Carolina; to bring about a closer relationship among persons living in this State who are interested in history; and to encourage the preservation of historical records."

Dr. Burnside will present a paper dealing with racism during the 1911-1915 administration of South Carolina Governor Cole Blease. Blease, a segregationist demagogue, used his outspoken attack on the Negro for his own political advantage.

The subject is not new to Dr. Burnside who wrote his doctoral dissertation on the Cole Blease administration.

Dr. Burnside's paper, along with three others that will be presented, will be published in PROCEEDINGS OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION, the official publication of the organization.

Weersing And Gault Featured On WLOS

Featured in a half-hour TV documentary April 5 were PC's President President Marc Weersing and head football coach, Cally Gault.

They discussed "the current trend toward brains in the classroom instead of brawn on the athletic field" on WLOS-TV's program, "Focus."

This program, which examined the problems facing merican college athletics, was the first of a continuing series of WLOS-TV documentaries examining social and economic changes in the Carolinas.

Students Are Urged To Get TB X-Rays

A Tuberculosis Mass Survey Unit will check the general public of Clinton with an X-ray method for TB control.

The unit will be located at the corner of Pitts and Broad Streets on April 23, 11:00 A. M.-1:00 P. M., 2:00 P. M.- 5:00 P. M.; an on April 24, 10:00-12:00 A. M., 1:00-4:00 P. M.

Mr. Campbell, Presbyterian College Business Manager, said, "We emphasize the importance of our students going to this X-ray unit. It takes only a few seconds to go through the unit, and its purpose can be measured only by its tremendous value in combatting this dreaded disease."

Fraternities Tops In Academic Ratios

The tabulation of quality point ratios for the first semester of 1963-64 has been announced by the Registrar's office.

The overall fraternity average of 2.16 topped the overall men's average of 2.08 and the non-fraternity average of 2.00. These averages are based on a total enrollment of 504.

Theta Chi led with a 2.39; Alpha Sigma Phi and Kappa Alpha followed with 2.32 and 2.26, respectively.

Pi Kappa Alpha was No. 4 with 2.16, followed by Sigma Nu with a 2.01, and Pi Kappa Phi with a 1.79

Dean's Office Announces Changes In History, Math

Changes in mathematics and history courses were announced this week by the Academic Dean's office as a result of recent action by the academic advisory committee.

By action of the academic advisory committee, the following changes will be observed by all Freshmen entering in 1964. Mathematics 101 and 102 will be offered as needed to students already enrolled until the summer session of 1966, which will be the last time these courses are to be offered.

Mathematics 101, College Algebra; Mathematics 102, Trigonometry; and Mathematics 205, Advanced College Algebra, will be deleted.

Mathematics 103, College Mathematics, wil be required of all students. So also will Mathematics 210, Analytic Geometry, or Mathematics 208, Introduction to Modern Algebra, to complete the six-hour requirement in general education.

Mathematics 308, Modern Algebra (and/or Linear Algebra and Matrix Theory) which is a three-hour sequel to Mathematics 208, will be added. Also Mathematics 403-404, Advanced Calculus (six hours), would complement Mathematics 302

The following changes and additions have been approved by the academic advisory committee for the history department. These will become effective in 1964-65. Necessary adjustments will be made by the department for students who have already taken some of these courses.

History 304, Civil War and Reconstruction, and History 327, Represeitative Americans, are to be deleted.

Require either History 201-202, European Survey, or 301-302, American History. Both would be required of all History majors.

History 365-366, Ancient Civilization will be shortened to History 365, a one-semester course. History 371, 372, 373, 374 will be combined into a two-semester course, History 375, 376.

History 335, Diplomatic History of the American People, will be expanded to a two-semester course, 335 and 336. History 308, American Colonial History, will be expanded to a two-semester coures, and 308 and 309, American Colonial and Early National Period. History 328 will be enlarged to 328, 329, American Intellectual and Social History.

New courses are: History 401, Readings in American History, three hours; and History 402, Readings in European History, three hours

Dr. Brown Chosen To Teach In N. C.

Dr. Marshall W. Brown, president emeritus of Presbyterian College, has accepted an invitation to be visiting professor of history at Appalachian State Teacehrs College during the first term of the 1964 summer school.

He will teach one undergraduate course and two courses offered for graduate credit during the June 9-July 17 term. Mrs. Brown will accompany him to Boon, N. C., for this period.

For Dr. Brown, who retired as PC president last August, this classroom project represents a brief return to his first area of interest. He was head of the Presbyterian College history department for 19 years prior to his appointment as president in 1945. During this period, he served as president of the South Carolina Historical Association. He currently is listed in "Who's Who in America," "Who's Who in American Education," and the "Directory of American Scholars."

John Ciardi Well Received In Chapel Service Wednesday

John Ciardi, poetry editor of Saturday Review and well-known poet, translator, and lecturer, held the attention of the PC student body Wednesday in his 45-minute talk on poetry.

Professor Ciardi, an alumnus of Tufts College who did graduate work at the University of Michigan, spoke to the student body on the values and meaning of poetry.

Citing the interest all young children have in the simplest verses and nursery rhymes, Ciardi made the point that a love for poetry is inherent in all people but becomes suppressed during late childhood because of what he considers negative aspects of American culture.

He referred to the fear adolescent males have that poetry and the study and enjoyment of poetry is effeminate, and their consequent shying away from verse.

Before coming to PC, Mr. Ciardi said in a press release that he made no speeches but spoke to the eyes he saw. He stated that all life had been a preparation for his lectures and he felt his way from reactions of the audience.

Ciardi is in the South speaking at a group of South Carolina colleges for the state Foundation of Independent Colleges. On this visit he is lecturing at Columbia, Erskine, Clemson, Furman, Limestone, and Newberry in addition to Presbyterian.

It's the annual spring lecture tour for the poet, professor, and director of the famous Bread Loaf Writers' Conference.

(Continued on page 6)

"I speak to the eyes I see . . ." John Ciardi, Wednesday's noted campus visitor, and Dr. Cate of the English Department talked poetry and students at the reception after Mr. Ciardi's address to the student body.

The Blue Stocking

[illegible] and by the students of Presbyterian [illegible] Associated Collegiate Press, the [illegible] Carolina Press Association, and the S. C. Sta[illegible] Member of the [illegible] Press Association

[illegible] Editor — Bob Wilson
Managing Editor — Al Pearce
Business Manager — Bob Loeble

Polls Indicate Changing Attitudes Of Students

CIVIL RIGHTS AND WRONGS and the present bill [illegible] coming around to the point of [illegible] campus, there has been [illegible] accurate picture of just [illegible] integration. Now with [illegible] we have a good represen[illegible] of desegregation.

IN RECENT YEARS since 1950 Dr. Patte [illegible] to his General Sociology classes to [illegible] integration. The classes [illegible] of the same types of students [illegible] future teachers, ministers or [illegible] and have indicated a good cross section of the student body.

A [illegible] ATTITUDE by students towards integration is definitely indicated by the poll, Dr. Patte said in helping us interpret the percentages. And, where[illegible] of the school and the board of trustees mumble that students here are nowhere nearly ready for integration, PC students themselves are saying that they are [illegible] more and more prepared to willingly accept integration.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE FIGURES that were obtained by the poll indicates that students object to forced desegregation but would accept it and without violent reaction. In 1956, [illegible] question ned said that students definitely should not leave a school integrated by order of the courts or the state legislature. In 1954, after the famous court decision, 50% said that they should not [illegible] and 11% agreed that students should not leave a desegregated school. Also this year only 4% said they probably should leave and none said they definitely should leave.

UNTIL THIS YEAR students appeared reluctant to enter a school that was to begin desegregation immediately. In 1964, 40% of those polled said that they certainly should enter the school anyway; but before, in 1952, only 15% said that they would go ahead and enter and in 1954, 18% said that they should enter anyway.

EACH TIME the poll was conducted, most students said that they would attend an integrated college but would not have good attitudes towards the Negroes who were in school with them. This year 64% said that they would make no attempt to be friendly to Negroes but would accept their presence in good grace. And 16% this year said that they would organize to make life as [illegible] for the Negroes on campus.

HALF THE PEOPLE responding to the poll in 1964 said that out of a class of 100 there would have to be more than fifteen Negroes before any serious porblem was created, and [illegible] even one Negro in the class would create serious problems.

THE POLL GAVE AUTHENTIC PROOF of something most of us already detect: a very definite trend toward a more liberal attitude among PC students despite the 1954 decision and the bloody revolutions of 1963 and 1964. Dr. Patte suggests that this trend is a fad, a form of rebellion by students who like to hold ideas contradictory to those of the administration and board. If so, this "fad" is one that most sociologists and theologians would find truly admirable.

ACCORDING TO DR. PATTE, PC yet remains many years away from integration. He cited the four aspects of the college community (the board, administration, faculty, and student body) and reminded us that the decision to integrate is the responsibility of the board and administration. And a great deal of trouble can result when one group assumes the responsibility of any other. Dr. Patte says that furthermore, at present and in the immediate future, PC will display far more "Christian love" and "brotherhood" by keeping her doors closed to Negroes because of the decidedly narrow temperament of the town and geographic area.

—W. W.

Why Not Fraternity Houses?

by BILL GASTON

A subject of campus-wide discussion for several years has been that of fraternity houses at PC which would completely [illegible] house boarding students.

Administrative statements concerning this issue have run the gamut from claiming that fraternity housing would ruin the friendly atmosphere on campus that because some houses would be larger than others, such a system would not be fair, to asserting that students actually could not afford such a system.

It has often been said that rules were present before we students came to PC and that if we do not wish to abide by such rules, we should not have enrolled at here. However, no one can ever agree to all the conditions in his environment. At the same time, a discontent with existing conditions does not necessarily indicate a total discontent with the school.

Any student will agree that fraternity members usually dine [illegible] with one another. This certainly has not resulted in a breach of friendship between existing fraternities or an isolation between fraternity and non-fraternity even. To a large extent this type of segregation can also be [illegible] in the dorms: It is only natu[illegible] for students to room with th[illegible] best friends — their frater[illegible] brothers.

How would the presence of [illegible] ternity houses affect the ph[illegible] cal capacity of the school? F[illegible] of all, approximately two h[illegible] dred new spaces would be ma[illegible] available in the dormitories. Money that is allocated to ba[illegible] new dormitories could then [illegible] used to make repairs on the on[illegible] already here.

No one could deny that frate[illegible] ity houses would enhance [illegible] beauty of the campus. Th[illegible] would definitely help to attra[illegible] the type of student the scho[illegible] seeks.

As for the cost of a fratern[illegible] housing system, all national [illegible] ternities have a fund from whi[illegible] individual chapters may borr[illegible] to meet the costs of fratern[illegible] houses. The house is an [illegible] vestment which could bene[illegible] both the fraternities and t[illegible] school. In one fraternity [illegible] North Carolina State the tm[illegible] expense for a month is arou[illegible] ninety-five dollars. This house [illegible] airconditioned and contains [illegible] spacious lounge and dining ha[illegible]

There is now a fratern[illegible] house plan which will be put in[illegible] effect by 1965. These hous[illegible] would be on the order of the [illegible] now existing at Davidson exce[illegible] that dining halls will not be i[illegible] cluded. Already these pla[illegible] seem obsolete. It is interesti[illegible] to contemplate how they w[illegible] appear in the year 1985!

The Academic Jungle

by JOHANN CHARTY

As men of breedme, sometimes men of Wit,
T' avoid great Errors, must the less commit – Pope

Here we are, then, all of us
With rainy April pouring, thus,
Breeding Spring rites and May wrongs:
Here we are, in our pedantic Halls,
Our quartering stalls
Of horsehair bedding mildewed on the floor.
And peanut-butter feedbags on the door:
Halls that creak like Time itself.
And shaky walls
That make you wonder Why . . .?
Oh, let us seek no reason:
Smythe will last another season.

On the Plaza, professors speak and glow,
Discussing Spring (Excuse me, Joe!)
The graying matter lies deep within our heads,
The graying brain sleeps calm within our heads,
Rejecting thoughts that grace the corners of the class;
Reflecting on the lakes and beaches that await:
Allowing little change within the little Mind;
And falls near Neville, makes another try,
But knowing it is a springtime flood,
Lies still, returning quietly to the mud.

I ought to be a ragged pair of tennis shoes.
Bouncing my grant-in-aid across the court.
And will there yet be time
For graying matter still to petrify,
Forgetting then the faithless pose
Of obsequy that cold November afternoon,
When all the World in sadness stood a day,
While we observed an hour, unashamed?
There will be time, but never sense;
There will be Death, but no expense
Of time nor Tithe for Reverence.

On the Plaza, Professors stand and stare,
And feel a breath of nonsense in the air!
I must say, I have wandered through deserted stacks,
Seeking Lawrence, then McCarthy, groups of names,
Supposed to stand in rows among the gilded spines;
But rather filed in boxes locked by Leprechans,
Delivered quaintly wrapped in paper bags to beggars:
I had not thought the Prudes had undone so many.

I am young . . . I am as dead,
There is no lasting matter in my head . . .
I am not Diogenes, nor do I care to be;
A student, voiceless in this administrative haze,
To keep the fathomless coffers full,
Neglected, except for smiles and bills
For my tuition;
Yet no fruition
Has come from dreams piled up worthless dreams
Lying dormant on the frozen beams
Beside the unused plan for mixed discussion
Humanely sought for the fate of Finn.
And thus I sit on the Seaboard rail,
Patiently waiting;
My mind is ordered, and loudly I wail:
This, too, is one of the dark places of the Earth.
Cheep! Cheep! Cheep!

gort
Did you fail to land The Big One again, Gort?
Your perceptivity is as keen as my chagrin!
This time I was determined to hook the rogue! I employed patience, cunning, daring, strength...
Next time, I'll use a bobble on my cork!
Next time, I'll use a bobble on my cork!
Next time, I'll use a bobble on my cork!

Speaking of Sports

with AL PEARCE

Entrance Into C C Seen As Needed, Unpopular Move

The May 25 meeting of the Carolinas Conference representatives in Salisbury, N. C., will mark the opening of a new chapter in the well-known story of Presbyterian College athetics. At this time it is expected that the conference will unanimously vote PC a seat in the ten-school union of North and South Carolina Colleges.

Tennis An Issue

Even though this action has been expected for over a year and there is apparently no turning back now, the opposition to PC's move has been active. For the most part emotionalism has clouded the issue, the anticipated loss of Presbyterian's tennis powerhouse being the only major argument against joining. Sentiment has been successful in overshadowing practicality. This should not be allowed to happen.

Limitless Aid

Since the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association folded in the early sixties, PC has been without any conference connection (except for the Little Four and the N. A. I. A.). This independence, with no conference by-laws or constitutions to impose restrictions, gave Presbyterian the opportunity to award as many athletic scholarships as was necessary. On the surface this unrestricted plan seemed an ideal situation, but it was not.

Scheduling began to be a major problem for the football team. Regardless of how many grants allotted, PC could not hope to successfully compete with Clemson as it had done until the late fifties. The team could always count on facing Furman, Newberry, Wofford and Davidson, but the scheduling after these was doubtful.

Budget and Unrest

The teams of the North State Conference did not always want to play PC because they were restricted in the number of scholarships and PC was not. Besides, a conference championship was at stake and they didn't want to play any more games outside the conference than necessary. The scheduling was a major problem of every Athletic Director here.

When it became obvious that PC would not be able to schedule the Carolinas Conference teams as much as before, the team had to begin spending more money on traveling in order to find suitable teams. Granted, nearby teams would play PC, but there were never enough in the area to make long expensive trips unnecessary. As the budget for football increased, unrest appeared.

Sound Argument

A solution proposed in 1963 stated that Presbyterian would begin to cut the number of athletic grants awarded. This move would be made over a number of years and eventually the college would have the same scholarship set-up as the Conference. At this time it was stated that PC would not make application to the Conference immediately, but the idea was being considered. It was evident that the committee on athletics fully intended to make application to the Conference as soon as the scholarship requirement was met, and this has now been proved.

The argument that PC's 30-year tennis dynasty will suffer is sound. Tennis here has been a source of extreme pride and justly so. No other sport has had nearly the success tennis has enjoyed at Presbyterian; it was the sport here for over three decades and every student and alumnus would proudly tell you so.

If Only . . . But No

The Carolinas Conference by-laws state that the equivalent of two full athletic grants may be awarded to cover the four major spring sports. This means only two scholarships for all the sports and not two for each. It also means only two scholarships at any one time in all four spring sports. The only bright side to tennis fans is that the administration has already publicly stated that the scholarships for spring sports will definitely go to tennis.

True, the tennis program at Presbyterian will suffer when we enter the Conference. But financial losses felt each year demand a solution. If football were not played here we would have no reason to enter, but football will be here, the team will keep losing money, and the conference affiliation is the only solution to the slow drain. If we could enter only a football and a basketball team, keeping the spring sports out, we could keep our tennis powerhouse. But such is not possible.

Rough Going

One sport, the most popular, will suffer when PC enters the conference. This is unfortunate, but football is pulling PC down and the Carolinas Conference has offered a lifeline we canot afford to ignore. The small, private college trying to maintain an independent, scholarship-granting athletic program is finding this venture increasingly more difficult. Newberry could not manage it well, Erskine had to droo football, and it seems PC must join the conference if the sport is to survive.

Between the two extremes in college athletic programs is the school which wants to maintain a full program at a reasonable cost. It is tragic that football here is such a losing venture, for it is primarily because of football that PC is entering the conference.

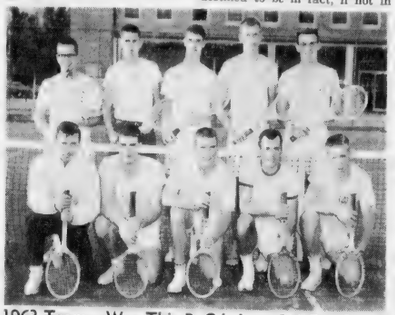
The decision is not popular on the campus because facts just aren't known and students don't want to lose PC's biggest claim to fame. But tennis is not dead and will never be completely killed, but it will certaily be seriously maimed.

"State" Sports Writer Takes Look At The Destiny of PC Tennis

by PHIL GROSE
Sports Writer, The State

One of the first things you notice about the quiet little tree-shaded campus of Presbyterian College is the vast expanse of finely-manicured tennis courts just behind the main part of the campus.

If it is the day of a match, you'll generally find at least 500 students and townspeople clustered about the wire enclosure intently.



Even if it is an off-day, there might even be a few people watching the courts being rolled and watered.

"At Presbyterian," someone has said, "everybody plays tennis—from the huskiest football player to the gangling farm boy."

It's been that way for over a generation at the Clinton college, ever since a tennis-minded college president named William Jacobs decided back in the 1930's Presbyterian was going to be big time in tennis.

Presbyterian has been big time—as big as there are—in the college tennis world.

In May of this year, however, Presbyterian seems destined to strike the indirect death blow to its tennis program.

1963 Team—Was This P. C.'s Last Bid For Glory?

The school enters the Carolinas Conference, an organization which places a strict limit on athletic recruiting for its small college members — no more than 25 football scholarships, eight basketball scholarships, and two grants for all the spring sports.

PC has already allocated to tennis, but it falls far short of the number necessary to maintain the program on a level with other state institutions — much less with the Miamis and North Carolinas of the tennis world.

The result—and the mourning has already begun—appears to be the death of PC's tennis program.

One of those most actively fighting the demise of big-time tennis from the school is tennis coach Gordon Warden, who has brought the school 36 wins and seven defeats over the past two seasons.

But he is fighting as a doctor trying to stop an incurable disease. "I just cannot figure a way out of this," he said, "there doesn't seem to be a way."

Tennis recruiting ended last season as other sports also began cutting back to reach the Carolinas Conference limit as soon as possible.

Where Presbyterian once carried 40 football scharships, it must now carry 25; where the tennis program once had six grants, it now operates with the equivalent of three and one-third.

"This year, the real decline will begin to show," said Warden, whose team has already lost three of eight matches. "Next year it will be ridiculous."

The Blue Hose netters lost two regulars through graduation this year, reducing the team to two scholarship players. "We'll maintain a big schedule," said Warden, "but there's no way to compete."

Thus stretches out the slow, painful death of what has been a state-wide institution and point of pride. It was PC which handed Miami its last regular season defeat back in the late '50's, and still no one has beaten the Hurricanes.

It was on the PC courts that such as Bill Tilden, Bobby Riggs, and Alice Marble displayed their immense talents back in the thirties. It was PC which has spawned such fine tennis players as Allen Morris, the Atlanta lad who once rose as far as the Wimbledon quarter finals and still ranks as one of the South's finest.

In two years, tennis seems destined to be in fact, if not in sentiment, just another spring sport at Presbyterian.

Part II

If tennis does die at Presbyterian, it being blamed not on a person or group of persons "out to get tennis," but rather on two factors which have caught the sport in a vice.

Those two factors are finances and re-emphasis on academics. The big college boom in athletics following World War II virtually cut off the small colleges from financial self-sufficiency in the competitive arena, particularly a small college in a small town such as Clinton.

And the post-Sputnik academic resurgence in colleges further reduced athletic emphasis at Presbyterian. As a result, two years ago the athletic council at Presbyterian began to cut back its athletic programs which at one time had vaulted the school into prominence in track, football and basketball as well as tennis.

It was the purported death of tennis, however, two years ago which aroused the student body to proclaim in a poll that tennis was the most popular sport on campus.

Gordon Warden arrived on the scene at the time, passing through on the way to a pro job in Florida, and found the tennis job vacated by Bill Leighton.

"They didn't seem interested in hiring a coach at the time," he recalled, "so I sorta volunteered for the job."

By thrifty allocation of what funds were made available to him Warden has kept Presbyterian in the big-time for two more years, but he has been living on borrowed time, and knows it.

"I know the problems of the school, and the reasons for entering the conference," he said, but it seems to me that tennis should not be considered just another sport here.

"In view of how much tennis has meant to this school through the years, it seems that a special case should be made for tennis."

Presbyterian athletic director Cally Gault, who took over his post two years ago in the midst of the transition of athletic policy, says, "I'd be the last person to want to kill big-time tennis here."

But all sports are cutting back—not just tennis. The cutback in sports came long before the decision to enter the conference. We are entering the conference because of the cutback; we're not cutting back because we're entering the conference."

However you slice it, tennis is in a precarious position where once it had a stronghold.

"It was one of my strong points in recruiting," recalled Warden, "that I would tell the boys that the big schools were off and on with tennis. At PC you could be sure that tennis would last.

"Now, after two years, tennis is leaving here, too."

There can be no doubt that tennis has been a major morale factor for the student body and townspeople of Clinton as well.

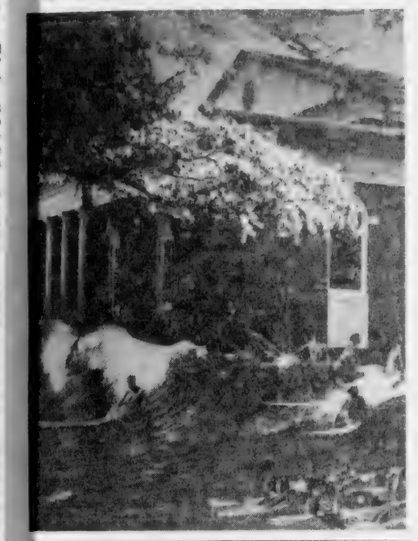
"People talk tennis here all year round," Warden said.

"Now, with all the reports floating around that tennis is going small-time, the students are crushed, the team is crushed, and I am crushed."

There seems to be no loophole to permit PC to maintain its tennis program when it enters the conference. The policy is taken out of the hands of the college and placed in the hands of the conference, and the conference allots a flat two spring sports scholarships.

Some schools can "cheat" on minor sports by awarding football or basketball scholarships to outstanding athletes in spring sports. But with 25 football grants, and eight basketball scholarships, there just aren't any scholarships to spare.

Is there a way out? Warden, Gault, no one has an answer yet. As for now, a chorus of nostalgia and regrets leaves little doubt of the sentiment.



JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

BOSTITCH
WORLD'S FINEST, MOST DEPENDABLE, MOST UNIFORM STAPLES
Every strip factory inspected for accurate feeding and driving. Product of the largest manufacturer of stapling equipment.

The CHRONICLE

Spring Monsoons Flood Campus; Students Like New Water Sports

Well the rains came and as usual the great labrynth of the PC master drain system was clogged with last spring's grass seed.

As the high tides closed in on Monday's chapel service those students with cuts (left) enjoyed Belk's new Waikiki. The less fortunate are seen boarding a yacht from the Clinton Academy of Naval Sciences on which they will cross the now submerged Bailey to high ground and a new life on the Bell Telephone Co. radio relay tower.

All ships have been warned by the Clinton fire department of the fire-danger created by grease slicks surfacing from Judd Dining Hall which is now 200 feet under water.

Those students who remained expressed the desire for some improvement in our drainage system after the high waters recede.

As one suggested, 'Perhaps we could dredge a lake for surplus storm water. The ideal site for this would be the present location of Clinton.'

A.A.C. Supports Government Aid To College Students

WASHINGTON (CPS)—One of the nation's largest college organizations has dramatically reversed its field to support a massive federal aid program for U. S. college students.

The surprise came in testimony by the Association of American Colleges (AAC) before a Senate Subcommittee holding hearings on a bill proposed by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind.

The bill being considered would liberalize the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) for loans, federal schoalrships and government insurance of private loans to students. It would also provide a work-study program, similar to the one proposed by President Johnson in his poverty message.

AAC officials had previously opposed the Hartke program.

But the group's president, the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., told the subcommittee that his organization solidly supported the basic features of the Hartke bill.

The national organization represents 848 colleges offering four- year degree programs. Bunn is president of Georgetown University.

Bunn said many members of his organization have reluctantly concluded that a federal scholarship program "is indispensible to realization of the principle of unrestricted educational opportunity."

Bunn said members were polled recently and an overwhelming majority voted for the four provisions. He described the Hartke bill as an "imaginative and comprehensive attack on the problem of student aid."

The AAC's traditional view, Bunn said, has been that federal aid is justified only when needed to attain a goal of national importance not satisfactorily reachable by state, local and private action.

However, Bunn warned that there is a real danger that state government might be tempted to cut back their own provisions for scholarships and ultimately throw the whole burden on the federal government.

Bunn said the AAC still had some misgivings about the bill. He said one section of the bill providing a cost of education allowance for colleges admitting federal scholarship holders. Bunn noted that the $350 payment would be a "bounty" that would temp admissions to give first consideration to scholarship students.

The AAC was also apprehensive, Bunn said, over the proposed extension of the NDEA student loan program to two-year colleges. The extension, he said, would bring under the program 700 to 800 additional schools and reduce the money available to four-year colleges.

Bunn said the work-study program for students received the least favorable response from members of his association. He said they expressed fears that the measure might foster sterile "make-work" activities.

However, Bunn said many members hadn't read details of the plan. He applauded the intention of the bill to limit the work-study programs to activities of "genuine educational value."

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

PAT GOLDSMITH
Sophomore Track Man

PC Sports Calendar Lists Seven Events

Seven events will keep PC's spring sports schedule busy next week, highlighted by the South Carolina State Golf Tournament at Hampton. Five events are slated here at Clinton.

The golf team will open the week's action Monday, facing Augusta College at Augusta. Tuesday the Hose diamond squad play host to Newberry, and will be seeking its first win of the year.

Wednesday, PC students will get a chance to see one of the top tennis matches of the year, when the Hosemen tackle Clemson's netters here. The track team also performs at home in a meet against Wofford.

Thursday the golf team prepares for the state tournament with a triangular match against the Citadel and College of Charelston at Hampton. Then the Hose linksmen take part in the South Carolina Intercollegiate tourney, Friday and Saturday.

Baseball is also scheduled for Friday and Saturday, when PC faces Furman and Mercer in two home games.

Two Freshmen Honored By Chemistry Awards

Freshmen Jim Ritchie and James Bell were the recipients of chemistry awards Thursday.

Professors Huff and Carter presented a copy of the Handbook of Physics and Chemistry to the two freshmen in each of the two General Chemistry sections having the highest average for last semester.

The Campus Scene

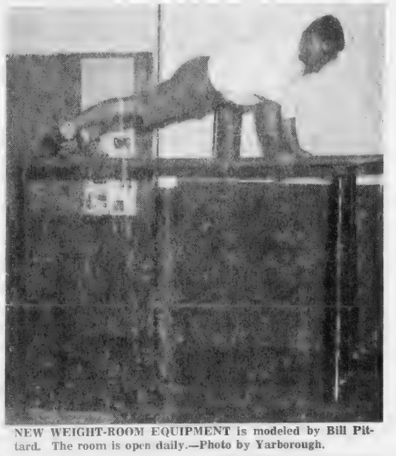
Chapel Services

Dr. Gettys has announced the chapel services for the coming week.

On Monday, April 13, the Rev. Neil Leach from First Presbyterian in York, will speak.

Rev. Charles Sides will conduct the midweek worship service on Wednesday, and on Friday the student drama group will present a play.

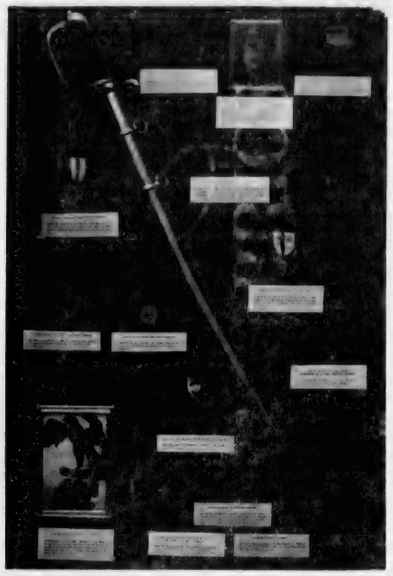
Placement Schedule



The Office of the Dean of Students has announced that on Monday, April 13, a representative from Liberty Life Insurance Co. will be on campus to meet with any interested seniors.

Seniors who would like appointments should see Mrs. Barbara Gallion, Secretary to the Dean, as soon as possible.

Episcopal Classes



The Rev. John Rivers announces a special series of classes for people who are interested in learning more about the Episcopal Church.

The classes will meet on Thursday nights at 8:00 in the All Saints Parish House.

NEW WEIGHT-ROOM EQUIPMENT is modeled by Bill Pittard. The room is open daily.—Photo by Yarborough.

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

THE TEN MILITARY AWARDS which ROTC cadets may win are on display in the student lounge in Douglas House.—Photo by Yarborough.

Choir Returns From Tour; Terms Programs 'Successful'

The Presbyterian College Robed Choir returned Wednesday evening from a successful spring tour through the states of Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi. The first presentation was sung in Rome, Ga., the night before after-Easter classes began on the campus.

Two special highlights of the tour were singing an engagement at Stillman College, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and being present at the Natchez, Miss., Pilgrimage.

Stillman College was found to be strikingly similar to Presbyterian, both physically and economically. A large building program is in progress there to increase greatly the facilities of the wooded, Georgian campus.

The choir was entertained there after the service with a lunch which made the members feel quite at home.

On the final night of the Natchez Pilgrimage (a two-month-long open house of the town and the thirty ante-bellum masions located there) the choir was a guest of honor at the pageant, given annually by members of the community. Natchez, with its beautiful azaleas and intriguing antique shops, was a fitting climax to the tour.

Ciardi

(Continued from page 1)

Ciardi is a big hulky man who looks the part of the B-29 gunner he was in World War II. Fast with the quip, he manages to generate a good deal of interest in a subject that college students usually stay away from in droves.

Ciardi tells them to quit asking "What does it mean?" so loud they deafen themselves to any possible "dialogue" with the poem. "I like for them to have a fuller experience," he says of students, "so I try to undo some bad habits about poetry."

Ciardi is well-known for his published works. His most recent book, airing the various controversies he's started in poetry, is called "Dialogue with an Audience." Letters, pro and con, are reprinted along with the Ciardi "Manner of Speaking" columns from Saturday Review.

Ciardi, born in Boston of Italian parents, has published a half-dozen books of poetry, followed by a selection called "As If." He has also translated Dante's Inferno and has distilled his teaching into a textbook, "How Does a Poem Mean?"

College Receives $26,000 Bequest

Presbyterian College has received $19,489.46 in the final settlement of an estate which brings the total bequest to PC from this source to almost $26,000, President Marc C. Weersing announced.

He said the gift came from the late Miss Emma Lilian Keigwin of Washington, D. C., who died 11 years ago. The recent death of her sister, last surviving heir, has brought about final liquidation of the estate.

PC received $3,500 from the estate in 1953, shortly after Miss Keigwin's death, and another $3,000 in 1956. The final settlement of $19,489.46 brings the total from this estate to Presbyterian College to $25,989.46. These funds have been placed in the permanent endowment of the college.

Senior Life Saving Offered Here Again

Beginning Monday, April 13, two Senior Life Saving courses will be offered to P. C. students. A joint Y. M. C. A.-Red Cross Senior Life Saving Course will meet from 3:30-5:00 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, as will a Red Cross Senior Life Saving course from 7:30-9:00 on the same days.

The only cost involved to the student is $2.50 for the Red Cross course and $.75 for the Red Cross Course. Both these fees are for textbooks.

Participants in these classes should be familiar with the basic swimming strokes. Courses will be completed in 5 to 6 weeks.

Anyone interested in more information or desiring to register is asked to call the P. C. Athletic Office, Prof. R. E. Fakkema, or to see Bill Culp (Bingo 2-9).

Said Culp, "We hope to have the swimming pool open at the first week or two for free swimming. Notice of this will be given when such is possible."

1964 Giving Program Sets $80,000 Goal

A record goal of $80,000 has been set for Presbyterian College's 1964 annual giving program now getting underway, Alumni Association President Tom Addison of Clinton announced.

He said the program is being headed by Dr. J. Edward Graham, president-elect of the PC Alumni Association, and Sam Cornwell of Charlotte, vice-president of the group. They serve as campaign co-chairmen.

The objective for this year represents an increase of almost $14,000 over the $66,478 raised in 1963, the largest amount yet to be contributed to annual giving by PC alumni and friends. Funds given to this source are used primarily to help underwrite current operating expenses of the college and include designations for academic scholarships, salary increases, departmental improvements and the Walter Johnson Club alumni athletic organization.

BROADWAY Theatre

Friday-Saturday, Apr. 10-11
COMEDY OF TERRORS
Your Favorite Creeps
Together Again!

Monday-Tues, Apr. 13-14
LAWRENCE OF ARABIA
Best Picture of the Year!
Two Shows Daily - 3:15, 7:15

Starts Wednesday, Apr. 15
ADVANCE TO THE REAR
The Zaniest Outfit of Misfits Ever!
Glenn Ford, Stella Stevens

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

VARSITY GRILL
IS MOVING TO A NEW H. Q.
ON WEST MAIN ST. BESIDE J. C. THOMAS
OPENING MONDAY
With The Same Fine Service

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

On Campus with Max Shulman

(Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy With Cheek.")

WELL-KNOWN FAMOUS PEOPLE: No. 1

This is the first in a series of 48 million columns examining the careers of men who have significantly altered the world we live in. We begin today with Max Planck.

Max Planck (or The Pearl of the Pacific, as he is often called) gave to modern physics the law known as Planck's Constant. Many people when they first hear of this law, throw up their hands and exclaim, "Golly whiskers, this is too deep for little old me!"

Coincidentally, speaking of whiskers, I cannot help but mention Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades. Personna is the blade for people who can't shave after every meal. It shaves you closely, cleanly, and more frequently than any other stainless steel blade on the market. The makers of Personna have publicly declared—and do here repeat—that if Personna Blades don't give you more luxury shaves than any other stainless steel blade, they will buy you whatever blade you think is better. Could anything be more fair? I, for one, think not.)

Max Showed no indication.....

But I digress. We were speaking of Planck's Constant, which is not, as many think, difficult to understand. It simply states that matter sometimes behaves like waves, and waves sometimes behave like matter. To give you a homely illustration, pick up your pencil and wave it. Your pencil, you will surely agree, is matter—yet look at the little rascal wave! Or take flags. Or Ann-Margret.

Planck's Constant, uncomplicated as it is, nevertheless provided science with the key that unlocked the atom, made space travel possible, and conquered denture slippage. Honors were heaped upon Mr. Planck (or The City of Brotherly Love, as he is familiarly known as). He was awarded the Nobel Prize, the Little Brown Jug, and Disneyland. But the honor that pleased Mr. Planck most was that plankton were named after him.

Plankton, as we know, are the floating colonies of one-celled animals on which fishes feed. Plankton, in their turn, feed upon one-half celled animals called krill (named, incidentally, after Dr. Morris Krill who invented the house cat). Krill, in their turn, feed upon peanut butter sandwiches mostly—or, when they are in season, cheeseburgers.

But I digress. Back to Max Planck who, it must be said, showed no indication of his scientific genius as a youngster. In fact, for the first six years of his life he did not speak at all. Then one day at breakfast on his sixth birthday he suddenly said, "Papa! Mama! Something is wrong with the Second Law of Thermodynamics!" So astonished were the elder Plancks that they rushed out and dug the Kiel Canal.

Meanwhile Max, constructing a crude Petric dish out of two small pieces of petrified gum and bird seed, began to experiment with thermodynamics. By dinner time he had discovered Planck's Constant. Hungry but happy, he rushed to Heidelberg University to announce his findings. He arrived, unfortunately, during the Fresh-vs.-Sophomore cane rush, and everyone was so busy cracking and dodging canes that young Planck could find nobody to listen to him. The festival, however, ended after two days, and Planck was finally able to report his discovery.

Well sir, the rest is history. Einstein easily cried, "E equals me squared!" Edison invented Maroon. Eli Whitney invented Georgia Tech, and Michelangelo invented the ceiling. This later became known as the Humboldt Current.

* * *

Mr. Shulman is, of course, joshing, but the makers of Personna Blades are not. They do, in fact, believe that their blade is the finest you can buy, and they are willing to back up their belief with their money. So if you think you can find a better blade than Personna, write them and they will buy you a pack of any blade you think is better.

© 1964 Max Shulman

Do Your Spring Shopping at . . .

Belk's

Complete Line of Spring and Summer

SHIRTS

2.99 and 3.99

New Shipments Arriving Daily

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College

Vol. XLII - No. 16 | Clinton, South Carolina, April 17, 1964 | Founded 1920

"You've known me only a few minutes yet you would sit beside me?" questions Helena (Merrie Stancill) of her newly-found lover. A review of the play appears on page 2.—Photo by Yarborough.

New Woman's Dean Named; Will Take Office In August

Appointment of Presbyterian College's first dean of women was announced today by President Marc C. Weersing, moving the college a step closer to full coeducation.

She is Miss Marion Fogartie Hill of Spartanburg, director of Christian Education for the First Presbyterian Church there for seven years and a long-time former associate of Dr. Weersing.

Miss Hill will assume her new duties at PC around mid-August. She is to spend much of her time the first year in developing a broader program for women and in student recruitment, pointing to completion of Presbyterian's first women's dormitory in September, 1965. PC's co-ed enrollment in past years has been limited mostly to day students.

President Weersing said, "Miss Hill and I have worked together most of the time since 1947 with churches that have been closely associated with colleges. Her family has a long background of service in the ministry and in education and she has been active in the leadership of young people, both in South Carolina and Mississippi. I feel she is well qualified to be our dean of women."

Miss Hill worked with Dr. Weersing as director of Christian education when he was pastor of the large Spartanburg First Presbyterian Church (1957-63) and prior to that served under him in this capacity at the Jackson (Miss.) Central Presbyterian Church.

In these positions, she dealt closely with students of four different colleges. She is recognized as one of the leading directors of Christian education in the Presbyterian Church U. S. and has led seminars at the Presbyterian School of Christian Education in Richmond, Va.

Two of her six sisters also have served as Christian education directors and her late father, Rev. William H. Hill, was Christian higher education secretary for the Synod of Mississippi for many years. She has one brother.

A native of Brookhaven, Miss., Miss Hill received her B. A. degree from Belhaven College in 1937 and taught elementary school for seven years before entering full time church work.

Her grandfather, the late Rev. James E. Fogartie, received an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Presbyterian College in 1895 while serving the Greenwood First Presbyterian Church.

MISS HILL

I. F. C. President Shearer Announces '64 Rush Changes

The Inter-Fraternity Council has received approval of changes in fraternity rushing for next year from both the faculty and its committee on fraternities, I. F. C. president Bill Shearer announced Tuesday.

The changes include shortening rush period to six weeks, scheduling two open stag socials weekly beginning September 14, and allowing each fraternity one organized function with new men and ladies as guests between September 15 and October 3.

The I. F. C. has defined "organized function" as "any social function, either on or off campus, registered or unregistered, and sponsored, planned, or paid for by the fraternity or its alumni."

An open stag social will be held by each fraternity between 7:00 and 11:00 P. M. on a date selected in cooperation with the Council.

The dates for the socials are Monday, September 14; Thursday, September 17; Monday, September 21; Thursday, September 24; Monday, September 28; and Thursday, October 1.

Each fraternity will hold a closed stag smoker between 6:00 and 11:00 P. M. on the following dates: Monday, October 12; Tuesday, October 13; Wednesday, October 14; Thursday, October 15; Monday, October 19; and Tuesday, October 20.

No social function will be allowed during the week of October 5, when quarter tests are scheduled.

The I. F. C. also ruled that a fraternity must close its suite no later than midnight on the dates of its social and closed smoker. This curfew allows a maximum of one hour to clean up after the function is over.

Furthermore, the Council has imposed a regulation that prevents voting on pledges the night of the closed smoker. Balloting can be held no earlier than the day following the smoker, according to the new regulations.

Quiet period will begin after the last smoker is over, 11:00 P. M., October 20, and will end at 6:00 P. M. pledge day, October 22.

(Continued on page 4)

Inspecting Officers Praise PC's Entire ROTC Program

The annual ROTC Federal inspection was held April 9, and resulted in high praise for all phases of the ROTC program at P. C.

Lieutenant Colonel Richard W. Ulrich, Professor of Military Science at Presbyterian College, stated, "each man of the Cadet Corps can be justifiably proud of his performance. The success of this inspection is the result of a team effort, and I wish to express my gratitude to each cadet at Presbyterian College."

The inspection team included Colonel Warren A. Thrasher, Professor of Military Science at the University of Georgia. He was assisted by Lt. Col. F. M. McConnell, Assistant PMS at Clemson, and by two non-commissioned officers.

On Thursday, the inspectors were briefed by Cadet Captain Leon Bullard and Cadet Captain Creighton Likes. Subjects included in the briefing were the history of the cadet corps, number of cadets in the ROTC program, training received by cadets, and the various awards and decorations which are available each year.

In the afternoon, the ROTC Battalion was inspected in-ranks on the Plaza. Cadets were inspected on general appearance, neatness, and alertness. Squads and platoons were required to demonstrate their abilities in performing dismounted drill. Inspectors agreed that the responses were "aggressive and spirited." Colonel Thrasher noted, "The Cadet Corps was magnificent in its in-ranks inspection."

The inspection was followed by a formal review, which was held on Johnson football field.

Gaston And Rhodes To Head PaC-SaC

In a closely contested election Wednesday rising senior Bill Gaston won the editorship of the 1964-65 PaC-SaC. Gaston's opponent was John Sheffield.

In an equally close race with Donnie Hardee, Sherrod Rhodes took the lead to claim the title of business manager.

A resident of Chester, South Carolina, Gaston is a pre-medical major and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

A Sigma Nu and resident of Moultrie, Georgia, Rhodes is majoring in business administration and a senior representative to the student council.

Tommy Williams, student body president, noted that Wednesday's turnout of 60% could easily have set a new record for voting at P. C.

Gaston has announced that his staff will be named next week and that John Sheffield will hold the number two position on the editorial staff.

Robed Choir Elects Four New Officers

Jack Greene, Arthur Baxter, and Sam Waters were elected president, vice - president, and treasurer respectively of the choir at its Thursday afternoon meeting.

Jim Loyd was named custodian, and Jim Stanford was appointed secretary by Dr. Edouard Patte, Director of Music.

The new slate of officers will be installed later in the spring and will serve for one year.

Sports Editors Represent Blue Sock In Charleston

The annual convention of the South Carolina Collegiate Press Association is being held at Charleston this weekend, with two Blue Stocking staff members attending.

The meeting will conclude Saturday night with the awards banquet at the Holiday Inn.

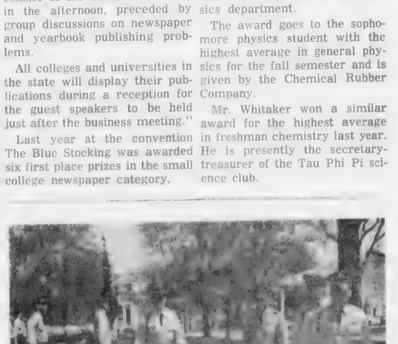
Forming the delegation from Presbyterian are sports editors Glen Browder and Al Pearce. The representatives left this morning for Charleston, registering in the early afternoon at the convention headquarters.

All issues of The Blue Stocking that are to be entered in competition are to be judged tonight, and the results announced tomorrow night at the banquet.

The Saturday sessions will consist of the business meeting in the afternoon, preceded by group discussions on newspaper and yearbook publishing problems.

All colleges and universities in the state will display their publications during a reception for the guest speakers to be held just after the business meeting.

Last year at the convention The Blue Stocking was awarded six first place prizes in the small college newspaper category.



Among the awards presented were first place honors for the Best Small College Paper, Best Sports Pages, Best Editorials, Best Special Page, and Best News Coverage.

Tom Whitaker Wins '64 Physics Award

Tom Whitaker, a sophomore pre-med student from Florence, has been awarded the "Handbook of Chemistry and Physics." This award was announced by Dr. Whitelaw, head of the physics department.

The award goes to the sophomore physics student with the highest average in general physics for the fall semester and is given by the Chemical Rubber Company.

Mr. Whitaker won a similar award for the highest average in freshman chemistry last year. He is presently the secretary-treasurer of the Tau Phi Pi science club.

"Aggressive and spirited" troops show their skills for inspecting military officers at last week's review. The officers stated "very high praise for all phases of military operations on the Presbyterian campus."—Photo by Yarborough.

And Then Rush . . .

THE I. F. C. and its [illegible] have jointly made some attempt, to a [illegible] on the PC campus. The rules provide [illegible] for the changes in rush will be put into effect [illegible] and the president of having an all-night fraternity meeting and music and an important quiz the next morning will be solved. There will be no more all-night smokers.

AFTER FRATERNITY MEN and rushees get into the new system next fall, they are sure to find the old problems associated with rush and dances much the same.

THE RUSH PROGRAM, since it is shorter, will be over much sooner, but at the same time it is certain to prove more strenuous for both fraternity men and rushees. For the first three weeks in the semester new men will have the opportunity to go to two socials weekly. During the fourth week the quarter will end, and freshmen will face quizzes, perhaps very much unprepared because of their involvement in fraternity activities and in the ratting program.

AS FOR UPPERCLASSMEN, quizzes in advanced courses rarely fall during the regular testing periods. No one can in fairness ask instructors to mechanize their course programs so that quizzes always fall in three-week intervals. When there is a break in the material the instructor will give a quiz; the test may come during the scheduled time, but more often it will precede or follow that time.

CONTINUING CHRONOLOGICALLY, smokers will begin the week after the end of the quarter. The first of them is on Monday night and the last is on the following Tuesday. It is during this period that upperclassmen will be most likely to have quizzes. So next year, instead of running the risk of having no time to study for a quiz because of an eight-hour fraternity session, an upperclassman will be able to study from midnight on. Yes, that is an improvement.

SO THE NEW RUSH PROGRAM in reality will still give no satisfactory solution to the problem of smokers conflicting with quizzes. From the standpoint of most instructors, the program will be no better except for the fact that rush will be out of the way much sooner than previous programs have been.

WE ALREADY HEAR THE CRIES of "anti-fraternity"; you're wrong. We easily and eagerly recognize the tremendous advantage of being in a fraternity. But unless more time is devoted to academic disciplines and less to partying we may no longer be able to refute the charges that "PC is one huge country club, with rather high dues and a rather under-paid staff." And the charge is not made infrequently.

THE IDEAL RUSH PROGRAM is one that is over before registration for the fall semester. It works at numerous other schools and fraternities there are just as harmonious internally as our own. Fraternity men and rushees don't really get to know each other well during rush, no matter how extended it may be. The whole idea of rush is based on fronts; which freshmen wear the social screens most like that of your fraternity?

WE REALIZE, OF COURSE, that a rush program conducted completely in the spring and summer is the ideal, something to be aspired to. Meanwhile, our I. F. C. has taken a step in the right direction. And perhaps in the future there will be another Council made up of reformers, and further steps will be taken then.

—W. W.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly as and for the students of Presbyterian College Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager ..... Al Pearce
Managing Editor ..... Bill Loeble
Assistant News Editor ..... Dave Venecklasen
Sports Editors ..... Al Pearce, Glen Browder
Feature Editor ..... Gary Crawford
Activities Editor ..... Larry Preston
Greek Editor ..... Alex Patrick
Associate Editors ..... Jimmy Simpson, Woody Merrit
Cartoonist ..... Tom Leland
Photographer ..... G. Wardlaw
Editorial Assistants ..... Raymond Summerlin, Charlie Jordan, Steve Watson
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, Susan Gilbert, Tim Grey, Bryson Rousey, Steve Knoche, David Knowlton, John Jones, Joe Stevens.
Feature Staff ..... Dupont Smith, Ike Cobb, John Sheffield, Alex Patrick, Jimmy Stewart, Jan Rhodes.
Business Staff ..... Brad Campbell, David Davies, Benny Hurley, Wiley Jones, Gary Michael Smith.
Sports Staff ..... Ed Henderson, Hugh Shutte, Gary Smith

Chapel Should Interest Students

by DICK WILKINSON

The Blue Stocking has publish[illegible] several editorials on the chapel situation, but the editorialist seems to have missed an important fact, the greatest discontent with chapel results from the laziness of the student body. Most of us are too lazy to take an active interest in the program, it's true, but the faculty and administration have done little to stimulate greater interest.

Most of the programs on Monday and Friday consist of short devotionals, while on Wednesday there is a formal worship service. In these services there should be a greater effort made to attract interesting speakers. As blasphemous as it may seem, every minister of the Presbyterian Church is not capable of inducing a religious mood in our minds. If this Wednesday program is to continue, let us have able speakers. Without this change I fear every speaker who stands at the podium will be greeted with yawns and shoe soles.

Perhaps the greatest opportunity for improvement lies in the other two services. These two should deal with secular subjects designed to round out the students' education. Each student is not able to learn everything or take every course, and programs of this kind could be directed toward broadening his education. Business and professional men from Clinton and the surrounding area could give the student an idea of what to expect after college.

Today, there are many foun[illegible] tions that try to bring interest[illegible] speakers to the South; PC c[illegible] perhaps take advantage of m[illegible] of them. In having these spe[illegible] ers, the sponsors should tr[illegible] round out these programs [illegible] bringing men from many fie[illegible]

Some of these suggest[illegible] can't be realized until some t[illegible] in the distant future, but oth[illegible] could begin Monday. Funds [illegible] outstanding speakers are sca[illegible] but on this campus and in C[illegible] ton there are people who are[illegible] pable of awakening the stude[illegible] Various programs adding v[illegible] ety have received great [illegible] claim: the exchange progra[illegible] with Wofford and Newberry, [illegible] plays by the English dep[illegible] ment, and even the Bea[illegible] Playboys. Along with the p[illegible] posed changes, a greater in[illegible] est in the arts could be cultiv[illegible] ed during these assemblies.

It seems hopeless to ask [illegible] the removal of one of th[illegible] chapel periods, so we make t[illegible] proposal as an alternative [illegible] change is to be ignored and [illegible] devotionals are to continue, t[illegible] the next feasible answer is [illegible] sell Belk Auditorium, the wa[illegible] fountain, and the bust. With t[illegible] money a church, complete w[illegible] all the trappings, could be b[illegible] in order to properly carry [illegible] these devotionals and cha[illegible] services. Perhaps in this atm[illegible] phere the student body wo[illegible] feel guilty sleeping through [illegible] services. With this idea not pr[illegible] tical, let us return to the firs[illegible] which we try to use the build[illegible] we already have. More secu[illegible] programs to round out the e[illegible] dents' education and better m[illegible] isters on Wednesday would [illegible] prove the services greatly.

Capt. Newman M. D. Starting Monday

For those screen patrons tired of terse drama and stiff derrieres, David Miller's "Captain Newman, M. D.," will be almost as refreshing as "Please Don't Eat The Daisies."

Gregory Peck, Angie Dickerson, Bobby Darren, and Tony Curtis star in this comedy centered in a stateside mental ward during World War II.

Peck is the light-hearted yet often indominitable Capt. Newman. He effortlessly displays his talent in the role of an army psychiatrist fighting the often hilarious dictates of a rough and crude post commander.

Tony Curtis is Leibowitz, the cocky attendant who is purged by Newman and aids Newman in saving another trouble-maker, Bobby Darren.

For good humor on the light side and a plot that can easily be found, Universal International's "Captain Newman, M. D.," is well worth considering.

This film starts Monday at Clinton's Broadway Theatre and will continue through Saturday.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

With the new changes planned by the I. F.C. for rush seas[illegible] next year the fraternities have begun planning their strategy [illegible] get new pledges. Each must replan his rush program to the ch[illegible] lenge of a shortened rush season.

The Sigma Nu's this weekend will culminate a year of prepa[illegible] tion. The height of their social year, White Star Ball, has at [illegible] arrived. The ball will be held tonight at the Laurens County C[illegible] from 8:00-12:00, with the Collegiates playing Saturday. They w[illegible] gather at Lake Greenwood Saturday with the Swinging Five f[illegible] nishing the music. Both parties will be closed.

Also to be held this weekend is the Red Carnation Ball of t[illegible] Theta Chi's. The formal dance will be held tonight at the Ma[illegible] Musgrove, with Baukknight's Dance Band playing. An inform[illegible] party will be held Saturday night at the Legion Hut, with Mem[illegible] and His Disciples performing. These will also be closed.

Future plans for the Pi Kappa Alpha's Roman Holiday ha[illegible] been made. Dale and the Del Hearts will be playing for the partie[illegible]

Donnie Hardee of Alpha Sigma Phi was pinned to Pat McG[illegible] and Ann Sparrow was pinned to Dwight Mosely of Pi Kappa P[illegible] The Theta Chi's announced that Scott Smith was pinned to Ca[illegible] lyn Maulding from Sweetbriar.

Thursday night the Theta Chi's had the installation of their n[illegible] officers. They are Bill Anderson, president; Rusty Nelson, vi[illegible] president; Arch Hudgins, secretary; and Dave Worth, Treasur[illegible]

The K. A.'s reported that everyone enjoyed this past weeken[illegible] Saturday night the Sensations played for the combo party th[illegible] had in their house.

Brother of the week for the A. S. P.'s is Donnie Hardee a[illegible] for the PiKA's, Gary Crawford.

Actors Show Ability In Morning's Play

Although probably the least professional production staged in Belk Auditorium since interest in dramatics was aroused last year, the presentation of Phillip Moeller's "Helena's Husband" this morning was easily the funniest play the Chapel Players have ever given.

Each of the players was generally good in his role, but the acting of Merrie Stancill, playing the part of Helena, was better than that of any other actor on the stage. Miss Stancill easily conveyed the character of Helena with her tone, inflections, and gestures; her major downfall was lack of volume in speaking many of the lines.

Brad Campbell as King Menelaus evidenced that much acting ability has lain dormant until now. Campbell was very effective in his part and made his role very believable.

Analytikos, portrayed by Henry Knox, and Tsumu, played by Geraldine Haydock, brought the most laughs. Sometimes we had the feeling that they were straining their roles for ever[illegible] thing possible—even for everything impossib[illegible]

Bob Warren, who played Paris, shows a gr[illegible] deal of promise for future productions. His a[illegible] ing was usually convincing, although at times [illegible] degenerated from the point of believability.

The play represented the most ambitious pr[illegible] ect undertaken at PC as far as sets and costum[illegible] were concerned. Both were superb, consider[illegible] the handicaps involved.

The production as a whole can be very m[illegible] criticized from the point of the pace of the pl[illegible] But this was the fault of the director and not t[illegible] actors.

Now that the "third experiment" in drama[illegible] PC is over, it is completely obvious that the s[illegible] dent body is very much in favor of dramatic[illegible] the administration must realize this and co[illegible] tribute more support than their mere attendan[illegible] at the production. Dramatics should be a bus[illegible] et item next year.—W. W.

Speaking of Sports

with GLEN BROWDER

Facts Of Life Concerning CC Must Be Learned

I hate to bring up an issue which has been beaten around so much that everybody is sick of hearing about it, but since I haven't said anything referring to it yet in this column, I'm going to have my say.

The student body as a whole has one idea about this Carolinas Conference versus tennis business: i.e., considering the situation all fouled up—and that could be expressed in more vivid terms.

Problem: The Future

The PC tennis dilemma is a sad problem brought on by several factors. And the clouds hovering over the Blue Hose courts are not simply the question of tennis scholarships. Neither is there a concerted drive to kill tennis at Presbyterian. The problem is the future of the other sports here at this small Christian fountain of knowledge where many come to drink.

Take basketball for instance. Pembroke, Belmont Abbey, Georgia State, and Mercer may put out good basketball teams, but there's little interest in PC's games with these opponents. And while PC had its troubles with College of Charleston and St. Andrews, these two schools don't even give scholarships. When you play teams like these, with no conference standings involved, there's little to be gained—with all due respect to the schools mentioned.

The Same Story

Baseball is the same story, although PC does play Furman and The Citadel. Golf and track, although PC doesn't stress these two sports much, would be much more interesting in meets and matches against a conference foe.

Now to look at football, which seems to be the scapegoat for everything at Presbyterian. Football is a good sport. But PC has a scheduling problem. Either take on Furman, Citadel, East Carolina—or ride a bus 500 miles to Tampa, or Troy, or Frederick. The ride alone would physically weaken any team. And people in this area just don't go into wild fits of excitement when you tell them the Blue Hose are playing the Troy State Red Wave next week.

Trite But Important

There's also the factor which is trite but which is important: a school needs "something to fight for" in the way of conference titles, trophies, statistical leadership, etc. And when all-star teams are selected, conference schools seem to be favored over independents.

There are other problems. Scholarships are one. It's the facts of life for small colleges. The Conference allows 35 scholarships. That's not much when you learn that Georgia Tech gives out 140. But can PC compete with such big-time sports?

One mid-western school met the problem by charging each student an extra $10 to support the athletic program. PC could do the same thing if each student would donate $450 every year to bring our program up to the level of the major schools.

But it's not just scholarships. Gas, transportation, meals, equipment, coaches' salaries, expenses for accommodating visiting teams—all these come into the picture.

No Good Argument

This whole revolt against the Conference decision might not be so bad if PC athletics were not in a slump. And pointing to the board's devision as a disgrace in the light of PC's great athletic history is no good argument either, because that great past came while other schools didn't emphasize sports very much and PC could field formidable teams in all sports by drawing from the student body.

Without a doubt tennis is a great sport, and PC has a great tradition. Sure a few rough spots are ahead. But plans are already being sought to find a way to keep a strong tennis team here even in the Carolinas Conference. And if the Conference doesn't work out for PC's overall athletic program we can always get out.

It's simply a matter of having to adjust to today's athletic, academic, and economic facts of life.

FREE CHECK-UP

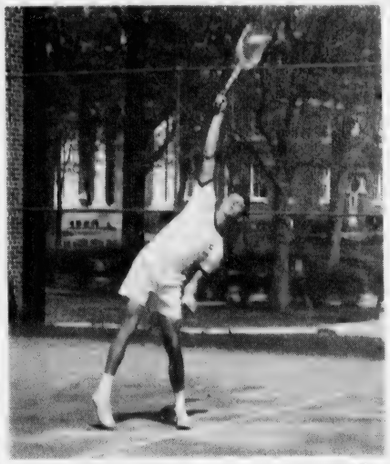
T. B. X-Ray

April 23 ..... 11:00 A. M.-1:00 P. M.
2:00 P. M.-5:00 P. M.

April 24 ..... 10:00 A. M.-12 Noon
1:00 P. M.-4:00 P. M.

Corner Pitts and Broad Street

— This Space Donated By —
THE BLUE STOCKING BUSINESS STAFF



PC Golfers Seeking State Title In Today's Tourney at Hampton

The annual South Carolina Intercollegiate Golf Tournament began at the Hampton Country Club today with seven teams seeking the 1964 title. PC, represented by six varsity linksters, is given a good chance to bring the crown to Clinton for the first time in many years.

South Carolina reigns as the defending State Golf Champion and is possibly the strongest team in the state. PC is rated just behind the Gamecocks in the state rankings with Furman, Wofford, Clemson, Citadel, and College of Charleston also entered in the event.

Presbyterian golfers attending the two-day event are Bill Kellan, Bill Brown, Jack Westall, Bruce Lawrence, Larry Preston, and Bunky Hanks. Coach Warden is accompanying the squad.

The Hose are currently sporting a 7-1 record, with only an opening match loss to the University of South Carolina at Columbia marring the slate. Impressive wins have been posted over Furman, Wofford, Belmont Abbey, and twice over Augusta College. PC faced The Citadel and the College of Charleston at Hampton yesterday, with the Hose winning two more impressive victories. PC defeated The Citadel 5-2 and College of Charleston 5½ to 1½.

JUNIOR TENNIS LETTERMAN Pete Collins captures the flying white in perfect form as Presbyterian gives Clemson a hard time for the university's victory.—Yarborough Photo.

Leading the recent resurgency of golf at Presbyterian has been Bill Kellam. A sophomore letterman of Virginia Beach, Va., Kellam has not yet lost a dual match and has been medalist in several contests. Bill has been a varsity golfer for two years and last year, as a freshman, came in third in the state tourney.

Playing behind Kellam have been three outstanding golfers, each adding something to the PC success this year. Jack Westall, a sophomore letterman of Asheville, N. C., Bill Brown, a senior letterman of Gaffney, Bruce Lawrence, a freshman of Greenwood, Larry Preston, a sophomore of Atlanta, and Bunky Hanks of Hampton, have played outstanding parts in the matches to date, and are counted on to do so in the remainder of the season.

The golf team continued their winning ways by defeating Augusta College last Friday at Augusta by a 12½ to 7½ score. This win was the second for PC over the Georgia school, and was their 5th straight win. Yesterday the golfers won over The Citadel and the College of Charleston in a final pre-tournament warm-up.

State Net Tournament Opens With Tigers Favored Again

The 25th annual State Tennis Tournament will open here next Thursday morning with 36 individual matches scheduled for the two-day event. The spectacle will bring to Clinton and the PC courts the tennis teams from The Citadel, Furman University, University of South Carolina, and defending State Champions, Clemson. Invitations issued to the smaller schools in the state were not answered.

Matches will begin around 9 o'clock on Thursday morning, with individual singles and doubles matches scheduled throughout the day. On Friday the survivors of the Thursday play will meet for the championship honors, and a State Champion for 1964 will be crowned late Friday afternoon.

A meeting of attending coaches will be held Wednesday night to determine tournament seedings and which teams will be given first round byes. The tournament will be scored on an over-all team basis, with points awarded for a win throughout the seedings in the numbered positions. It is expected that seedings will be determined by individual matches, between players at the numbered singles and doubles positions, in the intrastate meetings of the five teams.

Clemson, the defending champs, will be favored again, with PC given the only outside chance to de-throne the Tigers. Last season PC beat Clemson 5-4 in the team match before the tournament, but Clemson won the state, with PC second. This year Clemson beat PC 5-4, so now maybe PC will win the state.

Given little chance to break the PC-Clemson hold on the state tennis monopoly are the other three entered teams. Furman, USC, and The Citadel have already felt the power of PC and Clemson tennis. The Tigers have not lost to a state school, other than PC, in tennis in several years, just as PC is undefeated in state play against all but Clemson. The University of South Carolina is winless against all opponents in almost 30 matches over a two-year span. Furman has lost to PC and Clemson, and The Citadel has also fallen to these two. To make the picture more confusing The Citadel has defeated Furman.

PC will be seeking to re-capture the title from the Tigers, a title Presbyterian held for 21 consecutive years until The Citadel claimed the crown in 1961. In that 21-year span no team even closely approached the PC tennis powerhouse, but the going has been unfamiliarly rough in the past several seasons.

After The Citadel won in 1961 Clemson took the crown in 1962 at Clemson, and repeated as champions in the tournament last year.

Baseball, Tennis Top Spring Sports Card

A busy week lies ahead for PC's spring sports teams starting Monday, with eight events scheduled besides the State Tennis Tournament.

Baseball heads the list with four games. The Hosemen travel to Spartanburg to battle Wofford Monday, then journey to Belmont Abbey Wednesday. The remaining baseball action for the week will find PC at The Citadel both Friday and Saturday.

Running for the second time at home this season the PC track team lost to Wofford by a 71-58 score. Only a win over Emory and second place in a triangular meet have brightened the track picture.

The track squad is at home Wednesday against Lenoir Rhyne, then takes part in the Davidson Relays at Davidson, N. C., on Saturday.

The golfers' only action is a meeting with Mercer Saturday at Macon, Ga.

Impressive wins were recorded last week by the baseball and golf teams, with track and tennis suffering tough defeats.

On Saturday the PC tennis squad upended The Citadel by a 7-2 score. This past Wednesday Clemson squeaked by the Hose 5-4. Six of the nine matches went to the three set limit, with PC winning three of these crucial matches. With the team score tied at four-all, the Clemson number three doubles pulled out a three set win over PC to clinch the victory.

The baseball team recorded its first win of the spring as they defeated Newberry here on Tuesday. Leighton Grantham's long double in the bottom of the eleventh inning gave the win to Jimmy Cape, who went the route for PC on the mound.

But of course the big event is the State Tennis Tournament here at PC Thursday and Friday. The Hose netters will have a rugged pre-tourney match Tuesday when they take on a powerful Florida State team here.

Theta Chi pledges are held in bondage by their pledge master Bill Anderson. "We feel that we should make an earnest contribution toward an integral and functional relationship between the campus and community," said Anderson. And so on they swept . . . .

Dr. Boyd Will Be Speaker For Honors Day Ceremonies

Dr. Bernard H. Boyd, PC alumnus and former professor of Bible here, will speak at the Honors Day ceremonies April 24.

Dr. Boyd now serves as chairman of the University of North Carolina department of religion and as professor of Biblical literature. He lectures on the Bible in a popular television program and captivates both TV audiences and students with his colorful teaching methods.

Dr. Boyd taught at PC from 1936 until 1946. His teaching here was halted by World War II, in which he served two years as a chaplain.

After the war, he taught at Davidson from 1948 until 1950, when he moved to North Carolina as professor of Biblical literature. Two years later he was named chairman of the department.

After graduating from PC in 1932 he went on to receive his ThB and ThM from Princeton Seminary, both in 1935.

In addition to his teaching responsibilities, Dr. Boyd travels throughout North Carolina and the east coast delivering lectures, holding special Bible classes, and supervising religious emphasis weeks.

Last fall he appeared with Billy Graham and other church notables on the program of the giant Presbyterian Men's Convention in Miami.

The University of North Carolina "Daily Tar Heel" stated "Knowing Dr. Boyd makes it easy to see why Bible study has caught on with students on the UNC campus."

Dr. J. R. McCain Will Speak At Exercises

Dr. J. Ross McCain, one of the South's outstanding educators, will be the speaker for the PC Commencement, to be held May 31, in Belk Auditorium.

Dr. McCain received his BA degree from Erskine College. After taking a law degree at Mercer, he earned his MA at the University of Chicago and his PhD from Columbia University.

A former high school principal in Covington, Tenn., and an attorney in Spartanburg, Dr. McCain founded the Darlington School in Rome, Ga.

Having served as registrar, professor of economics, Vice-President and President of Agnes Scott College, Dr. McCain is recognized as one of the most outstanding men in the history of the institution. He is now president emeritus of Agnes Scott.

Dr. McCain is a member of the Southern University Conference, a senator of the United Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, past president of the Association of American Colleges, and of the Association of Georgia Colleges.

Dr. McCain has been honored by honorary degrees from Erskine and Davidson colleges and Emory and Tulane universities.

Three Seniors Cop Top Senior Awards

Leon Bullard, Tom Currie, and Tommy Williams have been named as recipients of Senior Awards, announced Ben Hay Hammet, PC's Director of Public Relations.

Bullard, Currie, and Williams have all been chosen to receive Gold P's. The awards are made to "graduating seniors who, in the opinion of the faculty, have performed outstanding meritorious service in extra-curricular activities other than athletics."

The Outstanding Senior Award, given by the Charlotte chapter of the Alumni Association, will be awarded this year to Tommy Williams.

It is awarded annually "by a vote of his classmates and a faculty committee to that member of the graduating class, who by his conduct and character, physical fitness, and mental stability, most nearly approximates the institution's ideals for young manhood."

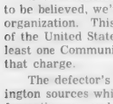
Tom Currie was nominated by the American Legion, Department of South Carolina, to receive an award "in recognition of unusually high qualities of honor, courage, scholarship, leadership, and service."

The awards will be presented at the Honors Day program, April 24.

Changes In Rush

(Continued from page 1)

Mr. Earl Halsall, chairman of the fraternity commitee, said that there would be "a scholastic requirement for pledging, based probably on D's and F's made first quarter, and possibly on College Board scores.



"We have made no decision on qualifications yet because the committee needs a mathematical correlation between semester grades and quarter grades, if one can be found," Mr. Halsall continued.

I. F. C. president Shearer stated that there was "a possibility that the Council will require freshmen to register if they are interested in going through rush. If a student did not register for rush at the beginning of the semester, he would have to wait until the following semester and register then before a fraternity could consider him.

"We haven't discussed this idea enough to find out what advantages and disadvantages it might include," Shearer added; "but we definitely are considering the idea very strongly."

Commenting generally on the changes, Mr. Halsall said that "the committee hopes the shortened rush period will result in much less expense for the fraternities."

Shearer concurred with Mr. Halsall and added that "fewer weeks devoted to rush activities might help both freshmen and upperclassmen spend more time with academic responsibilities."

BILL LOEBLE
Managing Ed.

Side Comments

The Wrong People Keep Our Secrets

If the evidence of the Polish defector Michal Goleniewski is to be believed, we've been played for fools by the Communist spy organization. This defector says that there is hardly an agency of the United States at home or abroad which does not harbor at least one Communist agent. The F. B. I. is the only one clear of that charge.

The defector's story is substantiated at least partly by Washington sources which admit that Goleniewski has been feeding information on such situations for several years. Several arrests have been made as a result of the data provided.

It is possible that the subject is being expanded to the point where the truth is stretched, but even partial substantiation is upsetting. The question raised is how such agents worm their way into the heart of official secrecy.

The average American citizen who seeks employment in a classified category is investigated almost from the day of birth. What happens to the security procedures in these other cases? These people can hardly conceal their true purpose so completely. It might be possible in a few cases but not as a rule.

It's an unfortunate situation when the average loyal American is denied information because it's "top secret" while a wily foreign agent can get right to the heart of things. This situation tends to indicate that the American security system is strong in strong places and weak in weak spots.

The Campus Scene

Chapel Services

Dr. Joseph M. Gettys has announced the chapel services for the coming week.

On Monday a group of student players, under the direction of Mr. A. E. Brown, will present several skits.

Dr. Gettys wil talk to the student body on Wednesday about pre-registration procedures.

The annual Honors Day program will be given Friday. Guest of honor and speaker for the program is Dr. Bernard H. Boyd of the University of North Carolina.

Room Reservation

Mrs. Barbara Gallion, Secretary to the Dean of Students, has announced that the week of April 20-25 has been set aside for students to reserve the rooms they presently occupy.

"If a student should forget to reserve his room during this week, he loses his opportunity to have it next year," Mrs. Gallion said.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

VARSITY GRILL
HAS MOVED TO NEW H. Q.
ON WEST MAIN ST. BESIDE J. C. THOMAS
NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS
With The Same Fine Service

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

BROADWAY Theatre
Today-Saturday, April 16-18
ADVANCE TO THE REAR
The Zaniest Outfit of Misfits Ever
Glenn Ford, Stella Stevens, Melvyn Douglas Starts Monday, April 19
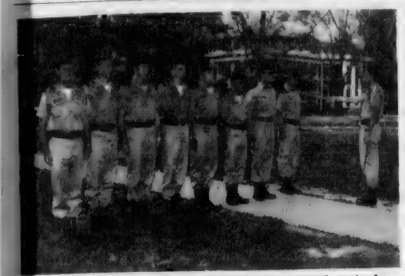
The Hilarious, Heartwarming Adventures of
CAPTAIN NEWMAN
Gregory Peck-Tony Curtis

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Do Your Spring Shopping at . . . Belk's



Complete Line of Spring and Summer
SHIRTS
2.99 and 3.99
New Shipments Arriving Daily

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College

Vol. XLII - No. 17 | Clinton, South Carolina, April 24, 1964 | Founded 1920

Nine outstanding junior ROTC cadets were tapped yesterday for membership in Scabbard and Blade. The cadets are, from the left, Bud Alford, George Sease, Jim Cape, Arthur Baxter, Dee Hodges, Arch Hudgens, Mack Cobb, Sherrod Rhodes, and K Company Commander of Scabbard and Blade, Captain Creighton Likes.—Photo by Yarborough.

Outstanding PC Students Honored; Dean's List Dinner Slated Tonight

ROTC Taps Nine Juniors

Nine rising seniors were tapped yesterday for membership in Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military organization.

Cadet Captain Creighton E. Likes, Jr., commander of K Company, 10th regiment of Scabbard and Blade, announced the new members at drill yesterday afternoon.

The cadets tapped were Arthur Baxter, Dee Hodges, Bud Alford, Bill Gillespie, Mack Cobb, Sherrod Rhodes, Arch Hudgens Jimmy Cape, and George Sease.

Juniors are tapped in the spring and a few seniors in the fall of the following year. "Members are chosen on the basis of character, interests in military science, ability to carry out orders, and overall military attributes," Captain Likes said.

Climaxing today's program spotlighting student achievement will be an address by Dr. Bernard H. Boyd of U. N. C. at this institution's Dean's List banquet tonight.

Academic Dean Joseph M. Gettys will preside at the annual banquet which honors students who have maintained a scholastic average of 3.2 or better for the last two semesters.

During a regularly scheduled chapel period, the student body and invited guests heard an address by Dr. Boyd and saw the conferring of honors on outstanding students.

Those students receiving Gold P's were Thomas Williams, Tom Currie, and Leon Bullard. Mr. Curry also received the outstanding Senior award and the American Legion Award.

To Marion Boozer went the Ministerial Club award, to Keith Robinson the Mendenhall award, and to Jim Owens the Frank Dudley Fund Award.

The Kappa Alpha Athletic Award went to senior Bill Tyson and the Chemical Rubber Company Awards went to sophomore Physics student Thomas Whitaker and frosh chemistry students James Bell and James Ritchie.

Leon Bullard received the Tau Phi Pi Award, and David Ramsey received the James M. Oeland Sophomore Science Award.

The Oeland English Award went to Miss Susan Gilbert.

Who's Who Certificates were given to the following students: Leon Bullard, Tom Currie, Hugh Harris, Janet Maddox, Arthur McQueen, Jim Owens, Robert Phifer, DuPont Smith, and Tommy Williams.

Amelia Nichols, G. Wardlaw, Sam Waters, and Tom Whitaker were presented sophomore Honor Society Certificates.

Those honored by membership in the Sigma Kappa Alpha, Senior Honor Society, were: Marion Boozer, Leon Bullard, Mrs. Fleda Chandler, Tom Currie, Henry Manning, and Jim Owens.

Dr. Gettys extended his congratulations to PC's outstanding students on their achievements.

Editor Gaston Announces New PaC-SaC Appointments

Bill Gaston, recently elected editor of the '64-'65 PaC-SaC, has announced the appointmnt of the heads of the various departments of the yearbook.

Assisting Gaston and Business Manager Sherrod Rhodes are John Sheffield, Associate Editor; Charles Jordan, Activities and Lay-Out Editor; Phillip Oimert, Fraternities Editor; Al Pearce, Athletic Editor; Bob Warren and Dick Wilkinson, Class Editors; Sandy Hagood and Bill Loeble, Caption Editors; G. Wardlaw, Photographer; and John Settle Military Editor.

In making the announcement Gaston stated, "It looks as if the PaC-SaC will have an experienced and hard working staff. Although the editors head each section, they need others to work under them.

"If anyone is interested in working under a particular editor or in a particular section, please contact that editor, John Sheffield, or myself. We are eager to complete our staff and to start thinking of the coming year."

Schedule Changed For Inauguration

The formal inauguration of Dr. Marc C. Weersing as president of this institution May 5, will result in several schedule changes, announced Dr. Joseph M. Gettys Wednesday.

Chapel will not be held on May 4. Students are invited to attend the inauguration ceremony for President Weersing at 2:45 p. m. on May 5.

Labs will not be held on May 5, but will be scheduled on Thursday, May 7, at 1:30 p. m.

Military drill will not be held on Thursday afternoon, May 7.

'64 Summer Session To Begin On June 8

Academic Dean Joseph M. Gettys has announced plans for the 1964 summer session.

The first term will begin June 8 and run through July 15. The second session will begin July 16 and end August 21.

Each term is five weeks long, and has classes scheduled for 8:00-9:50 and 10:30-12:20.

Compulete information and course schedules are available from the Dean's Office.

Oak Ridge Scientist To Address Students

Presbyterian College science enthusiasts will hear an address by Dr. Kurt A. Kraus, a leading scientist at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, next Monday at 7:30 p. m.

He will speak on "Desalination," the process of converting salt water into usable water, as a feature of the Oak Ridge Traveling Lecture series sponsored by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. The program appears at PC under the auspices of the chemistry department, headed by Dr. K. Nolon Carter, and the Tau Phi Pi Science Club. Other interested persons also are invited to attend the talk in the main lecture room of Jacobs Science building.

Dr. Kraus is a recognized authority in the field of ion exchange.

Chapel and Placement

Dr. Gettys has announced the chapel schedule for the coming week. On Monday, April 27, Mr. Charles E. Parrish from Rock Hill will speak to the student body.

Dr. Lewis Hay will conduct the mid-week worship services, and on Friday there will be a student devotional.

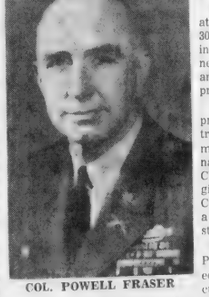
Mrs. Barbara Gallion announces that two representatives will be on the campus next week to talk with interested seniors.

A representative from the Boy Scouts of America will be in the library Monday to talk with students. He will begin interviews at 10:00.

Mr. Bass from the South Carolina Public Health Service will hold interviews in the library beginning at 9:30 Friday.

Col. Powell Fraser Retires; To Head Development Plans

Powell A. Fraser, a combat infantry officer who has sparked the Christian men's program among service troops, is retiring from the Army to return to Presbyterian College as development director, anounced President Marc C. Weersing yesterday.



President Weersing said the PC alumnus would join the staff next August 15 and immediately add his efforts to the long-range development of the college.

Col. Fraser presently serves as deputy director of army programs in the Pentagon. In this capacity, he directs the preparation of the army programs and personnel budget estimates to the office of the Secretary of Defense, Budget Bureau and Congressional Appropriations committee for the pay and allowances of all members of the active Army. He acted as Professor of Military Science here from 1947-50.

He has been in the Army since 1941 graduation from Presbyterian College. During his more than 600 days of World War II combat with the 127th Infantry, 32nd Division, in New Guinea and the Philippines, he won the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star and Bronze Star for herosim. He was also known as the officer who organized Bible study classes for the men under his command.

Remaining in the Army after the war, Fraser moved steadily up the ladder of rank, attended the various service schools, and saw service both in Europe and the Far East. Before returning to Washington in late 1962, he spent three years on Formosa as an adviser to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek with the Military Assistance Advisory Group.

Col. Fraser used every new assignment as a means of exerting religious influence within the armed forces. He was instrumental in the organization of the Protestant Men-of-the-Chapel program in Europe. He helped to establish a men's work program within the Formosan Presbyterian Church and promoted the first men's rally among the local churchmen of that island. He has twice addressed the Assembly-wide Men's Convention of the Presbyterian Church, US, representing the military services and sharing the rostrum with Billy Graham and other distinguished speakers. He is a former vice-president of the 200,000 member Assembly's Men's Council.

COL. POWELL FRASER

A native of Brunswick, Ga., Fraser entered Presbyterian College in 1937. He took a leading part in athletics and student YMCA activities, and received his BA degree in 1941. This June he will receive his MA in international affairs from George Washington University. Col. Fraser is married to the former Annelle McCall of Florence, and they have a 15-year-old son and 12-year-old daughter.

PC Giving Program Nears $20,000 Total

Gifts to the Presbyterian College annual giving program already have reached almost one-fourth of the record 1964 goal of $80,000, Alumni and Public Relations Director Ben Hay Hammet announced today.

He said the total now stands at $18,280 given by more than 300 alumni and friends of the institution. The program set a new record of $66,478 last year and aims for an increase of approximately 20 percent in 1964.

A breakdown of the $18,280 present total shows $14,625 contributed to the Living Endowment, with $3,590 of this designated for the Walter Johnson Club. Another $3,655 has been given directly to the Johnson Club, making the total for this alumni athletic organization stand at $7,245.

The annual giving program at Presbyterian College is composed of contributions made toward current operating expenses and does not include gifts to the development program for capital-fund purposes. In addition to the Johnson Club, the objectives are academic scholarships, the Neill G. Whitelaw scholarship, faculty salary increases and departmental improvements. A majority of the gifts, however, are given as unrestricted contributions to be used as the college deems best in underwriting current operating expenses.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager ..... Al Pearce
Managing Editor ..... Bill Loeble

Holy Saber Rattlers; A Practiced Paradox

ONE ALWAYS TREADS on soft ground when he applies the terms "liberal" and "conservative" to the various approaches to faith. This newspaper has been termed "liberal," and we choose to interpret this term as a willingness to see the entire problem of faith objectively.

AS WE EXPECTED from the outset, a good deal of criticism has been launched against our approach from within and without the campus situation.

THE CRITICISM has come from what we shall call the conservatives, and we label by this term all those who fail or refuse to consider all approaches to faith. On this campus and in this locale we view conservatives as those closer to fundamentalism.

WE DO NOT CONDEMN the conservatives. We do condemn those conservatives who would present their approach as the whole and singular one to faith. Their attempted censorship of other religious theories would appear invalid.

WHAT ARE THEIR GROUNDS for censorship of the more liberal approaches? Supposedly these conservatives have studied modern theology and after careful consideration have chosen their conservative beliefs. Supposedly these people have reaffirmed their faith by intelligently disproving the more liberal approach on the merits of the conservative view.

YET THE CONSERVATIVE CHOOSES to deny others this same experience. Often he gives the impressionability of youth as a reason for religious censorship. Perhaps, however, we impressionable youth are able, because of this trait, to see the various approaches to faith objectively. Perhaps the student is not frozen in self-created religious dogma.

THE CONSERVATIVE SEEMS to view this institution as a Christian fortress where, divorced from the world, the student would be "monastically Christianized." We can assure you, brother, that this is not reality, this is not Presbyterian College.

WE ASK YOU to strip off your robes and see the world. We ask you laymen to involve yourselves with life. Then tell us that you can annually arm graduates against a world of Protestants, Roman Catholics, Jews, Hindus, and atheists. No doubt you can win some and do so well. But only some . . . You assume too large a role for the role you actually play.

THE CONSERVATIVE MUST present his approach on its own merits. He must stop stupidly joining the windy Senator Strom Thurmond in giving the term "communist" to those he disagrees with. (They actually do this!)

SO FAR we have heard only the reactionary—the condemnation of liberals—from the conservative. Let us hear your positive side. It may be a question of your very preservation among the student audience.—Bob Allison..

A Real Premiere

DRAMA MADE its first real premiere on this campus, thanks to the efforts of Professors Gunn and Brown as well as those of many students, both on stage and behind the scenes.

WE HOPE that our administration will give drama all the aid and interested support possible.

THERE IS, and has been, a definite lack in cultural activities here. Let us do all we can to further this worthy activity.

A Successful Experiment In Drama

by WALTER WELLS

The three one-act plays that the Chapel Players presented were termed "their fourth experiment in drama." And judging by the applause at the end of each of the productions, it was a very successful experiment.

Although none of the actors in either of the plays demonstrated enough ability to make us think that he will be a big-name Broadway or off-Broadway star within the next five years, each of them carried his role rather well and conveyed to the audience the desired effect: amusement.

The first of the plays, "Suppressed Desires" by Susan Glaspell, was a humorous satire of present-day concern with psychoanalysis. We thought that it was fairly evident that not enough time had been devoted to rehearsal: lines were muffed often and delays for cueing were obvious.

However, Priscilla Roberts, Sylvia Summerville, and Alex Patrick were convincing enough in their roles to make the audience laugh and perhaps think about the reductio ad adsurdum et nauseum contemporary society has often made of psychology.

"The Trifget of Greva," translated from the Squinch by Ring Lardner, proved to be the funniest of the three plays of the day. Its humor lay not in the acting of Jim Bell, Brown Johnson, or Jim Loyd, but in a combination of the scenery and several of the completely ridiculous and the few risque lines.

George S. Kaufman's "If Men Played Cards as Women Do" proved to be satirical in tone also. There were few of us who could not visualize a ladies' bridge game with the same type characters present and remarks made.

Jim Loyd, Jim Bell, Mike Smith, and Hoppy Hopkins deserved the applause they received for their hilarious roletaking.

If our reading public will allow us to deviate briefly from the three specific plays given Monday, we would like to editorialize on the immediate past and the future of drama on the PC campus.

The Chapel Players were organized last year through the efforts of Mr. Wayne Gunn and several students. They received support from students and faculty members from the beginning, for there were few who did not realize the growing need for[a] type of creative outlet on [the] pus.

The group has enjoyed [pa]ticipation from a relati[ve] large percentage of the [stu]dent body, and the types [of] students who have helped [ei]ther by acting or with [pre]paring scenery, and assis[ta]generally backstage—have [al]ried greatly.

The presentations have [be]varied. We've seen plays [th]were symbolic and had "hid[den] meaning"; we've witnes[sed] plays that dealt directly [with] problems of existence; and [re]recently we've see actors [pre]sent farcical and satirical sket[ch]es of man and his little wo[rld]

These have entertained [us] helped solve some of [our] "chapel fatigue," and perhaps have made a few of us think.

But we wonder now about the future of drama on the campus. What forces will be present in year, or the year after that, to generate and maintain interest in drama as Professors Gu[nn] and Brown have done during [the] past two years?

No newspaper editor, [no] matter how dedicated or [de]ceited, can say that his paper and its editorials truly and [al]erringly reflect the opinions of his readers. But we think that it is the opinion of most PC students that drama should be maintained.

We hope that there is enough interest among our ranks to [as]sist that it is.

Past Editor Looks At Chapel Situation

by BOB PHIFER

For better or worse, chap[el] can be considered a sort of tw[en]tieth century version of the th[e]ater of Elizabethan Englan[d]. In that rude age a play had [to] be good, for the town folk we[re] for the most part simple peo[ple] somewhat lacking in breedin[g]. They wouldn't hesitate to bo[o] hiss, or throw vegetables if [a] play or the acting was poor.

The secret of a good pla[y] was that it had to say some[e]thing to the people. Granted, [a] play very often told them wh[at] they wanted to hear, but it [did] get something across, nev[er]theless.

Now our college studen[ts] while not necessarily being [a] ple or lacking breeding, [are] nonetheless often rude—snor[ing] and sleeping happily while so[me] drone hums on the stage. A[nd] one finds a certain unobject[ive] able poetic justice in this [re]sponse. The fact is that ofte[n] speakers don't have anything [to] say to the college students th[em]selves or that they can't get [it] across.

Of course, it is not to be den[ied] that students have a part in [the] arrangement too. Many of th[em] never give a speaker a chan[ce] But there is a note to be soun[ded] in favor of the students' actio[n] While we have a responsibility [in] chapel, we don't have it all [our] any means.

College students are peop[le] and they've got personal, ps[y]chological problems as [do] and as real as—and entire[ly] different from—any other ag[e] group. They haven't died in Suburbia yet and are still in the formative years.

Christianity has a tremendo[us] opportunity to do somethi[ng] among them. But it must de[al] with the realities and problem[s] at hand, not with abstractio[ns] and ramifications of Christi[an] theology.

This article has dealt with [a] (Continued on page 4)

BILL LOEBLE
Managing Ed.

Side Comments

Seeing Tomorrow Is Possible Today

When a company like General Motors looks five years ahead, then decides to risk two billion dollars on what it sees, we may rest assured it is not a reckless gamble.

Such decisions are made on the basis of research and development surveys which constitute one of the fastest-growing segments of American economy.

We see traces of this technique on our own campus in various facets. Research and development shines in various facets. Research and development shines in the campus expansion. It is present in the laboratories in vast experimentation. These are just two of many.

Outstanding among organizations conducting research and development is the Stanford Research Institute where the staff consists of 300 Ph.D.'s, 400 holding master's degree, 600 with bachelor's degrees and an additional 1,000 skilled technicians working on such varied matters as how to increase Hawaii's tourist trade or planning a meal for a three-man trip to the moon.

Research and development give American industry the vision to see tomorrow today. It is through proper use of research and development that we will be ready five years from now to capitalize on trends which today may be no more than lines in a graph at some research institute.

Speaking of Sports

with AL PEARCE

Thin, Small Lines Must Be Crossed In Some Cases

There is a small, thin, almost indiscernable line found in every rule book written. This line separates the hard-fast, unswerving rules of the game from the allowances that rightfully should be made under extenuating circumstances.

Usually sportsmanship, a sense of fair play and personal ethics determine whether or not this line will be crossed. The validity of an argument to cross the line—to make the allowances that rightfully, ethically should be made, or to remain on the unswerving, dogmatic path—should be the determining factor. On the third hole of the Hampton County Country Club last Saturday afternoon a valid reason was presented for crossing this line.

Sudden Death

The stage was set for the drama earlier that afternoon. After completing 36 holes in the State Intercollegiate Golf Tournament a winner was selected. That winner was Jackie Sewall, a University of South Carolina player. There was a three-way tie for the honored second place trophy. These three were Sandy Snead of South Carolina, Pat Harmon of Clemson, and Bill Kellam of Presbyterian. A play-off was necessary to select the runner-up. It was to be a sudden death match.

On the first hole of the play-off, pars were scored all around. Still a tie.

On the second hole all three golfers drove long to the right of the hard, packed green. Between the green and the three balls was a sand trap, and the trap was in a direct line with the pin. Since the grens were so hard a chip shot or an approach shot that would hit the green on the fly was out of the question. All three decided to putt through the sand trap and to try to keep their shot from going over the green.

Harmon and Snead weren't strong enough with their putt and both balls were in the trap. Kellam managed to putt through the trap and his shot stopped about 8 feet from the pin. Harmon and Snead then putted out of the trap, but had longer putts to the pin than Kellam. They were on the green in three, Kellam was on in two.

Four Inches . . .

Kellam then putted to within a foot of the cup. His ball was in direct line with the shot Snead was to make in his putt. Because of this Kellam was allowed to move his ball one putter head length to the right and spot it. This was so Snead would have an unobstructed shot for his par four. Harmon and Snead both putted, but neither sank it. Now the fatal error was made.

When Kellam approached his ball to putt on in for his par four and the win, he forgot to move his ball back to the left, to where it had been before he spotted it. He had placed his marker at the end of his putter head length, but had not re-spotted his ball in its original position. His putt for the par was good, and everyone thought Kellam had won the play-off, and the trophy.

There was no change at all in the distance to the cup from either location. The ball was merely putted from a different angle, with no distance alteration whatsoever. The four inches to the right could not have possibly aided, or harmed, Kellam's putt. But the Clemson team didn't see it that way.

Few Happy

Mike Dawes, a Clemson player, noticed the mistake. Harmon, the boy who had lost to Kellam, apparently hadn't seen the move. In fact, everyone thought Kellam had won, and the crowd was moving back towards the clubhouse for the awards presentation. Word was then received by the participants in the play-off that the final hole was being contested by Clemson. A discussion raged with everyone concerned. Most felt Kellam should have had it without question, and Sandy Snead of USC, the other boy Kellam would have defeated, said he felt Kellam should have it. For a while he refused to agree to another play-off hole, because even though it might give him a new chance, he felt Kellam was the winner. Not so with Clemson.

Another hole was played because the three were again tied. In this play Kellam was obviously upset at being robbed by Clemson, and he didn't play well. In the end Pat Harmon of Clemson was named the winner. This time it was official.

All or Nothing

The validity of when to cross that line was sound here. True, the rules called for a re-spotting of the ball where it had originally been. But U. S. Golfing Association Rules were not fully in effect here. Allowances had been made throughout the tournamennt in regards to improving of lies, to the moving of any ball in a position that was unplayable and similar situations. Why, then, should a player be deprived of his rightful honor by an inconsistency of rules?

Had this all happened on the first hole of the tournament, or had it happened when not so much was at stake, we feel the Clemson players would not have protested so vehemently. But here they displayed poor sportsmanship, no sense of fair play, and poor ethics. Kellam should have been the winner.

Bill Kellam played almost 13,500 yards of golf at Hampton last week-end. In the end was a four-inch margin of error that deprived him of the right to call himself the second-best college golfer at the event. We still feel he was.

PC Has Been Major Tennis Power In South For Over Three Decades

Presbyterian College's determined bid to recapture a missing State tennis title and the years of outstanding play and players are only 2 chapters in the fabulous story which is PC tennis.

The PC era, which has included 21 consecutive State titles a Davis Cup star, and a host of other nationally known letters, seems to be on the wane this week-end as PC made a strong, urgent bid for the title.

Too Tough For Most

A review of the records reveals that Presbyterian reached such a high level during the 1950's that Coach Jim Leighton often played only the fifth through eleventh men against opponents while the top four practiced among themselves on other courts. The Hose became so feared during that span that the state tourney was altered to include an invitational division which no PC player could enter, thus giving other contenders a chance to win.

Down Duke and UNC

Presbyterian soared into the national spotlight in 1954, upsetting powerful North Carolina, then whipping tough Duke twice in a row. Then came 1956 and a top record in this school's history. PC rolled to 18 victories —including a three-match sweep of the powers in the southeast United States —while dropping only three, all to Miami.

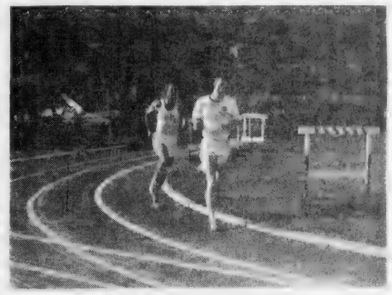
Reunion — Not Quite

The next year PC dropped the bomb on the national leaders from Miami, clipping the Hurricanes 5-4 and stopping a 72-match win streak. Miami slipped by PC twice that season, but the Blues finally left their mark. That Miami team, incidentally, was coached by Bill Lufler, who had lifted the Hose to greatness before Leighton took over. Lufler's netmen from Florida were shaken twice in 1958, but eked out 5-4 victories over PC.

PC's Greatest

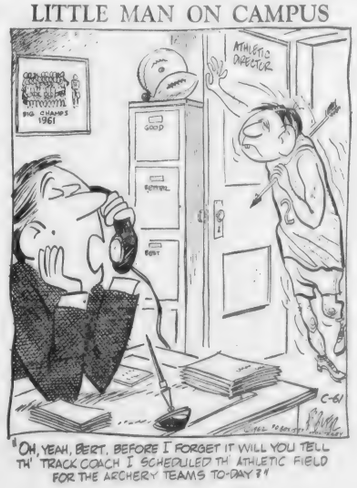
Perhaps the brightest point in Presbyterian's tennis history has been Allen Morris. While a student here, the Atlanta redhead blazed through four consecutive state singles championships, went through years of undefeated intercollegiate play, and upset several nationally ranked players.

The last two seasons have seen outstanding records compiled by the Blue Hose, these under present coach Gordon Warden. Although the scheduling during these springs has been among the most rugged PC has faced, the records were among the tops in the illustrious history of the PC dynasty.



Three Matches

By 1962, when Warden took over as head coach, the squad won 18 team matches and lost but five. Among those wins were thrilling matches with The Citadel, Florida State, Georgia, Alabama, Harvard, and Tennessee. The losses were suffered to the fabulous University of Miami, State champs Clemson, Princeton and the University of Georgia.



The Best Record

The next year the Hosemen compiled one of the best records in the history of tennis here. That season saw 18 wins recorded in a 21-match season. Again the Hose defeated Georgia, Duke, Clemson, Harvard, Florida state, and Rollins. Defeats were dealt out to PC by the University of Miami team, by Georgia in an early match, and by the ACC and national powerhouse University of North Carolina team.

With a record of 36 wins and only 8 defeats, most to national tennis powerhouses, PC's tennis in the last two years has been anything but poor. This season the schedule is beginning to tell, with only a 7-5 record going into the tournament.

SUCKING IT UP on the final turn of the two-mile run are PC's top distance runners. Monk Mulligan, in the lead, and Reggie Awtrey, close behind, came in one-two in the event at Wednesday's meet with Lenoir-Rhyne.—Photo by Yarborough.

Spring Sports Have Nine Events Slated

The Blue Hose baseballers, fresh from a 9-3 win over Belmont Abbey Thursday, began a two-game invasion of The Citadel Bulldogs today in Charleston.

The Hosemen faced the Cadets this afternoon, and have another date with the Bulldog nine tomorrow. They'll be gunning for victory number three, with six losses already marked up.

The win over Belmont Abbey Wednesday featured some timely hitting by the usually silent bats of the Presbyterians, and steady pitching by Jimmy Cape. PC crushed the Abbey in the first inning, scoring five runs after the first two men were out. Scooter Holcombe had the big blow—a home run in that inning.

The track squad and golf team also get into action Saturday. The cindermen will take part in the Davidson Relays at Davidson; and the golfers, boasting a 7-1 record, tackle Mercer at Macon.

The golf squad opens the spring slate next week against Belmont Abbey — whom they crushed 17-1 earlier at Gastonia, N. C.

Tuesday the tennis team entertains Georgia here in a tough match—probably one of the roughest tests of the season.

Wednesday's action will find the baseball team traveling to Erskine for a game, then moving to Greenville Thursday to face Furman. The track squad gets into the picture Thursday also, with a dual meet at Wofford.

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

The Kaleidoscope Players, a group of talented young actors, will be presented here May 6 in a production of G. Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion." They are shown here in a scene from the witty masterpiece, which will be the second in the Newton Gary Hardy Fine Arts Series.

Kaleidoscope Players Star In Comedy by Bernard Shaw

"Androcles and the Lion," Bernard Shaw's witty masterpiece, is now fifty years old, although the story itself is legendary. An unusual revival of the comedy classic will be presented at PC on May 6 by Kaleidoscope Players, currently on their fifth tour of twenty states.

The story is told that Shaw was in the audience of a performance of Barrie's play "Peter Pan," and mocked it, saying that he could write a much better children's play.

What he came up with was "Androcles and the Lion," which, as history confirms, is not a children's play. But there is much comedy in the story of the little Greek tailor and his friendship with the Lion that is universal in its appeal to persons of all ages.

Shaw, in notes to the play, says that he wrote it to present a picture of what all persecutions are: "An attempt to suppress a propaganda that seemed to threaten the interests involved in the established law and order." One literary critic has written of the play that "this is Shaw at perfection, not only as philosopher but as comedian."

Kaleidoscope Players are a group of talented young actors, most of whom hold master's degrees in speech, drama or oral interpretation.

They are dedicated to the presentation of the theatrically unusual, which will be witnessed here in their unique production of "Androcles." Their past successful tours have included almost every state east of the Rockies.

The current tour is being sponsored by the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges and is the second program in the Newton Bary Hardy Fine Arts Series.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY-SATURDAY NIGHT
CAPTAIN NEWMAN
Gregory Peck, Tony Curtis
Angie Dickinson

SATURDAY AFTERNOON
JERRY LEWIS in
THE ERRAND BOY

MON.-TUES., APRIL 27-28
SEAN FLYNN (son of Errol Flynn) as THE SON OF CAPTAIN BLOOD
With Ann Todd
EXTRA ATTRACTION!
THE BEATLES COME TO TOWN

STARTS WED., APRIL 29
MOVE OVER, DARLING
Doris Day, James Garner
Polly Bergen

'Move Over Darling' Coming To Clinton

by CHARLIE JORDAN

20th Century-Fox's comedy of marital mix-ups, "Move Over, Darling," has as its leading stars Doris Day and James Garner. These two teamed together for the second time add Polly Bergen to their troubles. She definitely adds a glamorous side to the humorous triangle.

"Move Over, Darling" is a story about a man who marries a lovely young woman and arrives at his honeymoon hotel to see in the lobby his first wife who had been declared legally dead since she disappeared five years earlier in a plane crash.

The rest of the movie brings to the screen equally startling scenes and provides two hours of fun-filled entertainment.

Campus Positions Available For Fall

Col. A. J. Thackston, Dean of Students, has announced that students interested in being dorm proctors, Douglas House proctors, or study hall proctor should apply to him in writing before May 15.

The positions are open to juniors and seniors who have a "reasonably good academic standing and who have a real desire to help the college."

Students who are presently serving as proctors and would like to be considered for the positions again next year should also apply in writing.

The administration is also considering chapel checkers for next year. Those who are interested in performing this duty are requested also to apply in writing before May 15 requesting such a job.

A further student position that will be open for application is that of car checker. Volunteers should apply to Col. Thackston before May 15.

All decisions on student jobs will be made during the summer and the students who are chosen will be notified before September.

Complete information on all of the positions that will be open next year is available from Mrs. Barbara Gallion, Secretary to Col. Thackston.

Chapel Revisited

(Continued from page 2)

ligious speakers, but since they constitute the majority of the speakers at the college this emphasis is appropriate. The same thing holds for any other kind of speaker, of course. One has only to remember the thundering ovation given John Ciardi to see what response a speaker can bring. Ciardi is a good example of the need for speaking abilities. His subject was poetry, something not usually screamingly interesting to PC students, but he had a message and he got it across.

Thus, our chapel is seen as a sort of voluntary critic whose boos are closed eyes and open books. Its worth should be upheld. It's frank and honest, how be it ever painful, and it should be considered a rod for a speaker to measure himself by.

So we'll never say too much against those sleepers and readers and will often be prone to smile inwardly in agreement with them, if, in fact, we don't join them.

WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

Plans for Greek Weekend, May 8 and 9, have been made by most of the fraternities. Since the weekend will see the final big parties of the year and will be the last for seniors, it will probably be one of the best of the year.

The PiKA's reported that they are planning a Roman Holiday. All of their parties will be held at the Greenwood Shrine Club on Lake Greenwood.

Friday night the Sepers will play for them, and Saturday afternoon and night Dell and the Delhearts will provide the music.

The KA's are planning a party at Lake Greenwood Saturday afternoon, and also the Theta Chi's.

The Theta Chi's report that Red Carnation Weekend, which was held last weekend, was a great success.

The Alpha Sig's are formulating plans for the formal initiation of their pledges into brotherhood prior to Greek Weekend.

Bill Gaston, a PiKA, was elected editor of the PaC-SaC and Sherrod Rhodes, a Sigma Nu, was named Business Manager of the annual.

Saturday, May 2, the PiKA's are planning a softball game with their dates, and that night a record party will be held in the fraternity suite.

On last Saturday the KA's held the annual meeting of Grave Province. Representatives from the chapters at Wofford, Furman and the University of South Carolina were here for the meeting. The Province is composed of the KA chapters in the state.

Tuesday night the newly elected officers of Kappa Alpha were installed. John Sheffield, new No. 1, will head the local chapter next year.

The PiKA's made it known this week that Brother Tommy Hearon, a rising senior, has pinned Miss Faye Hayes of Winnsboro.

Brothers of the week are, for the Alpha Sigs, Jim Stanford, and for the PiKA's, Tommy Hearon, Ronnie Morris, Phillip Olmert, George Davenport, and Bill Gaston.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

Do Your Spring Shopping at . . .
Belk's

Complete Line of Spring and Summer
SHIRTS
2.99 and 3.99
New Shipments Arriving Daily

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College

Vol. XLII - No. 18 | Clinton, South Carolina, May 1, 1964 | Founded 1920

PC To Install Dr. Weersing Tuesday

Presbyterian College will officially install Dr. Marc Calvin Weersing as its 14th president with inauguration ceremonies to be held next Tuesday afternoon.

Several hundred visiting delegates and special guests are expected to join the PC student body, alumni and others for this historic occasion. Clinton residents also are invited to attend the 2:45 p. m. inaugural program in Belk auditorium.

The main address will be delivered by Dr. Frank Rose, president of the University of Alabama. Other program participants will include.

Dr. J. McDowell Richards, president of Columbia Theological Seminary; the Rev. John B. Evans, executive director of the division of higher education, Presbyterian Church, US; Robert M. Vance, Clinton banker-industrialist who serves as chairman of the board of trustees.

Also Dr. Van M. Arnold, pastor of the Evergreen Presbyterian Church of Memphis, Tenn.; the Rev. B. Herman Dillard, pastor of the Newnan (Ga.) Presbyterian Church; Dean Joseph M. Gettys; and the PC robed choir under the direction of Dr. Edouard Patte.

Registration is scheduled to begin at 11:00 a. m. in the Douglas House. It will be followed by the inaugural luncheon for delegates and special guests at 12:45 p. m.

The academic procession—to include delegates from other colleges and the PC faculty in robes, and the college boards of trustees and visitors in business suits—will assemble at 2:15 p. m. in the library building. The procession is scheduled to move out from this point shortly before 2:45 p. m. and march across the plaza into the auditorium to start the program.

Leading the procession will be four top-honor students serving as marshals. They are: Marion B. Boozer of Gaffney, representing the senior class; Hubert G. Wardlaw, Jr., of Kingstree, junior class; Amelia Nichols, of Clinton, sophomore class; and Susan Helen Gilbert of Blakely Ga., freshman class.

The marshals will be followed in order by the platform participants, the delegates according to the date of founding of their institutions, members of the boards of trustees and visitors, and the PC faculty.

1963.

A reception at the home of President and Mrs. Weersing is to follow the inaugural program. It is set for 4:15 p. m., and persons attending the previous ceremonies are invited to attend.

Dr. Weersing assumed his duties as president of Presbyterian College last August. He came from the pastorate of the Spartanburg First Presbyterian Church to succeed Dr. Marshall W. Brown.

During his 25 years as a pastor, Marc Weersing became recognized as one of the outstanding ministers of the Presbyterian Church, US. He served as pastor of the Spartanburg Church, South Carolinas' largest Presbyterian congregation, from 1955 until 1963.

Prior to that he had held pastorates in Jackson, Miss., Decatur, Ga., and Elberton, Ga. He has held positions of leadership in the work of the General Assembly and of the synods in which he has served, and he was a trustee of PC for seven years prior to accepting the presidency.

Dr. Weersing is married to the former Jean Barry Adams of Charlotte, and they have a son and daughter.

Council Nominations Held On Wednesday

Nominations for the student council officers of 1964-65 were announced Wednesday by Gary Crawford, secretary-treasurer of the Council. Senior nominees running for three positions are Gary Crawford, Jimmy Cape, Gary Mike Smith, Bill Megathlin, Dee Hodges, and Sherrod Rhodes.

David Davies, Dave Dunlap, Mike Smith, Doug Allen, and Henry Lovett will vie for three junior positions.

Two sophomore openings will be filled from the following nominees: Roy Squires, Bob Warren, Bruce Laurence, Christy Patterson, and Bob Herlong.

On Wednesday, May 6, the student body will vote on the above. The following Monday, those seniors chosen to vie for president will present their campaign platforms in chapel. The positions of president, vice-president, and senior rereserentative will be decided in an election Wednesday, May 13.

Taylor Announces Knapsack Positions

The new editor of the Knapsack was officially announced this week by the Student Christian Association. Dan Taylor, a rising junior from Atlanta, Ga., will head the staff for next year.

Taylor chose the following for the staff next year: Al Pearce, Sports; Mike Smith, Military and Fraternities; Larry Preston, Activities and S. C. A.; Peyton Carter, Photographer; and Robert Stack, Typist.

The Knapsack, which is the "Bible" by which freshmen orient themselves to Presbyterian College, contains all the facts and rules new students need to know in order to get acquainted with PC.

S. C. A. President Ike Cobb said that he felt sure that the 64-65 Knapsack staff under the direction of Taylor will produce

(Continued on page 5)

The widely-traveled and popular Kaleidoscope Players here probe a difficult problem following a rehearsal for their current production, "Androcles and the Lion." The unusual comedy will be presented here at Presbyterian College on Wednesday. A tour of several campuses is being sponsord by the Association of American Colleges.

Mathematician And Author Visited Campus On Tuesday

Dr. John T. Moore, a noted mathematician and author of math text books, was a visitor to the home of Mr. William S. Cannon and to the PC campus this past Tuesday.

Dr. Moore, associate professor of mathematics at the University of Florida, was returning to Gainesville from the University of Western Ontario, where he just finished as visiting lecturer in math for six months.

A long-time friend of Mr. Cannon of the math department, Dr. Moore made his customary visit here on the way back to Florida. Mr. Cannon met and became a close friend of Dr. Moore's while working on his masters degree at Florida in the early fifties.

Dr. Moore is the author of four math text books, the most recent being Modern Algebra with Trigonometry, published this spring. The book is the text that will be used in Mathematics 103 beginning this summer.

Two members of the PC math department, Mr. Cannon and Mr. Paul Campbell, played a part in the publication of this last book.

Dr. Moore, who teaches only graduate and advanced undergraduate courses at Florida, wanted freshman math teachers to read his manuscript and work the problems and then make suggestions for revisions or improvements.

He chose to ask Professors Cannon and Campbell to help him with the work.

After reading the manuscript the PC department decided to adopt the book for use in the course which will be required of all entering freshmen next year.

In describing the text, Dr. Moore said that the subject is the same traditional mathematics but is presented with a dif

(Continued on page 6)

Smyth Renovation Planned, $100,000 Alloted Project

Complete interior renovation of Smyth Dormitory will be done this summer, business manager G. Edward Campbell has announced.

Mr. Campbell said that plans call for work to begin in the early summer and to be completed by the beginning of the fall semester. A total of $100,000 is expected to be put into the project.

The improvements planned include lowering the ceiling with acoustic tile, building steel, fireproof stair-wells, laying tile floors, and installing new doors. A sprinkling fire-prevention system will also be installed.

New baths will be furnished, using the same shower stalls. New steam traps, valves, and an outside-inside thermostat control system is another feature. The walls will be covered with a vinyl coating also.

The wiring system will also be completely redone and will include outlets for student-furnished air conditioning in each room.

Plans are now being worked out to improve the exterior appearance of the building also.

The project grew out of a board of trustees meeting upon recommendation by the administration.

Smyth has served over one-half of the resident students during the years 1925-1954. From 1954 until today one-half of the student body is housed in Smyth —144 students during the regular semester.

Mr. Campbell states that it will always be a major building at PC. He says that it is structurally sound but needs renovation immediately.

Smyth is named in honor of Rev. Thomas Smyth, a noted Presbyterian author and scientist who served as minister to the Second Presbyterian Church in Charleston for over forty years.

His son, Captain Ellison A. Smyth, appropriated the initial gift for the building.

As an added highlight to Greek week-end, the Eemory Women's Chorale wil present a concert in Belk Auditorium Friday, May 8, at 8:00 p. m.

The Presidency...

THE YEAR was nineteen forty-five, and Presbyterian College was mustering all its strength to stay above water in the wake that followed a world-wide war. The times demanded leadership, and an academic dean with sixteen years of experience on this campus met the challenge.

THERE WAS NEITHER time nor money for an inauguration ceremony as Dr. Marshall Brown stepped into the presidency of this institution. Only six months earlier the college had completed preliminary training of sixteen hundred air force pilots in a brief span of sixteen months.

FROM THE LEAN AND HUNGRY post-war years Dr. Brown carried Presbyterian College across a new threshold into the challenge of space age education. His administration tripled the endowment, and under constant momentum changed the face of this campus with the addition of a new men's dormitory, student center, auditorium, and expanded campus.

UPON HIS RETIREMENT, August first, nineteen sixty-three, Marshall Brown left a legacy that represented eighteen and a half years of constant advancement. His successor was to assume the presidency of an institution with realized goals and a formula for the future.

TODAY WE FACE a future in a world where impossibilities are nonexistent, old ways are obsolete, and new ways are new but for a moment. An age measured in action, not in time, heralds a destiny only for those who dare to look forward—forward with a perception capable of surfacing the hidden meanings of an intricate twentieth century.

THE SEAT OF HIGHER LEARNING in its traditional role of producing the leaders who surrogate mankind holds a position of acute responsibility in our rapidly advancing age. Accordingly, the Christian college by its very nature must mold itself into the context of a predominantly non-Christian world.

IT MUST PACE ITSELF with the surge of a sputnik-effected academic revolution, but it must also progress within the scope of Christianity without alienating the various factions within its particular doctrine.

IN MEETING THIS CHALLENGE the presidency once again will claim a new heir—an heir not only to a title, but to the responsibility and guardianship of an idea conceived more than three quarters of a century ago. On Tuesday Marc C. Weersing will be formally inaugurated as the fifteenth president of Presbyterian College.

TO KNOW DR. WEERSING is to feel secure in his selection. As the challenges of the future and the mandates of the presidency confront him, he will usher this institution into a new era of academic and religious attainment.

WE SHOULD LIKE TO EXTEND our congratulations and best wishes to Dr. Weersing and would encourage our students to join in the celebration of his inauguration.—Bob Allison.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager ..... Al Pearce
Managing Editor ..... Bill Loeble
Assistant News Editor ..... Dave Veneklasen
Sports Editors ..... Al Pearce, Glen Browder
Feature Editor ..... Gary Crawford
Activities Editor ..... Larry Preston
Greek Editor ..... Alex Patrick
Associate Editors ..... Jimmy Simpson, Woody Merrit
Cartoonist ..... Tom Leland
Photographer ..... G. Wardlaw
Editorial Assistants ..... Raymond Summerlin, Charlie Jordan, Steve Watson
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, Susan Gilbert, Tim Grey, Bryson Rousey, Steve Knoche, David Knowlton, John Jones, Joe Stevens.
Feature Staff ..... Dupont Smith, Ike Cobb, John Sheffield, Alex Patrick, Jimmy Stewart, Jan Rhodes.
Business Staff ..... Brad Campbell, David Davies, Benny Hurley, Wiley Jones, Gary Michael Smith.
Sports Staff ..... Ed Henderson, Hugh Shutte, Gary Smith

In Defense of the Coeds

by THE COEDS

Lately, everyone's been defending something: fraternities, fraternity houses, rush, and of course, tennis. Being the most trounced upon of PC society we coeds have decided to defend ourselves. Even you boys are quick to agree that we lead a rough life here. You should know; you dish it out! Most of us never mind too much, for we are hearty souls and up to the game. However, of late there seems to be growing alarm around the male section of campus that more of us will effect all sorts of terrible results. We don't agree—we think it's a fine idea (and what did you expect us to think?)

It's common knowledge that God made Eve after Adam and that she's been after him ever since. However, we maintain that we do far less chasing than you boys do; after all, it's made legal for us every four years and most of the time we're the served young ladies. It's the natural state of affairs for men and women to be together and you can't blame a woman for trying for after all, you guys are in the minority. We're not writing to argue who chases whom, but to give our side of the argument.

One of the first arguments against having more women on this campus is that they cause DISTRACTION! Gee, now isn't that too bad. If you can resist this tough temptation, why, it'll make a man of you, son! And it's untainted seclusion you want, did you ever consider a monastery?

We also hear that on coeducational campuses there is a high marital rate among the students. With the increase in skirts here there is the immediate implication that the rate will rise at PC. Ah, but we told you it was a natural state of affairs and apparently some still believe in making it a permanent one.

There is also the circulating fear that with more girls coming, the prestige which PC enjoys as a highly academic men's college (which it actually isn't a purely men's college, nor ever has been) will drop into oblivion. PC, they say, is to become a small, unheard-of church school and to suffer the fate of Erskine. But we all know that when a girl has a good thing going, he's not going to be sharing it. Maybe you don't hear about Erskine because they aren't interested in your hearing about it.

We've saved what we feel is the most ridiculous complaint against us for last. It has been brought to our attention that it is going to cost a tremendous amount of money to feminitize this school. Not only will new dorms have to be built and more facilities made available but also the faculty will have to be increased, maybe with more consideration given to quantity rather than to quality. Here we agree with you one hundred per cent; but man, did you ever meet a woman who didn't cost you money?

Viva la femme fatale, and God help you, men!

Greeks Editor Tries Hand At Playing Party Politics

by ALEX PATRICK

Much has been said and written lately concerning who will be the candidates for the two political parties in the national election next year. With the increase in political activity in both parties as the time grows shorter, it would seem quite appropriate to organize on this campus a Young Democratic and a Young Republican Party.

Both parties are very active in student activities throughout the state, and there seems a definite interest to organize these student clubs on our campus. A number of other schools in South Carolina have already organized such clubs and are now actively participating in their parties' youth activities.

These two organizations would help to bring the national campaign into a clear relationship with the students here on campus. They could sponsor speakers either in chapel or outside to present their parties' platform to the students.

Those students interested in belonging to a Young Republicans Club are asked to contact either Ruddy Deas or Alex Patrick. No formal plans have been made to organize such a club but plans are being made to draw them up before the end of this year so that it can be active next year. To achieve the desired results a Young Democrats club should also be formed.

These organizations would give their members a chance to actively participate in the election and to air and express their political opinions with other students.

Newman A Success In Thrilling 'Prize'

Very seldom is a movie able to boast the three-fold dimensions of a thrilling suspense, exciting love, and sophisticated comedy; but such a movie is "The Prize" with Paul Newman, Edward G. Robinson, and the beautiful European actress Elke Sommer taking the leading roles.

Based on the best-selling novel by Irving Wallace, "The Prize" was filmed against the arresting backdrops of Stockholm, Sweden. "The Prize" concerns a young American novelist who comes to Stockholm to accept a Nobel Prize and walks into murderous danger and an uninhibited love affair.

Paul Newman portrays this young writer who has one life open for a martini and the other for a pretty girl in such a dashing fashion that his performance will linger as long in memory as the daring young Texan—"Hud."—By Charlie Jordan.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

The newly-elected officers for the Inter-Fraternity Council for next year have been announced. Robert Elrod was elected President, Don Mucci, Vice-President, Pat Brown, Secretary, and Phil Goldsmith will serve as Treasurer.

The Alpha Sigma Phi's announced their plans for Greek Week-end. Friday evening from 8:30 to 12:00 they will be at the Laurens Country Club. Saturday afternoon and evening they will be at Lake Greenwood with a Juke box. All the parties are to be attended by invitation only.

The KA's and Theta Chi's will have a joint party at the Laurens Shrine Club Saturday afternoon with Moses and His Five Disciples. Saturday night the Theta Chi's will be at the Red Robin Restaurant from 8:00 to 12:00 The KA's will be in their house Saturday night with the Continentals.

The new officers for Sigma Nu are Ed Clowdis, commander; Garnet Welch, lieutenant commander; Robert Stack, treasurer; John Settle, recorder; Sherrod Rhodes, chaplain; and Jim Settle will serve as reporter.

Brother of the week for Alpha Sigs is Arthur Baxter.

The Sigs are planning to have a record party Friday night at their house, and Saturday they will be at Lake Greenwood.

Side Comments

BILL LOEBLE
Managing Ed.

The O.D. and C.Q.— An Academic Issue

The academic step-up hit hard this year and the student has gradually become acclimated to this increased pressure.

Just as we must proportion more of our free time to what is, of necessity, more hours of study, we feel that something should also be done to remove a seemingly purposeless student function.

Each freshman and sophomore ROTC student must give up two to four days a year to perform the duties of charge of quarters and officer of the day.

These two students deliver messages for the administration, answer phone calls for the military department, raise and lower the flag, and in general play errand boys.

The loss of class time by the CQ and OD contradicts speeches urging harder study and letters from the registrar demanding more academic emphasis.

The absence commitee has cracked down on approval of what were once excused absences, and cuts are frowned upon more than ever before. Yet excused absences are given for this duty that affords the student nothing but an academic loss.

We pay close to $1,400 per year for an education and not only are we required to miss the classes we are, in effect, paying for, but we must also suffer the loss of time required in catching up on lost lectures.

Would it not be possible for the administration to hire an office boy of the $1.00-an-hour variety? The military department has intimated that while they are not responsible for the school flag they could possibly continue this service within the structure of their own personnel.

A high official in our administration who has been connected with the college for a number of years said that the messenger system was here when he came to PC and that, to his knowledge, no one had really ever questioned it.

Members of the military department also found the CQ and OD duties an established fact upon receiving their tours of duty here.

The officer contacted said that he was unfamiliar with this student function elsewhere, that is was no part of written ROTC procedure, but was merely a service that the military provides to the school.

He continued by noting that while the military department does not need the CQ and OD, it is a service that they are happy to provide to the school.

No one seems really "dead set" about retaining these duties. The question has been posed, and we hope someone in the higher ranks will champion our cause.

Nation's Top Businessmen Produced By Few Schools

CHICAGO (CPS)—A handful of the nation's colleges and universities produce most of the nation's top business leaders, a recent survey reported.

The survey, conducted by Stewart Howe Services, a college fund-raising publicity organization, found that 50 of this country's 2100 accredited colleges and universities produce 70 per cent of the presidents and board chairmen of the nation's 750 top corporations.

Of the 80 per cent of the 750 executives who went to college, 60 per cent of these attended a Big Ten university, one of the eight Ivy League universities, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Stanford University or the University of Chicago.

"This indicates a sort of elite who produce top executives," Carroll Lurding, who made the study, said.

Yale University leads all institutions with 85 top executives who said they "attended" it. "This does not necesarily mean all executives graduated," Lurding pointed out.

Harvard rated second with 53 executives, Princeton third with 44, the University of Michigan fourth with 37 and Cornell fifth with 34. Twenty-nine attended the University of Illinois, two more than MIT.

The University of Chicago placed 14th with 14 executives. "However," Lurding said, "most attended before or after Robert M. Hutchins, who emphasized culture more than business, was chancellor."

The study also found that 73 per cent of executives who went to college belonged to fraternities, while fraternity men compose less than 25 per cent of the student body.

SCA Head Outlines Plans For 64-65

by IKE COBB

Many of us in the student body envision needed changes and improvements in all phases of activity here on our campus for 1964-65.

A revised constitution should be presented for student body approval by the Student Council some time next year.

The I. F. C. has studied and sought out the best possible procedure for shortening the rush program next year.

The Freshman Control Board will probably make some revisions for a more effective rat season.

Intramurals, under the leadership of Coach Warden, have become increasingly stronger and remain as one of the extra-curricular activities.

In keeping with the transition being made, and the high aspirations set by these organizations, the S. C. A. has planned a program for next year designed to include the entire student body in its activities and in its projects.

In the past, R. E. Week programs have been geared either toward conservatism or toward liberalism. These have injected enough spice to arouse our defunctory minds, and yet they have not been fiery enough to cause a revolution from the conservatives. There have been conservatives who have not aroused anyone, even the lightest of somnivolents in chapel.

These programs have perhaps appeased some of the liberals some of the time or none of the conservatives all of the time. Our program next year will not be designed to appease any group. Our plans call for a program geared at the heart of the problems and interests of college students.

The S. C. A. is not a secret organization that comes out of hiding during R. E. Week each year. We will conduct a thorough freshman orientation, and promise a most lively freshman picnic next fall. Other projects will be announced at the beginning of the fall semester.

The S. C. A. is an organization with the purpose of creating sound attitudes and developing well-rounded personalities that will enable us to see that the purpose of our being here for four years is not only to learn how to make a living, but had to make a life. We ask for your support and your confidence as we undertake new projects for next year.

The spring picnic will be held May 20 at Camp Fellowship. Fraternities have been asked to present some form of group entertainment in the traditional fraternity sing. The sports activities for the afternoon will be under the leadership and direction of Coaches Hagood and Bankhead. The students, faculty, and the administration are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Gunn Discusses PC's Drama Program

To the Editors:

Thank you for your compliments on thet total program the chapel players have given these two years. Indeed those students who worked on each experiment deserve praise and high recognition.

Although the audience has been aware of the fact that time and work lay behind each, only those involved know the pure agony and sweat and the intense desire to do well that carried each one along. And the plays were not merely a matter of actors upon the stage, they were also a product of the unsung stagehands who worked as earnestly backstage without applause.

Especially I would like to thank those pioneers who willingly worked long hours on "Hello Out There" at a time when none of us, neither actors nor stagehands nor director, knew fully just what we could do here.

The audience too deserves respect. It has been the most responsive one I have encountered, and without their enthusiasm nothing would have been given this year. I hope the interest and desire will not die next year; student reaction clearly indicates, I think, that there is a place for dramatic expression on the campus now.

But there must be a director for the program if it is to exist. Like you, I hope the administration will do something to assure its continuation; it is needed.

Sincerely,
WAYNE GUNN

EDITOR'S NOTE:

We learned from the administration today that efforts are being made to acquire a professor in speech and drama. They hope to fill this office within the next two years.

Shaw's 'Androcles' Presents Unusal View Of Religion

by WALTER WELLS

The Kaleidoscope Players, a nationally-famous professional acting company, will present G. B. Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" for the PC student body on Wednesday.

The play, which critics have called "one of Shaw's witty masterpieces of comedy," will be given as the second program in the Newton Gary Hardy Fine Arts Series.

Shaw has been called many things and indeed was a socialist, a preacher of a peculiar evolutionary religion, and a propagandist for a socialistic Christianity.

The dramatist held beliefs about Christianity that might be considered unorthodox. He thought that the religion as it is practiced and preached contains many errors and that these errors should be corrected through exposure.

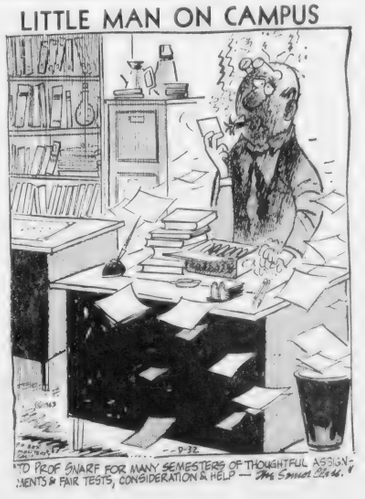
Religion, he believed, is for everyone; it is not a mystic and enigmatic doctrine that comes only to a few through divine revelation.

"Androcles" answers none of the problems involved with religion in general and with Christianity specifically. It merely presents different views and leaves it to the audience to make the decision and answer the questions.

The play shows essentially a conflict between passive and active Christianity. Shaw is on the side of the active Christian but does not condemn the passive one.

Instead, he demonstrates the danger involved in passive religion. It can easily degenerate, he says, and become only a Limbotic existence in which the Christian does not think, act, or feel.

He wants Christians to get back to the essence of the religion, back to Christ, who Shaw says was not a pious lamb but an active man who drove the money changers out of the temple, who consorted with thieves, prostitutes, and gamblers.



He wants the Christian to strip away the empty rituals and keep only those that have meaning.

The difficulty with Shaw's plays lies in the relation between the ideal and the real.

The high purpose of the idealist should be linked to the power of fact and possibility and not isolated as pure theory and belief.

The famous Shavian Superman, whom Shaw borrowed and adapted from the philosopher Nietzshe, arrives when the character integrates and relates the ideal and the real, when he evolves from these two extremes a workable force.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Speaking of Sports

with GLEN BROWDER

Two Point Loss; Baseball Woes; Winners Named

Far Below Average

A standing-room-only crowd of 23 students, townspeople and players saw PC lose the South Carolina Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament on two points last Saturday afternoon.

Those brave souls fought the cold, wind and rain about 2 o'clock to see the delayed finals. By the end of the last match, the crowd had swelled to 46 persons.

I served as official scorer for that number-one doubles contest, which was stopped by rain Friday with Clemson leading 5-4 in the second set. Saturday I climbed up into the scorer's chair, prepared the scoring card, and waited while the four contestants went through their strenuous warm-up exercises.

Didn't Take Long

The score started at deuce. PC served, Clemson returned, PC hit the ball into the net. PC served again, Clemson returned again, PC hit the ball long. Two points and it was all over for the Blue Hose.

Baseball No Surprise

It's just about all over for the PC baseballers too, with only three games left in the season. It's been a long year for these Hosemen, with only two wins in nine games. Actually, not too much could be expected of them. They started out with little experience and less stick power. It was about the same story last year, but they hustled and got the breaks. They've had few breaks and no luck this year.

Out On That Limb

Speaking of baseball, it's time to make some predictions on the major league races. I don't really know much about the young players on the clubs, but sports writers are supposed to make predictions. In the National League, the writers pick the L. A. Dodgers, but all the players pick the San Francisco Giants. I see a fight between these two, with the St. Louis Cardinals as a dark horse.

In the American League the pre-season releases say watch out for the Detroit Tigers. That's what they say every year and every year the Tigers fold up and die. I'd like to pick the Chicago White Sox but the New York Yankees seem to have predestination in their favor.

Dubious Honors Given

Everybody gives some kind of awards so now the Blue Stocking makes its presentations in the Dubious Honor Category. The following prize winners were selected not by this writer alone, but by a carefully selected committee consisting of anybody who happened to come in the Blue Stocking office Wednesday night.

Here they are.

Playboy Award—Jackie Nix
"Day In Court" Award—Low Butte
White Man of the Year—Mr. Halsall
Midas Muffler Award—Gordon "Fireball" Adam
Cook of the Year—Peter Pan
Most Inspiring Chapel Speaker of the Year—Dealer Smith
Vacationists of the Year—Jimmy Bankhead and Dave Dunlap
Golden Frankfurter Award—Pete Collins
Biggest Drinker of the Year—Shared by 337 males, 2 coeds and 2 professors.
Most Popular Move of the Year—Closing of the T. V. Lounge in Bailey.
Most Outstanding Nose of the Year—Bill Loeoble.
All-Round Neatest Student—Randy McCranie
Good Guy of the Year—Alvin Coley
Most Popular Douglas House Personality—Floyd
Best Friend of the Rifle Team—Randy Fitzpatrick
Safe Driver Award—Shared by Alvin Coley and Ed Ellington
Most Athletic Freshman—Glen Martin
Most Scholarly Athlete—This prize will not be offered due to a lack of applicants.
Best 153-Pound, Blond-Haired, Sophomore, No. 1 Tennis Player at PC—Bob Harris.
Miscalculator of the Year—Bill Kellam
Most Efficient Janitor of the Year—Lowbutte
Arsonists of the Year—John Sheffield and John White
Smokey Bear Award—Hoppy Hopkins
Rabies Award—George Lewis
Fuzz Award—Brownie Lowry
Politician of the Year—Paul Conger
Father of the Year—Mr. Glover
Senior of the Year—Tom Estes
Most Likely To Be a Senior Next Year—Tom Estes
Fred's Out Citation—Al Coley

Final Week of PC's Spring Sports Features Baseball, Golf, Tennis

The final full week of the 1964 spring sports program at Presbyterian College will begin on Monday with seven events on the schedule. Baseball, tennis, and golf will make their final appearances of the spring. The track team has completed its 5-meet schedule.

On Monday the struggling PC tennis team will travel to Durham, North Carolina, to face the powerful Duke University squad. Presbyterian is still smarting from the 14-11 defeat handed them by Clemson in last week's State Tournament, and the Blue Devils will well remember the 8-1 loss they suffered to the Hose last spring.

Also on Monday the baseball team will go to Newberry to play the Newberry Indians in a Little Four encounter. The Hose had Newberry on the ropes here in the team's first meeting, but a late rally spoiled PC hopes for the win.

The outstanding PC golf team swings into action on Tuesday when Mercer University of Macon, Georgia, is here for a match. At present the linksters have an 8-2 record, and have already asured themselves of the best record in the history of golf. Earlier in the spring PC beat Mercer at Macon by a 20½ to 5½ score. Also on Tuesday the PC tennis team will face Furman here in the final home match of the season. PC has already defeated Furman 8-1.

On Wednesday, the Wofford baseball team will be at PC to face the Hose. This will be another Little Four game, the final conference game of the year. The Terriers earlier slipped by the Hose 5-4 in a game at Spartanburg.

The golf team will play one of their toughest matches of the year on Thursday when they travel to the Spartanburg Country Club to play Wofford. Even though the Hose have once defeated Wofford, by an 11½ to 8½ score here, this match will be more challenging. The Terriers have one of the best small college teams in the state and the Thursday match will be a meeting of the best in the State.

Belmont Abbey's baseball team, once defeated by PC this year, will be here Friday for the final baseball game of the season. The Blue Hose won over the Crusaders at Belmont last week for their first win, and a final game win over them again would make the season a bit brighter. Game time will be 2:30 on Young Field.

On Saturday the PC tennis team will travel to Charleston to wind up their season with a match with The Citadel. The Bulldogs fell to PC by a 7-2 score here on April 11, and The Citadel team has not defeated PC in a dual match in many years.

The contest will feature a return match between two of the state's top collegiate players Bob Harris of Presbyterian and William Poore of The Citadel. Harris defeated Poore in the first regular season match, but the Cadet ace upset Harris in two sets in the State Tournament. This match is the rubber match in the netters' series.

Monday, May 11, will see the final event in the 58-contest spring sports schedule at PC. On that date the golf team will conclude the spring program when they again face the College of Charleston in the Port City. The Maroons have fallen to PC once this year, by a 5-2 score, and the golfers hope to wind up the season on a winning note.

HIGH JUMPER Doug Allen goes up and over in Wednesday's track meet with Wofford. Allen also threw the discus and javelin in PC's final meet of the year.—Photo by Yarborough.

Poor Showing Recorded As PC Loses Five This Week

It's been a dark week for PC sports fans as the Blue Hose went down to defeat in five of five events. The golf team lost their match, the track team was defeated, and the baseball team was winless in two tries.

Only Monday could be considered any sort of win. The rains came to wash out a golf match at Belmont Abbey and the baseball game with Erskine was postponed. Hence, no losses on Monday.

It would have been better for PC if it had rained on Tuesday, too, as the tennis team lost a tough match to the University of Georgia. It seemed at first the Blue Hose netters were on the rebound trail after losing the State tournament, but it was not to be. Wins were recorded in the top three singles, but that was all. The loss left PC with a 7-6 tennis mark with three matches remaining.

The baseball squad took a whipping at the hands of Erskine on Wednesday. The Flying Fleet took advantage of weak PC hitting and weak PC defenses to claim a 12-4 Little Four win. On the same day the golf team had their eight-match winning streak snapped by Furman at Greenville by a 15½-11½ score.

Thursday was another double-loss day for PC. The baseball team was shut out by Furman, 5-0 at Greenville, and the track team finished up their regular season with a 70-52 loss to Wofford.

Bill Tyson Named Top Senior Athlete

Bill Tyson, a senior math major from Bainbridge, Ga., was named the 1964 recipient of the Kappa Alpha Athletic Cup as a part of the Awards Day program last Friday in chapel.

The cup, an annual award of the Kappa Alpha Order, is given to "the member of the senior class who, in the opinion of the fraternity and the coaching staff, is the outstading athlete." Previous recent winners have been Alvin Coley, Bobby Joiner, and Sonny DuBose.

Tyson has been a varsity football player for his four years at PC, as well as being a member of the tennis team. Tyson lettered in football in his freshman season, and in tennis after his first year on the squad. He played varsity baseball in the spring of his freshman year.

Head football coach and Athletic Director Cally Gault said of Tyson, "It is unusual to find a boy so versatile in so many sports as Bill Tyson. The coaching staff feels he qualified in every way for this award, being both an outstanding athlete and an all-around leader. Out heartiest congratulations go out to him."

Swimming Schedule Announced Today

The time schedule for the Leroy Springs swimming pool was announced today by Professor Fakkema. Free swimming for students, faculty, and faculty children is available Monday through Friday from 2:30-3:30 P. M.

Senior Life Saving instruction is taught on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 3:30-5:00 P. M. Junior Life Saving is held on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays from 3:30-5:00 P. M. Scuba diving lessons have been arranged for Thursday nights.

Other hours may be arranged by clearance with the athletic department and life guards. Life guards are in control of the pool and all swimmers must adhere to their policies.

Mr. Fakkema emphasized that no one may enter the pool unless life guards are on duty or permission has been obtained from him or the athletic department.

In Recognition . . .

These students are among the ones recognized at last week's Honor Day program. Above are shown Marion Boozer, Leon Bullard, Bill Tyson, Keith Robinson, and Tom Currie. All of them are seniors. At left are shown Amelia Nichols, Susan Gilbert, and Bryson Rousseu.—Photo by Yarborough.

Year-Round College Trend Forecasted For Near Future

CHICAGO (CPS) — An increasing trend towards year-round college operation was noted Monday in a paper presented before the Association for Higher Education (AHE).

"There is good reason to believe that year-round campus operation will expand steadily in the years immediately ahead," stated the writers of the paper, W. Hugh Stickler and Milton W. Carothers—professors of higher education at Florida State University.

Professors Stickler and Carothers believe the year-round calendar will "provide a better vehicle for dealing with the vast numbers of students" included in what is termed the "tidal-wave" of increasing college enrollments.

As a result of the trend towards year - round operation, Stickler and Carothers stated, "aggressive efforts are being made to upgrade summer sessions."

"Students at year-round institutions," the authors said, "exhibit a greater seriousness of purpose." Extra-curricular activities at these schools seem to be receiving less student participation due to the intensified academic program of the year-round operation.

Stickler and Carothers see the emergence of two systems of equitable faculty pay which will operate with the development of the year-round operation. These are: "(1) 12-month salaries with provision for regular leave from teaching duties; or (2) adoption of the principle of equal pay for equal periods of faculty time."

The two educators recognize several problem areas arising from year - round operation. "Without doubt the most difficult administrative problem," they state, "is that of getting faculty members to go to school during the summer months."

Faculty problems, they said, include recruitment, pay scales, and a decision as to what constitutes "an adequate and appropriate workload for a faculty member."

Within the area of student problems, the profesors cite difficulty in arranging transfers between junior and senior colleges, and between one senior istitution and another. "Another difficulty in the student area," they said, "is the effect of the intensified pressure of year-round operation on the student." Increased financial problems for studies and schools may also result from the full-year plan.

"The unhurried academic life of yesteryear grew out of an agrarian society," Stickley and Carothers said. "That leisurely way of doing things interspersed with long vacations can no longer be justified."

Ike Cobb Announces '64-65 SCA Members

Student Christian Association president Ike Cobb announced this week the new members of the S. C A. cabinet.

The cabinet for next year includes 25 members. There are five rising seniors, eleven rising juniors, and nine rising sophomores who serve on the board.

Senior members are Gary Mike Smith, Salena McCarter, Jack Greene, Melinda Gaines and Walter Wells.

Juniors who will act on the cabinet are Dan Taylor, Carroll Jones, Gwyn McCutchen, Dave Dunlap, Sam Waters, Jim Murchison, Pat Goldsmith, Wade Stewart, Phil Olmert, Jim Stanford, and Jim Johnson.

Rising sophomores include Jim Humphries, Jim Ritchie, Lodene Elmore, Bob Warren, Glenn Beckham, Grady Marshall, Bill Stuckey, Monk Milligan, and Bob Herlong.

Members of the entering freshman class will be nominated by the S. C. A. to serve on the freshman cabinet next fall.

The cabinet is in charge of all S. C. A. projects and acts under the direction of its officers and faculty advisor.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

McINTOSH'S
SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

The Campus Scene

Chapel Programs

The academic dean's office has announced the following schedule for next week. Chapel will not be held on Monday. Students are invitel to attend the inauguration ceremonies Tuesday at 2:45 P. M.

On Wednesday "Androcles and the Lion" will be presented by the Kaleidoscope Players. Because of the length of the play 11:00 classes will not be held.

There will be a regular student-sponsored devotional on Friday.

Exam Schedule

The second semester examination schedule was announced today by the Academic Dean's office:

May 22	9-12:00	MWF 1:30
May 23	9-12:00	TTS 12:00
	2-5:00	MWF 12:00
May 25	9-12:00	TTS 11:00
	2-5:00	MWF 11:00
May 26	9-12:00	TTS 10:00
	2-5:00	For. Lang.
May 27	9-12:00	TTS 9:00
	2-5:00	MWF 9:00
May 28	9-12:00	TTS 8:00
	2-5:00	MWF 8:00

'64 Reservations

Melinda Gaines, secretary to the Dean of Students, announced the following time schedule Wednesday for room reservations for those students wishing to change rooms.

Registration for rooms will begin Monday, May 4, and extend through Saturday, May 9. Hours will be 1:30-5:00 Monday through Friday, and 8:30-12:00 on Saturday.

No room reservations will be accepted during the morning office hours except on Saturday.

Emory Chorale

The Emory Woman's Chorale, consisting of forty vocalists, will appear in concert at Belk Auditorium May 8 at 8:00 P. M. The choral group, under the direction of Dr. William Lemonds, will be sponsored by the Clinton Woman's Music Club.

The Chorale is made up of undergraduate students of Emory University and travels throughout five southern states on their annual spring tour.

Change In Schedule

Students are reminded that the formal inauguration of Dr. Weersing as president will necessitate the following changes in class schedule for the week of May 4-9.

Chapel will not be held on May 4th. Students are invited to attend the inauguration ceremony at 2:45 P. M. on May 5.

Due to the length of the chapel performance of "Androcles and The Lion," 11:00 classes will not meet on May 6.

Knapsack

(Continued from page 1)

a Knapsack comparable to those published in the past.

Among the changes to be made in the 64-65 edition of the Knapsack wil be an entire new array of pictures showing the different aspects of life on the PC campus. However, it will still include the school constitution, school regulations, a map of the college campus, and the other items always helpful to students.

Dr. Moore Visits Campus On Monday

(Continued from page 1)

ferent slant, a mode modern, up-to-date approach.

It is this type approach that led to the nomenclature of the "new math" or "modern algebra."

Dr. Moore's texts are Fundamental Principles of Mathematics, 1960; Elements of Abstract Algebra, 1962; and Basic Mathematics for Physical sciences, 1963. In writing the latter book Dr. Moore collaborated with Dr. Haymn Kruglak, professor of physics at the University of Michigan.

His Elements of Abstract Algebra was used here as the text for Mathematics 208 last year.

At present Dr. Moore has plans for writing a text on linear algebra and matrix theory and perhaps one for advanced calculus.

Dr. Moore is a native of London, Ontario, Canada, and earned his degree from the University of Chicago.

Church Takes Stand On Race Relations

Southern Presbyterians decided at their annual general assembly in Montreat last weekend that they would no longer hold meetings in segregated churches.

But by a large majority they also decided not to make the resolution effective for the 1965 meeting to be held in the segregated Second Presbyterian Church in Memphis, Tenn.

They instead voted to ask the Memphis church to drop its color bar and made the resolution effective in 1967.

The delegates to the assembly ended their meeting more or less confident that the world knew they opposed segregation.

An order to integrate presently all-white presbyteries or church judicial districts is a major break-through by delegates pushing for action on specifics in the field of race relations.

The assembly also approved an addition to the church's Directory of Worship, making explicit that no one should be excluded from public worship because of his race, color, or class.

The Southern Presbyterians, meeting at their integrated Montreat headquarters, also took steps to align themselves more closely with their northern counterparts during the session.

Enactment of the constitutional change permitting women to serve as ministers, deacons, and elders came during the final session of the meeting.

The United Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., already permits the ordination of women.

Among several reports adopted during the six-day meeting of Southern Presbyterians was a recommendation to include northern Presbyterians in a discussion on church union.

They also decided not to take a stand in the smoking-health controversy and voted not to withdraw from the National Council of Churches. Instead, the delegates urged increased financial support of the controversial body.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
West Main Street
Clinton, S. C.

US Business Seeks Graduate Who Is 'Thinking Workhorse'

WASHINGTON (CPS) — A thoughtful workhorse seems to be the apt description of the June graduate sought by U. S. business.

A survey shows that personnel officers of the nation's leading firms have placed emphasis on the college graduate willing to work long hours while learning the rudiments of his job.

The survey was compiled by Careers, Inc., and published in the 1964 edition of "Career: For the College Man."

Graduates afflicted with the "instant executive syndrome" are going to find jobs harder to come by this year than ever before.

"The graduate must realize that his first job will expose him mostly to leg work," said Robert Cowie, college placement coordinator of the Aetna Life Companies.

"The jump from college to business is often larger than the graduate anticipates. Using the case-study method, he's had too much practice making decisions at the board of directors level."

R. M. Coyner of Burroughs Business Machines paints an even dimmer picture.

'Many graduates will never be in a true management position," he said. "Those who do succeed will do so as a result of excellence in a specific area."

Don't be aimless when seeking a job, says H. W. Wittenborn of Cook Electric Co.

"In interviewing many college seniors, we find a major portion of them seem to be in a fog. Many have no established aims or goals. My advice is: set your sights," he said.

One way for prospective salesmen to strike out is to say, "I've always liked people." Ogden White of Ditto, Ins., said if that's how far the applicant's self-analysis goes, his firm "is simply not interested."

One way to score with a campus recruiter is to be familiar with his firm and its products.

"Our interest is in the young person who can give us some idea of what he feels he may be able to contribute to our organization," said Winston Blount of Blount Brothers Corp.

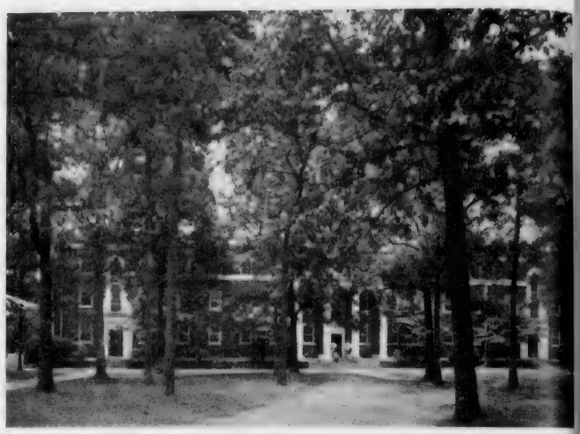
Graduates should be prepared to give an intelligent answer to "Why do you want to work for us?"

An "inquiring mind" make a good impression with Dun and Bradstreet. "Curiosity" rates high with Connecticut Mutal. "A searching attitude" is an asset to graduates looking for a job with IBM.

A new trend among businesses recruiting college talent is the desire for the graduate who will be both an outstanding specialist in his field and a "generalist" in his outlook.

"We are interested in people that are competent in their fields on specialization," said a spokesman for Dow Corning Corp. "But they should also be motivated with a high degree of initiative and capable of independent thought."

At Chrysler, they want " a fresh, willing mind, schooled in seeking perfection."



Friden, Inc., wants "men willing to use their educational background in a program of long hours of work and study to develop strong technical sales ability; in other words, those willing to make sacrifices."

Summarizing U. S. business attitudes was James Helms of the American Investment Co. of Illinois.

"College graduates can realize their full potential only through a continuation of the learning process in their work environment, hard work and proper application of their abilities. Success or failure depends on job performance.

"A college degree is not sufficient — advancement must be earned," Helms concluded.

The publication also contains a schedule of companies planning to visit campuses, and the dates of their visits. Other articles include information on military obligation, job resumes and other helpful advice for June graduates.

Undergoing a $190,000 renovation program this summer is Smyth Dormitory. Named in honor of Rev. Thomas Smyth, the dormitory will be wired to permit use of student-furnished air conditioners in addition to numerous other changes.

Hebert Says ROTC -- Pay Raise Not Likely

(Editor's Note: The following is reprinted from the April 18 edition of The Brigadier, the student newspaper of The Citadel.)

by DICK DERRIN
Brigadier News Staff

In a recent interview with Rep. F. Edward Hebert, we were informed that there exists very little chance for a pay raise for ROTC and AFROTC cadets in the near future.

Hebert is the chairman of the Reserve Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee.

The Louisiana congressman commented that he would not allow the bill to pass his subcommittee except in its original and unmodified form. He accused "liberal" congressmen of trying to tack civil rights amendments on to the bill.

Hebert particularly singled out Rep. Otis G. Pike as a chief obstacle to the bill on the floor of the House.

When this bill is finally passed it is expected to raise ROTC allowances to $50 per month. Hebert said that he did not expect the bill to be passed for two years, or until another federal pay raise bill is passed.

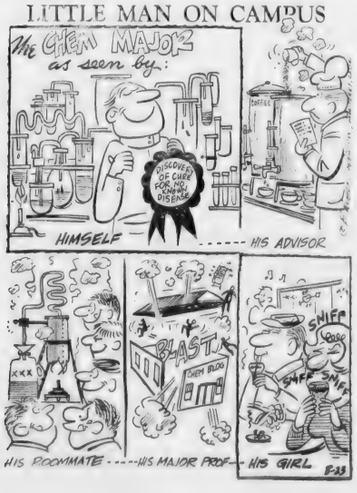
THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY-SATURDAY, MAY 1-2
MOVE OVER, DARLING
Doris Day, James Garner
Polly Bergen
MONDAY-TUESDAY, MAY 4-5
THE PRIZE
Paul Newman, Elke Sommer
Edward G. Robinson
STARTS WEDNESDAY, MAY 6
LAW OF THE LAWLESS
Dale Robertson, Yvonne DeCarlo
William Bendix



J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Do Your Spring Shopping at . . . Belk's
Bermuda Shorts 3.99
Short Sleeve Shirts 3.99

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College

Vol. XLII - No. 19 | Clinton, South Carolina, May 8, 1964 | Founded 1920

Robert M. Vance, chairman of the board of trustees, presided at the inauguration of Dr. Marc Weersing Tuesday. He here begins the induction ceremony. More pictures are on page three.—Photo by Yarborough.

Bama Head Issues Challenge As Dr. Weersing Inaugurated

University of Alabama President Frank Rose challenged America's colleges to "adjust our programs of education and put new values into our old degrees" as the featured speaker Tuesday afternoon at the inauguration of Dr. Marc C. Weersing as 14th president of Presbyterian College.

He said recent changes in educational programs and emphasis indicate that educators are trying to shape their institutions in accordance with the most constructive change. But he added:

"The urgency of our time is found in the acceleration with which cries come. Our universities and colleges must become centers of learning if they are going to have any relevance to our age.

We have taken all too lightly our responsibility of turning out academicians who possess the abilities and knowledge to help us forge ahead in these many areas in which we are now lagging, we cannot keep shooting at the moon and missing it and retain confidence in our educational programs.

"Nineteen million mentally ill people in the United States reveal that many tried to hit the moon of their careers and failed this, too.

Juvenile delinquency, the high divorce rate, political bungling, a responsible agency of our government calling our churches arsenals of communism—these reveal an intellectual and moral weakness that informs us we have not been as successful as we would like to think."

Dr. Weersing accepted the challenge as "A unique and significant summons to undertake a specialized work within the kingdom of God."

He said, "Christian higher education through a church-supported and controlled institution constitutes a crucial endeavor in the life of young people, in the cause of Christ, and indeed, in the life of our nation."

The delegates from 92 institutions of higher learning were in the academic procession which also included the faculty and members of the Presbyterian College Board of Trustees and visitors. They joined ministers from throughout the supporting synods of Georgia and South Carolina, students, alum-

(Continued on page 3)

Gov. Russell Names Dr. Brown To Post

Dr. Marshall W. Brown, president emeritus of Presbyterian College, has been appointed as coordinator of a new building program for South Carolina colleges, Governor Donald Russell announced last Friday.

The program, launched Thursday by the State Budget and Control Board, will operate under the auspices of the Federal Higher Education Facilities Act.

Dr. Brown will head South Carolina's part of the program, for which Congress is expected to appropriate $230,000,000 each year for several years to aid the colleges of the nation in expanding their student capacities.

The allotment to South Carolina is in excess of $2,800,000 annually.

Governor Russell said that the Budget and Control Board has appointed an advisory group of three college presidents to assist Dr. Brown. They are Dr. Wright Spears of Columbia College, Dr. C. S. Davis of Winthrop, and Dr. J. A. Bancoats of Benedict College.

The money, under the federal grant, may be used for almost any type of college construction except dormitories, recreational facilities or chapels.

Libraries, classrooms and laboratories may be built.

Dr. Brown will open an office in the Jacobs Building in Clinton within a week.

Governor Donald Russell personally arranged with the president of Appalachian State Teachers College to release Dr. Brown from a commitment to be a visiting professor of history at the Appalachian summer school.

Initiation of new members will be held in the near future. The induction will be climaxed by the annual egg roll on the plaza and by the spring banquet.

Crawford, Megathlin, Smith To Vie For SC Presidency

Rising seniors Gary Crawford, Bill Megathlin, and Gary Mike Smith were nominated Wednesday to Student Council positions and will vie against each other for president of the Council next Wednesday.

Other students elected as representatives to the Council are rising juniors Doug Allen, David Davies, Henry Lovett, and rising sophomores Bob Warren and Bob Herlong.

Crawford, an English major from Greer, is president of Pi Kappa Alpha. He has been active in the Council for several years.

Bill Meagthlin hails from Miami, is psychology major, and is serving as president of Alpha Sigma Phi.

From Garden City, N. Y., Mike Smith is a history major.

Don Hodges, Sherrod Rhodes, Mike Smith, Dave Dunlap, Roy Squires, Christie Patterson, and Bruce Laurence were defeated in the election which saw sixty percent of the study body voting.

The presidential candidates gave speeches in chapel today and their platforms appear on page 5 of The Blue Stocking.

Cadet Decorations To Be Given Thursday

Lt. Col. Richard W. Ulrich, Professor of Military Science, has announced that the annual awards and decorations review will be conducted at drill on May 14.

The ceremony will be the final ROTC drill for this year and will honor graduating seniors in ROTC and members of the cadet corps who receive awards.

Fifteen awards will be presented to outstanding cadets from all four classes. Selection of recipients is based generally on academic and military scholarship, leadership abilities, and demonstrated qualities of a junior officer in the army.

The presentations will be made by Lt. Col. Lonnie L. Dunlap of Columbia and Major William P. Jacobs of Clinton. Both are alumni of PC.

Lt. Col. Dunlap is the Presbyterian College liaison officer from the Reserve Officers Association of South Carolina. Major Jacobs, a prominent businessman in Clinton, is the great-grandson of William Plumer Jacobs, founder of the college.

While a student at PC Maj. Jacobs was active in ROTC and attained the rank of Cadet Major. He served as an army officer from 1940 through 1946 and saw action in Italy during World War II.

The review will begin at 3:00 p. m. on the Plaza. Bleachers will be provided for visitors.

The streets surounding the Plaza will be blocked, and the military department requests visitors to park adjacent to the campus.

All members of the faculty and student body are invited to view the final military ceremony of the year, according to Capt. Robert Howe of the department.

Women's Chorale To Sing Here Tonight

The Emory University Women's Chorale will sing here at PC tonight at 8:15 as it continues its spring tour through the South.

The program will include works by Handel, Beethoven, Rachmaninoff, and feature selections from Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" with harp accompaniment. There will be lighter music as well as religious selections.

Directed by Dr. William Lemonds, the Chorale has toured widely in the South, has sung with the Brown University Glee Club, performed at university-worship services, and combined with the Emory Glee Club to perform at the annual Christmas Concert and other special events.

Dr. Lemonds came to Emory in September, 1963, from the University of the South where he served as chairman of the department of music, organist, and choirmaster.

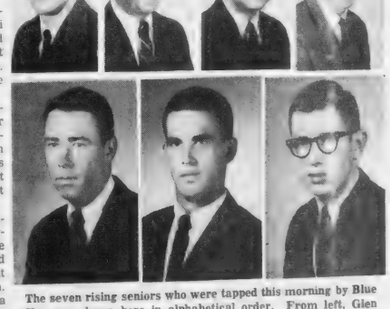
Seven Rising Seniors Honored In Blue Key Tapping Today

The PC chapter of Blue Key selected seven new members in its spring tapping ceremony this morning in chapel.

The new men, chosen on the basis of their leadership, service, and character, are Glen Browder, Ike Cobb, Gary Crawford, Jack Greene, Sherrod Rhodes, Mike Smith, and Walter Wells.

A sports editor for The Blue Stocking, Browder is a history major and has since his freshman year worked in the public relations offices with Mr. Ben Hay Hammet.

Ike Cobb, an officer in Kappa Alpha Order, was recently installed as president of the Student Christian Association. He has served as an SCA officer for several years and has also earned a dean's list average for several semesters.



An English major, Gary Crawford is the new president of Pi Kappa Alpha and will contend for the presidency of the Student Council in Wednesday's election. Crawford has served on the Council for three years.

Jack Greene, one of PC's rising folk singers, serves this year on the SCA cabinet. In this position he will work closely with SCA president Cobb on Religious Emphasis Week plans for next year. Greene is also president of the choir.

Recently elected business manager of the 1965 PaC-SaC, Sherrod Rhodes is a Sigma Nu. He has served as a class officer and was a nominee for the Student Council in Wednesday's election.

History major Mike Smith is a member of PC's varsity football team and is active in intramural athletics. Wednesday he was elected to serve on next year's Student Council and will be a candidate for president of the Council next week.

An English major and co-editor of The Blue Stocking, Walter Wells is a member of Kappa Alpha Order. He has served on the SCA cabinet for two years and has earned dean's list standing for several semesters.

The seven rising seniors who were tapped this morning by Blue Key are shown here in alphabetical order. From left, Glen Browder, Ike Cobb, Gary Crawford, Jack Greene, Sherrod Rhodes, Mike Smith, and Walter Wells.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager — Al Pearce
Managing Editor — Bill Loeble

An Able Council

AFTER THE STUDENT COUNCIL elections Wednesday the general concensus among the student body seemed to be that the new members of the Council would perform ably and and deserved student support. At the election of the president next Wednesday students will again have the opportunity to actively participate in the affairs of the Council.

WE WITNESSED IN THE ELECTION something that rather much surprised us: the participation of sixty percent of the students in the voting. The number was considerably higher than at Student Council elections in the past and there appears to be no one concrete reason for the increase in voters.

WE ARE HOPING, OF COURSE, that this increase means that students are finally beginning to understand what student government means and are now more willing to accept the responsibilities necessarily involved in it.

FOR THE PAST THREE YEARS it has been amazing that the Council continued to exist. Our amazement came not from any action—or lack of it—on the part of the council but rather from the number and severity of its critics.

THE LARGE NUMBER OF STUDENTS on campus who fancy themselves experts on the "ex" and the "con" have always been voluble, while the Council, under the leadership of its president, has functioned normally and efficiently. Perhaps the most vehement of these critics had time to cast their votes Wednesday and will do so again in the upcoming election. We hope so.

—W. W.

Dr. John McSween

DR. JOHN McSWEEN, an active church leader and president of Presbyterian College from 1928 until 1935, died Sunday morning following an illness of several weeks. The death of Dr. McSween left an unfillable void in the civic and religious affairs of Greenville, the city that had been his home for several years, as well as in the hearts of many people who had known him and worked with him.

DR. McSWEEN WAS PRESIDENT of PC during probably its worst financial crisis, during the impossible early years of the Great Depression. His valiant struggles to keep the college on its feet despite overwhelming monetary difficulties which would spell a story that would seem impossible to believe to today's college generation. His sacrifices were great and his effort in behalf of the college and the whole cause of Christian higher education are amazing.

DR. MARSHALL BROWN, president emeritus of Presbyterian College, who served as dean of the faculty during the entire presidency of Dr. McSween, said of him:

"DR. McSWEEN WAS A MAN who made his duty the supreme purpose of his life but whose earthly ties showed much tender affection and a generous willingness to help all men realize the full potentialities of life. His quick humor, sunny disposition, Christian character of remarkable unselfishness, and an eloquence rooted in deep religious conviction made him an outstanding minister of the Gospel.

"DURING HIS SEVEN YEARS as president of Presbyterian College, he showed such qualities as a college administrator that a famous Eastern university offered to more than double his salary if he would take its presidency. He declined on the ground that he would do no work except that involving full time service to the church.

"Dr. McSween will continue to live on in the hearts and lives of all those fortunate enough to have experienced the inspiration of association with him."

—W. W.

The Passing Of The Long Vacation

by GARY CRAWFORD
Feature Editor

From the very beginning of our educational system American students have regarded summer as a truly festive occasion because it has provided release from the tension and perpetual strain inherent in meeting academic disciplines.

For most students an essential element of this vacation period has always been the summer job. Besides the earnings, which have enabled many to completely finance their college educations, temporary summer employment has offered students boundless opportunities to travel or investigate potential vocational interests.

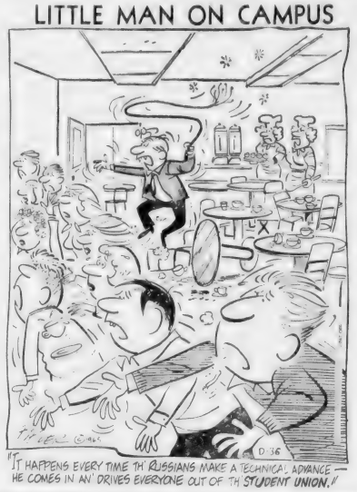
Jobs vary from working with the peach crop in the South to picking peas in the Northwest, from working on an oil derrick in the Gulf to being a cabin boy on a Mediterranean cruiser. Accordingly, salaries range from only a few hundred dollars to as much as three thousand.

Much to the dismay of the student, however, the reports of some of the nation's leading educators are casting serious doubts on the probabilities of the future existence of this tradition.

They insist that the length of the present school year with its long vacation evolved to meet the conditions of the agrarian society predominant in early America.

Now that urbanization has come into prominence the length of the school year must be made adaptable to the growth and tensive concentration of t twentieth century. To contin our present system would both wasteful and unpractica

Other factors also tend accelerate the abolishment our lengthy vacation perio Educational institutions will cramped for several years come because of increased co lege enrollment.



Perhaps the most plausi solution to this problem is to crease the required length of t school year, thus shortening period normally required graduate.

Because of the length time required to comple graduate work, something tha is becoming increasingly e sential for our specialized l bor force, in the long run th extended summer vacation too expensive for many st dents.

It is doubtful that any form legislation to shorten our vac tion period will occur in the ne future. It may be, however, th the student's own propensity complete his education in shorter period than that require under our present system w gradually bring about the sam effect as formal legislation.

When and if this change o curs, the old tradition of lon vacations and summer jobs ma well be tomorrow's topics of co versation not unlike what th T-Model tales seem to the st dent of today.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"IT HAPPENS EVERY TIME TH' RUSSIANS MAKE A TECHNICAL ADVANCE HE COMES IN AN' DRIVES EVERYONE OUT OF TH' STUDENT UNION."

'An Unhomogenized Society'

by JAN RHODES
Feature Writer

It was in the early spring of 1959 when a snowy-haired New England poet named Robert Frost once again came to the Agnes Scott College campus. It was a pleasing stop for him because he always enjoyed walking under the spring dogwoods of Decatur and listening to and talking with college young people.

He found among them bold and fresh new ideas, ideas which were some of the time fantastic yet most of the time inspiring. He delighted in the contrast of the old and the young and sought refreshment in the spirit of youth, the fresh spirit that sours very rapidly in the atmosphere of today.

People were saying, however, that Mr. Frost looked grayer than he had ever looked before. They were saying that his voice cracked more often and he needed longer periods of recuperation from his lectures. But the most striking part about him, the part that drew their unqualified attention, was his air of urgency.

He saw the college women who were to start out on their own. He saw the freshmen who were just beginning to work. He saw the townspeople already wrapped in their work. These people were his listeners and for them he had an urgent message.

His vein of thought did not deal in the reciting of poems, nor did it deal in his spontaneous poetry.

He did not want to watch for nuclear destruction nor rise up against legions of communists.

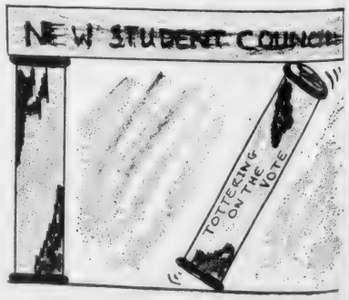
Instead, his vein of thought was found in the form of an insignificant and surprising bottle of milk.

It is so easy to be homogenized, he said. The cream is broken up and mixed in with the milk so uniformly.

Frost did not want to see such a "homogenized society that refuses to let the cream rise."

Not Discrimination But Reasonableness

MOUNT CARMEL, ILL. (CPS —The president of Shimer Co lege, who wants to rent out th campus for the summer, sai last Friday that he plans to re ject the offer of a nudist group



"Our campus fronts right o two busy highways and I jus don't think it would be appro priate," said Dr. J. F. Mullin He added that there is no prote tive shrubbery.

"We don't like to discriminat against anybody, but I think nudist group would just be o of place on our campus," h said. "Besides, we're right t town."

Roger Clogher, executive se retary of the Perfect Christia Divine Way Inc., Holy City Calif., said that the group wan ed to rent the campus for seve weeks.

He said that nudists from a over the nation would attend th gathering and it would b "somewhat nudesworthy."

Clogher said he read of Mu lin's offer, which was given na tionwide publicity in a San Fra cisco newspaper.

Among the visitors to the campus Tuesday for the inauguration of President Weersing were Governor and Mrs. Donald S. Russell. Mrs. Russell, left, is here talking with Mrs. B. O. Whitten of Clinton. The Governor stands on the right.—Pho by Yarborough.

The academic procession at the induction ceremony included delegates from ninety-two colleges and universities. Among schools represented were Harvard, Princeton, University of Virginia, College of Wooster, and Dartmouth. —Photo by Yarborough.

Weersing Inducted

(Continued from page 1)

hi and other friends in paying tribute to President Weersing.

Robert M. Vance of Clinton, trustee chairman, presided during the ceremony and performed the inaugural ceremony. Dr. Marshall W. Brown, who retired last August as president of Presbyterian College, presented Dr. Weersing to the Belk Auditorium audience for formal induction into office.

Other program participants included Dr. J. McDowell Richards, president of Columbia Theological Seminary; Rev. John Ben Evans, executive director of the Division of Higher Education, Presbyterian Church, U. S.

Dr. Van M. Arnold, pastor of the Memphis, Tenn., Evergreen Presbyterian Church; Rev. B. Herman Dillard, pastor of the Newnan, Ga., Presbyterian Church; Dean Joseph M. Gettys; and the PC choir under the direction of Dr. Edouard Patte.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editors:

This letter is in reply to the article "In Defense of the Coeds" that appeared in last week's Blue Stocking. The opinions expressed in the article, incorrectly signed "The Coeds," are not held by all the PC coeds.

On the contrary, it was written without the knowledge of the majority of PC's female students and reflects the views of very few of us.

—SOME COEDS

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

Well, it's blast-off time as PC fraternities plunge into their biggest blowout of the year—Greek Weekend. Four Greeks will be at Lake Greenwod where the order of the day will be Sun, Sand, Sex and Suds.

The KA's will be in their house tonight for a record party. Tomorrow afternoon they will be at the Laurens Shrine Club for a joint party with the Theta Chi's and will return to their house Saturday evening to be entertained by the Continentals.

The PiKA's are celebrating their "Roman Holiday" with the Scepters on Friday evening from 9:00 to 1:00, and Del and the Dell-Hearts Saturday afternoon and evening. All parties will be held at the Greenwood Shrine Club on Lake Greenwood.

The Theta Chi's will be at the Red Robin Retreat tonight from 8:00 to 12:00 with Moses and his Five Disciples. Saturday afternoon and evening they will be at the Laurens Shrine Club with Moses Dillard and the Dynamic Showme.

The Pi Kapps will hold two Saturday parties at Peck's with the Playboys on hand both during the afternoon and evening.

"Hawaiian Holiday" will be the theme for the Alpha Sig's party Friday evening with the Playboys at the Laurens Shrine Club. Saturday they will be at Lake Greenwood for a juke-box party. Both events are to be attended by invitation only.

New officers for Pi Kappa Phi are Bobby Eason, president; Sherwood Florence, treasurer; Neil McKay, secretary; John Hemphill, historian; and Dwight Mosely, Chaplain.

Taken into brotherhood for Alpha Sigma Phi were Jim Bruce, Woody Hall, John Jones, Steve Knoche, Grady Marshall, Larry Platt and Morrow Thompson.

The Theta Chi's recently initiated Jim Bell, Henry Booker, and Bob Whitehearse. Inducted into the brotherhood of Pi Kappa Phi was Neil McKay.

Brothers of the week for Alpha Sigma Phi are Ted Freeman and the new brothers. George Lokey is the honored brother for Pi Kappa Alpha.

The Johnson Frugality Oath Damaging To Summer Jobs

President Johnson's oath to fiscal frugality is wounding one of the late President Kennedy's favorite plans to woo top college students into federal goverment careers.

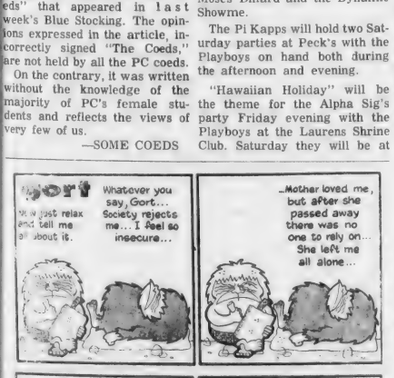
The Civil Service Commission recently reported that it will be tougher for U. S. college students to find summer employment in the federal government this year because of the administration's pinch on pennies.

CSC Chairman John Macy, Jr., urged all federal agencies to limit their use of summer help "in the interest of economy."

In another statement, the Commission said:

"Student interest in summer employment has been mounting in recent years, so competition for the limited number of jobs will be keen."

With a big helping hand from the late president, top college students from all over the nation were urged to seek federal employment during the past two summers. Kennedy hoped to induce scholars into a career in public service after tasting the opportunities available in the federal service.



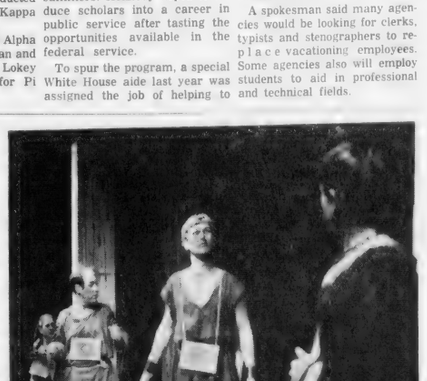
To spur the program, a special White House aide last year was assigned the job of helping to place students in summer jobs and "make sure the good ones don't lose out."

The White House drew charges of political payrolling from the Commission after it was reported that campus Democratic Clubs had a hand in securing summer federal jobs for their membership.

Despite the outcery, Kennedy continued his interest in attracting college students to federal work. In addition to meeting personally with various groups of students, his brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, held frequent sessions with the students during their summer stay.

Normally, about 6,000 students are hired by federal departments and agencies during the summer months. But the Commission said that number will be reduced this summer.

A spokesman said many agencies would be looking for clerks, typists and stenographers to replace vacationing employees. Some agencies also will employ students to aid in professional and technical fields.



'Androcles and the Lion'

The Kaleidoscope Players, a nationally known touring company, was on campus Wednesday to present their interpretation of George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion."

The play was the second presentation of the Newton Gary Hardie Memorial Lecture series, which brought to campus last year Ferenc Nagy, last premier of free Hungary.

Special guests for the production were Mrs. Newton G. Hardie, Sr., and Mrs. Hardie, Jr. Mrs. Hardie's son could not be present because of business engagements.

Speaking of Sports

with AL PEARCE

Block P Votes; Locals vs Us; Short Schedule

The Block P Club, known in the past largely for its work in the concession stands, has begun to deal with the suggested changes regarding the awarding of athletic letters. There has been talk of attempting to set a standard size and color for the letters awarded, disregarding the traditional size variation for separate sports. This idea has met with some opposition.

Really Doesn't Matter

A few have expressed the idea that the letters should be the same size regardless of the sport involved. If these few would have it their way the letters for golf, tennis, riflery, track, basketball, and baseball would be the same as letters for football. It is called discrimination in some circles, but the men involved—the players themselves—couldn't care less. Most are playing their particular sports for the love of the game, the size of the letter they hope to earn having nothing to do with their wish to participate.

"Fitz Speaks"

Club president Randy Fitpatrick, himself a football and track letterman, stated that the club "unanimously" voted not to change the size of the letters "one single inch." It is up to the club to to make any suggestions in this matter, with the athletic department and the coaches having nothing to say about it.

An official statement is expected soon regarding this and other matters before the executive council of the club.

Our Fault

The recent collison between the Clinton High tennis team and the college intramural tennis play cannot be blamed on anyone in particular. The incident, unfortunate for the students ready to play their matches, was the result of an oversight in scheduling.

The high school had the use of the college courts for this match, and the arrangement was approved at the opening of the tennis season. All the personalities involved, both with school and college coaches, had a schedule of the locals' matches. The match with Woodruff was on schedule, in its proper position. The conflict was simply an oversight on the part of the intramural scheduler.

We're Hoping Maybe . . .

While we cannot condemn the scheduler for making a mistake, we cannot say we were glad to see the teams approaching the courts. Maybe, just maybe, things will be different next spring. We certainly hope so.

To Charleston For 16

The PC tennis team travels to Charleston tomorrow to face the Citadel in an inter-state contest. A win for the Hose, and one is expected, will leave the team with a 10-6 record for the spring. While we're not here going to comment on the season as such, we would like to mention the schedule.

Another Low Point

Only 18 tennis matches were on the schedule as it was finally approved. Of that number 16 will have been played by Saturday afternoon and two matches were rained out. The reduced schedule must be a low point in a spring which had many.

Fewer Than Usual

We understand that the reduced schedule was a result of faculty action regarding the scheduling of all sports. Ironically (or is it really) football was not reduced. Basketball was actually increased, track remained about the same, baseball was increased, and only tennis and golf were reduced. These figures are compared with last year's schedules.

Pray To The Rain Gods

The limit is now 10 football games, 20 basketball games, (including any tournaments), 20 baseball games, 18 tennis matches (including the state tournament), 14 golf matches (including the state tournament), and 6 track meets (including the state meet).

In the past the Presbyterian tennis team has played a full slate of matches. By "full" we mean 20 matches or more. This year we got in 16 out of 18. Next year if the rains are not so co-operative, we may play less than that.

Count Again

It would be a shame to chalk up a tennis season of fewer than 15 matches. But if the rains happen to come at the wrong time next year, that may be the case. If the PC tennis of the past were not so outstanding the faculty action could be partially understood. But why take everything? We hope the committee will meet again and allow the team to play a "full" slate of matches next spring. It's the least they can do.

Block P Banquet On Wednesday; Spring Sports Lettermen Named

Dode Phillips, a former football great on the Erskine gridiron, and Carolyn Gaines, Miss South Carolina of 1963, will be the featured guests at PC's annual athletic banquet Wednesday night.

Athletic director Cally Gault has announced that Phillips, known to many as "Mr. Football in South Carolina," will be the main speaker for the banquet which will get underway at Judd Dining Hall at 7:30.

Gault didn't elaborate on the role that Miss Gaines will play in the affair, but he reported that the Block P members have arranged a special initiation so that they might take her in as an honorary member of the club. She will also be honored with the title "Miss Blue Hose."

One of the main attractions of the banquet will be the announcement of the captains for next year's football team. Other outstanding PC athletes in all intercollegiate sports will receive awards also.

Forty-six letters will be awarded Hose athletes for the current year at the event with 18 in track, 13 in baseball, 8 in tennis and 6 in golf.

All participants in varsity sports here at PC have been given invitations to attend the event.

Letter winners in tennis are Bob Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Dodge Frederick of Ormond Beach, Fla.; Howdy Letzring of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Pete Colins of Ormond Beach, Fla.; Bill Tyson of Bainbridge, Ga.; Bill Gillespie of Newport NeNws, Va.; and Arch Hudgins of Charleston, W. Va. Don Warlick of LaGrange, Ga., will get a manager'st award.

Those earning letters ingolf were Bill Kellam of Virginia Beach, Va.; Jack Westall of Asheville, N. C.; Bunky Hanks of Hampton, S. C.; Bruce Lawrence of Greenwood; Larry Preston of Atlanta, Ga.; and Bill Brown of Gaffney, S. C.

Track lettermen include Doug Allen of Myrtle Beach; Johnny Glover of Clinton; Pat Goldsmith of Lancaster; Mike Lowrance of Macon, Ga.; Reggie Awtrey of Acworth, Ga.; Jimmy Bankhead of Chester; Olin Grant of Chester; Monk Mulligan of Decatur, Ga.; and Jim Johnson of Georgiana, Ala.

Also Tommy Segars of Fairmurn, Ga.; Al Todd of Decatur, Ga.; Will Scott of Mt. Pleasant; Dean Horton of Charlesto Freddie Gossett of Spartanburg James Salvo of Summervill Ronnie Seiple of Fallston, Md Sterlin Jerengan of Atlanta; an Butch McWaters of Clover.

Baseball lettermen are Tom my Williams of Pensacola, Fla Jimmy Cape and Leighton Gran ham, both of Easley; Ron Co ley, Richard Cash and Scott Holcombe, all of Clinton; Jack Nix of Bainbridge, Ga.; Georg Lokey and Don McNeill, bot of Thompson, Ga.; Henry Lowe of Kingstree; Wade Stewart Picayune, Miss.; David Bor ner of Atlanta; and John Etch son of Indianapolis, Ind.

MAKING THE TURN around first base is Don McNeill, center fielder for the Blue Rose. McNeill had a fine day, but in vain as PC lost to Wofford 3-2 on Tuesday. Coaching at first is David Bordner.—Photo by Yarborough.

Five Contests To Conclude 1963-'64 Athletic Year at PC

Baseball, golf, and tennis will make their final appearances of the spring this week-end to wind up the 1963-64 athletic year at Presbyterian College. Only two of the events will be played at PC, with three contests "on the road."

Today the Crusaders of Belmont Abbey College are here for a baseball game on Young Field. The Blue Hose, playing their final game of the spring, have defeated the North Carolinians once this year, that win coming at Belmont. Leighton Grantham is expected to hurl for PC.

Also today the Furman Paladins will meet the PC tennis team in an inter-state match. Furman lost to Presbyterian earlier in the spring by and 8-1 count, and today's match is expected to be about the same. This, too is the final home game for the Hose.

Tomorrow the tennis team will go to Charleston to play their last match of the season. The Citadel Bulldogs will entertain the Hose in an early afternoon match. PC won over the Cadets here by a 7-2 score a month ago.

The high flying Presbyterian golf team will go to Charleston on Monday to tee up against the College of Charleston team. A win has already been posted over the Maroons, that win being in a three-way match just before the State Tournament. With a 9-3 record so far, the Hose expect to make it 10-3 at Charleston.

A postponed match with the golf team of Belmont Abbey is slated for sometime this week, but a definite date has not been set. The match was rained out two weeks ago when the PC team was ready to leave for Gastonia. This match will conclude a highly successful spring for the linksters, who should have an 11-3 mark after the Abbey match.

WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

Basketball All-Star To Join PC Cagemen

An outstanding basketball and baseball star at Anderson College will enroll at Presbyterian College this fall under a full athletic scholarship, it was learned today from the Athletic Department.

The future Hoseman is David Murrell, a 6-3 guard-shortstop from Florence. While at McClenaghan High School Murrell was a member of the All-State South basketball squad in 1962 his senior year. He was a varsity starter at McClenaghan, and was considered one of the better scholastic players in the Florence area in both basketball and baseball.

Murrell played two years of varsity basketball and baseball at Anderson College and it is expected that he will do the same here. As a basketball player Murrell accumulated an enviable record while at Anderson.

In two years he played in 4 games, scoring an average of 1 points per game. He averaged rebounds per game, and the past season he was selected to the Western Carolina Junior College All-Conference team. He was also named to the All-Region 10 team of the National Junior College Athletic Association.

Basketball takes only part of his time, the spring being devoted to baseball. As an Anderson shortstop Murrell hit .333 his freshman season. This season through 11 games, Murrell is hitting .378, with 5 doubles to his credit. He is a flawless fielder.

Commenting about the recruit Coach Musselman said, "I am very glad to have a boy of Murrell's desire and ability coming to Presbyterian College because he will fit in well with the plans for the winter basketball campaign."

'64 Basketball Slate Released By Coach

A 25-game 1964-65 basketball schedule was released today by head basketball coach Art Musselman. The slate includes only 8 home games, but two outstanding tournaments will be entered.

The season will get underway on November 24 at Bristol, Tennessee. At that date the Hose will be entertained by Kings College in the dedication game of the college field house.

The campaign will end with a trip into Kentucky to face two of the better small college basketball teams in that state. The Hose will face Cumberland College and Pikeville College on consecutive nights around the 22 of February to wind up the 20-game slate.

Rising seniors Gary Mike Smith, Bill Megathlin, and Gary Crawford prepare campaign platforms which were presented in chapel today. Final elections are to be held Wednesday. —Photo by Yarborough.

Student Council Platforms Given

Gary Crawford, Bill Megathlin, and Mike Smith, nominees for student body president, made campaign speeches in chapel this morning. They have given The Blue Stocking brief platform statements and we publish them here for your benefit.

GARY CRAWFORD

"The keynote to the majority of administrative activity of Presbyterian College for the past three years has been transition and progress. As one reflects upon the past three years, he can readily perceive changes which have affected nearly every phase of student endeavor, both academic and social.

"This change can easily be traced in Student Council activity. Two years ago a constitutional revision granted the council unprecedented power concerning penalties for violations of the honor code. This year the council has begun a long and meticulous process of revising the constitution.

"The increase in the size of the physical plant will create further need for adaptation on behalf of the Council. I feel that many needs for the present and the future can play a vital role in the fulfillment of these needs and I ask you to give me the opportunity to direct a controlled effort toward their fulfillment.

"If elected president of the Council I shall strive to abolish the alienation which often exists between student and administration. I shall attempt to utilize more fully the power of the Council to voice student opinion and to submit student grievances. I shall also support the creation of a fund which would afford the opportunity to secure quality bands for a concert series. Finally, I shall strive to complete the task of revising the constitution, begun by the Council this year."

BILL MEGATHLIN

"If you elect me to serve you as president of the Student Council, I will work to introduce a three-point program.

"The first of these points will be to continue to strive for a better Council, one that makes its activities more evident to the student body, and one that functions within itself smoothly and efficiently.

"The first of these aspects will "Of special importance in such a program will be the maintenance and strengthening of the honor system, particularly through more complete familiarization of entering students with the honor code.

"The second part of the program will be the conclusion of the work the Council this year began in completely revising the constitution. As the Council grows and becomes more effective, and as the students themselves grow, the constitution must also be revised and adapted to present standards and situations.

"The final phase of my platform is that I will try to initiate here at PC some type of system that will grant extra privileges to seniors.

In connection with this, I will study student handbooks from other colleges to obtain ideas about a system of senior privileges and then make proposals early next fall.

"I fully realize the importance of the Council and particularly of the Council president and am greatly honored that you would nominate me for the position. If elected, I will promise to serve as best I am able."

MIKE SMITH

"First, I would like to commend Tommy Williams and his council for the fine job they've done this year. I hope that the council-elect will uphold such a tradition.

"If elected, I have no radical

(Continued on page 6)

New Parking Restrictions Announced By Ed Campbell

Mr. Oren F. Beaty, plant superintendent, and the college maintenance crews will begin work this week preparing reserve parking space for faculty members and administrative officers, G. Edward Campbell, college business manager, announced Wednesday.

Mr. Campbell said that the painters would arrange parking facilities for faculty members in parking lots adjoining Douglas House, Jacobs, Neville, and Belk.

"We would request that students respect these reserve areas at all times so that faculty members will have places to park when they drive to campus," Mr. Campbell stated.

He added, "There is plenty of space in the lots behind Spencer and Bailey dormitories to accommodate cars that might be denied parking near Douglas House, the science hall, or Neville."

At the same time Mr. Campbell renewed and restated a request made last year that students not park behind Belk Auditorium.

His memorandum stated, "Students should park either on Maple Street or South Broad Street, or better still, in the Bailey parking lot near the Maple Street entrance."

Six Awarded PC Founder's Grants

Six outstanding high school seniors have been selected to receive scholarships to attend Presbyterian College next fall, Student Dean A. J. Thackston announced today.

They are: Eugene Shelton Browder, Jr., of Wallace, N. C.; Charles Wallace Eagles of Florence; George Randall Grant of Andrews; John Spencer Mebane of Dunwoody, Ga.; James Herbert Powell of Scranton; and Frances Carol Tumlinson of Valdosta, Ga.

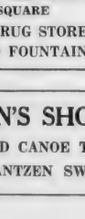
These students of superior intellectual achievement were chosen on the basis of intellect, leadership, character and need from among a large group of applicants and a limited number of finalists brought to the campus for the competitive awards.

The grants range up to $5,600 each for four years of study at Presbyterian.

The Campus Scene

Chapel Schedule

Dean Gettys has announced the chapel schedule for next week.



Dr. Fraser will present a special film on Monday, and on Wednesday the choir will give a program of religious music.

On Friday Leon Bullard, editor of the PaC-SaC, will make the dedication of this year's annual.

Placement Bureau

Mrs. Barbara Gallion, Secretary to the Dean of Students, has announced that a representative from the J. B. White Department Store chain will be on campus Wednesday to talk with interested seniors.

Seniors who would like to talk with the representative should see Mrs. Gallion before Wednesday to schedule appointments.

Right Where It's Needed
BOSTITCH "Handy" STAPLER
with wall bracket, staple remover, and 1000 staples

Mounted on the wall, never out of sight . . . in the kitchen, by the phone . . . to fasten quickly whenever you want it.

The CHRONICLE

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

SUMMERTIME OPPORTUNITY

(Male Students Over 18)

Students can earn in excess of $150.00 per week towards scholarships, trips, prizes and awards.

This year Collier's Vacation Earnings Program offers college students more prizes and awards than ever before in the history of the Company;

A WORLD'S FAIR WHIRL & RHINE RENDEZVOUS
—Nine days all expense paid trip to the World's Fair
Holland, Germany, France, Switzerland
—Fifteen $1,000.00 Cash Scholarsips
—Valuable Merchandise awards

Students accepted for summer will have an opportunity to work in location of their choice.

Asheville, N. C.
Charlotte, N. C.
Winston-Salem, N. C.
Durham, N. C.
Rocky Mount, N. C.
Raleigh, N. C.
Fayetteville, N. C.
Wilmington, N. C.
Greensboro, N. C.
Elizabeth City, N. C.
Myrtle Beach, S. C.
Greenville, S. C.
Spartanburg, S. C.
Columbia, S. C.
Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

Qualified previous Employees would have opportunity for Management.

All who would be interested fill in the next few lines and mail promptly in order to receive first consideration.

Mr. Marshall S. Rosenfeld
District Manager
Suite 817
201 S. Tryon Building
Charlotte, N. C.

Name _____
School Address _____ Phone _____
Home Address _____ Phone _____
Date available for interview _____
Date you could begin _____
Area you prefer to work _____

Engineers: Pitied In School And Envied Later

WASHINGTON (CPS) — Pity for the engineering major, seemingly swamped with endless work for four years of college, turns to envy in June.

According to the College Placement Council, the largest starting salary for June graduates again this year will go to students holding degrees in aeronautical and electrical engineering.

For most graduating in these two categories, monthly income will zoon to $621 when they get their first jobs. At the other end of the scale were graduates starting out in banking finance and insurance where salaries were averaging $445 a month.

While engineering jobs remained on top, salaries increased only 2.5 per cent over a year ago.

Humanities and social sciences graduates are facing an average starting salary of $483 a month —less than 1 per cent more than in 1962.

In terms of type of employer of graduates in all curriculums, the starting level averaged highest in aircraft, space vehicles and components at $620 a month —close to the aeronautical and electrical engineering range.

Merchandising and related jobs also were low on the list at $461 a month average. The level for banking, finance and insurance was below a year ago, while merchandising was up 2.9 per cent during the year.

With a non-technical undergraduate degree, masters degree holders in business administration or commerce can exepect about $620 a month starting salary compared to $608 last year.

But if the master's degree was preceded by a technical undergraduate degree, business administration or commerce graduates can expect about $688 a month—a drop from last year's $692.

While wages for accounting graduates have been accelerating in past years, they increased only $2 during the past twelve months.

Both technical and non-technical students experienced over-all gains of less than half as large as the previous year.

Among employers making a number of job offers, the automotive group paid the largest salary increase—a jump of $28 to $598 a month. Chemicals and drugs followed with a $25 boost to the $605 level. Public utilities continued their pronounced upward trend with a hike of $24 a month to an average starting salary of $585.

Construction and building materials manufacturers, offering fewer jobs this year, dropped salaries by $19 a month to the $529 level. Banking, finance and insurance dipped $5 to $445.

Council Platforms

(Continued from page 3)

changes to make before a complete study can be made of existing conditions. However, I would like to see a continuation of the fine school spirit with the Freshman Control Board and the cheerleaders as the focal point.

"I feel there is a definite need to establish better relationships between the students and townspeople and that there is also a need to encourage more co-operation between the faculty and the students. To aid in the latter, I feel that a faculty advisor to the Student Council should be elected.

"I propose an extensive study of the constitution and honor system, and a student-faculty examination of the chapel situation. More student participation in the clubs and activities on campus should be encouraged.

"I fully understand and realize the importance and the duties of this office. I will strive for a more unified student body with all students taking a more active part in school activities. With your support the Council can be of vital service to the school."

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY (ALL DAY)
SATURDAY AFTERNOO
THE INCREDIBLE MR. LIMPET
Don Knotts, Carole Cook
Andrew Duggan, Jack We
STARTS SATURDAY NIGHT—7:00
MUSCLE BEACH PART
Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Studen
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

Do Your Spring Shopping at . . . Belk's
Bermudo Shorts 3.99
Short Sleeve Shirts 3.99

Efird's dept. store
SPARTANBURG, S. C.
UP INTERSTATE 26 ON MAIN STREET offers a new 18 case shipment . . .
FAMOUS NAME TRADITIONAL Sport & Dress
SHIRTS
Sold in Leading Stores for $5.98 - $6.50
$1.99
This is the shirt event you've been hearing about!
Only slight irregularities
• ALL WITH LOCKER LOOP
• ALL NEW '64 PATTERNS
SIZES: 14-14½ • 15-15½ 16-16½ • 17-17½
MEN'S DEPT. - MAIN FLOOR - EFIRDS - SPARTANBURG, S. C.

32

1964-65

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., September 18, 1964 | NO. 1

Dining Hall

Science Building

Clinton Dormitory

The Immediate Goal

PC Gets Challenge; Town Starts Drive

Presbyterian College received a double-barrelled boost to its long-range development program with the announcement today of a $150,000 challenge grant and new subscriptions totaling $162,180 from the Clinton area toward claiming the matching funds.

President Marc C. Weersing said the challenge grant has been made by one of the largest foundations of the Southeast which must remain anonymous. It is dependent upon Presbyterian College raising $600,000 over the next three years.

Upon receiving preliminary word of the grant, a group of Clinton leaders immediately conducted an unannounced whirlwind drive for capital funds and raised the $162,180 to kick off the campaign. This leaves $437,820 to be acquired as the college looks beyond the local area for matching funds.

President Weersing said the funds will be sought mainly among individual alumni and friends, corporations, fundations and other organizations. He pointed out that churches of the South Carolina Synod had held an extensive campaign for PC which produced a record-breaking $1,967,103 in 1962. The Georgia Synod is planning a similar campaign in 1966.

The total of $750,000 to be raised by the matching grant and the funds to claim it will be used to complete the cost of three new buildings now under construction on the Presbyterian College campus. These buildings —a new science hall, dining hall and PC's first women's dormitory—are scheduled for completion by next September. A total of $1,1000,000 toward their combined cost of $1,850,000 will come from subscriptions of the 1962 campaign. Other funds raised in that effort were earmarked for endowment.

Dr. Weersing pointed out that the Clinton area had subscribed $326,974.60 during the 1962 drive. with the additional $162,180 reported today, this increases to $489,154.60 the total amound subscribed by the local area of some 3,000 residents. These funds will be used to pay for the new women's dormitory which will bear the name of Clinton Hall. The cost of this air-conditioned facility to accommodate 122 girls and a house mother will run to $488,420.

In making his two-pronged announcement today, President Weersing said:

"The challenge grant and the response of the Clinton people toward claiming it are of tremendous significance in the plans of Presbyterian College. This foundation is one of the most selective agencies in the southeast. Its endorsement of the college in this manner will strengthen the confidence of others who want to support quality Christian education . . . ."

Dean Marks Changes For Academic Program

A dramatic step in PC's program of academic achievement was announced today by Academic Dean Joseph M. Gettys as he outlined a new schedule of quantitative and qualitative scholastic requirements.

Changes effected by the new requirements, do not apply to the graduating class of 1965, but will affect in increasing amounts the classes of 1966, 67, 68 and 69.

The present graduation require ment of 130 semester hours with a quality point ratio (qpr) of 1.8 will change to 126 hours with a qpr or 2.0 by 1969. Students who plan to graduate in 1966, 67 or 68 may do so under present standards, or they may apply

(Continued on page 4)

Strengthened Faculty Tightens Clamps

A 37-member faculty, 46 per cent of them with earned doctorates, began last Saturday to tighten the clamps in a stepped-up academic program for PC's 85th session.

Describing it as "the strongest faculty PC has ever had," Academic Dean Joseph M. Gettys said the instructing faculty has nine new members. These, as well as five other staff additions, considerably increase the size of the college staff.

Replacing the retiring Dr. Edouard Patte, Dr. Robert A. Stebbins has been appointed associate professor of sociology.

A native of Rhinelander, Wisc., Dr. Stebbins earned his B. A. from Macalester College, his master's and Ph. D. from the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Patte, who came to PC in 1947, will continue his work with the robed choir and will also remain the sole member of the colleges fine arts department.

Making the third man in the department, Dr. Robert T. Lynn has been named associate professor of biology. He joins department chairman Dr. Alex B. Stump and instructor Carl Freeman.

Dr. Lynn is a native of Texas, received both his B. A. and M. A. degrees from Florida State and his Ph. D. from the University of Oklahoma.

Mr. Walter L. Robbins has joined the faculty as assistant professor in German. He replaces Dr. Robert C. Bankhead, who this year is devoting all his time to his pastoral duties at Rocky Springs Presbyterian Church near Laurens.

Mr. Robbins is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of South Carolina and comes to PC from the University of Illinois, where he has been an instructor since 1960.

He plans to receive his Ph. D. from the University of North Carolina next June.

Miss Sarah Rachel Smith, another woman teacher for the school, is the new assistant professor in the English Department. She has been working toward her doctorate at the University of Tennessee and before that was graduated with honors from Maryville College.

A second addition to the English department is Mr. Gerald K. Wells, who comes here as instructor from the University of Richmond. Mr. Wells received his B. S. and M. A. from Richmond and has taught for four years in Virginia public schools. He is a native of Richmond.

The new head of the mathematics department is Dr. Billy Hoyte Maddox, who recently completed his Ph. D. at the University of South Carolina.

A native of Pahokee, Fla., Dr. Maddox received his B. S. from Troy State College and his master's from the University of Florida.

Dr. Donald F. Walton has joined the faculty as associate professor of education and psychology. He comes here directly from Baylor University, where he recently completed his doctorate in psychology.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., Dr. Walton received his B. A. from Southwestern at Memphis and his master's from Baylor. He has seven years of teaching experience to his credit.

Mr. H. Larry Ingle is the new assistant professor in the history department. He has been working toward his doctorate at the University of Wisconsin for the past year. His other degrees were earned at Wake Forest College and American University.

He is a native of Greensboro, N. C., and taught history two years at Wilmington College before beginning his doctoral studies.

Dr. W. Fred Chapman, Jr., is PC's new professor of economics. Dr. Chapman, who left work as an economist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture to come to PC, is a native of Belton.

He received his B. S. and M. S. degrees in economics at Clemson and his Ph. D. from the University of Florida. Dr. Chapman is also widely published in his field.

Presbyterian is also enjoying five staff additions this year.

Returning to his alma mater after what has been termed a very worthwhile career in the U. S. Army, Col. Powell A. Fraser is the new director of development for PC.

Col. Fraser joined the staff Aug. 15 and began immediately to add his efforts to the long-range development of the college.

Miss Marian Fogartie Hill was appointed last April as PC's first dean of women. She comes to PC after working closely with President Weersing for several years as Director of Christian Education at several churches where he was pastor.

She will spend much of her time this year developing a broader program for women and in student recruitment.

Mrs. J. Holmes Smith, retired dietician and hostess for Columbia Theological Seminary, has joined the staff as housemother for Oeland House.

Mrs. Smith served the seminary for 21 years and, as she said, "retired to a peaceful life. Here I'm enjoying myself very much." She regards her assignment as a new experience, having worked with men students for the past two decades.

Mr. John P. Daniluk has come to PC as administrative assistant. In his new position, he will work as an assistant to the business office and the dean of students in supervising various campus activities.

He recently retired from the Army after 20 years of service, and was at PC from 1960 until 1962 as a member of the ROTC staff.

The college military staff was recently increased by the assignment of Sgt. Joel B. Cantrell. He came here in early August from Hawaii, where he served for three years.

The Sergeant has also had tours of duty in Germany, California, Furman University, and the University of Nevada.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

A Forward Thrust

An educational institution, like any other aggregate of men, achieves success or falls in defeat according to the ability of those men that set its pace and direct its course.

Examining the history of Presbyterian College, one may find many cracks in our little cornucopia, but somehow there has always been a figure of consequence to rapidly patch them up.

Less than two years ago there was a fault in the most primary component of this institution. The faculty at that time exhibited the transitory urge of itinerant workers. Doctorates were scarce and departments were understaffed. And yet, there were those key men here then that form the backbone of the dynamic and ever advancing faculty we find before us today.

An academic dean was selected from those men, and he soon became the mortar for academic bricks and the mainstay of the present faculty. The raising of Dr. Joseph M. Gettys to academic dean was but a mere preface to the raising of academic standards he has effected and will continue to encourage.

His ability to acquire discerning professors, explore new areas of faculty self-investigation and promote a library improvement program of titanic design are indeed indicative of the future position PC will hold in advanced education. —B. A.

A Kinder Equality

Milton contended that from all evil came good, and perhaps this contention is applicable to the present racial strife in the North. To be pleased with these violent acts is sheer stupidity as it is equally senseless not to derive some hypothesis of the reasons behind the occurrences.

Said Undersecretary of State and former New York Governor Averell Harriman, "Recently in counseling obedience to the Civil Rights Act, a Southern lawyer recognized that lawlessness could never advance life in the South. We, too, must understand that lawlessness in the North can never advance the Negro cause."

Though he may often refuse to acknowledge it, the Southerner is daily aware of the problems of the Southern Negro. It was the racial strife in Harlem and Rochester which made the North acknowledge its own Birminghams and St. Augustines.

If the Northerner will realize that he must not just carry the popular banner of the Southern Negro but will accept the problem of race on the local level, then indeed racial equality shall be advanced.

The North and South have both felt the rumblings of the Negro in his quest for an equal identity. It is with an understanding of each other's problems through full awareness of local race situations that equality will be attained as a national reality. —B. A.

Pulp Time Again

Campaign years have a quality for unearthing the very literary bowels of this nation, and 1964 is no exception.

The American public has an affinity for the petty and the abilityof periscoping minutia into monstrosity. It is indeed ironic that the writers of campaign pulp can find a reading public at a time when major issues should be of concern and that they can evidently carry an equal effect in areas of public opinion that noted journalists achieve daily.

The popularity of a campaign pulp writer is not indicative of his talent. His popularity is indicative of an American public's apathy toward national issues of worldwide consequence.

Let us concern ourselves with the candidates' views on foreign policy, civil rights, the supreme court, and other areas of intelligent pursuit. Let us not delve into the shoddy pits that the culls of the writing profession economically rise out of every four years. —B. A.

Dean Of Women Faces Challenge

By GARY CRAWFORD
Blue Stocking Feature Editor

The job for PC's first Dean of Women will most certainly be a tough one, and the college is lucky to have a person who can easily fulfill the duties of the position.

That person is Mis Marian Fogartie Hill, who comes to the job with many years of experience with young people.

As far as biography is concerned, Miss Hill is a graduate of Bellhaven College where she majored in French. After graduating, she taught in elementary schools for seven years before entering full-time church work.

The new dean has worked with President Weersing previously as Director of Christian Education at several Presbyterian churches which were closely related with colleges or were located in college towns. And this summer, as a sort of refresher before coming to PC, she took a course in guidance and counseling at Peabody in Nashville, Tenn.

But much more impressive than her past experience is Miss Hill herself. She is the type person who will easily gain the confidence of all students, men as well as women, and she invites students to come by to meet her, for consultation, or for guidance.

Just as an example of the problems faced by the Dean of Women, there are now fewer than 30 women boarding at PC. There should be over 100 next September when the women's dorm is completed.

"Our most immediate problem," remarked Miss Hill, "is to coordinate coeducational activities into the present school program. We will begin to try to meet the girls' needs in every phase of the college curiculum."

Miss Hill feels that PC's men students are ready to fully accept co-eds into the college and commented that their full acceptance would be hastened by the increase in number—which was hinted at this year with the opening of Oeland House and should be fully realized next year.

From a personal standpoint as well as an official one, Miss Hill is in complete sympathy with freshmen and transfer students. She stated that her problems were in many ways similar to theirs. But judging again from her affable manner, Miss Hill will soon have few serious problems—if any at all.

Running Dry

Rush Rules Changes Explained By Elrod

New rush procedures premiered this week as Pi Kappa Alpha and Alpha Sigma Phi held open socials.

In a marked change from last year, the 7-11 p. m. functions do not allow women present.

Upcoming open socials are those to be held by Pi Kappa Phi Sept. 21, Sigma Nu Sept. 24, Kappa Alpha Sept. 28, and Theta Chi Oct. 1.

No parties will be held Oct. 5-8 because of quarter quizzes.

Smokers will be held during the period of Oct. 12-20. Starting with Pi Kappa Alpha, the 6-11 p. m. functions continue one a day with the exception of Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the following order: Alpha Sigma Phi, Sigma Nu, Theta Chi, Pi Kappa Phi, and Kappa Alpha.

No fraternity will be permitted to vote on Pledges after 12 p. m. on the night of its smoker.

Homecoming, Oct. 9-10, will be an open weekend rush. Quiet period will be observed from Tuesday, Oct. 20, at 11 p. m. until Oct. 22 at 6 p. m.

Also, each fraternity will be allowed to have one party other than its social and smoker. This party must be held between Sept. 14 and Oct. 3 and girls may be present.

However, the IFC reminds fraternity men that deans of women of colleges in the area have requested that girls be invited on weekends only, and suggests that this request be followed.

Said IFC president Robert Elrod, "The careful observance of these rules will indeed promote a better rush season, which in turn shall promote the betterment of all fraternities, present as well as future."

Dr. Patte Announces Choir Members For The Semester

Dr. Edouard Patte, conductor of PC's robed and chapel choirs, reported Wednesday that an unusually large number of candidates appeared for choir try-outs this week. They were tested in tonal memory, rhythm and pitch, using the well-known Seashore phonograph records, Dr. Patte said.

"This is by far the best group of candidates we have examined during the past 18 years," commented Dr. Patte. "I am very much encouraged and feel that we are going to have a great year.

Results of the try-outs have been posted, and the chapel choir now has 43 members. They are Paul Conger, Woody McGinn, Jack Greene, Jim Loyd, Bill Hanger, Lewis Hay, Arthur Baxter, Phil Burns, Bill Humphries, Sam Waters, Henry Stakely, Earlie Rash, and David Worth.

Also, G. Wardlaw, Jim Stanford, Bill Quinn, David Wyatt, Arch Hudgins, John Guest, Woody Hall, Tim Grey, Charlie Hayes, Mike McGehee, Kenneth Terrell, John Weigel, James Singleton, Joe Singleton, David Cottingham, David Berry, Sam Lipsey, Hank Parks, Jim Bruce, Bill Riddle, Bob Gettman, Johnny Rogers, and Walt Shepard.

Also, Leslie Newsome, Richard Waters, Bill McFadden, John McCallum, Tom Baumgardner, Jimmy Ramage, and Don Dillard. Organist this year is Tom Holland.

BILL LOEBLE
Managing Ed.

Side Comments

Sock Needs Help To Continue Work

With the beginning of another school year The Blue Stocking, like any other campus newspaper, needs students to fill vacancies in its staff.

The campus newspaper of PC has developed over the years into a competent voice of the student body. Since its beginning in 1920 it has been designated "All American" 14 times by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The Sock belongs to the South Carolina Collegiate Press Association as well as the ACP. Last year the paper also became a member of the U. S. Student Press Association and subscribed to the Collegiate Press Service—which might be compared to The Associated Press or United Press International in the professional journalistic world.

Another point of pride The Sock has is that it was named the best smal college newspaper in South Carolina in 1962-63 and has also received numerous other SCCPA awards.

The continued progress of The Blue Stocking depends on an adequate and willing staff. With this in mind, we ask for your help. We need writers for all categories, and we also need typists. With your help we can continue to grow in size and merit.

All interested students are encouraged to see Walter Wells or Bob Allison, our co-editors, or Bill Loeble.

Speaking of Sports

with AL PEARCE

Prospects Likely That I-M Football Will Not Appear

The very likely prospect of no intramural football at PC this year has been met with downright indignation among those who annually look forward to the sport. For several weeks now the rumors have been floating around that the sport would not appear of the I-M calendar and the reaction is, at best, not a good one.

Still No Place To Play

Athletic Director Cally Gault has said on several occassions that steps are now being taken to find a suitable playing field for the sport. As of this writing we have not heard of any promising results. Even the President of the Student Body, Gary Mike Smith, has personally searched for a playing site. His expeditions, too, have not been successful. And it's about that time again for the football fans.

College Building Boom

The sudden turn of events is a result of PC expansion. In past years the varsity football squad practiced almost entirely on the "upper practice field," directly across from Vetville. Intramural football was played on the "lower field" and there was no problem. But now things aren't so simple.

Blue Collars Instead of Hose

Construction crews have replaced the varsity football players on the upper field as the new girls' dorm is going up where the Blue Hose used to practice. Following the chain of nature, the varsity football players have taken over the lower field and now the intramural football players are literally left out in the cold. They have no field to play on.

Fact Reluctantly Accepted

It is an accepted fact now that football, the annual leader in the year's intramural calendar, will not be the first sport played. It is now seriously doubted whether or not it wil be scheduled at all. The teams are anxious to begin practice, the Intramural Council is ready to draw up a schedule and the spirit is suddenly being aroused for I-M play. But just where are the teams going to play?

Plaza Doubles As Field

Almost any afternoon you can find a small football game of some sort going on at the "far" end of the plaza. Several teams have jokingly threatened to take their players down there and begin to practice in earnest. Yet such optimism that the teams will even get to play is not the rule.

Here's The Mystery

The real mystery behind this whole mess is why someone didn't have enough foresight to make provisions during the summer for the situation they must have known would be faced. Apparently no one in the Athletic Department thought much about the lack of playing space until it was mentioned to them. Surely someone realized that the changing face of the campus would force a change in the intramural playing facilities. And now, when the teams are ready to begin play, the job of finding these facilities must begin.

We Are Strongly Against . . .

We are strongly against the prospect of having no student football this winter. The absence of the sport will not be popular with the students, either, and much can be expected to be said about the situation if something is not done very soon. We call for a complete study of the problem, a set of alternative solutions, and a meeting of the representatives of the various established teams to decide on one that is agreeable to all.

WELCOME PC STUDENTS
ADAIR'S MEN'S SHOP
— COURT SQUARE —

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

Major Problems In Line As PC Opens Tomorrow

There's little doubt Presbyterian College's major worries in the coming football season will come from the trouble-filled Blue Hose line.

With the 1964 opener against Frederick only a day away, the PC front wall suffers from a critical lack of size and experience. And the gridiron crystal ball leaves no questions about the prospects facing the Presbyterians unless new line talent develops quickly.

When the Hosemen line up for the opening kickoff the starting front echelon will average only 195 pounds per man from end to end, with the biggest lineman tipping the scales at 203 pounds.

As for experience, the Hose line can boast only seven lettermen—two ends, three guards and two centers. Twelve lettered linemen from the 1963 season have departed, leaving Coach Cally Gault no tackle who has ever entered a college game.

Center is probably the strongest position along the forward wall with two lettermen and a promising rookie on hand. Co-captain George Lokey, a 193-pounder from Thomson, Ga., handles the top pivot job. Junior Billy Love of Gaffney offers rugged support there, and freshman Mickey Hampshire of Atlanta appears ready for varsity action.

Two lettermen seniors at the guards gives PC a solid first-unit midsection. Mike Lowrance, 200-pound co-captain from Macon, Ga., and 185-pound Bernard West of Moultrie, Ga., are the top men at these posts. Reserve help will come from scrappy non-lettermen sophomores Allan Harris of Florence and Bob Warren of Allendale. Rookie Roy Squires, a solid 203-pound Macon product, could also see early action.

The tackle positions are the critical problem. John Monk, a 193-pound sophomore from Atlanta who lettered at guard last year, has been shifted to the left tackle slot; and 202-pound non-letterman Jimmy Cape of Easley occupies the right tackle position. Newcomers Jim Helms of Dublin, Ga., aid Marion Freeman of Clinton play behind them.

The end situation also has been put in the critical bracket with the announcement this past week that first-unit flanker Joe Lawson of Union is scholastically ineligible for the 1964 season. This leaves Jimmy Bankhead of Chester and Garnet Welch of Logansport, Ind., the only lettered ends. Sophomore James Smith of Sylvania, Ga., will have to get his varsity experience early.

Lokey, Coach Gault, Mike Lowrance

Aerial Display May Be Seen Saturday

Presbyterian College's opponent in tomorrow night's football opener outweighs the Blue Hose in the line by a margin averaging over 25 pounds per man, but that doesn't upset PC Coach Cally Gault too much.

"Frederick is larger than we are at every line position, so our offense won't try to run over them," the Hose coach strategized today. "We'll pass a lot, and we have pretty good speed in backfield. Physically we're in top condition."

Gault is cautious not to sound optimistic, however, warning that the Lions have a backfield "just as fast as ours" to go along with their big line. "They can throw the ball better than most teams," adds the PC mentor whose Presbyterians are expected to fill the sky with their own aerials Saturday night.

All-Campus Tourney Draws 243 Entrants

It's billed as "The World's Largest Tennis Tournament" and with 243 entrants it must be just that. And yet there are some who will question the legality of the term "tennis" to what will be going on for the next several years on the PC courts.

In case you haven't heard the annual All-Campus Tennis Tournament began Wednesday. The play is scheduled to continue until a winner and a runner-up are crowned, that is if the winter snows don't force a postponement. Three weeks is being estimated as the time to end the event.

Coach Gordon Warden, chairman of the Intramural Committee, feels quite safe in calling the PC spectacular the world's largest. At no time, the young coach commented, has he heard of an open tennis tournament with so many entrants. "And it is really heart-warming to realize that all the freshmen volunteered to play," concluded Warden.

In addition to the freshman bloc there are players from the faculty, administation and some co-eds. But the largest number of players is from the student body and a few of the seeded players are being watched by Coach Warden for possible varsity team berths in the spring.

Drawing first-round byes were Col. Powell Fraser, Grady Marshall, John Benson, Bill Bowman, Bobby Hibbitts, Roy Edwads, John Sheffield, Ronald Thompson and Dave Duniap.

Strong-Armed Quarterback To Lead Offensive Threat

Passing specialist Leighton Grantham was tapped today by Presbyterian Coach Cally Gault to direct PC's "wide-open" offense in the 194 opener against Frederick College Saturday night at Clinton.

The announcement comes as no surprise, since the Hose mentor had predicted earlier that PC's backfield will combat line weaknesses with speed and passes. Grantham, a strong-armed 200-pounder from Easley, has tossed for over 1,000 aerial yards in two years, and has been the number one field general in PC's pre-season drills.

The starting backfield named by Gault includes three of the Hose's top offensive performers of last year, and a non-letterman at fullback. All are juniors.

Veteran halfbacks Wade Stewart of Picayune, Miss., and Don McNeill of Thomson, Ga., will add running talent to the Presbyterian split-T attack. This impressive pair of 185-pounders averaged 4.5 yards per carry as starters in 1963.

The non-letterman starter is fullback Sam Williams, a scooting 180-pounder from Monroeville, Ala. The loss of the top three fullbacks from last year marks this post as the backfield question mark.

Letterman Jackie Nix quarterbacks the second unit, and this senior from Bainbridge, Ga., could step in to replace Grantham if necessary. And if neither of the two veteran quarterbacks can move the ball, Gault may call on untried sophomore Mike Donovan of Easley.

The second team halfback posts will be filled by letterman senior Sandy Hagood of Easley and freshman Joe Linder from Moultrie, Ga. Hagood, a 145-pounder who caught nine passes for 209 yards in four games last year, is expected to be one of the leading Blue Hose aerial targets again this season.

34 PC Cadets Complete Summer Camp At Fort Brag

Thirty-four Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets of Presbyterian College successfully completed the six-week course of infantry training at Fort Bragg, North Carolina this past summer. The period of intensive training began on June 13 and the cadets were dismissed Friday morning, July 24.

As a prerequisite for a ROTC-gained commission all cadets must be judged as "successfully completing" the training. Normally the cadets will attend the camp between their junior and senior years in college and then are awarded their commission upon graduation.

Each candidate for the commission is carefully observed and his performance in all phases of camp life is recorded. At the conclusion of the sixth week each cadet's record is compiled and the standing of each candidate is figured. Making up part of the scoring system is the score for performance of a particular leadership position, the score of each cadet in his live firing tests, the physical conditioning scores and the rating on a leadership reaction series of tests. A final exam is also included.

Five of the cadets from PC were recommended for Distinguished Military Students awards. They were Lewis Hay, Arch Hudgins, George Lewis, George Sease and John Smith. In order to be recommended for DMS a cadet must show exceptional abilities in job performance and leadership.

A highlight of the camp was the visit to the training areas by institutional heads from schools throughout the southeast. Dr. Marc Weersing and Col. A. J. Thackston visited the camp and accompanied by Capt. Joe Maupin of the PC instructor group, visited with many of the PC cadets.

The final ceremonies of the camp had the awarding of commissions to seven PC cadets. Lt. Gen. Bowen, Commanding General of the XVII Airborne Corps, was the main speaker after which Wait Burch, Brad Campbell, Hugh Harris, Harold Holmes, Andy Karlsons, Tom Singleton and Read Smartt were commissioned as 2nd Lieutenants in the U. S. Army.

Taking aim—Cadet Cleve Jacobs is shown here taking aim at some distant target. When the photo was made, Jacobs was participating in mock battle along with numerous other PC cadets who were also at Bragg for the six-weeks training program.

Changes Also Noted In Military Program

Changes characterize the military program this semester as revisions are instituted in the grading system, cadet battalion organization, and system of drill absences.

Lt. Col. Richard W. Ulrich, professor of military science, announced that the ROTC Cadet Battalion would be expanded from four to five companies to parallel the increased enrollments this year. The expansion also provides for an added number of leadership and command positions to members of the upper three classes.

The grading system has been changed to conform with the trend towards higher academic standards throughout the college curriculum. A mark of 70 is now required as the minimum grade.

Though the number of authorized cuts from military classes has not changed, new rules do not permit any unauthorized absences from military drill.

Clarke Receives PhD; Stallworth Gets Th M

George W. Clarke, associate professor of history, has received his doctorate degree from the University of North Carolina, and Thomas A. Stallworth, assistant professor of Bible and chaplain to students, completed his work for a master of theology degree from Union Theological Seminary.

Dr. Clarke has served on the PC faculty since 1956. Mr. Stallworth returns to the college after a year's leave of absence.

212 New Students Work For Degrees

A record number of 212 new students registered at Presbyterian College on Thursday as preparations were completed for the start of the 85th academic year.

Col. A. J. Thackston, Dean of Students, announced a total of 597 applications. Of this number the college anticipated the total number of freshmen and transfer students to reach 211 including 190 freshmen.

Youth Day Brings 1,000 To Campus

Some 1,000 young people from throughout South Carolina will visit the Presbyterian College campus this Saturday for the second annual Presbyterian Youth Day.

They represent members of the Senior High Fellowship organizations of the Presbyterian churches of the state.

The young men and women have been invited to be guests of Presbyterian College for this occasion which will feature campus tours, a special program of welcome by PC students, supper and attendance that night at the Blue Hose-Frederick College football game.

Presbyterian Youth Day is scheduled to get underway at 3:30 p. m. Saturday with registration in the Douglas House, Blue Key leadership fraternity will sponsor guided tours from this point and will present a program of entertainment in Belk Auditorium, starting at 4:30 p. m. The latter program will include talks by President Marc C. Weersing and various student leaders as well as numerous musical selections.

PC Grads Receive Army Commissions

The science department of Presbyterian College received a $1,000 unrestricted departmental grant from Gulf Oil Corporation in July.

President Marc C. Weersing said the grant was presented by H. M. O'Kelly of Clinton, Gulf area sales representative. It is one of 50 distributed annually by the Gulf Company to selected departments in universities and colleges under one phase of the company's aid to education program which will total $1,800,000 during 1964.

Presbyterian College also has received gifts from other sections of the Gulf program for the past several years.

Changes In Program

(Continued from page 1)

for permision to graduate under alternate requirements specifically outlined and regulated by the new schedule.

A qpr of 3.3 rather than the present 3.2 will be required for dean's list honors in 1966, and ratio of 3.6 will be necessary for unlimited cuts in 1966.

The new schedule will also bring about changes in the limitations hours, classification, graduation honors, probation regulations, automatic suspension and permanent exclusion.

Except for the revisions cited, few changes will affect students presently enroled. The class of 1969 (matriculating in 1965), however, will enter under the full impact of this step-up in scholastic requirements.

Students entering in or before 1964 and who fail to graduate with their class wil be subject to the requirements governing the class matriculating in 1965 (graduating in 1969).

A full explanation of these changes appears in the 1965-66 catalog which wil be published next month.

Campus Briefs

All students holding Red Cross Senior Life Saving and Water Safety Instructor certificates are asked to register their names with Prof. Fakkema, room 209, Douglas House.

Mr. Stallworth has announced the following chapel schedule for next week. Monday's devotional will be conducted by Mr. Stallworth. Dr. Weersing will speak on Wednesday, and a program for Friday will be anounced at a later date.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY-SATURDAY
THE UNSINKABLE
MOLLY BROWN
Debbie Reynolds, Harve Presnell

MONDAY-TUESDAY
Nancy Kwan as TAMAHINE
John Fraser, Dennis Price

STARTS WEDNESDAY
THE KILERS

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
ENGLISH LEATHER AND CANOE TOILETRIES
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
NEWS CARRIER NEEDED
The Atlanta Constitution offers the position of news carrier for a daily and Sunday campus-only route at excellent commission.
Please call or write—
Mr. Jos. W. Kay
P. O. Box 223
Hartwell, Georgia
Phone: FR 6-2127

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

Do Your Fall Shopping at . . . Belk's
A Hearty Welcome To All Students
Belk's of Clinton welcomes back all students, faculty members and administrative personnel and hopes that the 1964-'65 year at P. C. will be the greatest in the school's history. A special invitation is issued to all freshmen to drop in at Belk's and look at their full stock of collegiate fashions.

Student Staff Places Filled

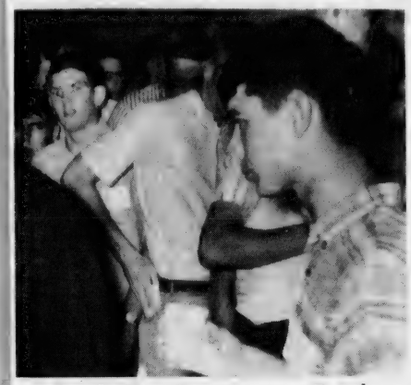
Senior Mike Lowrance of Macon, Ga., this year heads up the list of proctors who are in charge of PC's male residence halls.

Lowrance's staff consists of sixteen juniors and seniors who keep watch on the dorms. In Bailey are Dee Hodges and Gary Mike Smith. Sherrod Rhodes and David Davies are proctors in Laurens Dorm.

Those in charge of newly reconditioned Smyth Dormitory are Ben Hurley, Bill Gaston, Henry Knox, Bud Alford and Henry Lovett.

Bill Gillespie, Dan Taylor and Mike Smith are assigned to Spencer Hall and Alex Patrick is in the Gray House.

Gary Crawford is proctor for the temporary quarters in the Hotel Mary Musgrove.



Douglas House is carefully proctored by Ray Summerlin, Frank Hendrix and John Morrison. Ike Cobb is again this year keeper of the keys for study rooms in Neville.

Charlie Jordan has been joined in the mail room this year by Christie Patterson, and Lewis Hay is the auto checker for the campus.

Appointments to the various positions were made by Dean of Students, Col. A. J. Thackston.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., October 2, 1964 | No. 2

And So Continues Rush

Preparations Underway For Homecoming Events

By JOE STEVENS
Blue Stocking Staff Writer

Student preparations for PC's 1964 Homecoming hasten for the event next weekend which will include a Friday night concert with four professional singing groups, election of the Homecoming queen, no Saturday classes and fraternity displays.

Leading off the first big social event on campus this fall, a concert of folk music will be given Oct. 9 at 7:30 in Belk Auditorium.

Performing in the concert will be The Huntsmen, The Plainsmen, The Migrants and The Winstons. Admission is free.

Robert Elrod, Inter-Fraternity Council president, stressed that the future of such dance weekend entertainment will hinge on student attendance and interest next week, and urged strong student support.

Sherrod Rhodes, Blue Key president, has announced that administrative officials and the faculty have agreed to cancel Saturday classes Oct. 10.

Rhodes said the decision was made on a purely trial basis. "Whether or not this policy is continued," explained Rhodes, "depends entirely on how it is received this year."

"Because the game is in the afternoon this year, fraternity men need more time to prepare their displays. This, as well as other reasons, helped persuade the administration and faculty to agree not to have Saturday classes," Rhodes said.

"If students stay on campus for Homecoming activities this year, it will certainly help in assuring the possibility for a continuance of this policy. So Blue Key, along with the Student Christian Association, IFC, and Student Council, is urging students to stay here next weekend," Rhodes emphasized.

PC's 1964 homecoming queen will be selected by popular vote of the student body between 9 and 12 a.m. Oct. 10. The night before the election, nominees for queen will be presented during the intermission of the concert.

The queen, to be chosen from a field of contestants nominated by fraternities and various organizations on campus, will be announced and presented, along with her court, during half-time activities of the PC-Davidson game at Johnson field Saturday afternoon.

Drawings conducted by the IFC for locations of fraternity displays yielded the left side of the flag pole to Sigma Nu and the opposite side to Pi Kappa Alpha.

Pi Kappa Phi's display will be on the left side of Douglas House and Theta Chi's to the right of Douglas.

KA's will build their project between Spencer and Jacobs, Alpha Sigma Phi in front of Neville Hall.

The fraternity constructing the most original display will receive coveted honor plus a cash award of $25. Second and third place winners in the contest will receive prizes of $15 and $10 respectively.

Entertaining next Friday as a part of Presbyterian College Homecoming festivities are The Migrants of Elon College (above). Other groups participating in the folk sing to be held in Belk Auditorium are the Huntsmen of Wake Forest, The Plainsmen of the University of South Carolina, and The Winstons of North Carolina State and Charlotte College. The groups come after successful appearances at Marshall University, University of North Carolina, and Auburn University.

Admission Tests Given For Continued Studies

For students considering graduate study, October and November signal the time to take entrance examinations required by most professional and graduate schools.

Dr. Neill Whitelaw, chairman of the faculty committee on graduate studies, urges students who are thinking about graduate work to consult the department head of his major field and discuss arranging for the various tests.

Testing centers are set up throughout the nation and the tests should generally be taken fairly early during the first semester for reports to reach graduate schools early enough for consideration.

Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants to most graduate schools in the U. S., will be given Nov. 21 and Jan. 16. Application forms are available from Dr. Whitelaw, Mrs. Roslyn Martin, registrar, or the guidance center and must be submitted two weeks before the testing date. Additional exams will be conducted in the spring and summer of 1965.

The Law School Admission Test will be administered Nov. 14, Feb. 13, April 10 and July 17.

Application forms may be obtained from the guidance center.

Medical school admission examinations will be given Oct. 17. Pre-med students may also find applications in the guidance center.

The graduate studies committee, chaired by Dr. Whitelaw, is composed of Mrs. Martin and Professors Robbins and Harris.

PC Enrolment Sets Records

Enrolment at Presbyterian College for the first semester of the 1964-'65 session totals 540 students, Registrar Roslyn Martin announced today after the deadline for late registrations.

She said this figure includes 501 men and 39 women. They come from 17 states and two foreign countries. A record 210 are enrolled as new students this year.

South Carolina leads the field of states, with 248 students now at Presbyterian College. Georgia follows, with 142; North Carolina, 51; Florida, 45; Alabama and Virginia, 10 each; Tennessee eight; Indiana, five; Maryland, four; Kentucky, Mississippi and Pennsylvania, three each; New Jersey, two; and Illinois, Louisiana, New York and Texas, one each.

The two foreign countries represented in the student body are Ecuador and Germany.

Anonymous Donor Gives Grants, Art

Initial gifts toward the establishment of three memorial scholarships have been presented to Presbyterian College by a Hampton County native who wishes to remain anonymous.

President Marc C. Weersing today announced these scholarship designations as the Rosa Ella Ruth Davis Scholarship in memory of Sallie Dowling Bowers of Varnville, for a qualified woman student; the Dr. Joseph A. LeClerc Scholarship in chemistry, honoring the late noted chemist of Ware, Mass., and Washington, D. C.; and the Burtis Scott Brown Scholarship in memory of Morgan Jines Craig, late PC alumnus of Chester. Mr. Brown was a noted New England architect; Mr. Craig, a radio engineer and 1941 graduate of PC.

The donor recently returned to Clinton for a visit, renewed an earlier interest in Presbyterian College and Thornwell Orphanage, and decided to set up the scholarship grants. She also presented PC with a valuable work of art, "The Adoration of the Magi," from the Pitti Palace in Italy which formerly hung in the Louvre.

Trustees Convene Tuesday; Will Consider Arts Program

PC's policy-makers, the Board of Trustees, come to campus Tuesday and Wednesday for their annual meeting.

Composed of members of the Synods of Georgia and South Carolina and three elected PC alumni, the Board will conduct business which, according to reports, will include discussion of the recent $150,000 challenge grant, the subsequent drive in the Clinton area which raised another $150,000 and the methods of raising the final $450,000 to claim the total amount of the challenge.

Other business will include giving the administration the go-ahead on arrangements to establish drama and music departments in 1965 and an art department in 1966.

Robert Vance, Clinton banker and mill executive, is chairman of the body.

PiKA's Lead PC Fraternities With 2.50 Grade Point Ratio

By BILL BASSHAM
Blue Stocking Staff Writer

Pi Kappa Alpha, with an overall grade point ratio of 2.50, led PC's six fraternities and tied with the undergraduate students in academic standing last semester, Mrs. Roslyn Martin, Registrar, announced last week.

The average for non-fraternity men, fraternity men, and the student body was 2.31. Four of the six fraternity averages were higher than the school-wide standing and another was less than one tenth lower.

PiKA had a slight lead over Theta Chi, whose brothers and pledges turned in an average of 2.49. Kappa Alpha was a close third with a 2.36 ratio. Alpha Sigma Phi pulled a 2.35 to place it fourth.

Barely under the campus average was Sigma Nu with 2.23, and Pi Kappa Phi rounded out the list with a 1.94.

Of interest is the fact that only one hundredth of a point separated PiKA from Theta Chi, and the same difference ranked KA above Alpha Sigma Phi.

A Faster Pace
The Better Rate

ANY DISCUSSION on this institution's development program has a tendency to make one pensively wonder what might have happened had the several million dollars raised for the program been applied to PC without the felt need of physical expansion and increased enrolment. Has the modern outlook on "progress" sacrificed quality?

SATURDAY REVIEW OFFERS an interesting parallel of greater magnitude. "It may cost 30 billion dollars to put 'a man on the moon.' It is sobering to think of an alternative set of projects that might be financed with this sum.

"WE COULD give a ten per cent raise in salary, over a ten-year period, to every U. S. teacher (9.8 billion dollars); give ten million dollars each to 200 small colleges (two billion dollars); and finance seven-year fellowships (freshman through Ph. D.) at $4000 per person per year for 50,000 new scientists and engineers (1.4 billion dollars).

"WE COULD contribute 200 million dollars each toward the creation of ten new medical schools (two billion dollars); build and largely endow complete universities for all 59 of the nations that have been added to the United Nations since its founding (13.2 billion dollars); create three more permanent Rockefeller Foundations (1.5 billion dollars); and still have 100 million dollars left over to popularize science."

"WEIGH THESE alternatives against a man on the moon."

THE LESS SUBTLE SURGE of twentieth century progress permits the impression that all is speed and quantity, that somehow the desire for quality has been misplaced in the rush towards chrome covered peaks. A closer look however may reveal this age as a period of precision movement—its greater speed the result of greater precision and the ingenuity of man.

THE NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE effectively states a case for space age progress. "Man's move into outer space signifies one more step in the long and unbroken chain of human progress. Beyond any immediate gains —e. g., Telstar—lies the certitude that mankind is bound to profit as it expands the ream of its observation."

"THE ANCIENT SEAFARERS who crossed oceans to open up the New World knew vaguely of the gains and the gold that lay at their journey's end. Yet even they could hardly have conceived of the tremendous changes their journeys would bring about. Today we may be on the verge of even more far-reaching discoveries."

WE COULD NOT TURN BACK now if we wanted to. Even more compelling than the pressures applied to us by the Soviet Union's success in space is the challenge that confronts all mankind, as it confronted Ulysses:

'To follow knowledge like a sinking star,
Beyond the utmost bound of human thought'."

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors	Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager	Al Pearce
Managing Editor	Bill Loeble
News Editor	Dave Veneklasen
Sports Editors	Al Pearce, Glen Browder
Feature Editor	Gary Crawford
Activities Editor	Larry Preston
Greek Editor	Alex Patrick
Associate Editor	Frank Hendrix
Cartoonists	Tom Leland, John Weigel
News Staff	Jim Bell, Susan Gilbert, Tim Grey, Bryson Rousey, David Knowlton, John Jones, Joe Stevens, Bill Bassham, Bobby Staton, Larry Platt, Jimmy Rammage, Bo Bowman
Feature Staff	Ike Cobb, John Sheffield, Jimmy Stewart
Editorial Assistants	Raymond Summerlin, Charlie Jordan, Steve Watson

Bibliography For Fall Reading:
Not All Good Books Best Sellers

By JEFF GREENFIELD
Collegiate Press Service

Now that you have purchased your athletic coupon book and found out the cute blonde in English Lit is married and/or pregnant, you are ready for your fall reading. Do not attempt to rush through this bibliography of essential works; a page or two a week until Christmas vacation is ample, after which you may swallow a box of No-Doz and start working. The books on this list have been carefully screened for style, profundity, thematic integrity, and color-coordinated jackets.

"Language and Meaning" by Sen. Barry Goldwater. Invaluable guide to the art of saying two contradictory things with the same sentence. Shows how to utter a flatly declarative proposition, and, upon being corrected, maintain "That's what I really meant." Also outlines ways to charge the faculty with conspiracy to misrepresent your examinations, and has a bonus Guide to Jet Plane Flying.

"Power and Politics in Viet-Nam" by Henry Cabot Lodge. A handy loose-leaf binder with semi weekly mailings included. Price, author, and country subject to to change without notice.

"A House is Not a Home" by Robert F. Kennedy. Includes a special section called "A Visitors Guide to New York" with pronunciation guide and method for blintz and pizza eating.

"The Crisis In Higher Education: a Symposium." Clark Kerr, Robert Hutchins, and Paul Goodman debate faculty parking.

"Mass Culture and Excellence in the American Community" by Lyndon B. Johnson. A blistering attack by the President on tasteless exhibitionalism in American public life. Includes suggestions for entertaining heads of state with rodeos and hillbilly singers, and instructions by Lady Bird on how to equip your horse with Muzak.

"Profiles in Courage" by Dwight D. Eisenhower. The one-time acting President forthrightly endorses the Emancipation Proclamation, the Good Neighbor Policy, and Richard Nixon's candidacy. Includes his controversial speech: Nice Weather Is Good Except For Those Who Might Not Happen, You Might Say, To Like It.

In addition, Beady-Eyed Books, Inc. has just issued its new paperback line of classics designed for the modern reader. Highlights follow.

"Small-Town Tramp" by Nathaniel Hawthorne. The bold author rips the cloak of respectability from Puritan New England, revealing the sordid, sinful passions that rage beneath. A guaranteed A.

"Lust at Sea" by Herman Melville. What was the strange, perverse passion that drove the captain to challenge society's conventions? What was the elusive mystery behind his peg-leg? Here are the answers, blazing across the page.

"Strange Flesh" by Upton Sinclair. He found himself sinking into unspeakable filth and depravity. Read the novel that shocked a generation.

Barometer

Integration: Open Stand Now?

BY RAYMOND SUMMERLIN

The question of equal rights for all citizens is probably the most important issue in the United States and is far too important and pressing for the church, especially, not to let the people know where it stands.

The administration and Board of Trustees have not stated PC's policy towards admitting "all" students who are scholastically qualified. They have stated that PC has an open charter and that no Negroes have applied. The administration appears ready to ride the fence and take support from both sides.

And why should PC make a decision about "all" who are qualified? The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. in 1963 said, "Enforced segregation of the races is discrimination which is out of harmony with Christian theology and ethics." Excluding "Christian" schools from this statement seems impossible.

In line with this thinking, the Georgia Synod in 1963 said in a resolution: "That it (the Synod) urge that a non-discriminatory policy be adopted by all of its . . . institutions and that this be made public; and that churches be reminded that the Westminster Confession states that fellowship 'is extended to all those who, in every place call upon the name of the Lord Jesus'."

These are not forced mandates but the expressed desires of the official body of which PC is a part — and indeed a part separated from the whole.

Lest we think Georgia the only Synod with these thoughts, the South Carolina Synod in 1964 passed the following resolution: "That the Synod of South Carolina urge all its Presbyteries having Negro Presbyterian Churches within their bounds, to receive these as quickly as possible into membership in the respective Presbyteries." (Caps are mine.)

The 1964 Synod of South Carolina also passed a resolution which said in part: "That the Board of Trustees of Presbyterian College manage and govern Presbyterian College for the purpose of promoting Christian Education in harmony with the Constitution of the Presbyterian Church."

Search the teachings of Christ as we might, we cannot find a passage where He advocates racial segregation. He shows again and again that man is absolutely equal in the sight of God.

WWe can no longer sit on the fence. The question must be decided now; putting it off is merely giving a negative answer. If we call ourselves Christians, and we do, then it is imperative we make a stand.

By DEE HODGES

A campus community is a "catch all" of controversy and conflict. If it is not it is deficient since current local and world issues should be the college student's mental calisthenics. Perhaps the pages of our daily papers are too often found turned to Snuffy Smith and the sports news.

It is to Mr. Summerlin's credit that he takes a stand on one of the most controversial issues of our times and that he relates this issue of integration to the PC campus. At this time our administration and Board of Trustees are not taking a stand on the admission of Negro students. They say that the school charter is "open" and that there have been no Negro applicants.

Mr. Summerlin states his desire for this school to openly announce a policy of integration as Wofford has done. He bases much of what he says on the endorsement of integration by the Synods of Georgia and South Carolina and the Presbyterian General Assembly.

But must the Board of Trustees commit itself when there have been no Negro applicants? True it might champion the cause of integration. Which, however, is more important? Integration or the future of this institution? It is reasonable to assume that Negroes will apply in the near future. Why not wait?

An open door policy now may encourage Negro applicants earlier, but it will also alienate others. If a Negro is turned down because he is unqualified there is less chance of bad publicity if we have not publicly committed ourselves. If a Negro is admitted without a public comment, the school will present a more academic image rather than the artificial hodge-podge that Negro admittance at other schools has created.

Time has a quality for healing wounds, and though PC's segregated days are numbered, let us take this time to try to study all the ramifications of integration.

If we do so now, when integration comes we will be better prepared to receive it. Bring it on immediately, and we will only have the uncertainty and artificiality of a few scared colored kids and really no integration at all.

Superficial integration is no better than segregation. Both lack understanding — integration will never be a reality without understanding.

Speaking of Sports

with AL PEARCE

Just One Chance Was All This Freshman Had

In the early fall of 1962 a stocky freshman reported to the equipment room in the basement of LeRoy Springs Gymnasium to draw his gear for the opening session of fall football practice. It had been a long 500 mile trip to Clinton from the freshman's Alabama home.

An Abundance of Fullbacks In Camp

The freshman was a fullback by trade and went out for that position here. But that year there seemed to be an abundance of returning fullbacks in the PC camp. There was a returning sophomore who had had an outstanding freshman season and more was expected of him. There were several veteran fullbacks who seemed to have the position pretty much to themselves. The prospects of breaking into the starting backfield seemed almost insurmountable for this freshman. And they were.

Just For Publicity Pictures

That fall this freshman fullback put on a game uniform just one time — when the publicity pictures were taken. Every Saturday he sat in the stands as PC suffered through a 1-9 season. He didn't even dress out for the home games. The only thing that kept him out was the hope that some day he'd get his chance. And when that chance came he'd make the most of it. But in 1962 Sam Williams never got that chance.

500 Miles That Seemed 1000

The 500 mile trip back to Monroeville, Ala., had seemed twice that far when Sam went home at Thanksgiving of his freshman year. He didn't have to stay for the annual PC-Newberry clash. There was no need for him to. He wouldn't play. But he still held the hope that someday . . .

Though Remote, There Was A Chance

It was a tough decision Sam Williams had to make when he was to report in 1963 for fall practice. The prospects of that chance ever coming seemed as remote this fall as it did last. Yet the chance might be there so sophomore fullback Sam Williams drew equipment for the start of another season.

But things began to look up. He no longer had to sit in the grandstands for Saturday's games. This year he sat on the bench. He was fourth string fullback. A little hope began to appear.

Opportunity Came In Greenville

For seven games it was this way. Sam held down the end of the bench while the veteran fullbacks did what they could. It seemed as if Sam Williams, after sitting the bench in seven games, would make it eight in a row. But no.

It was in Greenville that Sam got his chance. And true to his promise, he made the most of it. Furman had PC down and almost out when Sam was called on. He didn't pull the game out for PC — that would have been too much to hope for — but he did make his mark as a determined runner. On his first carry from scrimmage Sam gained 19 yards and almost broke loose for a score. What makes it all the more remarkable was that Sam would not be tackled. He was hit by the entire forward defensive wall of Furman but Sam never went down. He was forced out of bounds.

Of The Spectacular Variety

The next week Sam Williams repeated his performance against Troy State. His runs were of the spectacular variety. He would not be put down and time and again he gained valuable yardage after it seemed he would be stopped.

No Hesitations In Fall of '64

This fall Sam had no hesitations about returning to PC football. He's the starting fullback for the Hose this season and thus far he's averaging almost 100 yards per game. And he's the leading rusher in the State. And last week's Player of the Week in South Carolina.

The trip back to Monroeville won't seem so far after the Thanksgiving game this year.

It's 'Battle of Undefeated' When PC-Wofford Clash Saturday Night

They'll have to call it "The Battle of the Undefeated" when Wofford College and Presbyterian tangle at Spartanburg this Saturday night in the state's feature game. PC is rated a 1-point underdog over arch-rival Terriers, whom many feel to be the strongest Wofford team ever.

Both PC and Wofford are fresh from sweet wins over old rivals and it is generally conceded that the team that is up for the game and the one that makes the fewest number of errors will remain undefeated after Saturday. And the one that is undefeated after this game has an excellent chance for the outstanding record for the year in the state.

For the Blue Hose of Cally Gault the year has been a very pleasant surprise: It was known that the PC line was not what it should be if the Hose were to make any noise among small colleges in the area. No doubts were held that the PC backfield would carry the major load if the season was to be a success for the backfield was an experienced, veteran one. But an inexperienced line created many worries.

And yet in the first two games of the Hose it's been the line that has performed like a veteran crew. Time and again this line has opened gaping holes for the fleet backs of PC to scamper for paydirt. And time and again it has been this line that has just as effectively closed the holes through which opposing backs expected to find running room. So effective has been the PC forward wall that at Hickory, N. C., last Saturday night Lenoir Rhyne College's single wing backfield could gain only 19 yards rushing in the second half.

In that same game the PC defense recovered three key Bear fumbles and each recovery led to a Blue Hose score. In this case it was the PC defense that gave the potent offense the chance to move in for the three touchdowns and a 21-10 victory.

The win over Lenoir Rhyne followed an impressive offensive show by the Hose a week before when they defeated Frederick College 47-17. In that game it was all offense with Leighton Grantham, Sam Williams, Sandy Hagood, Don McNeil and Wade Stewart putting on a dazzling exhibition of lightening-quick scoring. The pre-season forecast that PC would have to be an offensively-minded team was seen to be a reality as the Hose rolled up impressive rushing and passing statistics.

Wofford is fresh from wins over Lenoir Rhyne and Furman. After defeating Lenoir Rhyne 17-0 at Spartanburg on the opening Saturday of the season the Terriers faced Furman at Greenville. In what many have called the most exciting game ever played between the two institutions Wofford won 21-14. And it was a strong Wofford defense and a better than average offense that told the tale. The PC defense will have its hands full Saturday night trying to contain the explosive Terriers.

Here's how PC's two-game statistical chart shapes up:

RUSHING

Player	Carries	Total	Average
FB Sam Williams	38	198	5.2
HB Don McNeill	17	77	4.5

PASSING

Player	Attempted	Completed	Yards
QB Leighton Grantham	29	17	184
QB Jackie Nix	6	4	106

PASS RECEIVING

Player	Catches	Yards
E Jimmy Bankhead	7	77
E James Smith	4	66
HB Jim Johnson	3	90

SCORING

Player	Touchdowns	Extra Points	Total
FB Sam Williams	3	0	18
E Jimmy Bankhead	2	1—2-points	14

Taking Pass—Jim Bankhead goes out for a pass in the PC-Lenoir Rhyne game last week.

Intramurals

Tourney True To Form

The all-campus tennis tournament is running true to form thus far with all favored or seeded players sweeping through their matches.

By today it is hoped that all of the fourth round matches will have been played, leaving next week open for the finals. Results and schedules are posted daily on the Douglas House bulletin board.

Fall sports are now well under way with ping pong and pool being played. It is expected that these minor sports will be completed within two weeks. All matches are in the Douglas House recreation room with the daily schedule posted on the dining hall and Douglas House bulletin boards.

Football is now winding up its first week of action with scheduling complete through late October. The games are being played on the Thornwell High School varsity football field every afternoon. Current standings and the scores of each day's games will be posted each evening on the dining hall bulletin board.

Don Warlick, student I-M chairman, and Coach Gordon Warden, faculty adviser of I-M athletics, reported that the overall point standings will be posted as soon as the points for a particular sport are determined.

Again this season a large trophy will be awarded to the team which amasses the largest number of points throughout the season. Points will be awarded for placing in football, basketball, tennis, ping pong, pool, bridge, basketball, volleyball, track, golf and softball.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Right Where It's Needed
BOSTITCH "Handy" STAPLER
with wall bracket, staple remover, and 1000 staples

Mounted on the wall, never out of sight . . . in the kitchen, by the phone . . . to fasten quickly whenever you want it.

The CHRONICLE

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
CANTERBURY BELTS and WALLETS
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

The approach of Homecoming weekend, a highlight for all PC students and especially for frat men and rushees, finds many of our men students sweating over finding places to keep their dates.

People complain that all available homes in town are filled, along with the motels and the Mary Musgrove. Some have been forced to go to Laurens to find rooms.

Meanwhile, our six fraternities have news in connection with rush, pledging and plans for the big weekend.

New men added to the fraternity rosters recently include: Hank parks, who pledged Theta Chi, and Jim Loyd, Alpha Sigma Phi. Sigma Nu's pledges are Dick Wilkins and Ed Gregory, while the KA's added pledges Bill Asbury, David Davies, Ralph Hardeman and Ken Plexico.

New brothers in Kappa Alpha are Dave Dunlap, Danny Charles, and Rick Sjoholm. Dr. James Graham of Charleston was taken into Sigma Nu brotherhood.

New married couples are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cape and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Adam. Jim is a PiKA, and Gordon is a Sigma Nu.

Engagements announced include those of Bill Gaston, a PiKA, to Miss Nancy Werner, and Don Mucci, a PiKapp, to Miss Gay Pitt.

Four pinnings are also included in frat news: Court Lipscomb of ASP, to Miss Susie Fauch; Arthur Baxter, also an Alpha Sig, to Miss Jane Allen; George Davenport of PiKA to Miss June Stevens; and George Taylor, a SN, to Miss Carol Wilson.

Homecoming weekend parties will find the Theta Chi's at the Legion Hut Friday night and at the Laurens Shrine Club Saturday night. There will be a band for both parties.

The KA's have the Dynamics at the Legion Hut Saturday night, and PiKA's will be dancing to the music of Dr. Feelgood and The Interns. PiKapps will be at Peck's Saturday with The Crescents.

Homecoming sponsors include Miss Nancy Neal of Winthrop for Theta Chi; Miss Faye Adams, also of Winthrop, for Alpha Sigma Phi; Miss Nancy Evans of U. Ga. for Sigma Nu; and Mrs. Adelaide Cape for Pi Kappa Alpha.

Campus Briefs

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Thomas A. Stallworth has announced that he will conduct Wednesday's worship service next week. Programs for Monday and Friday are not definite yet, Mr. Stallworth said.

Ty Cobb Fund Available

The Ty Cobb Educational Fund may be contacted by students interested in financial assistance announced G. Edward Campbell, PC business manager. The fund has aided students in previous years.

Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Carol McMahon, Trust Co. of Georgia, P. O. Drawer 4418, Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. Campbell noted that many students were qualified and that the business office could be contacted for further details.

VP Position Vacant Often, C of C Says

Although the United States has never lacked a President since George Washington was inaugurated, 20 per cent of the time it has lacked a Vice President, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports.

Since John Adams became the first Vice-President in 1789, the office has been vacant on 16 occasions. Eight Vice-Presidents succeeded to the presidency. Seven Vice Presidents died in office. One Vice President resigned (John C. Calhoun of South Carolina in 1832 to enter the Senate).

As Vice Presidents are chosen only in the quadrennial national elections, the office has been vacant 38 out of 175 years.

Many persons are convinced that under recent Presidents the work of the Vice President has become extremely important, whereas before it was not. Several methods have been suggested to fill the office when it bcomes vacant between national elections. It has been suggested that a new Vice President be picked by the President, be picked by Congress, or by the Electoral College.

A compromise method that seems to have the best chance of acceptance would let the President nominate a Vice President subject to confirmation by majority votes of the House and Senate.

The Senate Judiciary Committee this summer approved a proposed Constitutional amendment which among other things would set this compromise method as the one to be used in filling the Vice Presidency between national elections. The proposal probably will be brought up again in the next Congress. If both the House and Senate approve it by two thirds votes and three fourths of the states ratify it, it will become part of the Constitution.

Turner To Receive PC Alumni Award

— R. Michael Turner, Clinton businessman, has been named to receive the 1964 Alumni Service Award at Presbyterian College, Alumni and Public Relations Director Ben Hay Hammet announced today.

He said the award will be presented at PC's Oct. 10 Homecoming program in recognition of outstanding service rendered the college by an alumnus.

Turner, a native of Augusta, Ga., and 1948 graduate of Presbyterian College, is a partner of the Turner and Dunson Company, manufacturers' representative to the textile industry.

The Alumni Service Award is made annually to a recipient selected by the board of directors of the PC Alumni Association. The board, in making its 1964 choice, cited Turner for his outstanding work in behalf of the Walter Johnson Club and the general development of the college.

Giving Hits $40,000, Clears Half-Way Mark

The Presbyterian College annual giving program this week hit $40,046 to move past the mid-way point toward the 1964 goal of $80,000.

President Marc C. Weersing, in making the announcement, pointed out the objective represents the largest total yet sought by this PC program. It is approximately 20 per cent higher than last year's record $66,478. He said the 1964 pace is ahead of any previous year at this date.

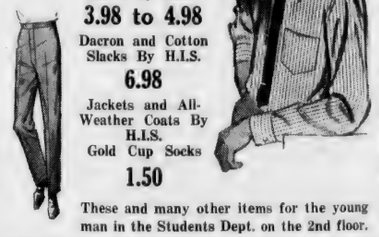
Annual giving is a program conducted each year among the alumni and friends of PC for gifts to supplement the current operating budget of the college. President Weersing said it is one of the most important sources of income for the institution. The program has enjoyed a steady growth in recent years and is now bringing in over 500 per cent more annually than it did a decade ago.

As the 1964 total moves past the mid-way point, the PC alumni directors are launching the second half of the campaign effort designed to raise the remainder of the $80,000 goal in the final quarter of the year.

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS

•

Adair's Men's Shop



— Court Square —

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

BROADWAY Theatre
Today and Friday, Oct. 1-2
ROBIN AND THE 7 HOODS
Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis, Jr., Bing Crosby
Saturday, October 3, Only
MY SON, THE HERO
Monday-Tuesday, October 5-6
633 SQUADRON
Cliff Robinson, George Chakiris
"633 Squadron"
Starts Wednesday, Oct. 7
55 DAYS AT PEKING
Charlton Heston, Ava Gardner, David Niven

Belk's

Shirts By H.I.S.
3.98 to 4.98
Dacron and Cotton Slacks By H.I.S.
6.98
Jackets and All-Weather Coats By H.I.S.
Gold Cup Socks
1.50
These and many other items for the young man in the Students Dept. on the 2nd floor.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANUE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

'61
'62
'63
'64
'65
'66
'67
'68
Enjoy Your Homecoming Again at
Vernon's
HOME OF PLEASANT EATING
GREENWOOD HIGHWAY 833-2300

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, October 9, 1964 No. 3

Susanna Jeanes

LaNelle Cantey

Jeannie Byrd

Faye Adams

Ginney McCoun

Charlotte Knight

Amelia Nichols

Nancy Neal

LaRue Gooding

Joyce Gaston

Adelaide Cape

Salena McCarter

64 Homecoming To Be Climaxed During Halftime

Queen To Be Crowned

PC's 1964 Homecoming festivities get underway tonight with a special folk concert at 7:30 and will be climaxed tomorrow afternoon by the crowning of the Homecoming Queen during half-time activities of the PC-Davidson game.

The Homecoming Queen will be selected in a special student election tomorrow morning from 12 candidates sponsored by campus organizations.

The 12 nominees are Susanna Jeanes, sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council; LaNelle Cantey, sponsored by the Wysor Rifles; Jeannie Byrd, Kappa Alpha Order; Faye Adams, Alpha Sigma Phi; Ginney McCoun, Choir; Charlotte Knight, Pi Kappa Phi; Amelia Nichols, Block P; and Nancy Neal, Theta Chi.

Also, LaRue Gooding, Sigma Nu; Joyce Gaston, Student Council; Mrs. Adelaide Cape, Pi Kappa Alpha; and Salena McCarter, Student Christian Asociation.

They will be presented tonight during intermission of the concert. The winner will be announced Saturday afternoon.

Saturday classes have been cancelled because of the festivities. However, Blue Key President Sherrod Rhodes said this policy was being instituted this year on a trial basis only. "Classes will not be suspended again next year if students don't stay here during the weekend and support the various activities," explained Rhodes.

Hundreds of alumni will return to campus tomorrow to join in the celebration of Homecoming. Their program will feature a giant barbecue as well as the game.

The Saturday schedule will open at 10 a. m. with a meeting of the alumni board of directors under their president, Tom Addison of Clinton. Barbecue, imported from Williamsburg County, will be served under the campus oaks beginning at 11:30 a. m.

Student entertainment will begin in the auditorium at 12:15 p. m. and last until 1 o'clock. Then, during the alumni program, the 1964 Alumni Gold P will be presented to Dr. Furman Wallace of Spartanburg and the Alumni Service Award to R. Michael Turner of Clinton.

Installation of officers will find Dr. J. Edward Graham of Charleston moving up to the presidency, Walter Gosnell of Spartanburg becoming president-lect and other officers and directors assuming office.

After the 2:30 football game, alumni and friends will wind up their festivities with a post-game drop-in at LeRoy Springs Gym.

W. Wilson Fellowships Open For Nominations

To attract men and women to the profession of college teaching, the Woodrow Wilson Foundation annually awards fellowships to 1,000 prospective first-year graduate students, and honorable mention to another 1,500. Woodrow Wilson Fellows are chosen from about 11,000 candidates nominated by college faculty members in the United States and Canada. Through funds granted by the Ford Foundation, a Fellow is fully supported for one academic year at a United States or Canadian graduate school.

The Foundation primarily supports candidates in the humanities and social sciences. Science and mathematics majors with a clear interest in a teaching career may be nominated, but, if U. S. citizens, must apply simultaneously for a National Science Foundation Fellowship and must accept that award if it is offered.

Eligible for nomination are men and women of outstanding intellectual promise, graduates or seniors in the colleges and universities of the United States or Canada.

Regional Committees place particular weight on the quality of a nominee's preparation for graduate study: solid foundation at the undergraduate level for study leading to the Ph.D. degree; competence and facility in foreign languages or other required subjects such as mathematics: ability in the writing of essays and of reports on independent work accomplished in undergraduate years. Regional Committees will weigh a candidate's potential as well as the quality of his preparation for graduate work.

Candidates from colleges which have produced relatively few Woodrow Wilson Fellowship winners and candidates whose undergraduate record fails to give a full account of their qualifications are urged to supply the Regional Chairman with scores on the Graduate Record Examination or the Miller Analogies Test.

Candidates must be nominated by a faculty member no later than October 31, 1964. Dr. Neill Whitelaw, Chairman of the faculty graduate studies committee, urges students to discuss the Foundation requirements with their major field department heads. Information and literature may be obtained from Dr. Whitelaw.

Gosnell Made Alumni Prexy

Walter H. Gosnell of Spartanburg is the newly named president-elect of the Presbyterian College Alumni Association, it was announced today.

He was chosen by alumni mail ballot in an election to name 1965 officers. Gosnell and those named to serve with him will be officially installed at the annual alumni meeting scheduled on October 10 as part of the Homecoming program.

Walter Gosnell, superintendent of Arkwright Mill, will succeed Dr. J. Edward Graham, pastor of the Charleston Second Presbyterian Church, who moves up

(Continued on page 4)

Folk Festival Tonight In Belk

A concert featuring four groups of folk singers will be staged in Belk Auditorium tonight at 7:30.

The groups of singers have formed themselves into a packaged program which has received acclaim on campuses throughout the Southeast. In addition, some of the groups are recording artists.

These groups, offering a variety of styles in the field of folk singing, are The Huntsmen of Wake Forest College, The Migrants of Elon College, The Plainsmen of the University of South Carolina, and The Winstons of Charlotte College and North Carolina State University.

PC students, their dates and faculty members will be admitted without charge, and a limited number of tickets will be on sale at the door for the general public.

Freshmen To Choose New Officers, S. C. Representatives Wednesday

Freshmen will choose class officers and Student Council representatives Wednesday in a Student Council-sponsored election.

Student Council President Mike Smith said balloting will take place in the office of the Douglas House hostess between 9 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Officers and representatives will be elected from a slate of freshmen nominated Wednesday when 51 per cent of the freshman class cast ballots.

Nominated to compete for Student Council seats were Bill Bassham of Columbia, Bill Bucheit of Spartanburg, Richie Richardson of Greenville, and Gregg Underwood of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Vying for the presidency of the class are Larry Creel of Hemingway, Johnny Gaw of Laurinburg, N. C., and Johnny McCallum of Jackson, Miss.

Nominees for vice president are Jerry Robb of Montgomery, Ala., Butch Tuck of Athens, Ga., and Webb Watters of Decatur, Ga.

The secretary will be chosen from two nominees: Diane Brown of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Sarah Stribling of Atlanta, Ga.

Nominated to run for treasurer were Andy Barnett of Westminster, Bill Riddle of Sumter, and Harry Ward of Gainesville, Ga.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager — Al Pearce
Managing Editor — Bill Loebie

Unsanitary Conditions A Dormitory's Disdain

SMYTH DORMITORY is a case study in the physical plant maintenance of this institution. Built in 1924, the commanding building evolved over the years into a slum tenement whereas equally old dormitories on other campuses became only mellowed with age and encrusted with ivy.

THE $100,000 spent to renovate Smyth this summer should indeed issue a warning as to the future of newer campus buildings.

WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE for the destruction of Thomas Smyth Dorm? It is true that students physically effecte the damage. But if we choose to lay the true blame on the student, then it follows that we have acquired a particular class of students who have no regard for property. And if we maintain this we can say on the basis of pnysical plants what institutions do and do not have undesirable students.

THIS IS FOLLY.

WOFFORD'S BETTER DORMS are not the result of Wofford's more desirable students, nor are PC's dorms indicative of less desirable students. This whole question seems utterly absurd and yet the blame is still laid on the student.

MEASURES HAVE BEEN TAKEN for dormitory control. Some time ago the proctor system was initiated. Where in the past it was ineffective, today it shows promise. A recent addition is Mr. John Paul Daniluk who as administrative assistant checks the work of proctors and janitors.

HOWEVER, IT SEEMS that no particular improvement has been instituted other than the superficial. Let us look at Bailey, which was built in 1955 and which is the proudest of dorms next to the renovated Smyth.

YOU HAND A STUDENT a broom and say, "Keep your room clean for nine months." The student keeps his room swept and his things picked up and you are satisfied. He passes room inspection. He also wallows in dust and must peer through translucent windows.

THERE ARE NO cleaning facilities available for a student unless he seeks special dispensation from a janitor who is impossible to find. We doubt that a single member of our administration could inhabit a room for two semesters under these circumstances.

THE CONTROL OF JANITORS is as rigid as a wet noodle. THE HALL FLOORS OF BAILEY DORMITORY HAVE NOT BEEN COMPLETELY MOPPED ONE SINGLE TIME THIS SEMESTER. We do not exaggerate. We doubt that a member of our administration would like to walk down the hall in shower shoes. It is amazing how other institutions actually wax halls once a week. It is not so amazing that their buildings last longer.

TOILETS AND URINALS are cleaned daily. Bathroom door handles bear the crud of nine years. Shower floors are scrubbed, yet toilet paper becomes wet and soggy for lack of dispensers. There is the advantage of controlled heat, yet no knobs for the controls.

CONVENTION GROUPS and Christian ladies find Bailey neat and trim. Yet students, those for whom the dorm was built, returned this fall to find dirt, dust and filth in their rooms. This was not just a lack of sanitation. It exhibited common lack of decency and courtesy.

DOUGLAS HOUSE is beautifully maintained. It is three years younger than Bailey. It is seen by faculty, guests and administrators. It is clean. Bailey is seen only by students. It is dirty. It says something dirty.—BA

Approved Arts Program Expansion To Give Modern, Varied Curriculum

By SUSANNA JEANES
Blue Stocking Staff Writer

When anyone thinks of art and Presbyterian College, he naturally thinks of art and music appreciation—the two courses in the present Fine Arts Department.

By title, these courses connote a passive study, for the student sits back and listens to music of others and observes the art of others.

This is no reflection on the present department. The courses do what they are designed to do—give students the knowledge to judge the qualities of art and music.

But anyone is naturally more interested in what he can do himself, how he can develop his own talents, and not necessarily in always studying the artistic creations of others.

PC, under the leadership of Dean Joseph M. Gettys, has seen this need and plans to have departments of art, music and drama by 1966. Dean Gettys plans to have two professors in music—one with a doctorate and one with a masters—and a doctorate in drama and speech by next fall.

The art department will begin in 1966.

Courses in the departments will be taught at the discretion of their chairman, but some of the proposed courses will be classes in architecture and ceramics, which would probably include hand-building by coil, slab and free form methods along with firing and glazing.

In drama, the planned courses range from fundamentals of acting to costuming and stage craft, which would include study and practice in the principles of costuming, make-up, lighting effects and scenery.

Also included in speech and drama plans are courses in advanced public speaking, debating and persuasion.

Of special interest to the PC co-eds will be courses in sculpturing, with applied work in clay, stone, plaster and glass; painting, drawing and composition and public school art for persons planning to teach in secondary and elementary schools.

In the speech and drama department, history of the theater, history of religious drama, oral communication, and speech correction may be chosen from.

In music, public school music, counterpoint, elementary and intermediate theory plus history of music and church music, as well as directing church choirs, are some of the proposed courses of study.

Dean Gettys says that although no major can be offered in these fields at their inception, as many as eighteen hours may be taken in these departments toward a B. S. degree. Other courses may be added as the demand for them increases and the departments grow.

More Understanding Needed Says Visiting USSR Student

Minneapolis (CPS)—A representative of the Soviet Union's national union of students says students can help achieve world peace by first understanding each other, then cooperating toward the elimination of the threat of war.

Andrei Gratchev, 23, member of the Student Council of the USSR and head of the international affairs division of the Committee of Youth Organizations, said students meeting each other and exchanging ideas would help greatly in eventually lessening tensions. Gratchev is a student at Moscow University.

He praised steps already made in lessening tensions such as the signing of the limited nuclear test ban treaty. But Gratchev also called U. S. involvement in the Viet Nam action a "flagrant violation of international law." He added, however, that peaceful coexistence still is possible and necessary.

When asked about Soviet reneging on treaties, Gratchev said he could remember only one such incident: when the USSR broke its treaty with Japan and entered World War II —on the side of the United States. "Both sides could enumerate cases, but it would lead to nothing positive," he said.

The candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater was viewed by Gratchev as "entirely an internal affair of the United States" despite the generally unfavorable comment by the Soviet press.

Gratchev said of Goldwater's strong stand against Communism: "I wouldn't admire such a stand from either our country or yours because it could lead to global conflict."

Touching on the Sino-Soviet split, the Soviet youth said: "The United States seems more interested in the split than the USSR." He added that there definitely was a serious ideological dispute, however, but said he felt it could be overcome.

What are the general trends in the Soviet Union regarding civil liberties? Gratchev said his country is moving to insure the basic human rights, although much is based upon economic development.

"Economic and technological development will not make class differences more pronounced," he said, "but rather through the development of automation, more people will be able to share in the benefits."

Of Human Bondage

By FRED FOWLER
Greenville Correspondent

OF HUMAN BONDAGE, beginning Saturday, Plaza Theater, Greenville. Every Hollywood star wants to be in the movie version of a great work of literature. An appearance in a movie of literary caliber gives a star a chance to be surrounded by such phrases as "a role of such depth," "a marvelous chance to show how she can act," "she'll make the role another Sadie Thompson" and other such rot.

Kim Novak is the third actress to try for immortality in the role of Mildred, the sluttish tart of Sumerset Maugham's renowned novel.

Good try, Kim. Better luck next time.

Kim isn't all that bad, however. She is Mildred in a blowsy, petulent way — although her Cockney lapses from time to time into East Chicagoan.

Laurence Harvey is the lame medical student who is monotonously seduced by the syphillis-ridden Mildred. And that isn't homework!

Comments: If you haven't read the book, it's earthy; if you have read the book, it's dearthy.

WOMAN OF STRAW, playing at the Carolina Theater, Greenville.

Forsaking James Bond for another slick, scary film in the "Mamie" tradition, Sean Connery portrays a scheming nephew who plans to profit by marrying off his cohort, a pretty nurse, to his wealthy invalid uncle.

Gina Lillibrigida, as the nurse, broadens the appeal of this English mystery melodrama by spreading out her bounteous Italian attributes upon the Cinemascope screen.

Comments: Not bad if you have a date; if you have a bad date, at least she can look at Sean and you can ogle Gina.

Speaking of Sports

It Means So Much More to Some Who Are Back Today

With GLEN BROWDER

It's Homecoming weekend. Tomorrow the Blue Hose play Davidson. After the game everybody will go to some party. It's a big blow-it-out football weekend for most people.

It means something else to some people however, more than just free cuts and Monday headaches. To some people this weekend and the Davidson game mean memories. One of these people is Lonnie Sexton McMillian—Coach Lonine Mac—who played here as a Hoseman, and coached from 1941-53.

First Victory Over Davidson

Some of the alumni may remember McMillian on this particular weekend, and with this particular opponent. They may remember 44 years ago when he beat Davidson for the first time in the Hose-Cat rivalry by taking a short pass and running 30 yards for a touchdown, and kicking the extra-point for a 7-0 PC victory.

Coach Linnie Mac came to PC from Arkansas in 1915 to play footbal. He played end and fullback that first year, and he vividly recalls the first game of the season against Wofford's Terriers:

Chick Galloway Scored Every Point

"Chick Galloway was in the backfield for us that game, and he scored every point we made. He drop-kicked two field goals in that game which we won 16-6."

After 1916 the sophomore McMillian dropped out of school to enter the war and returned for the 1919 season. The Hose posted a 4-3-2 record that year, and one win was over the South Carolina Gamecocks again, this time by a 6-0 count—'One of our players caught a punt off a safety man's back and ran for a touchdown."

A 0-0 Deadlock With Highly Favored Cats

That same season PC played Davidson for the first time, and took a 0-0 deadlock over the then highly favored Wildcats. "Our coach (Walter Johnson) was sick that week, so we all got on the train and went without him."

It was in his final game as a Hoseman that McMillian scored the touchdown to beat Davidson for the first time, and after that season he stayed on in Clinton to teach at the high school here. In the following few years he taught school, and coached PC's freshman squad, and high school teams from Clinton High and Thornwell Orphanage. He remained here as an assistant coach until being named head coach in 1941.

'Incidents' Caused Interruption

One of his most vivid memories of the PC-Davidson game was in 1926, the year the rivalry was called off because of "incidents" between the students. A fight broke out in the game, which was played at Rock Hill, and which Davidson won 3-0.

The next time PC played the Wildcats was in 1949, and the head coach Lonnie McMillian remembers "We had some good, fast boys and just outran them 27-7." The next year, 1950, PC played them here. "We had a bad night, they were up for us and whipped us 24-0."

A Long Time Since 1915

It's been a long time since Lonnie Mac came here as a freshman in 1915, but some games seem to be crystal clear to the former Hoseman. One of these games was in 1941, when PC won the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship, by beating Rollins 14-6. "We had a play where the quarterbeck faked a handoff, the two guards pulled, and all three ran around end. Nobody back then had ever seen anything like it and we scored the winning touchdown that way."

Another game which still excites McMillian was in 1942 when PC whipped Tampa 41-7. "McLaughlin, one of our big linemen, caught a pass somebody had deflected, and ran 37 yards for a touchdown on one of the oddest plays I can remember." That big lineman, incidentally, is the father of Larry "Ishmoe" McLaughlin, now a freshman footballer.

Half Of Student Body On Team

"When I played football for PC, we used to practice from 4-dark where the gym is now. There were about 150 students in the school, and half of those were on the team."

'After I started coaching, we used to work the boys hard at practice. Sometimes we would still be practicing at dark, and there weren't any lights on the field then. I finally painted a football white and we would practice on into the night!"

It's Homecoming weekend. Tomorrow the Blue Hose play Davidson. After the game everybody will go to some party. It's a big blow-it-out football weekend for most people.

It means something else to some people.

CATS' STEVE SMITH

PC's BOB WARREN

CATS' PACK HINDSLEY

PC Favored By 10 Over Davidson; Jackie Nix Will Get Starting Nod

The Blue Hose are a 10-point favorite to beat Davidson's Wildcats when the 23rd "Battle of the Presbyterians" gets underway at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Hundreds of alumni will be in the stands for the Homecoming action, and they'll be looking for the Hose to avenge 1962's 13-9 loss to the arch-rival Presbyterians in that season's Homecoming battle.

Last year the two squads fought to a 14-14 draw at Davidson's Homecoming.

For PC, the game shapes up as a sort of trial to test the thusfar surprising offense and also to see how well the attack fares with three substitutions in the starting backfield.

Nix To Start

Coach Cally Gault has announced that senior Jackie Nix of Bainbridge, Ga., will get the starting quarterback nod, instead of regular signal-caller Leighton Grantham of Easley. Grantham probably will see action, but a broken index finger on his left hand could hinder his effectiveness.

Gault reports that Nix "has looked especially sharp in practice, and I think he can move the team if Grantham doesn't play. We're going to pass a lot regardless of who is quarterback."

The other changes in PC's starting backfield put Sandy Hagood of Easley at right halfback, and Mike Smith of North Augusta at fullback to share the load with a recuperating Sam Williams.

Davidson QB Big Threat

In order to beat the Davidsonians, PC will have to stop outstanding quarterback Steve Heckard, and a corps of fleet running Wildcat backs. Davidson whipped Mississippi College 17-14 in the first game, but collapsed 28-0 before The Citadel last week.

The Hose-Cat rivalry dates back to 1919, when the two schools battled to a 0-0 tie. Davidson holds an 11-9 edge, with two ties in the series, but PC leads in the last ten meetings.

Four Veterans, Seven Frosh Out For '64-65 Basketball

By AL PEARCE
Co-Sports Editor

Although the formal practice sessions don't begin until October 15, Coach Art Musselman has had his nine man 1964-65 basketball squad on the courts of LeRoy Springs Gym in an effort to get a head start on the approaching cage season.

The young mentor of the Hose basketball fortunes is beginning his second season here but this year things are going to be a bit different. No longer does Musselman openly voice the optimism he may feel concerning his basketball team.

Last fall, as he began his freshman year as a collegiate coach, the former great cage star at The Citadel predicted an outstanding record for the '63-'64 Blue Hose. Although the season was an above average one, the record Musselman had predicted was lost among the score sheets which showed PC on the short end too many times. This year he may feel the same as last, but he's not letting anyone know it.

If the tall Indiana native does envision a successful campaign for his men no one can really blame him. Returning will be four lettermen starters from the team of last winter and yet it may just be the freshmen who make the season.

The veterans returning will be Danny Charles, a senior forward from Spartanburg; Gordon Adam, a junior guard from Bloomfield, Ky.; Doug Allen, a junior center from Myrtle Beach; and Jimmy Bankhead, a junior forward of Chester. Bankhead will be hinered again this season because he will not be able to begin basketball practice until after the final PC football game in late November. Jimmy is a starting end for Coach Cally Gault.

If Musselman is hopeful it is because of the seven freshmen out for berths on the squad. Five of the men are on scholarship and all were considered among the best high school players in their states.

The freshmen are Kenny Martin, a guard from Wayland, Ky.; Bob McGregor of Fort Wayne, Ind., a forward; Richard Quillen, a Kingsport, Tennessee, guard; Jim Hollar, a Muncie, Ind., guard; David Turner of Muncie, Ind., and Ramon Priestino, of Richmond, Va. Also to come out at the completion of football season is Richard Reed of Columbus, Ga.

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
CANTERBURY BELTS and WALLETS
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

Buffet Luncheon
Saturday and Sunday
Hotel Mary Musgrove

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

Dates are on campus, parties have been planned and the last minute rush downtown to the alley will soon start, as PC heralds its most popular weekend of the year. Old faces will be seen, and the memories they conjure up will bring bright smiles to many faces. All fraternities extend a hearty welcome to returning alumni.

The six Greek chapters intend to join in making the 1964 Homecoming PC's biggest and best.

After the concert Friday night Sigma Nu, Kappa Alpha, Alpha Sigma Phi, Pi Kappa Alpha and Pi Kappa Phi will hold record parties in their suites.

Theta Chi's will dig in at the Legion Hut with The Mellowtones from 9:30 p. m. until 6 a. m. for their Sunrise Party.

After Homecoming displays have been judged and the game played, frats will begin the celebration of our victory over Davidson. All frats will have drop-ins after the game.

Saturday night the PiKA's will move to Lake Greenwood with Dr. Feelgood. The Tarcoids will play for the Sigma Nu's at the Hotel Mary Musgrove. The Theta Chi's will hold their party at the Shrine Club.

Kappa Alpha will dance to the music of The Dynamics at the Legion Hut. The Old Theater houses the Alpha Sig party with Cornell Blakely playing. Pi Kappa Phi plans a 6 p. m. supper at Peck's to be followed by dancing with The Crescents.

Homecoming parties are open to all upperclassmen, transfer students, and freshmen.

Recently initiated into the brotherhood of Pi Kappa Alpha were Jim Helms, Mike Donovan, James Smith, Allan Harris, John Monk, Richard Smart, Bill Riner, Ed Ellington, Kit Regnery and Buddy Protinsky.

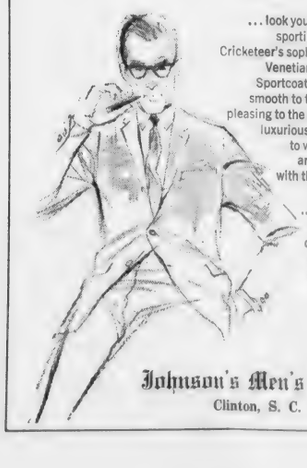
New brothers for Alpha Sigma Phi are Woody McGinn and Dave Veneklasen. David Bordner and Frank Marquette were initiated into Sigma Nu brotherhood.

Sigma Nu Jim Settles was recently engaged to Miss Judy Harrelson, and Henry Knox of Alpha Sigma Phi pinned Laura Jo Proctor of Rocky Mount, N. C.

Brothers of the week for the ASP's are Henry Knox, Woody McGinn and Dave Veneklasen.

Right Where It's Needed BOSTITCH "Handy" STAPLER with wall bracket, staple remover, and 1000 staples

Mounted on the wall, never out of sight . . . in the kitchen, by the phone . . . to fasten quickly whenever you want it.



The CHRONICLE

THE MEN'S SHOP

PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS

On The Square Laurens

LOOK SPORTING, Gentlemen

. . . look your elegant, sporting best in Cricketeer's sophisticated Venetian Worsted Sportcoats. They're smooth to the touch, pleasing to the eye and a luxurious pleasure to wear. Ours are tailored with the accent on youth . . . in subtly blended colors and subdued patterns.

Johnson's Men's Shop

Clinton, S. C.

Campus Briefs

Catalog Omission

Dr. Joseph M. Gettys announced the folowing omission from the 1964-1965 Presbyterian College Catalog.

Any student who is temporarily excluded from Presbyterian College for academic or other reasons cannot receive credit toward his degree at this institution for work taken at another institution during the period of exclusion.

This policy is in effect since Sept. 1964.

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Thomas A. Stallworth, College chaplain, has announced that Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, Jr., will speak during the Monday chapel service.

The Chapel Worship Service Wednesday will be conducted by Rev. Charles J. Hammet, Presbyterian Minister to Students at the University of South Carolina.

Friday, Robert F. Chapman of Spartanburg will give the first of two talks on the current presidential campaign. He will speak in behalf of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Alumni Officers

(Continued from page 1)

automatically to the presidency. The 1964 president, Tom Addison of Clinton, vice-president of Waddell and Reed, becomes the immediate past president.

D. D. Edmunds, formerly of Sumter and now of New York City, was elected one of the three alumni representatives on the Presbyterian College board of trustees. He is vice-president of Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The alumni balloting also tapped Thomas D. Todd of Laurens to be the next Alumni Association vice-president, Rion Vassey of Greenville to be secretary-treasurer and these new directors to serve two-year terms:

South Carolina — William P. Jacobs of Clinton, Harry Hicklin of Rock Hill and Blair Baldwin of Columbia; Georgia—John P. Newsome of Decatur and A. Statham Quinn of Augusta; North Carolina—E. Raymond Crowson of Charlotte.

College Pool Open

The college pool will be open for students, faculty, and faculty children on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 3 until 4:30 p. m. each week.

Athletic Director Cally Gault said arrangements for special occasions can be made by contacting the athletic office or Prof. Robert Fakkema.

Business Manager Needed

Mr. G. Edward Campbell, Business Manager, said last week that there is a position open in the business office of Camp Fellowship on Lake Greenwood for the summer session, 1965.

Mr. Campbell said interested students should see him for further information.

BROADWAY Theatre

Today, Friday, October 8-9

55 DAYS AT PEKING

Charles Heston, Ava Gardner, David Niven

Saturday, October 10

THE EVIL OF FRANKENSTEIN

With Peter Cushing

Monday-Tuesday, October 12-13

THE WORLD OF HENRY ORIENT

Peter Sellers, Paul Prentiss, Angela Lansbury

HOWARD'S PHARMACY

ON THE SQUARE

"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"

COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

SUNSHINE Cleaners

. . . and . . .

Laundry

SHOE REPAIR SHOP

OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!

Located Behind Clinton Post Office

Belk's

Football Special!

Manstyle All-Weather COATS

WITH ZIP-OUT LINERS

Sizes 36-44

Regular and Long

NAVY BLUE AND OYSTER

$18.99

Main Floor

J. C. THOMAS

JEWELER

"It's Time That Counts"

Yarborough

Studio and Camera Shop

Phone 833-1900

Cameras - Film - Processing

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS

•

Adair's Men's Shop

— Court Square —

Enjoy Your Homecoming Again at

Vernon's

HOME OF PLEASANT EATING

GREENWOOD HIGHWAY 833-2300

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., October 16, 1964 NO. 4

Barry Goldwater Lauded By Demo Defector on TV

Watson Fails To Show for Chapel Speech

By WALTER WELLS
Blue Stocking Co-Editor

Albert Watson, freshman U. S. Representative from S. C.'s second congressional district and a Democrat who has endorsed the Republican presidential candidate, failed to show for a scheduled speech in chapel this morning on the merits of Sen. Goldwater.

Watson was to substitute for Robert F. Chapman, a Republican from Spartanburg. Chapman, an attorney, was tied up in Federal Court today.

Contacted in his office in Columbia by President Marc Weersing, Watson said he had "not been notified of the speaking engagement." He did say, however, that he would be glad to speak at some later time if it could be worked into his schedule.

Commenting on Watson's failure to show, President Weersing said, "This is perhaps prophetic of what will happen to Democrats for Goldwater.

Thursday, Watson debated S. C. Democratic Chairman Yancey A. McLeod on television and took issue with "appeasers, accommodators and vacillators" within his own party.

He especially criticized President Johnson for having made "security exemption" which Watson said would have prevented the Walter Jenkins affair.

Jenkins, a Texan who was Johnson's closest adviser since 1939, resigned his White House post after it was learned that he had been arrested on a morals charge. The President has ordered the Federal Bureau of Investigation to scrutinize Jenkins' activities closely to determine whether or not national security has been affected.

Watson said on television that "this isn't the first time he (Jenkins) has been arrested. It would not have happened if security exemptions were not made for top aides by the administration."

McLeod said little about the Jenkins affair. "I understand problems of this type require psychiatric treatment," he said.

Watson struck particularly hard at the 1964 Civil Rights Act and said Democrats would use the fair employment practices section to achieve a "racial balance" in textile mills. McLeod countered that no one would be replaced in the mils.

The congressman also said Goldwater would probably seek abolition of Johnson's anti-poverty bill if elected. He called the bill a "vote-buying gimmick."

He continued by saying Goldwater will look at "the total financial picture of the American people and work for the bona fide needs of the country." Then, stealing some of President's Johnson's thunder, he remarked, "Americans are compassionate people . . ."

Watson's appearance at PC was to be the first of two made by South Carolina politicians. A Democrat will speak in behalf of the national ticket during a chapel period in the next two weeks.

QUEEN CONGRATULATED—President Marc C. Weersing bestows a congratulatory kiss on PC's 1964 Homecoming Queen, Miss LaRue Gooding. Miss Gooding was chosen queen from a field of 12 contestants sponsored by various campus organizations. Sponsored by Sigma Nu, Miss Gooding is a freshman at Limestone College in Gaffney.

Jazz Ensemble Set For Belk Thursday

The American Jazz Ensemble, heralded by Time Magazine as "the group that has set avant-garde beards to wagging the length of Italy," will open the season's Clinton Community Concert Series Oct. 22 at 8:15 p. m. in Belk Auditorium.

Offering a unique concert of both jazz and classical contemporary music, the ensemble is made of up Johnny Eaton, piano, William O. Smith, clarinet, and drums and bass.

Members of the PC student body are entitled to an admissions ticket to all local performances. Students may pick up their season tickets from Mrs. Betty Stilwell in the library. Other performances scheduled this season include The Theatremen, Feb. 12, and the Chicago Little Symphony March 17.

Concerts in Greenwood and Anderson are open to PC students at no charge. However, admission to the Greenville concert series is limited to those students who have paid an additional $1.00 for the Greenville membership card.

Army's Snyder Emphasizes Key Positions Of Soldier

Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, Jr., commander of the XII Army Corps, hailed the "importance of the soldier" in a speech delivered before the student body in chapel Monday.

Gen. Synder, on campus to tour the ROTC facilities and have a briefing by ranking cadets in the ROTC battalion, spoke on the development of new types of weapons for the U. S. arsenal but emphasized that today's soldier "must be prepared to fight with whatever weapons are necessary."

"Our soldiers are important because it is they who will check the final victory in any type battle," said Gen. Synder. "They therefore have a tremendous challenge before them."

The general told of the extensive heritage of the American soldier, saying that there have been 150 campaigns in the 189 years of American military history.

He then listed some of the attributes of the good soldier and praised the adaptability of soldiers to different cultures.

Gen. Snyder is a West Point graduate and served with the Third Armored Division in Germany during World War II.

After the war he returned to the Military Academy as instructor in tactics, and served later Sixth Armored Cavalry Regimental Combat Team on border patrol along the Iron Curtain.

(Continued on page 6)

Board of Visitors Convenes Thursday

The present and future program of Presbyterian College will be the topic of discussion next Thursday and Friday as members of this institution's Board of Visitors convene.

As individuals, the members of the Board serve as interpreters of the college's plans and programs to specific groups and encourage students of character and personality to apply for admission to the college.

They also report to the college the reactions of the general public or of specific groups with which each member is associated in business or community life.

The Board is also instrumental in helping PC accomplish her long term objective as a Christian liberal arts college.

PC Guidance Secretary Named Woman of Year

Mrs. Robert E. Johnson, well-known Clinton teacher and secretary, has been named "Career Woman of the Year" in competition sponsored by the Clinton Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Johnson currently is psychometrist-secretary with the Presbyterian Guidance Center of the Synod of South Carolina, located on the Presbyterian College campus, and also is part time commerce teacher on the Presbyterian College faculty.

In the contest won by Mrs. Johnson, each civic club was invited to nominate a candidate. All nominees were judged on how they have furthered their careers, their participation in religious, humanitarian, civic and community activities.

Mrs. Johnson, valedictorian of her high school class, attended Sacred Heart Junior College and graduated with the highest scholastic average in her class. At Sacred Heart she was also editor of the school yearbook.

She completed work for her BA degree at Presbyterian College, graduating with honors with a major in English. At PC she earned most of her college expenses by serving as an assistant in both the English and the mathematics departments.

Mrs. Johnson's work experience has been largely in the field of education. She worked for three years as secretary to the psychologist and director of training at Whitten Village. During the war, she was chief clerk for Seaboard Airline Railroad.

Certified by the State Department of Education to teach English, Math, French and Commerce, she has taught in all of these fields with 14 years' teaching experience in public schools.

She has also worked for seven years as bookkeeper for Laurens County School District 56.

She is a member of the Clinton Business and Professional Women's Club, the Clinton Music Club, and the Laurens County Mental Health Association. She has held many local and several state offices in all of these associations. She has also sung with the Community Choral Group since its organization three years ago.

MRS. R. E. JOHNSON

Mrs. Johnson is the mother of three children: a daughter who this year is a sophomore at Winthrop College in Rock Hill; a son who is in his first year at the U. S. Air Naval Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.; and another son who is a junior at Clinton High School.

Dr. David T. Mixon, chairman of the Lions Club committee which nominated her for the honor, said, "Mrs. Johnson's work experience has been worthy and productive . . . She has taken advantage of opportunities to grow both in her professional work and in her preparation for advancement."

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager — Al Pearce
Managing Editor — Bill Loeble

Efforts Of Many Made Homecoming A Success

THE OVERWHELMING SUCCESS of 1964's Homecoming was not spontaneous but came as a result of concerted efforts from many people.

THE ALUMNI BARBEQUE, a project of Ben Hay Hammet, was indeed an enjoyable and fitting antecedent to the efforts of our football team in their well fought victory over Davidson.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S concert was a new and worthwhile contribution to Homecoming. A capacity crowd proved that concerts should become a traditional part of Homecoming activities. The Administration, I. F. C. and Prof. Halsall are to be commended.

THROUGH THE EFFORTS of the Blue Key and Dean Gettys, Saturday classes were cancelled for the weekend celebrations. Both student leaders and Administration were dubious about the effects of this action in the fear that home bound bags would be packed. There was soon no doubt, however, that "free cuts" were an addition to Homecoming and not a detraction.

STUDENT PARTICIPATION was overwhelming and indicated that the secret to a successful Homecoming is the mutual cooperation and interest that was so obviously injected into the past weekend. We commend our administration and student leaders for a job well done.—BA

New Interest In Dorms To Call For Cooperation

VISIBLE EVIDENCE of interest in dormitory maintenance was given this week as Mr. Daniluk, administrative assistant, announced the addition of a central supply center (see CAMPUS BRIEFS) which will provide cleaning materials to students. Students will soon be aware of definite improvements now underway.

PREVIOUS DISINTEREST in slovenly dormitory maintenance and control precluded any initial blame towards the student. Now that definite steps are being taken to remedy these conditions; it is the responsibility of the student to realize his side of what is, and must be, a two fold program.

BROKEN WINDOWS, lost light bulbs and water damage resulted from this week's grand finale to rat season as freshmen engaged in the traditional rampage of upperclassmen dorms. As a part of rat season this function has a definite place and should remain. The damage effected, however, is not tradition. It was unwarranted, irresponsible, inexcusable, and not in any way indicative of our caliber of student. Measures must be taken to prevent the chance of such occurences in the future.

CIGARETTE DAMAGE to floors must cease. Ash trays are simple and inexpensive prerequisites to smoking. Waste baskets must be used, and drink bottles placed in racks.

FROM COMPLETE DEARTH we now have hopes of a progressive new policy. It is the responsibility of both administration and student to guarantee the continuance and quality of this program. BA

Free Love And Premarital Mania: Fancy, Frivolity, Fracture, Farce?

By GARY CRAWFORD
Blue Stocking Feature Editor

With the introduction of oral contraceptives into the American market, many thinkers assert that an entirely new dimension will be seen in the seemingly paradoxical problem of sex morality. Because of the efficacy of these contraceptives, there is some contention that American society will ultimately condone free love.

The purpose of this article is not to argue for or against the issue of free love but to muse over some of the necessary repercussions which this concept would effect in the distant future. Below is a short excerpt from the 2064 Philolustical Quarterly by Dr. U. B. Free, president emeritus of Fish College.

"Being in agreement with the basic precepts of the prevailing philosophy of existlustism, I want to recognize and commend some of its practical manifestations upon contemporary society. In literature the New York Circle Lewd Award was presented to Oscar Oblivion's 'Of Pill and the River.' 'The Red Motel' by V. D. Venery received the Coit Award for its episodic yet wholesome structure.

"This year's Classical Award was given to our own Fish College Players for their rendition of Sexius Libidinus' play 'Promiscus and Lascivia.'

"The most significant advancement in this year's social development program occurred with the National Incontinence Committee's refusal to grant voting rights to the Piedmont Bible Belt Society for the Prohibition of Perversive Public Playground Programs. The committee did rule, however, that contraceptive dispensers be installed on or near all swings and merry-go-rounds.

It is regrettable to report that the social progress in the piedmont area has been aggravated considerably by some ascetic religious groups who still refuse to have their spring saturnalias in church social halls.

"A general pessimism among the aged is considered by the experts to be the most immediate sociological problem. However, intensive research at the National Institute of Medicine has made great progress in restoring the sensual vitality of the aged.

"Although the nation is plagued by antediluvian concepts of restraint, it has made commendable progress through many facets of its culture in realizing the moral and pragmatic benefits of existlustism."

Are Coeds Human? Perennial Question Raised Once Again

By LESLIE BIANS

It has come to my attention of late that I am a member of a select yet grossly maligned group. This reference is not to the cafeteria staff or to the Young Republicans. I'm talking about the coeds.

Let's look at this situation in an orderly and chronological fashion, starting with coeds of the past. They seem to come up in all serious debates on the merits of coeducation, especially with reference to this grand old school.

How many know the tragic secret held within these walls? The first graduating class, numbering three, was composed entirely of women. So you see, it was the men and not the women who intruded. And how they intruded!

In all honesty and from available facts, it is granted that former PC coeds have not been the swiftest bunch of flies turned out. My only answer to those who take this point —watch out for the cracks in your glass house.

Now let's hop on over to coeds present. If I made any attempt to glamorize, glorify or otherwise deify us, there would be wounded shouts of favoritism. So rather than be totally offensive in one article and in order to beat you to the punch, what are the bad points?

What makes the coed such a low form of life? Yes, there is definitely something wrong with us, but then if anyone made any constructive criticism it would be taken with a lot better graces than the poor-mouthing which presently dominates the topic of PC coeducation.

After all there's only one or two of us who think we're God's gift to men and PC. How about a little help, fellas? We need a new image. We're pretty tired of being bookworms, squares, and other wise invisible to the masculine gaze, except in the time of need of a quick pick-up.

Armed camps are a thing of the past. Has anyone heard of peaceful co-existence?

Before my time and lines expire, on to coeds future. A word to the wise—be prepared. If we can stand the competition, you can stand the improved scenery. Sick coed jokes are a dead horse flogged by a dying regime. The latest thing these days is individual thought and initiative. To a jaundiced eye it would seem that the only ones to suffer from coeducation at PC will be the Converse girls.

'I'd Rather Be Rich' Proves One Of 64's Best Comedies

By CHARLIE JORDAN
Blue Stocking Movie Writer

Starting Thursday at Clinton's Broadway Theatre is the romantic comedy, "I'd Rather Be Rich." Once again Sandra Dee proves that her comic talent is not based on chest expanse alone.

Sandra, as heroine, leads an impressive list of stars which includes Andy Williams, Robert Goulet, and Maurice Chevalier.

Adorning herself with over $1,600,000.00 worth of gems, Miss Dee as usual plays the lovely and love-giving sophisticated young lady. Hollywood magic, however, enables her to transform into the gilt and garb of a moneyed heiress.

"I'd Rather Be Rich" yields Andy Williams his first star role, and Robert Goulet his second. As for Chevalier, he is traditionally terrific in his role as the matchmaking grandparent.

Producers of "I'd Rather Be Rich" were indeed successful in casting what is truly one of the most enjoyable comedies of the season.

Yecch!

Playing through Saturday at Clinton's Broadway Theater is "The Lively Set."

—And yet another zilchy movie about swinging teens, flashy racing cars, impossible wild parties, rockin' music, and other banal bait for the American Teen to bite into. This time, however, Annette Funicello and Frankie Avalon get a rest; Pamela Tiffin and James Darren are run in, sun-tanned and smiling unceasingly to fleece the Bobby-sock set.

Comment: Leave it to "the lively set"—10-16.

SOME VISTA WORKERS WILL GO TO INDIAN HOMES LIKE THIS ONE TO HELP IMPROVE CONDITIONS OF SANITATION

New State-side Peace Corps Now Open For Applications

Washington (CPS)—VISTA, a domestic version of the Peace Corps, is now accepting applications and hopes to have its first volunteers in training by late November.

VISTA—Volunteers In Service To America—was created by the anti-poverty bill passed by Congress in August. Volunteers will enroll for one year of service and may re-enroll for one or two additional years.

Male volunteers are expected to have draft deferrals similar to those now granted to college students. The procedure will be simpler than that used for Peace Corps volunteers who serve abroad. Volunteers will either be assigned to serve in one of the poverty bill's own programs or referred to local public or private agencies that have anti-poverty programs.

Requests have already been received for more than 1500 VISTA volunteers. The organization's budged permits selection of up to 5000 people between now and next July.

Workers in the program will work in rural and urban "community action programs," Job Corps camps, migrant worker communities, Indian reservations, hospitals, schools, and institutions for the mentally ill or retarded.

Specific requests have been received for volunteers to work as family counsellors, guidance and vocational counsellors, kindergarten teachers, child day school aides, vocational instructors, home economists, recreational aides, and health aides.

Volunteers may be sent to any state, Washington, D. C., Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, or a U. S. trust territory. Applicants may express area preferences.

VISTA pesonnel will be expected to live in the environment in which they work. They will be provided with housing, food, and transportation and with an allowance for clothing and incidentals. They will also be reimbursed for medical expenses. In addition, upon completion of service, volunteers will receive $50 for each month of service.

The first four to six weeks of service will be spent in training programs emphasizing supervised field experience. Training will also include discussion of poverty in the United States, area and language study where necessary, health education, and the development of recreational skills.

Training programs will be conducted by local public and private organizations, including colleges and universities. Any person over 18 years of age may apply to VISTA and married couples are eligible if both the husband and wife qualify.

Further information about VISTA is available from the Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D. C. 20506. Students who will not be available for service until January or June may apply now.

Buchheit, Underwood Fill Frosh Council Seats

Newly elected Student Council representatives from the freshman class are Bill Buchheit of Spartanburg and Gregg Underwood of Chattanooga, Tenn. They defeated Bill Bassham and Richie Richardson in a closely contested election.

The office of freshman class president was won by Johnny Gaw on a victory over Larry Creel and Johnny McCallum. New fresh vice-president is Butch Tuck who defeated Jerry Robb and Web Watters.

The position of freshman class secretary female by precedent, was won by Dianne Brown. Sarah Stribling opposed her. Andy Barnett and Jerry Ward were defeated by freshman treasurer Bill Riddle.

Over-all voting yielded an average of 48 per cent. Voting averages by classes were 57 per cent freshman, 40 per cent sophomore, 43 per cent juniors, and 50 per cent seniors.

Said Council President Mike Smith, "All facets of this election were extremely close. Our turnout was poor, however, and this, I hope, is certainly not indicative of student interest."

Choir Schedule Announced For 23-Visit Fall Season

Dr. Leonard Pattie, PC's minister of music and director of the choirs, has announced a 23-engagement schedule for the Robed Choir's season this year.

The first performances are set for Nov. 21-22 in Dalton, Ga., and Easley.

Other pre-Christmas programs will be given at Albany and Thomasville, Ga., on Dec. 5 and 6. The 7th is open for an evening engagement or return to campus.

Jan. 9-10 the choir will travel to Atlanta and Athens, Ga. The choir will be in both Greenwood and Clinton Jan. 21.

On Feb. 13-14 the choir will return to Atlanta, with engagements at Peachtree and David Hills Presbyterian Churches.

The choir will sing in Greenville and Spartanburg Feb. 28, and on March 13-14 it will be in Rome, Ga., and Anderson.

The spring tour will this year take the choir to Florida and is scheduled for March 25-31. It will appear in Macon, Ga., Gainesville, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and Sanford, Fla.; and Hinesville and Brunswick, Ga.

North Carolina and Columbia host the choir April 11, and the season ends with a performance in Georgetown April 24.

Oxford University Rhodes Scholarships Open

Elections to Rhodes Scholarships will be held in all states in December. Scholars-elect will enter Oxford University in Oct., 1965.

To be eligible a candidate must be a male citizen of the U. S. unmarried and with a residency of at least five years. Age limits are set at between 18 and 24 before Oct. 1, 1964. By the time of application the candidate must have at least a junior standing, and the official endorsement of his college is necessary.

The qualities which Cecil Rhodes specified in his will as forming the basis of selection are: literary and scholastic ability and attainments; qualities of manhood, truthfulness, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and protection of the weak, kindliness, unselfishness, and fellowship; exhibition of moral force of character, and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his fellows; physical vigor, as shown by fondness for and success in sports. Quality of both character and intellect is the most important requirement for a Rhodes Scholarship, and this is what the committee will seek.

The value of a Rhodes Scholarship is 900 British pounds per year. Appointment to a Rhodes Scholarship is made for two years in the first instance with a possible third year if the Scholar's record at Oxford and plan of study warrant such an award. No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes Scholar's choice of studies.

A candidate may apply either in the state in which he resides or in the state in which he may have received at least two years of his college education. Applications must be in the hands of the secretary of the state committee not later than Nov. 2, 1964.

Students who feel they have the necessary qualifications should contact Dr. Whitelaw and their major field department head.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterain College, Clinton, S. C., October 16, 1964 — NO. 4

Application Time Draws Near For Fullbright-Hays Fellowships

Only a few weeks remain in which to apply for Fullbright-Hays fellowships for the 1965-66 academic year. More than 900 graduate grants to 53 countries are available through the U. S. Department of State's educational exchange program, which is authorized by the Fullbright-Hays Act. The Institute of International Education (IIE) administers the competition for this program.

Application forms and information for students currently enrolled in Presbyterian College may be obtained from the campus Fulbright Adviser, Dr. Neill Whitelaw. Individual department heads also have lists of countries offering opportunities in particular fields.

Students who wish to apply for an award for study or research, or for teaching assistantships, must have: U. S. citizenship, at least a bachelor's degree by the beginning date of the grant, language proficiency commensurate with the proposed project, and good health.

Selections will be made on the basis of academic and/or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed study plan, and personal qualifications.

Three types of grants are available under the Fulbright-Hays Act: U. S. Government Full Grants, Joint U. S.-Other Government Grants, and U. S. Government Travel-Only Grants.

Each Full Grant provides round - trip transportation, tuition, maintenance, and health and accident insurance for one academic year of study or research. Participating countries in the Full Grant program include: Argentina, Australia, Belgium-Luxembourg, Brazil, Ceylon, Chile, China, (Republic of), Combia, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, (Federal Republic of), Greece, Iceland, India, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, Nepal, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Thailand, Turkey, United Arab Republic, Untide Kingdom and Uruguay.

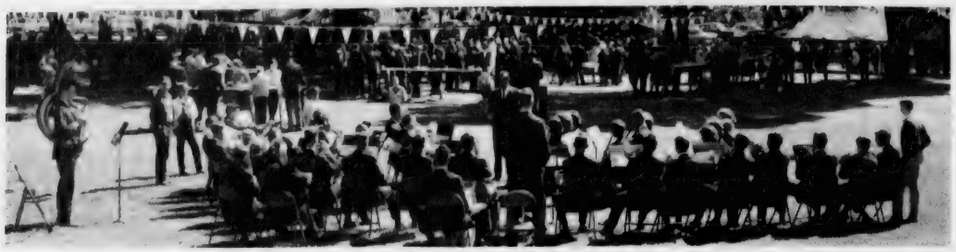
Special opportunities under the Full Grant program include: teaching assistantships in India, Iran and Italy for students interested in teaching English as a foreign language; and fellowships in Italy for teaching American language and literature, history, philosophy or law.

3 Professors Published

Three members of the PC faculty and a former member were engaged in scholarly work or publication this summer.

Dr. Ronald D. Burnside, associate professor of history at PC, delivered a paper before the 1964 meeting of the South Carolina Historical Association.

He spoke on a phase of the administration of the late Gov. Cole L. Blease, who served as chief executive of South Carolina early in this century. The subject is a favorite research project of Dr. Burnside.



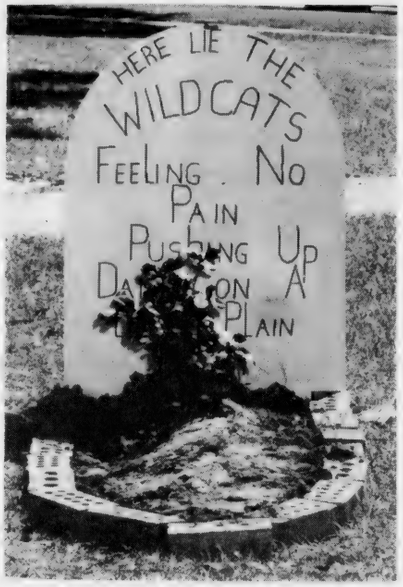
An article by two members of the Presbyterian College chemistry department appears in the most recent issue of The Analyzer, quarterly journal of Beckman Instruments, Inc.

The article, entitled "Utilizing Gas Chromotography in Undergraduate Organic Chemistry," was written by Dr. K. Nolon Carter, chairman of the chemistry department, and Assistant Professor R. B. Huff. It was developed as an outgrowth of an article these two professors presented at the 1963 meeting of the South Carolina Academy of Science.

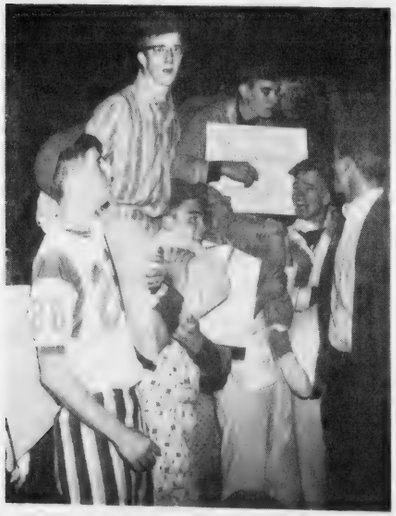
The Analyzer has a circulation of 120,000. It illustrates the Carter-Huff article with one full-page drawing and two smaller ones.

A bibliography on James Boswell entitled "Boswellian Studies" has been published by Anthony E. Brown, former assistant professor of English at PC.

In this catalog of the critical writing on the subject of James Boswell and his work, Brown has "attempted to organize into a single instrument as much of the primary material and secondary work as my resources have permitted." The five sections include editions of Boswell's works, with particular attention to his Life of Samuel Johnson; biographies of Boswell; the Boswell papers; general studies; and theses and dissertations about him.

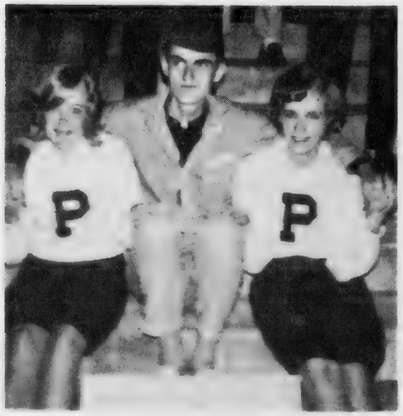


Homecoming 1964: Crowds Everywhere



And Rat Season Ended Too

Mr. Harvey Speaks



PiKapp's Winning Display

Easy Pick-Ups

Photos
By
Yarborough

Embarrassed or Elated?

Speaking of Sports

Contact Basic In Football, But Not For Elliott

with AL PEARCE

Contact in college football is basic. It's accepted, expected and necessary. It's the kind of thing a player doesn't even think about when he puts on pads. He knows he's going to be hit. Hit hard. And hit often. And he's going to hit back. Just as hard and just as often.

Strange For A Senior Letterman

So it must feel a little strange for a senior letterman to go out to practice every day knowing he's not going to be hit. Knowing that when he goes out on the field for a game he won't hit unless it is absolutely necessary. And hoping it won't be absolutely necessary. Yet Presbyterian College has just such a player. And Jimmy Elliott is more valuable to the Blue Hose by not hitting.

Specialists Don't Hit

Jimmy Elliott is a specialist. And usually specialists don't hit during practice sessions. They specialize, and Elliott is no exception. He punts back and forth across the 40 yard wide field all afternoon. He's a "loner"; off to himself, working on timing and punting techniques. It must be this way.

One Solid Blow Would Do It

It must be this way because Jimmy Elliott has a history of knee disorders as long as one of his punts. And all it would take to sideline the Savannah senior for the remainder of the season would be one solid blow to his knees. Coach Cally Gault knows this Elliott knows it and the PC squad knows it.

Less Than Five Minutes

As a punter Jimmy has been in on only 20 offensive plays this fall. That's less than five minutes of playing time and yet what an important few minutes they have been. For in those five minutes Elliott has gotten the Blue Hose out of a lot of rouble. On the 20 punts Jimmy has had thus far this fall there goes a 42.9 yards per-kick average. That's equivalent to almost 43 yards per carry for a running back.

Not Always This Way

But Jimmy Elliott was not primarily a punter when he came to PC four years ago. As a freshman Elliott was the punter, but in his sophomore season he ran from a halfback slot. Until this history of knee injuries caught up with him, Jimmy was an outstanding runner. But after his initial injury, in his sophomore year, Elliott was not the runner he had been. An off-season operation removed cartilage from the injured knee. But one operation wasn't going to do it all.

The Running Role Again

As a junior Jimmy again tried the running role. Again he was injured and again an operation removed more cartilage. This time it was for good. No more running roles and no more hitting.

Sixth Best In America

Maybe that was a good thing for now Elliott could concentrate on his kicking. Last week, in the NAIA national statistical releases "Jimmy Elliott of Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C.," was the ninth best small college kicker in America. In the release received today he is the sixth ranking punter in America.

It Can Be Cold

It gets cold every afternoon on Walter Johnson Field about sundown. It gets especially cold if you're not moving around, not hitting. Jimmy Elliott isn't.

* * * * * *

After four games the PC statistical chart shapes up like this:

RUSHING

Player	Carries	Total	Average
HB McNeill	28	163	4.4
FB Williams	58	258	5.8

PASSING

Player	Attempted	Completed	Yards
QB Leighton Grantham	59	31	329

PASS RECEIVING

Player	Catches	Yards Gained
E Jimmy Bankhead	12	146
E James Smith	9	124

PUNTING

Player	No. of Kicks	Average
Jimmy Elliott	20	42.9

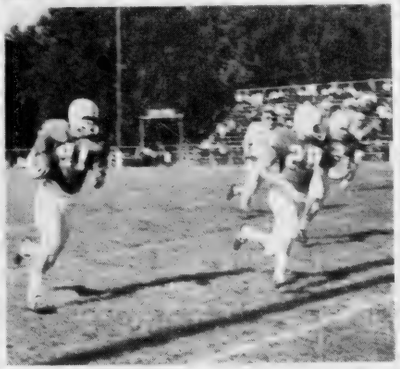
PC Takes Swing at Furman Paladins; Rated 2-Point Favorite on Record

By GLENN BROWDER
Co-Sports Editor

Presbyterian will take a second swing at Southern Conference opposition this week when the Blue Hosemen travel to Furman for a bout with the Paladins.

The Presbyterians are rated a two-point favorite by the charts, mainly because they have a 3-1 record while the Homecoming Paladins have won only once in five outings.

Coach Cally Gault is realistically cautious about Saturday's game, since PC hasn't whipped the Furman squad since 1959. The host school also owns a 19-6 series lead over the Hose. Last year's contest found the Blues on the short end of a 27-0 engagement.



If past games are any indication, quarterback Leighton Grantham will spearhead the PC offense. He has passed for 329 aerial yards thus far. Sam Williams will supply much of the rushing power at fullback.

The Hose should get another outstanding performance from halfback Don McNeill and end Garnet Welch, who were selected as PC's Player-of-the-Week for the last game.

Furman too owns a hotshot quarterback in Sammy Wyche, who tops the Southern Conference in total offense and over 500 yards of that via the airways. Paladin end Tim Crawford also leads the conference in pass receiving, and was voted the SC lineman of the week last week.

Furman's lone win was a 13-0 first game victory over Mississippi College, but since then the Paladins have fallen to Clemson (28-0), Wofford (21-14), George Washington (35-14), and William and Mary (21-14).

Last week the Hosemen rolled over Davidson by a 13-0 count, as the defense held when it needed to and and the offense clicked when necessary. Halfbacks Don McNeill and Wade Stewart scored touchdowns, while Jimmy Elliott's punting kept the Wildcats away from the PC goal.

TOUCHDOWN BOUND—Don McNeill (41), one of the Players of the Week for PC, takes off on his 31-yard touchdown jaunt against Davidson here last Saturday. McNeill, running from his halfback slot, took a hand-off from quarterback Leighton Grantham, picked up his blocking at the line, and followed it all the way for the score. Leading the interference was Sandy Hagood (28), who was running from the other halfback position. Action came early in the third period in the 13-0 win over the Wildcats.—Photo by Yarborough.

McNeill and Welch Players of the Week

A speedy halfback and a rugged end were selected as the Players of the Week for their performance in PC's win over Davidson last Saturday. The players were selected by the coaching staff after watching films of the game.

The halfback is Don McNeill, a junior from Thompson, Ga. McNeill is a letterman who got his collegiate experience the hard way—starting in the first game his freshman year and carrying the ball on the first offensive play of that first game. McNeill got seven yards on that carry and it was an indication of things to come for the speedy freshman.

In the game Saturday McNeill did everything well. He sprinted 31 yards for PC's first score, he blocked well from his halfback slot, and he played a fine defensive game.

The rugged end is senior Garnet Welch of Logansport, Ind. Playing both offensive and defensive end most of the afternoon Welch made the difference on several key plays. The game films showed Welch personally break up several end sweeps on critical downs. Davidson quarterback Steve Heckard met Welch several times as the Wildcats' field leader tried to get to the outside.

Previous winners have been Leighton Grantham for his Frederick game performance, Sam Williams for the Lenoir-Rhyne game, and Bob Warren for the game with Wofford.

Intramurals

Pounders Lead I-M Football; Ping Pong Finds Sigs Tops

Intramural football, delayed for a week by recent heavy rains, has now almost reached mid-season. The games rained out earlier and the ones rained out yesterday and today will be rescheduled beginning next week as the second game on the daily schedule.

Leaders to date in the league are the Pounders, the Alpha Sigma Phi team, the KA's and the Sigma Nu's. The results of each day's games are posted on the dining hall bulletin board.

Tennis Also Delayed

The rains have also delayed play in the all-campus tennis tournament. The round of the 16 finalists has now been filled, with the winners of this round advancing to the quarter finals. The winner of the tournament will have played through eight rounds undefeated.

Coach Warden encourages all schedule mdatches to be played at the scheduled time whenever possible. The tournament draw sheet on the Douglas House bulletin board is updated after each match, and all players are asked to check the schedule posted on thme board for the time and court of their match.

Sigma Nu In Lead

Leading both the ping pong tournament and the pool competition is Sigma Nu. The Sigs have swept through all of their matches in both sports undefeated and seem to have the first place points all to themselves here. Games are played nightly in Douglas House recreation center.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
CANTERBURY BELTS and WALLETS
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

The Campus Scene

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Thomas Stallworth has anounced that President Weersing will conduct Wednesday worship services. A student presentation will be given Monday and a program concerning an on-campus spacemobile visit will be held Friday.

YRC To Organize

The Presbyterian College Young Republicans Club announces an organizational meeting scheduled for Tuesday. Anyone interested is invited to attend the meeting which will be held at 8:00 p. m. in 208 Douglas Hall.

Gen. Synder Praises Army

(Continued from page 1)

He attended the Army War College in 1953, and served as Chief of the Reserve Components Division at the Pentagon.

In 1955 he became senior aide to Gen. Maxwell Taylor.

Gen. Synder assumed his present command in May of this year. As Corps Commander, he is in charge of all Army Reserve and ROTC units and is adviser to all National Guard units in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee

Cleaning Supplies

A central supply point for cleaning materials was announced yesterday by Mr. John Danluk, administrative assistant.

A major improvement in dormitory sanitation, the center will provide mops, buckets, soap and wax for student use. The center is located in the storage room off the rear patio of Douglas House.

Students may sign for cleaning apparatus from the Janitor, 1:00-3:00 p. m. daily.

Pool Schedule

The college swiming pool is now open on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 3:30-5:00. Life guards are on duty during these hours. Students, faculty, and members of their families are encouraged to use the pool.

Fraternities Get Temporary Injunction, Continue Rush

Buffalo (CPS) — A state Supreme Court justice has issued a temporary injunction preventing the state university of Buffalo from interfering with the activities of fraternities and sororities on its campus.

Dean of Students Richard A. Siggelkow was ordered not to interfere with the rushing, pledging, and initiation of students by college social organizations. Siggelkow had ordered all the groups to submit new constitutions this month showing that they were purely local groups.

In 1953 the State University Board of Trustees ordered an end to national associated social groups.

Danforth Grants Awarded In March To College Seniors

Approximately 120 Danforth Graduate Fellowships will be awarded in March 1965 to college seniors throughout the nation.

These fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., are available to men and women who are either seniors or recent college graduates and who are interested in college teaching as a career. Also, the student must plan to study for a Ph.D. in a field common to the undergraduate college.

Applicants may be single or married, should be less than 30 years of age and must not have undertaken any graduate study beyond the baccalaureate level.

Danforth Graduate Fellows are eligible for four years of financial assistance, including a living stipend, tuition and fees. Financial need is not a condition for consideration.

Danforth Fellows may hold other fellowships in addition to this award.

The Danforth Foundation, one of the nation's ten largest educational foundations, was founded in 1927 by the late William H. Danforth of St. Louis, Mo. The Foundation's primary aim is to strengthen higher education through grants to educational agencies.

Inquiries concerning this award and its application should be made to department heads and Dr. Neill Whitelaw, chairman, graduate studies committee.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

The final lap of rush season has arrived. The vapor that a capes when a substance is burned stings the eyes as rushees po der the question of what to do. The balls are chosen as the brot ers make their decision as to who will become their brother. Th perpetuation and growth of fraternities is at stake and the tensio this causes will only be relieved next Friday when all the shes are securely in the fold.

Homecoming was a mass success. The Pi Kappa Phi's to first place in homecoming displays, the Alpha Sigma Phi's, se ond place, and third place went to Theta Chi. Miss LaRue Good sponsor for Sigma Nu, was named Homecoming Queen.

Many alumni returned to enjoy the fraternity parties. Above all they enjoyed the defeat of the Wildcats by the Blue Hose.

Monday night Pi Kappa Alpha held their closed smoker from 6-11 p. m. L. A. McCall, a past national vice-president, was the principal speaker.

Dan Taylor, a KA, was pinned last weekend to Miss Betty Ann Ross. Alpha Sig, Willie Prickett, was pinned to Miss Dixie Bolick of Clinton.

A new pledge for Theta Chi is Larry Atchison, and Glenn Beckham of Pi Kappa Phi.

Bill Gaston of PiKA and his fiancee, Nancy Werner, have set their wedding date for Dec. 19, 1964.

Brother of the Week for Alph Sigma Phi is Willie Pricket Ronie Morris and Jimmy Ste art share the position of Broth of the Week for Pi Kappa Alph

BROADWAY

TODAY - FRI. - SAT.
THE LIVELY SET
James Darren, Pamela Tiffin, Doug McClure, Joanne Somme

MON.-TUES., OCT. 19-20
JULIUS CAESAR
Marlon Brando, James Mason, John Gielgud, Louis Calhern, Edmond O'Brien, Greer Garson, Deborah Kerr

STARTS WEDNESDAY
I'D RATHER BE RICH
Sandra Dee, Robert Goulet, Andy Williams, Maurice Chevalier

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Right Where It's Needed
BOSTITCH "Handy" STAPLER
with wall bracket, staple remover, and 1000 staples
Mounted on the wall, never out of sight . . . in the kitchen, by the phone . . . to fasten quickly whenever you want it.
The CHRONICLE

Registrar Releases Facts; 540 Students Enrolled

Recently released by the Registar's office are the new facts of the 85th session of Presbyterian College. The enrolment stands for the 64-65 year at 540 students—501 men and 39 women.

The students represent 17 states and two foreign countries, South Carolina and Georgia lead the list with 248 and 142 respectively, followed by North Carolina with 51, Florida with 45 and Alabama and Virginia with 10 each.

Tennessee has eight representatives, Indiana, has five, Maryland, Kentucky, and Mississippi have three; and ending up with New Jersey, Illinois, New York, Texas with one one student each.

The two foreign countries are Ecuador and Germany with one representative each.

Students are classified as follows: seniors, 84, juniors 91, sophomores 134, and freshmen 231.

Business leads as the preferred life work with 49 students followed by teaching 43, medicine 42, law 36, ministry 24, dentistry 21, accounting 9, and banking and social work with 8.

Church preferences of PC students are 303 Presbyterian, 94 Baptist, 74 Methodist, 37 Episcopal, Lutheran 6, Catholic 5, Associate Reformed Presbyterian 3, and 18 others.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANUE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
SHOE REPAIR SHOP
OFFERS STUDENTS THE MOST EFFICIENT SERVICE IN TOWN AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES!
Located Behind Clinton Post Office

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

Belk's
Navy Blue and Camel
24.95
Men's Dept.
There's Versatility in a BLAZER

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

This Weekend Too Can Be A Holiday at
Vernon's
HOME OF PLEASANT EATING
GREENWOOD HIGHWAY 833-2300

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., October 23, 1964 | No. 5

SCABBARD BLADE TAPPING—Five seniors were tapped yesterday for membership in Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military organization. They are Allen Boiter, Lewis Hay, Cleve Jacobs, John Smith and Paul Conger. Members are chosen on the basis of character, interests in military, ability to carry out orders and over-all military attributes.—Blue Stocking Photo by Hart.

Sixty-seven Men Pledge To Climax Formal Rush

KA Leads With 18, Theta Chi Second

By JOE STEVENS
Blue Stocking Staff Writer

Sixty-seven freshmen and transfer students cast their pledge ballots for the fraternities of their choice yesterday as formal rush reached its climax and ended. Of the 231 freshmen, 133 had grades necessary for pledging.

Kappa Alpha Order led the six fraternities in number of pledges with 18 freshmen accepting its bids. Second was Theta Chi with 15 pledges; Sigma Nu ranked third with 13 new Greeks.

Pi Kappa Alpha's 12 pledges place it fourth; Pi Kappa Phi was fifth with five; and Alpha Sigma Phi gained four new men to place it in sixth position.

Pledging was supervised by Robert Elrod, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, and Mr. Kenneth N. Baker, a member of the faculty committee on fraternities.

Said Elrod, "The IFC feels that this year's rush has been very successful for all fraternities. The new program has proven acceptable to the rushees, the fraternity and we hope to the faculty. The IFC would like to congratulate each new pledge and wish him a successful year."

Freshmen who pledged are as follows:

Kappa Alpha

Micheal S. Coulon, John T. Greer, Robert M. Humphries, Clifford C. Sheffield, and Timothy B. Yancey, all from Atlanta, Ga.

Also, Charles B. Clark and Shephard R. Marsh, both from Macon, Ga.; Bony H. Peace and Craig B. Stoneburner of Greenville; Gus Forbes and John G. Gaw of Laurinburg, N. C.

Also, Louis H. Hart, Anderson; Dewey P. Balkom, St. Marys, Ga.; David P. Berry, Union;; Joseph W. Dunlap, Knoxville, Tenn.; Henry M. Smith, Marietta, Ga.; Clifford M. Tuck, Athens, Ga.

Theta Chi

Johnny Rodgers, Rock Hill; Thomas E Holland, Lancaster; John H. Weigel, Lookout Mountain, Ga.; P. K. Harkey, Fort Mill; James W. Taylor, Jacksonville, Fla.; James R. Miller, Bennettsville; and Lyon Davis, St. Petersubrg, Fla.

Also, Thomas M. Luke, Valdosta, Ga.; Leslie V. Carroll, Rock Hill; Donald T. Harrison, Charleston; Jack B. Rodgers, Asheville, N. C.; John S. Mebane, Dunwoody, Ga.; Robert E. Deaver, Columbia; Paul E. Robbins, Denmark; and Doug D. Schoomaker, LaGrange, Ga.

Sigma Nu

David F. Albright, Atlantic Beach, Fla.; Thomas W. Baumgardner, St. Simons Island, Ga.; John S. Benson, Winston-Salem, N. C.; William C. Buchheit, William P. Mills and Daniel R. O'Connell, Spartanburg.

Also, Evan A. Erwin, Laurinburg, N. C.; John R. Hibbits, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Arthur Sammons, Decatur, Ga.; Robert E. Staton, Alexandria, Va.; Fred M. Story, Anderson; Webb M. Watters, Decatur, Ga.; and Andy Cooper, St. Petersubrg, Fla.

Pi Kappa Alpha

James M. Singleton and Joseph M. Singleton, Conway; Richard L. Munn, Atlanta, Ga.; Melvin P. Davis, Senca; James J. Challen, Memphis, Tenn.; Ted Minnick Muncie, Ind.; Sandy Lynn, Memphis, Tenn.; John W. Still, Greenwood; Ted Chalgren, Columbia; Charles G. Rowland, Sumter; Micheael S. Austin, Dunwoody, Ga.; and Jack Howard Greenville.

Pi Kappa Phi

Thomas M. Barnett, Atlanta, Ga.; David G. Cottingham, Dillon; Orren McKay, Greensboro, N. C.; James F. Soffe, Fay-

(Continued on page four)

ROTC Bill To Increase Retainer Pay Approved

WASHINGTON (CPS)—A massive federal scholarship program for Army and Air Force ROTC students will be launched next fall as a result of the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964.

Fifty dollars a month and payment of tuition, book costs and laboratory fees will go to 4000 army ROTC cadets. After four years, the number of Army scholarships will rise to 5,500.

Scholarships will be available only to students in four-year ROTC programs. Recipients must commit themselves to a minimum of four years of active duty service.

The ROTC bill was originally passed by the House on June 23. The Senate passed a revised version of it on September 28 and the House accepted the Senate changes on September 30.

In addition to the scholarship program, the Act contains provisions for raising the retainer pay of non-scholarship advanced ROTC students from $27 to at least $40 a month, and raising summer training pay from $78 to $111.15 a month. It also increases summer travel allowances from five to six cents a mile.

Another major feature of the new ROTC act is authorization of the establishment of two-year ROTC programs which may run simultaneously with or as a substitute for the current four-year programs.

Students electing the shorter program will have to substitute a six to eight week period of summer training for the first two years of ROTC training.

Scholarships were excluded from the two-year program lest they tempt too many students away from the four-year program and cause its demise at many colleges.

No decrease in the total number of hours devoted to ROTC training was intended, according to the Senate Armed Forces Committee's report on the bill.

The act also authorized a $300 uniform allowance for ROTC graduates who are commissioned as "regular officers." Those commissioned as "reserve officers" already receive such an allowance.

The 1964 ROTC Vitalization Act represents an attempt to remedy the failure of ROTC programs to attract and particularly to retain adequate numbers of students in the aivanced ROTC course. Completion of the advanced course plus receipt of a degree are necessary to receive a commission.

1964 Who's Who Includes Nine Leading PC Seniors

By BILL LOEBLE
Blue Stocking Managing Editor

Nine PC seniors have been approved by the national committee and will be listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

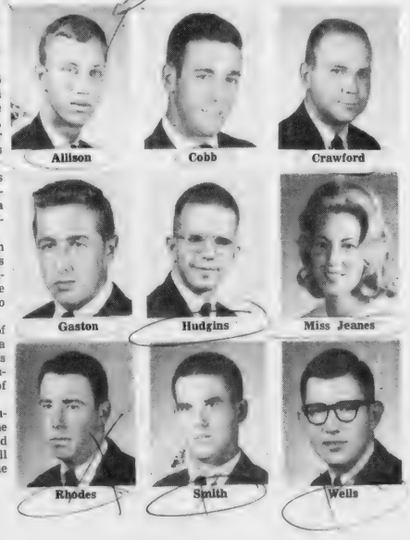
The students, nominated by the PC faculty, represent a wide spread of campus activities and organizations. Those included in the 1964 volume are Bob Allison, Ike Cobb, Gary Crawford, Bill Gaston, Arch Hudgins, Susanna Jeanes, Sherrod Rhodes, Gary Mike Smith and Walter Wells.

Allison, who hails from Atlanta, is co-editor of The Blue Stocking, having served previously on the Sock staff as feature writer, assistant editor and news editor.

Cobb, from Decatur, is president of the Student Christian Association and an officer in Kappa Alpha Order. He has been active in SCA for four years, and is vice-president of the PC chapter of Blue Key.

A native of Greer, Gary Crawford is vice-president of the Student Council, president of Mu Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, and feature editor of The Blue Stocking. He also is a member of Blue Key.

Bill Gaston is editor of the 1965 Pac Sac. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, a representative to the Inter-Fraternity Council, and is former business manager of The Blue Stocking. Gaston is a native of Chester.



Cadet Lt. Col. Arch Hudgins is commander of the PC ROTC battalion and is member of Theta Chi. Arch's home is Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Miss Susanna Jeanes has been a cheerleader for four years, is a member of the freshman control Board and also is a Blue Stocking staffer. She comes to PC from Lyman.

Sherrod Rhodes, president of Blue Key, is a member of Sigma Nu. From Moultrie, Ga., Rhodes has served on the Student Council and is business manager of the Pac SaC.

Smith is president of the Student Council, a member of the Freshman Control Board and plays on the Blue Hose football team. He is a member of Blue Key and is from New York.

(Continued on page four)

Allison, Cobb, Crawford, Gaston, Hudgins, Miss Jeanes, Rhodes, Smith, Wells

Board of Visitors Ends Two-Day Meet

Members of PC's Board of Visitors came to campus yesterday for a two-day session which will include discussions on the programs of the college, briefings by college administrators and meetings with student leaders.

The board members were greeted yesterday afternoon by members of the Blue Key and representatives from other campus organizations before they assembled in the Board Room at Belk Auditorium.

This morning student leaders had breakfast with the board at the Hotel Mary Musgrove and talked with them about the college.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager — Al Pearce
Managing Editor — Bill Loeble

Our Choice: LBJ–HHH

AT THE BEGINNING of the current semester, when political fever of national scope was just rising significantly above normal, when the two major presidential candidates had officially begun their campaigns, and when the parties and pressure groups were mailing out their early press releases, the editors of The Blue Stocking decided to postpone the endorsement of either candidate for president.

MOREOVER, we thoroughly questioned the right of the editor of any student newspaper—specifically, the editors of The Blue Stocking—to endorse a candidate for president. We tried to judge by past policies of this newspaper, but all we could learn from the Blue Stocking's files was that in the past student political activity on campus was negligible. There was no precedent to follow.

LAST SEMESTER, the present administration of your Blue Stocking consciously attempted to follow a policy of trying to guide student opinion in some areas rather than having it always dictate the stand taken by the editors.

AGAIN, THE EDITORS of The Blue Stocking have decided to state our studied opinions, whether they happen to concur with the majority opinion of our readership or not. Such must be done by any newspaper or journal of fact and opinion, we believe, if it is to be worth its salt editorially.

WITH ALL OF THE FOREGOING as the tenets of the present editors of The Blue Stocking, and emphasizing that we in no way speak the official political beliefs of the administration or faculty of the college, The Blue Stocking believes that Lyndon Baines Johnson should be elected President of the United States.

DURING THE MONTHS he has served as President since the assassination of John F. Kennedy, Johnson has exemplified the qualities of capable, decisive leadership. He has manifested his ability to remain calm and act quickly in times of crisis. An excellent example is his action in the Gulf of Tonkin when United States ships were fired upon in an unprovoked attack by Viet Cong PT boats.

THE BLUE STOCKING believes Johnson to be the only candidate for the office at the present time who can perform his duties as President effectively, who can obtain cooperation from the Congress to carry out constructive programs both in the nation and in her foreign affairs, and who can be president of all the people.

AS FOR SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER, The Blue Stocking will not lower itself to condemnation, defamation or villification of him. He was nominated to run for the office by one of the great political parties of this nation, a party composed of men who believe their principles and the principles of Barry Goldwater to be best for this country.

BUT WE CANNOT SUPPORT Mr. Goldwater. His inability to say forthrightly and clearly what he means, his revolutionary porposals, his apparent inability to realize the issues of the campaign and discuss them intelligently, and if nothing else, his inability to supervise a well-organized and constructive campaign, convince us that Mr. Goldwater is not the best choice for President.

THE PRESIDENCY requires a man who is well-versed in government and its functions and responsibilities. The Presidency requires a man who is not inclined to loose talk, irresponsible statements and unwise moves. The Presidency requires a man who knows how to act quickly and in the best interests of the nation in any emergency. The Presidency rquires a man who is able to cope with touchy domestic situations and settle them without arousing the ire of the people against the government. The Presidency requires a man who is big enough for the job.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON is such a man. Barry M. Goldwater is not. —Wells

First Primer in Creativity, Or How To Keep On Top in Ratings

By COLLEGIATE PRESS SERVICE

The board room of the Universal Broadcasting Company was shrouded in gloom. None of the somber executives peered through their horn-rimmed, snap-tab eyeglasses at each other for signs of potential backstabbing or latent creativity; each hung his head in shame as the president began to speak.

"All right," he said, "We're being frozen out and we all know it. First CBS bought the Yankees. Then NBC bought the Green Bay Packers. Then ABC leased Dwight Eisenhower and Hubert Humphrey. Now where does that leave us?" the president exclaimed, pounding his fist on the head of his assistant for emphasis.

"Well chief," the first vice-president offered, "I've been kicking this baby around and I think we could really steal the ball from . . ."

"How come you talk like that?" the president asked.

"I dunno," the vice-president said. "I thought everybody here did. Anyway, chief, what about buying South Viet Nam?"

"Are you mad?" shouted the second vice-president. The room exploded in a hubbub of babble.

"Look, the first veep said, "everybody's buying newsworthy enterprises and people, right? Everybody's trying to get exclusive rights to something the people want to see, right? Well, I've looked around and Viet Nam's our best buy."

"What's wrong with Goldwater?" asked a minor executive.

"Uh uh," the veep said. "He wants to be paid with Gold Standard notes only. He won't pay the income tax. He said TV'll never get off the ground, and that if God had wanted us to see picture shows at home, He would have given us movie projectors. And he won't work in black and white.

The room was silent.

"But why Viet Nam?" someone asked.

"Glad you asked me that," the veep said. "It's newsworthy, and if we bought it we could exclude all the other networks and press. It'd be our war. We could have interviews with loyal peasants. We could arrange for live coverage of Viet Cong attacks on hamlets. We could call it 'The Village Pillage.' There'd be this happy-go-lucky Vietnamese family and the kid is with the Viet Cong only his father doesn't know it, see, and . . ."

"Yeah! Yeah!" shouted the assistant. "And a funny navy show like Trouble in Tonkin."

"Hold it." The president frowned. Everybody frowned. "Everybody knows it's not safe there," he said. "The Viet Cong's in control. We'd never get a camera crew in there. It's just too risky." He thought. Everyone thought.

"I've got it!" shouted the first vice-president. "We need a sure shot, right? Adventure, excitement, without risk, right?"

"Right!" said everyone.

"Then it's simple," he said. "We'll buy NORTH Viet Nam."

(Copyright 1964 USSPA)

Jazz Ensemble Gives Variation To Series

By BOB ALLISON
Blue Stocking Co-Editor

Modernist works and improvisation characterized last night's performance by The American Jazz Ensemble to a large Belk Auditorium audience.

Currently on its third U. S. tour, the quartet was warmly received. The only criticism exhibited appeared to be a matter of musical taste rather than on the merit of the group's aristic abilities.

William O. Smith, clarinetist, and John C. Eaton, pianist, displayed easily discernable skill on two of the jazz games favorite instruments.

The ensembles jazz style is weird but technically adroit. Pianist Eaton toyed with harmonies and tempi, bounced themes to the clarinet, and traded solos with the limpid trumpet.

Said clarinetest Smith, "Jazz forms are usually stereotyped, like a housing project with the houses all alike. We want to change the number of rooms and the size and placement of the windows and doors."

The ensemble was sponsored by the Clinton Community Concert Series which will play host to The Theatremen on Jan. 12, and the Chicago Little Symphony on March 17. Both future events wil be held in Belk Auditorium.

BILL LOEBLE
Managing Ed.

Side Comments

A Republican For Johnson

The time is drawing nigh for the national election. This week The Blue Stocking sticks its neck out and takes a stand on the candidates. It appears this election presents not a choice of able candidates but a pick between the lesser of two evils.

Being Republican through family tradition, I clung to the Goldwater-Miller ticket until now. However, recent campaigning by Goldwater has changed my outlook. No longer is there a true conservative representing our party, but a candidate at the brink of defeat, sinking fast.

Goldwater has changed his views as often as the sun rises and falls. He has been a motor mouth to salvage his slumping backers. Goldwater has been consistent on only one plank—smear Johnson.

It is obvious that both sides have been guilty of high politics and extreme smearing, but Johnson has clearly ascended to the role of the lesser evils.

The Blue Stocking will sponsor a mock election Oct. 28 to learn which way the students feel about the election. Of course, we don't think we have to learn very much. The trend definitely seems to favor Goldwater regardless of the imminent national Johnson victory.

This seems unusual considering the many hours of work the Young Democrats have put in. But perhaps the YDC's have spent too much effort around town and at the county fair in Laurens this week rather than on campus.

Johnson will be elected. It's no longer a matter of chance; it's now a matter of hope. We hope Johnson will continue to stand up to the Iron and Bamboo Curtains, preserve American ideals, and be the president that Goldwater obviously would not be.

A Republican I will stay, but on November 3 it'll be all the way with L. B. J.

Speaking of Sports

'Tough Going' For Tampa May Get Tougher

with GLEN BROWDER

TAMPA, Fla. (Special to The Blue Stocking)—"Tough, kid. Tough going. But take heart. You should win one this week against PC. A team in your bush league."

This is a telegram anonymously sent to University of Tampa coach Sam Bailey Wednesday. Bailey's team—PC's opponent here Saturday afternoon at 2:30—has lost five games in a row and is favored slightly over the Blue Hose.

Tribune Took Exception

One of the Tampa newspapers took exception to the cutting wire and ran a column Thursday morning which stated there is no reason why "either Tampa or Presbyterian should be considered bush league."

This particular newspaper, The Tampa Tribune, went on to say that Tampa's 18-14 loss to VPI and 13-10 loss to Memphis State certainly are nothing to be ashamed of, and Presbyterian "has one of its best teams in years."

Not Bush League But Busch Brewery

Presbyterian certainly is not in the bush category, but 20 minutes from row the Hosemen will be in the Busch Brewery. Busch Gardens, the beer factory located here in Tampa, has invited the team to tour the facilities, and all 40 members quickly accepted the invitation. I'm not sure about this, but Dealer Mike Smith claims beer comes out of the water fountain over there.

Still Don't Get the Connection

We got our first taste of Tampa hospitality last night when we walked into the Hotel Floridian for the room assignments. There's a convention going on here for the Florida governor, and everybody is in high gear. The first man we saw welcomed us and said he was mayor of Libo City, which has the best Spanish food, the best Spansih drinks and the best Spanish women. I don't know exactly what that has to do with PC or the governor or Florida.

A Rough One For The Hose

Getting back to Saturday's game, it should be a rough one for the Blue Hose. Tampa has played a strong schedule on fairly even terms, and they're also playing before homecoming fans. They really get fired up for this game with parades, beauty queens, parties, etc.

Spartan Coach Bailey said early today that the Tampa team spirit in yesterday's practice "wasn't bad, but they lacked that sharp edge. This is sometimes good, because it may mean we'll have it Saturday."

Score Just To Keep Up

Bailey has worked his squad hard all this week, and he thinks his team will be able to move the ball against the Blue Hose, something the Spartans have not done consistently yet his fall. He cautions his charges, however, that if PC passer Leighton Grantham has a good day, the Tampans "better score two or three times just to keep up."

Definitely Not A Lack of Spirit

Here's a little information about PC's opponent. The University of Tampa is in a building phase. They are giving out 55 scholarships compared to PC's 25. They've just signed a home contract with the Rebels of Ole Miss.

A quick look at the Blue Hose here now reveals a team apparently unconcerned about the shadowy prospects against their bigger foe Saturday. They're just like tourists basking in the warm Florida sunshine, laughing at the conventioneers, and giving the town a close look—especially a hole down the street called Birdland. This is not a lack of spirit, because it's been like this all year and we've won three of five games.

Perhaps they think they can whip anybody after surviving that long trip through Georgia.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square — Laurens

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
CANTERBURY BELTS and WALLETS
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

Blue Hose Face Tampa Tomorrow; 'Experts' Say Will Be Third Loss

Tomorrow afternoon the PC Blue Hose will be about 500 miles away and according to the national power rating "experts" they'll be suffering their third loss, second in a row, of the season. With the season at the half-way point with this game, a PC win is vital if the hopes for an outstanding record are to be realized.

The University of Tampa Spartans are the hosts for the Hose, and the Floridians' Homecoming fans will expect to see a win. Although the rating only lists PC as a 1-point loser, the Tampa area newspapers figure it will be a much sounder licking.

If the charges of Coach Cally Gault expect to bring back a win they'll have to stop one of the fastest rising grid powers in the South. The Tampa team, which just last year was supposed to drop football, has lost heartbreaking games to the tough Virginia Tech squad and to the equally tough Memphis State team.

Against the Golden Gobblers of VPI the Spartans could have won easily if the "breaks" had gone their way on one play. With the visiting Virginians leading 18-14 late in the game, a Tampa rally was stopped when Tech recovered a fumble. And VPI is still thankful they pulled that one out.

Memphis State beat Tampa 13-0, but the game was much tighter than the score indicates. The Spartans trailed only by a touchdown until the final seconds when State managed to get another score on the board. The statistics didn't show that much difference in the play.

The winless Spartans are looking for this win in a big way. Last year they defeated PC 26-0 before 7,000 Homecoming fans in one of the Hose's worst games of the campaign. The year before last the Spartans also managed to run over PC, that one by a score of 10-0 before a Homecoming crowd.

Coach Sam Bailey realizes that his men may take the PC game a little too lightly. Although the Tampa team has been playing some of the power teams in the past several weeks Bailey has warned his squad that the Hose are "small but tough, and they have their best team in several years."

The Saturday afternoon game may develop into an aerial circus since both PC and Tampa enjoy going airborne. In the PC-Furman game the Hose passed 23 times for just over 100 yards. Tampa passed 35 times in their last outing.

The game may also develop into a punting duel between PC's nationally ranked punter, Jimmy Elliott, and Keven Hurt. Hurt is the Tampa punting specialist who also enjoys being a nationally ranked kicker.

As usual, the PC offense will be centered around quarterback Leighton Grantham and fullback Sam Williams. Last week Williams galloped for 90 yards against the Paladins, to lead all rushers in the game. The Alabama bruiser now has 350 yards on 78 offensive carries. Grantham's 160-yard passing show boosted the Easley senior's total offense rfigure to 521 yards in five games.

Expected to start for the Hose will be Bankhead and Smith at ends; Helms and Monk at tackle; West and Lowrance at guards and Lokey at center. In the backfield it'll probably be McNeill and Hagood at the halfbacks, Williams at fullback, with Grantham at the quarterback spot.

McGregor, Freshman Cager, Likes Friendliness Of South

"I suppose the first thing I noticed about the South was that the people were more friendly than I had expected. Everyone I've met has sort of gone out of his way to make me feel welcome. And I've almost learned to enjoy some of the Southern cooking."

Bob McGregor has come almost 900 miles from his native Fort Wayne, Ind., and one of the happiest people to learn of his decision was basketball coach Art Musselman. For McGregor is not only an outstanding student, but outstanding athlete as well.

One of the seven freshmen out for the 1964-65 Blue Hose basketball team, McGregory brings to PC an enviable record of both athletic and academic achievement.

The 6' 4" forward played three varsity sports at Elmhurst High School at Fort Wayne, lettering in basketball, football and track. The record shows a 14-points per game average in his senior year of basketball action, and 19 rebounds per game that winter. Basketball was sandwiched in between the fall football and the spring track.

But Bob McGregor was not just an outstanding athlete in high school. President of his senior class and president of the student body, Bob was also a member of the National Honor Society, which meant keeping his grades constantly above average.

And all this was during the years When McGregor was making his mark around Indiana as an outstanding ball player.

Intramurals

Pounders Hold Top Position; Tennis Tourney End In Sight

The undefeated Pounders continue to lead the Intramural football league as the season nears the half-way point. Sporting a 4-0 record, with nothing in sight to spoil it, the well-coached Pounders seem to have the football trophy all to themselves.

Unexpected competition may appear in the form of the Alpha Sigma Phi team or the Sigma Nu's. Each has identical 3-1 marks at this point, but for either to take over the lead would require a Pounder collapse. With the attack they have, it doesn't seem likely that will happen.

Tied for fourth place are the Pi Kappa Alpha's and the Kappa Alpha's. Each team has a 2-2 record and appears to be almost out of the running. Yet they may easily play the spoiler role against any of the ranking teams.

The all-campus tennis tournament began over a month ago and hopefully, it should end next week. After over 100 individual matches have been played the four semi-finalists will play it off Tuesday and Wednesday.

Two players have reached the semi-finals now, but the other two will be selected today or tomorrow. Only Larry Connelly, a sophomore from Charlotte, N. C., and Doug Haynie, a freshman from Roanoke, Va., are assured places in the semi-final round.

PC Mock Election Set For Next Wednesday

PC students will have a chance to show their feelings on the national presidential election when The Blue Stocking and the Student Council combine efforts to conduct a campus mock election Wednesday.

The straw vote, to be held between 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. in the lobby of Douglas House, will be designed to show not only the student's feelings about which of the two major candidates should be elected, but also what cultural or background experiences may have influenced his decision.

Ballots will have places to be marked to indicate each student's home state, age, class and traditional party leanings.

By planning the election this way, the Student Council and the Sock believe there will be a fuller range of information to use in interpreting the results.

Polls will be manned by Student Council members, and the votes will be tabulated by The Blue Stocking. Results will be published next Friday in the Sock.

Student Council President Gary Mike Smith urged students to participate in the mock election. Said Smith, "The Blue Stocking plans to circulate the results to news services throughout the state so that the public will know how PC students feel about the election."

Young Democrats Aim For Campus

The campus chapter of the Young Democrats Club has announced plans to "organize further—as much as we need to—and seek recognition from the school," Raymond Summerlin, spokesman for the 20-member group, said today.

"The YDC has been active," Summerlin said, 'but our activity has not been on campus. We've directed our efforts in the direction of townspeople and assisting the county Democratic organization at the county fair this week."

Summerlin said the group, which has Prof. Engle as adviser, has been in close contact with Miss Kitty Watson, state organizer and director of the YDC movement, and has carried on a good deal of correspondence with national offices also.

"Several members also went to Columbia to act as official hosts for Mrs. Johnson when she stopped there during her tour through the South," Summerlin commented.

The club, which has members in every class, "has not been particularly effective in its campus work," stated Summerlin. "In fact, it has done very little work on campus. We think that by developing a better organization we can interest a lot more PC students in national politics and in our cause."

Summerlin said there would be a meeting of YDC Monday night at 8:00 in the Blue Stocking office. 227 Douglas House.

Who's Who Includes . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Walter Wells, also co-editor of The Blue Stocking, is a native of McConnells. He is a member of Blue Key, Kappa Alpha Order, and the SCA cabinet. He has served on the staff of the Sock for four years, having been staff writer, assistant news editor, news editor, and managing editor.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Why Not Have Supper With Us Sunday?
Vernon's
HOME OF PLEASANT EATING
GREENWOOD HIGHWAY 833-2300

The Campus Scene

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Tom A. Stallworth has announced the chapel schedule for next week. Monday William F. Prioleau, a Columbia attorney, will speak in behalf of the Democratic Party.

Prioleau is secretary of the S. C. Bar Association, an experienced campaign manager for the Democratic Party, and former legal adviser to Governors James F. Byrnes and Strom Thrumond.

Prioleau is a graduate of The Citadel and University of South Carolina Law School.

The mid-week worship service will be conducted by Rev. Roland Purdue, Presbyterian minister to students at the University of Georgia.

Friday there will be a student program.

Temporary Jobs Open

Temprorary employment is available for any students who would like to assist in painting lines for campus faculty parking. Please see Mr. Oren Beaty, plant maintenance office, Monday.

YRC Meets, Names McIlhiney Chairman

PC's chapter of the Young Republicans Club held its organizational meeting Tuesday night and made tentative plans for a victory-producing strategy on campus.

Officers elected at the meeting include Bob McIlhiney, chairman; Bill DeBruin, vice-chairman; Glenn Martin, recording secretary; Sylvia Summerville, corresponding secretary; and Roy Reardon, treasurer.

The 10 members present also confirmed Mr. Earl B. Halsall as their adviser.

Chairman McIlhiney said the group is making tentative plans to hold a drop-in at the Episcopal Parish House election night.

Vice-chairman DeBruin, commenting that there are 15 or 20 members on the roll, said that membership in the group is limited to PC students only.

DeBruin said the next meeting would be Tuesday at 7:30 in 208 Douglas.

67 Frosh Pledge . . .

(Continued from page 1)

etteville, N. C.; and Oren E. Sullivan, Fort Mill.

Alpha Sigma Phi

William H. McFaddin, Sardinia; Michael L. McGeehee, Marianna, Fla.; Gerald S. Robb, Montgomery, Ala.; and Walter B. Styles, Tallahassee, Fla.

Yesterday's pledge activities rank the KA's first in number of members with 57. Pi Kappa Alpha is second with 50; Sigma Nu, third with 48; Alpha Sigma Phi now places fourth with 42; Theta Chi is fifth with 38, and Pi Kappa Phi's 27 men put it in last position.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Art Studio In 3rd Year Tours Planned By Patte

The PC art studio, located above the home of Dr. Edouard Patte at 301 South Adair Street, opened this week for its third year of use by members of the college community.

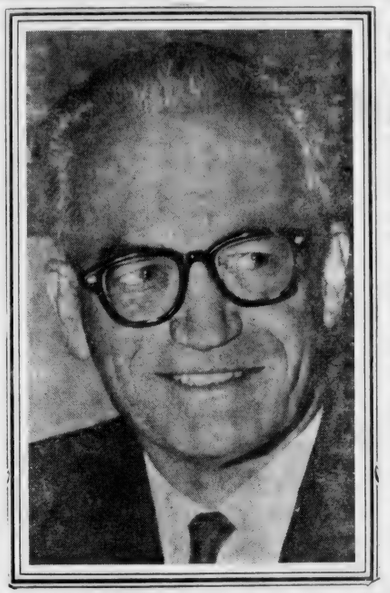
Dr. Patte said the purpose of the studio is to enable those who have an interest in the arts to use the facilities and take advantage of the counseling offered by Mrs. Patte, Mrs. David Cook and Prof. Carl Freeman.

As part of the art program, Dr. Patte said there would be tours of the Greenville and Columbia art studios in the near future. Also, art exhibits for the campus are in the planning stage as a further enlargement of the program.

Studio sponsors will meet Oct. 26 at 2 p. m. in the studio.

STUDENT TECHNICIAN NEEDED
For Sound and Light Work in Belk Auditorium. Must be familiar with Projection and Sound Equipment. Contact Office of Business Manager.

BROADWAY Theatre
TODAY-SATURDAY
I'D RATHER BE RICH
Sandra Dee, Robert Goulet, Andy Williams, Maurice Chevalier
MON.-TUES., OCT. 26-27
ENSIGN PULVER
Robert Walker, Burl Ives, Walter Matthau, Tommy Sands
STARTS WED., OCT 28
KISSIN' COUSINS
ELVIS PRESLEY



JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANUE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

Belk's
New "Press-Free"
MEN'S SLACKS
Dacron-Cotton Squire-Ply
All wanted colors and sizes
$6.99
New Shipmen of Fall And Winter
SWEATERS
Pull-Over and Cardigan
In Shetland and Bulky Knit
$9.99

The Blue Stocking
Vol. XLIII Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, October 30, 1964 No. 6

Goldwater Cops Large Majority of Campus Vote

By FRANK HENDRIX
Blue Stocking Associate Editor

In PC's first—but not so surprising—mock election, presidential aspirant Barry M. Goldwater scored an overwhelming victory. With 64 per cent of the student body voting, Goldwater polled 72 per cent of the total votes as opposed to President Johnson's 28 per cent.

According to a break-down by class, the Republican candidate scored his greatest majority in the junior class with 77 per cent to Johnson's 23 per cent, and his weakest showing among seniors with 61 per cent to the President's 39 per cent.

The sophomore class fell into the Goldwater column with 66 per cent of the vote, and freshmen gave Goldwater a 76 per cent vote of confidence.

Faculty and administration returns show 82 per cent of the members voting. Goldwater showed only a slight lead among our mentors with 53 per cent of the vote.

Of the 135 students who indicated Democratic Party affiliation, 59 remained loyal and chose President Johnson. Of the 117 Republicans, 103 voted to stick with their party's candidate, and 63 of the 95 independents voted to wave the banner of the Republican Party this year and follow Goldwater for another statistical triumph on campus.

Of the states represented in the poll, Goldwater carried 11 compared with the President's four. S. C. led in the Goldwater camp with 78 per cent, followed by Fla. and Ga. with 66 per cent and 65 per cent, respectively.

Va. gave President Johnson an overwhelming 84 per cent of her vote, and N. C. joined the Johnson column giving LBJ 55 per cent.

Students who said they would participate in the General Election Nov. 3 backed Goldwater with 71 per cent of their vote to Johnson's 29 per cent.

Several students voiced a preference for candidates other than those listed on the ballot.

Students of Five Big Schools Name Johnson 2-1 Favorite

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (CPS) — Lyndon Johnson beat Barry Goldwater by a margin of nearly 2 to 1 in mock elections held on the campuses of five Big Ten universities.

Johnson was preferred by 14,111 students at the five schools, while Goldwater was the choice of 7,553. The straw vote was a striking reversal of the 1960 Big Ten mock election, which saw Richard Nixon trounce John Kennedy 21,034 to 15,058.

Five schools—Michigan State, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Northwestern — participated in the balloting. A sixth, Indiana, also took part, but the student council decided not to count the ballots because of "election irregularities." Two other campuses, Ohio State and Wisconsin —will vote later in the month.

Johnson piled up his biggest lead at Michigan State, where 9,432 students took part in the voting. The President got 6,610 votes to Goldwater's 2,822. The campus also overwhelmingly favored the re-election of George Romney as Governor of Michigan. Romney, who has refused to endorse Goldwater, topped his Democratic rival, Neil Stabler, 6,824 to 1,299.

Goldwater came closest to victory at Northwestern, where Johnson edged him out by a scant 98 votes 1,270 to 1,172. The only other place where the margin between the two candidates was under 100 votes was at Minnesota, where less than 1,000 students participated, and the President beat his Republican opponent 435 to 353.

At the University of Illinois, Johnson won 3,570 to 2,084, while GOP gubernatorial candidate Charles Percy beat out Democratic Governor Otto Kerner 3,510 to 2,125.

At the University of Iowa, it was Johnson, 2,226; Goldwater, 1,161.

Whether mock elections on campus indicate electoral trends in their states is questionable, since many of the students participating in them are not old enough to vote and there is no way of telling if they accurately reflect their parents' opinions.

President's Visit to S. C. Not An Everyday Event

By WALTER WELLS
Blue Stocking Co-Editor

When the President comes to town it isn't something that happens just everyday.

It isn't something that has happened in S. C. since 1938. And it might not happen again, easily, for another 26 years.

It doesn't really matter which side you're on or whose political philosophy you believe best for the nation. There, for just a few minutes, you forget all partisan politics and think of nothing but the President of the United States.

That's the way it was Monday night when six PC students took French leave—along with Mr. Larry Ingle of the History Department—from academic responsibilities and went to Columbia to try to get a glimpse of President Johnson.

And a glimpse was about all we got for our two and a half hours of standing, waiting, and peering in what we hoped was the direction of the podium on the State House steps. You couldn't really tell where the podium was. There were 120,000 people there, and it seemed that all of them were taller than you and at least 100,000 were in front of you.

While we waited S. C. Democratic Party Chairman Yancey A. McLeod directed a program of entertainment for the enthusiastic crowd. The U. S. C. band as well as several high school bands from the Columbia area played patriotic songs.

There were several folksinging groups playing and singing Democratic adaptions of popular folk songs.

And there were speeches—including one by State Senator Spot Mozingo from Darlington County. Sen .Mozingo concluded by reading an adaption of a James Whitcombe Riley poem, and at the end of each verse he boomed out "Goldwater will get you if you don't watch out!"

The crowd thoroughly enjoyed it, except the Goldwater group

(Continued on page 4)

Entertainment Group Named

Spotlighting on Christmas Dance Weekend and the Spring Concert is the newly appointed Student Entertainment Committee.

Chaired by council president Gary Mike Smith, the committee includes I.F.C. president Robert Elrod, Blue Key president Sherrod Rhodes, and the four class presidents: Jimmy Cape, Buddy Guy, Bruce Lawrence, and Johnny Gaw. Nancy Harvey represents the co-eds.

School sponsored activities are to be considered by the new committee which was appointed by the Student Council.

Course In Reading Development Set To Begin Next Week

A free non-credit course in developmental reading and reading improvement under the direction of Prof. Melvin Riggs, starts Nov. 9.

Rate of reading, improvement in comprehension, work recognition, word analysis, and interpretation of written and oral materials will be offered in the eight-week course.

Enrolment will be limited to 25 students on a "first come" basis. The class will meet in Belk 301, at 1:30, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

Democratic Speaker Says America Greatly Needs 'Professional' Leader

By WALTER WELLS
Blue Stocking Co-Editor

William F. Prioleau, a Columbia attorney and well-known S. C. campaigner for the national Democratic ticket, told PC's 500 students Monday that now more than ever "Americans need a professional politician as president."

He struck this note as he compared Lyndon Johnson to Barry Goldwater and then to former Republican Presidents Eisenhower and Hoover. Prioleau said amateurs had never been able to be effective presidents, and there was no reason to think that Goldwater could change the trend.

Prioleau's speech, completely devoid of the demogogy and railing that has long characterized S. C. politics, was probably one of the most unpolitical-like speeches PC students have heard.

The lawyer's technique was reason and logic, and with this method he attempted to repudiate Republican charges of political high-jinks in Washington circles under the Democratic administration.

"Republicans have played havoc with Bobby Baker," said Prioleau, "but few of them have bothered to mention Sherman Adams. Just in case you don't remember back to 1957, Adams was Eisenhower's top aide and was charged with many, many malpractices in office.

"His position was far more important than Bobby Baker's, yet he was allowed to resign and slip out the back door of the White House unnoticed."

Prioleau praised the present Democratic administration and cited records of its accomplishments. Turning to Republicans and Goldwater, he noted several well-known contradictory statements the Arizona Senator has made.

After surviving heckling, hissing and boos from his captive student audience, the legal aide

(Continued on page 4)

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager — Al Pearce
Managing Editor — Bill Loeble

B G Neglects Tested Approach To Politics

WITH THE EXCEPTION of his lightweight attacks on morality in government, Senator Barry Goldwater has launched an inverse relationship into his campaign which opposes the traditional approach toward political issues. Not only is the Senator proposing to throw the country into reverse, but likewise, the issues. From the positive "the issues are" of previous Republican nominees, Goldwater has become the unintentional exemplification of "what are the issues?"

THE VIEWS OF GOLDWATER'S northern advocates are in constant conflict with those of his Southern proponents as each in his way attempts to solve the great issue puzzle created by the Arizonan. We wonder how the American people are to understand his views when his own fellow politicians are trapped by their candidate's vagueness and generalities.

PERHAPS THE BEST WAY to perceive the Senator's political views would be to look at what he has done rather than attempt to fathom what he has said. But then no major legislation bears the candidate's name. His voting pattern in Congress is negative, and certainly there can be sound philosophy behind negative voting. But Mr. Goldwater's philosophy is all but clear here, for he seems to lean toward ivory tower ideals without specifications.

THE GREAT AMERICAN IDEALS as undefinable as they may or may not be, have long bridged the mortality of the men who have tried to wear them. Mr. Goldwater attempts to espouse these ideals to his personal campaign. He has stated them; he has not stated the method by which they are to be employed. He ambiguously relates these ideals to problems of government; he does not relate how.

DESPITE HIS INABILITY to apply practical application to his proclaimed view of practical government, the Senator is by no means without strong support. The Presidency should be filled by a candidate with known views from debated issues and the campaign's role, traditionally, has been to provide the voters with knowledge of these views.

WE WONDER HOW Mr. Golwwater's supporters can vote for a candidate whose political actions cannot be determined except by actual election. Such gambling is better suited for card games.

IT IS INDEED DIFFICULT to charge the nominee of a major political party with the inability to correlate his own ideas into practical political action—whether right or wrong. But if this is true, if the charge is not justified, then why is Senator Goldwater purposely refusing to give specific consideration to the issues?

POSSIBLY, THE SENATOR believes that by proclaiming generalities and not actually commenting on specified issues he may avoid tilting the scales which so delicately balance Southern states-righters and segregationists with party-loyal but less conservative Northern Republicans.

THE PRESIDENCY of the United States forces stands and decisions. We wonder if Mr. Goldwater's supporters are aware that his victory could easily bring one side of the scales tumbling down.

Allison

Letter To The Editor

'People Taken In By LBJ'

Editors
The Blue Stocking

This letter is not meant to answer any remarks previously gracing the pages of your paper or to gloat over the results of the mock election, but simply to air the feelings of the majority of our students.

Like most people who feel strongly about a political candidate which differs greatly from his opponent, I sometimes wonder how so many intelligent people have been so thoroughly taken in by a certain "professional politician."

Perhaps there are people who feel that capitalism and free enterprise have outlived their usefulness after making the United States the greatest country in the world.

Perhaps you feel that there are certain things that the American people have no right to know about the policy and actions of our "government of the people, for the people, and by the people."

Perhaps you think the "cold war" in Viet Nam is going well because only a few Americans are losing their husbands, sons and fathers every week.

Perhaps you consider these to be minor issues in the campaign. To me the major issues of the campaign is also the major issue of the world. This is the great and direct clash between the totalitarianism that would rule the world and the principles of democracy and personal freedom that would keep us free and happy individuals.

The most valid argument I have heard made for Johnson is that he can get measures through Congress much more easily than Senator Goldwater could. I, for one, would rather have a president with his hands tied by Congress than one with two houses full of highly paid yes-men.

After all, we have three branches in our government for the express purpose of balancing the power and God save us from the day they operate as one, no matter who is pulling the strings.

RUSTY NELSON

Editor's Note: We welcome Mr. Nelson's letter for its representation of the other side and for what is a most interesting personal irony. Mr. Nelson's uncle is none other than the honorable Sen. Richard H. Russell, dean of Democrats and avid Johnson advocate.

The Blue Stocking still adheres staunchly to the position it announced last week in its editorial column. The editors yet maintain that Lyndon Johnson is not the lesser of two evils. Rather, the President has shown himself to be a true leader in the American tradition, a leader so capable that he easily exemplifies his superiority over the other major contender for the Presidency.

"I KNOW I'VE COMPLAINED A LOT ABOUT TH' FOOD HERE, BUT NOW THAT I'M ABOUT READY TO GRADUATE I'M BEGINNING TO LIKE IT."

Barometer

Candidates Differ on Education

By COLLEGIATE PRESS ERVICE

(CPS)—President Lyndon Johnson has strongly favored federal aid to public education, and has championed a wide-ranging array of legislative programs providing that aid.

Increased educational opportunities have been given a major—if not dominant—role in the President's War on Poverty, and in his other programs aimed at building "The Great Society."

Johnson, a former school teacher himself, said that he thinks "the century in which we live should henceforth be known as the Century of the Educated man," and he has shown little hesitation in calling on the federal government to provide the money to make this possible if state and local governments are either unwilling or unable to.

As a Congressman and a Senator, Johnson voted for five of six major federal aid to education acts, including the $50 million Permanent School Lunch Program (1946), the $300 million Educational Finance Act (1949), the National Defense Education Act (1958).

The only "no" vote on his record was against a proposal to include $1 billion for school construction in the National Defense Act of 1958, but he favored a similar program in 1960.

Johnson strongly supported the $1.2 billion Higher Education Act and a three-year extension and expansion of the National Defense Education Act. Both programs were passed by the last Congress.

The President termed the Higher Education Act "the most significant education bill passed by Congress in the history of the Republic . . . It clearly signals this nation's determination to give all our youth the education they deserve."

The Act calls for a five-year program of federal grants and loans for the construction of classrooms, laboratories, and libraries at both public and private schools.

(CPS)—Senator Barry Goldwater's position on education is in line with his general opposition to federal action in what he calls "local affairs." "Federal intervention in education," he says, "is unconstitutional." The quotation, from "Conscience of a Conservative" seems to be representative of his philosophy, for he has voted against every program to increase federal involvement in higher education for the past ten years.

Arguing that "federal aid to education inevitably means federal control of education," he voted last year against the five-year $1.2 billion "bricks and mortar" college construction bill and also in 1963 opposed President Kennedy's $5 billion omnibus aid-to-education bill, saying that the U. S. Office of Education was "manufacturing" statistics and writing "propaganda" to gain support for the bill. Both bills passed.

Other comments on education from the Republican standard-bearer can also be excerpted from the 1960 book "Conscience of a Conservative." Included are the following:

"The function of our schools is not to educate, or elevate, society, but rather to educate individuals and to equip them with the knowledge that will enable them to take care of society's needs . . ."

"Since end of World War II, Americans have built 550,000 classrooms at a cost of approximately $19 billion—almost all of which was raised at the local level. The need for federal funds has never been convincinly demonstrated."

"In the main, the trouble with American education is that we have put into practice the educational philosophy expounded by John Dewey . . . In varying degree we have adopted what has been called 'progressive education' . . ."

While Goldwater has opposed federal aid, he has argued that if Congress does authorize it, it should be available to all schools, public, private, and parochial.

Speaking of Sports

By AL PEARCE

Mix, Stir Well And Chef Coach Has A Chance

When one speaks of "Southern basketball" the unenlightened Southern fan usually conjures up images of the gangling farm boy who had to trudge to school through muddy roads, or of the Fess Parker-type mountain man who manages to forget to shave before the televised game or, occasionally, of the home-grown, clean-cut local lad who made good.

Rosembluth, Heyman, Chappell . . .

But to the truly informed Southern basketball fan, particularly the North Carolina variety, the term instantaneously creates the image of the tall, "funny-talking" Northern boy from the streets of New York's lower West Side or from the streets of Washington or from the steel mill cities of Pennsylvania. And most of us realize that for the last 10 years its been the Yankee import who has made Southern basketball what it has been. We don't mind admitting it. Frank McGuire would quickly admit it, as would Everett Case and "Bones" McKinney, and Vic Bubas and Lefty Driesell and Ari Musselman.

Musselman Beats the Northern Bushes

So it came as no surprise to anyone when Art Musselman, PC's popular young head basketball coach from Indiana took off last spring to beat the basketball bushes in several Northern and border states for some of this basketball talent. And he did a fine job of rustling up some tall, "funny-talking" Northern boys who may just pace PC's rise in basketball.

What Do They Have That We Don't?

We're not predicting any national titles for PC, but if other schools can do so well with the Northern boy why can't PC? Musselman sees no reason at all why we can't. North Carolina does pretty well with 'em, so does Duke and Davidson and Wake Forest. And Musselman thinks another Southern school will do real well with them. Presbyterian.

And Now The Twain Must Meet

To say that the North will pace the rise of PC's basketball program is doing an injustice to the faithful Southern lad who will do his part. In fact Musselman has managed to combine the best of each area—the tall Northern boy and the home-grown Southern boy—and the results should be interesting. The dangerous end result of the usual Northern-Southern mixture will be just as dangerous this winter. To the teams of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Tennessee, that is.

Foreign Aid From The North Helped Many

Indiana sent enough boys to Everett Case at North Carolina State during the mid-1950s to place Case and State near the top in national basketball for many years. Indiana also sent Musselman to The Citadel, and the Bulldogs will be forever grateful. Now Musselman has had Indiana send some basketball talent to PC and if all goes as planned Musselman will be forever grateful. Bob McGregor, Dave Turner and Jim Hollar plan to make their fellow Hoosier that way.

Mullins, Adam, Martin and The Baron

Kentucky has been known to produce a pretty fair basketball player or two from the high schools among the hills. Most of these chose to stay in the hills to play for any one of the numerous outstanding basketball colleges up there. But occasionally one or two will manage to slip out and get away from the grip of The Baron. One of these was Jeff Mullins. A couple more are Kenny Martin and Gordon Adam.

Carrying The Stars And Bars Proudly

So that just leaves the clean-cut, home-grown, Southern lad to do his part for Musselman and PC. Most of PC's basketball past has centered on this breed, and this winter will be no exception. Remaining true to the South and, in all but three cases, to South Carolina, are Doug Alen (Myrtle Beach), Danny Charles (Spartanburg), Jimmy Bankhead (Chester), Richard Reed (Columbus, Ga.), Ramon Priestino (Richmond, Va.), and Richard Quillen (Kingsport, Tenn.)

So this winter we have the best of both. The Yankees have again come South. This time to help out the mountain men and the "good and faithful servants." Mix, and stir well.

With a generous portion of the chef's knowledge, it should turn out just right.

Hose Face Troy State Saturday In Hopes of Gaining Fourth Win

The Blue Hose will battle the Red Tide of Troy State tomorrow afternoon in Alabama in an effort to capture win number four and put an end to a two-game losing streak.

The Hosemen could find difficulty doing this, since Troy has a streak of its own—a three-game victory skein—and owns a 4-2 record going into tomorrow's bout. PC has been tabbed a 5-point favorite by the power raters, who usually don't know what they're doing.

Troy is more in PC's league than teams like Tampa and Furman, but is rated a "very much improved" squad over the one the Blue Hose whipped 24-14 last year.

Coach Cally Gault reported to his players this week that the Red Wave "doesn't pass very much, but they have three outstanding running backs. Halfback Jerry Reeves is the workhorse in their backfield with speed and power."

The Presbyterians already have suffered four setbacks regarding the Troy game in injuries to key players. First unit left halfback Wade Stewart won't even make the trip, and end Buddy Protinsky is a doubtful performer. Co-captain George Lokey and end Jimmy Bankhed both are nursing crippling injuries but are expected to see action.

Last week the Hosemen traveled 500 miles down to Tampa. The weather was hot, but so were the Spartans and PC took a 42-0 licking. One bright spot in that game was that Gault began pulling the regulars after the lead grew insurmountable, and several fershmen and previously untried upperclassmen showed up well in their first real action.

DANCING DUNLAP is the nickname the KA's ace quarterback picked up after leading his team to win this week in intramural football play. Dave is seen here scrambling out of the pocket to begin one of his typically outstanding plays. In this game the KA's defeated the Oxen to keep their hopes alive for a shot at the league tournament.

Twenty-Two Games Comprise 1964-65 Basketball Slate

Twenty-two games and two tournaments comprise Presbyterian College's 1964-65 basketball schedule released today by Athletic Director Cally Gault.

The Hose squad—coached by Art Musselman—will begin the season November 24 with a road game against Kings College of Bristol, Tenn. The Presbyterians wind up the year with a trip into Kentucky to face Pikeville and Cumberland.

The 1964-65 lineup also includes state rivals Wofford, Newberry, Erskine, Citadel and College of Charleston, with Davidson of North Carolina the most prominent newcomer.

Tournament action included on the new slate is the Little Four Tip-Off Tournament, November 27-28, at Spartanburg, and the Citrus Invitational at Lakeland Fla., December 4-5.

Eight of the 22 engagaments are to be played in PC's LeRoy Springs Gymnasium.

Here's the Blue Hose 1964-65 cage schedule:

November 24—Kings at Bristol, Tenn.; 27-28—Tip-Off Tournament at Spartanburg.

December 2—Stetson at Deland, Fla.; 4-5—Citrus Invitational Tournament at Lakeland, Fla.; 11—Citadel at Charleston; 14—College of Charleston at Clinton.

January 4—Charlotte at Charlotte, N. C.; 8—Georgia State at Atlanta, Ga.; 9 — Shorter at Rome, Ga.; 13—Newberry at Newberry; 15—Georgia State at Clinton; 16—Piedmont at Clinton; 18—Davidson at Davidson, N. C.; 26—College of Charleston at Charleston; 29—Shorter at Clinton; 30—Piedmont at Demorest, Ga.

February 4—Charlotte at Clinton; 6—Newberry at Clinton; 9—Erskine at Due West; 13—Wofford at Clinton; 16—Erskine at Clinton; 18—Wofford at Spartanburg; 20—Pikeville at Pikeville, Ky.; 22 — Cumberland at Williamsburg, Ky.

Pounders Struggle To Stay In Running After Two Upsets

What a difference a week makes!! Last week at this time the Pounders undefeated football team seemed destined to walk away with the intramural football title. This week, after suffering two upset losses, they are struggling to keep in the race.

The trouble all began when the fired up Sigma Nus beat the Pounders by a single point. By virtue of that win the Sigs climbed over the Pounders into top spot in the league. To make matters worse, the Kappa Alpha Rebels then defeated the Pounders, to send the losers even further down the ladder.

Now the Sigs are ruling the roost, with a four-way tie for the second through fifth positions. That jam-up will be cleared early next week when all the tied teams play each other. The hapless PiKapps, Oxen and Bandits are out of the race.

The indoor intramural activities were completed this week with two undefeated winners claiming titles. The pool trophy was won by the Alpha Sig Sharks. They swept through all of their matches undefeated to easily win.

The Sigma Nus continue their determined bid for the All-Sports title as they won the ping pong title. Also undefeated, the Sigs repeat the feat they accomplished last fall.

The finals of the All-Campus Tennis Tournament are being held this afternoon after five weeks of preliminary action. The winner who is crowned today will havep layed through eight rounds of undefeated tennis, and will automatically become a member of the 1965 PC team.

In the weeks earlier semi-final round freshman John Benson of Winston-Salem defeated Col. Powell Fraser to move into the finals. Col. Fraser, PC's director of the development campaign, made his mark, however, as the top tennis player among the faculty and administration. This is the first time any administrative personnel has done so well in an all-campus sporting event.

Benson will meet Larry Connelly today for the campus title. Connelly earned the right to play in the finals by defeating freshman Robby Hibbits also of Winston-Salem.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square — Laurens

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
CANTERBURY BELTS and WALLETS
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

Even Hecklers Were Silent When President Approached

(Continued from page 1)

we somehow managed to be in the middle of.

They continued their wisecracks (most of which were pretty good) until McLeod said the President was approaching the State House. Then they became as tensely excited as everyone else, awaiting Mr. President.

The clichetic wave of sustained excitement swept the crowd and everyone in the rear started craning their necks and pushing. That tremendous cross-section of society was all jammed together into one mass of flesh and clothing and the jam was getting tighter all the time.

Spotlights, which had played on the Hotel Wade Hampton and Columbia building directly in front of the Capitol all night, became more frantic as law enforcement officers and Secret Service personnel tried to gain as much certainty as possible that the president faced no danger.

The crowd continued to wait. Then, S. C.'s senior and only Democratic Senator, Olin D. Johnston, came out on the podium to introduce the President. We learned later that Johnston was supposed to say, "Ladies and Gentlemen, the President of the United States."

Instead, he started a rather long harangue on the glories of Democrats and the evils of Goldwater Republicanism. The crowd bore with him patiently, but its long patience was not necessary.

For after Johnston had spoken only about five minutes the U. S. C. band launched into Hail to the Chief and everyone knew that the President was there.

When the wild, unbelievable cheering stopped, the President began his speech. It had been billed by all S. C. newspapers as a "major address," and most people there wanted to hear it.

But hearing it wasn't easy. The sound system wasn't very effective and somebody behind us kept shouting to the placard wavers. "Put those damned signs down."

After the speech was over, most of the 120,000 people pushed even harder to get closer to the President. We were caught up and swept along in the melee but never came closer than 20 feet away from the President, still separated by the mass in front of us.

What the effects of the President's Columbia appearance will have on voting in S. C. Tuesday are hard to determine. But the seven of us all concurred in our incredulity of the effect it had on us.

BROADWAY Theatre

TODAY AND FRIDAY
KISSIN' COUSINS
ELVIS PRESLEY

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31
THE CADDY
Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis

MON.-TUES., NOV. 2-3
QUO VADIS
Robert Taylor, Deborah Kerr

STARTS WEDNESDAY, NOV. 4
SO DEAR TO MY HEART

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Why Not Have Supper With Us Sunday?
Vernon's
HOME OF PLEASANT EATING
GREENWOOD HIGHWAY 833-2300

The Campus Scene

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Thomas Stallworth, College Chaplain, has announced Chapel services for the week of Nov. 2-6.

The chapel worship service Monday will be led by Mr. Stallworth.

Friday Dr. Ronald Burnside of PC will speak on Civil Rights: The Historical Perspective.

Parents Day Nov. 7

Students are reminded of the upcoming Parent's Day scheduled for the weekend of Nov. 7. Charles T. Copley, Musgrove Hotel, noted that his establishment has long been booked for the popular date as has Clinton's Gala Motel. The Holiday Inn in Greenwood and the Laurens Motel are still open for reservations, however.

Westminster Fellowship

"Religion in Politics" and "Can a Politician have religious convictions?" will be the subject for Mr. Halsall's address to the Westminster Fellowship Sunday night. The meeting will be held at First Presbyterian Church, 6:45 P. M.

Exam Schedule

To prevent an over-dose of tests on a single day, mid-semester examinations will again follow a set schedule.

Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, academic dean, announced the following schedule. Wednesday, Nov. 4, for periods 9:00 and 11:00 MWF Nov. 6, for periods 8:00, 12:00 and 1:30 MWF. Periods 9:00 and 11:00 on TTS will have tests administered on Tuesday, Nov. 3, and periods 8:00, 10:00, and 12:00, TTS, Nov. 5.

Prioleau's Speech

(Continued from page 1)

for former S. C. Governors Byrnes and Timmerman hit strongly at Republican courtesy.

"When a U. S. Senator and the First Lady of the nation, as well as the governor of a state, aren't allowed to speak, that is a serious indictment against the campaign tactics of grass-roots Republicans." Prioleau was obviously referring to Mrs. Johnson's stops in Columbia, Orangeburg and Charleston where she and key S. C. Democrats were booed and hissed.

Prioleau received, however, an almost astounding applause from the Republican-dominated audience when he was through speaking. Many students commented afterwards on the differences between the reaction of the PC student body and that of students at other schools where Democrats have spoken. At other schools in the state Democratic speakers have been thoroughly and constantly booed and heckled throughout their talks.

Prioleau's speech was to have been the second political talk made before PC students during the national campaign. Albert Watson, a congressman from Columbia who is supporting Goldwater while still running for reelection on the Democratic ticket, failed to show for a PC appearance Oct. 16.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

This week The Blue Stocking chooses this means to salute a new Greeks. Each year's pledge class is the acquisition that enables local chapters—hence fraternities and the fraternity system—to continue.

Pledges taken in after pledge day are Charlie Hayes, Theta Chi; Dallas Schaaf and Mickey Hampshire, Pi Kappa Alpha; Sam Williams, Kappa Alpha; and Orren McKay and Andy Barnes, Pi Kappa Phi.

PC fraternity men who were recently pinned are Jim Darby to Miss Anne Davis of Summerton, and Roy Squires to Miss Carol Pittman from Macon, Ga. Both Darby and Squires are brothers in Kappa Alpha.

The Alpha Sig's are planning a Halloween party in their fraternity suite Saturday, 7:30 p.m. until 12. The party will be closed.

Sigma Nu's are scheduling a party to honor new pledges Saturday afternoon and night.

PiKapp's are planning a pledge party Saturday at Peck's Ranch. The Theta Chi's held their pledge supper last Thursday in Greenwood and the KA's had theirs at Vernon's here in Clinton.

John Horton, Pi Kappa Alpha national secretary, and Robert D. Lynn, national editor, visited Mu Chapter last Friday.

Brothers of the week are Morrow Thompson, Alpha Sigma Phi; Bill Parks, Theta Chi; Tommy Hearon and Don Blancard, Pi Kappa Phi, and Dwight Mosley, Pi Kappa Phi.

YRC Drop-In

Young Republican Club chairman Bob McIlhiney invites students to join his club for a drop-in at the Episcopal Parish House election night.

Nursing Recruiter

Miss Virginia Proctor on recruitment tour for the Emory University School of Nursing will speak at PC Nov. 2.

Miss Proctor is director of student development for the Emory nursing school.

Emory offers a collegiate nursing program leading to a Bachelor of Science Nursing degree. The Emory nurse receives two years of academic work in the College of Arts and Sciences before entering the three-year professional nursing program.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Right Where It's Needed
BOSTITCH "Handy" STAPLER
with wall bracket, staple remover, and 1000 staples
Mounted on the wall, never out of sight . . . in the kitchen, by the phone . . . to fasten quickly whenever you want it.

The CHRONICLE

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANUE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

Belk's
New "Press-Free"
MEN'S SLACKS
Dacron-Cotton Squire-Ply
All wanted colors and sizes
$6.99
New Shipmen of Fall And Winter
SWEATERS
Pull-Over and Cardigan
In Shetland and Bulky Knit
$9.99

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, November 13, 1964 | No. 7

Miss Frost To Lecture On 'Education By Poetry'

Miss Lesley Frost, daughter of famed New England poet Robert Frost, will speak here on Nov. 20 at Belk Auditorium. Her subject will be "Education by Poetry."

Miss Frost has just returned from a trip through England and Spain.

She spent several years in the latter country as Cultural Officer and Director of the U. S. Information Library for the Office of War Information and the State Department.

She now conducts a language school in Spain each summer for young people.

The new school, aimed at bettering the cultural exchange between this country and the Spanish people, opened in the summer of 1964. This winter, in New York, Miss Frost presented an exhibition of the paintings of

(Continued on page 4)

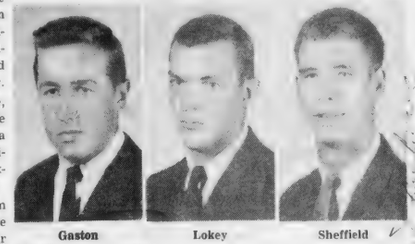
Six Named to Blue Key In Annual Fall Tapping

The Presbyterian College chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity tapped six new members—five students and one faculty member—in its annual fall ceremony Nov. 2

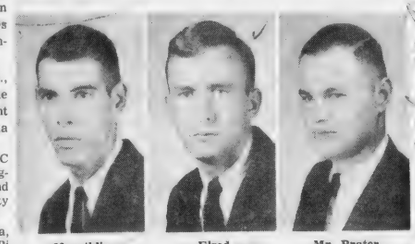
The new men, chosen on the basis of leadership, character, and scholarship are Bill Gaston, George Lokey, Bill Megathlin, Robert Elrod, John Sheffield, and Mr. Neal Prater.

Mr. Prater, chairman of the English Department, was given honorary membership in the fraternity. He has been on the college faculty for six years and ranks as an assistant professor.

Bill Gaston, a Chester native, is editor of the 1965 PaC SaC. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, has served as business manager of The Blue Stocking and is a dorm proctor.



George Lokey, who hails from Thomson, Ga., has played on the Blue Hose football team four years. He was elected co-captain of the squad by his teamamates this year. Lokey also is a brother in Pi Kappa Alpha.



Megathlin, from Miami, Fla., is a four-year member of the Student Council and is president of the local chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

Robert Elrod comes to PC from Griffin, Ga., and is the Sigma Nu representative to and president of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

John Sheffield, from Atlanta, Ga., is president of Beta Pi chapter, Kappa Alpha Order and serves as associate editor of the 1965 PaC SaC.

The five students tapped last week join the seven seniors who were tapped last spring. They are Sherrod Rhodes, president; Ike Cobb, vice president; Walter Wells, secretary-treasurer; Glen Browder, Gary Crawford, Mike Smith and Jack Greene.

Gaston Lokey Sheffield

Megathlin Elrod Mr. Prater

Professors Away; Students Enjoy More Sleep (Yawn

Students are enjoying longer sleeping hours this week as faculty members attend various conventions and conferences.

Attending a political science convention at Duke University is Prof. Earl Halsall who will hear recent Nobel Peace Prize Winner, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

Little Rock, Ark., is hosting the Southern Historical Association which is attended by PC professors Clarke and Ingle.

The South Atlantic Modern Language Association meets this weekend in Greenville with professors Prater, King, Wells and Smith attending. Also attending the SAMLA convention are professors Glover, Irwin and Adams of the Spanish and French departments.

Dr. Chapman and Mr. Harris are in Atlanta representing PC at the Southern Economics Association Conference.

DISTINGUISHED MILITARY STUDENTS—Two PC seniors were recently honored as Distinguished Military Students by this institution's ROTC department. Cadet Lt. Col. Archibald P. Hudgins and Cadet Capt. John E. Smith, III, were recipients of the award presented by Assistant PMS, Capt. Robert Howe. The award is based on the qualities of leadership ability, high moral character, and aptitude for the military service. Hudgins is a resident of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Smith is from Lincolnton, N. C.

PC Military Groups Go To Greenville To See Royal Troups

Various Presbyterian College military organizations are attending "Pomp and Ceremony" tonight in Greenville. The function includes the massed drums, pipers, dancers and bands of "The Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers," "The Royal Ulster Rifles," and "The Royal Irish Fusiliers."

Presbyterian's Drum and Bugle Corps, Wysor Rifles and Scabbard and Blade will observe the event in Greenville Memorial Auditorium.

College Host to 800 For Annual Parents Day

Presbyterian College played host to the parents of the present student body at its eighth annual Parents Day last Saturday.

More than 800 visitors arrived on campus, and a full program of activity was planned for the occasion.

Parents and other immediate family members of the PC students were guests of the college for supper and the Blue Hose-Appalachian football game that night. They were entertained with a special student program of welcome, a faculty reception and fraternity drop-ins.

The day's events got underway at 2 p. m. Saturday with registration in the Douglas House. Campus tours, directed by members of Blue Key national leadership fraternity, were conducted between 2 p. m. and 3 p. m. Then, at 3 p. m., the students presented an hour-long program designed to give their parents a brief glimpse of campus life, and President Marc C. Weersing addressed the group.

The faculty reception was followed by a supper in Judd Dining Hall, fraternity drop-ins at 7 p. m. and the football victory under lights on Johnson Field.

A Purpose For Chapel—To Correlate Learning

THIS INSTITUTION'S chapel or assembly group is often addressed as a congregation, as an entertainer's audience, but rarely as students. It is the latter which should be of primary importance unless chapel is to be considered a diversity from the classroom rather than a companion to formal instruction.

DR. BURNSIDE in his address, "A Historical Perspective on Civil Rights," utilized the chapel hour as an academic event fully interacting with both curriculum and current affairs.

CLASSROOM MATERIAL is often dead matter which defends its existence and plausability on the grounds of initiating further academic pursuit in relation to the student's confrontation with his vocation and adult life. The successful student is supposed to draw together the strings of a liberal arts education into a method and manner readily available for solving the problems of the future for which he is preparing.

TOO OFTEN the student tends to pigeon-hole courses and fails to realize the wholeness and general meanings which give significance to the liberal arts education. The importance and advantages of the liberal arts were highlighted as Dr. Burnside telescoped upon modern times through the progression of history.

IN THE FACE of ever increasing specialization, mechanization, and diminishing individualism the liberal arts student must be made cognizant of his critical position. In his ability to see life as whole it is the liberal arts student who will govern men and assume positions above the specialist in his vocation.

IT IS HIS RESPONSIBILITY to direct the specifics of other men into meaningful designs applicable to his day.

IF THE STUDENT cannot correlate his acquired knowledge into general meaning then his education is of no avail, and he is relegated to a subservient position below the specialist as well as society in general.

MOST MEMBERS of this college community are avid proponents of liberal arts education. Presbyterian College as such provides the student its greatest service. If it fails to provide the student with a total and whole outlook on his education, it then does the student a great disservice.

THE CHAPEL PERIOD brings together the whole college and the major fields of study it represents. We all realize the present void in chapel programming; we should realize the need for lectures similar to Dr. Burnside's.

THERE IS A CONSTANT EFFORT to obtain outstanding off campus speakers, and this effort should be supported. Let us also continue to offer our podium to outstanding members of the faculty. Perhaps this is indeed the proper role for the usually deficient Friday chapel service.

—Allison

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager ..... Al Pearce
Managing Editor ..... Bill Loeble
News Editor ..... Dave Veneklasen
Sports Editors ..... Al Pearce, Glen Browder
Feature Editor ..... Gary Crawford
Activities Editor ..... Larry Preston
Greek Editor ..... Alex Patrick
Associate Editor ..... Frank Hendrix
Cartoonists ..... Tom Leland, John Weigel
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, Susan Gilbert, Tim Grey, Bryson Rousey, David Knowlton, John Jones, Joe Stevens, Bill Bassham, Bobby Staton, Larry Platt, Jimmy Rammage, Bo Bowman, Merrie Stancill, Joan Vassey.
Typist ..... Soo Soo Sledge

Letters To the Editor

'End of Our Traditions'

Editors
The Blue Stocking

Gentlemen:

As Presbyterian College continues to increase the size of its student body and adds to its physical plant regularly over the next decade, the question arises: How will the new coeducational system affect the school's prestige?

The necessity of effecting this change is also questionable. While equal opportunity for education is one of the leading topics for discussion today, it seems to be the opinion of many students here that this program will come only at the expense of the traditions for which the school stands.

This attitude does not result from opposition to coeducation per se, but from apparent blunders by other schools in the state, similar in size and function to PC.

Let us consider two of our neighboring schools which are fully coeducational. We do not criticize their value and effectiveness as educational institutions; we merely question their prestige, both in the immediate area and in the entire state.

How many times have you seen an Erskine or Newberry sticker at any of the surrounding women's colleges? PC men have traditionally been known throughout the Carolinas because of their extensive travel.

The introduction of full coeducational facilities here will end the weekend buck, that part of our college life which is of great importance in developing the well-rounded individual. The manly character of the college will end. It will become little more than a sheltered monastery with the students living, learning, dating only in this progressive little city of 10,000. Presbyterian: the nucleus of nothing; that little out-of-the-way school in Clinton.

Visualize our 120-acre campus as it will be in the years to come. Imagine the canteen crowded with 150 constantly talking girls. Imagine the shrieking females in the mailroom after chapel. Our very sanity will be threatened!

The argument here is not for the abolition of the existing system of co-education. Nor is it necessary to think that with the arrival of girls in quantity our academic standards will be lowered.

Rather, the argument concerns the declining prestige and fading of tradition. It is impossible to view the changing aspect of this school without misgivings for the future and nostalgia for the past.

We sincerely believe that the motion passed by the Synods of Georgia and South Carolina, which will result in a greater percentage of female students, will inevitably deal a tragic blow to some of the cherished traditions for which Presbyterian has been so widely recognized in the past.

No doubt, PC will continue. But will the institution be recognized in the future for the vivacity and social freedom which have been intrinsic parts of its reputation?

With concern,
JIM STEWART and WALT TODD

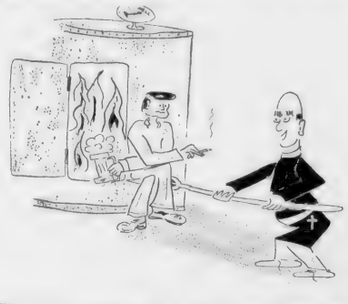
You Slimy Bunkshooter

You come along . . . tearing your shirt . . . yelling about Jesus.

Where do you get that stuff?



What do you know about Jesus?

Jesus had a way of talking soft and outside of a few bankers and higher-ups among the con men of Jerusalem everybody liked to have this Jesus around because he never made any fake passes and everything he said went and he helped the sick and gave the people hope.

You come along squirting words at us, shaking your fist and call us damn fools so fierce the froth slobbers over your lips . . . always blabbing we're all going to hell straight off and you know all about it.

I've read Jesus' words. I know what he said. You don't throw any scare into me. I've got your number. I know how much you know about Jesus.

He never came near clean people or dirty people but they felt cleaner because he came along. It was your crowd of bankers and businessmn and lawyers who hired the sluggers and murderers who put Jesus out of the running . . .

This Jesus was good to look at, smelled good, listened good. He threw out something fresh and beautiful from the skin of his body and the touch of his hands wherever he passed along.

You slimy bunkshooter, you put a smut on every human blossom in reach of your rotten breath belching about hell-fire and hiccupping about this Man who lived a clean life in Gallilee.

I like to watch a good four-flusher work, but not when he starts people puking and calling for the doctors.

I like a man that's got nerve and can pull off a great orginal performance, but you—you're only a bug-house peddler of second-hand gospel—you re only shoving out a phony imitation of the goods this Jesus wanted free as air and sunlight . . .

I'm telling you Jesus wouldn't stand for the stuff you're handing out. Jesus played it different. The bankers and lawyers of Jerusalem got their sluggers and murderers to go after Jesus just because Jesus wouldn't play their game. He didn't sit in with the big thieves . . .

I don't want a lot of gab from a bunkshooter in my religion.
I won't take my religion from any man who never works except with his mouth and never cherishes any memory except the face of the woman on the American silver dollar . . .

I've been to the suburb of Jerusalem they call Golgotha, where they nailed Him, and I know if the story is straight it was real blood ran from His hands and the nail-holes, and it was real blood spurted in red drops where the spear of the Roman soldier rammed in between the ribs of this Jesus of Nazareth.

—Carl Sandburg, 1914

Unobjectivity Major Problem In Campaign

Editors
The Blue Stocking

Gentlemen:

The Blue Stocking usually gives students reason to be proud that they attend a school that can turn out such a well-written and well-edited newspaper. But last week's edition (Oct. 30) fairly shrieked of Madison Avenue or a Soviet propaganda school—take your pick.

You have every right and indeed an obligation to express your opinions editorially, but, please, please keep your reporting of the news as objective as possible.

One of the main problems of this presidential campaign has been a lack of even a pretense of objectivity in the majority of the press, and I am very disappointed that The Blue Stocking has sunk to a similar level.

Indignantly,
SUSAN GILBERT

Speaking of Sports

Coach Must Worry—That Is His Life

By AL PEARCE

The sounds of pandemonium had not faded completely and the lights on Johnson Field were not yet out last Saturday when Presbyterian's Cally Gault began to worry about tomorrow. Even as Gault strode to midfield to extend and to receive congratulations on the effort of both teams he was wondering how ECC had done against Furman over at Greenville. But this is the way it must be.

Had To Forget The Win

The upset win, the unbelievably wonderful win over the fine Appalachian team was in the record books the second the game was over. But the second the game was over Cally Gault and the rest of the PC coaching staff forgot about that win and they began to worry. And they worried just as they did the second the Troy State game was over. For the game just played . . . win or lose . . . is of little concern once it is completed. The game to be played is the one to think about. This is the way it must be.

Thinking Back—Bitter Or Sweet

If there is a time the team and the coaches can think back to the sweetness of a win or to the bitterness of a defeat it is as they watch films of the just-completed game. Here the emphasis is not so much on what is to be done in the next game, but what was done, be it right or wrong, in the last game. As the team and the coaches sit through reel after reel of film they look for the offensive and defensive high and low points. Then these points are worked on in the practice sessions immediately following the film.

The Real Time Of Worry

The real time of worry comes as the team and the coaches watch the film of the week's opponent. For instance, as the coaches and players saw the reels of the Citadel-East Carolina game they began to see where ECC was strong and they immediately began to worry about how to weaken these strengths. They saw, for the second time this fall, the unorthodox, yet highly effective, single wing formations of Clarence Stasivich of East Carolina. Another Stasivich-inspired team, Lenoir-Rhyne, had the single wing against PC earlier in the fall. The Hose managed to solve this problem, yet now it arises again.

Recognized The Problems

In the film the men who know the game best recognized the many problems they faced as they prepared for tomorrow's encounter. They saw the potential in ECC's triple-threat tailbacks and immediately began to wonder about how to stop Bill Cline. They saw the danger in the fine stable of receivers who run pass patterns that must be learned. And they saw the many problems that must be solved if the ECC line is to be moved as the Appalachian line was.

Little Enjoyment In Watching

So there is very little enjoyment in watching film of a team you must learn enough about to beat. You just don't sit back and watch the film as if you were watching a pro game on a winter Sunday afternoon. You don't look at the big picture of the game . . . you look for the tip-offs that most players give before they are in on a particular play; you look for the way the offensive line gets down for a running play and how they get down for a pass; you look for the "weak sister" along their line; and you look for clues as to the ways you can force them into mistakes.

Just The Nature Of The Job

So the coaches really don't have a lot of time to think back on a win and to reflect on it. They must begin to worry the very second the current game is over . . worry about the next one. They just can't take the time to pat themselves on the back. They must let others do it for them.

But this is the way it must be. Such is the nature of college coaching.

No Concessions Made To Highly Favored ECC

"We aren't conceding anything to them."

Those are the words of PC's Cally Gault about the Blue Hosemen's upcoming David and Goliath play in East Carolina College's home stadium.

The Presbyterians are officially 29-point underdogs to the Southern Conference Pirates who've romped and stomped over seven of eight opponents thus far. Only a close 22-20 loss to Richmond spoiled the perfect record hopes of coach Clarence Stasivich.

"We're going up there to scrap, and try to hold them back as long as we can. They're too big, too good, too fast and too many but we're not going to lay down for them," the Hose head coach declared.

"East Carolina College could play on even terms in any conference in the country, and they have two of the finest backs in the South. But they do make mistakes, and any team that makes mistakes can be beaten."

Gault is realistic about the cloudy weather that is forecast for the Blue Hosemen in their 2 p. m. game in Fincklen Stadium just off the ECC campus in Greenville, N. C.

He realizes it will take more than spirited efforts to upset the Homecoming Pirates in their final regularly scheduled game of the year. The Pirates went to a post-season bowl game last year after a successful season, and the North Carolinians are looking for another bid after this game.

Coach Gault reveals that PC will not unveil any drastically altered offense, "but we'll pass much more than we have been doing. Our line can't match theirs, and our injuries don't help either."

In order to pull the rug from under ECC, the Presbyterians will have to stop a dual offense of Bill Cline and Dave Alexander. Both are high-ranking scoring stars in the nation, and Cline already has over 1200 yards total offense. "They throw a lot, too," Gault added as he reviewed his scouts' reports for Saturday's foe.

The Pirates vaulted into the football spotlight last year when they beat Wake Forest of the ACC. That, at the time, was considered a mild upset, and the team used that win to launch them on a successful season, culminated at the Eastern Bowl game.

This year the Pirates have whipped both Wofford and Furman handily. Both of those ECC victims have defeated PC this fall.

In the PC corner is passing whizz Leighton Grantham. The Easley quarterback needs but 11 aerial yards to set a new PC passing record. With Grantham in the backfield are break-away threats Sam Williams, Don McNeill and Joe Linder. On the receiving end of Grantham's passes are ends Jimmy Bankhead and Richard Reed, with James Smith and Garnet Welch also available.

FAKING OUT—PC junior halfback Don McNeill takes off for a ground gainer, but most of the attention seems centered elsewhere. The Blue Hose feud with the Applachian State Teachers College Mountaineers ended in a 23-21 cliff-hanger, won by Jim Cape's field goal in the final five seconds of play. —Photo by Dan Yarborough.

Freshman Dave Turner Not A One-Sport Man

Basketball Coach Art Musselman knows basketball potential when he sees it, and when he saw Dave Turner play last winter the young coach recognized potential that he could use on his PC team. So he did the only natural thing. He offered Turner a basketball scholarship to PC and the tall high school senior accepted.

Now it's almost 10 months later and Musselman's recognition has proved accurate. For Dave Turner is one of the major reasons Musselman has a right to look optimistically towards the coming basketball season.

Standing a shade over 6'5" and weighing in at 190 pounds Turner is a rebounding machine. In his senior year at Cowland High School, near Muncie, Indiana, Turner pulled off an average of 17 rebounds per game, while scoring 16 points per game. He led his team that year to a fine 16-4 record.

As are most athletes, Turner is not a single sport man. In addition to his four full winters of varsity basketball the tall center played four years of varsity baseball, two seasons of cross-country and a year of track. It is expected that he might play baseball for the Blue Hose.

Musselman considers Turner one of the finest hustlers on the court. In a recent practice session Turner tipped in several missed shots and pulled off rebounds at each end of the court. Musselman feels that Turner will give Doug Allen some help under the boards when the going gets tough, for Allen has taken most of the rebounding job for himself since his freshman year.

Haynie Is Winner Of Tennis Tourney

For the second consecutive year a fershman has won the All-Campus Tennis Tournament. The tournament, an annual event, is sponsored by the Intramural Council.

Doug Haynie, a first year student at PC, from Roanoke, Va., won the title by defeating Larry Connelly of Charlotte in the finals of the large event. Connelly, a sophomore, took second place honors last year, and lost this year 2-6, 8-6, 6-2 to Haynie.

Both Haynie and Connelly swept through the eight-round event with little trouble to earn a spot in the finals. In the semi-finals Connelly defeated Bobby Hibbits, a Winston-Salem freshman and Haynie won out over Col. Powell Fraser of the PC administrative staff.

The tournament began during the second week of the current school year with almost 250 students, faculty members and administrative personnel entered. The finals, delayed several times by bad weather, were held Monday.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
CANTERBURY BELTS and WALLETS
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

Last weekend celebrated a Parent's Day of no uncertain success as fraternity men allowed their parents a glimpse into somberly sober opaque cups and a glance at the more properly prudent of dates.

And new brothers there are this week! Joe Stevens, Bob Herlong, and George Lindsay will now wear the pins of Sigma Nu. Pete Collins is Pi Kappa Phi's new brother and Toni Miller was taken into brotherhood by Theta Chi.

New pledges for Kappa Alpha are Bill Bassham and Joe Gettys. Alex Burgin has pledged Alpha Sig.

Recently married are Pi Kap John Hemphill and the former Charlotte Knight. David Knolton of Kappa Alpha has married Miss Miss Susan Barcus.

Miss LaRue Gooding, PC Homecoming Queen, is the pinee of Sigma Nu Bunky Hanks.

The Pi Kaps will have a closed party at Peck's Ranch on Saturday night. Replacing Jimmy Stewart as PiKA M. C. is Don McNeil and the PiKA's new house manager is Bruce Lawrence.

The Graves Province Pledge Award goes to Kappa Alpha of PC. The award was made by E. Fleming Mason, province commander.

Jimmy Stewart and Don McNeil are the PiKA's new brothers of the week as are Buddy Guy, Whit Blount, and Wyly Joneh for Alpha Sigma Phi.

Miss Lesley Frost To Speak On Poetry

(Continued from page 1)

Vaquero Turcois, muralist for the Spanish Pavilion at the World's Fair.

Soon to be published is her autobiography, "New Hampshire's Child," telling the story of her childhood, as well as a book of childrens' poems, "Says Prescott!" Channel Press will also soon publish her new children's book, "I Hate Licorice," and other "Not Really" stories.

Lesley Frost is the producer of Bramwell Fletcher's program of prose and poetry reading which he calls "Parnassus '63."

In private life Miss Frost is the wife of Joseph W. Ballantine, formerly head of the U. S. State Department's Far Eastern Division.

Army Recruiters To Be On Campus

Lt. David R. Brown and Lt. Ann H. Bransford of the army recruiting station at Fort Jackson will be on campus Nov. 17 to talk with students about career opportunities as men and women officers in the United States Army.

They will have full details of direct commissions for women college graduates, tuition assistance for student and graduate nurses, and the two year Officer Candidate School enlistment for men college graduates.

Appointments may be arranged by contacting the local Greenwood Army Recruiter, Sgt. John Pinkston by phoning OR-57021.

The CHRONICLE

- Publishers
- Printers
- Stationers

109 GARY ST.

PHONE 833-9341

HOWARD'S PHARMACY

ON THE SQUARE

"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"

COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

Belk's

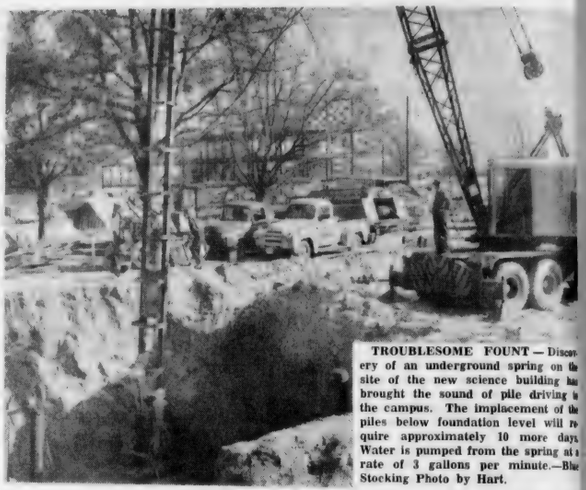
New "Press-Free"

MEN'S SLACKS

Dacron-Cotton Squire-Ply

All wanted colors and sizes

$6.99



New Shipmen of Fall And Winter

SWEATERS

Pull-Over and Cardigan

In Shetland and Bulky Knit

$9.99

TROUBLESOME FOUNT — Discovery of an underground spring on the site of the new science building has brought the sound of pile driving to the campus. The implacement of the piles below foundation level will require approximately 10 more days. Water is pumped from the spring at a rate of 3 gallons per minute.—Blue Stocking Photo by Hart.

The Campus Scene

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Tom Stallworth, college chaplain, has announced the chapel service and convocation for the week of Nov. 16-21.

The Monday convocation will consist of an exchange program sponsored by Blue Key chapters of Newberry College and PC.

Dr. J. Sherrard Rice, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Columbia, will conduct the the mid-week worship service.

Cleaning Supplies

Mr. J. P. Daniluk, administrative assistant, notes that vacuum cleaners have been added to the central supply center which provides students with cleaning apparatus for dormitory rooms.

Mr. Daniluk also said that materials may be kept overnight. The center is open from 1 until 3 p. m. each weekday. Janitors will clean all mops and vacuum cleaners when they are returned.

Check Cuts

Members of the administrative staff remind students of one of the rules in the Knapsack, which states "Absence records may be checked at the Information Desk, administration building, during afternoon hours only."

Mrs. Robert Hellams, infirmary matron, also reminds students to observe the infirmary visiting hours. The hours are 2-5 p. m. and 7-9 p. m. only. Parents are welcome at at any time; girls are not allowed to visit male patients.

Placement Schedule

Jack J. Keith, representative from Boy Scouts of America, will be on campus Nov. 17 from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Keith wishes to interview qualified men who are interested in a career with the scouting program.

Interested students should make appointments with Mrs. Cooper, secretary to the Dean of Students.

BROADWAY Theatre

Today-Saturday, November 12-14

Due to crowds, we expect to hold over Nov. 16-17

YOUR CHEATIN' HEART

George Hamilton, Susan Oliver, Red Buttons, Arthur O'Connell

Monday-Tuesday, Nov. 16-17

HENRY V

Lawrence Olivier, Robert Newton, Renee Asherson, Leo Genn

Yarborough

Studio and Camera Shop

Phone 833-1900

Cameras - Film - Processing

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP

CANUE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST

West Main Street — Clinton, S. C.

THE MEN'S SHOP

PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS

On The Square — Laurens

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE

Cleaners

. . . and . . .

Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists

Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria

Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS

•

Adair's Men's Shop

— Court Square —

Why Not Have Supper With Us?

Vernon's

HOME OF PLEASANT EATING

GREENWOOD HIGHWAY — 833-2300

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday November 20, 1964 — No. 8

27-Member Choir Leaves Saturday For First Trip of '64-65 Season

PC's 27-voice Robed Choir leaves tomorrow for the first of its fall trips in this year's 25-visit season. The Choir travels to Dalton, Ga., for the Sunday morning worship service at Dalton's First Presbyterian Church.

Sunday evening the Choir will sing at the First Presbyterian Church in Easley as it makes the return trip to campus. The Choir will leave Clinton about noon Saturday and return before midnight Sunday.

The Robed Choir, conducted for the 18th consecutive year by Dr. Edouard Patte, an ordained minister and now Professor Emeritus, has as its theme this year The Covenanters, because, as the program explains, "we are all 'Covenanters with God in a world that urgently needs Christian witnessing'."

The Choir is widely known throughout the entire Southeast and has traveled extensively in this area.

The program this year features 12 worshipful hymns, anthems and Negro spirituals. Among them are Vivaldi's "Gloria in Excelsis," Lvovsky's "Hospodi Pomilui," "Christ to Thee Be Glory," by Schuetz; "When Jesus Wept," by Billings; Greig's "God's Son Has Made Us Free," "All Enemies Are in Thy Hands," by Bach; "Bless the Lord, O My Soul," by Ippolitov-Ivanov, and Croft's "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

In addition there are three spirituals featured: "Nobody Knows, But Jesus," "Honor, Honor," and "Who'll Be a Witness."

The processional hymn is Beethoven's familiar "Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee," and the recessional is Vaughn Williams' stirring "For All the Saints."

First and second tenors are Woody McGinn, Paul Conger, Mike McGehee, Charlie Hayes, Kenneth Terrell, John Weigel, Jack Greene, Jim Loyd, John Guest, Tim Grey, Bill Hanger, Hank Parks, Jim Bruce, and Sam Lipsey.

Basses are Lewis Hay, Arthur Baxter, Phil Burns, Sam Waters, Henry Stakely, Earlie Rash, Billi McFaddin, G. Wardlaw, Bill Humphries, David Worth, Jim Stanford, Bill Quinn, and Woody Hall.

5 PC Cadets Initiated To Scabbard and Blade

Five seniors in the advanced ROTC program at Presbyterian College were recently initiated into the Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity.

The cadets, tapped during the drill exercises of October 22, were selected because of their military aptitude, leadership potential, military interest and academic achievement in military science.

The five are Allen Bolter of Clinton; Lewis Hay from Wadmalaw Island; Paul Conger Andalusia, Ala.; John Smith from Lincolnton, N. C.; and Cleve Jacobs from Talladega, Ala.

During the initiation period the recently honored cadets must wear their full military uniform at all times, carry a favor bag for the older members of the organization and learn the background and history of the organization.

The Scabbard and Blade also announced that plans are already underway for the annual Military Ball. The date of March 19 has been tentatively set by the group for the ball. Bill Gillespie said that a later announcement would make clear the monetary assessment per cadet for the event.

Newly elected officers in the fraternity are Capt. Bill Gillespie from Newport News, Va.; 1st Lt. Bud Alford from Tallahassee, Fla.; 1st Lt. Dee Hodges from Bainbridge, Ga.; and 1st Sgt. Mac Cobb from Atlanta, Ga.

Blue Stocking Seeks Editor For Next Year

Applications for the positions of editor and business manager of the 1965-66 Blue Stocking are now open for consideration by the paper's editorial board.

Interested students may contact either Bob Allison or Walter Wells, the present editors.

Two candidates will be nominated by the board for election by the student body during the second week in second semester.

Candidates must have maintained an average of at least C with not more than F for the preceding semester and have a clear conduct record.

Co-editor Allison noted, "The primary qualification for editor is, of course, the ability to write. The mechanics of journalism are mostly acquired skills which potential candidates will be instructed in. Naturally time is required for this instruction as well as for a necessary understanding of The Blue Stocking itself.

"A co-editorship is possible. However, at the moment we stress the need for the applicant's immediate action."

Performing Arts Expansion Plans Well Underway

A detailed schedule outlining PC's future department of performing arts is now a reality.

The fine arts division will embody a single large program within the liberal arts framework and encompassing three major fields.

Offerings in drama and music will include formal courses in theory and technique as well as private lessons.

The department represents an expansion of the college's present offering in fine arts. It will also incorporate within its total program the previous work of the widely acclaimed robed choir, the band and public speaking.

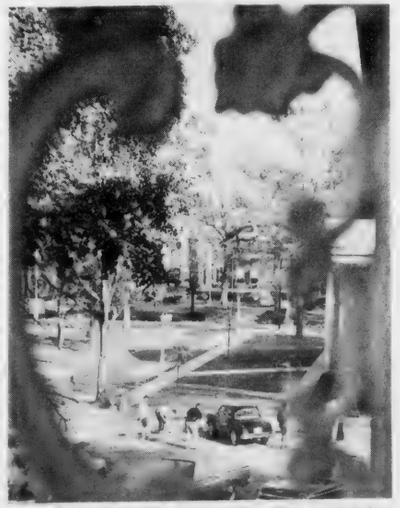
Art courses will include Introduction to Art, Principles of Art Structure, Ceramics, Sculpturing, Architecture and Art Appreciation.

Public School Art, History of Art (through the 17th century), History of Modern Art and Advanced Art will also be offered.

In the fields of drama and speech, Introduction to Theater Art, Fundamentals of Acting, Costuming and Stagecraft, History of the Theater, History of Religious Drama, Play Directing and Play Writing will be featured.

Speech courses planned will include Oral Communication, Public Speaking, Speech Correction, and Debating and Persuasion.

The music division will feature Music Appreciation, Elementary Music Theory, Intermediate Theory, Intermediate Theory, Counterpoint, History of Music, Church Music, Conducting Church Choirs, and Public School Music.



Individual lessons will be given in voice, piano and organ.

Dr. Chapman Gets Grant For Research

Dr. W. Fred Chapman, chairman of the Presbyterian College economics department, has received one of the 1964 awards for research given by the American Farm Economics Association.

His doctoral dissertation was chosen as one of three in the country to be honored in this manner by the national professional society of economists. The award includes a special certificate and a prize of $250.

Dr. Chapman is a native of Belton who joined the Presbyterian College faculty this fall as professor of economics. He wrote his dissertation for the completion of his PhD work at the University of Florida.

FALL ARRIVES—This photo, taken by Blue Stocking Co-Editor Bob Allison through the wrought iron grill on the portico of Bailey Dormitory, shows a view of Douglas House and Neville Hall as they appeared on an Indian Summer afternoon this week.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors: Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager: Al Pearce
Managing Editor: Bill Loeble

J. F. K. One Year Later

ON NOVEMBER 22, 1963, President John F. Kennedy was assassinated while riding in a motorcade through Dallas. Within hours after his murder a plaque was placed on a wall of one of the private bedrooms in the White House. It reads: "In this room Abraham Lincoln slept during his occupancy of the White House as President of the United States, March 4, 1861-April 13, 1865.

"IN THIS ROOM LIVED John Fitzgerald Kennedy with his wife Jacqueline Kennedy during the two years, ten months and two days he was President of the United States January 20, 1961-November 22, 1963."

THAT DELIBERATE CONNECTION between two presidents already seems as natural as the Washington Monument. Just as schools, towns, streets, and buildings have been named in Lincoln's honor, so have airports, plazas, streets, schools and libraries been dedicated—sometimes rededicated—to commemorate John Kennedy. And each week, it often seems, bronze, marble and granite statues of Kennedy are unveiled in small towns somewhere in the nation.

THE STATEMENT usually emblazoned on these statues, buildings and postage stamps commemorating Kennedy are from his Inaugural Address: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but ask what you can do for your country."

IN THE ADDRESS Kennedy called on the American people to put away selfish motives and turn toward the good of mankind and the welfare of the nation. He requested, in words that must have slightly stunned members of the intelligentsia who surrounded Kennedy, that we embark on a "New Frontier." He asked, "Let us begin."

WHAT HAS AMERICA done for Kennedy now that he is dead? It has canonized him politically, something he would never have wanted. It has made him the basis for junk peddlers to sell their cheap merchandise for use in this mass deification. It has given would-be publishers a subject to eulogize in order to increase their income. It has provided scandal sheets and gossip mongerers with such stories as "The White House Wedding Jackie Wants Now," or "J. F. K.'s quickie divorce in Mexico."

IF HE COULD SEE what is happening, he would laugh, and perhaps therein, in his ability to satirize, lay his magnanimity. John Kennedy once composed a short verse. It reads:

There are three things which are real:
God, human folly and laughter.
The first two are beyond our comprehension
So we must do what we can with the third.

THE KENNEDY DRY WIT, as so well exemplified by this verse, is also forgotten. It was Kennedy who told a reporter that writing a birthday telegram to his touchy Vice President, Lyndon Johnson, was like "drafting a state document." And it was Kennedy who said that the Wall Street Journal's criticism of Nixon was like "L'Osservatore Romano criticizing the Pope."

WE'LL REMEMBER KENNEDY. We'll remember him as a good President, good not because he was a doer or because of any legislative measures he proposed or because of any significant action he performed as President.

WE'LL REMEMBER KENNEDY because he was concerned with the pursuit of excellence, because he was cared more about the ends than to force them with means that were not good. We'll remember Kennedy because his proposals were often made not to be enacted, but to start people thinking.

WE'LL REMEMBER KENNEDY. We'll remember him as a man and not a god. We'll remember him as the very human president he was, not the calcified bronze and marble America is making him. —Wells

Chapel Players In Big Time Drama As Stage Set for Sartre's 'No Exit'

By BOB ALLISON
Blue Stocking Co-Editor

Tackling their first full length play, the PC Chapel Players will present existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre's "No Exit" in chapel Dec. 5.

"No Exit" takes place in a hell which provides an easy parallel with life itself. It is a sordid and macabre chronicle of three damned souls whose past matters only in its effect on present choices.

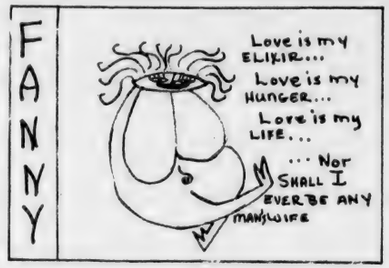
Garcin, Inez and Estelle each becomes aware of his need for the others, and gradual emergence of this interdependence leads to a circular pattern of relationships that define the action of the play.

All three are bound indissolubly together, yet they are distinguished not only by class differences but by sharply varying degrees of insight into their own existence.

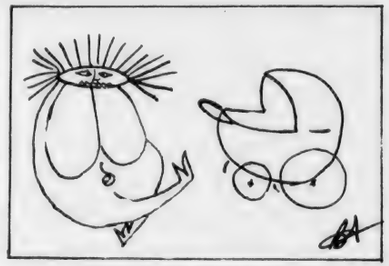
The circle of relationships revolves around Inez, a lesbian, and her inability to receive affection from Estelle, a nymphomaniac.

Estelle in turn is unable to gain the reception of Garcin. Authorities disagree as to Garcin's make up; however, many consider Garcin the possessor of homosexual tendencies.

Inez represents the fullest degree of inner clarity and authenticity, while Garcin is in the process of discovering the meaning of his life. His climatic assertion, "Hell is—other people!" carries with it his recognition of the impossibility of moral judgment independent of the subjective evaluations of others. Neither in life nor in hell is evasion or indifference possible.



"No Exit" is an intense and moving restatement of the primacy of personal authenticity and engagement. In its clustering together of imaginative and ideological values, it is probably Sartre's best play.



Sartre's existentialism is above all a philosophy of responsible freedom. "To do and while doing to make oneself and to be nothing but the self which one has made." Everyone, according to Sartre, is responsible for everything. Freedom carries with it the anguish of this responsibility.

Consciousness acquires meaning through choice; aims are judged not by intentions but by acts and accomplishments. Through his acts the individual shapes his own destiny and asserts the meaning of his existence, not only for himself but as it will be judged by others.

Thus, for Mr. Sartre hell is, indeed, other people.

Featured in the three lead roles are Miss Merrie Stancill as Inez, Miss Joan Vassey as Estelle, and Hank Parks as Garcin. Henry Stakely plays the role of the valet.

Letter To The Editor

Presbyterian's Tradition Lies In Academics, Not In Bucking

Editors
The Blue Stocking

Gentlemen:

I will start by asking the question, "Is the school's prestige based on the traditions of the student body," I was under the impression that Presbyterian prestige was derived from the quality of the educational system and the Christian concepts upon which the school was founded.

If the school's prestige is based on the false tradition of travel filled weekends and the alcohol consumption ratings of Playboy, then the prestige can't be very high. But if the prestige is based on what the school is founded for, it can't be changed.

What difference does it make to the college's real prestige if Presbyterian stickers are seen at neighboring women's schools?

No one will chain the boys to campus in the years to come. They will be just as free to relieve their "pressures" as the present student body is. It could be that the future students will need to be lost in their own traditions and the present ones won't fulfill their needs.

If people need to be well-rounded by conforming to traditions, then they aren't individuals. If people were individuals, they could use their imagination and discover things to do in this "centre of nothing" to entertain themselves.

To me, the present "traditions" hold no prestige for the College at all.

Sincerely,
SYLVIA A. SUMMERVILLE

'How West Won' An American Epic Of Great Dimension

By CHARLIE JORDAN
Blue Stocking Movie Writer

America's mightiest adventure has become the mightiest motion picture ever filmed. It's "How the West Was Won." presented by MGM and Cinerama. "How the West Was Won" won 8 academy Awards and features 24 great stars, among them Carroll Baker, Lee J. Cobb, Henry Fonda, Carolyn Jones, Karl Malden, Gregory Peck, George Peppard, Robert Preston, Debbie Reynolds, John Wayne, and Richard Widmark.

In "'How the West Was Won' you join the pioneers as they push their way across a continent, thrill to the sight of two thousand stampeding buffalo, and see the most spectacular train wreck that ever hurtled across the screen. All of this and much more is narrated by Spencer Tracy.

Perhaps the film's most unique production quality is its parallel between four generations of a family and four generations of westward expansion. Debbie Reynolds ages from early teens to late seventies in the saga which takes her from poverty and heartbreak on the Missouri to the pomp and circumstance of a railroad fortune.

Above all, "How the West Was Won" is a visual tribute to the men and women who made America great—the pioneers whose eyes were always turned westward, who dreamed of a great nation extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Their story is the story of "How the West Was Won."

Speaking of Sports

PC Going To Turkey Bowl For 51st Time

With GLEN BROWDER

Presbyterian College, already assured of the best football season since 1960, has accepted a bid to play in the Bronze Derby Bowl here Thanksgiving Day. Reports indicate the Blue Hosemen voted almost unanimously to play in the Turkey-day classic against the Indians of Newberry.

Fifty-one Year Series

The PC team will be gunning for a 5-5 season record in the final clash which will renew one of the oldest traditional rivalries in the South. The Presbyterians and Indians first met in 1913, and they played twice that year. Newberry skimmed by the Hose both times by an identical 51-0 score.

Mighty Blue Have Dominated

Since then, however, PC has pounded out its revenge, whipping the Newberrians 30 times while dropping only 15 games. The Hose also own the most one-sided victory in the series, a 54-0 shellacking in 1929. All in all, Presbyterian has scored 654 points in 40 games, allowing the Indians 421 tallies.

But what is the Bronze Derby?

About That Derby . . .

The Bronze Derby is a beaten little hat that sat on the head of a PC student 17 years ago while he watched a Hose-Indian basketball game. The game was played at Newberry in the winter of 1947, and the action was heated on the court and in the stands.

When the action on the court ended, that in the stands became eve more heated and a Newberry student grabbed the little brown derby and ran. A spirited dispute followed, which included our present head football coach, and out of the scramble came the derby as a symbol of athletic superiority between the two schools.

The derby was dipped in bronze and was ceremoniously awarded to the school which was victorious after each encounter in three sports—football, basketball and baseball.

After the first few years, the Bronze Derby ownership was decided by the traditional football game alone. Hence the name of the annual Bronze Derby gridiron clash between the Blue Hose and Indians each Thanksgiving.

PC Hopes To Give It A Home

PC currently owns the coveted prize, captured with a 14-7 victory last year. The derby has been re-covered with a bright coat of bronze, and will be displayed along the sidelines of the game here Thursday afternoon.

Basketball In Before Football Out

Few people realize it but the PC basketball team gets into official action only four days from now. Even before the football players take the field against Newberry the Hose cagers will be way up in the hills of Tennessee racing up and down the court with the King College five.

Southern Tour Opens Campaign

Students here won't get to see the P College basketballers for three weeks however, because all the action will be on the road—at Bristol, Tenn.; Spartanburg; Deland, Fla.; Lakeland, Fla.; and Charleston. In fact, there'll only be eight games in LeRoy Springs Gynasium this year.

Good Reason To Be Cautious

That's one of the reasons Coach Art Musselman is shying away from any statements about a winning year. "When you play freshmen in key roles, and 18 of your games are on the road, you just don't make predictions for a great season!"

Attitudes May Help Win A Few

The sophomore coach does think the Hosemen may surprise a few teams this season, mainly because of the enthusiastic attitude and leadership on the squad. "It's amazing how the three returning veterans have improved so much in our six weeks of practice," he reports; "And those nine boys think about nothing except basketball. A lot of times they come down here before practive begins just to work on individual problems and shooting."

Quiet—But Hopeful

But when it comes to that one question on everybody's mind—"Will PC finally win more games than it loses?"—Musselman falls into one of his rare moments of non-talking. "I made some predictions last year, and we didn't quite live up to them."

Smith Welch | Elliott Cape | Galloway Lowrance | Nix Lokey | Hagood West

Ten PC Seniors Play Final Game Against Indians Thanksgiving Day

By AL PEARCE
Co-Editor of Sports

Ten seniors will play their final game as Blue Hosemen on Thanksgiving Day in the traditional Presbyterian - Newberry clash. Gametime will be 2:00 on PC's Walter Johnson Field.

The ancient rivalry between the two denominational schools has always been billed as "the game of the year" for both teams, one in which all the stops are pulled. It is always the final regular season game for both schools and reports from the Newberry camp have it that the Indians are already anxious to get at the Hose.

For the Blue Hose of coach Cally Gault the game is also crucial because a PC win will insure a break-even season—something the Hose have not enjoyed since 1960. Not since the team of that fall posted a 6-3 record has a PC football team had at least a .500 year. Going into the final game with a 4-5 mark, the Hose may get that break-even win on Thanksgiving Day.

Newberry will be trying to salvage their second win from a season that has not been kind to coach Harvey Kirkland. Newberry has managed to win but once in nine outings, over a weak Guilford College team at home three weeks ago.

For the PC seniors it'll be their chance to take their second win in four years over their arch-rivals. Going into the game the Hose and the Indians have split exactly the past three games.

Despite their poor record going into the game, the Indians have showed signs of coming out of the slump that plagued them in the early games of the year. Coach Gault and his staff have expressed concern over stopping the three major threats in the Indians' camp — quarterback Benji Kirkland, fullback Jerry Hammond and halfback Reed Charpia.

All-Stars Romp 20-7 Over Sigma Nu Team

In a fitting climax to a fine season the Intramural All-Stars defeated the Sigma Nu league champions last Friday in the annual All-Star game. The event, which pits the league champs against the All-Stars, was witnessed by a large crowd that saw the All-Stars romp, 20-7.

The All-Stars were led by Donnie Hardee at quarterback, the league's Most Valuable Player. The Alpha Sigs' star took the MVP honor for the second time as an I-M player. With Hardee in the All-Star backfield were Tommy Stallworth of the Pounders, Brownie Johnson of the KA's and George Davenport of the PiKA's.

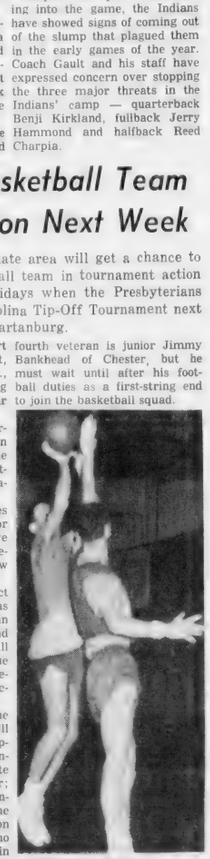
Along the All-Stars' forward wall were Wiley Jones and John Jones of the ASP's, Dee Hodges of the KA's, and Fred Gossett and Pete Collins of the Pounders.

Hardee tossed a TD pass to flankbacker Collins for an All-Star tally and passed to Collins and Johnson for the two successful extra points. Collins later intercepted a Sigma Nu aerial and returned it for his second score of the afternoon. Dave Dunlap's scoring jaunt put the game on ice for the Stars.

About the only offense the Sigs could muster resulted in a scoring bomb from quarterback Al Todd to flankerback George Taylor. Todd then passed to Bill Crowley for the extra point.

Blue Hose Basketball Team Will See Action Next Week

PC students in the upstate area will get a chance to see the Blue Hose basketball team in tournament action over the Thanksgiving holidays when the Presbyterians take part in the South Carolina Tip-Off Tournament next Friday and Saturday in Spartanburg.



The Hosemen actually start the 1694-65 season Tuesday night, with a bout in Bristol, Tenn., against King College, returning to this state for the Little Four tourney that weekend.

Wofford, Erskine and Newberry will furnish the opposition in the Tip-Off affair, which is the first such venture since the Little Four stopped official tournament play two years ago.

Coach Art Musselman shies away from any predictions for the Blue Hose, but he does have six outstanding freshmen recruits to bolster the meager crew of lettermen.

These freshmen can expect plenty of rugged experience as they assume key varsity roles in a schedule dominated by 18 road games. For Musselman, it will be his sophomore year as Blue Hose coach, and he hopes to rebound from last year's 7-13 record.

A heavy burden rests on the four returning lettermen who'll lead the PC quintet. Senior Captain Danny Charles of Spartanburg brings a 51% accurate shooting average from last year; and junior Doug Allen, a 6-6 center from Sumter, returns as the top rebounder. Guard Gordon Adam of Bloomfield, Kr., who averaged 13 points per game in the past campaign, is the top point-maker of the lot. The fourth veteran is junior Jimmy Bankhead of Chester, but he must wait until after his football duties as a first-string end to join the basketball squad.

Freshman Quillen shoots over Senior Charles.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

The dragging period between Pledge Day and Christmas Dance Weekend, a new dry spell on our campus, is making buckers of many PC fraternity men. Perhaps the relaxing Thanksgiving Holidays will cure some of the restlessness in our ranks and lead us until the weekend of Dec. 12.

Lavaliered to Miss Julia Watts of Mountville is Woody McGinn, an Alpha Sig. John Settle, a brother in Sigma Nu, is pinned to Miss Jeffrey Hull of Columbia.

Brothers of the week are Ronnie Morris, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Jim Bruce, Alpha Sigma Phi.

Brad Ray was initiated into Sigma Nu brotherhood this week.

Alpha Sigma Phi plans an informal party tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fiesta Club in Rock Hill.

The Sigs will have a record party from 7 p. m. until midnight at their lodge tomorrow. The party will be open.

Tuesday night the Theta Chi's will meet in Rock Hill for an informal closed party.

PiKA's made plans at their last meeting for their annual Christmas party at Thornwell.

BROADWAY Theatre

Friday-Saturday Afternoon
November 20-21
GODZILLA vs THE THING

Starts Saturday Night
Also Mon.-Tues., Nov. 23-24
PAJAMA PARTY
Annette Funicello, Tommy Kirk, Candy Johnson

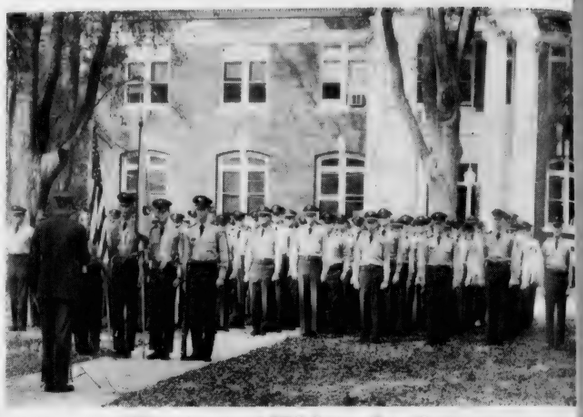
Starts Wednesday, November 25
HOW THE WEST WAS WON
George Peppard, Carroll Baker, James Stewart, Debbie Reynolds

Campus Briefs

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Thomas A. Stallworth, college chaplain, has announced the chapel service and convocation for the week of Nov. 23-27.

The Monday convocation will consist of a scholastic awards presentation and a student body meeting. Wednesday's formal service will be conducted by Dr. David R. Moorefield, professor of philosophy.



Col. Booth Visits Unit

Col Robert M. Booth, Deputy for ROTC from the 12th U. S. Army Corps, will visit the Presbyterian College ROTC unit Nov. 25.

During his visit Col. Booth will meet with college officials, observe military science classes, tour military facilities and receive a briefing by Cadet Lt. Col. Arch Hudgins and Cadet Maj. Jim Settle.

Thanksgiving Holidays

Thanksgiving holidays begin Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 1:00 p. m. The four-day long weekend officially ends Sunday at 6:00 p. m.

85 Presbtyerian ROTC Cadets Take Oath

Eighty-five PC advanced ROTC cadets took the induction oath as members of the Army Reserve during a ceremony at drill last week. The oath was for the 85 MS I and MS II students the final step in changes brought about by the 1964 ROTC Revitalization Act. Under the act advanced students have received an increase of approximately $13 in monthly retainer pay and a raise from $78 to $111.15 each month for summer training pay.—Photo by Yarborough.

PC's Chapter of Blue Key Gives Program at Newberry

The Presbyterian College chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity travelled to Newberry College today to present a program of entertainment for the Newberry student body. Featured in the program were PC's folk singing group, The Gleemen, and Mac and Joey Singleton.

The program at Newberry, which followed a program of entertainment at PC Monday sponsored by the Newberry Blue Key, is part of a tradition which was established jointly by the chapters of the service fraternity at PC and Newberry.

Years ago, when the rivalry between the two schools was more often destructive than friendly, the exchange program was begun in an attempt to end vandalism at the two schools.

The exchange program sponsored by PC's Blue Key Chapter also encompasses Wofford College in Spartanburg, with the same purpose.

However, with Wofford, PC sponsors a Sportsmanship Trophy which is annually presented to the school having amassed the greater number of points as the result of victories in athletic events. PC held the trophy last year but lost it to Wofford this fall.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras · Film · Processing

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANUE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
ON THE SQUARE
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
COMPLETE DRUG AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

PITTS MEN'S SHOP
CANTERBURY BELTS and WALLETS
LONDON FOG — JANTZEN SWEATERS

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

REAL Hospitality
Vernon's
HOME OF PLEASANT EATING
GREENWOOD HIGHWAY 833-2300

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Belk's
New "Press-Free" MEN'S SLACKS
by H. I. S.
$7.99
New Shipment of Fall SWEATERS
Pull-Over and Cardigan
$12.99 to $15.99
Jantzen's Best

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, December 4, 1964 | No. 9

1965 Grads Can Expect Job Changes

WASHINGTON (CPS)—If you are near graduation, you can expect to make at least seven job changes in your working life.

You can also expect half of what you are now learning to be obsolete in five years if you are studying physics, in ten years if you are studying engineering, and in fifteen years if you are studying law.

Further, in some of the physical sciences, half of what you will need to know in the next ten years hasn't even been discovered yet. This picture of rapidly changing job requirements was outlined by an extension dean and a labor department official recently.

Any student who specializes early in the face of such a fluid occupational outlook is making a serious mistake, according to Seymour Wolfbein, a top Labor Department employment expert.

In a CPS interview, Wolfbein advised students to delay their majors as long as possible. Students should take many different courses in order to be able to cope with a variety of jobs, Wolfbein said.

The main occupational challenge for students who will be entering the professions will be keeping up to date with new developments, he said.

Those with outmoded knowledge will find themselves left behind as recent graduates or college returnees get pay raises and promotions.

A recent Labor Department study illustrated the premium put on new knowledge. Physicists with recent BA's were found to be better paid than those with older PhD's.

Life-long education will be needed to avoid obsolescence in the professions, said Paul Sheats, dean of extension at the University of California. Echoing Wolfbein's views, he said that nearly one out of every eight workers is now a professional person, and that the average amount of education for these workers has risen to 17 years.

The average educational attainment in the entire American working force now exceeds high school graduation, Wolfbein added.

Cally Gault Considered For 1964 Press Award

See Sports Column, Page 3

WORK CONTINUES—Workmen were still busy this week on PC's three new buildings, scheduled for September, 1965 completion. Here a workman balances atop beams that are part of Clinton Dormitory for women.—Blue Stocking Photo by Allison.

PC's New Science Building To Include Many Features

By SAM WATERS
Blue Stocking Assistant Editor

The fall session of 1965 will find Presbyterian College's science departments complemented by one of the most modern science buildings in the Southeast.

Resting on nearly 300 pilings over an undesired underground stream, the three-story Georgian colonial structure will devote each floor to an individual department. Blueprints show physics on the first level, biology on the second and chemistry on the third.

The yet unnamed building will incorporate facilities and equipment employed by current buildings of its kind.

The full air conditioned and fireproof edifice will contain new furnishings but utilize desirable equipment now used in Jacobs Science Hall.

Dr. Neill Whitelaw, professor of physics, commented, "The new science hall will be equipped to give a good science education. The teaching environment will be superior, and it will facilitate the utilization of the materials to the greatest advantage."

"However," he pointed out, "the success of learning does not depend on the new building. Progress still lies in the attitudes of the students and the professors toward the subject matter."

Dr. A. B. Stump, professor of biology, agreed with Dr. Whitelaw. "The new building will compare favorably with outstanding science halls at such schools as Wofford, Winthrop, Clemson and Wake Forest."

The spacious new structure replaces Jacobs Science Hall which has served PC sudents for over 50 years. Jacobs originally housed not only the science courses but a library and gymnasium as well.

Having allotted $100,00 for Jacobs, the college's early development board approached Dr. Cartiledge, a PC chemistry professor, and requested that he draw the plans for the 1912 structure.

Jacobs Building was the result, without the more recent additions of the military department and second floor chemistry lab.

(Continued on page 4)

Students Attend Mock Assembly In State Capitol

Henry Lovett, David Davies, Jim Settle, Bob Herlong and Bill Buchheit are representing Presbyterian College in the eighth annual S. C. Student Legislature, held this weekend in Columbia.

A majority of colleges in the state participate in the legislature, which is modeled on the U. S. Congress.

Serving in brief tenures as Senators are Lovett and Davies. Settle, Herlong and Buchheit fill PC's allotment of representatives in the House, which is proportioned on student body size.

Committee assignment were made before the Senators and Representatives convened, with Settle and Davies on the Judicial Committee, Lovett on Finance, Buchheit on the General Affairs Committee, and Herlong on Health, Education and Welfare.

Settle is a committee chairman and Herlong was chosen chaplain of the Congress. Lovett and Davies will run for offices, but have not yet announced which ones they will file for.

Bills which are passed by the student legislature are submitted to the S. C. Assembly in the form of resolutions. Lovett noted that in the past these resolutions have met with success, many of them being brought up in the State Legislature for consideration.

Major bills which will be discussed this year are the election of the governor of the state to a successive term and an increase in sale tax from three to four per cent.

Activities Thursday included registration, committee meetings in the State House, and a mixer at he Columbia Hotel.

Today the legislators met in morning and afternoon sessions which were to be followed by a banquet tonight. Tomorrow the individual houses will finish up details and elect house officers. In a joint session at noon the governor and lieutenant governor will be elected.

McMillian, Former Coach Here, Honored At Thanksgiving Game

Presbyterian College paid tribute to former football coach Lonnie McMillian during the halftime ceremonies of the PC-Newberry game Thanksgiving day.

The program recognized 36 years of continuous service to PC athletics, dating from 1923 to 1959. Hundreds of friends and former players were on hand to express their appreciation.

When Coach Lonnie Mac retired from active duty in the spring of 1959, he ended a sports career which stretched back into the early days of Blue Hose athletics. It ranks among the longtest tenures of uninterrupted service in sports history.

Young Lonnie McMillian arrived at Presbyterian College as a freshman from Prescott, Ark., in the fall of 1915. Walter Johnson was fresh on the scene then, too, as the new coach. And from this initial player-coach relationship was welded a combination which, in subsequent years, raised the garnet and blue banner to wave proudly in Southern sports.

From his 191 graduation, delayed by Navy service in World War I, McMillian left behind at PC a bright athletic record which included all-state honors and the captaincy of the football, basketball and track teams. He joined the Presbyterian staff in 1923 later after two years as the Clinton High coach.

President Emeritus Marshall W. Brown, whose PC years date back to 1925, points out, "McMillian produced some of the most colorful teams in the school's history. He coached four different sports at various times—football, basketball, track and baseball."

PRESENTING KEYS—From the left, C. W. Anderson, Mike Turner, Mac Adair and Tom Addison, all of Clinton: Mrs. Ann McMillian Jones, Mrs. Lonnie S. McMillian and McMillian in his wheelchair.

'Chrome Christianity' And The PC Campus

FROM ORIENTATION TO GRADUATION students of this institution are rewarded and remonstrated in time of success and in time of failure with the gilded adjective "Christian." Like the overly sweet icing of a cake, we are coated daily with Christianity.

A STUDENT may not be a scholar; he must be a Christian scholar. We do not have outstanding athletes; we have outstanding Christian athletes. And on the stuff rolls . . . Christian higher education, coaches who developed a spirit of Christian competition, science departments who do not forget Christian ideals, professors who relate Christianity to curriculum, and Christian fellowship among students.

WE TAKE THE WORD Christian and disguise its true meaning in superficialities. Presbyterian College has turned the cross into a twirling neon sign and has worn it like the rouge of a courtesan.

CHRISTIANITY HAS BEEN REDUCED to a part of speech. Because of its intensive and inappropriate overuse it has become as irritating as the word "I" in a school child's autobiography. With the loss of its true denotations—and connotations—Christianity is not a symbol of the faith for which it stands but of petty formalities and trite informalities.

THE WHOLENESS of Christianity has been pigeonholed into small secular actions in such massive doses that the student has no alternative but to vomit it back up. It is dished out in such great quantities that it appears to be a defensive action; as if there were a magnetic compulsion to hide anything secular in nature.

CHRISTIANITY, when understood as the powerful faith it is in reality, has a definite part. But it must be seen as a part of a greater whole. It is indeed a critical key to a secular world; however, Christianity must understand a secular world in secular terminology.

IF WE CHOOSE to view the world through the stained glass of faith then not only is the secular clouded, but Christianity by doing so achieves only its own impotence.

AND THIS is what PC is doing. We muddy water with Christianity under the absurd guise of our role as a church school.

SECULAR SPEAKERS must give up both time and due courtesy for hymns which help build the Christian image. Political speakers suffer introductions which attempt to relate the speaker's subject in Christian designs. Why must secular subjects require a defense? Why have we acquired an attitude of apology?

EDUCATION IS A CRITICAL and analytical study of man's universe. It must see man as he is, not as Christianity would have him. When the church understands life realistically, it can then function as a primary component in the lives of men.

THUS FAR PC HAS FAILED. By its artificial Christianizing the college has repulsed students from its goal of higher Christian education.

—Allison

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager ..... Al Pearce
Managing Editor ..... Bill Loeble
Assistant Editors ..... Merrie Stancill, Sam Waters
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
News Editor ..... Dave Veneklasen
Sports Editors ..... Al Pearce, Glen Browder
Feature Editor ..... Gary Crawford
Activities Editor ..... Larry Preston
Greek Editor ..... Alex Patrick
Associate Editor ..... Frank Hendrix
Cartoonists ..... Tom Leland, John Weigel
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, Susan Gilbert, Tim Grey, Bryson Rousey, David Knowlton, John Jones, Joe Stevens, Bill Bassham, Bobby Staton, Larry Platt, Jimmy Rammage, Bo Bowman Joan Vassey
Typist ..... Soo Soo Sledge

Sartre's Refusal Of Nobel Prize Exhibits 'Deliberate Controversy'

By ROBERT JUNG
Collegiate Press Service

Jean Paul Sartre, whose "No Exit" is scheduled for performance here Dec. 14 by the Chapel Players, rightly refused the Nobel Prize. Such an honor is an official stamp of approval. It is a token of respectability and a ticket of admission into polite and venerable company.

There is a certain terrible finality about such a prize, almost like death. It makes Sartre proper. A philosopher as moralist and critic ought never be proper. When a philosopher can be discussed comfortably at a PTA meeting or quibbled over at professional colloquies he has failed. The philosopher must always be the ultimate subversive.

Sartre was cited for "imaginative writing, which by reason of its spirit of freedom and striving for truth has exercised a far-reaching influence on our age." The citation also, said, "deliberately controversial and ready to give battle, he carries on the great French tradition, that of moralists who criticize society."

This great tradition is not limited to the French. Moral criticism of society is one of the essential tasks of he philosopher. Sartre's genius is such that he is able to use literary media as vehicles for the transmission of philosophical and moral ideas on the visceral level.

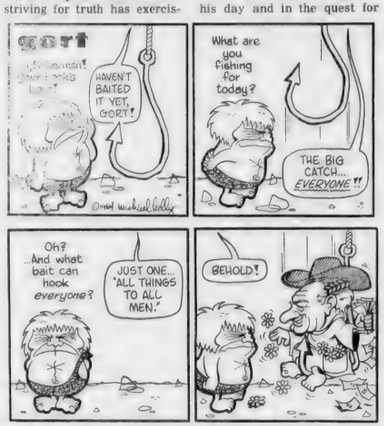
As a moralist who is critical of sociey he plays he role of subversive and iconoclast. He is an example of his own ethical doctrine of engagement He is passionately involved in the social and political movements of his time. He is the engaged philosopher, immersed in the intellectual dialogue of his day and in the quest for whatever meaning there may be.

He has shown us that man brings values and goals into the world. Since dialogue concerning values and creation of them is of vital importance to the world, it is appropriate that Sartre should be honored by his follow intellectuals, even though he must refuse the official accolade. Sartre himself has "dirty hands." By accepting the Nobel Prize, he would be putting gloves on.

It is a pity that he is a prophet without honor among his fellow philosophers in this country. Sartre is better known and understood by intellectuals who are interested in literature, psychology, or theology than by professional philosophers. He, along with John Dewey, is almost totally unknown and untaught in the many departments of philosophy.

Sartre's neglect at the hands of his colleagues suggests that perhaps philosophy has abandoned its traditional role as a source of great ideas and intellectual challenges worthy of man's intellectual dignity.

Perhaps philosophy has become an esoteric but prope discipline of no relevance to the outside world, a discipline which analyzes and classifies icons but leaves them intact. The neglect of Sartre is an index of abdication.



There is little interchange between "the Partisan Review" and "The Philosophical Review," to the detriment of the latter and the benefit of the former. We have nothing comparable to "Les Temps Modernes," the journal of opinion founded by Sartre. Ideas seem to breed endogamously in this country. Narrow professionals speak only to each other and the world rarely bothers to listen.

The tradition of Sartre, Ortega y Gasset, and Dewey is the grand tradition of philosophy which holds that a philosopher must be engaged in the crucial problems and issues of his time.

This tradition is in danger of being poisoned by an anti-intellectual tendency, the passion of which is to analyze the trivial and to inhibit the production of general synthetic ideas, especially in the realm of values. The mainstream of intellectual creativity is damned at its source.

If philosophers do not give us new ideas, bold new ways of structuring and assuming the world, the job will be done by amateurs and ad men. If philosophy leaves a vacuum in the dialogue concerning values, it place will be taken by follow ers of some defunct dogma, by fanatical cultists, by self-appointed moralists on the make or by dream peddlers trying to sell us a bitter world on easy time payments.

The University of Illinois Professor Gotschalk said that "something basically wrong has lurked in our culture, deep down in its institutional fabric leading to mounting disaster. We must try with all the means in our power, by science aid philosophy, to find a better way." Finding this "better way" remains an essential task of the philosopher. If Sartre has not found the way it is not because he has not looked.

High School's Noise Disrupting Library

Editors
The Blue Stocking
Gentlemen:

Third quarter tests and term papers have caused a surge to the library.

Likewise, high school children, "doing research" for term papers, are filling the study rooms. College students often find neither seats nor the quiet atmosphere needed for study.

I am afraid our high school friends use the library as an excuse to leave home when their parents would otherwise prevent them from leaving.

To me it seems unfortunate that the college library is community.

The college library is affiliated with the community and high school students have the right to use it—but as a library, please, and not as a hang-out.

We need the library for serious study and should not be bothered by giggles, bubble gum, and subhuman noises. We would welcome serious high school students.

If the library staff and the high schools will do their part in remedying the situation, students—high school or college—would be able to use the library for its intended purpose

JOHN G. WHITE

Old, But Tops At Broadway

By CHARLIE JORDAN
Blue Stocking Movie Writer

"The Bridge On the River Kwai" may be called a tragedy, a comedy, an adventure story, an ironic masterpiece; it is in some degree all of these things.

It is a whale of a story, and in telling it British Director David Lean does a terrific job. He shows a rare sense of humor and a feeling for the poetry of situation, and an even rarer ability to express these things, not in lines but in lives.

Most important of all he understands the real nature of the story he is telling.

Said Time, "The film cries from the depths of personal disaster and impersonal fate that man is not the measure of all things, that life is bigger than the things that live it, that there is a meaning for those who have eyes to read it, even the gospel of chaos."

Perhaps the mere fact that Time lauded "The Bridge On the River Kwai" gives this film a distinctive place among the greats of recent years. A good review from this magazine is characteristically rare.

"The Bridge On the River Kwai" with Alex Guinness, Jessus Hayakawa, and William Holden hordes a treasure of truly great entertainment for those viewing it for the second time.

Speaking of Sports

Our Choice For Big Honor: Cally Gault

By AL PEARCE

It would be presumptious for us to attempt to conduct a post-mortem on the 1964 South Carolina college football season. All that could have been said or written has been, and much of that could have easily been left unsaid. And when one stops to note the poor cumulative record of the seven teams in the state (25-41-2) he must wonder how sports writers can find so much good in a season like this one to write abut.

So now all that remains before football 1964 ducks its head until next September is the selecting and naming of the various winners of post-season honors. There'll be all-state teams, all-star teams, all-senior teams all-sophomore teams and all-academic teams. South Carolina coaches and sports writers will select several of these "all-something" teams.

There's Little Doubt

There's little doubt that Dan Reeves will be named the state's Back-of-the Year. The USC star should win that honor with little trouble. Almost assured of a spot on someone's "all-something" team will be Ted Bunton, Mike Lane, J. R. Wilburn, Joe Missar, Len Sears, Pat Crain, Marty Rosen, Sam Williams, Don McNeil, and John Boyette. You'll also see the names of John Monk, Pete DiVinere, Leighton Grantham, Pat Merrick, Jimmy Bankhead, John Houseal, Ernie Zuberer, Mac McLeod, and John Morehead somewhere on a post-season team.

Coach of Year Award

The top race, though, appears to be for the coveted Coach-of-the-Year award. This selection will be made by the members of the South Carolina Sports Writers Association and released for the morning papers on December 17. The All-State team will be released on the afternoon of the 17th, with other winners being announced the following day.

We talked with two of the leading papers in the state via long distance Wednesday to get the criteria for the Coach-of-the-Year. The Charleston News and Courier and the Columbia State gave us the same answer. The main criteria is "what the coach did with the material he had." The coach with the top record is not necessarily the winner, because a coach with great material who has an undefeated season might not have done as good a job as a coach with poor material who has a break-even season.

A Two-Man Race

Right now it appears the coveted honor is a two-man race between PC's Cally Gault and Wofford's Coniey Snidow. The Gamecocks of Marvin Bass didn't live up to their pre-season press releases, and their 3-5-2 record was a disappointment around Columbia. Frank Howard had much the same trouble, but with a 3-7 record. He was supposed to do better than that. Bob King at Furman had a strong backfield, but his 3-7 mark does nothing for his chances. Harvey Kirkland didn't have the material, and his 1-9 record shows that. Eddie Teague of The Citadel wasn't supposed to have much, and with his tough schedule he suffered.

Predictions Said One Win

The pre-season predictions around the state had PC winning maybe one game. No one knew which game, but we were supposed to win one. If Cally Gault could win any more than one he'd be lucky. The Hose were weak along the line and this was supposed to be the reason the PC future looked so bleak. To make matters worse the Hose lost their top three fullbacks, the top left end, all six lettermen tackles, the two first unit guards and a veteran center. The backfield was suffering with the loss of a second unit halfback for the season, and another for the first four games. With problems like that even a 1-9 record seemed optimistic.

Wofford, on the other hand, was supposed to be loaded. They were experienced, they had Todd Heldreth and they had a big, strong, hard hitting line. The Terriers were experienced at every position and they were being touted as "the best Wofford team in years." Their schedule was almost identical to the one PC played. They ended with a 6-4 record.

It Should Be Gault

So it's now for the South Carolina Sports Writers Association to make their choice. Will they pick Snidow, whose 6-4 recrd was not up to pre-season expectations? Or will it be Cally Gault whose Blue Hose won four more games than they were supposed to. We think it should be the latter. It should be Cally Gault of Presbyterian

Blue Hose In Florida Tourney; Turner Stars In Loss to Stetson

The Blue Hose basketball team renews action tonight at 9 when the cagers play in the second game of the Citrus Invitational Tournament at Lakeland, Fla.

The PC squad will take a 2-2 record into tonight's fight with Florida Southern College, the home team in the tourney. The first game at 7 p.m. pits Rollins University against Sewanee.

Presbyterian's basketballers thus far in the young season have proven a surprise to most observers with strong victories over King and Newberry and a stiff challenge to a loaded Wofford qunitet.

The Hose oponed the 1964-65 season with a 72-55 conquest over King in Bristol, Tenn., then dropped a 95-80 decision to Wofford in the Little Four Tip-Off Tourney. A win over Newberry gave PC third place in the competition.

A Wednesday night foray into Florida territory proved to be a setback, with an 84-66 loss to Stetson at Deland. The Hose experienced a cold first half and never could overtake the fast-breaking Hatters.

In Wednesday's 88-66 loss to Stetson, freshman Dave Turner hit for 20 points, but the rest of the Hose were cold. Danny Charles had 12 and Gordon Adam, double-teamed all night, could get but 7 points.

VOLLEY BALL—A fast PiKA team fought Theta Chi in intramural volley ball this week. Walt Todd is shown here preparing to send one back across the net to the Oxen.—Blue Stocking Photo by Yarborough.

Final '64 Grid Stats Show Good Season

Quarterback Leighton Grantham, fullback Sam Williams, halfback Don McNeil, and end Jimmy Bankhead are the outstanding leaders in offensive statistics in the final PC football roundup.

Grantham—touted as PC's Mr. Offense—established a school season passing record with 1,009 aerial yards, completing 76 of 154 passes. The top Hose candidate for post-season honors tossed seven touchdown passes.

A junior player by eligibility rules, Grantham now has 2,029 aerial yards in his three-year career and is in prime position to crack the school's all-time total if he returns next year.

Sam Williams was far and away the Blue Hose rushing gun. He gained 614 yards on 145 carries for a 4.2 average, beating his closest competitor by 300 yards.

McNeil, one of the best blockers and full-time players in the PC lineup in several years, led the scoring with 36 points—all on touchdowns. Williams was second with 30 points.

Jim Bankhead was on top of the pass-catching yardage chart with 286 aerial yards, gained on 20 receptions. End James Smith caught one more pass than his partner on the right side of the line, but his 20 catches netted 237 yards.

The Blue Hosemen gained 2,658 yards total offense against their 10 opponents, slightly less than the enemy teams' 2,794 total. PC picked up 1,434 rushing yards against 1,872 for opponents, and the Presbyterians outdid the opposition by 1,224 to 922 margin.

Intramurals

Sigma Nu Rules Vollyball; 'Fearless Faculty' Shines

The Sigma Nu's seem to make a habit of going undefeated in intramural play, witnessed by their undefeated season in football and table tennis. And right now they're undefeated in volleyball.

The Sigs, making an earlly bid for the All-Sports' Trophy, hold top spot in the volleyball standings with their 6-0 record. With only three matches left, they seem to be assured of no worse than a tie for the title.

Their nearest challengers, the Alpha Sigma Phis, have a 5-1 mark, their only loss coming from the Sigs. The ASP's also have three matches to play.

Making a surprising showing is the Fearless Faculty team. Withstanding taunts, threats, and advanced years the faculty representatives have compiled a 4-1 slate, with four matches still scheduled.

Led by Professors Stallworth, Harris, Chapman, Burnside, Huff, Fakkema, Campbell, Maddox, and Wells, the "FF" has proved once again that the intramural program is for all.

Holding fourth place on the ladder is the Pi Kappa Alpha team. With only two matches left, the PiKA's are 4-3.

Rounding out the rest of the league are the KA's (4-2), the Ban dits (2-3), the Theta Chi's and Pounders (2-4), the Oxen, the PiKapps and the Snakes, all 1-4.

Win Over Newberry Gives PC Surprising 5-5 Record

By BILL BASSHAM
Blue Stocking Sports Writer

Coach Cally Gault's surprising Blue Hose defeated Newberry 35-6 in the Bronze Derby Classic on Thanksgiving Day to even the season's mark at 5-5. A crowd of almost 4,000 saw the Hose romp over the visitors.

Sam Williams started the scoring in the first period on a three-yard drive. Jimmy Cape kicked his first of five conversions for the afternoon. The big play in the drive was a 30-yard pass from quarterback Leighton Grantham to freshman end Richard Reed.

An interception early in the second quarter by halfback Jim Johnson set up PC's second score. Johnson carried it on a seven-yard run. PC followed with another second quarter score with Don McNeil carrying it in from the two. At the half PC led 21-0.

A fired-up Newberry held PC at bay in the third quarter, but early in the fourth quarter a screen pass to end James Smith from Jackie Nix covering 5 yards with a key block from Allen Harris resulted in a score. A few minutes later Don McNeil capped the scoring for the afternoon by making his second touchdown of the day on a thirty-yard run.

Newberry finally scored with sixteen seconds left in the game. Halfback Jim Swykert gathered in a Kirkland pass for the score. A try for a two-point conversion was no good.

Many of the PC fans were worried late in the second quarter when quarterback Leighton Grantham re-injured his knee. Grantham set a school season passing record in the game. Senior quarterback Jackie Nix from Bainbridge, Ga., who has seen most of his action this year as a defensive back, completed his career with his finest game. Nix carried the team throughout the second half—passing for one touchdown and making several key runs.

The GREEKS

by ALEX PATRICK

Christmas Dance Weekend reigns in the minds of frat men as Clinton's Wall Street brokers set in a supply for this unusually high demand market.

Many fraternity parties are being planned for Christmas Dance Weekend. The Theta Chi's have Dr. Feelgood and the Interns Friday night at the Legion Hut. Another band will play for them Saturday night at the Legion Hut. The Sigma Nu's and PiKA's have The Vibrations for Saturday night in a joint party at the Mary Musgrove Hotel. Friday night the PiKA's will be at the Greenwood American Legion Club with the Dynamics. Both parties are closed.

Saturday afternoon of the weekend the Alpha Sigs will distribute food baskets to families in the Clinton area as their annual service project. Friday night they will have a record party in their fraternity suite. The Nomads will play Saturday night at the Laurens Shrine Club. Both parties are open by invitation only.

The Pi Kappa Phi's will hold both of their parties in their fraternity suite, and these will be closed.

Pi Kappa Phi recently elected officers for next semester. Dwight Moseley was elected president; Bob Hodgkin, secretary; John Askew, treasurer; Pete Collins, chaplain; and Neil McKay, warden.

This year's Theta Chi sweetheart is Miss Nancy Neal of Fort Mill. Miss Sandra Norris of Clinton was also elected fraternity sponsor. Both girls attend Winthrop. The PiKA's pledged Jim Wagers.

Charlie Copley, a KA Brother, is engaged to Miss Joyce Johnson of U. S. C.

Brothers of the week for Pi Kappa Alpha are Ronnie Morris, Ben Pickens, and Leighton Grantham. Steve Knoche is the Alpha Sigma Phi brother of the week.

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS

Adair's Men's Shop

— Court Square —

BROADWAY Theatre

DECEMBER 3-8
SEND ME NO FLOWERS
Rock Hudson, Doris Day, Tony Randall

SATURDAY AFTERNOON DECEMBER 5 ONLY
YOU'RE NEVER TOO YOUNG
Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis

STARTS WED., DEC. 9
BRIDGE ON THE RIVER KWAI

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square — Laurens

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street — Clinton, S. C.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
On the Square, Clinton

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

campus news briefs

Chapel Schedule

Mr. Thomas A. Stallworth has announced chapel services and convocations for Dec. 7-11.

A student body meeting under the direction of the student council is scheduled for Monday. The faculty is requested not to attend.

Wednesday's formal worship service will be conducted by Rev. Neil Leach, First Presbyterian Church, York.

Chapel will not be held Friday.

Holiday House

PC's President's home will celebrate a "Holiday House" in conjunction with the Clinton Garden Clubs Friday, Dec. 4, from 2 until 9 p. m.

Featured in the afternoon at 3:00 will be a chorus from the Junior High School Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Gilfillan. An ensemble from Hampton Avenue School, directed by Mrs. Grace Conner, will perform at 7:30 p. m.

Rooms to be decorated in President Marc C. Weersing's newly remodeled mansion include the entrance, drawing room, reception room, family room, dining room, foyer and a first floor bedroom and bath.

In addition to exterior decorations will be a holiday tree adorned with ornaments collected by Mrs. Grace Conner on her world tour.

Science Building

(Continued from page 1)

The gymnasium occupied the space now used as a physics lab, with showers in the arms room, and the library was housed on the entire first floor and part of the basement.

One of the additions in the new building will be an elevator, which replaces the remains of Jacobs' dumb waiter. The story is that the dumb waiter was sealed off when it failed to support a student who was illegally hitching a ride.

For more scholarly and devoted students who will attend all their summer classes in the air-conditioned building, a special treat may be in the making: the 200 seat lecture room could be used for a summer session chapel.

In general, there is great excitement among the professors who will benefit from the building. Dr. Stump noted, "I've been waiting for this since they first began talking about it 15 years ago. I'm still in the shock of disbelief."

Jokingly, he continued, "Once they complete it, I'm afraid it will sink into the spring before I can get into it. My fingers are still crossed."

Mission Confab

The eighth Quadrennial Convention on the World Mission of the Church is scheduled for Dec. 27-31 in Richmond, Virginia.

Said PC Professor of Christian Education R. E. Fakkema: "Only once during the student career of every Presbyterian is there provided the opportunity to attend a church-wide student conference. There will not be another one for four years."

"Two thousand students are expected from the Presbyterian Church, U. S., of which 100 will be foreign. I urge Presbyterian students on the PC campus to consider this opportunity and to act now. South Carolina has a quota of 125 students."

Details may be obtained from Dave Dunlap, Spencer 212, or Mr. Fakkema, Douglas 209.

Navy Recruitment

An opportunity to qualify for commission as an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve is available to male students attending Presbyterian College.

A ROC receives his commission upon successful completion of two eight week summer training periods and his baccalaureate degree. Full pay and allowances are provided during the summer camp tenures.

The usual commission is officer of the line; however, selections are also made for staff officers in the Engineering and Supply Corps.

Interested students may contact Dr. Maddox, Neville 102.

Belk's

In the Men's Dept.:

Sport Shirts $3.99
Blazers $24.99
Slacks $10.99

Shop now for Xmas At Belk's

HAVE A BALL AT CHRISTMAS

Have a whirling good holiday!

Vernon's

HOME OF PLEASANT EATING

GREENWOOD HIGHWAY — 833-2300

The CHRONICLE

• Publishers
• Printers
• Stationers

109 GARY ST.
PHONE 833-0541

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, December 11, 1964 — No. 10

Delegates Defeat Bill, Lovett Loses In Race

Defeat of Winthrop College's proposal to sell the Santee-Cooper Power Project to private companies and Henry Lovett's unsuccessful bid for lieutenant governor were the results of the PC delegates' instrumental role in the 1964 S. C. Student Legislature Dec. 3-5.

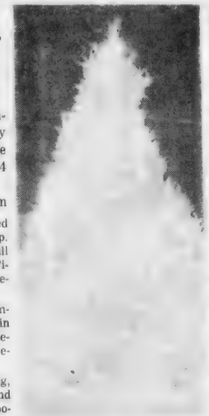
Lovett was defeated 80-44 by Furman candidate John Estredge.

The PC Junior Student Council member was backed by a coalition composed of Clemson, Wofford and his own delegation. Ten unknown votes were also secured.

Lovett was nominated by Bruce White of Wofford in the coalition that found PC nominating successful Clemson candidates for president pro tempore of the Senate and house speaker.

PC also supported a winning Wofford candidate for speaker pro tempore of the House.

Delegation members acclaimed Lovett's campaign as significant for a small delegation of five votes in opposition to schools such as the University of South Carolina with 34 votes.



A bill proposing the sale of the state-owned Santee-Cooper Power Project to private interests, Carolina Light and Power and Duke Power companies received an early objection from PC Rep. James Settle although the bill had favorable support of the Finance Committee's majority report.

The minority report was compiled by Lovett, a PC senator, in conjunction with a USC representative who submitted the report to the house.

After the bill's second reading, Rep. Settle gained the floor and pointed out the minorities' opposition to the bill.

Winthrop moved to counter Settle by attempting to call to the House floor the Senator who co-authored the bill. Settle's objection to this action was sustained. After a short debate the bill was overwhelmingly defeated.

Besides Lovett and Settle, other members of the PC delegation were Bill Bucheit, Bob Herlong and David Davies.

TREE—The town Christmas tree, erected this week near the square in downtown Clinton, exemplifies the Christmas feeling students are beginning to experience.

ROAD CLOSED—as construction continues.

Clinton Hall, New Women's Dorm, Will Provide Luxury

By MERRIE STANCILL
Blue Stocking Assistant Editor

Clinton Hall, the women's dormitory now under construction on PC's newly formed east plaza, will have a great deal to offer both returning and prospective PC coeds.

Designed to house 122 women in two-room suites, the dorm is more than functional in nature. On the first floor after entering through the outer lobby, coeds will find a large reception room and kitchenette to the left, and to the right a number of dating parlors.

Confirming a campus rumor, President Marc Weersing stated that there would be wall-to-wall carpets in the rooms. The carpeting is largely a matter of economy, Dr. Weersing explained, for over an extended period the reduced maintenance more than balances the higher initial cost.

Contrary to rumor, there will not be a telephone in each room, although there will be phones as well as refreshment centers and laundry facilities on each floor.

Allowing for the large amount of storage required by women in general, an entire fourth floor area will be allocated for storage of trunks, off-season clothing, etc.

With infirmary facilities in the dormitory, coeds can expect to be taken care of in sickness and in health.

Other features will include lounges on each floor, a second

(Continued on page 4)

Fraternities To Celebrate Xmas Dance

Christmas Dance Weekend, a highlight of the PC social calendar, arrives officially tonight as all six fraternity chapters begin parties.

Fraternities have scheduled parties for both tonight and tomorrow evening.

Inter-Fraternity Council President Robert Elrod noted that IFC representatives have their usual optimism for the success of the pressure outlet. Elrod also said, "Perhaps it would be wise to remind students to be aware of any regulations stipulated by townspeople who are keeping dates."

Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Nu join forces tomorrow night for a closed party at the Hotel Mary Musgrove. The Vibrations will play for the dance. Both fraternities have on schedule open parties in their suites Friday night.

Alpha Sigma Phi travels to Lake Greenwood Saturday night for a party at the Laurens Shrine Club. Provided entertainment will be by The Nomads. The Alpha Sigs will be in their suite Friday night for a record party.

Kappa Alpha Order will have an open party in the suite tonight and another tomorrow night. Tonight the combo is Johnny and the Chatter Players, and tomorrow night The Sabers will hold forth for the KAs.

Brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Phi will have a closed record party in their suite tonight. A combo party with The Crescents is on tab for Saturday evening.

Theta Chi has scheduled closed parties both Friday and Saturday nights. Dr. Feelgood and the Interns will play tonight and The Twilighters Saturday.

Faculty Meets Self Study Goal

Plans Future Improvements

By SAM WATERS
Blue Stocking Assistant Editor

The Presbyterian College faculty and administrative staff has completed its detailed and comprehensive study of the college, its functions, organization and facilities after approximately 18 months of work on the project.

Such a study must be conducted every 10 years, usually on a voluntary basis, according to the rules of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The steering committee for the study, composed of Dean Joseph M. Gettys and professors John S. Glover, Lewis S. Hay, Neal B. Prater, and Neil G. Whitelaw, designed the study to free the school from an imbalance in any area.

Subcommittees were formed to view various phases of the college's actiivity.

Before undertaking study of the individual departments the department heads were presented with a proposed statement of purpose by the steering committee. This statement served as the guide by which departmental study was followed.

Many changes in policy have already occurred as a result of the study, and many more changes are outlined for the future. However, PC President Marc C. Weersing commented that none of the variations will have a radical effect on present situations.

The published result of the study states that the goal of the college is to build the faculty until it has at least 50 per cent with doctorates. These men will be distributed in various departments in a balanced manner, the publication states.

President Weersing acclaimed the study as "tremendously worthwhile," and commented further that any school which undertakes such an evaluation is bound to emerge a better institution.

A committee from the Southern association will make an evaluation of the school and suggest possible improvements in the spring of 1965.

Blue Key Solicits For J.F.K. Library

The local chapter of Blue Key Honor Fraternity will solicit contributions from PC students Monday and Tuesday for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library in Boston, Mass.

Blue Key President Sherrod Rhodes said members of the service fraternity will seek contributions Monday in the lobby of Douglas House, that night in the dining hall and at the PC-College of Charleston basketball game in LeRoy Springs Gymnasium.

Contributions will also be sought from members of the PC faculty and staff.

Rhodes noted that the Blue Key had set a goal of $100 for the college. "That averages out to 20 cents per student," said Rhodes, "and we don't think we'll have any trouble raising it."

PC is the only college in South Carolina that has not yet contributed to the Kennedy Library fund.

Coeds Make Decorations

PC coeds swung into the Christmas spirit this week as they prepared special decorations for Judd Dining Hall. Among those cooperating in the project are these four pictured here, from left, Bruce Hughes, Pat Kimmel, Kit Caldwell and Joan Vassey.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Walter Wells, Bob Allison
Business Manager — Al Pearce
Managing Editor — Bill Loeble
Assistant Editors — Merrie Stancill, Sam Waters

LBJ's Poverty War Could Be Blessing

What President Lyndon Johnson has described as the most important legislation to come before Congress during his first months as president, the so-called War on Poverty, has been the object of many blasts from the less liberal editorialists, columnists and other conservative critics of government.

These people have dubbed the legislation with its many individual parts as a "boondoggle," another "give-away program," and a further means of depriving the rights of individuals and destroying initiative.

However, the President's War on Poverty, if effectively designed, implemented and carried out, could well be one of the most beneficial acts to the United States the Congress has ever enacted.

Although this nation has largely a selective population because most of the people who settled here were generally of "good blood," the United States also faces a problem of quality in its labor. While 80 or 85 per cent of the population of this country are people who can take care of themselves, there are still 15 or 20 per cent who can be classified in a submarginal category.

This percentage of our population is unable to take care of itself for either environmental or inherited characteristics. Because this part of our nation's people inherited low intelligence or because it has had its ambition stifled by the fatalism which is comcomitant with dwelling in slums, the people who comprise this percentage do not fit in our industrialized and specialized society.

Those of us who are responsible, have ambition and support ourselves find it easy to say "Let the bums starve," these "bums" and their offspring could present a real and dangerous problem in the future of the United States.

These people in the submargin of society seem to lack any ability except that of propagation. And generally they are prolific, having a growth rate about twice that of the able and responsible portion of society. So it is easy to see that if this rate of growth continues (and it is likely that it will) it could well mean the deterioration of American society in the future.

At the present time practically nothing is done to prevent this quiet and growing crisis. The possibility of rationally discussing eugenics as a means of strengthening society was checked for at least another half century by Hitler's misuse and abuse of that method.

The War on Povetry, even as ambiguously as it was outlined and discussed by the President, is at least more rational and more intelligent than the unwise welfare payments the government has used for so many years.

The new approach seems to be to educate the responsible segment of society to the needs of this submarginal group, to employ a domestic Peace Corps and other persons to work in pockets of poverty and lift the people there out of their apathy and atrophy, and to utilize economic stimulation of these areas to arouse the people to their needs.

If these methods work, and if Americans begin to feel a stronger sense of responsibility, either to help thmselves or to assist other Americans, the President's War on Poverty could well be one of the greatest boons to this nation in many decades.

—Wells

John Kennedy Memorial Library Mustering World-wide Support

Since the death of President John F. Kennedy last year, organizations throughout the United States and in many foreign countries have erected monuments in his memory.

One of the most grandiose and beneficial expressions to perpetuate our memory of the late President will be the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library, to be erected in Boston, Mass., at a site donated by Harvard University along the Charles River.

This library will be similar to the four other Presidential Libraries in the U. S. These institutions are museums as well as libraries.

A constitutional provision grants the President, as his own private property, his papers when he leaves the White House. These documents and other items of public interest are featured in the Presidential Libraries.

The Federal Government receives as a gift not only the priceless collection of papers and books belonging to the Presidents, but the land, the building and the equipment necessary to properly house, protect, and service them.

The Kenedy Library will cost an estimated $10 million dollars. It will seek to express in architecture the spirit and style of the late President.

In addition to the memorial room, the Library will consist of these working components: a Museum; an Archive; and an Institute.

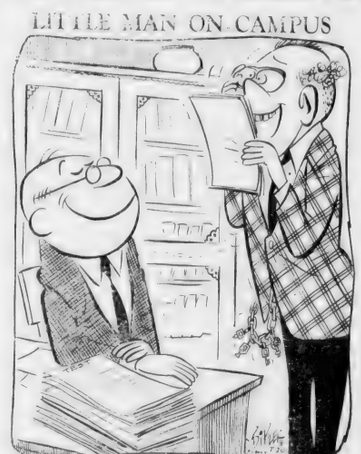
The Museum will display memorabilia of President Kennedy — photographs, panoramas, scientific objects, and artifacts of all sorts to convey the issues, the achievements and the atmosphere of the Kennedy years.

It will employ the modern resources of electronics and designs to engage the spectator in active participation and to give the exhibits a living impact.

The goal of the Museum will be to make the experience of recent history as direct and intense as possible for the visitor, and especially for students and young people.

The Archives will house the personal papers of President Kennedy, as well as copies of the public records necessary to an understanding of the issues and actions of his administration, and transcripts of interviews with his colleagues and contemporaries.

In addition, there will be a collection of books, magazines, newspapers and printed documents bearing upon President Kennedy and his times.



It will contain study rooms and the most advanced equipment for a continuing oral history project, for documentary reproduction for the use of micro-film and for the full exploitation of audio-visual materials.

The Institute will seek to further one of President Kennedy's deepest concerns — the continuing attempt to bring together the world of ideas and the world of affairs, the world of scholarship and the world of decision, as, for example those worlds existed together in the early days of the American Republic.

No purpose more consistently animated his life, and no cause could better serve his memory.

Its object will be to enlist young Americans and young people evrywhere in the understanding and practice of democratic political life and public political life and public service. It will be a living institution, responsive to the needs of the times, and its resources and programs will therefore not be rigidly committed in advance, but it can be assumed that it will strive to bring intellectual and public affairs closer together in a diversity of ways.

The structure when completed will thus not only memorialize the 35th President but will also express his vivid concern for the unfinished business of his country and the world.

The Birthplace Of A King

Get the picture? A dirty barn where a frightened young woman, married far less than nine months ago, gives birth to a strange child.

Forget all of the nice miniature scenes you've seen, dear lady—turpuoise horses actually smiling at a marble doll in a mahogany manger filled with silk swaddling clothes, and alabaster sheep who can't even give their disconcerting ba's, much less fill the ivory hall with their stench, as oft they are want to do.

No! Forget your fabrications!

I know a lady of opulence who, for many years at the Christmas season, has commissioned at the lower end of her estate the construction of an "authentic" manger scene —with real hay, real cows, real horses, and a china baby Jesus soaked in pale electric light from a blue plastic star.

Each year people from neighboring shanties journey to the high fence to peer in at the ethereal scene. Once as a child, I too made the pilgrimage; but wantonly unhappy with the views from a distance, I slipped through the railings and rushed across the field to view the animals face to face. In my pursuit of the heavenly light, I fortuitously slipped upon a dung heap; and the ringing in my head still sings "it came upon a midnight clear."

Get the picture? I've been grateful ever since.

There is a crying in a stable
On a cold winter night;
There is a crying at the bosom
Of the lonely world.
A small, red baby
Has now seen the light
As the bloody little boy
Of a scared young girl.
"JOY TO THE WORLD!"

—LOUIE CREW

Letter

Library Correcting High School Problem

Editors
The Blue Stocking
Gentlemen:

We regret greatly that conditions have hindered study in the Library. The following measures have been taken to quiet the High School students:

1. The City School Superintendent has been notified.
2. A separate table has been set up for the High School users of the periodical indexes.
3. Each adult member of the Library Staff has been instructed to keep a High School attendance record after 6 p. m., and has been provided with a special form for this purpose.
4. Plans have been made to seat all of the High School researchers in the Administration lobby after 6 p. m., in order to keep the reading room free for college use only.
5. A number of High School students have been reprimanded individually.
6. It is planned to send to the City Superintendent's office a copy of the names of all the High School students after 6 p. m. on the evening of Monday, December 7, when we had an unusually large crowd.

If these measures fail, we shall try something else.

MARIAN BURTS,
Librarian.

Speaking of Sports

'Tall Man' Returns To Citadel As Coach, Not Player

By AL PEARCE

Back in the late 1950's a tall man from Indiana went to The Citadel to play basketball for the Charleston military school. In the four years he was there he made quite a name for himself as a basketball player, playing well enough to be named to the All-Southern Conference team for three years. He made the All-State team for three years, and in his sophomore year of 1957 he was named the outstanding college basketball player in the state.

Tonight He Returns

Tonight that same Indiana man will return to The Citadel, but this time Art Musselman will be a coach, not a player, and he'll be hoping for a Citadel loss, not a Bulldog win. The Citadel Armory will be the scene of the homecoming, the same gym where Coach Musselman led the Bulldogs to so many wins, including several over PC.

10 Minutes of Horror

Last winter Musselman, in his freshman year as a college coach, took his young PC team to the Armory to face the Citadel. For almost 30 minutes it looked as if Musselman's scrapping Blue Hose would upset the heavily favored Citadel. With just over 10 minutes to play the Hose held a slim three-point lead.

But the final 10 minutes is a nightmare Musselman hopes to forget. In that stretch of 10 minutes the Bulldogs got hot, the Hose physcially gave out, and The Citadel had a 26-point win. There was not that much difference in the two clubs, but Musselman isn't interested in differences. He's interested in wins.

About Those Chances . . .

The young PC coach is very realistic, yet optimistic, about the chances of his team tonight. "The Citadel is the biggest team we've faced all year. They're tall, rugged and very aggressive on the boards," Musselman notes. "I saw them play over at Clemson Monday night and they are physically much bigger than we. But they seem to be slower than they were last year, and their speed hurt us down there last winter."

Understatement of Season

To say that The Citadel has a big basketball team may be the understatement of the current season. They'll probably start five lettermen, all juniors, but all big and tough. Jim McCurdy stands 6-5 and weighs 220; Wig Baumann is 6-2, 185; Clem Hartley stands 6-3 and weighs 185. From there it goes on to Dave Muller, at 6-6, 200, and Dick Martini at 6-6, 215. Their reserves are almost as big.

Their Toughness Is Proved

The Citadel currently has a 2-1 record, with two of their games being played away from Charleston. They proved how tough they were when they opened at Morganton, W. Va., and defeated the highly rated Mountaineers of West Virginia. That, in itself, would make a season successful for some coaches, but the Bulldogs followed it up with a win over Arkansas State University. Their single loss came at Clemson against the Tigers, who completely outplayed the visitors.

Seventh on the Road

The game at Charleston will be the seventh consecutive road game for the Hose. Some relief from the travels will come Monday night when the College of Charleston Maroons will come to LeRoy Springs Gym to open the home schedule for PC. And if last year's games are any indication of what might happen Monday night then it should be quite an evening.

Extra-Curricular Activities

Last year the Maroons came up to PC to open the home schedule for the 1963 season. That night PC won the game, but it was the "extra-curricular" activities that caused so much publicity. It is expected that similar "extra-curricular" activities will again be present Monday night. But the bell will probably be left at Charleston when the Maroons, followed by their students, come to Clinton.

Expected to Start

Expected to start for PC in The Citadel and College of Charleston games will be three freshmen, a junior, and a senior. The freshmen will be Ken Martin at a guard, Dave Turner at center, with Richard Quillen at forward. At the other guard will be junior letterman Gordon Adam, with senior captain Danny Charles at the remaining forward post.

Intramural Basketball To Begin Immediately Following Holidays

By GLEN BROWDER
Co-Sports Editor

Intramural basketball for the 1964-65 season will kick off what promises to be a heated dogfight as soon as Christmas holidays are over, with three games on tap the day classes begin again.

Chairman Don Warlick has announced that rosters for the winter court action must be turned in this Monday, in order that schedules may be posted before the IM cagers buck off for Yuletide cheer. If all things go according to plan, the 1964-65 campaign will get underway the Monday when students return for classes.

Warlick reports that the new slate calls for three games each night, with contests set for 7, 8, and 9 o'clock. This is the same schedule as last year. One irregular innovation is that on nights when the PC varsity plays at home, intramural games will be staged before the intercollegiate meetings.

About 15 teams are expected to enter the competition, with all the fraternities entering squads, and several returning independent outfits back with strong recruits. The same setup as last year is planned with two leagues offering the top teams for a playoff tournament.

Last season the Pikes captured the tourney trophy, with a close decision over the PiKaps in the finals.

Warlick indicated the Intercollegiate Intramural Basketball Tournament is scheduled for its third annual appearance, but the details have not been worked out definitely yet.

These roundball aces copped positions on last season's All-Star squad and are back for banner years this campaign: Leighton Grantham (PiKA), Jackie Nix (Pounders), Frank Markette (Sigma Nu), Don Blanchard (PiKA), Mike Donovan (PiKA), Bill Gillespie (Sigma Nu), Jim Johnson (PiKA), Grady Marshall (Alpha Sigma Phi), Larry Preston (Bandits), John Smith (Alpha Sigma Phi), Pat Sudduth (Pounders), Don Warlick (Alpha Sigma Phi), and Bernard West (Pounders).

The PiKAs appear to be in the pre-season favorites' role along with the Sigma Nu's, since both teams are returning with loaded lineups which showed their strength to the rest of the league last year. The PiKAs lost only Bill Tyson from that squad, and the Sigma Nu's have their entire quintet back.

Rickey-Rack Tourney Slated For Wednesday

What is thought to be a first among Southern colleges and universities will be held Wednesday night in the Bailey Hall Lounge when the First Annual Presbyterian College Invitational Rickey-Rack Tournament will be held. The public is cordially invited to attend the 7:30 affair.

The event, which is being sponsored by The Blue Stocking, is a result of the recent resurgence of rickey-rack on the PC campus. Reports from across the nation, and particularly in the South, show a similar trend of sudden popularity for the sport. The reports are from schools of all sizes and types.

Glenn Martin, popular local sports personality, will be master of ceremonies for the tournament. Martin will be assisted in the event by several judges, who will insure sportsmanship in each individual match. Ground rules will be clearly explained before the spectacle begins.

It is already expected that the winner will probably come from Bailey Hall, stronghold of PC rickey-rack popularity. The first local appearance of 1964 rickey-rack was seen in Bailey several weeks ago, and now the lounge is frequently filled with rickey-rack enthusiasts practicing their specialty.

Positive plans are made to present a small trophy to the over-all rickey-rack champ.

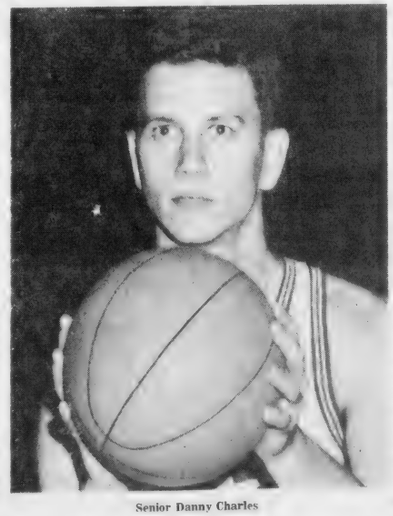
New Tennis Court Policy Announced

Gordon Warden, head tennis coach, and Don Warlick, supervisor of the tennis court maintenance crew, have announced a new policy concerning the use of the tennis courts during the winter months. The policy goes into effect immediately.

Because of the uncertainty of the weather during the winter the courts will be open for play only on those days when they are judged to be suitable for use.

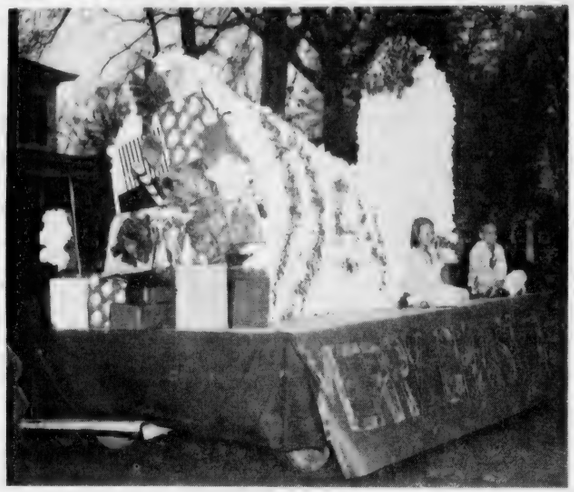
Coach Warden stated that the nightly freezes usually leave the courts wet in the morning and often too soft for use.

Each day the six courts will be checked by Warlick. If the surface is not too soft the nets will be strung on the open courts and will remain up all day. Any court acceptable will be opened.



PC Loses Three In Florida; Adam, Charles Outstanding

The recent basketball excursion into Florida resulted in three consecutive losses for Presbyterian College's Blue Hose, but some bright spots were seen by Coach Art Musselman. On the tour PC lost to Stetson, 88-64, to Florida Southern, 80-71, and to Rollins, 77-63.



One thing the young head coach was not disappointed with was the play of his three starting freshmen. The three, Dave Turner, Richard Quillen, and Ken Martin, began all three games on the tour and did well in all three. Turner scored 26 in the loss to Stetson, and was an outstanding rebounder in the other games.

Martin and Quillen did well in the Citrus Invitational Tournament, with Quillen being one of the leading PC scorers in the tournament. Martin pleased Musselman with his floor leadership, something rare in a freshman thown into an early season starting role.

Veterans Danny Charles and Gordon Adam made the first team All-Tournament team in the event at Lakeland. Charles scored 15 points in the opening night loss to Florida Southern University, followed with 17 the next night against Rollins. Adam tallied 17 in the first night and added 11 in the consolation game loss. Each got a personal trophy for his honor.

Senior Danny Charles

It's A Winner

The freshman class float, entered in the Clinton Christmas Parade, was given third prize by the panel of judges. The float was designed and decorated by the freshman class in compliance with another of those PC traditions. Riding on the float are Susan Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Campbell, and Corey Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cannon.—Photo by Yarborough.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Giving Hits $60,010 Breaks Prior Records

The Presbyterian College annual giving program now stands at $60,010 toward its 1964 goal of $80,000, President Marc C. Weersing announced today.

He said this amount has been subscribed by 1,077 contributors. PC alumni have given $36,181 through 764 gifts, and friends have added $23,829 on 313 contributions.

One month remains for this particular program which operates on a calendar year basis. Moving into the final weeks with one-fourth of the goal ahead, the totals stand well ahead of the 1963 pace at this time. A new record already is within sight to eclipse the high mark of $66,420 established last year.

Annual giving funds are used to help meet current operating expenses at Presbyterian College, to aid scholarships and faculty salaries. Of the $60,010 contributed so far this year, $21,692 has been designated for the Walter Johnson Club and $38,318 for other purposes.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Why Not Have Supper With Us Saturday?
Vernon's
HOME OF PLEASANT EATING
GREENWOOD HIGHWAY 833-2300

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Clinton Hall

(Continued from page 1)

floor sundeck and built-in desks, shelves and double closets for effective use of space.

All this will greet approximately 50 or 60 incoming freshman women in addition to returning coeds and transferring upperclassmen.

Working hand-in-hand with the resident matron or house mother will be a dorm council or similar form of student government. This is to be worked out in detail with Miss Marion Hill, Dean of Women, the present women students and other advisers.

As Dr. Weersing said, it is expected that the dormitory will work generally within a student government pattern as far as it is possible.

A greater number of women will necessitate a tightening of the rules which regulate PC coeds, Miss Hill said. But that will be minimal and will hinge almost entirely on the responsible acceptance of existing regulations.

The Campus Scene

Chapel Service

Mr. Thomas Stallworth, College Chplain, has announced that the midweek Chapel Worship Service will be conducted by Dr. T. Layton Fraser and President Marc C. Weersing.

Programs for the Monday and Friday convocations have not yet been announced, Mr. Stallworth said.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

BROADWAY Theatre
FRI.-SAT., DEC. 11-12
HERCULES IN THE HAUNTED HOUSE
Reg Park, Christopher Lee
STARTS MONDAY, DEC. 14
ELVIS PRESLEY in
ROUSTABOUT
Barbara Stanwyck, Joan Freeman, Leif Erickson.

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Why not try us?
You'll like our cards . . .
gifts . . . stationery . . .
and other supplies.
Drop in and browse . . .
The Chronicle
109 Gary Street

Belk's
Choose striped shirts this Yule in button-down or tab collar for 3.98. Also casual slacks of dacron and cotton for 5.98. Both by H. I. S.

The Varsity Shop
First Floor

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbytreian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, February 19, 1965 | No. 12

DR. JORGE LARA-BRAUD

Lara-Braud Says Christians, Church Shirking Duty in World Revolution

Dr. Jorge Lara-Braud closed Religious Emphasis Week here this morning with an address challenging Christians to serve God responsibly in a revolutionary world. He said that God will be impatient for man to spend no more time "dilly-dallying," that man cannot continue his present leisurely pace.

The eminent Mexican educator throughout REW has related the vitality of man and the Church to a changing 20th century. He pointed out the "tremendous opportunity" facing the new generation, but also cited the failures committed in the past, and the present trends toward apathy.

Dr. Lara-Braud asserts that Christian freedom is revolutionary. It gives the impetus for social, religious and humanitarian advancement.

"Don't we say we've done enough; religion is becoming the opiate of the people. It offers only an eschatoiogical hope for the oppressed of the world instead of a doctrinal approach relevant to these times."

"A Christian is being awfully petty when he does not prepare himself for the world community; but today, as in the time of Isaiah, we live in our own little glorious captivity. God has become angry with man's disobedience," he said. "We have not stopped the injustices which plague our society."

Dr. Lara-Braud further advanced his theme in suggesting that the responsible Christian person is not controlled by his jealousies and prejudices. The freedom one has is for the sake of his neighbor, no matter who he is or where he is. At this point is the limit of Christian Complementing Dr. Lara-Braud, a discussions group played a featured role in the religious emphasis week. Leaders presented several new ideas in answer to student inquiry.

The Reverend Robert Dobbins stressed that "in finding Christ we find ourselves." The extent of the mental and spiritual growth determines to what degree but if this growth is halted, our search for identity is suspended.

On the subject of America's "great society," Rev. Klein expounded the burning issue of Church relevance: "We are living a commitment made by past generations; unless we change our attitudes, the Church will fail to attain its vaunted position in the world."

Rev. Eichelberger stated that the Church will have to become more flexible to meet the needs of the college student. He said "the Church is going about it backwards—planning their program and hoping the student will fit in."

In a side comment, Rev. Hammet asked the students to discard the slogan "go to church," and challenged them to "be the church. The Church's failure to identify itself is our failure to identify ourselves."

Said SCA President Ike Cobb, "When we selected Dr. Lara-Braud, our decision was based on the increased impact he might have by coupling his exciting and vivid personal biography with his superlative ability as a minister to deliver a purging and moving sermon.

"Needless to say our expectations were not only answered but manifold in quality as well as quantity. The student participation, I believe, is a good indicator of our speaker's success.

"I would like to thank the many people who aided and participated in planning and arranging for the various facets of RE Week."

Council Joins SUSCA; Students Will Benefit

Student Council President Gary Mike Smith has announced that Presbyterian College is now a member of SUSGA, the Southern Universities Student Government Association. The proposal to join SUSGA was made by the Student Council and forwarded to the Administration and the Faculty Committee on Student Activities, who approved it on February 9, 1965, after an intense study.

SUSGA, which is comprised of schools from eight southeastern states, exists as a link of communication between the colleges and universities in the southeast, enabling the student leaders to exchange ideas and experiences in order to benefit in service and leadership.

One of the most important activities of SUSGA, with its Central Offices at Howard College, Birmingham, Alabama, is its Annual Conference, which serves as a common meeting point for student leaders from schools throughout the southeast. An annual Publications Workshop for yearbook, newspaper, and magazine personnel is also sponsored.

Other services included are an Entertainment Bureau, a sportsmanship clinic for cheerleaders, a Consultant Team to help reorganization of present student governments, and a SUSAGRAM, which is published periodically during the year as a newsletter and an aid to student leaders.

Alumni Set Sights On Another Record

A goal of $85,000 has been set for Presbyterian College's annual giving program, Alumni Association President J. Edward Graham of Charleston announced Tuesday.

The objective for this year compares to the $77,518 raised in 1964, the largest amount yet to be contributed to annual giving by PC alumni and friends. Funds given to this source are used primarily to help underwrite current operating expenses of the college and include designations for academic scholarships, salary increases, departmental improvements and the Walter Johnson Club.

Carter Again Named To National Science Panel

PC chemistry chairman Dr. K. Nolon Carter has been named for the second straight year on a special panel to help distribute funds for the National Science Foundation.

This year a total amount of $8,000,000 will be dispensed to worthy applicants. PC received a chemistry grant of $5,680 from this foundation when the program was inaugurated in 1962.

Dr. Carter, who served on the Panel last year when it met in Washington, D. C., is one of four representatives from South Carolina.

Thirty-two on Dean's List As First Semester Closes

Thirty-two students achieved the coveted Dean's List for the first semester by attaining a grade-point ratio of 3.2 or higher, announced registrar Roslyn Martin today.

Four of the thirty-two had all-A grades, with a perfect 4.0 average. They were James A. Bell, Thomas E. Hearon, James H. Johnson, and Miss Ann Kirkland. Hearon and Johnson are pre-med students; Miss Kirkland is a math major, and Bell is a physics major.

Four students had averages in the 3.75 to 3.99 range. They were David P. Berry, Jr., Philip W. Burns, Jr., Carlos J. Emanuel, and Miss Paula Evans.

Students in the 3:50 to 3.74 category were Gene Couch, Miss Melinda Gaines, Miss Nancy Harvey, Daniel L. McLemore, John Mebane, Miss Amelia Nichols, David B. Rousey, John L. Setzler, Henry M. Smith, Jr., and Miss Frances C. Tomlinson.

In the range of averages from 3.20 to 3.49 were Cecil Y. Brown, Joseph H. Coleman, William C. Gillespie, Joseph P. Goldsmith, Jack W. Greene, Miss Susana Jeanes, John C. Jones, Kenneth N. Lewis, and William D. Loeble.

Also Alexander M. Patrick, George A. Slavo, James M. Singleton, and Miss Sarah Stribling.

Later in this semester a banquet will be held to honor these students, as well as the Dean's List students of the second semester of the 1963-64 school year.

Enthusiasm Marks New Blue Stocking Staff

New staff members for The Blue Stocking's forty-fifth year of publication were announced today by Co-editors Merrie Stancill and Sam Waters.

The co-editors stated that they feel the men and women working under them on the paper constitute one of the most capable and enthusiastic staffs the Blue Stocking has had in several years.

Replacing Managing Editor Bill Loeble is Dave Veneklasen, a junior from Jacksonvile, Fla., who had served previously as reporter and news editor.

Serving as news editor is Joe Stevens replacing Veneklasen. Taking over sports from Al Pearce and Glen Browder are Grady Marshall and Bill Bassham. Heading the feature staff is Susan Gilbert stepping into the spot vacated by Gary Crawford. All four bring a great deal of experience to the newspaper.

Bassham has been associated with The Blue Stocking before as assistant sports editor and reporter, while Marshall served as editor of his high school paper.

Miss Gilbert brings to the staff much needed experience in the area of creative writing.

These major editors are all backed by string staffs, capable of writing good articles and producing work efficiently.

Former Managing Editor Bill Loeble commented: "An excellent staff, well experienced in the various phases of campus reporting and publication characterizes The Blue Stocking under its new administration."

NEW BLUE SOCK EDITORS (L to R): David Veneklasen, Susan Gilbert, Larry Preston, Bill Bassham, and Joe Stevens.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Merrie Stancill, Sam Waters
Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
Managing Editor ..... Dave Veneklasen
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Sports Editors ..... Bill Bassham, Grady Marshall
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbrt
Activities Editor ..... Hugh Weldon
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Cartoonists ..... Tom Leland, John Weigel
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, Bryson Rousey, John Jones, Joan Vassey, Jimmy Rammage, Bo Boman, Brooks Styles, Sarah Stribling.

Here We Stand

STRAIGHTFORWARD AND PERTINENT news has been The Blue Stocking policy of past years. The high degree of success in this policy is a challenge which we will strive to maintain. No reason is foreseen by the present staff for changing the basic structure or attitude of The Blue Stocking.

RATHER THAN COMPETE in the fields of international and national news, in a strictly news sense, we feel that these should be used to point out or relate to some facet of campus life with specific regard to PC. This is not to say that the paper is to be merely a social column or schedule of events.

MORE APPROPRIATELY those items treated as straight news will be that made on the PC campus. This is of relevance to you and not to be gained from another source.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING we reserve the right of evaluation within the facts of an issue and without distortion of these facts. It is hoped that student aciton and interest can be drawn in this way in order to keep the paper a live organ of the student body.

YOUR LETTERS ARE YOUR VOICE. No letter will be refused publication because it states views other than those of the present editors or for its expressed ideological views.

WE, AS CO-EDITORS, REQUIRE that all letters submitted be signed, although, any request to withhold the name in publication will be honored.

THE RIGHT TO EDIT which we also reserve, will only be used in the interest of good taste or legality or in instance of limited space. This will not be used so that the original meaning is colored or distorted.

STUDENT LETHARGY, however, can defeat these aims. Balanced coverage and opinion being the goal, stagnation will occur only if you allow The Blue Stocking to be one view, one side and one voice. Impotence of your paper can be the only result of your apathy.

Free and Responsible

BEING FULLY IN AGREEMENT with the views of the United States Press Association, of which we are a member, we concur with the following: "The mere fact that this press is a student press does not release it from the historical and social responsibilities inherent in the publication of any newspaper.

These curtail the reporting of all information relevant to an informed community and the maintenance of an open forum for the expression of opinion.

The suppression of news or opinion for the expediences of any group is detrimental to the community as a whole. These premises must be especially underscored in an academic community, where the ultmiate and overriding goal is the unhindered pursuit of truth.

Any student newspaper which is subject to outside control is unable to fulfill its responsibilities to its community."

"The necesary correlative of freedom is responsibility . . ."

Cuba: Searching for Deliverance

Susan Gilbert, Feature Editor

Castro's Cuba, his present popularity, and the role of a church whose existence he permits were outlined yestrday as Dr. Lara-Braud drew from personal experience and close association with the church in Cuba.

A fact basic to the Cuban revolution and its success was that the middle and upper classes virtually disappeared—they were either exiled or their property was confiscated with the idea that there would be a redistribution of wealth on a more equitable basis. Of course, this was not a voluntary measure, but it did affect a large tnumber of people—perhaps one-third to one-half of Cuban society. At the time of the revolution's victory, Cuba had one of the highest per capita incomes in Latin America. This meant that there was a sizable middle class and a large number of wealthy people in the society. But one-half the population suffered not only sustained poverty but also chronic ills of the Latin Amrican masses, such as sub-standard housing, unemployment for a good part of the year, disease, illiteracy, and a sense of being the victims of an unjust system.

At the time of the revolution, the masses were the direct beneficiaries of the new system. Land holdings were taken over by the government and broken up for distribution among the peasants —for collective farming, however. Those in rented quarters were given the houses or apartments for which they had formerly paid rent. There was a massive educational drive so that families were encouraged to send their children to the city at government expense, and the

(Continued on page 4)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WHILE THE REST OF THE BOYS ARE OFF FOR A WILD WEEK-END, WORTHAL ALWAYS BARRICADES HIMSELF ON THE THIRD FLOOR IN ORDER TO DEVOTE ALL HIS TIME TO HIS MUSIC."

Letter To The Editor

Editors
The Blue Stocking
Dear Sirs:

At the risk of forfeiting my master's rank of private in the ROTC Battalion of P College, I should like to take issue with the decision of the most venerable Military—namely about the fact that they assert that I have rust on my butt.

As you may have discerned by now I am a trusty M-1 Rifle affectionately called by my master Good Old Number 6¾. Only last Thursday at the Plaza Parade, my merits were highly acclaimed by brass-coated little Napoleons as being fully fit to pass inspection..

Naturally, I was as pleased as a calibre .38, Gas-operated, clip-fed, semi-automatic p o p g u n could be that I had received such an honor. As a reward, my master tucked me away in the sweet, damp, recesses of Jacob's Cellar to enjoy a full week-end of blissful slumber.

Consequently, I grew a small beard of rust which my master discovered as he gave me my weekly oil bath on Monday at 1500 hours. He saw no reason for alarm, however, for according to procedures that he'd followed during his many happy years in the military at P. C., he'd always been allotted a week to remedy this unforgivable sin.

But this week was different. It seems that one of the members of the military decided that my master and other college men have nothing better to do than clean us every day. Furthermore, it seems feasible that the donation of five demerits toward our failing M. S., can only be attributed to the fact that our military department has nothing better to occupy their time than dealing out these ludicrous reminders that we are not really a community of learning, but, in truth, a military post. My master is truly enraged and discouraged, for he feels that a warning is in order before such drastic measures are taken.

Rustily yours,
John Jones,
(alias Rifle No. 6¾)

The GREEKS

by Jimmy Humphries

The great rush riddle was well brought into view by IFC President Robert Elrod as he contrasted this year's rush season with former ones.

Said Elrod, "The IFC is ready to attempt a workable solution but our hands are tied. Shall we leave the constitution like it is, go back to the trials and tribulations of past years, or will we be allowed to eradicate all of these problems by lifting the grade regulations? It is on the latter that we take our stand."

We agree that the removal of grade regulations, as is done in other schools, would make a shorter and more profitable rush season. We think, however, that the present 2.0 grade requirement is a necessary prerequisite for brotherhood initiation.

The present IFC has made tremendous strides. They leave a challenge to their successors and to the administration for a soluble and interested answer

Plans for Military Ball Weekend, which falls March 19-20, are in view for all PC fraternities. Tomorrow the Sigma Nu's are having their annual Sadie Hawkins Party, a closed function, at their fraternity house from 3:00 p.m. until supper, and from 6:30 p.m. until midnight and thereafter.

The Pi Kappa Alpha's pledge dance is at the Legion Hut on Saturday night from 7:30 until—. This past Saturday night the Pi Kappa Phi's had a record party in their suite, and the Kappa Alpha's had their annual Wild West Party January 30.

The Theta Chi Pledges will give a Pirate Party for their brothers on February 27.

PC fraternity men who were recently engaged in outside activities, i. e. pinned, are Bill Megathlin to Miss Jane Jackson of Winthrop College, and Steve Knoche to Miss Linda Laird of Charleston, both Alpha Sigs; Dave Dunlap, a KA, to Miss Judy Woods of Queens College; Walt Todd to Miss Ann Wooten, and Cleve Jacobs to Miss Patti Thomson. Both girls are wearing PiKA pins. Howdy Letzring has pinned Miss Jacque Dortan, and Joe Stevens, Miss Patricia Ferguson. Both men are Sigma Nu's.

Alpha Sigma Phi has two brothers who have recently become engaged: Buddy Guy to Miss Cathy Congdon of Birmingham, and Don Warlick to Miss Salena McCarter of PC. Artie McCall, a SN, is finally engaged to Miss Lynn Clary of Greenville. The ASP's Donnie Hardee announced his marriage to the former Miss Patricia Jo McGirt of Laurinburg, N. C.

Lavaliered lately were Will Scott, an Alpha Sig, to Miss Donna Hurt of Charleston; Tim Yancey to Miss Lisa Harris of Converse, and Billy Akers to Miss Stephenie Smith of Converse. Both Akers and Yancey are KA's.

Following semester break the Alpha Sigs initiated Jeff Landen as their newest pledge.

PiKA brothers of the week are Cleve Jacobs, Leighton Grantham, Rut Galloway, Ronnie Morris, and Sandy Hagood. Brother of the week for the ASP's is Bill Humphries.

The PiKapp's have elected new officers for this coming year. Bob Hodgins is president; John Askew, treasurer; Pete Collins, secretary; Bob Eason, historian; Neal McKay, warden; and John Hemphill, chaplain.

Speaking of Sports

Freshmen Help Hose Prowess

Bill Bassham
Sports Editor

"A TEAM WITH ONLY FOUR UPPERCLASSMEN AND THREE STARTING FRESHMEN CANNOT POSSIBLY HAVE A GOOD SEASON. FRESHMEN CANNOT COMPETE AGAINST SEASONED VETERANS PLAYING A MAJOR SCHEDULE."

This was the opinion of many of the experts who viewed the Blue Hose squad at the beginning of the season. But as in football, Presbyterian has fooled the experts in basketball.

Have Come A Long Way

Contrary to thought the 9-14 record of the Hose is impressive considering the inexperience. The team has come a long way in the last few weeks. Many of the losses came early in the season when the Hose had to face a grueling road schedule.

Team Leaders?

Who has led the Blue Hose to their success this season? Those inexperienced freshmen have been the mainstays. With great leadership and determination from senior captain Danny Charles and scoring from junior Gordon Adam, the Blue Hose can give anyone a tough night.

Too Small?

Richard Quillen, a 6-1 forward from Kingsport, Tenn., who seems to have springs in his legs, is the leading rebounder and scorer of freshmen who play on varsity teams in the state. Richard has pulled down 171 rebounds, and though he started slowly, has been averaging 16 points a game in his last eight starts.

The Big Man

Dave Turner, the 6-5 center from Muncie, Ind., is the team's second leading rebounder with 170. Dave is the mainstay under the boards and is improving with every game. He proved how tough he is by scoring 37 points in leading the Hose to a decisive victory over Piedmont College. Says Coach Musselman of Dave, "We've played against some big experienced centers this season, but Dave hasn't been whipped."

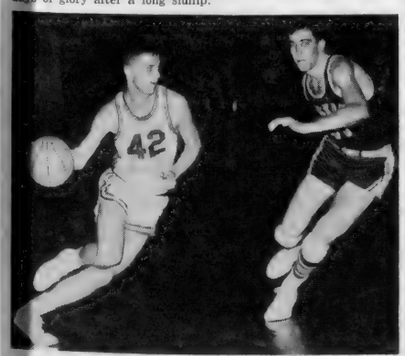
Defensive Ace

Ken Martin, a 6-1 guard from Wayland, Ky., is the third freshman starter. Ken is the team's playmaker and gets a number of surprising rebounds for a guard. In recent games his offensive scoring has improved, and he has been in double figures. Ken is averaging 8.0 a game.

Reliable Subs

Bob McGregor, a 6-4 forward from Muncie, Ind., has proved valuable as a substitute in recent games. He is a rugged rebounder whose scoring has been improving.

Richard Reed, a 6-4 freshman forward from Columbus, Ga., got a late start because of football. Reed's advantages are his heighth and quickness. His high point of the season came with a 13-point effort against Newberry.



Ray Priestino, a 6-2 guard from Richmond, Va., is a real hustler who gives 100% all the time. He has come a long way this season, going out for the varsity with no financial aid.

Returnees

Jimmy Bankhead and Doug Allen are the two upperclassmen rounding out the squad. Doug is a good rebounder and has improved steadily this season. "Head" has worked himself into the number six man on the team since football. Jimmy is the number six scorer on the team with a 7.5 average.

Promising Future

A strong team has to have good, experienced juniors and seniors, but those who saw the Erskine game Tuesday night can tell that there was an experienced team on the floor though the majority were freshmen. Maybe PC's basketball is returning to old days of glory after a long slump.

DRIVING PAST Bill Simpson in the Erskine game is PC's Danny Charles.

Blue Hose Head For The Hills, Hope To Snap Losing Streak

The battle-weary Presbyterian College basketball team left early today to invade Kentucky—one of the nation's hotbeds of collegiate cage contests.

The Hose, wondering what it takes to win a ball game, play Pikeville College of Pikeville, Ky., tomorrow night and Cumberland at Williamsburg, Ky., on Monday. These two games complete the 20-game schedule for Coach Art Musselman's boys this year.

After losing five conference games in less than two weeks by a total of 29 points, the Blues hope to snap their longest losing streak of the season. The squad hopes for a season-ending rally over the Kentucky schools. In the five recent losses PC dropped games to Newberry by two, to Erskine by five in overtime, to top ranked Wofford by five, to Erskine in a cliff-hanging double overtime by two, and again to Wofford's hot shooting Terriers by the only substantial margin, 15 points.

If the frustrated Hose hope to break the losing skein, they will need to overcome a couple of small college basketball powers of Kentucky's cage kingdom. Both schools are larger than Presbyterian, putting the PC cagers at their usual enrollment disadvantage.

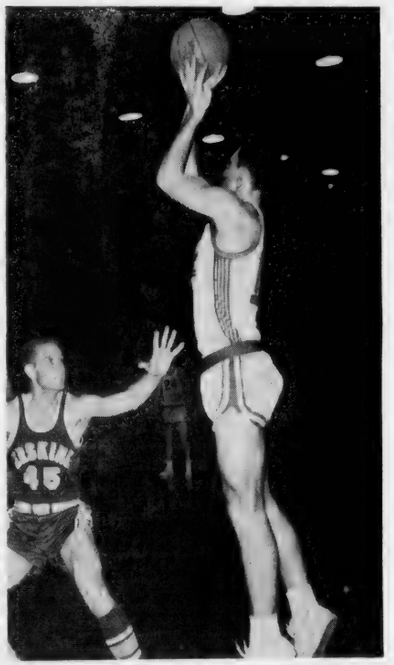
The Blues seek revenge over the Cumberland team, who defeated the Presbyterian squad by a substantial margin last year. The Kentucky "mountain men" have compiled an 8-4 record in their tough Kentucky Interathletic Conference, with s o m e games in the Ohio Valley Conference. Pikeville, the weaker of the teams, plays in the KIC and has games in the OVC with such teams as Witchita, Cincinnati, and Bradley.

The Blue Hose squad hopes to return from Kentucky two victories richer, which would end the cage season on a satisfying note while looking forward to the "song of basketball" for the 1966 setson.

Three Teams Remain Unbeaten In IM Play

Of the eighteen teams that started the intramural basketball competition only three remain undefeated: the Sigma Nu's (4-0), the Pounders (5-0), and the PiKA's (4-0). The Sigma Nu's seem reasonably safe in their league, as the only possible way for them to be dethroned before playoffs would be by Alpha Sigma Phi (4-1). If the Alpha Sigs won there, it would mean a tie for first. The Pounders and PiKA's must soon meet thus dropping one or the other from first place.

You can well see why the PiKA's and Pounders are among the leaders with each team having a share of the competition's leading scorers. Don Blanchard now leads the intramural points standings with a 20.5 average. The other scorers with more than a team point average are as follows: Jackie Nix (18.8), Jimmy Elliott (18.4), Joe Gettys (17.5), David Cottingham (16.8), Don McNeill (14.7), George Taylor (12.5), Dan O'Connell (11.4), and Bernard West (11.2).



Losing Streak Grows; Erskine Takes Victory

The Prsebyrian College Blue Hose lost their second game in a week in overtime to the Fleet of Erskine College. This time the Hose fell 86-84 in a double overtime. For PC this was a heartbreaking defeat as it ruined the chances of breaking even for the season.

Time and again Erskine fought from behind to tie it up. Gordon Adam, setting up his own shots against a tight defense, kept PC ahead when the points were needed. Adam got 32 for the evening followed by Charles with 16, quillen with 12, and Martin with 11.

Bobby Wilkes paced Erskine with 25 points followed by Bill Simpson with 19. At one stage of the g a m e Wilkes scored 10 straight to prevent PC from pulling away.

With PC leading 70-68, Don Whitehead hit a 10-foot jump shot to tie the game and sent it into the first overtime. PC got a quick four-point lead, and it looked like they had pulled the game out of the fire. But Bill Simpson hit both free throws on a one-and-one situation with eight seconds to tie it at 80 all and send the game into the second overtime. Again it looked like PC would hang on to win as they led 84-83, but Terry Adkins hit a lay up at the buzzer and sank a free throw to edge the Hose 86-84.

GOING UP FOR TWO is Richard Quillen, PC's leading rebounder. He is also the top scorer and leading rebounder of all South Carolina freshman playing on a varsity team.

Football For Fall 1965

A ten-game schedule for the 1965 Presbyterian College football team was released today by head football coach and athletic Director, Cally Gault.

The schedule includes four home games and five conference games, which will be acknowledged by the Carolinas Conference this year. Homecoming game with Furman University will be during the afternoon, a tradition which was started for the '64 season.

September 18—Davidson College, Davidson, N. C.—2:00 p. m.
September 25—Lenoir Rhyine College*, Hickory, N. C.—8:00 p. m.
October 2—Wofford College, Clinton—8:00 p. m.
October 9—Elon College (Youth Day)*, Clinton—2:00 p. m.
October 16—Furman University (Homecoming), Clinton—2:30 p. m.
October 23—Open
October 30—Troy State College (Parents Day), Clinton—8:00 p. m.
November 6—Appalachian State*, Boone, N. C.—8:0 p. m.
November 13—Frederick College, Portsmouth, Va.—8:00 p. m.
November 20—Western Carolina*, Cullowhee, N. C.—8:00 p. m.
Nov. 25—Newberry (Thanksgiving)*, Newberry, 2:00 p. m.

*Conference games

Campus News Briefs

PacSac Nominations Due

Bill Gaston, editor of the Pac Sac, announced today that nominations for editor and business manager must be turned into him by Wednesday, Feb. 24. The election will be held Monday, March 1.

Placement Schedule

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment:

Belk-Hudson manager development program, February 22.

American Lava Corporation, February 24.

Reigel Textile Corporation, February 25.

The Aetna Casualty & Surety Company, February 26.

Cooler Will Speak

Dr. Claude H. Cooler, Director of the Guidance Center and Head of the Psychology Department, will attend the Annual Guidance Conference at the University of South Carolina on February 23. The key speaker at the conference will be Dr. C. Gilbert Wrenn of Arizona State University. Dr. Wrenn's topic is "What Is Ahead for Guidance in the 1960's?"

Dr. Cooler will preside as chairman of the discussion group entitled "More for Your Money from the School Testing Program." Several PC students will attend this conference: Henry Stakely, Bill Megathlin, and Selena McCarter.

Just recently Dr. Cooler participated in the Annual Workshop Meeting of the Charleston County Education Association. He was acting as a consultant to discuss the high school guidance program with the school superintendents and secondary school principals.

ROTC Shake-up

The ROTC Chain of Command for the spring semester has been greatly changed over that of the fall semester. Two of the positions, however, remained unchanged, those of the Battalion Commander occupied by Archibald P. Hudgins and the Drum and Bugle Corps occupied by Paul S. Conger, Jr. All other positions were filled by the following students: XO, John E. Smith, III; S1, Arthur P. Baxter; S2, James W. Cape; S3, Wayne F. Hopper; S4, Frederick A. Boiter; Asst. S1, John R. Hemphill; Asst. S2, Philip W. Burns; Asst. S3, Lewis H. Hay, III; Asst. S4, Julian R. Alford, Jr.

Also Co. A, James C. Settle; Co. B, Allen C. Jacobs, Jr.; Co. C, Albert J. Pearce; Co. D, Dewitt P. Hodges; Co. E, John E. Settle. It should be noted that there were no intentional rank reductions concerning the Chain of Command. All changes in rank were part of the system of rotation used by the department.

Cadet. Col. Archibald Hudgins said that he was pleased with the progress our military department has been making. There have been several changes in the structure of the ROTC Battalion to increase the leadership opportunities for both the advanced and the basic military students.

Other changes made in structure were to prepare for the future years when the school will be growing and there will be a need for more units. All of the changes are indirectly aimed at producing a high caliber of reserve officers.

Chapel Schedule

The chapel schedule for the coming week is as follows:

Monday, Feb. 22—Film on Skin Diving.

Wednesday, Feb. 24 — Chapel Worship Service; The Rev. Samuel N. Thomas, First Presbyterian Church, Lancaster.

Friday, Feb. 26—Dr. Jack Roberts, First Scots Presbyterian Church, Charleston.

Cuba:

(Continued from pagee 2)

beginning of the revolution, and the illiteracy, which was perhaps as high as twenty per cent, was stamped out—in three years.

Something of interest here in the new society created by this Marxist revolution is the surprising puritannical factor: there is a staff tax on liquor and prostitution, for which the cities of the island were notoriously famous, has nearly disappeared.

Of course, Castro makes no attempt to hide the fact that he has a dictatorship, so he makes no apologies for the fact that, for example, there is no such thing as trial by jury, people are imprisoned on suspicion of counter-revolutionary activities, there is no freedom of press. One startling fact in his dictatorship is the relative toleration shown to the churches. Castro is aware that the Cuban people are a religious though not a churchy people. He confiscated Roman Catholic and Protestant schools, and in 1962 he expelled a large number of Spanish priests for supposed counter-revolutionary activities. Since then he has allowed the churches a large measure of freedom so long as they do not become politically involved. He has resumed relations with the Vatican, and now there is a papal nuncio who reminds both the government and the people that the Roman Catholic Church intends to live within the new regime.

Dr. Lara-Braud said that according to the latest information he has from his trustworthy Presbyterian ministers in Cuba, their churches and Protestanism in general feel keenly the challenge of Marxist ideology, but that in such a confrontation there has come about a new sense of reverence and vitality. Said Dr. Lara-Braud, "In these trying situations the church always gets rid of her smugness and indifference and rises to her true status as the people of God."

Peasants, many of them Afro-Cubans, consider Castro as a deliverer and have sworn their absolute loyalty to him. But they are not anti-American. Rather, they are against the ugly American — perhaps the insensitive tourists or the absentee landlord who "owned not only the land but their lives as well." Naturally, the Bay of Pigs invasion gave the large number of Castro's supporters an experience of greater unity against the common enemy. It will be a long time before they can forget this invasion attempt, which was masterminded by American intelligence and a number of Batista henchmen.

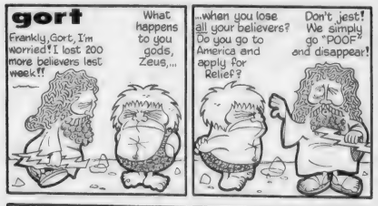
As to the significance of Castro and the Cuban revolution to the United States had to Latin America today, Lara-Braud had this to say, "This is the gravest danger . . . to democratic government because his appeal is so great, and this danger can be met only by very positive measures undertaken on behalf of those who in their desperate living conditions look to men like us for deliverance." As to what these measures might be, Dr.

RE WEEK DISCUSSION GROUP. Rev. Elchelberger meeti with the PiKA's in their suite Wednesday night.

Lara-Braud said, "There should be a serious attempt by the whole church, Catholic and Protestant, to appeal by word and deed to humanitarian motives so that the rich may rediscover a sense of social responsibility and the poor may realize that acquisition of material goods is not the only answer to the qu for true human life. This wo mean that Christians would ha to take far more seriously th they ever have the truly revo tionary implications of divi justice as preached and liv by our Lord. This is how it tes our wisdom and ingenuity."

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Yarborough Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processin



PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street — Clinton, S. C.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square — Laurens

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Why not try us?
You'll like our cards . . .
gifts . . . stationery . . .
and other supplies.
Drop in and browse . . .
The Chronicle
109 Gary Street

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, February 26, 1965 — No. 13

Gov. Russell Will Speak At 85th Commencement

Gov. Returning To Belk

Governor Donald S. Russell will deliver the commencement address at Presbyterian College's 85th graduating exercises on May 30, President Marc C. Weersing announced today.

Gov. Russell is scheduled to speak at 4:15 p. m. in Belk Auditorium as the feature of the full, one-day program. Graduating seniors will receive their degrees and various awards at that time.

Donald Russell, now at the mid-point of his four-year term as governor of South Carolina, has long been recognized as one of the state's outstanding public servants. He was assistant secretary of state for the United States from 1945 to 1947 and served as president of the University of South Carolina, 1952-57.

A native of Mississippi, Dr. Russell received both his BA and law degrees from the University of South Carolina.

Donald Russell went on to attend the University of Michigan and studied federal procedure and corporate law. He was a law partner of James F. Byrnes, and served as his assistant in various offices with the national government during World War II and immediately thereafter. Before becoming assistant secretary of state under Byrnes, he was assistant to the director of war mobilization and later deputy director of the office of War mobilization reconversion.

In announcing the forthcoming commencement speaker, Dr. Weersing pointed out that Governor Russell has addressed the Presbyterian College student body on numerous occasions over the past years. He said Dr. Russell has a special interest in the problems of higher education.

GOVERNOR RUSSELL

Election Will Decide Next SCA President

Student Christian Association President Ike Cobb announced today that Jimmy Bankhead of Chester, Dave Dunlap of Jacksonville, Fla., and Jim Stanford of Decatur, Ga., have been nominated for president of the SCA next year. Dunlap and Stanford gained experience last year on the Cabinet while Bankhead served as treasurer. All three will speak in chapel Monday.

President Cobb also said that Phil Olmert and Carroll Jones were nominated for vice-president. Running for secretary are Amelia Nichols and Dave Berry, while Max Milligan and Bob Herlong are in contention for treasurer.

The election will be held Wednesday, March 3, with the balloting to be held in the Douglas House under the supervision of the Student Council. The polls will be open from 9:00 A. M. until 2:00 P. M.

The three candidates for president gave the Blue Stocking statements concerning their proposed policies and platforms.

Said Jimmy Bankhead: "We are a growing college of young men and women. Our over-all goal is to gain a greater understanding of ourselves in relation to our world and those who live in it. To supplement this goal the SCA finds existence.

"Its purpose is to aid in the development of Christian character and the molding of well-rounded personalities which will enable us to command the love and respect of others. I will devote my time and efforts to the SCA and its ends."

Said Dave Dunlap: "For me, to be nominated for such a position is an honor which humbles me. Immediately the opportunities and the responsibilities rush to mind, but they are not alone; along with them comes the realization of my own limitations.

"I can only express a desire to serve, for this truly is a position of service, and an intent to do the best I can."

Said Jim Stanford: "The SCA, a campus - wide organization, should delve into every facet of life at PC by continuing the fine work done by Ike Cobb.

"I would like for the SCA to have speakers of high caliber, such as Dr. Lara-Braud, more often. Also there is a definite need on campus for discussions led by capable leaders who show interest in campus, cultural and worldly affairs. The SCA could and should meet this need."

Trustees Will Meet Mon. On PC Campus

The annual meeting of the PC Board of Trustees will commence next Monday on the campus. The Board is composed of ministers and laymen elected by the Synods of South Carolina and Georgia and three representatives elected by the Alumni.

On Monday evening the Board will convene in various committee meetings. The Board will meet as a body on Tuesday morning. The purpose of the full Board, presided over by Chairman Robert M. Vance, is to plan and direct the over-all operation of the college. This includes the approval of a budget for the coming year, the consideration and possible designation of men to receive Presbyterian College's honorary degrees, and a review of the development program as well as future plans for development.

The Board controls all the various financial budgets of the college, such as that of the dining hall. The ROTC program is also under Board supervision.

The Board will meet until 1:00 p. m. Tuesday and adjourn after lunch.

'BABY JUDD' is growing near completion on the East Plaza.

Spring Opening in Sight For New PC Dining Hall

When Presbyterian College completes its new dining hall in late spring, the name "Greenville Hall" will be etched upon the facade.

The building is to be designated in honor of Greenville County friends who already have subscribed $335,100 toward its total cost of $494,400.

Expansion of the dining facilities, like that of other areas of campus endeavor, is designed to improve the present and anticipate the future. Projected plans call for an eventual increase in student enrollment from the current 540 to 900, including 300 women.

The new dining facility will be air-conditioned throughout and will provide for a capacity more than double that of the present overcrowded dining hall. Cafeteria-style serving will enable some 1,500 persons to be accommodated during the interval of each meal. The actual seating capacity will be 450 in the main dining area, with two private rooms of 25 each capable of being enlarged to single private room to seat 50. Almost one-half of the dining hall will be given over to the kitchen area to assure ample space for the convenient preparation of food.

The exterior design is of colonial Georgian style to match the present campus architecture. A special feature of the dining hall will be the colonnade supporting a loggia which, in turn, enters into a foyer and then the main dining area. It is somewhat similar to the Belk Auditorium entrance, a design which combines unusual esthetic qualities with practical consideration for protection against inclement weather.

The 'Frank' Revolt

Judd Dining Hall was the scene of a protest staged by an organized group of students last Wednesday evening. The movement was in answer to what the group termed as "cold food and a colder attitude."

Locating themselves at the main entrance of the Dining Hall, the group drew a good deal of attention. Milling in the crowd were placard-carrying pickets who distributed free hot dogs from a small stand erected by the group. The posters carried such slogans as, "Eating less and enjoying it more? Switch to food!" and "Last chance for good food."

The leader of the group stated their cause: "Our purpose is to point out to the administration the students' concern over the lack of preparation of the food served in Judd Dining Hall lately. We hope that this growing interest will stimulate a new awakening in the administration concerning improvement in this area."

Another member further clarified their position. "Contrary to popular belief our protest was not aimed at any one person. We feel that the responsibility for improvement rests on the administration.

"We fully realize that the dining hall staff is handicapped by a lack of proper equipment."

Within ten minutes all of the one hundred and eight hot dogs had been passed out. A few bystanders offered comments. One student said of the protest, "Wierd . . . we didn't have anything like this last year. That's for sure!" Another observer stated, "This is a pretty good idea. Tremendous . . . tastes better than what is inside."

Student Poll

In Sickness and In Health?

The Blue Stocking recently conducted a student poll to determine student attitudes concerning the infirmary—its facilities and service.

A total of one hundred thirty-three students participated in the poll. Of this number one hundred and seven had at one time or another made use of the infirmary. Four students indicated that the present infirmary plant and service is excellent, seven rated it as good, thirty-seven checked "adequate," and the remaining eighty-five students agreed that the infirmary is unable to meet the needs of the campus.

In answer to the question on the "general attitude for the patient", seventy-eight indicated that there was no concern, while forty-three indicated that there is a true interest displayed for the patient.

One PC student felt that students are prone to misuse the infirmary for selfish reasons; ninety-four thought this as an occasional happening. Thirty-four concluded that the infirmary facilities were never used for selfish reasons.

When asked if they had been refused infirmary service, eighty students answered affirmatively, while twenty-six replied that they had not been refused treatment.

The chief conclusion from the poll is that the vast majority of the students are in one way or another dissatisfied with the infirmary under its present conditions, and would desire better facilities and service.

Round, Round We Go

IF ONE HEARS enough complaining one begins to question its source and reasoning. Such is the impetus behind this week's Blue Stocking Student Poll.

LIKE THE DINING HALL, the infirmary is so often maligned that it seems that no one would really care any more. The students would rather mouth profanities and bicker among themselves than seek effective routes for change.

MEANWHILE, THE ADMINISTRATION seems serenely unaware of the contentious state of affairs.

IN MATTERS AS TRIVIAL as academic pursuit, such double lethargy is quite understandable. However, where a subject as vital as one's own health or the health of those in your charge, is concerned, it is unbelievable that nothing has been done.

THE FAULT NEVER LIES entirely with one person, group or institution. To be increasingly trite, ignorance is no excuse. The cyclical force of non-action to ignorance and back around again is a vicious one.

IT HAS PERPETUATED a situation that, viewed reasonably, is at once pathetic and ridiculous. The results of the poll clearly indicate that there is dissatisfaction, even though it has remained in ineffectual latency.

SO YOU WANT something done. Well, you've done something, whether knowingly or not. Now be ready to again do more than complain. If the chance is offered, it is the logical step.

ONCE IT IS SEEN in context with the poll results, the problem begins to take on some degree of clarity. No one wants to be ignored.

PEOPLE ARE BALKING, in this case, at being round pegs jammed into the square hole of scheduled sickness and little green cure-all pills.

BITTER COMMENTS were indicative. Resentment stems from what the students feel is, at its best, a lack of concern for themselves and their individual ailments. Bitter not being four letters in length, it is not altogether the appropriate adjective.

IT ALL HAS the antiseptic quality of a cold war, spinning round and round and winding up where it has begun. So call a truce. Nothing can be lost in talking it over, since, nothing is now being accomplished.

SITTING SERENELY in the midst of the present difficulties, Doyle complacently awaits the end. Little changed since, as Alumni Hall, it was the first building on campus, it is to this day indestructible and impenetrable, a martyred fortress of the past.

TO THE FUTURE . . .

— M. H. S.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors — Merrie Stancill, Sam Waters
Business Manager — Larry Preston
Managing Editor — Dave Veneklasen
Circulation Manager — Ellis Jenkins
News Editor — Joe Stevens
Sports Editors — Bill Bassham, Grady Marshall
Feature Editor — Susan Gilbrt
Activities Editor — Hugh Weldon
Movie Editor — Christie Patterson
Greek Editor — Jimmy Humphries
Copy Editor — Woody McGinn
Cartoonists — Tom Leland, John Weigel
Typists — Ray Summerlin, Bruce Hughes
Associate Editors — Gary Crawford, Al Pearce, Alex Patrick, Glen Browder
News Staff — Jim Bell, Bryson Rousey, John Jones, Joan Vassey, Jimmy Rammage, Bo Boman, Brooks Styles, Sarah Stribling, Woody Hall
Feature Staff — Walt Todd, Mac Singleton, Joey Singleton, Bryson Rousey.

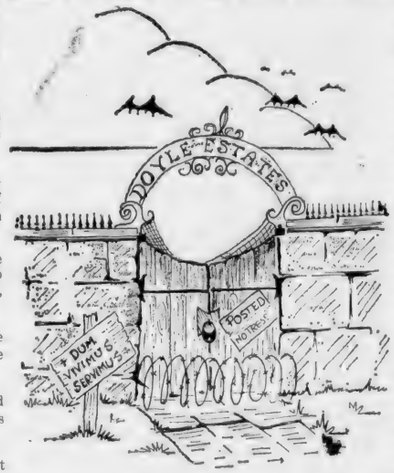
Have A Cup Of Tea With The Mad Hatte

Susan Gilbert, Blue Stocking Feature Editor

"No time, no time!" complained the White Rabbit and the college student in voice. The White Rabbit has no time because he has no watch. The student has time because he talks too much.

Webster defines time as the "measured or measurable period during which an action, process, or condition exists or continues."

To many students, the period extends from 1 p. m. until 1 a. m., which is generally consumed with the combined action-process of talking. The action involves much wagging of tongue and flapping of jaws, and the process is involved in any thought which might precede the action. Needless to say, there is generally more action than process involved.



Subjects of discourse range from a somewhat non-academic species of philosophy to the merits of a certain Conversiennes vital statistics.

In one five-minute interval (give or take a second), topics of utterance included hitting the high spots of the latest student and professorial gossip, mat a transient but definite decis concerning the acceptability an unsuspecting fellow inma the expounding of the merits writing in short sentences, riding the mercurial condit of another comrade's disposit praising the assets of a cert young lady's gluteus maxim and advising about the b method of finessing the a quiz, whereupon a lengthy cussion ensued on the merits demerits of having quizzes in first place.

The true essence of college vocal communication is s when one becomes involved lengthy discussion. Consider discourse on quizzes. Hav lengthened into a heated deba the dissertation was abrup brought to a halt when o of the orators launched forth profound statement about latest top ten tunes.

Occasionally collegians depl their ready supply of topics might expound on their curr vernacular. This topic is inv haustible and the discussion comes livelier until someb who does have a watch loo at it, and since it is then 1 a. talking takes a back seat sleeping or study (depending whether or not it is quiz week

To make everybody happ this author suggests a wak for the Rabbit and a forty-eig hour day for students. Surely ter twenty-four hours, the would be enough sagging ja and lagging tongues for som thing along academic lines to accomplished.

Movie Review

"Baby" Scores High

Steve McQueen, Lee Remick, and Don Murray star in "Baby the Rain Must Fall", a powerful and engrossing drama involving three very human beings trapped by their own nature in a world too big for them.

"Baby the Rain Must Fall" is the title, not only of the film, but of the song McQueen presumably has written in the course of it, and which he sings as a guitar-strumming combo leader in a sleezy Texas roadhouse. It, and others like it, are what he dreams will bring him fame, if he can ever escape his small town past long enough to reach Hollywood, New York or Nashville. Until then, he will devote himself to his roadhouse life and to the problems created by his uncontrollable bursts of temper, his frustrations, and his anger. During the movie he is an ex-convict on parole.

Miss Remick, as his wife and mother of his young daughter, wants to believe in their life together, and to help McQueen realize his dream, but she is unable to understand her husband or the bitter childhood which turned him into a rebel. All she can do is continue loving him.

Don Murray plays a soft-spoken sheriff's deputy, McQueen's childhood friend, anxiously trying to keep the instractable singer pointed towards the future . . . while silently in love with the wife.

"Baby the Rain Must Fall" offers the audience not only a superb, meaningful drama but also performers to match.

Dave Veneklasen

VEE DEE

Future Rests On Education

Recently there appeared in THE STATE, Columbia, S. C., its issue of January 8, 1965, two statements that should concern all future citizens of South Carolina. "South Carolina has the lo est number of median school years completed among its ad population, almost two full years behind the national average. Th state needs to increase its high school enrollment in order to reac the U. S. norm. Meanwhile the acute shortage of qualified app cants will inhibit the growth of diversified industry."

This statement came out of a State Chamber of Commer meeting in which a representative of a leading industrial locati firm addressed a group of South Carolina and Chamber officia

South Carolina is near the bottom in many of its education efforts. Something must be done to raise the state education sta dards. In an attempt to solve the problem of the school dropou a compulsory school attendance bill was recently introduced in the state House of Representatives.

There was such an attendance law in effect ten years ago b it was not well enforced and was repealed in 1955.

The bill if enacted into law would require children betwee the ages of six and eighteen years to regularly attend public schoo The responsibility would rest on the parents to enroll their childre in school. Failure to do this would provide a penalty of not mor than fifty dollars or not more than thirty days imprisonment. Eac day's absence would be considered a separate offense. Childre would be exempted from the law on the grounds of ill health o if they were providing wages for the maintenance of their house hold.

The bill is by no means a "cure-all" for South Carolina's edu cational ills but it could be an initial step in bringing the standard up to par with those of the nation.

Since educated citizens are the backbone of the state it woul seem that a compulsory education law would have much to d with South Carolina's future.

If South Carolina is to follow prosperous roads in the future action must be taken in the present.

Speaking of Sports

Student Enthusiasm Needs A Boost

Grady Marshall, Sports Editor

Spring is coming soon and with it usually comes the feeling of freedom whether on or off campus; also usually accompanying spring are spring sports and an end to the intramural basketball season.

Intercollegiate Tournament Cancelled

With the above things justified the next logical deduction for fraternity independent basketballers is the intercollegiate intramural all-star tournament to which Presbyterian was host during 1964. There seems to be no chance to have the tourney this year mainly for two reasons: one, that other schools have not contacted us and two, that the student body of each individual institution did not support the tourney here last year, especially PC who was at the greatest advantage to support it.

There could be a remedy if the enthusiasm shown all through the regular intramural season would be carried over into the tournament. But since it isn't carried to this tournament, and there will not be one this season; there seems to be no real reason for having an all-star team chosen since there is nothing to go along with the honor of having names in print.

Radical School Spirit?

But now that we are talking of the spirit shown at ball games, let's look at our own collegiate games and the spirit shown there. If you observe the spectators along with the game, there can be three distinct types of spirit expressed.

The first to be noticed would be the type where people leave the stands during the game and shake their fists at the referee whether he has actually made a bad call or not. Second to be noticed are the appreciative ones who stay in the stands and cheer for the team as if they were actually playing the game instead of the basketball players. I would suggest that this is the type of spirit to be cultivated at all our sporting events. The last to be noticed is probably the most sly of the group. This type of spirit is opposite from the first type. These calmly sit and watch a sport from the stands and when things get too noisy, they ask people around them to be quieter or they just get up and leave. From the day you enter Presbyterian as a freshman, spirit for PC is cultivated.

Support Needed!

All sports at a college need support, but spring sports at PC need exceptional support. After losing many of our top athletes in spring sports, there are plenty of openings for those who will put out the effort. Spring sports not only need help on the teams, but help is also needed behind the teams.

No Practice Field!

There have even been rumors that the team may take batting practice on the plaza if no other place is available. Even as the situation is now the home games will not be played at home, but at the Clinton Mills Ball Park. To my latest knowledge the batting cage was in front of the maintenance sheds, I wonder if Coach Beaty will have his boys hitting the ball from there with our fielders hanging from the dorm windows and in the tree tops, and there's always the possibility of squirrels running off with the balls before the players get to them. On a serious note, something should be done soon to help solve the baseball practice field problem before the first game gets too close.

Blue Stocks Host Meet Five Schools Compete

Today at 1:30 P. M. on the Wofford Rifle Range, the Presbyterian College "Bluestocks" started firing as hosts of the invitational intercollegiate rifle match for schools of the Carolinas. Schools participating other than PC are league-leading Clemson, Wofford, Furman and Davidson.

During the 1964-65 season the "Bluestocks" have compiled a 7-7 over-all record, the best that has come to PC in years.

The members of the team have the highest over-all averages of many years. Of a possible 300 in score, Evan Pamplin leads with a 254, John Hemphill follows behind with 253, Jim Bell has 251, and Ken Rector and John Askew have a 245 and 243 respectively.

The match is being held at Wofford, though PC is host, because the Wofford range can handle more firers at a time than the four-place Presbyterian range. PC has a good chance to take a second place in the match providing Clemson, who usually fires 75 points over the others, holds true to form.

When asked how the team would come out Sgt. (Coach) Grigsby replied, "We have a better than average chance of taking second . . . if I was a gambling man, I'd bet on it."

School trophies and individual trophies will be given to the first and second place teams; also, a high over-all score trophy and a high standing position trophy.

The first place trophy is a rotating trophy, which has to be won three years in succession. If Clemson takes first place this year it can keep the trophy.

Glovemen Face 11 Game Schedule; Begin Drills Without Practice Field

Coach Billy Tiller released the baseball schedule for this spring today. The schedule shows only eleven games, five of which are at home. The home games for the '65 season will be played at the Clinton Mills Ball Park.

Nine players from the '64 squad will return leaving numerous positions without depth. The returnees pitching are Jimmy Cape, Rick Corley, and Leighton Grantham, if his knee is sufficiently healed. Catching will be Wade Stewart.

Don McNeil will be in the outfield, and Brownie Johnson, Scooter Holcombe, and Jackie Nix round out the infield. Returning after being out with a knee injury during the '64 season will be Jimmy Elliot.

The team's practice has started, yet it is going slowly because there is no practice field for infield and batting practice.

When asked why the season was so short, Coach Tiller gave this explanation, "The reason many schools have been dropped is because the '65 season will be the last one out of the Carolinas Conference, and there are twenty or more conference games to be played next year; this in addition to the fact that there is no place to practice now."

The Hose batters are hoping to better last year's 5-5 record. When asked who the team's captain might be Tiller said that the team usually chooses the captain on the last day of practice before the regular season starts.

Blanchard Paces Scoring

Don Blanchard, the star forward of the undefeated Pi Kappa Alpha quintet, continues to pace the leading scorers in the intramural basketball league. The tall junior from Easley is leading the league with a 20.2 points per game average, including the games of Thursday night.

Second to Blanchard, and a distant second at that, is Jackie Nix of the undefeated Pounders. Nix, a Bainbridge, Ga., senior, is averaging 18.7 points a game from his guard position for the Pounders. Joe Gettys, a Clinton sophomore, is holding down the third spot with an average of 17.2 points per game for his Kappa Alpha team.

The race for scoring supremacy tightens considerably when the remaining positions are seen. In fourth position, .3 points behind Gettys, is Pounder Jimmy Elliot, a Savannah senior. Elliot is scoring at 16.9 points per game. Behind, in fifth place, is Frank Markette of the undefeated Sigma Nu team. Markette, a Rockledge, Fla., sophomore, is averaging 15.6 points per outing.

A freshman from Dillon, David Cottingham, is making a strong bid to take over the fifth spot from Markette. Cottingham, of the Pi Kappa Phi's, is averaging 15.3 points per game to claim the sixth ranking.

Court Notice

Coach Warden and Don Warlick have asked that no one play on the tennis courts except varsity players until a new surface has been put down. They have also asked that no one even ask to play because a refusal will be in order. A notice will be given when the courts are ready for student and faculty play.

HEAD COACH TILLER ponders the problem of how his team can practice batting and infield maneuvers.

Cagers Close Season

The 1964-65 basketball season is over with the Blue Hose compiling a 9-17 record. The Hose, playing against strong competition, faltered in the stretch losing seven in a row. It was one of those seasons when the gods seemed to be looking the other way. Coach Musselman can best describe the season:

"We lost to Newberry by two points, then to Erskine in overtime, Wofford best us by five and ten points and then we lost two games in Kentucky," said Musselman.

The Hose have just returned from a trip to Kentucky where they dropped games to Pikeville 86-75 and Cumberland 67-53. PC was paced in the Pikeville game by Richard Reed and Gordon Adam with 14 points apiece. In the Cumberland game Gordon Adam with twelve and Richard Quillen with ten were the only Hose in double figures.

"I'm not dissatisfied," said Musselman, "only a little disappointed. You can't get down on a group of kids." The Blue Hose started three freshmen this year and have five returning for next year. The only senior being lost is Danny Charles. Danny did a fine job this year leading the team both on and off the court.

The Hose will have four starters returning along with five other boys next year.

When asked about the problems of this year's Hose Musselman added, "we lacked in height this year and needed the big man. We were in many of the games but the opponent would wear us down at the end with their height."

"It's hard to win when you play on the road all the time," said Musselman. "The boys got mentally tired as well as physically."

Musselman seemed a bit brighter when he was asked about the future.

"We need about two years," Musselman said. "Next year should be a much more respectable season for us, though. If everyone keeps working like they have, we should have a fine team."

"I was pleased with the season to a certain extent. The freshmen did a fine job for us, and we're looking forward to next season. We're hoping for a good year."

Thank You, Students

This year, from a won-lost standpoint, doesn't appear to have been successful. I feel to the contrary. We worked hard and the team learned a great deal that will benefit us in the future. For those who were loyal and supported us, I thank you very much. It meant a great deal to us to come on the floor and receive the applause and vocal enthusiasm that the students gave us.

Some of the games played in LeRoy Gymnasium were as exciting as any games you could have seen anywhere. I honestly feel that for the most part all the boys gave 100 per cent the whole time they were on the floor. I know they did in practice. We are definitely building a program of which you as students and future alumni can be proud.

My personal thanks go to Gary "Mike" Smith and Robert Elrod for their goal-exceeding efforts in raising money for warmups for the basketball team. I realize there were some sacrifices involved by different groups and individuals, and it was greatly appreciated.

The prospects for next year are very good. Our schedule will be ten home games and ten away games. The 1964-65 season was eighteen away games and eight home games. Some of the teams we have added to our schedule are: Augusta College, Lenoir Rhyne, Catawba, Elon, and Guilford. We will play Ball State in Muncie, Indiana, and will not play them at home. As you can tell from the teams, there will be a lot of good basketball played next year.

Again, thank you for your support.

Sincerely,
—COACH MUSSELMAN

LUCKY STUDENTS who got their dogs before the food supply ran out grin as they enter Judd with a full stomach.

The GREEKS

JIMMY HUMPHRIES
GREEK EDITOR

In speaking with Mr. Ed Campbell concerning future plans for fraternity houses on the PC campus, he stated that the Board of Trustees considered fraternity houses one of the needs of the college to serve a significant purpose for the school. Mr. Campbell thinks fraternities set a "tone" for PC in social matters of the campus.

While the Board of Trustees has expressed the awareness of the necessity of fraternity houses, they also have many projects that must be taken care of with a very small budget.

Their main concerns for the present and near future, says Mr. Campbell, are a pleasant dining hall and adequate dormitory space. Plans for renovating Neville Hall have been mentioned around the campus as being in the near future.

The Trustees have expressed determination in requiring no boarding space in the fraternity houses of the future. A date has not been expressly stated for a fraternity row or a fraternity circle, but architectural plans for the PC campus of the future show that a fraternity circle will be located approximately N-NW of Neville. Hall. Mr. Campbell commented that plans call for an area somewhat similar to that of Davidson College. Necessary arrangements are large rooms for social activities, a smaller chapter room, but no food preparation areas. Students of different fraternities tend to congregate in some areas already, and the Board of Trustees, the faculty and administration, and also the students themselves feel that it is not a necessary function of a fraternity to widen the gulf of student group association.

Funds are naturally an element holding up the building of a fraternity circle, but Mr. Campbell believes that perhaps fraternity alumni may be willing to aid in future plans, and that there may be a fraternity rental basis once the houses are built for the individual chapters.

"The fraternity suites in Neville Hall will be," says Mr. Campbell, "made more pleasant, and that the long-range plans for a PC fraternity circle will be adequately taken care of as quickly as possible."

Concerning present fraternity events, the Pi Kappa Alpha Pledge Dance took place last weekend. Sandy Lynn was the Pledge King. Billy Love was initiated into the PiKA brotherhood this past week; Reid Bolick and Les Newsome accepted PiKA bids as new pledges. Brother of the Week is Ronnie Morris, running for his second straight week.

The Theta Chi fraternity has its Pirate Party at Red Robin Retreat this weekend. The party is given for the brotherhood by the Theta Chi pledges. Recently lavaliered on campus was John Weigel to Miss Kit Caldwell, a PC coed.

Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity has made definite plans for Military Ball Weekend. They plan to have the Nomads as their band at the Laurens Country Club on Friday night, March 19. The ASP Brother of the Week is Bill Bramlett. Newly elected officers for this semester include: Pat Goldsmith, president; Jim Stanford, vice-president; Larry Platt, secretary; Sam Waters, treasurer; Woody Hall, corresponding secretary; and Jim Bruce, IFC representative.

The Kappa Alpha Order has made final plans and payments for their annual Old South Ball to be held in Augusta, Ga., on the weekend of March 12-14. In second semester rush, Doug Haynie pledged KA.

This semester's rush program is not yet finished for all PC fraternities.

The Sigma Nu's are presently constructing a new trophy cabinet in their house, headed by IFC President Robert Elrod. Recently pinned is Paul Conger to Miss Pat McConnigee of Agnes Scott College in Atlanta.

Campus News Briefs

Student Enrollment Drops by Thirty

A total of 510 students are attending Presbyterian College during the second semester of the 1964-65 season. Registrar Roslyn Martin announced that the current enrollment includes 467 men and 43 women. It compares to a first semester registration of 540, of whom 39 were women. In addition to the normal first semester attrition, 16 students completed work on their degrees at the close of this period. On the other hand, 30 registered as new students for the second semester.

The current semester will extend through final examinations next May 18, with the annual spring vacation scheduled for April 1-7. Commencement exercises on May 30 will close the school year.

Summer Camp Jobs Still Available

A number of summer church-related camp jobs are still available to students. Among these are Camp New Hope (Chapel Hill, N. C.), Camp Calvin (Atlanta, Ga.), and Montreat. Any students interested in exploring these possibilities are asked to see Mr. Fakkema in Room 209, Douglas House.

Choir Embarks Sunday

The Presbyterian College Robed Choir, under the direction of Dr. Edouard Patte, will travel to Greenville and Spartanburg Sunday, February 28, to lead worship services there.

The Choir will leave the campus at 8:30 Sunday morning for the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Greenville. The Choir, after having dinner in the homes of various members, will go to the Second Presbyterian Church in Spartanburg for an evening service. They will return to Clinton late Sunday night.

Academic Freedom

The question of academic freedom as it concerns both students and faculty, will be the subject of the South Carolina Student Council on Human Relations conference on March 6. The conference will be held at Rock Hill and includes Newberry, Lander, and Winthrop.

Anyone interested in joining in the task of promoting better understanding and improved conditions in our state is asked to contact Dr. Burnside.

SC Auto Licenses Expire

All South Carolina students are reminded to renew their driver's licenses. The present license expires June 30, 1965. After that date a driver must take the driver's test to renew his license. Forms may be obtained from the South Carolina Highway Department in Laurens.

Military Ball Plans Announced

Honoring graduating cadets Presbyterian's annual Military Ball will be held in Leroy Springs Gymnasium on March 19. The Wysor Rifles highlight the evening with their traditional presentation of cadets through the saber arch.

Earl Messengale and his orchestra will provide entertainment which is sponsored each year by the Scabbard and Blade National Military Honor Fraternity.

This year a new method of financing the ball will be used. Each military cadet's assessment of $5.00 is to be taken out of his uniform deposit.

Bill Gillespie, Commander of the Fraternity, issued an invitation to all PC students to attend the ball. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel programs for the week of March 1-6:

Monday: Nominees for SC president speak.

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service, Dr. Merle C. Patterson, Druid Hills Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Ga.

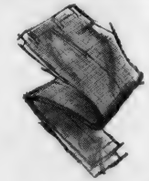
Friday: Devotional service Mr. Stallworth.

Two PC Students Conduct Economic Questionaire

Two Presbyterian College students, David Worth and Arthur Baxter are beginning this week to study the relationship of retail merchants in the town of Clinton to the college. As part of a research project in the business administrition, these students will interview both merchants and students to gain their information.

They will begin their work this week by starting to interview the local merchants. The interview will be only a one-page questionaire and should take no more than five minutes of the merchant's time.

The questionaire will be countered with a similar one directed at students and faculty.



By combining these two sources they hope to be able to determine with some accuracy, such facts as the percentage of Clinton's yearly income derived from the college, what products and services are most demanded and the major areas of student spending in town.

All information given by the merchants will be treated as confidental between merchant and interviewers. The results will be compiled on an impartial basis and given to those merchants who request it.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

Belk's

Manstyle Jackets . . . 10.99
—Dacron-Cotton
—Water Repellent
—Machine Washable
—Wrinkle Resistant
Navy — Oyster — Light Blue
Maize
Hubbard Pants 7.99
Dacron-Cotton — Wash 'N' Wear

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 5, 1965 | No. 14

Students Convene To Propose Investigation Of Grievances

BELK AUDITORIUM . . . . scene of Wednesday night's student convocation.

Over 270 members of the Presbyterian College student body assembled last Wednesday in Belk Auditorium in answer to a call for a student investigation of several areas of school policy.

Student body Vice-President Crawford opened the convention with a statement of the Student Council's position, pointing out that although the Student Council had not originated the idea, they were in support of it, and would continue to support it.

On the stage with Crawford were Al Todd, Vice-President of the Junior Class, and Jack Greene, chairman of the Blue Key chapel committee. Greene presented a format to the convention for approval which listed the grievances to be studied. Students serving as chairmen of committees to undertake the investigation were later introduced.

Susan Gilbert will lead the committee investigating the possibility of unlimited cuts for upperclassmen, while Steve Watson, chairman of the committee on room inspection and maintenance, will compile research in this area.

The other committees and their chairmen include Larry Preston, Judd Dining Hall; Buddy Guy, no Saturday classes; Pat Brown, the semester system; and Pat Goldsmith, Doyle Infirmary.

Interested students will be selected to complete the five-man committee this week. The findings of these groups will be compiled and presented to the Student Council by April 14, after a second student body convention to approve the committees' recommendations.

The Student Council will analyze the proposed changes and pass them on to the faculty and administration for consideration.

After warning the student body against demonstrations and disorder, Greene commented that "the comunication between us the students and the administration is, to say the least, sadly lacking. And we have just grievances which have been silently tolerated too long."

He went on to say, "If we, as a student body whose lives and education would be most affected by change, undertake an organized, intelligent study which would produce constructive and concrete solutions to our problems, we can get results."

Continuing on this theme, Greene pointed out that "even if the result is only to let the powers-that-be know that we are interested and vitally concerned, indeed intelligently concerned byterian College, we will have made progress."

Trustees Adopt Record Budget, Elect Officers

At the past meeting of the Presbyterian College board of trustees a budget of almost 1½ million dollars was adopted and four persons were named to receive honorary degrees at the 1965 commencement. Robert M. Vance of Clinton was re-elected chairman for the coming year and Dr. Eugene T. Wilson of Atlanta as vice-chairman. Hugh S. Jacobs of Clinton was elected secretary.

In adopting the record budget of $1,492,756 for the school year 1965-66, the trustees designated $969,380 for general and educational expenses, $513,376 for auxiliary enterprises including room and board, and $110,000 for student aid. In reviewing the general development program, they also authorized that $150,000 be assigned to the renovation of Neville Hall in the near future.

At commencement the Doctor of Divinity degree will be presented to the Rev. Fred Peag, pastor of the Spartanburg First Presbyterian Church. Receiving the Doctor of Humane Letters degree is Dr. Frank R. Johnson, noted heart surgeon of Winston-Salem, N. C., and the Bowman-Gray School of Medicine.

The Doctor of Laws degree will be awarded to Henry M. Brimm, librarian and professor of Bibliography at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va., and James G. Patton of Atlanta, executive secretary of the General Council, Presbyterian Church, US.

The trustees assembled at PC early Monday evening to meet in committees for detailed consideration of the college program. The board met for its general session Tuesday morning, and board reports from the various committees and from the administrative officers of the college.

Entrance Applications Reach New High

The administration has been working diligently this year on recruiting new students for the 1965-66 school year. Col. Thackston stated Wednesday, "We are a small private college; therefore, every bed must be filled in order to support ourselves."

These efforts on the part of the business office have proved worthwhile, as statistics show. As of February, 1964, PC had received 220 applications, and had approved 152 of these. As of this February, 506 have made application, 139 of which have been rejected and 335 accepted. One hundred thirty-nine have indocated that they will attend PC by sending in their $75 fee.

With the completion of the new women's dorm PC will enroll its largest number of female students this coming year. Sixty-seven women have been accepted, which is twice the number accepted at this time last year.

PC's continued growth is indicated by the record number of 1,692 college board scores sent in as of the first of this year.

Jim Stanford Will Head SCA For 1965-66

Jim Stanford, a junior from Decatur, Ga., and a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, was elected to the office of president of the Student Christian Association on this past Wednesday. Stanford's opponents in the closely contested race were Jimmy Bankhead of Chester and Dave Dunlap of Jacksonville, Fla.

After the election, the new president expressed his appreciation for the support given him and cited the need for such support in the future.

"Without the continued support of everyone, my efforts and those of the Cabinet will be futile. You have my promise to do my dead-level best to bring about some of the things that I believe you want. The first to be done is to get oriented and select a group that will truly work together."

Filling the positions of vice-president, secretary, and treasurer are Phil Olmert, Amelia Nichols, and Bob Herlong respectively. Phil, a member of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, served on the SCA Council for two years.

The only co-ed among the new officers, Amelia is a member of the Sophomore Academic Society, a Founder's Scholar, and outstanding student. Bob is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and brings experience on the SCA Council and the Student Council to his new post.

Ike Cobb, the out-going President, stated his satisfaction with the election and his hope that the student body would support the new council to the greatest extent.

The Student Council announced that 352 students voted Wednesday. The breakdown by classes was: 71% of the freshmen, 75% of the sophomores, 73% of the juniors, and 73% of the seniors. This represents one of the best student turnouts ever for an election.

JIM STANFORD, newly-elected president of the SCA, receives congratulations from out-going president Ike Cobb.

DMS Awards Given Three Cadets Cited

Lieutenant Colonel Richard W. Ulrich, Professor of Military Science, recently announced the names of three ROTC cadets who have been designated Distinguished Military Students. Those receiving the military honor were Cadet Captain James C. Settle, Cadet Captain John E. Settle, and Cadet First Lieutenant Paul S. Conger.

Chosen on the basis of Military proficiency, academic leadership, and high moral character, the three were awarded the DMS badge at a brief ceremony on Thursday, March 4, 1965, by Colonel Powell A. Fraser, (USA, Retired), Director of Development at Presbyterian College.

These awards give the Presbyterian College ROTC unit a total of five Distinguished Military Students. Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Archibald P. Hudgins and Cadet Major John E. Smith, III, received the award in September of 1964.

Stump Will Speak On New Findings

PC's biology department head, Dr. Alex B. Stump, will speak before the South Carolina Academy of Science Conference, which will be held April 23-24 in Columbia.

He will give a progress report on his experimentation in raising unicellular animals. Dr. Stump celebrated the anniversary of the beginning of his project Wednesday. On May 3, 1961, he isolated several amoeba-like animals, some of which have descendants today.

Dr. Stump feels he has virtually solved the problem of raising these animals, but, as he stated, along with this stable strain other experiments have been formulated.

"Earlier workers in this field saw sexual reproduction in these animals," Dr. Stump stated. "I am convinced from my experiments that no sexuality is present." He will present this and other facts before the Academy in April.

Although the experiment is complete, Dr. Stump plans to continue his work with this animal.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Merrie Stancill, Sam Waters
Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
Managing Editor ..... Dave Veneklasen
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor ..... Jimmy Ramage
Sports Editors ..... Bill Bassham, Grady Marshall
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Activities Editor ..... Hugh Weldon
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Copy Editor ..... Woody McGinn
Typists ..... Ray Summerlin, Bruce Hughes
Associate Editors ..... Gary Crawford, Al Pearce, Alex Patrick, Glen Browder
Circulation Manager ..... Ellis Jenkins
Cartoonist ..... John Weigel
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, John Jones, Joan Vassey, Brooks Styles, Bill Bucheit, Sarah Stribling, Woody Hall, Bruce Hughes
Feature Staff ..... Walt Todd, Mac Singleton, Joey Singleton, Bryson Rousey.

Stimulus For Solution

One purpose the Blue Stocking hopes to fulfill is a stimulus for constructive student behavior. Otherwise we would be infringing on the student's right of functioning as a free thinking adult.

It has been suggested that past editorial comment was lacking in constructive ideas for change. It has been implied that we sought nothing better than to be a rabble-rousing agent with no good intentions. Perhaps it was too discreetly implied that the student necessarily must arrive at a responsible solution. Supposedly a young intelligent adult possesses the ability of thinking and acting in accordance with the situation. Is this not so?

A large number of PC students displayed their desire to be men and women by attending and supporting Wednesday night's student meeting. We wholeheartedly endorse the actions of those spearheading this movement, as well as those who accepted and followed the attitude set forth by its leaders.

Hearing and understanding is equal in importance with being heard and understood. This meeting is a possible step in improving PC as a school and a community. The traditional barriers between factions of the school, which have served to make PC better than an armed camp, are unnecessary. The interst and maturity shown so far should more than underline this truth.

Permanent progress is slow, but once made is seldom lost. Let us all hope that the suggestion that we will need a committee to keep the students "all fired up" will be unnecessary. A good beginning needs support in order to reach the final goal.

M. H. S.

To The Student Body:

Last Monday I stood in chapel and made a campaign speech for the SCA elections. At that time I stressed the need of our campus, of our people, to have some way of finding a "self-identity", mainly for themselves. I stated and still hold to the fact that one of the best ways to bring this about is to re-establish the so-called bull-sessions.

Last Wednesday night a student (non-violent) oriented committee at a campus-wide meeting stressed the definite lack of and need for areas of communication.

Where do the two proposals fit in? They both show the definite lack of communication, not only among the students and the administration, faculty and Board of Trustees, but to a great degree even among us, the students.

How can we possibly tell the governing bodies of this institution our feelings if there is not a level of communication among us which is worthwhile and far more united than I have seen during my two years at PC?

Again I stress the need of serious exchange, and I will stress for this student movement again the necessity of not having any kind of demonstration or any spectacles. The committees can work so much better and be far more effective if we help by showing the right attitude, thus letting all those concerned know in this way that we are serious.

Let us give impetus and support in every way possible to both the SCA and the student movement. There must be communication on this campus. Take time out for a serious bull-session, and we will find that self-identity for ourselves as individuals and for our campus and student body as a whole.

Sincerely,
Jim Stanford,
President, SCA

A Solution Must Come With Complaint

Dear Editors:

The Blue Stocking last week contained several gripes of the students here at PC. The whole tone of the paper seemed to be one of dissatisfaction with the way in which the administration is running the school. If there is such a "contentious" state of affairs, the students should be concerned and do something.

There always has and will always be a valid place for student suggestions to all phases of administration at PC. Concerned students have never been denied the right to discuss affairs with the administration.

Students who complain merely for the sake of doing so, and this seems to be the case here, have no ground to stand on. Either one accepts his lot or he seeks ways and means to improve it. He does not sit in the sun and complain of the heat, he finds means of sufficiently alleviating it.

We find on the front page of last week's paper a story concerning a "frank" revolt. The story seems to indicate that a large part of the student body was involved. It was implied there is a great dissatisfaction with the management. There were quoted several 'terrific' comments by those passing the free franks such as "We didn't have anything like this last year" and other such indications of true opinion.

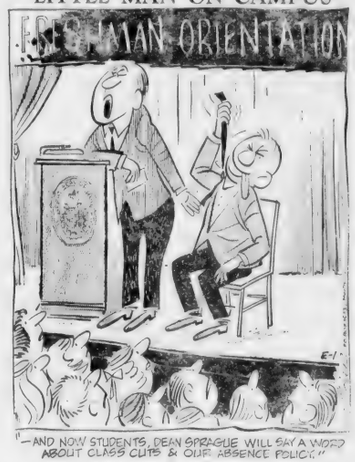
We turned to the inside page to find an editorial full of big words and short paragraphs which proved nothing. The writer assumed from the outset that conditions were wrong and needed changing. This would appear to be the point in question and the one to be proved.

Turning to page three we find at the conclusion of the sports column this little ditty: "Now on a more serious note something must be done so that the baseball team will have a playing field in time for their first game." Had he checked his facts, he would realize the new field is almost ready.

The genuinely concerned may find with investigation and study that the administration is aware of these needs, that they have come to the best soluton possible within their financial means, or that a faculty or administrative committee is studying these matters. These students will find out the situation, then do something reasonable.

We decided to write because we feel the last issue of the Blue Stocking contained almost nothing but irresponsible complaining. If the paper is going to present the complaints of the students then it must also provide or suggest means of remedying matters. Also as a "responsible" school paper it has to present the other side or at least give it a hearing; this was not done in the last issue.

One of the students involved with the hotdog affair even made the comment that their space and equipment was one of the main reasons for the 'bad" food. Ye gods, that is taken care of by the new dining hall which will be ready in about two months.



Perhaps if the students tried to look on the other side and see how things are from them something could be worked out. Maybe, just maybe, they think as we do, that things could be improved but they themselves are unable to do anything.

We don't say things here are perfect or that students do not have the right to complain. We do say, however, that constructive criticism brings with it a way out or a means of improving the lot of the students and the good of the school.

One wonders at the true purpose of people who are directing Wednesday night's protest "rally." Do these people have campus political aspirations for themselves as an end or the betterment of the campus community? We wonder.

—Raymond Summerlin
Mike Lowrance.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"—AND NOW STUDENTS, DEAN SPRAGUE WILL SAY A WORD ABOUT CLASS CUTS & OUR ABSENCE POLICY."

Letters to the Editors

"Malnutrition Mania", a one-act "Comedy of Errors", in retrospect, will be presented again to the hopes of all, very soon. The AAA (Adolescent Actors Association) has brought to the Clinton community, a sterling group of stars, the star of the show being that little body builder—Hot Dog, overdone, and all the way.

At least the positive approach has been taken. No good will come from checking on the selection of our college menu, the preparation of meals themselves, nor with discussion of any problems with the administration or the cafeteria staff. The time is right for an uprising. Hear the immortal cries—Give me sirloin, or give me death!—To eat is human, to connoisuer is divine!

Guerilla tactics are the order of the day. Bearing aloft the euphuistic battle slogans, the cache of spoils was uncovered, which, with the potent red canisters, coupled with the armourment for the battlefront.

The troops, marching resolutely across the desert of hunger, bridging the valley of fatigue, circumventing the lairs of coffee-break commandoes, reached the top. Emplacements were set up and sentries posted. The battle raged until the provisions were gone and the insurgents

(Continued on page 4)

Dave Veneklasen Mgr. Ed.

A Smooth Transition

There should be no doubt in anyone's mind that Presbyterian College is going through a period of transition. As is characteristic of these periods it is a slow one with many problems to be faced. An educational institution such as our cannot make drastic changes without long and serious efforts being made by all concerned.

DAVE

The student body of PC over a period of months has been characterized by mounting tension. Almost every phase of campus activity has come under the guns of criticism. It is normal for young adults to question the world about them—its rule, authority, and traditions. Presbyterian College students are no exceptions.

Chapel, the dining hall, and Saturday classes to name but a few, have recently been questioned by the students. These areas of campus concern have been brought to light in the past but not as intensely. It seems as if a majority of the student body has lost its feelings of apathy and lack of concern.

While the results of these studies and the solutions offered remain to be seen, those attempting such a task should be praised. If they receive the necessary cooperation and approach the problem objectively the chance of success should be high.

These actions on the part of the students show a feeling of concern for the development of PC into a progressive educational institution. If the suggestions of the students are misinterpreted or misrepresented and tossed out, a lack of interest will again result.

With the cooperation of the student body, faculty, administration and the Board of Trustees the period of transition will be smoother for PC

Speaking of Sports

I-M Softball In! New Job For Judd?

Grady Marshall, Sports Editor

Intramural Softball?

Several students have asked the question, "Will there be intramural softball, and if so, where will it be played?" After hearing several sides of the question, I think it is definite that there will be an intramural softball season.

Plans have been made for an area to be leveled and a backstop built. The diamond will be located behind the new women's dorm and across the road from the old practice field.

Weather Complicates

Seasonal rains have thus far held up the construction of the field. This will have to be ready soon, without it there can be no softball season; there is no other place available.

Intramural basketball is approaching an end and with its end softball could get underway if the field was ready.

Dining Hall Suggestion

Since September, suggestions have been posed to an administrative committee as to the question of the old dining hall building. To my knowledge no decision has yet been reached, so I would like to offer one that could be beneficial to the whole student body and campus as well.

Cramped Quarters!

Many students don't realize how compact the intramural system on campus is. A realization to this fact is that all the intramural equipment, books and the like are stored in the student intramural chairman's room in Bailey and the small cage at the bottom of the gym stairs. There is no office for intramural business which is a definite part of student life on campus.

Intramurals An Attribute

The strong intramural sports play was one of the main attributes of the campus, but it has definitely declined. Off campus intramural football play is an example of this decline. I personally see no reason to involve off campus sports facilities when there is an abundance of property that could be used for intramural sports play.

Remedy Posed

The dining hall being centrally located would be ideal for use as a permanent intramural office and game room.

For some time there was a question as to where to play badminton, but a decision to play in the gym has finally been reached. If the dining hall were used as an intramural center, it would provide a permanent place for just such sports as badminton, pool, ping-pong, and even volleyball or basketball could possibly be played with slight adaptations and without a great expense.

The suggestion has been talked over with the intramural directors who are very much in favor of it, and think that an office and permanent sports area is needed.

Have A Good Look

The first time you are in the dining hall take a good look around and think of all the possibilities a student intramural center of this size could afford the PC campus. A place of this type would surely benefit the student and help the intramural play on campus.

Golfers Compete For Final Team Positions

With spring sports just around the corner, Presbyterian College's golf team is already in full swing. This team has the potential of being equal to last year's squad which compiled a 12-3 record. This was the best record of any PC athletic team last year, and the best golf record in the state.

Right now the squad has twelve boys competing for the ten spots which will comprise the team. Six people will compete in each match.

There are several new faces on campus which will have to take up the slack left by Bill Brown and Jack Westall of the 1964 squad.

These new men are David Sale of Asheville, N. C.; Jerry Robb, Montgomery, Ala.; Paul Parrish, Bradenton, Fla.; Alan Parson, Fountain Inn; Joe Dunlap, Knoxville, Tenn.; and Dan O'Connell, Spartanburg.

Returnees to the PC golf tees are Bill Kellam, Bruce Lawrence, Bunky Hanks, and Larry Preston. All of these players have a great deal of experience. Some familiar faces, but new players, are represented by Rut Galloway and Garnet Welch.

Coach Gordon Warden said that returnees Kellam, Preston, and Lawrence are "pretty definite" starters. David Sale, a freshman, should occupy one of the top six spots; but a dog fight is developing for the sixth spot.

Coach Warden said that Bill Kellam could very easily be the number one golfer in the state. Kellam has almost won the state tournament his first two years. Last year he lost a sudden death playoff for second place.

Five Lettermen Return To Face Tough 23-Match Tennis Slate

The 1965 edition of the Presbyterian College tennis team officially began practicing for the spring's 23-match schedule this week. Included in the campaign will be the state tournament and several matches for PC's "B" team.

Five returning lettermen are the nucleus around which Coach Gordon Warden will build his squad. In his fourth spring as tennis coach, Warden undoubtedly faces his biggest challenge as PC's mentor. His schedule is the toughest in recent years and his squad is probably the weakest in many seasons at PC.

Returning to take more swipes at some of the nation's best-known tennis teams are lettermen Bob Harris, Howdy Letzring, Pete Collins, Bill Gillespie, and Arch Hudgins. Non-lettermen also back include Billy Asbury and Larry Connelly. Freshmen practicing with the varsity are Doug Haynie, John Benson, and Robby Hibbits.

As in years past the interteam competition for varsity positions is already keen. Harris, a West Palm Beach, Fla., junior, is expected to retain his number one spot for PC, but Letzring, another junior from St. Petersburg, Fla., is expected to battle Harris for the honor. Collins, a senior from Daytona Beach, Fla., and Gillespie, a Newport News-Va., senior, will settle it between themselves for the middle positions. Hudgens, a Ft. Lauderdale senior, will hold down one of the lower slots.

Given outside chances to nail down a position on the varsity will be Connelly of Charlotte, and Asbury of Greenville. Freshmen Haynie, of Roanoke, Va., and Benson and Hibbits, both of Winston-Salem, N. C., will also be given shots at the varsity.

Represented on the full schedule are teams from five of the nation's athletic conferences, as well as several major independent universities. From the Big 10 comes Michigan State University, with Harvard and Dartmouth the Ivy League opponents. North Carolina, N. C. State, Duke, South Carolina and Clemson are Atlantic Coast Conference foes.

The Citadel, Furman, and George Washington University are in the Southern Conference. and Georgia is the S. E. C. representative. Major independent schools on the slate include Amherst College, Williams College, Florida State, Slippery Rock State College, and Grove City. The Augusta College team will play the PC "B" team on two occasions.

With the spring's opening match scheduled for March 17 at Columbia against USC, the team must use every break in the weather for a full afternoon of practice. Coach Warden expressed apprehension regarding the state of readiness of the team as he eyed the week's weather situation. "We must get in some real good days of practice before we go to USC in a couple of weeks. If we can't get in shape before then, we'll be in for a couple of rough weeks of competition. The weather may turn out to be our toughest opponent. I hope not."

It appears already that the squad will be hard pressed to have the type of tennis season that Presbyterian College has been so famous for over the past thirty years. With the loss via graduation of two of last spring's performers, Warden noted that "since all the returning men will be forced to move up a notch or two the entire team will be slightly weaker. We're really going to miss (Dodge) Fredrick and (Bill) Tyson this spring but the squad seems to realize now that each will have to put out a little more if we're to have a successful year." The coach "preferred" not to make a prediction for the team's record.

FOLLOW THROUGH AND FOLLOW THROUGH mark the forms of PC's leading spring sports athletes, Bob Harris and Bill Kellam.

IM Tournament Set

March 8-9 will mark the last week of intramural basketball anounced IM chairman Don Warlick today.

Teams will finish their regular games before the opening of the tourney March 15.

Warlick added that the tournament should be a good one due to the closeness of the league standings.

"Linemen Show The Depth; Backfield, The Experience"

While tennis, baseball, track and golf are just getting underway, PC's gridders are finishing spring practice. The team has been practicing four days a week with the weather permitting.

Head Coach Cally Gault said, "The first eight practices were as good as any that we've had, but in the last two weeks the weather has limited the practice to five sessions." Due to these missed practice sessions, practice will continue an extra week to get in the full twenty days of practice.

Line Coach Billy Tiller has been very pleased with the linemen who show much more depth than those of last year's squad. Billy Love, Allen Harris, John Monk and Roy Squires have shown much improvement over last year. Other linemen who are being counted on are Jimmy Bankhead, Joe Lawson, Richard Reed, James Smith, Jimmy Helms and Bob Warren.

The backfield will be experienced but lacking in depth. Coach Gault said, "Jim Johnson, Don McNeil, Wade Stewart, and Sam Williams have been looking real good in practice. All four led the backfield of the 1964 squad."

Quarterback seems to be the question mark for next year. Mike Donovan has shown a lot of improvement over last year, and the coaches have been concentrating on this position throughout spring practice.

Three men are returning to the squad after one year's absence and are being counted on heavily. These boys are end Joe Lawson, tackle Sam Lyons, and quarterback Olin Grant.

Coach Gault said that most of the work thus far has been on fundamentals and ironing out any wrinkles. Anything new for the 1965 season won't be put into effect until next year.

1965 Basketball Stats Released

Player	FG	FT	REB	PTS	AVG
Gordon Adam	201	86	58	488	18.8
Richard Quillen	121	52	191	294	11.3
Danny Charles	104	80	122	288	11.1
Dave Turner	105	67	182	277	10.7
Ken Martin	69	52	100	190	7.3
Jimmy Bankhead	50	9	33	109	6.1
Bob McGregor	33	32	75	100	4.5
Richard Reed	24	28	54	76	4.0
Jim Holler	14	9	19	37	3.1
Doug Allen	23	18	74	64	3.0
Ray Priestino	3	9	11	11	1.6
Team	751	449	969	1940	74.6

Campus News Briefs

Three ROTC students have been cited as Dintinguished Military Students. Posing with Col. Ulrich they are (L-R) Paul Conger, Jim Settle and John Settle.

ROTC Will X-Ray Sophomore Cadets

X-rays are being given to all prospective advanced ROTC students at Bailey Memorial Hospital to prepare for the annual physical examinations to be given on March 26.

The examinations will be given to eighty-five MS II and twelve MS IV cadets by an Army Medical Team from Fort Jackson consisting of four officers and ten enlisted men.

All MS II cadets will be required to take this examination whether or not they plan to enter the advanced course. Those who fail the physical will be disqualified and registered as such with their draft boards.

Chapel Programs

Chapel programs for the week of March 8-13:

Monday: A student presentation.

Wednesday: Chapel worship service, Rev. Al Bixler, First Presbyterian Church, Clinton.

Friday: Mr. Stallworth.

Placement Schedule

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment:

First National Bank of South Carolina, March 9.

Wachovia Bank & Trust Company of Charlotte, N. C., March 10.

Trust Company of Georgia, March 11.

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, March 12.

WF Discusses Chapel

Compulsory chapel was the topic of discussion led by Prof. John S. Glover as the Westminster Fellowship held its weekly meeting two Sundays ago.

The fellowship decided that when something as big and important as the presentation of Christianity was failing, it was time for concern, and more important, action.

It is necessary to realize that the South Carolina and Georgia Synods control the required chapels, but it is now becoming necessary to find a way in which this allotted time can be used more efficiently.

President Dave Dunlap summed up the discussion with these words: "The present system of compulsory chapel is not meeting the religious needs of the student body.

Students Practice Teaching In Clinton

Eleven future teachers am... the Presbyterian College sen... are currently engaged in pr... tice teaching assignments ... three of the local public sch...

They represent a portion ... the students now studying in ... year-long course of "Obser... tion and Directed Teaching" ... der Assistant Professor Mel... Riggs, director of teacher e... cation at PC.

The students and their pres... assignments are:

At Clinton High School—R... ert Banks of Kershaw, Engli... Melinda Gaines of Clinton, E... lish; Douglas Gaydon of Pow... Springs, Ga., biology; Je... Hemphill of Cedartown, G... science.

Also Gary Mike Smith of G... den City, N. Y., social studi... William Tallent of Langley, S... physical education; and M... Ruth Tiller of Clinton, soc... studies.

At Thornwell High School—... Pearce of Rocky Mount, N... social studies; and Don Wat... of LaGrange, Ga., social studi...

At Clinton Junior High Sch... —Priscilla Blanton of Nesm... social studies; and Mrs. Car... Clayton Charles of Spartanbu... social studies.

Greek System Being Sabotaged?

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

A Greek editorial in the University of Georgia's newspaper, The Red and Black, outlines a well-organized plot to sabotage the Greek system as found in "The New Guard", the Young Americans for Freedom magazine.

The author shows that the system's basis—"the right to freely choose whom they (the Greeks) shall call 'brother' or 'sister'" —is being threatened by the federal government, especially its judiciary branch.

The article points out that the sinister forces attacking the fraternity system are also attacking "the American dream, because that dream is a roadblock across the path of revolutionary change which the leftists in this nation intend to follow."

Our fight on behalf of the system is more, then, than an "effort to save a social institution which represents many of our fondest memories . . ."; it is a fight to preserve the climate in America which is conducive to freedom, and to protect those institutions which have served us well and represent the best that man has yet devised."

The entire fraternity system "stands as a bulwark in defense of what once were accepted as eternal verities: truth, honor, love, duty, country."

The article amounts to a defense of discrimination and segregation, veiled in high-brow slogans and phrases that propagandists would call "glittering generalities." The author attacks "civil rights", "left-wingers", and "equalitarianism."

The privilege of the fraternity to discriminate arrogantly by race is legally and morally right because of tradition. It is the old argument: "It was good enough for the founders, so it's good enough for us."

The attack on fraternities is due to this inherent privilege. Some of them, in some places, are yielding to pressure; but the good Greeks will resist to the end, says the author. "It is better that we lose a few chapters in a particular area", he says, "than that we lose the entire system . . ."

The author argues that the system is perfect and that none of its policies should be changed.

He speaks of "many of our fondest memories of undergraduate student life", however, without explaining why those memories are denied many because of race or religion.

Perhaps the YAF is right; the decision is left up to you, the individual. Should the fraternity system change with the changing of the South?

Greek Activities

The Pi Kappa Phi fraternity has scheduled a record party in their suite Saturday night, March 6.

Charles Campbell, John Morrison, and Leslie Smith were taken into the brotherhood of Pi Kappa Phi this past week; Jack Avery and John Henley were newly pledged. Their Brother of the Week is Bob Eason. New brother Leslie Smith is lavaliered again, this time to Miss Sandi Jones of North Augusta.

Lavaliered in the Theta Chi fraternity recently were Mike Luke to Miss Mary Alice Nowell, and Skip Taylor to Miss Lou McCall of Montreat College. New Theta Chi pledges are Larry Geddie and Rutsy Tatum.

Alpha Sigma Phi pledged Sam Lipsey this past week, and chose George Salvo as their Brother of the Week.

The Sigma Nu's pledged Ralph Pulliam and Eddie Bolton. Brothers Jim Settle and Robert Henry Elrod have completed a new trophy case in the Sigma Nu House.

The Kappa Alpha Order brothers elected officers for next year: No. 1, Don Taylor; No. 2, Mike Smith; No. 3, Jim Darby; other officers are Dave Dunlap, Pat Brown, Ruddy Deas, Bubba Hodges, Brownie Johnson, and Roy Squires.

LETTERS (Continued)

slipped happily away.

Like all true morality plays, the outcome is our decision. The solution is very simple indeed Three hundred mothers and two hundred and sixty-three grandmothers are being employed for the grand opening in 1965. They, complete with apron strings, will work a twenty-six hour day to attempt a well balanced cuisine. Gil Favor, the Jolly Green Giant, and the Campbell Kids will also supply whatever service they can.

Employed on a four year basis by the Reformances are presented in such a subtle manner that only the viewer's imagination can uncover the plot. At last we have a meaning for the phrase, "Long live the great plight way!" —Neil McKay

Dear Editors:

It has occurred to me in the past few windy days that what this campus needs is a centrally located "soap-box" for all aspiring cynics and social critics alike.

If this were provided the students could have their Pepsi-break while listening to an aspirant for social, political, or economic reform. (Pardon me for failing to mention religion.)

Just for supposes let us pretend that I was on the soap-box. My spiel would go something like this:

"Gentlemen: (Pardon me for failing to mention the ladies.)

It seems improper that with as fine a military department as we have at Presbyterian College, (pardon me for failing to elaborate) our Lt. Colonel, two Captains, and four sergeants, as well as two retired colonels and a lieutenant in administrative positions, should allow a flag of the United States of America, in such condition of ours to be raised every day on our flagpole.

I would hope that they notice the flag, but maybe something as insignificant as 'Old Glory' is not worthy of their attention."

After my little speech I would take a big swallow of Pepsi, shake a few hands, and return to the "atmosphere of Christian fellowship." —Jim Loyd

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1...

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 12, 1965 | No. 15

Little Symphony Ends Clinton Concert Series

On March 17, in Belk Auditorium the Chicago Little Symphony under the direction of the distinguished Thor Johnson will bring the Clinton Community Concert Association programs to a close.

Each season the Chicago Little Symphony appears in about 50 cities from Canada to the Gulf, and from the east coast to the Rocky Mountains. They have had numerous return engagements and earned praise as perhaps America's finest Little Symphony.

The Symphony's outstanding conductor, Thor Johnson, was music director of the Cincinnati Symphony for eleven years and has been director of the Ann Arbor, Mich., May Festival since 1939. He has appeared as guest conductor with many of the leading symphonies of the world.

According to Mr. Johnson, his "first love" is for the small symphony with music written for an instrumentation between the full grand symphony and chamber music, a literature of great beauty.

Each artist is chosen by Dr. Johnson personally. Dr. Johnson's broad knowledge of the country's finest artists makes possible a varied field of musicians ranging from New York, Boston, and Philadelphia to Los Angeles and the Casals Conservatory in Puerto Rico. Many of these artists perform for Dr. Johnson at the summer Peninsula Music Festival in Fish Creek, Wisconsin.

PC students received tickets in September, 1964, which admit them to all of the community concert programs.

Mathematicians Host Topology Lecturer

Professor J. H. Roberts of Duke University visited the PC campus on March 9 and 10 as a lecturer in the field of mathematics. His visit was sponsored by the Mathematics Association of America.

Professor Roberts spoke on "Continuous Functions" Tuesday afternoon. This was an advanced lecture designed for those who have studied calculus. On Wednes morning he spoke on "What is Topology?", an elementary lecture of general interest to all students.

Professor Roberts received his B.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Texas, and studied as a National Research Fellow at the University of Pennsylvania. He was managing editor of the Duke Mathematical Journal from 1950-1961. His research interest is primarily in topology, especially Transformations and Dimension Theory.

New South Climbs In Academic Level

(CPS) — Forty years ago Southern universities were more respected for magnolia and moonshine than for masterful teaching. And while no Southern school is yet rated as one of America's top ten universities, there are several which may be there soon.

Virginius Dabney, editor of the Richmond, Virginia- Times-Dispatch, feels that a change is on the way. "The cultural and academic level of the South is rising with the business index," he says in a March Harper's magazine article.

Singling out the University of Texas, Tulane, Vanderbilt, the University of North Carolina, and the University of Virginia for special attention, Dabney concludes that these schools are the leaders of a new academic South.

Throughout the South faculty salaries are rising, entrance requirements are getting higher, and libraries and laboratories are improving, Dabney says. Every Southern state now has at least one university awarding Ph.D. degrees, and all but two of the states have university presses.

Dabney admits that the South is low on the list of preferred areas of the country for prospective teachers. But he goes on to say that since the interracial climate has become more settled, the South has advantages that will begin to attract greater numbers of teachers.

The overall atmosphere is one of faith in the future, Dabney says. Educational leadership is dynamic and dedicated to making a Southern education as good as any in the nation. "The gap is closing between North and South in the conscious pursuit of excellence in education," he concludes.

Seminar Probes SC State Political System

Dave Dunlap
Blue Stocking Reporter

Thirteen South Carolina Colleges were represented this past Monday and Tuesday when the Intercollegiate Legislative Seminar met at the state capital for two days of concentrated probing into the state's government system.

Assuming that a fuller understanding of government is one of the primary prerequisites for good citizenship the Christian actions council sponsored the program.

This council is the only interdenominational organization of its kind in the state and derives its support solely from pledges of various denominations.

Students representing PC were Dave Davies, Dave Dunlap, Henry Lovett, and Sam Waters. The two members of the faculty who made the trip were Dr. Ronald Burnside and Professor Larry Ingle, both of the History department.

All in attendance were able to witness government in action from sessions of the Senate to committee meetings. Some of the leading figures in the house and senate as well as prominent Columbia citizens addressed the seminar at various times.

All of these men entertained questions on pertinent state political problems. Out of these sessions came some of the most revealing insights expressed during the entire conference.

Several students inquired about the lack of a compulsory school attendance law in the state at a meeting of the House Education and Public Works committee which has such a bill before it this time.

When asked about the nature of the opposition to such a bill this student was told, "You can't take away a man's right to be ignorant," "and "I can't force a man in my district to send his child to school with a person of another race." Favorable sentiment, though not as outspoken, was in evidence.

Other students expressed interest in the growth of the Republican Party and its effects on South Carolina politics in the future. Several speakers expressed views on the subject. The most complete answer was given by Professor Frank Sloan of the USC Law School.

Prof. Sloan said that he views the growth of the Republican party as a beneficial influence in South Carolina politics. Its growth will facilitate the division of the political candidates on the grounds of issues instead of personalities. He also called a myth the idea that this would bring minority government to the state.

Concerning the seminar, Professor Ingle said it was a "profoundly informative session in which perceptive insights into South Carolina politics were gained."

Group Will Analyze Faculty Self-Study

A committee from the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will visit PC's campus Sunday through Wednesday of next week in conclusion to a comprehensive self-study of the institute recently completed by the faculty and administration of Presbyterian College.

The purpose of their visit is to examine all phases of the school, to evaluate the findings of the self-study and the college's progress towards achieving its goals. Some of the committee members will talk with students and faculty members to get the clearest possible picture of Presbyterian College.

Dean Joseph M. Gettys, chairman of the steering committee directing the study, said the self-study covered a period of 18 months. The bound report running to 185 pages analyzes these seven main areas of the college operation: financial resources, administrative organization, educational program, library, faculty, student personnel and pyhsical plant.

There will be a supper held at Judd Hall in honor of the guests Sunday night at 6:00 p. m. The steering committee will welcome the guests at that time.

Serving on the steering committee with Dean Gettys were John S. Glover, Dr. Lewis S. Hay, Neal B. Prater and Dr. Neill G. Whitelaw.

State WF Convenes At Camp Longridge

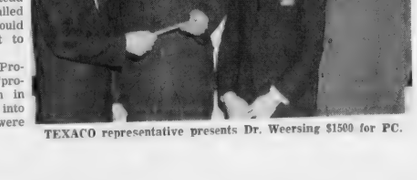
"Ground Floor Please" will be the topic on which the Westminster Fellowship will convene its state conference at Camp Longridge on March 19.

"Ground Floor Please" is a request by the young people to get to the ground floor of Christianity, and from there to build a stronger faith in Christ. In order to do this, the conference will examine the basic beliefs of Christianity and discuss their meanings.

The Reverend Mr. Donald W. Shriver, Jr., campus minister to the students at the University of North Carolina, will be the featured speaker. While examining the basic principles of Christianity, Dr. Shriver will relate them to our everyday lives.

It is the hope of Dr. Shriver that through this thought provoking conference one will obtain a thorough knowledge and deeper understanding of the Christian faith.

Arts Program To Feature Underwater Archaeologist



A noted underwater archaeologist will address the Presbyterian College student body next Monday morning as another feature of the 1964-65 fine arts series.

Dr. George Fletcher, a native of Columbia, serves as asistant professor of archaeology at the University of Pennsylvania and special assistant in underwater archaeology for the University Museum. An expert diver, he has recently been excavating a Seventh Century Byzantine ship off the coast of Turkey in his capacity as field director of the Yassi Ada Expedition.

A report by Dr. Bass of the work at this "dig" was published in National Geographic in July 1963. Prior to this find, his team in 1960 excavated the earliest known Bronze Age ship, estimated to have sailed as long ago as 1200 B. C.

The public is cordially invited to attend the 10 A. M. chapel exercises in Belk Auditorium on Monday when Dr. Bass will tell of his work. That afternoon at 3 o'clock, he will show a movie on undersea explorations, and Clinton High School students as well as other interested persons are invited to join the PC students in Belk for this program.

Dr. Bass comes to PC under the auspices of the South Carolina Foundation of Independent Colleges which is arranging for him to lecture at several colleges while he is in this area. The PC fine arts committee is headed by Professor Earl Halsall.

TEXACO representative presents Dr. Weersing $1500 for PC.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Co-Editors ..... Merrie Stancill, Sam Waters
Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
Managing Editor ..... Dave Veneklasen
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor ..... Jimmy Ramage
Sports Editors ..... Bill Bassham, Grady Marshall
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Activities Editor ..... Hugh Weldon
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Copy Editor ..... Woody McGinn
Typists ..... Ray Summerlin, Bruce Hughes
Associate Editors ..... Gary Crawford, Al Pearce, Alex Patrick, Glen Browder
Circulation Manager ..... Ellis Jenkins
Cartoonist ..... John Weigel
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, John Jones, Joan Vassey, Brooks Styles, Bill Bucheit, Sarah Stribling, Woody Hall, Bruce Hughes
Feature Staff ..... Walt Todd, Mac Singleton, Joey Singleton, Bryson Rousey.

The Grip On America

The revolutionary trend gripping America today has become one of increasing interest. Serving as an impetus for various demonstrations, the movement has captured the imagination of men of all economic, social and political aspirations.

The Civil Rights movement in our Southland is one that has presented many problems—problems of recognizing personal discrimination, of changing the status quo, and of adapting to a new society.

The fact is that we have been denying basic constitutional rights, regardless of the means, whether negligence or blind prejudice, to the Negro. Some argue that we discriminate against whites, and contend that this is a personal liberty. We agree. But here the situation is different. The Negro as an individual is not being discriminated against, but the race as a whole is feeling the effects of a great disfranchisement.

The movement has thrown the South into a tragic national spotlight. Every new test of the 1964 Civil Rights Act sponsored by the NAACP or any other related group, has brought an overwhelming victory for the Negro, but has left in the South a bitter aftertaste and a despicable international image.

The emergent antagonism, many think, destroys the effect of a victory. Others believe the violence (ie. breach of peace) recurring in some demonstrations is unlawful and consequently rationalize that all demonstrations are unlawful.

Well then, why do Negroes resort to demonstrations? It is really simple: they have to. Since the close of the Civil War in 1865, the South has had free opportunity to accept the Negro and to extend to him the rights guaranteed by his citizenship. President Johnson's post-war leniency in reconstruction demands was essentially disregarded. Even the Republican radicals soon yielded to the stubborn South.

Excluding several Supreme Court decisions of this century, which again were actually not practiced by southern states, nothing has worked—except peaceful marching and demonstration. Within 15 years an all-white organization or institution will be a rarity, because segregation will be frowned upon as backward, unprogressive, and "just plain out."

A Valid Solution

While attending the Seventh Annual College Editors Conference, January 28-February 1, 1965, in New York, one of the most outstanding Negroes of America(and a Southerner at that), Dr. Whitney Young, suggested what we propose is a valid solution.

He articulately expounded that the answer to the Civil Rights issue will come when Americans cease regarding it as a problem, and approach it as an opportunity. With this viewpoint a new feeling of justice and a new sense of responsibility will develop.

Lack of Communication

At present there is a great chasm between the North and the South in communication. Unfortunately the South is just as misinformed about the North as the North is about the South, and in the midst the Negro is justly rebelling against "grienvances which have been silently tolerated too long."

S. C. W.

South Viet Nam: Where Do We Stand?

Walt Todd
Blue Stocking Feature Staff

A problem of increasing importance to the United States and its allies is the powde keg that is South Viet Nam. This small agrarian country, formerly a part of Frenc Indo-China, is battling for its very existence against a determined and relentless foe- the communist Viet Cong. The situation is further aggravated by the fact that Sout Viet Nam seems unable to stabilize its own government long enough to present a unite front against the communists.

The United States has been pouring men and equipment into Viet Nam in ever increasing numbers, but in spite of this aid, the communists now hold twice the land area in South Viet Nam they held in 1961.

The situation is critical for the United States as well as for the precarious government of the small nation. We as a nation are at the crossroads in this remote war. Should we withdraw our troops or should we make further, even larger commitments? Can we actually win, or are we destined to final exhaustion and withdrawal?

America's commitment, at least up until recent weeks, has been wholly in an advisory capacity. The U. S. has sent advisors of the U. S. Army Special Forces to train and assist the troops of South Viet Nam. In this advisthat she is seeking no expansion of the war but is only responding to the increased participation of North Viet Nam.

The war is not actually a war in a real sense. In an advisory capacity, the American soldier has been particularly vulnerable to the aggressors, and over three hundred Americans have lost their lives in skirmishes with the Viet Cong.

The policy of our advisors has been to strengthen and fortify the villages throughout the country. These free, fortified towns serve to deny the Viet Cong access to badly needed supplies.

There has been increasing evidence that communist North Viet Nam is widening its influence in the war and supplying the Viet Cong with weapons, equipment, and seasoned guerilla fighters. In retaliation to this, the combined air forces and navies of the United States and South Viet Nam have made strikes against certain supply areas in North Viet Nam itself. The U. S. emphasizes, however, at all in the sense that the Korean conflict was a war. It is rather a series of small skirmishes in which no one is victorious. It is a dirty, behind-the-scenes war with little mass troop contact. It is, in a sense, a revolution.

The rebels are the Viet Cong they have the initiative on the side. They are fighting for a governmental change and a political system which they fe lessly believe in.

The character of these V Cong rebels is only one of many varied and complex re sons for the difficulty we a having in turning the tide of t war. If South Viet Nam is fi ally able to develop a stab government which is popular respected by the people, a g ernment that will improve or tempt to improve the country educational, medical, and e nomic conditions, the war co possibly be won.

At this time, however, there little likelihood of such a dev opment. The country is too po even with our economic assi ance, to raise its people to a re prosperity. The cost of war its is an additional obstacle wh seems almost insurmountable

What lies in the future f Viet Nam? No one has a answer for this question. cannot withdraw, for South V Nam is the cornerstone of Indo-China. If it should fall North Viet Nam, which it m assuredly will do if we wi draw, Thailand and Cambod would fall immedaate prey Red China. Then Malaysia a perhaps even Australia would open to aggression.

If we cannot withdraw, can w win? Most experts seem to dou it. It is hard to defeat an enem as allusive of the Viet Con They cannot be defined—a ma may be a farmer one day and deadly guerilla the next.

Perhaps a mass invasion of S. troops is the answer. Som military as well as political e perts have advanced this theor But after the invasion, are we remain in the country as an o cupational force forever, "strengthen and support its go ernment"?

There are no concrete sol tions to the problem, but w should be aware of the deadl situation which is already deep ly affecting our country an which may soon require our per sonal involvement.

Letters To the Editor

"Rogues! Pompous Rogues"!

Dear Editors:

A momentous occasion has been greatly imbued by the forthright concepts of ripened minds. It is from such depth that we, the yet-to-be, should draw our ideas. Have we the right to venture into inanity without the inane? Thus, let us follow the apathetic traditions of these matured persons, who let nothing so crass as novel aspirations bar them from emulating those time-honored structures of antiquity.

It should also be noted by every thinking person, including those who are yet novice, that, due to the quick wit of seasoned minds a most malicious plot of malignant desires can now be seen in its true light. The plot involves persons who would usurp political power. Persons now sitting in positions of highest responsibility dare to refute the validity of an established society. These people could never seek changes for the good of all: there can only exist "campus political aspirations." Rogues! Pompous rogues!

Further, it must be noted that all of the pomp of display can be only interpreted by the rational and complacent as superficial and juvenile. After all, is it not a fact that all the censures discussed were only re-iterations? The persons who really count know what should be known and for incompetents to seek to display their opinions is a direct insult to the institutions and concepts of their better-informed and extremely ripened predecessors.

Finally, we must realize that to be a Samaritan is extremely costly in a society of pliable priests. Thus, be it a warning to all those who hold with this philosophy of pragmatism that it is a product of ambitious knaves to further their lewd political aspirations and wholly incompetent underlings who have monocular vision seeking to refute and dis cuss things better handled b stronger minds held intact b strings of virtuous restraint.

—Richard Smart

Dear Editors:

In view of the letter from Mr. Summerlin and Mr. Lowrance which appeared in last week's paper, I feit it my obligation t commend them for presentin the view of some of the studen matriculated at Presbyteria College.

The two eminent seniors state in their opening paragraph tha if "there is such a 'contentiou state of affairs, the student should be concerned and d something." Throughout thei letter they implied that com plaining would get nowhere with out constructive ideas offerin feasible solutions to the prob lems confronting the students o PC.

(Continued on page 4)

Sports Sidelines

Our Pick: Michigan; NCAA Championship

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

Regional Finals

In national basketball the NCAA post season tournament that determines the national collegiate basketball champions, gets underway this weekend. The four regional tournaments will take place this weekend in various parts of the country.

The eastern regionals will take place at College Park, Maryland. Princeton will take on North Carolina State, and St. Josephs will battle Providence. This will be the toughest regional, but St. Josephs will come out on top.

The mideast regionals will take place at Lexington, Kentucky. Vanderbilt will face DePaul, and the top ranked Michigan Wolverines take on Dayton. I would like to see a southern team in the tournament, but Michigan is too loaded this year.

In the midwest regionals at Manhattan, Kansas, Wichita will take on Southern Methodist, and Oklahoma State battles Houston. This should be the weakest tournament. Although Wichita has slipped since Dave Stallworth's graduation in January, there isn't a team in this region to stop them.

In the Western regional at Provo, Utah, San Francisco faces Oklahoma City while second ranked UCLA will take on Brigham Young University. Brigham Young could possibly upset UCLA, but the Bruins are experienced in tournament play so I'll go along with UCLA.

The finals will be held March 19-20 at Portland, Oregon. UCLA is the defending champion but I believe it is time for Michigan to grab the title.

Getting back to the campus scene, the intramural tournament got underway Thursday night. I hope all the fraternity men along with the independents will get out to support their team.

We Get Letters

Dear Editor,

I was surprised to find that there will be no intercollegiate intramural all-star basketball tournament this year. There seems to be no real reason justifying the cancellation.

The sports editor supported two reasons: First, "other schools have not contacted us." If this is a tournament arranged by the other schools, then we should wait for them to make plans. But if I am correct in assuming that this is an invitational tournament with PC as host, then we should contact the other schools.

Second, "the student body of each individual institution did not support the tourney here last year, especially PC who was at the greatest advantage to support it." Two years ago at the site of the first tournament in Leroy Springs, was packed the largest crowd to witness a ball game (including those of the varsity) since I enrolled as a freshman. This was remarkable because of the fact that everyone was charged an admission fee.

I feel that with the right amount of publicity we could have a full house in the gym this year. The tournament is a perfect way to end another successful intramural basketball season.

—George Taylor

Here's Why

The sports column of Feb. 26 could be a bit ambiguous according to the letter received this week by The Blue Stocking.

Commenting first on the other schools' failure to contact us, it should be understood that though the tourney has been hosted by PC for the past two intramural basketball seasons, Presbyterian was not the only school involved. And even though we sponsored the tournament completely the first two seasons, there has been no interest shown by the other schools that usually attend. The tournament was held especially for our students, who statistically did not support it the second year. The athletic department decided against having it a third year.

The student body may have supported this intramural tournament two years ago, but having been there last year, I saw that relatively few students were in attendance. The fact is that in a tournament of this kind we tended to rest on our one-year old laurels.

On the point of lack of publicity, I can agree thoroughly. If the tourney last year had been properly publicized, it very well could have been successful. Nevertheless it was not, neither financially nor attendance wise.

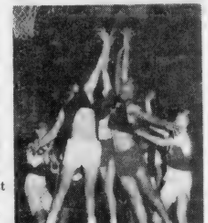
I agree that the tournament is a perfect way to end a season, but there is nothing that I can do—the solution has passed from the students' hands.

I want to thank George Taylor for his letter concerning the intramural invitational tournament. Let it be known that we welcome and encourage any student comments, whether pro or con, concerning the sports page.

PiKA's, Sigs Predicted For Finals; IM Championship Hangs In Balance

The annual intramural basketball tournament got underway Thursday night in LeRoy Springs Gym. There are eight teams in the tournament, which should be one of the best in its history. Don Warlick, intramural chairman, commented that the competition will be tough because "this was one of the closest regular season races in several years."

In the opening round action of the double elimination affair, the results ran according to pre-tourney expectations. The Faculty lost to the KA's in the first game, followed by a Pounder win over the Alpha Sigs in the second contest.



The third game saw the PiKA first team defeat their own second team defeat the Sigma Nu's had to rally to defeat the Bandits in the night's final game.

The Pi Kappa Alpha first team won the blue league with a perfect 8-0 record. The PiKA's are the defending intramural champions and have a good chance of making it two championships in a row.

Leading the PiKA's is forward Don Blanchard. The tall sophomore averaged 19.8 points a game and was very strong on the boards. Giving Blanchard and the PiKA's support is junior guard Don McNeill who averaged 12.3 a game.

The second place team in the blue league was the independent Pounders. The Pounders had a perfect record throughout most of the season before losing a thriller to the PiKA's 40-37. The Pounders finished the season with a 7-1 record.

Senior Jackie Nix leads the Pounders in scoring with an 18.7 average. Nix is very dangerous from the outside and can break up any game with his long bombs. Right on Nix's heels in scoring is senior guard Jimmy Elliot. Elliot averaged 17.8 this season and was very good at stealing the ball for the easy lay up.

STRETCHING FOR A loose ball are several players in the Oxen-Foul-Outs tilt.

Following the Pounders was the KA first team with a 6-2 record. The KA's lost to the PiKA's first team and then dropped a 40-39 cliff hanger to the Pounders.

Sophomore forward Joe Gettys led the KA team with a 20.0 average, the best in either league. Gettys finished strong scoring sixty-one points in the last two games. Freshman Tim Yancy supports Gettys in scoring with a 10.0 average.

The last blue league team to make the tournament was the independent Bandits. The Bandits finished with a 5-3 record, losing to the top three teams in the league.

Junior Larry Preston led the Bandits with a 13.6 average. Preston finished strong after a slow start. Steve Stine helped the Bandits out on the boards while scoring at a 10.0 pace.

The red league did not have so close a race as the blue league, but these teams should give a creditable showing in the tournament. The Sigma Nu first team was victorious in this league with an unblemished 8-0 record.

Sigma Nu ran rough shod over most of the league defeating one team 107-20. If any team can beat the PiKA's, it should be these boys.

Sigma Nu is led by sophomore Frank Markette who averaged 17.4 a game. Markette missed two games due to an operation on his finger and was slowed down during midseason play. Markette finished strong in the last three games.

While Markette was hurt, senior George Taylor took up the scoring attack for the well balanced Sigma Nu's and finished the season with a 10.0 average.

A surprising faculty team finished second to Sigma Nu They had a 6-2 record. The faculty finished the season with six straight wins after adding more members to the squad. The faculty's only two losses came at the hands of the Sigma Nu's and the Alpha Sig's.

The faculty had a well-balanced scoring attack with no person in double figures. Sgt. Creel played in the last five games and averaged 8.0. Dr. Stebbins and Professor Fakkema averaged 6.6 and 6.3 respectively.

Third and fourth place in the league ended in a tie between Alpha Sigma Phi and the Pi Kapa Alpha team with indentical 5-3 records. The Alpha Sig's won the playoff game Wednesday night 47-37.

The Alpha Sig's lost to the PiKA second team in regular seson play, Sigma Nu and the Foul-Outs.

The Alpha Sigs are led by forward Buddy Guy and Grady Marshall with 12.3 and 8.7 averages respectively. Guy scored twenty-one points in the playoff game to lead his team to victory.

The PiKA second team lost to the KA second team, the Sigma Nu's, and the faculty during the regular season.

Senior Bill Riner is the mainstay of the PiKA's with a 15.8 average.

There will be four games played nightly in the double elimination tournament. Officials for the tournament will be varsity players Bob McGregor, Ken Martin, Richard Quillen, and Dave Turner.

Coach Gordon Warden expressed his hope for support of the tournament. The intramural all-stars will be chosen after the tournament, and trophies given to the winner and runner-up of the tournament.

Ball Field Chosen

Intramural softball will soon overcome its biggest obstacle so far this season, the lack of a playing field. Until Thursday two areas were under consideration: one the old baseball field area and the other located across the street from the new girls' dormitory.

Gary Mike Smith pointed out both locations have their good and bad points. He stated, "We're just trying to find an ideal location with adequate field conditions."

Since the old baseball field is partially covered with construction equipment, home plate would have had to be moved away from the now-standing backstop and the first base line would be toward the edge of the new dining hall.

The major consideration, however, is a rather rapid drop in ground level, which appears behind the proposed shortstop position. A player would have to adjust to a fast change of footwork here.

The other site, which has been selected, "might need a bit of grass cutting and is not as level in spots as the the old field, but no place that we choose will be a Yankee Stadium; we will just have to make do with what we've got," according to Mike.

The major advantage of this site is that it may be formed into a permanent intramural field for softball and other sports as well; whereas, the site on the old field would be strictly temporary.

The selected site is already under construction, an infield has been plowed up and will be leveled within the week.

March Sports Spotlight

LISTED BELOW is the composite schedule of PC's spring sports through the month of March.

Date	Sport	Opponent	Place
March 15	Golf	Belmont Abbey	Clinton
March 17	Tennis	South Carolina	Clinton
March 18	Golf	Wofford College	Clinton
March 19	Golf	South Carolina	Clinton
March 22	Tennis	Amherst College	Clinton
March 23	Baseball	Tusculum College	Clinton
March 24	Tennis	George Washington	Clinton
March 25	Golf	Furman	Clinton
March 25	Tennis	Williams College	Clinton
March 26	Baseball	Citadel	Charleston
March 26	Tennis	Dartmouth College	Clinton
March 27	Tennis	Georgia	Athens, Ga.
March 27	Baseball	Citadel	Charleston
March 29	Tennis	Michigan State	Charleston
March 30	Baseball	Newberry College	Clinton
March 30	Tennis	Citadel	Charleston
March 31	Golf	Mercer	Macon, Ga.

Greeks Told To Erase Race Clauses

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

In an article cited in the Charlotte Observer this past week the University of North Carolina ordered fraternities and sororities Friday, March 5, to get rid of all discriminatory clauses in their charters.

Discriminatory clauses were defined as "those requirements which prohibit the local chapter from pledging or initiating any student in the University because of his or her race, creed or national origin."

This "statement of policy" was adopted by the faculty council.

Greek-letter houses were given until September 1, 1966, to rid themselves of all local or national discriminatory requirements.

The stiff alternative is withdrawal of recognition by the university.

The University policy means a fraternity or sorority will not be able, "through its charter, constitution, by-laws, ceremonies, or regulations" to forbid the acceptance of Negroes or foreign students. Religious discrimination apparently is not covered.

Fraternities and at least one sorority have specific clauses restricting membership on the basis of race or religion.

Greek Activities

All fraternities on the PC campus are making plans and decisions for the coming Military Ball Weekend, March 19-20. None of the Greek organizations are considering their functions closed. Final report on the bands which the individual fraternities will have contracted will be in next week's Blue Stocking.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity has initiated seven pledges into their brotherhood: Bill Crowley, David Albright, Alex Irwin, Bob Statton, Mac Story, Andy Cooper, and Ed Gregory. Steve Watson was recently pinned to Miss Gloria Howell.

The Kappa Alpha Order Chapters of South Carolina hold their annual Old South Ball in Augusta, Georgia, this Friday through Sunday. Nearly all faces on campus will be clean again on Monday.

Woody McGinn, Alpha Sigma Phi, was recently pinned to Miss Julia Watts of Mountville. Alex Burgin, also an Alpha Sig, was lavaliered to Miss Pam Howard of Wake Forest. The Alpha Sig brother of the week is John Smith.

The Pi Kappa Phi's selected Brother Don Mucci as their Brother of the Week.

The Pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity gave the Brothers a party at the Laurens Shrine Club last Saturday night. The PiKA's elected new officers for their chapter. Elected were: Walt Todd, President; Jim Johnson, Vice-President; John Monk, Treasurer; Phil Olmert, Secretary; Don McNeill, Sergeant at Arms; and Dan Montgomery, Chaplain. Their Brother of the Week is Walt Todd.

Dave Venekiasen Mgr. Ed.

"Those Poor Lost Souls"

"The faith that I had brought to college was gone. I began to wonder about things. I was unsure." This is a statement one of three PC students made while addressing a family night gathering at a nearby church. The subject of their talks was personal Christian growth while at college. Average is the word of describe the three students, average in their beliefs and average in their views on religion. The thoughts they expressed were those of a majority of the PC students, provided they were put in the same situation.

DAVE

The reception their remarks received was one of "those poor souls." Considering this reaction it is evident that the church in general is failing to provide for the college student. When the college freshman walks onto the campus of higher learning he is confronted with forces that will tear down the wall the church has built around him.

Professors make statements that make the student sit up and think maybe my beliefs are all wrong, maybe the Bible is a book of myth and legend. Bible professors and science professors conflict in their views of the creation, evolution and so on. The result in many things the church has built into the individual are thrown out.

Theoretically the opening statement of this article should never be heard from a student who has been brought up with proper Christian training. The fact remains that it is heard and is said with all honesty on the part of the college student. It is the duty of the church to abandon its conservative methods and concentrate on the Christians of tomorrow.

The church should acquaint the prospective college student with the opinions and different points of view he will be subjected to during his quest for higher education. This could be accomplished by inviting speakers from various facets of college education to address youth groups in the church.

Responsible Christian leaders could prepare the student for the issue that will be thrown at him by realistically presenting it, thus deepening his faith.

Campus News Briefs

Chapel Programs

Chapel programs for the week of March 15-20:

Monday: Dr. G. F. Bass, lecturer.

Wednesday: Chapel worship service, Rev. Robert A. Dobbins, Jr., Purity Presbyterian Church, Chester. Sermon title: "Space Age Christianity."

Friday: Program sponsored by the BSU of South Carolina, Dr. Jack Glaze, speaker.

LETTERS (continued)

But in their last paragraph, Mr. Summerlin and Mr. Lowrance questioned the purpose of people who directed the student convention Wednesday night, implying that these people had only their own interests in mind. Mr. Lowrance and Mr. Summerlin placed themselves in a paradoxical situation by first objecting to student's complaining without offering solutions and then objecting to the students' trying to find solutions to the problems.

When two of our outstanding seniors question the integrity of the promoters of the "rally," one can only admire the intelligence and perception of the two writers. During their almost four years at our institution, they have drawn the conclusion that anyone trying to do something for the betterment of relations between the student body, administration, and faculty has only campus political aspirations and his own interests at heart.

One realizes that maybe nothing has come out of complaining in the past, but if our two seniors were so interested in solutions, then it would seem that they would be interested enough to attend a meeting convened exactly for that purpose. The fact is that neither of the two went to the meeting, and one even tried to talk people out of going.

Granted that they have a right to support whatever they believe, but the question is, what do they want to support? Are they trying to defend their complacent views which have prevailed because of lack of interest on the part of the student body, or are they trying to work for solutions to problems which apparently do not concern them?

Whatever purpose our two mature seniors have in mind in writing to the paper, they are to be lauded for speaking out even if their views are not concurrent with the views of the majority of the students on our campus.

—Bob Warren

Robinson of Duke Will Explain Laser

Dr. Hugh G. Robinson, Associate Professor of Physics at Duke University, will be visiting the PC campus Friday, March 19. He will give a lecture on the Laser, an intense beam of light powerful enough to cut though steel. Using an apparatus valued at five to ten thousand dollars, he will accompany his lecture with a demonstration.

Dr. Robinson received his A.B. degree from Emory University and his Ph.D. from Duke. He has completed four years of post doctoral research and study, three years at Yale and one year at Harvard. In recent years he has published a number of articles in professional journals.

At only thirty years of age, Dr. Robinson has become a world-renowned lecturer. He plans to speak before a group of scientists in England next month.

He will come to the campus after a four-day series of lectures at The Citadel. Dr. Robinson is a nephew of PC's academic dean, Dr. Joseph M. Gettys.

Choir Embarks For Rome

The PC Robed Choir travels this weekend to Rome, Georgia, and Anderson. The choir will leave campus Saturday noon to spend the night in Rome and sing there Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

Sunday evening they will conduct the worship service at the First Presbyterian Church in Anderson. Folowing the evening service the choir will return to campus.

Mid-Semester Timetab

The schedule for midsemes exams has been anounced Dean Gettys and is as follow

Monday, March 22 — 8 o'clock classes.

Tuesday, March 23—9, 11 o'clock classes.

Wednesday, March 24 — 8 1:30 classes.

Thursday, March 25 — 8 o'clock classes.

All classes wil meet as usu if an exam is not scheduled that period. Midsemester grad are due in the Registrar's off Monday, March 29.

Placement Schedule

The following representati will be on campus for intervie with seniors seeking empl ment:

Mr. Carl Wise, Personnel D rector of B. C. Moore & Son Inc., March 16.

Mr. E. C. Silas, Assistant Pe sonnel Director of the Board Public Instruction of Du County, Fla., Marc 17.

Mrs. Edith Ballenger, Assi ant Director of Personnel Greenville County Schoo March 18.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Sadler-Owens
Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

BROADWAY Theatre
MONDAY AND TUESDAY
March 15-16
STRANGE BEDFELLOWS
Rock Hudson, Gina Lollobrigida, Gig Young
WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY
March 17-18
FATE IS THE HUNTER
Glenn Ford, Nancy Kwan
Rod Taylor
FRIDAY and SATURDAY
March 19-20
RIO CONCHOS
Stuart Whitman, Richard Boone, Tony Franciosa

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Belk's

Manstyle Jackets . . . 10.99
—Dacron-Cotton
—Water Repellent
—Machine Washable
—Wrinkle Resistant
Navy — Oyster — Light Blue
Maize
Hubbard Pants 7.99
Dacron-Cotton — Wash 'N' Wear

Waters Takes Over In Top Level Shift

A shift in The Blue Stocking's top level management was announced by Co-Editors Merrie Stancill and Sam Waters in a joint statement to the newspaper's senior editorial staff Monday.

Citing academic pressures and lack of time for her duties as chairman of the drafting committee for the womens' dormitory council, Miss Stancill submitted her resignation as Co-editor.

Waters automatically fell heir to the title of Editor upon Miss Stancill's stepping down from the dual editorial chair. He immediately asked Miss Stancill to accept the less time consuming position of Assistant Editor which she had previously held under the newspaper's former Co-Editors.

Since its conception in 1920, The Blue Stocking, with one exception, has been under the control of a single editor. The 1963-64 Allison-Wells Co-Editorship marked the first interpretation of a dual editorial chair.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 19, 1965 — No. 16

College Will Entertain Scholarship Hopefuls

PC will welcome twenty high school seniors to the campus next weekend as finalists in the Founder's Scholarship competition.

They will arrive Friday afternoon, March 26, and will be shown around the campus by members of the Blue Key. Friday evening they will be entertained at a banquet, at which President Weersing and Dean Gettys will each make a short welcoming speech.

Leaders of various campus organizations will give brief talks to acquaint the finalists with PC's extra-curricular activities.

Saturday morning Dr. Cooler of the Guidance Department will give a series of tests which will be evaluated with other academic material already on hand to make the final selection. Selections are based on intellect, leadership, character, and need. The ten winners will receive scholarship grants ranging from $300 to $1,400 per year for four years of study.

Six girls are included among the twenty students who come from these four states: South Carolina, 8; Georgia, 9; Alabama, 2; and North Carolina, 1.

The 20 finalists are:

South Carolina—Miss Gladys J. Goodwin and Miss Mara L. White, both of Spartanburg; William D. Catee of Kershaw; Kenneth A. Dodds of Charleston; Richard O. Hay of Wadmalaw Island; Louis D. Hudson, Jr., of Myrtle Beach; James B. Page of Woodruff; and Miss Glacia A. Theus of Columbia.

Georgia—Miss Sarah C. Bergmon of Stone Mountain, Ga.; Henry H. Cobb, Jr., of Decatur; Miss Susan T. Easley of Macon; John P. Huist of Statesboro; William H. Kimbrough, Jr., of Pine Mountain; Sherwood C. McKay, Jr., of Atlanta; Charles R. Marchman, Jr., of Clayton; Wilbur R. Otey, III, of Gainesville; and William H. Scott of West Point.

Alabama — Miss Katrina M. Compton of Fairfield; and Danny K. Wyatt of Huntsville.

North Carolina — Edward B. Cooper of Charlotte.

Presbyterian Robed Choir Leaves On Weeks Tour of Georgia, Florida

Dr. Edouard Patte, conductor of the Presbyterian College Robed Choir, will take his choir of 29 men on the annual tour through Georgia and Florida, with an opening concert in Macon, Ga., on Thursday night, March 25.

Using "Covenanters" as the theme for their religious program, the choir presents twelve numbers, most of which are sung a cappela. The variety of music used is for the purpose of making each performance an experience of spiritual meaningfulness in religious worship. Preceding each song is a relevant scripture reading, done by one of the choir members.

The following music will be used at each program presented on the tour: "Gloria In Excelsis," "Hospodi Pomilui," "Richard DeCastre's Prayer," "Christ To Thee Be Glory," "When Jesus Wept," "Nobody Knows, But Jesus."

Also "Honor, Honor," "Who'll Be A Witness," "God's Son Has Made Me Free," "All Enemies Are In Thy Hands," "Bless The Lord, O My Soul," and "O God, Our Help In Ages Past."

The tour then continues as follows:

March 26, P. M.—Gainesville.
March 28, P. M.—Fort Lauderdale, Fla.
March 28, P. M.—West Palm Beach, Fla.
March 29, P. M.—Sanford, Fla.
March 30, P. M.—Brunswick, Ga.
March 31, P. M.—Hinesville, Ga.

The choir travels approximately 5,000 miles each year and is completely self-supporting.

Members of the Robed Choir are:

Woody McGinn, Paul Conger, Mike McGehee, Charlie Hayes, Kenneth Terrell, John Weigel, Jack Greene, Jim Loyd, John Guest, Tim Grey, Bill Hanger, Hank Parks, and Sam Lipsey.

Also Lewis Hay, Arthur Baxter, Phil Burns, Sam Waters, Henry Stakely, Earlie Rash, Bill McFaddin, G. Wardlaw, Bill Humphries, David Worth, Jim Stanford, Bill Quinn, Woody Hall, Skip Taylor, Dave Templeton, and Brad Dillard.

Asked about the tour, President Jack Greene said, "If we aren't hindered by sickness, it should be a very good trip. The trip to Florida three years ago was very successful, and we are looking forward to this one, hoping it will be equally so."

The choir will return to the campus Thursday, April 1, at noon to begin their spring vacation.

Military Ball Now At Hand; Weekend Festivities Begin

Merrie Stancill
Blue Stocking Assistant Editor

Tonight is the night. A flashing arch of swords awaits all who attend the Military Ball this evening from 8 to 12. This is the annual dance sponsored by the Scabbard and Blade.

Army camouflaging has transformed Leroy Springs Gymnasium into a park scene, complete with Cupid's fountain, for those who want to bargain for wishes.

Burt Messengale's orchestra will provide the musical complement to this year's dance. Acknowledged as veteran performers, they have entertained at Virginia Tech, Richmond Polytechnic Institute, and Hampden-Sidney.

Guest of honor is Col. Walter B. Todd, a PC graduate and a member of the regular army. Col. Todd is also the father of PC's own Walt Todd. Included in the line-up of guests, in addition to the faculty and the Cadre, will be former PMS at PC, Col. Simpson, Major Jacobs and Mrs. Wysor, wife of the late Gen. Wysor.

COL. TODD

Attire for cadets is to be dress greens with white shirt and tie. Not to be outdone by their escorts, the ladies will add a touch of glamor in cocktail or semi-formal gowns.

The traditional sabre arch, provided by the Wysor Rifles' Drill Team, highlights intermission as all senior members of ROTC are honored. As a part of

(Continued on page 4)

STUDENTS DISCUSS DAMAGE inflicted by Wednesday's hailstorm with Sgt. Daniluk. Damage included broken windows, ripped convertible tops and scarred paint jobs.—Photo by R. Waters.

Fraternities Losing Hold; Supper Clubs May Replace

Davidson College proposes to replace fraternities with supper clubs. The Fraternity Evaluation Committee, after a recent investigation and study of the social institutions of the college, recommended there be no rush this September as a first step towards a system of eating clubs with membership determined by individual choice and limited by capacity.

The Fraternity Committee urged that radical changes be made to limit the sphere of fraternities. Most prominent of the proposals made is that a campus-wide social committee be set up to plan and carry out all major social functions for the student body. This plan would all but eliminate the fraternity system.

The Southern Presbyterian Church supports the school, but to date has made no comment pro or con on the subject at hand. In many respects Davidson is similar to PC. Such changes as have been proposed could possibly have an effect on the social activities at this school.

The current evaluation at Davidson has been brought on by the decision to desegregate the school. The purpose, then, served by the proposals is to eliminate discrimination against some students and to change the membership requirements of social organizations.

The trend of the school toward liberalization has brought a backlash effect against fraternity "exclusiveness." The college will make a final decision later this spring.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor — Sam Waters
Assistant Editor — Merrie Stancill
Business Manager — Larry Preston
Managing Editor — Dave Veneklasen
News Editor — Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor — Jimmy Ramage
Sports Editors — Bill Bassham, Grady Marshall
Feature Editor — Susan Gilbert
Activities Editor — Hugh Weldon
Movie Editor — Christie Patterson
Greek Editor — Jimmy Humphries
Copy Editor — Woody McGinn
Typists — Ray Summerlin, Bruce Hughes
Associate Editors — Gary Crawford, Al Pearce, Alex Patrick, Glen Browder
Circulation Manager — Ellis Jenkins
Cartoonist — John Weigel
News Staff — Jim Bell, John Jones, Joan Vassey, Brooks Styles, Bill Bucheit, Sarah Stribling, Woody Hall, Bruce Hughes

Absent or Non-Existent

MORE THAN HALF A MILLION South Carolina voters cast their ballots at the polls on November 3, 1964, to determine which slate of electors would represent them in the presidential election. However, an uncounted number of eligible voters were denied this constitutional privilege. These were South Carolina's students in the nation's colleges and universities, who, unable to make long journeys while missing classes and possibly examinations, were compelled to sit idly by.

The situation reached national attention in the case of a Wheaton College coed, Candy Yaghjian, who, through the coalescence of finances by her fellow students, made the trip to her Columbia precinct. Candy was the only eligible voter at Wheaton who could not vote in absentia.

THE CONSTITUTION explains why students were denied an absentee ballot in Article II, Section 7:

"For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this State, or of the United States, or of the high seas, nor while a student of any institution of learning."

South Carolina Attorney General Daniel R. McLeod interprets this as excluding the college student.

DESPITE OUR LEGAL SYSTEM whose roots extend deep into the past, this state, one of the two remaining in the United States which does not make provisions for a student absentee ballot, is hesitant, as one senator expressed, "because of the corruption which might come about."

A deprivation on these grounds, we contend, is narrow and basically weak. Morally and equitably the balance of Justice could not swing to that side. In essence, it is the censure of one crime, while allowing the continuance of a much greater one.

THAT THE STUDENT IS the "cream of the crop" of the rising generation has been widely accepted by Americans. Every young person comes under a compelling force at one time or another to better himself through college education. Yet during this very process to which he has been encouraged by the spiritual, social and political leaders, he is denied a ballot. And those high school classmates not "good enough" to be in college are extended this coveted right.

College men and women generally have a better knowledge of politics and the issues involved than many of the elder citizens, much less the younger "uneducated" citizenry. Is not an educated choice superior to an uneducated one?

A CLEMSON UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR has made an extensive study of the way an absentee ballot would work. Professor Tuttle explains, "A student would register in his home county and then vote in his home county by absentee ballot from the college he was attending—be it in South Carolina or any other state.

A DRAFTING OF A BILL in the Senate of South Carolina has been enacted in this 1965 legislative term.

In states which allow absentee balloting by civilians, the general procedure is to mail the marked ballot, along with a notarized affidavit, to one's home town election board several days before the election."

The bill, introduced by Senator Earle Morris of Pickens County, is now in the Senate Judiciary Committee. Several South Carolina students attending the March 9-10 Intercollegiate Legislative Seminar presented statements in favor of an absentee ballot to this committee. Its chairman, Senator Marion L. Gressette (Calhoun County), was visibly impressed at the interest displayed and promised to entertain the motions made by these students.

THE GREATEST OBSTACLE the bill faces presently seems to be in getting successfully through the committee now holding it in circumspection. The influence of maturely thinking students favoring the bill will have a hastening effect on its legislative itinerary to becoming law.

S. C. W.

A Great Place—If Anyone Really Cared

By Nosmo King

The father anxiously opened the letter he knew to be from his son. His son was having the chance to go to college that he had never had. His son meant everything to him since his wife had died, and he would beam proudly when he told others that he had a boy in college.

He read the letter:

Dear Dad,

Gosh I wish you were here to talk with me. I am confused about all this college business. Dad, something's wrong here. I can't quite put my finger on it. I feel like I'm still back at good ole Central High.

All the guys up here seem like real idiots. Dad, hardly any of them are concerned about their education, or being good citizens, or anything.

All they think about is the girls they date and how far they can go with them, what kind of grades they are making, or how drunk they were on such and such night, or sports, when they think at all.

Dad, I haven't been in an intelligent, thought-provoking conversation or discussion with anyone. I'd feel like a fool if I tried to start a conversation with anybody like the ones you and I used to have.

They don't read anything but James Bond books, dirty novels, or men's magazines. Most of them don't even read the books they are assigned for extra reading or book reports. When they read a newspaper all they look at is the sports page and the funny papers.

You should go to one of our chapel services. The boys just aren't interested. They blame it on being required to go and poor speakers and such, but they don't listen to any of them. I asked a boy down the hall if he agreed with what this one preacher said, and he told me he almost went to sleep, and let it drop at that.

Even in classes the boys very seldom ask thought-provoking questions. I think they must be embarrassed or something, but sometimes I wonder if they even care enough to ask a question in the first place. All they seem to care about is getting the grade and getting through with the course.

Some of the boys here won't even take a course under a new professor until they know whether or not he will be hard or easy to get a grade under.

We had a concert here the other night by the Atlanta Symphony, but only about fifty boys went. They'd rather drive a hundred miles to date and drink beer, than to go to a free concert on campus.

Dad, hardly anyone knows anything about classical music, art, or anything like that. I asked someone how to get to the music room in the library and he said, "It's somewhere up on the second floor."

Like I said before, I can't put my finger on the probelm, but I can't be all the fault of the students. I know a lot of times I've had to wait until after class to ask a question because the professor was so busy giving his lecture to try to stay on his schedule that he didn't have time for questions.

We never have seminars or discussions with the faculty members except when one of the clubs has one for its program. And even when they try to have something like this, not enough of the boys go to make it worth the time and effort the professor puts into it.

You'd think that the academic dean would promote this kind of thing, but I guess he doesn't have the time to put it on.

You remember how impressed we were with the statement in the catalog about seeking to provide the essential training necessary to produce resourceful, enlightened, and competent leaders in the Church and nation."

And about the purpose as a goal being the "education of young men and women in the realm of liberal arts and sciences within a distinctive Christian context," and, "the education in the liberal arts tradition can be achieved successfully only through a program which is characterized by academic excellence, and through those non-academic activities which contribute to the growth of able minds, sound bodies, and strong moral character." They don't seem to be "practicing what they preach" here, Dad.

Dad, this could be a great place if anyone really cared. Really, I'm over a barrel. I've come too far to quit now, or to transfer somewhere else, Dad. The small Christian college is not all it's cracked up to be, as far as I can see.

Well, I guess I've about got it off my chest now, and I can talk about it later. There are some things I have to get done before tomorrow, so for the time.

Love,
Nosmo King

Letters To the Editor

Due to the active interest of students in writing letters to the editor, some changes in length of letters should be effected. In the future the letters to the editor should not exceed 250 words, typed in double space, and not submitted later than 8:00 p. m. on Wednesday.
—Ed.

Dear Mr. Loyd:

I read with gratification your letter in the March 5 issue of "The Blue Stocking."

I wish to thank your for your complimentary reference to the "fine military department", and I also commend you for your perceptiveness and patriotic interest in noting that our flag needs replacement.

However, to justify your confidence in us I should like to enlighten you a little on the subject of a replacement flag.

The army tables of allowance do not authorize this unit a flag that fits the existing flag pole. Rather than leave our

(Continued on page 4)

Dave Veneklasen Mgr. Ed.

Who's Leaving?

Rumors have recently been going around Presbyterian College concerning professors leaving at the end of this school year. As the individuals most directly influenced, the students should be informed as soon as possible of the faculty turnover.

DAVE

Sophomores will soon be signing up for their major fields of concentration for their junior and senior years. Among other factors influencing the choice of major, the professors making up the department play an important part. A department is no better than the professors who form it.

Students who have already chosen their major may want to reconsider their selection on the basis of a professor's leaving. It is difficult to replan the course of study once the sophomore or junior has committed himself.

It would be an advantage then to the student, the registrar and the faculty advisor and all concerned with the course of study if a list was released of faculty members who are leaving. Much valuable time and paperwork could be saved.

In trying to find truth in the rumor, this writer was declined a list of faculty members who are leaving. Dr. Gettys commented that it would be up to the individual professor to announce his own plans.

Sports Sidelines

Television vs Writers

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

Defense of TV

During the past ten years animosities have been growing between sports writers and television. In a March 20 editorial, the editor of TV Guide defends television's coverage of the sporting world.

Television has killed public dependence upon sports writers for events. Fans can watch many of their favorite events on television, which gives reports on happenings in other events as well.

For awhile many of the writers were satisfied by the public depending on their expert comments and amusing writings. The last straw fell when the games began to change to accommodate television coverage. For example, television crews signal the referees of football games for time-outs to allow for commercials. Last year the U.S. Golf Association split the final thirty-six holes into two days instead of the usual one for "television money."

Some of the sportswriters' main complaints covered golf, football, boxing, and baseball. These writers are being very narrow-minded for their own cause. Where before for only a few people could witness sports events, now millions of viewers can follow their favorite sports.

Boxing Suffers

Television has helped to kill boxing, but it is questionable as to whether boxing could have continued anyway. Dispensing words on boxing was once the sportswriter's job. Today most people follow only the heavyweight championship. A certain loud-mouthed "champ" gives this match its publicity.

Nationwide Coverage

Television has made professional and college football one of the most popular spectator sports today. Viewers all over the United States now support their favorite professional teams as enthusiastically as local high school teams were once supported.

Golf is no longer a rich man's game but is instead a fast-growing spectator sport. The names of golf's greats are as well-known as baseball stars. Thousands of average Americans have taken up the sport because of its television publicity.

Baseball has probably benefitted from television coverage more than any other sport. The New York Mets, baseball's "losingest" team, will receive almost 1.5 million dollars this year for television rights.

Adjustment Needed

It is true that sportswriters may be losing some of their old prestige, but progress has to be made in everything—even sports. The writers will just have to adjust to the situation.

The sportswriter definitely has not lost his place in American sports. No one else can report on the total picture of all events. It is the sportswriters' duty to give the public the behind-the-scenes action, which is wanted as much as it is needed. Most of the writers have adjusted and are giving the public the total picture. That they are not dying out can be seen by the number of fans who read the sports page before anything else in the paper.

Campus Sports

On the campus scene, sports are beginning to pick up again. Golf and tennis are both underway, and baseball and track will begin after spring holidays.

Intramural sports are in full swing. Basketball will end next week, but the spring sports will be in soon. Intramural director Don Warlick reminds fraternity presidents to get their track teams together. The spring track meet will be held after holidays.

Softball rosters are in, and play will begin after mid-term exams. The field is already under construction and with good weather should be completed in time.

Tennis, Baseball Debut At Home; Blue Hose Host Furman Linksmen

The home debut of the Presbyterian College tennis and baseball teams, along with another match for the golf team, highlights the coming week's spring sports calendar. Seven events are on tap for the Blue Hosemen.

Leading off the full week will be the first home match of the season for the tennis team. Fresh from a convincing win over an improved South Carolina squad, the netters will take on Amherst College of Massachusetts. PC met the Amherst team last spring, defeating them in a home match.

Coach Billy Tiller's team will take the field on Tuesday against Tusculum College of Tennessee. The game will begin at 3:00 on the Clinton Mills Park, with southpaw ace Jimmy Cape expected to hurl for PC.

Southern Conference representative George Washington University will bring their powerful tennis team to PC to play the Hose on Wednesday. The Colonials are perennially among the best in the Southern Conference and are currently on their spring tour into the Southeast.

The fine PC golf team will return to friendly Laurens Country Club to play host to Furman University on Thursday. The squad, ranked among the best in the state, has defeated Belmont Abbey and a good Wofford team and had a match today with the University of South Carolina.

Also on Thursday the tennis team will entertain Williams College on the PC courts. Also on their Southeastern tour, and experienced down the line, Williams will probably be a major challenge to PC.

The baseball team travels to Charleston on Friday to take on The Citadel in games on Friday and Saturday. The tennis team on Friday continues their home stand, with their fourth match of the week, this one against Ivy League member Dartmouth College.

Presbyterian's tennis squad opened its 1965 season with a decisive 8-1 triumph over the University of South Carolina Wednesday. The Blue Hose showed good form even though the Gamecocks are winless in three tries.

The Hose swept through the singles without losing a match. Ace Bob Harris defeated Howard 6-4, 6-2, and Howdy Letzring defeated Bob Munn 5-7, 8-6, 7-5, on a strong comeback effort.

Pete Collins eliminated USC's Cox 6-3, 6-1, while Bill Gillespie had little trouble defeating Hartley 6-2, 6-2. Sophomores Larry Connelly and Billy Asbury excelled over White and Allen respectively by scores of 6-1, 6-0, and 6-3, 6-0.

In the doubles matches PC's Harris and Gillespie fell to the Gamecocks' Howard and Munn 6-4, 7-5. The Hose rallied in the last two doubles matches as Letzring and Collins defeated Cox and Allen, and Arch Hudgins and Doug Haney topped Willis and Hartley, 6-2, 6-3.

Belmont Abbey, Wofford Outpointed By Blue Hose

Presbyterian's golfers are off to a driving start with two wins in as many contests. The team won its first match this season 15-3 over Belmont Abbey Monday, and defeated Wofford 16½-10½ yesterday.

Monday's competition saw freshman David Sale win medalist honors with 76 on the par 72 course. The first four men for PC were Bill Kellam, a junior; David Sale; Bruce Lawrence, a sophomore; and Larry Preston, a junior.

In yesterday's competition PC defeated Wofford in a 27-point match. Wofford, predicted as one of the best teams in the NAIA last year, is expected to be even better during the 1965 season. The Terriers dropped a close match earlier this week to USC, 13-8.

Both the Terriers and the Hose were hampered Thursday by the playing condition of the course, which was damp and rough from a Wednesday evening hail storm.

Medalist honors were taken by Bill Zeigler of Wofford in his decision over Bill Kellam, 72-74, in the number one foursome. Bruce Lawrence shot a 75 to beat the Terriers' Frank Limehouse by 3 strokes, which gave the two schools a split on the foursome of 4½ points each.

The PC team of Sale and Preston defeated Wofford's David Henderson and Roddy Stroman 8-1. This win was actually the deciding factor in the Blue Hose victory.

The Allan Parsons and Bunky Hanks team lost to the Terriers' George Reynolds and George Holiday by the slight margin of 3-4. Yet the combined totals presented the Hose with an over-all victory.

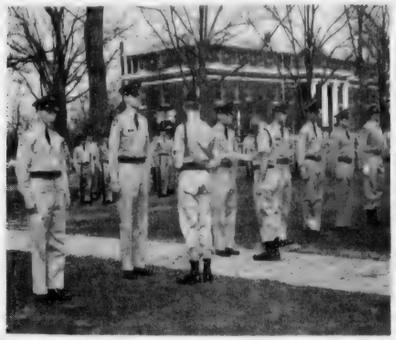
PC played USC this afternoon in Clinton, and meets Furman here next Thursday.

Despite bad weather and high scores, Coach Warden is expecting the team to turn in performances in the mid 70's. He commented, "All in all it looks like a very successful season for the golfers."

Four Teams Remain In IM Tournament

Intramural basketball came nearer to the finals in spirited competition this week. Only four teams from the starting eight remain in the post season, double elimination tourney.

The PiKA first team, averaging over 64 points per game, has run roughshod over every other team. They are followed by the PiKA second team, Sigma Nu and Alpha Sigma Phi. Next Monday's action pits the Alpha Sigs against the PiKA second team.



Don Blanchard, PiKA first team, continued to lead the scoring with a 20.3 point pace. Behind Blanchard are Bill Riner, PiKA second team, 17.0; Joe Gettys, KA, 16.6; Jackie Nix, Pounders, 15.3; Buddy Guy, ASP, and Frank Markette, SN, 14.7; and Grady Mrashall, ASP, 12.7.

Rounding out the list are Mr. Stebbins, Faculty, and John Morrison, KA, 11.0; Mr. Campbell, Faculty, 10.5; and Garnet Welch, SN, 10.0.

April Sports Spotlight

April 5	Tennis	Harvard	Clinton
April 8	Tennis	Harvard	Clinton
April 9	Tennis	Florida State	Clinton
April 10	Tennis	Clemson	Clemson
April 12	Tennis	Grove City College (Pa.)	Newberry
April 12	Baseball	Newberry	Clinton
April 13	Tennis	Clemson Freshmen	Greenville
April 13	Golf	Furman	Clinton
April 13	Track	Davidson	Belmont, N. C.
April 14	Baseball	Belmont Abbey	Spartanburg
April 14	Track	Wofford College	Clinton
April 14	Tennis	Slippery Rock College	Spartanburg
April 15	Golf	Wofford College	Clinton
April 16	Baseball	Erskine College	Clinton
April 19	Tennis	Georgia	Augusta, Ga.
April 20	Golf	Augusta College	Augusta,
April 20	Tennis	Augusta Col. PC "B" Team	Clinton
April 20	Track	Taylor	Clinton
April 21	Baseball	Wofford College	Greenville
April 21	Tennis	Furman	Clemson
April 22	Golf	Citadel, Col. of Charles. PC	Hampton
April 23	Baseball	Wofford College	Spartanburg
April 23-24	Tennis	State Intercol. Tourney	Clemson
April 23-24	Golf	State Intercol. Tourney	Hampton
April 24	Track	Davidson Relays	Davidson, N. C.
April 26	Golf	Belmont Abbey	Gastonia, N. C.
April 26	Baseball	Erskine College	Due West
April 26	Tennis	Augusta Col. PC "B" Team	Augusta
April 26	Baseball	Belmont Abbey	Clinton
April 27	Golf	Augusta College	Clinton
April 27	Track	Lenoir Rhyne	Clinton
April 27	Tennis	South Carolina	Clinton
April 28	Tennis	North Carolina State	Raleigh, N. C.
April 30

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

CADET LT. COL. HUDGINS congratulates cadets on their expert marksmanship rating

Freshmen Cadets Win Marksmanship Awards

One hundred twenty-five medals for qualification in small arms marksmanship were awarded to PC ROTC Cadets, announced Lt. Colonel Richard W. Ulrich, Professor of Military Science at the college.

The cadets, all freshmen, fired the standard Army smallbore course in connection with their military science curriculum during the first semester of this school year. The course consisted of ten shots from each of the prone, kneeling and standing firing positions.

At least 250 points were required to make expert, 210 for Sharpshooter and 180 to qualify as Marksman. Maximum possible score was 300 points, 100 from each position.

Ten cadets qualified for the superor rating of Expert, 49 for Sharpshooter and 66 made Marksman. High scorer, exclusive of rifle team members, was Cadet John H. Weigel from Lookout Mountain, Tennessee. He fired 94 prone, 89 kneeling and 86 standing for a 269. Weigel was awarded a trophy Thursday, March 18, at a cadet battalion ceremony for his acomplishment.

ULRICH (cont.)

campus with an incongrous ill-fitting flag or without a flag, a resourceful supply sergeant managed through "unorthodox" requisition procedures to obtain one that was the right size three years ago.

At the beginning of this school year it was apparent to us that the flag was unserviceable. Last fall both the supply officer and the supply sergeant were directed to look for an opportunity to obtain a replacement flag.

Until your well-motivated letter made the press, we were unsuccessful. Mrs. Hellams, the college nurse, read your letter and offered us a flag of undetermined ownership that she had stored away in the infirmary.

Now, thanks to your interest and Mrs. Hellams' generosity we proudly fly a new flag on our campus.

We are happy to note the improved attitude on the part of the student body toward the flag and flag ceremonies. A few years back there was a deplorable disrespect shown the flag by some unthinking students during Cadet Retreat (lowering the colors) ceremonies. The fact that this is no longer occurs, plus interest in the flag as shown by your letter, clearly indicates a healthier condition.

RICHARD W. ULRICH
Lt. Col., Inf.
PMS

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Actors And Movies Compete For Oscars

Christie Patterson
Movie Editor

Peter O'Toole and Richard Burton have been nominated for Best Actor for their portrayals in "Becket", which still remains confined to the can as far as local theatres are concerned.

John Gielgud is a supporting nominee, and the picture itself is in the running with the top contenders, "Mary Poppins," "My Fair Lady," "Dr. Strangelove," and "Zorba the Greek." Eight other nominations, including one for Best Direction, were bestowed upon the film by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences February 23.

In the best actress category is Julie Andrews for "Mary Poppins;" Anne Bancroft for for "The Pumpkin Eater;" Debbie Reynolds for "The Unsinkable Molly Brown;" Sophia Loren for "Marriage—Italian Style;" and Kim Stanley for "Seance on a Wet Afternoon."

Favored to be chosen was Audrey Hepburn for her starring role in "My Fair Lady," but Academy members ignored her completely.

Along with Burton and O'Toole in the Best Actor competition are Peter Sellers for "Dr. Strangelove," Anthony Quinn for "Zorba the Greek", and Rex Harrison for "My Fair Lady."

"Mary Poppins" received the most nominations, 13, while "Becket" and "My Fair Lady" tied with 12.

Reprinted from The Gold and Black, Wofford College.

Campus News Briefs

Tau Phi Pi Meets; Reorganizes Club

The Tau Phi Pi met last Thursday to discuss their purpose and to reorganize certain activities.

A new system was decided on by which each member will be able to participate more actively in the group's activities. For the remainder of the year, each science department will be in charge of a program.

The Chemistry department will present a program highlighted with a speech on March 30 by Dr. Carter on the validity of today's commercial advertisements.

Bill Loeble, president of the Tau Phi Pi, said that he was well satisfied with the outcome of the meeting. Over 50 per cent of the members on roll were in attendance, even though there was no program planned for the meeting.

Johnson Will Head New SCV Officers

The members of Students of Christian Vocation elected Thursday a new slate of officers to serve for the next school year. Erik Johnson, a junior from West Palm Beach, Fla., was elected as president.

Buddy Guy, a junior from Atlanta, Ga., was elected vice-president. Earlie Rash, a sophomore from Glade Valley, N. C., was elected secretary.

Freshmen Diane Brown of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Ken Terrell of Ware Shoals, were elected treasurer and chaplain, respectively. Johnny McCallum, a freshman from Jackson, Miss., was elected S. C. A. Representative.

MILITARY BALL (cont.)

the ceremonies Col. Todd will be presented at this time.

As if further enticement were needed door prizes will make the evening doubly profitable for the winning cadets. The prizes include a transistor radio, two steak dinners for two, and two ten dollar gift certificates from Adair's Men's Shop.

Fraternity suites will be open during the ball. Three fraternities have disclosed further weekend plans. The Sigma Nu's will have the B. S. Players for their party Saturday afternoon from 2:00 until 6:00. That night they will hold a record party at the house.

The Nomads are to fill Laurens' Country Club with sound Saturday night starting at 8 as the Alpha Sigs prepare to blow it out. At the same time the PiKA's with the aid of the Swinging Kings take on the American Legion Hut in Greenwood.

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY-SATURDAY
MARCH 19-20
RIO CONCHOS
Stuart Whitman, Richard Boone
Tony Franciosa
STARTS MONDAY, MARCH 22
THOSE CALLOWAYS

McINTOSH'S
SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel Programs for the week of March 22-27:

Monday—Student Body meeting. Report of newly formed student committee.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service. Mr. Stallworth.

Friday—To be announced.

Sock Takes A Rest

With this issue of The Blue Stocking the presses will cease to roll until April 17. The mid-semester examinations and the upcoming spring holidays disrupt the usual continuity of events to render an earlier publication impossible.

Water Safety Offered

A Red Cross Water Safety Instructors course will begin on March 30 at 4 p.m. in the PC swimming pool. Part I of this course is scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 4:00-5:30. Part II of the course is scheduled for five nights during the week beginning May 10.

Students interested in participating in this course are asked to see Mr. Fakkema in Room 209, Douglas House, as soon as possible.

Federal Inspection Plans Announced

Lt. Col. Richard W. Ul... Professor of Military Sc... announced that the annual ... eral Inspection will be held ... Thursday, April 15. The In... tion will cover the batta... classroom, and military ... ties of Presbyterian College.

Conducting the Inspe... will be Col. S. J. Boyles, P... Wake Forest College, and ... Col. J. A. Lipskey, PMS, R... side Military Academy. ... will be briefed by membe... the cadet staff and visit ... and II classes. Col. Boyles ... Lt. Col. Lipskey will meet ... college officials and Col. U... during the day.

Capt. Robert S. Howe ... mented that though all ca... ries of the military depart... will be scrutinized, the ins... sion the cadets make upon ... inspecting officers will hav... definite bearing on the outc... of the inspection.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

VERNON'S
Welcomes You
— TO THE —
HOTEL MARY MUSGROVE
— FOR —
Some Pleasant Eating

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

Belk's
NEW FOR '65
FARAH WALK SHORTS ..... 3.99 to 6.00
JANTZEN SWIM TRUNKS ..... 5.95 to 8.95
MEN'S ACCESSORIES ..... 1.50 to 3.95
SHORT SLEVE SPORT SHIRTS 3.99
CUFF LINKS — TIE TAC SETS
TIE TACS — TIE CLIPS
INITIAL KEY CHAINS

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 16, 1965 — No. 17

Davies, Lovett, Nelson Compete For Student Council President

Rising Seniors David Davies, Henry Lovett and Rusty Nelson were nominated yesterday to Student Council positions and will compete for office of the presidency next Wednesday.

Other students elected as representatives to the Council are rising juniors Bob Herlong, Jim Johnson, and Bob Warren; and rising sophomores David Berry and Bill Bucheit.

The heavy morning voting, due to a discrepancy between the Constitution and the number of candidates appearing on the junior and senior ballot, was thrown out.

All those who had voted were allowed to re-vote. The time the polls were opened was extended to 4 p. m., thus giving the normal five hours of voting time.

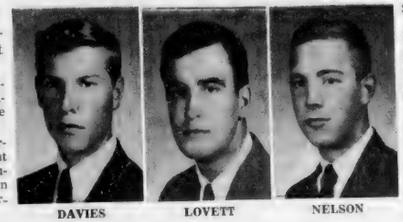
Council President Gary Mike Smith was pleased with the greater turnout for the election than had voted in the nominations. The count includes 89 per cent of the student body, and 320 for a total number voting. Last year's election saw 60 per cent vote.

On Tuesday 59 per cent of the PC student body nominated five rising seniors, five rising juniors, and four rising sophomores to represent them for the 1965-66 school year.

Candidates for president present their platforms at Monday chapel hour in Belk Auditorium. The election will be held Wednesday, April 21, and officers and reperesentatives will be sworn in during chapel Friday, April 23. The candidate capturing the largest number of votes claims the Presidency, while the first runner-up will fill the office of Vice-President. The third candidate will serve as representative of the Senior Class.

The Blue Stocking has obtained the following statements from the candidates:

DAVIES



The challenges which face the student Council next year in striving to serve the students of Presbyterian College will range from the problems of an enlarged campus and expanded Student Body to a workable fulfillment of the best interests of the entire student body.

The solutions lie in a well organized student government which is not aloof from the students not functioning hand in hand with them for the betterment of this college.

The areas which need the most concentration are an up-to-date and functioning Constitution and to work with the faculty and Administration for any changes which will pave the way for a more efficient student policy.

Students must realize that this school is in a period of great transition and revaluation of its policies. It is now the students' responsibility to see that these

(Continued on page 4)

DAVIES LOVETT NELSON

Brandywine Singers Feature PC's Annual Greek Weekend

As a special feature of Greek Weekend the Brandywine Singers will appear in person on the PC campus Saturday, April 24, from two until four. They will present a program of their own special "Button Down Folk Music."

Relatively new to the world of music, the Brandywine Singers have already made a distinct impression throughout the United States, and their records have been well-received both here and abroad. They have just recently finished a tour of music theaters with "The Johnny Mathis Show."

New York critics, noted for their harsh criticism of folk singing groups, have listed the Brandywine Singers among their favorites.

The Singers have also performed at many colleges and universities throughout the country where they have run up a most impressive concert record.

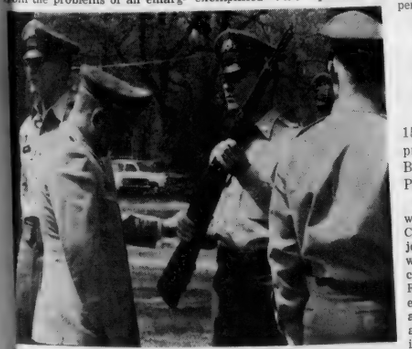
After winning the Intercollegiate Music Festival at Brandon Park in Williamsport, Pa., they have rightfully been acclaimed as "Campus Kings."

PC's good fortune is due to the creditable efforts of the Student Entertainment Committee, which is composed of Chairman Robert Elrod, Gary Mike Smith, Jimmy Cape, Buddy Guy, Bruce Lawrence, John Gaw, Miss Nancy Harvey, and Mr. Earl Halsall, who serves as adviser.

The Singers are sponsored jointly by PC and Lander Col-

(Continued on page 4)

Dr. Toole Will Speak At Honors Day Chapel



The annual Honors Day Program, a week from today, has as its speaker Dr. William Toole, a graduate of and former professor at Presbyterian College.

Dr. Toole will address the student body April 23 during chapel hour. He is now at North Carolina State College in Raleigh. After this address, Dr. Gettys will recognize those members of the student body who have shown outstanding academic and athletic leadership qualities.

The Kappa Alpha Athletic Cup will be presented to the outstanding senior athlete. The American Legion will present an award to that senior who has displayed "unusually high qualities of honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service."

The Ministerial Club Award will go to that "senior ministerial candidate who has best exemplified the qualities of scholarship, interest in extra-curricular activities, and Christian leadership." The Frank Dudley Jones award will be presented to that student who has shown excellence in history, especially Southern history.

To that senior science major having the highest average in science and mathematics will go to the Tau Phi Pi's award. Two sophomores, one majoring in a field of natural science and the other in English, will receive Oeland scholarships. The Neill G. Whitelaw scholarship will be awarded to a rising junior on the basis of "scholarship, need and future promise of superior performance."

"YOU GOT a loose thread on your sleeve here, sonny." The ROTC Federal Inspection team reviewed PC's battalion Thursday afternoon.

Inspecting Officers Praise Entire Military Program

The annual ROTC Federal inspection was held April 15 and resulted in high praise for all phases of the ROTC program at PC. The inspection team included Col. S. J. Boyles, PMS at Wake Forest College, Lt. Col. J. A. Lipsky, PMS at Riverside Military Academy.

On Thursday the inspectors were briefed by Cadet Battalion Commander Arch Huggins. Subjects included in the briefing were the history of the cadet corps, number of cadets in the ROTC program, training received by cadets, and the various awards and decorations which are available each year. Following the briefing the team made a complete tour of the military department, inspecting administration, records, training files, supply procedure and weapons. During the day the inspectors attended two military science classes.

In the afternoon, the team of federal officers concluded with an in the ranks inspection of the corps, conducted on the Plaza, and a formal review held on Johnson football field.

Col. Ulrich said that the inspection was very satisfactory and that the battalion put on a good display.

Leland and Olmert Claim PaC-SaC Posts

LELAND

In Wednesday's uncontested election, rising senior Tom Leland assumed editorship from Bill Gaston for the 1965-66 PaC-SaC.

Fighting a close race with Will Akers, Philip Olmert took the lead to claim the title of business manager.

A resident of Summerville, Leland is a Chemistry major at PC. He brings to the office past experience on the student newspaper and on the annual staff.

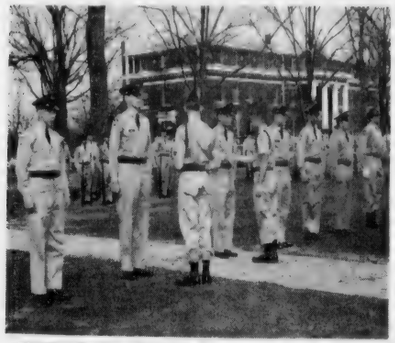
A PiKA, and resident of Bishopville, Olmert is a pre-med major and recent victor in the campaign for SCA vice-president.

Gary Mike Smith, Student Council president, noted that Wednesday's turnout of 59 per cent was a disappointment for a campus-wide election, and expressed hope for better percentages in the remaining elections.

Faculty Approves Cut System Change

Dean Gettys has announced that a plan for revision of PC's absence regulations has been voted on and approved by the faculty and that the revision will go into effect in the Fall of 1965.

The Faculty Advisory Committee is still working on the final statement of the changes in present regulations, and specific details cannot be made available until the statement has been completed.



However, it has been made quite obvious that the changes will place more responsibility on the students as to when and how they use cuts. It is the opinion of the Student Committee investigating absence regulations (which was formed as a result of the Student Body meeting in March) that the revision is definitely advantageous to the students and is an improvement on the present system.

The revision is the product of a special faculty committee composed of Mr. Bill Cannon, Dr. George Clarke, and Dr. Donald Walton. The committee was appointed last October to study our absence regulations and those of other colleges in the area and to recomend changes that might be made at PC.

As soon as the Faculty Advisory Committee releases the final statement of the change, it will be made available to the students through the Blue Stocking.

Coach Warden Resigns

SEE PAGE 3

CADET LT. COL. HUDGINS congratulates cadets on their expert marksmanship rating

Freshmen Cadets Win Marksmanship Awards

One hundred twenty-five medals for qualification in small arms marksmanship were awarded to PC ROTC Cadets, announced Lt. Colonel Richard W. Ulrich, Professor of Military Science at the college.

The cadets, all freshmen, fired the standard Army smallbore course in connection with their military science curriculum during the first semester of this school year. The course consist-campus with an incongrous ill-fitting flag or without a flag, a resourceful supply sergeant managed through "unorthodox" requisition procedures to obtain one that was the right size three years ago.

ULRICH (cont.)

At the beginning of this school year it was apparent to us that the flag was unserviceable. Last fall both the supply officer and the supply sergeant were directed to look for an opportunity to obtain a replacement flag.

Until your well-motivated letter made the press, we were unsuccessful. Mrs. Hellams, the college nurse, read your letter and offered us a flag of undetermined ownership that she had stored away in the infirmary.

Now, thanks to your interest and Mrs. Hellams' generosity we proudly fly a new flag on our campus.

We are happy to note the improved attitude on the part of the student body toward the flag and flag ceremonies. A few years back there was a deplorable disrespect shown the flag by some unthinking students during Cadet Retreat (lowering the colors) ceremonies. The fact that this is no longer occurs, plus interest in the flag as shown by your letter, clearly indicates a healthier condition.

RICHARD W. ULRICH
Lt. Col., Inf.
PMS

ed of ten shots from each of the prone, kneeling and standing firing positions.

At least 250 points were required to make expert, 210 for Sharpshooter and 180 to qualify as Marksman. Maximum possible score was 300 points, 100 from each position.

Ten cadets qualified for the superor rating of Expert, 49 for Sharpshooter and 66 made Marksman. High scorer, exclusive of rifle team members, was Cadet John H. Weigel from Lookout Mountain, Tennessee. He fired 94 prone, 89 kneeling and 86 standing for a 269. Weigel was awarded a trophy Thursday, March 18, at a cadet battalion ceremony for his acomplishment.

Actors And Movies Compete For Oscars

Christie Patterson
Movie Editor

Peter O'Toole and Richard Burton have been nominated for Best Actor for their portrayals in "Becket", which still remains confined to the can as far as local theatres are concerned.

John Gielgud is a supporting nominee, and the picture itself is in the running with the top contenders, "Mary Poppins," "My Fair Lady," "Dr. Strangelove," and "Zorba the Greek." Eight other nominations, including one for Best Direction, were bestowed upon the film by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences February 23.

In the best actress category is Julie Andrews for "Mary Poppins;" Anne Bancroft for for "The Pumpkin Eater;" Debbie Reynolds for "The Unsinkable Molly Brown;" Sophia Loren for "Marriage—Italian Style;" and Kim Stanley for "Seance on a Wet Afternoon."

Favored to be chosen was Audrey Hepburn for her starring role in "My Fair Lady," but Academy members ignored her completely.

Along with Burton and O'Toole in the Best Actor competition are Peter Sellers for "Dr. Strangelove," Anthony Quinn for "Zorba the Greek", and Rex Harrison for "My Fair Lady."

"Mary Poppins" received the most nominations, 13, while "Becket" and "My Fair Lady" tied with 12.

Reprinted from The Gold and Black, Wofford College.

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Campus News Briefs

Tau Phi Pi Meets; Reorganizes Club

The Tau Phi Pi met last Thursday to discuss their purpose and to reorganize certain activities.

A new system was decided on by which each member will be able to participate more actively in the group's activities. For the remainder of the year, each science department will be in charge of a program.

The Chemistry department will present a program highlighted with a speech on March 30 by Dr. Carter on the validity of today's commercial advertisements.

Bill Loeble, president of the Tau Phi Pi, said that he was well satisfied with the outcome of the meeting. Over 50 per cent of the members on roll were in attendance, even though there was no program planned for the meeting.

Johnson Will Head New SCV Officers

The members of Students of Christian Vocation elected Thursday a new slate of officers to serve for the next school year. Erik Johnson, a junior from West Palm Beach, Fla., was elected as president.

Buddy Guy, a junior from Atlanta, Ga., was elected vice-president. Earlie Rash, a sophomore from Glade Valley, N. C., was elected secretary.

Freshmen Diane Brown of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Ken Terrell of Ware Shoals, were elected treasurer and chaplain, respectively. Johnny McCallum, a freshman from Jackson, Miss., was elected S. C. A. Representative.

MILITARY BALL (cont.)

the ceremonies Col. Todd will be presented at this time.

As if further enticement were needed door prizes will make the evening doubly profitable for the winning cadets. The prizes include a transistor radio, two steak dinners for two, and two ten dollar gift certificates from Adair's Men's Shop.

Fraternity suites will be open during the ball. Three fraternities have disclosed further weekend plans. The Sigma Nu's will have the B. S. Players for their party Saturday afternoon from 2:00 until 6:00. That night they will hold a record party at the house.

The Nomads are to fill Laurens' Country Club with sound Saturday night starting at 8 as the Alpha Sigs prepare to blow it out. At the same time the PiKA's with the aid of the Swinging Kings take on the American Legion Hut in Greenwood.

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY-SATURDAY
MARCH 19-20
RIO CONCHOS
Stuart Whitman, Richard Boone
Tony Franciosa
STARTS MONDAY, MARCH 22
THOSE CALLOWAYS

McINTOSH'S
SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel Programs for the week of March 22-27:

Monday—Student Body meeting. Report of newly formed student committee.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service. Mr. Stallworth.

Friday—To be announced.

Sock Takes A Rest

With this issue of The Blue Stocking the presses will cease to roll until April 17. The mid-semester examinations and the upcoming spring holidays disrupt the usual continuity of events to render an earlier publication impossible.

Water Safety Offered

A Red Cross Water Safety Instructors course will begin on March 30 at 4 p.m. in the PC swimming pool. Part I of this course is scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 4:00-5:30. Part II of the course is scheduled for five nights during the week beginning May 10.

Students interested in participating in this course are asked to see Mr. Fakkema in Room 209, Douglas House, as soon as possible.

Federal Inspection Plans Announced

Lt. Col. Richard W. [illegible] Professor of Military Sc[illegible] announced that the annual [illegible] eral Inspection will be held Thursday, April 15. The ins[illegible] tion will cover the batta[illegible] classroom, and military [illegible] ties of Presbyterian College

Conducting the inspec[illegible] will be Col. S. J. Boyles, [illegible] Wake Forest College, and Col. J. A. Lipskey, PMS, R[illegible] side Military Academy. [illegible] will be briefed by members the cadet staff and visit [illegible] and II classes. Col. Boyles [illegible] Lt. Col. Lipskey will meet [illegible] college officials and Col. Ul[illegible] during the day.

Capt. Robert S. Howe [illegible] mented that though all cat[illegible] ries of the military departm[illegible] will be scrutinized, the imm[illegible] sion the cadets make upon [illegible] inspecting officers will hav[illegible] definite bearing on the outc[illegible] of the inspection.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

VERNON'S
Welcomes You
— TO THE —
HOTEL MARY MUSGROVE
— FOR —
Some Pleasant Eating

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

Belk's
NEW FOR '65
FARAH WALK SHORTS ..... 3.99 to 6.00
JANTZEN SWIM TRUNKS ..... 5.95 to 8.95
MEN'S ACCESSORIES ..... 1.50 to 3.95
SHORT SLEVE SPORT SHIRTS 3.99
CUFF LINKS — TIE TAC SETS
TIE TACS — TIE CLIPS
INITIAL KEY CHAINS

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 16, 1965 | No. 17

Davies, Lovett, Nelson Compete For Student Council President

Rising Seniors David Davies, Henry Lovett and Rusty Nelson were nominated yesterday to Student Council positions and will compete for office of the presidency next Wednesday.

Other students elected as representatives to the Council are rising juniors Bob Herlong, Jim Johnson, and Bob Warren; and rising sophomores David Berry and Bill Bucheit.

The heavy morning voting, due to a discrepancy between the Constitution and the number of candidates appearing on the junior and senior ballot, was thrown out.

All those who had voted were allowed to re-vote. The time the polls were opened was extended to 4 p. m., thus giving the normal five hours of voting time.

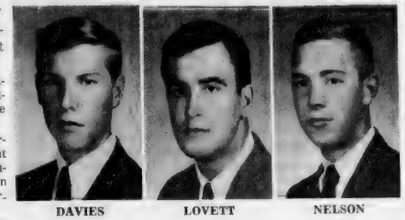
Council President Gary Mike Smith was pleased with the greater turnout for the election than had voted in the nominations. The count includes 69 per cent of the student body, and 350 for a total number voting. Last year's election saw 60 per cent vote.

On Tuesday 59 per cent of the PC student body nominated five rising seniors, five rising juniors, and four rising sophomores to represent them for the 1965-66 school year.

Candidates for president present their platforms at Monday chapel hour in Belk Auditorium. The election will be held Wednesday, April 21, and officers and reperesentatives will be sworn in during chapel Friday, April 23. The candidate capturing the largest number of votes claims the Presidency, while the first runner-up will fill the office of Vice-President. The third candidate will serve as representative of the Senior Class.

The Blue Stocking has obtained the following statements from the candidates:

DAVIES



The challenges which face the Student Council next year in striving to serve the students of Presbyterian College will range from the problems of an enlarged campus and expanded Student Body to a workable fulfillment of the best interests of the entire student body.

The solutions lie in a well organized student government which is not aloof from the students not functioning hand in hand with them for the betterment of this college.

The areas which need the most concentration are an up-to-date and functioning Constitution and to work with the faculty and Administration for any changes which will pave the way for a more efficient student policy.

Students must realize that this school is in a period of great transition and revaluation of its policies. It is now the students' responsibility to see that these

(Continued on page 4)

DAVIES LOVETT NELSON

Dr. Toole Will Speak At Honors Day Chapel

The annual Honors Day Program, a week from today, has as its speaker Dr. William Toole, a graduate of and former professor at Presbyterian College.

Dr. Toole will address the student body April 23 during chapel hour. He is now at North Carolina State College in Raleigh. After this address, Dr. Gettys will recognize those members of the student body who have shown outstanding academic and athletic leadership qualities.

The Kappa Alpha Athletic Cup will be presented to the outstanding senior athlete. The American Legion will present an award to that senior who has displayed "unusually high qualities of honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service."

The Ministerial Club Award will go to that "senior ministerial candidate who has best exemplified the qualities of scholarship, interest in extra-curricular activities, and Christian leadership." The Frank Dudley Jones award will be presented to that student who has shown excellence in history, especially Southern history.

To that senior science major having the highest average in science and mathematics will go to the Tau Phi Pi's award. Two sophomores, one majoring in a field of natural science and the other in English, will receive Oeland scholarships. The Neill G. Whitelaw scholarship will be awarded to a rising junior on the basis of "scholarship, need and future promise of superior performance."

"YOU GOT a loose thread on your sleeve here, sonny." The ROTC Federal Inspection team reviewed PC's battalion Thursday afternoon.

Brandywine Singers Feature PC's Annual Greek Weekend

As a special feature of Greek Weekend the Brandywine Singers will appear in person on the PC campus Saturday, April 24, from two until four. They will present a program of their own special "Button Down Folk Music."

Relatively new to the world of music, the Brandywine Singers have already made a distinct impression throughout the United States, and their records have been well-received both here and abroad. They have just recently finished a tour of music theaters with "The Johnny Mathis Show."

New York critics, noted for their harsh criticism of folk singing groups, have listed the Brandywine Singers among their favorites.

The Singers have also performed at many colleges and universities throughout the country where they have run up a most impressive concert record.

After winning the Intercollegiate Music Festival at Brandon Park in Williamsport, Pa., they have rightfully been acclaimed as "Campus Kings."

PC's good fortune is due to the creditable efforts of the Student Entertainment Committee, which is composed of Chairman Robert Elrod, Gary Mike Smith, Jimmy Cape, Buddy Guy, Bruce Lawrence, John Gaw, Miss Nancy Harvey, and Mr. Earl Halsall, who serves as adviser.

The Singers are sponsored jointly by PC and Lander Col-

(Continued on page 4)

Inspecting Officers Praise Entire Military Program

The annual ROTC Federal inspection was held April 15 and resulted in high praise for all phases of the ROTC program at PC. The inspection team included Col. S. J. Boyles, PMS at Wake Forest College, Lt. Col. J. A. Lipsky, PMS at Riverside Military Academy.

On Thursday the inspectors were briefed by Cadet Battalion Commander Arch Huggins. Subjects included in the briefing were the history of the cadet corps, number of cadets in the ROTC program, training received by cadets, and the various awards and decorations which are available each year. Following the briefing the team made a complete tour of the military department, inspecting administration, records, training files, supply procedure and weapons. During the day the inspectors attended two military science classes.

In the afternoon, the team of federal officers concluded with an in the ranks inspection of the corps, conducted on the Plaza, and a formal review held on Johnson football field.

Col. Ulrich said that the inspection was very satisfactory and that the battalion put on a good display.

Leland and Olmert Claim PaC-SaC Posts

In Wednesday's uncontested election, rising senior Tom Leland assumed editorship from Bill Gaston for the 1965-66 PaC-SaC.

Fighting a close race with Will Akers, Philip Olmert took the lead to claim the title of business manager.

A resident of Summerville, Leland is a Chemistry major at PC. He brings to the office past experience on the student newspaper and on the annual staff.

LELAND

A PiKA, and resident of Bishopville, Olmert is a pre-med major and recent victor in the campaign for SCA vice-president.

Gary Mike Smith, Student Council president, noted that Wednesday's turnout of 59 per cent was a disappointment for a campus-wide election, and expressed hope for better percentages in the remaining elections.

Faculty Approves Cut System Change

Dean Gettys has announced that a plan for revision of PC's absence regulations has been voted on and approved by the faculty and that the revision will go into effect in the Fall of 1965. The Faculty Advisory Committee is still working on the final statement of the changes in present regulations, and specific details cannot be made available until the statement has been completed.

However, it has been made quite obvious that the changes will place more responsibility on the students as to when and how they use cuts. It is the opinion of the Student Committee investigating absence regulations (which was formed as a result of the Student Body meeting in March) that the revision is definitely advantageous to the students and is an improvement on the present system.

The revision is the product of a special faculty committee composed of Mr. Bill Cannon, Dr. George Clarke, and Dr. Donald Walton. The committee was appointed last October to study our absence regulations and those of other colleges in the area and to recomend changes that might be made at PC.

As soon as the Faculty Advisory Committee releases the final statement of the change, it will be made available to the students through the Blue Stocking.

Coach Warden Resigns

SEE PAGE 3

Voters – Ideal or Idle?

EVEN THOUGH individualism has become a thing of the past in the art of politics—perhaps it never existed—let us not cry over its death. It really doesn't fit in our never-may-care society, does it?

ELECTION TIME COMES AND GOES, and the sheep are herded on forever. Bleating pitifully, they are unaware that the herd is being formed, but not all will be allowed in the fold. The name of the herd is coalition and you can name the game.

COALITIONS ARE NOT ALL BAD, they can serve a purpose. Like all useful things, though, they can be abused. The major fault lies not within the coalition, if only one forms, but without. It is not the responsibility of an opponent to organize his opposition. It is for those left to show the same amount of drive or ambition and fight fire with fire.

THE EMBRYO of the American two-party system can be found in opposing coalitions. Despite PC's size, such a plan is feasible. The need is for awareness and organization.

THE GREEKS ARE ALREADY ORGANIZED, therein lies their strength, not in numbers but in organization.

THERE REMAINS approximately fifty per cent of the student body that should and could have a voice. Ironically known as the independents, this group is neither influential presently nor has there been any indication that they will become so in the future.

COULD IT BE they are unaware that they have the present political status of zero- It is debatable as to which is worse, to be an insignificant zero or the mindless pawn of a single political machine.

BOTH OF THESE EVILS can be, if not done away with, at least minimized. Existing together they have the combined effect of political sterilization.

WITH ADEQUATE ORGANIZATION among the independents, the danger of technical rigging in elections would be improbable since not one but two groups would hold the possible majority. With the election no longer assured merely on the strength of formulating one bloc of votes, PC would be able to claim some semblance of representative govrnment.

SHOULD WE NOT STRIVE for some small part of this American ideal?

Individual Yet United

NO MATTER WHAT PATHS our beliefs take, all Christians can find security in two things, the birth and the death of Jesus Christ. It matters little on these points if you are staunchly traditional or radically symbolic, only that you find in your faith the essence of Christianity and the freedom it imparts to all people.

EASTER PROVIDES an opportunity for pause and re-evaluation particularly favorable to the college students. Caught in the final headlong rush that ends a semester and collegiate year, it is truly "the time that tries men's souls."

THE SEASON itself is a convenience and a reminder. It is for each in his own way and time . . .

M. H. S.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor ..... Sam Waters
Associate Editors ..... Gary Crawford, Al Pearce, Alex Patrick, Glen Browder
Assistant Editor ..... Merrie Stancill
Managing Editor ..... Dave Veneklasen
Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Sports Editors ..... Bill Bassham, Grady Marshall
Assistant News Editor ..... Jimmy Ramage
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Activities Editor ..... Hugh Weldon
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Copy Editor ..... Woody McGinn
Cartoonist ..... John Weigel
Circulation Manager ..... Ellis Jenkins
Typists ..... Ray Summerlin, Bruce Hughes
News Staff ..... Jim Bell, John Jones, Joan Vassey, Brooks Styles, Bill Bucheit, Sarah Stribling, Woody Hall, Bruce Hughes

Federal Aid And A Small Church College

Bryson Rousey, Blue Stocking Feature Writer

The massive expansion of federal aid to education, coupled with the increasing financial burdens of the small college, makes the question of participation in federal aid programs increasingly pressing and immediate to PC.

That PC is currently undergoing a period of transition in many areas raises the possibilities of her participation in the greater national transition under the "Great Society."

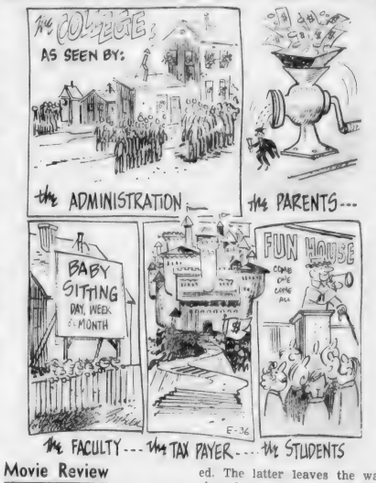
Presbyterian College appears to have no formulated policy concerning federal aid; but by looking at her participation in past programs and examining present attitudes, some light may be shed upon the future.

First of all, though always a private and church-supported institution, PC has never been wholly independent of federal aid programs of some form. Presbyterian's ROTC unit, one of the oldest in the state, is maintained solely by federal funds.

In the field of federal grants, the college has received funds from the National Science Foundation. The Chemistry Department received a substantial grant two years ago and currently the Biology Department is being considered for a smaller grant. In the realm of loans, PC has been quite active in the National Defense Education Loan Program which is the major means by which this college has participated in federal aid programs.

In considering PC's future role in federal programs, the effects of past participation will be a decisive factor. The paramount questions to be asked will be "What were the benefits?" and "What were the adverse effects or restrictions accompanying the aid?"

Another consideration, which PC's business manager deems important, is the fact that any federal aid received by this college will in reality come from our pockets. Also, when we do not avail ourselves of these benefits, we deprive ourselves while our tax dollars flow to other areas and institutions.



If we allow federal funds to pour into larger, more specialized non-religious institutions who we block or limit these sources, the result will be a lessening of the influence of the Christian liberal arts institution in our society. Therefore, our participation in the federal education programs can be regarded as what we can offer the country rather than as a gift from the federal government implying obligation.

Currently, PC is in the process of considering participation in two programs only recently passed by the present federal administration. The Work-Study Program is currently at the stage of proposal and has been acknowledged, but neither approved nor accepted. The program would use federal funds to help create more campus jobs, thereby aiding students with the college benefitting indirectly.

Another program of more eminent concern to this institution is the Federal Higher Education Facilities Program which was passed only last year and is currently being enacted. The program is of special interest to PC because President-emeritus Dr. Marshall W. Brown has been appointed co-ordinator of the program for South Carolina. Funds for the program are authorized, and Dr. Brown is currently in the process of distributing them. PC is eligible to receive some of these funds, as the present policy toward participation appears to be open.

However, Mr. Campbell states that the present enrollment of institutions of higher education is at 3.5 million and in seven to nine years will rise to 6.9 million. He says that as a result of this tremendous growth, "I does not see how private education can divorce itself from government programs.

This reflection perhaps is an indication of future progress in participation in federal aid programs while the school maintains the role of the private church-supported liberal arts college.

Movie Review

He Went That-Away

By Christie Patterson

Charlton Heston has given up his toga for a cavalry uniform as he saunters across the western scene as Major Dundee, in the film by the same name. He portrays a soldier in search of three children kidnapped by the Apaches. The stalwart band he leads includes a drunkard, assorted Confederate prisoners and is rounded out by a couple of thieves. The U. S. cavalry never had it so good.

Once across the Rio Grande, the Major rambles on to problems with more contemporary interest, as the Apaches and their captives fade into sub-plot status. Racial tension springs up as the Negro troops clash with a band of Southern renegades led by Captain Tyreen (Richard Harris) the major's second-in-command. Psycho-analysis thickens the plot, as Major Dundee and Captain Tryreen set out to out-shrink the other's head. They also vie for top honors in the romance department, taking time out from one chase for another. The object of their interest is a shapely German-born widow, played by Senta Berger.

As befits all good westerns, the hero triumphs in the end. The children are recovered and the Chief Sierra Chareta punished. The latter leaves the way clear for another inspiring flick portraying the ensuing bloody battle between U. S. and French troops. Yes, a bloody good film.

Dave Veneklasen Mgr. Ed.

Less Burden On the Parents

With the recent push for higher education by the Johnson administration it seems strange that it does not support a measure that would enable the average American family to spend more on education. This measure would be in the form of a college tax credit.

Parents of college students would be able to deduct from their income tax the cost of tuition, books, supplies, and equipment. A bill providing a maximum credit of $300 or $400 is now before Congress.

President Johnson is currently supporting a bill that would provide help from the government in paying the interest charge for private loans to college students. It would also guarantee the loans and repayment arrangements. This would give financial relief to parents who are trying to educate their children during the years when they are hardest pressed to make financial ends meet.

DAVE

The Defense Education Act under which many students are now attending college has experienced difficulty in the high delinquency rate in repayment. Johnson's suggestion would provide more red tape, more delinquency and more confusion.

If the tax credit plan were followed, parents would be allowed to make thir own financial arrangements. This would give financial relief to parents who are trying to educate their children during the years when they are hardest pressed to make financial ends meet.

During the last session of Congress an amendment providing a tax credit plan in the tax-reform bill was voted down because of pressure exerted by the White House. The issue will probably again receive debate before the college aid program is voted on. The tax credit plan is a positive step toward higher education for America's young people.

Sports Sidelines

Golf Gains Toe Hold Over Noisy Raquets

Grady Marshall, Sports Editor

Whether evident to the student body or not, there has been increased enthusiasm this spring in the golfing phase of campus sporting events. The PC golf team has built a lead in the win slot for spring sports.

With Jack Nicklaus, the new record holder of the Augusta Masters, in the headlines of the sports page every day, the emphasis remains on golf. As a direct consequence the nation as well as PC campus is more golf conscious.

Golfers Anonymous, a self-appointed student group, is ever growing. Clubs can be seen swinging up and down the plaza aiming for fire plugs, trees, sidewalks and the like.

Well Worked Courts

The tennis courts are in full use as summer approaches. Prospective netmen can be seen occupying the courts at all hours from dawn to dusk.

With the onslaught of the season there has been renewed enthusiasm in tennis and the usually powerful PC team. The Blue Hose are again playing many schools much larger and more powerful.

With the opening of spring intramurals and the varsity spring sports the campus has become truly sports conscious. Whether academics have taken second place is for the individual to decide.

Glovemen in Quandary: No Experience Or Wins

The baseball season is barely underway, but the Blue Hose have already had their share of troubles and frustrations. The team, plagued by lack of experience and numerous rained-out practice sessions has a disappointing 0-4 record for their first three games.

Coach Billy Tiller will continue to have sleepless nights with lack of experience and depth on the bench hindering the performance of the pitching department. Veteran hurler Jimmy Cape has had to carry most of the burden on the mound.

Two of the few bright spots so far have been the strong, steady hitting of Wade Stewart, Jimmy Elliott and Danny Charles and the consistent play at second base turned in by Jackie Nix. This has been darkened, however, by a batting slump felt by the rest of the squad. Woes increased the first of this week with the loss of star slugger Wade Stewart. Wade, pulling a .571 average, injured his back causing the return of an old back ailment. Fears are now that he will be lost for the rest of the season.

Despite the troubles holding the "Diamondmen" back, Coach Tiller and Captains Cape and Elliott have high hopes for the future of baseball at PC. This is due mainly to the number of men that will be returning next year. They are looking to freshmen Mike Thurston and Gene Robbins; sophomores Rick Corley, Brownie Johnson and Scooter Holcombe to carry the load after this season.

With Holcombe and Johnson holding down third base and shortstop, respectively, and Corley, who has shown great promise as a pitcher, it is felt that the Hose may come up with a winning combination in future seasons.

Even with the losses to The Citadel, Newberry, Belmont Abbey, and Erskine, spirits are still high in the PC camp.

BROADWAY Theatre

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
"MAJOR DUNDEE"
Charlton Heston, Richard Harris

WED. and THURSDAY
"YOUNG FURY"
Rory Calhoun, Virginia Mayo

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
"GIRL HAPPY"
Elvi sPresley

Spring Sports Swing In; IM Competition Spurs Play

The spring intramurals started last week and the softball pennant could develop into a close one. The Sigma Nu's are a strong favorite with the PiKA's and Alpha Sig's the nearest contenders. The faculty will be the dark horse and could prove tough.

In this week's action the Theta Chi's edged the KA's 13-12. The Sigma Nu's held true to form as they demolished the PiKapps 30-5. The Pounders forfeited to the PiKA's and the Alpha Sig's overcame the Snakes 10-5. In the final game the PiKA's stunned the KA's 19-4.

As the year grows closer to an end, the Sigma Nu's hold a large advantage in the sport's point standings. They lead with 40 points, followed by the Alpha Sig's with 200 and the PiKA's with 110.

The Intramural Track Meet previously scheduled for this Saturday has been postponed due to the Easter weekend. The meet has not been re-scheduled at this time.

An intramural swim meet has been planned but the dates are still uncertain.

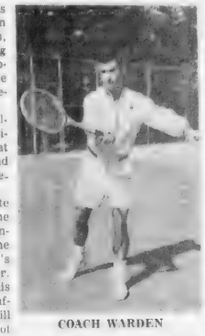
Next week marks the beginning of the badminton, horseshoes and tennis season. Bridge has been cancelled this year. Bulletins concerning the various sports programs will be posted in the cafeteria next week.

Warden Resigns, Goes to Sewanee; Shakespeare Returns to Fill Post

Gordon E. Warden, Jr., tennis and golf coach at Presbyterian College for the past four years, announced to The Blue Stocking today his resignation of this position to accept a post at the University of the South (Sewanee).

Warden will return to his alma mater to assume the position of varsity tennis coach at the University as head golf and tennis professional at the Sewanee Golf and Tennis Club.

Jim Shakespeare, a graduate of Presbyterian College and one of the school's finest varsity tennis players for the four years he was here, will assume Warden's tennis duties in September. Shakespeare, who received his Master's degree from Duke after graduating from PC, will also teach some sections of freshman English.



Contacted in his office Athletic Director Cally Gault expressed his regrets at the young coach's decision to leave Presbyterian. "Coach Warden has had a very highly successful tenure here at PC and we feel he has been a definite asset to the athletic program. We all wish him the best of luck at Sewanee and we are confident he will continue to do a fine job," Gault added.

During his years as tennis and golf mentor at P. C. Warden's teams have compiled outstanding records against some of the leading competition in the intercollegiate ranks. Playing predominantly the teams of the East and South, the Warden-led Hose have not had a losing season.

In his first two years his tennis team's combined record was 36-8. Last year's squad was weakened by graduation losses and the reduction of scholarships, but still managed to finish the season with a respectable 12-6 mark. This spring's team, while having recent troubles against tough competition, is expected to come on strong to have a better-than-break-even season.

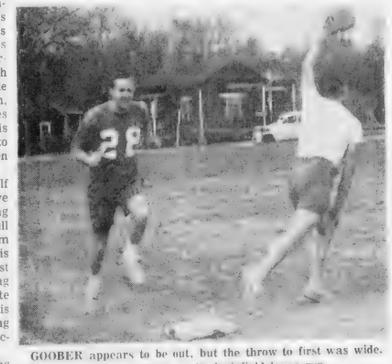
Warden's efforts with the golf program at Presbyterian have brought to the campus winning records in each of his three full seasons, with last year's team winning records in each of his three full seasons, with last year's team posting the leading intercolegiate mark in the state at 12-3. This spring's team is well on the way to approaching that performance, with a 5-2 record.

Warden was an outstanding athlete at Sewanee before being graduated from the University in the early 1950's with an A. B. degree with a major in philosophy and English. He was captain and number one player in the Tigers' tennis squad and won several intercollegiate and invitational tournaments in his junior and senior years. Following graduation he attended the University of Alabama for a year of graduate work in English.

COACH WARDEN

For three years after studying at Alabama he played the U. S. Amatuer Tennis circuit throughout the East. In these years Warden was a highly ranked performer in the Southern Lawn Tennis Association. He held positions as country club tennis instructor in Alabama, Florida, and Pennsylvania during these years of amatuer play.

After several years on the national tennis circuit he went to the Episcopal Seminary at the Nashotah House in Wisconsin. He received his Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1960.



Immediately prior to accepting the coaching position at PC Warden was the only full-time professional for three years at the south Shore Country Club in Chicago.

Wofford Edges Hose; Week's Action .500

PS linksmen broke even last week winning one match over Furman and losing another to Wofford. The golf team defeated Furman 17 to 10. Junior Bill Kellam was low man, turning in a round of 73.

Later in the week, the linksmen journeyed to Wofford. Despite the efforts of freshman David Sale, who burned the course up with a fantastic two-under-par round of 70, at the final tally, Wofford edged PC 14 to 13. Up until the very last PC held a commanding lead of 13 to 3. This was due to the efforts of the first three foursomes. But, from then on, things began to go wrong, and Wofford pulled one out compiling a 14-13 victory.

This coming week, PC travels to Augusta for a match with Augusta College; and on Thursday, The Citadel, College of Charleston, and PC will compete in a three-way tilt in Hampton.

GOOBER appears to be out, but the throw to first was wide. Goober went on to score an in-the-infield home run.

Belk's

WHITE TENNIS SHIRTS 4.00
Enro Short Sleeve
DRESS and SPORT SHIRTS .. 5.99
FARAH WALK SHORTS
5.00 and 6.00

DR. JAMES McBRIDE DABBS, noted writer and educator from South Carolina, made two appearances before Presbyterian College students last week. His Monday lecture at chapel analyzed the Southerner—his emotion and eagerness to fight for a cause. Dr. Dabbs led an open question and answer discussion for the Historia Club Monday night.

Fraternities Open Up

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

The issue of fraternity and sorority discrimination is being resolved more easily at some campuses than others, depending on the viewpoint of the national organization and local campus requirements.

As stated in a recent Collegiate Press Service release, fraternity chapters at Stanford University and the University of Kansas have been successful in challenging discriminatory constitutional clauses, while a sorority at the University of California at Berkeley has met stiff opposition from the national organization because the local signed a university-required non-discrimination pledge.

At Stanford the local chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity announced that it will ask its national organization to allow Negro membership in local affiliates.

If Sigma Chi does pledge a Negro this spring, it would be the first chapter in the country to do so, although the national organization dropped the "white clause" barring Negro membership in 1958. Other minority groups have already been accepted by the fraternity.

Good local-national relationship also characterized the decision of the Sigma Nu national fraternity to release its University of Kansas Chapter from a constitutional clause regarding discrimination by race.

Organizations at Kansas which still have discriminatory clauses will be expected to eliminate them by the spring of the 1965-66 school year. If organizations do not comply they will be subject to distranchisement, restriction of social activities, and denial of participation in student government.

Local independence from national discrimination did not come quite as easily to Pi Beta Phi sorority at the Berkeley campus of the University of California. The Berkeley Pi Phi had to file suit against the national organization to prevent reprisal for having signed the university's non-discrimination pledge. When the local signed the pledge against the national's will, the mother organization attempted to have campus chapter's charter revoked. The local chapter, however, obtained a court injunction, on the basis of a denial of "due process," to block the move.

The reason the national was against the signing of the non-discrimination pledge, according to the Berkeley Pi Chi chapter president, was that they felt the university as a public institution shouldn't have any jurisdiction over a private group such as a sorority.

Many campus chapters of national fraternities and sororities are finding that clauses in the constitutions of the parent organizations are in conflict with university rulings prohibiting discrimination.

Compliance with university requirements often demands a change in the national constitution, a waivering of the constitutional demands, or, in some cases, disaffiliation from the national orgaization.

Greek Activities

Fraternities on the PC campus are planning for Greek Weekend which is held on April 23-24. This week the Sigma Nu fraternity has its annual White Star Weekend, holding two parties over the weekend. The Dardanelles played for them Friday night at the Lakeside Country Club, and Saturday at Lake Greenwood the Dynamics take the bandstand.

Campus News Briefs

Robed Choir Elects Four New Officers

PC's Robed Choir has announced the results of Wednesday afternoon's election of the 1965-66 officers. Jim Loyd, last year's custodian, moves up to top billing as the new president.

Backing up Jim will be Sam Waters, Mike McGhee and Woody Hall who were elected vice-president, treasurer, and custodian, respectively. Appointments by Dr. Edouard Patte, Director of Music, include Earlie Rash as secretary, and Tim Gray as chaplain.

Commented Jack Greene, outgoing president, "This slate is a very capable group who have the ability to carry out the fine tradition of the choir."

Chapel Schedule

Chapel programs for the week of April 19-24:

Monday: Mr. Clinton Harris, Board of Christian Education, Division of Church Relations, Presbyterian Church, US.

Wednesday: Mr. Hal Baird, President of the Men of the Church, General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, US.

Friday: Honors Day, Dr. William B. Toole, North Carolina State College, guest speaker.

PLATFORMS (Cont.)

changes are continued; this can only be achieved through the election of a capable and effective leader who must work for the advancement of this college.

LOVETT

"Presbyterian College is in a period of transition in every respect. I would like to see the student body keep up with the change—do so, the interest, attitude, and overall view of every student towards the workings and goals of the Student Council must change. Too long has the 'no care" attitude cast its shadow over PC. One result of this is the accepted fact of the impotency of the Student Council. There are many things that are ours just for the asking; they have remained untouched for a long time.; too long a time I might suggest to you. I feel it is now that we should act. PC, no doubt, has the needed potential; to me, at this point, the desire to move ahead is the big thing that will accomplish the needs I feel will benefit our school. I have the desire—your support will be greatly appreciated."

NELSON

"The student council of the past year has shown rare intiative and outstanding leadership. The challenge to follow this administration with one as adequate, or even better, is inspirational in itself. My goal will be to extract a maximum of the potential from the student body as well as from the council, and I will use every resource available to serve those whom I represent."

HONORS DAY (Cont.)

lege of Greenwood. Funds for PC's share of the finances were appropriated by the College, and these same funds paid for the Hootenanny last Homecoming. Consequently. there will be no admission charge for PC administration, faculty, students, and their dates.

McINTOSH'S
SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Knights Offer Loans

The Knights Templar Educational Foundation is a non-profit organization created for the express purpose of assisting worthy Juniors and Seniors to complete their college education. The fund now amounts to well over $5,000,000.

As established and operated, it is a Revolving Loan Fund; each student applying for assistance assumes an obligation to repay promptly any sum or sums borrowed according to the terms of his agreement in order that others, equally deserving as himself, may be assisted. Each student thus aided renders service to another and becomes a part of this cooperative plan.

Those wishing further information concerning eligibility contact the business manager, Mr. G. Edward Campbell.

ROTC Offers Two Scholarships To PC

Over 400 students will win Army scholarships in the next four years. The scholarships, recently authorized in the new ROTC legislation cover all tuition, fees, books, and lab expenses charged by the school.

P. C. has been allocated two of the 600 two-year Army ROTC Scholarships. Recipients will be selected from currently enrolled MS/II cadets who plan to enter the advanced Military Science program.

The Scholarship Board met April 13 to select nominees for the scholarships, vaued at $2000 each. Final selection will be made by the Department of the Amy. Names of the recipients will be announced during July, 1965.

Dunlap Fills Top Sp... In State WF Electio...

Dave Dunlap, a rising se... at Presbyterian College, ... elected president of the S... Westminster Fellowship l... month at Camp Longridge. ... Presbyterian organization ... cludes all the colleges of S... Carolina. The conference, le... Rev. Donald W. Shriver of ... University of North Caro... was attended by eight other ... egates from PC.

Also filling an executive p... tion from PC will be John ... gel, who will serve as ex... PC Professor Tom Stall... was selected as the faculty ... visor for the group.

Help Is Available

Business Manager G. Edw... Campbell has suggested ... students in need of scholar... funds apply for such in t... home towns. Many times st... are available form civic cl... foundations, and outher sour...

Such a foundation is the ... Cobb Educational Found... which has funds available ... students beyond their freshm... year who reside in the stat... Georgia. Students are eli... for consideration even tho... they may atend colleges out... the state.

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

ARTS & SCIENCE GRADUATES
TEACH
Earn while learning . . .
• Master's Degree
• Professional Certification
• Anual Income of $5300 Plus
• Placement and Tenure
Qualifications
• No Education Courses Required
• Bachelor's Degree
• A Liberal Education
• Preparation in a Subject Area
INTER TEACHING PROGRAM
TEMPLE UNIVERSITY
Philadelphia, Pa. 19122

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 23, 1965 | No. 18

Cuts Undetermined; Debate Continues On

Because of unforseen complications, the plan for revision of the class attendance regulations cannot be released as yet. Mr. John Glover, Secretary of the Faculty, stated that the proposal requires much reworking before it can be incorporated into existing regulations.

The proposal for revision was not intended to be a complete change but only a modification of certain parts of present rules. Complications arose when it was discovered that parts of the new plan are direct contradictions of portions of the existing rules which were not intended to be changed.

Until the plan can be incorporated into present regulations, no statement as to its nature will be possible. It is possible that the new plan will have to be revised and presented to the faculty for reapproval before it is finally made a part of the rules and released to the students.

Carter And Stump Attend A of S Meeting

Two Presbyterian College professors will deliver papers before the annual meeting of the South Carolina Academy of Science in Columbia tomorrow.

Dr. K. Nolon Carter, chairman of the PC chemistry department, is scheduled to present his findings on "Polyethylene Gas Cells for Infrared Spectroscopy." The paper deals with the use of polythylene bags as containers for analyzing gases by infrared spectroscopy.

Dr. Alex B. Stump, biology department chairman, will give a progress report on his ex-

(Continued on page 6)

Lovett President by Landslide; Honors Recognize Top Students

Paralleling the landslide election of President Johnson, Henry Lovett, defeated Rusty Nelson and David Davies overwhelmingly in Wednesday's fight for the presidency of the 1965-66 Student Council.

Jim Ramage
Assistant News Editor

Lovett, copping 67 per cent of the total votes cast, enjoyed a comfortable 195 vote margin over his nearest opponent, Nelson. A record 80 per cent of the student body voted to give Lovett what appears to be an unquestionable mandate from the students.

Campaign speeches in last Mondays' chapel prepared the student body for the election of one of these three newly elected senior representatives.

There is speculation that the record turnout of 402 out of 504 members of the student body indicates a trend of need and greater interest displayed by the students in their government and its relationship to the administration of the school.

The Blue Stocking received this statement from Lovett:

"Virtually without exception, the new makeup of our council represents the potential realization of full student government.

"It is my aim that this type government, which is founded on the student and which is his voice, may establish our share in the future of PC as a responsibility.

"It is also my hope that the members of our faculty and administration will see the necessity of this responsibility, and will join us through interest and understanding in attaining it as a reality."

HENRY LOVETT, new president of the Student Body, caught in one of his typical moods.

Dr William Toole, a graduate of and former professor at Presbyterian College, addresed the student body and faculty this morning at chapel as a part of PC's annual Honors Day program.

Various honors and awards were conferred upon outstanding students.

The American Legion Award went to Gary W. Crawford and the Ministerial Award to John C. Boyer.

Two awards were given in the history department. To J. Glen Browder the Mendenhall Award and to DuPont Smith the Frank Dudley Jones Award.

Receiving the Kappa Alpha Award was Jackie E. Nix. The Chemical Rubber Company Awards went to physics student James A. Bell and Chemistry student Robert D. Wyrick.

Miss Susanna Jeanes recieved the Tau Phi Pi Award, and Cecil Y. Brown received the James M. Ocland Sophomore Science Award. The Neill G. Whitelaw Scholarship was awarded to D. Bryson Rousey.

The Ocland English Award went to freshman Mac Smith.

Who's Who Certificates were given ot the following students: Robert B. Allison, Ike W. Cobb, Gary W. Crawford, William C. Gaston, Arch P. Hudgins, Miss Susanna Jeanes, William S. Rhodes, Gary Mike Smith, and Walter N. Wells.

James A. Bell, Miss Paula Evans, Miss Susan Gilbert, James H. Johnson, John C. Jones, Miss Amelia Nichols, James L. Ritchie, D. Bryson Rousey, Morrow B. Thompson, and Thomas A. Whitaker were presented Sophomore Academic Society Certificates.

Those honored by membership in the Sigma Kappa Alpha, Senior Honor Socity, were: Miss Nancy Harvey, Thomas E. Hearon, Miss Ann Kirkland, Henry H. Knox, Albert B. Pruitt, Mrs. Ruth Tiller, and Hubert G. Wardlaw.

Dr. Gettys extended his congratulations to these outstanding students on their achievements.

All the new Council members were sworn in this morning during chapel hour, marking the official beginning of a new year on the PC political scene.

Sock Associate Editors Travel to Myrtle Beach

The annual South Carolina Collegiate Press Association convention is being held at the Ocean Forest Hotel at Myrtle Beach this weekend with two senior delegates from Presbyterian College among the 80 college students at the meeting.

Glen Browder, formerly co-editor of sports for The Blue Stocking, and Al Pearce, former Business Manager and co-editor of sports for The Blue Stocking and present sports editor of the Pac-Sac, left this morning for the convention, which will conclude Sunday morning. This is the second year Pearce and Browder have represented PC at the meetings.

The annual convention gathers together student journalists from the major colleges and universities across South Carolina for a weekend of meetings, discussion groups, lectures on publications, and election of officers for the association. Publications are submitted for judgment and awards and prizes are given to individual writers and to schools. The University of

(Continued on page 5)

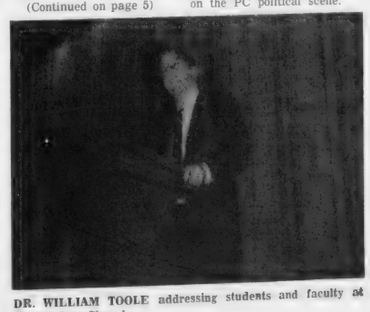
Dr. Moorefield

Philosophy—A Truly Liberal Study

The major in philosophy and religion will consist in completion of 18-21 hours of philosophy and 9-12 hours of advanced courses in religion, all of which must be approved by the Professor of Philosophy. Related courses will be assigned in such fields as political theory, sociological theory, and theory of history.

The major in philosophy and religion offers the interested student a genuine liberal education in the original meaning of the term. It is a discipline which seeks to inter-relate all other disciplines and to help us comprehend the world and ourselves.

To be sure, philosophy (i.e. the love of wisdom) is seen differently through different eyes. For some it is the most important business of life. Others blame it as being an impenetrable mystery, a collection of high-flown and meaningless words. Still others avoid it with the excuse that it has no cash value. "Who wants to hire a philosophy major?" To some degree these are all appropriate. And we should not answer the question by saying, "Oh, he can teach philosophy."



A philosopher is not so much interested in making a living as in making life worthwhile. In our culture, there are some areas that are excellent avenues for this. The newspaper editorialist needs to be a philosopher for no one is called on more to understand and talk intelligently about so many fields. The church ministry desperately needs people who understand the modern world. The alienation of the college students today from the life of the church is abundant evidence of this.

There is a need for thinking politicians who have a broad background from which to work in dealing with the complicated modern world. For those who like to teach, colleges which seek to build on a broad liberal basis of Christianity and Culture such as Saint Andrews and Florida Presbyterian College are available. The list could be expanded indefinitely.

But even if it has little cash value, philosophy reminds a man that however important cash may be, it is not all, nor even the most important part of life. The philosopher is trained to think logically, and thus becomes of service to his community in such areas as jury or political service.

The philosopher is equally interested in the arts and thus becomes a vital asset to his community in terms of helping it aesthetically. The philosopher can help point both individuals and groups toward goals which they have understood rather than blindly received from someone else.

Thus philosophy transforms the other 128 hours of the week, even if it did nothing for a man's actual trade or business ability. Not everyone perhaps is fitted to be a philosopher but everyone is some sort of one in any case. The question is whether one shall be an amateur or a mature one.

DR. WILLIAM TOOLE addressing students and faculty at Honors Day Chapel.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Assistant Editor Merrie Stancill | Editor Sam Waters | Managing Editor Dave Veneklasen

Prelude To Potential

MR. LOVETT'S ELECTION to the presidency of this student body may well have marked the prelude of full student government on our campus.

For years students have clung to the skirts of timidity as if they were not speaking to their potential equals, but to some form of court with feudalistic powers. Mr. Lovett has shown us that timidity is, or can be, a thing of the past. And certainly it should be.

A STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT should address the student in the same frank manner that the President addresses the administrative staff, that the Dean addresses the faculty. The student body president is speaking solely as the representative of the student, and it is the same open relationship he owes the student in student body meetings that the Dean owes his faculty. Mr. Lovett's speech marked the first time any student has clearly set forth student aims in chapel.

In brief, our new president has shown that the student can fearlesssly stand without censorship on his own two feet. We know his potential. But as Lovett noted we also know our own new strength by the success of the coalition and the existence of the student independent meeting.

NOW IS THE TIME for the student body to walk a little taller. In our high school years we were subjected to and became acquainted with strict supervision. Expecting such rigid control upon coming to PC, we unfortunately accepted even more. Perhaps we asked for more.

CERTAINLY THE STUDENT CANNOT RESPECT HIMSELF in such a state of irresponsibility and lowliness. And surely the faculty and administration prefer students to docile little lambs. We do not have a Phi Beta Kappa fraternity because of a shortage of distinguished alumni. It is possible that our graduates had become too acclimated to being supervised and led. Did they become used to submission in college, and find themselves in graduate status continuing to accept, to receive, to follow?

Perhaps this is what will make our future ministers safe tongued in time of controversy; that will keep our future doctors out of universities; that will prevent our future businessmen from executive status; and will make our future Ph.D. candidates the lesser men about the seminar table.

We must become functional members of our campus community. Let us accept Mr. Lovett's challenge in student government; let us stand and inquire, not submit and be led.

THE STUDENT MUST PROVIDE THE DESIRE for active government and campus reform. The student body president must see that student desires are presented intelligently to our faculty and administration. In the same fashion the administration should answer these inquiries of the students, as they would consider it necessary to positively answer the faculty, and vice versa.

Mr. Lovett's speech, and his outline for future government must not be seen as rebellion; that was not his intent, nor is it basically the student intent. His challenge is a positive action toward an interested student body.

PERHAPS WE FORGET sometimes that faculty, administration and student body are mutally interested in the realization of William Plumer Jacobs' dream. An active student government will be a new force on campus. It will make mistakes. But if these mistakes are met with patience and understanding, and thereby all the more support, mistakes will be repelled knowledge.

Let us walk forward, three abreast. S. W.

Europe—The Place For Summer Work

Joey Singleton, Blue Stocking Feature Writer

An estimated 130,000 U. S. college students will head abroad this year to earn, learn, and travel. This experience is available to all American college students who can meet the sole requirement—the desire to work in Europe.

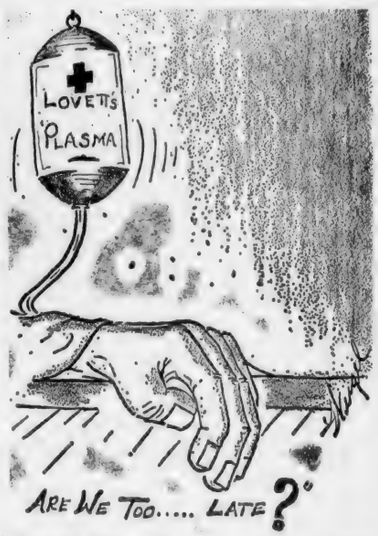
Jobs offered in Europe are much the same as student summer work in the U. S. with employers offering work periods ranging from three weeks to permanent employment. Life guarding, office work, resort-hotel jobs, factory, construction, camp counseling, and farm work are only a few categories of the 15,000 jobs available.

An interesting summer past time not found in America is tutoring. Numerous well-to-do European families are inviting American college students to spend the summer with them and teach their children English.

Wages range up to $400 a month, and in most cases neither previous experience nor knowledge of a foreign language is required. One's wages are generaly tax free because of double taxation treaties between the United States and the country in which one is working.

Also, free room and board are provided. While on the job one not only saving $300-$400 a mon in room, board, transportat entertainment, and incidental penses, but also actually earni

Students are placed in Eu pean jobs by The American S dent Information Service. S dents from 983 American u versities and colleges have tained jobs in Europe thro the ASIS.



The ASIS not only places s dents in their jobs but also p pares them for their summer j in Europe with on-the-scene la uage practice and a do-it-yo self period of adjustment to European way of life.

Mark Twain once note "Travel is fatal to prejud bigotry, and narrow-mindedne all foes to real understandi Likewise, tolerance or bro wholesome views of men a things cannot be acquired vegetating in one little corner the earth all one's lifetime.

Thousands of college studen have realized this and are se ing to broaden thier formal ed cation in Europe and other pa of the world. Students gain insight into unfounded pre dices which are softened a destroyed.

Educators throughout the Un ed States are in general agre ment that a period spent abroa especially in culture-rich Europ is equal to a certain number college credits. A summer j in Europe, furthermore, is excellent opportunity for lan uage students of all levels to im prove their speaking knowled of a foreign language.

These advantages of broade ing one's education, earni money, and enjoying travel make a summer job Europe enriching and rewarding exp rience.

Wine and Roses Dept.

Dear Sam,

I really don't know how to start this. I guess the best way is just to say it openly and frankly. I appreciate very much the invitation to come to Greek Weekend; it made me feel good to know that you thought to ask me. But you've guessed by now that I can't come.

I wish it wasn't this way; then I wouldn't have to write such an awkward excuse and leave you so late without a date on Greek Weekend. But there's no other way.

The Sunday you came over to the house (4th), you met Barry in the yard. Well, Sam, he's the reason nothing can come out of our dating. One night you told me how it was to date a girl wearing another boy's ring; I have no such tie as that with Barry, but I do have the way I feel about him.

Last night you said it was up to me, but you see, it's up to you. If you do date me again, it will be with the full knowledge that it will be just for a good time.

Barry is now overseas (Spain) and won't get home until December 19, which is a very similar situation to this past summer. How it works out will again be up to fate.

I hope there will be no hard feelings, Sam, because I respect you very much and want you to know I had a very good time last night. I also hope things work out for you this weekend.

Always,
Sandy

Dave Veneklasen Mgr. Ed.

Barefoot Reformers

Recently there appeared in the New York Times in its Mar 29 issue an article dealing with a group of college students w drew up a bill of rights for the college faculty and students. T group, made up of 200 students from 39 differnet colleges includi Harvard, Yale, the University of California at Berkeley, state that the college administration should act as no more than hous keepers in the educational community.

The modern educational institution, they feel, should be run t the students and the professors; administrators would act in t capacity of "maintenance, clerical, and safety personnel whos purpose is to enforce the will of faculty and students."

The students also called for a wave of campus rebellion simi lar to that at Berkeley to be spread to all American campuses. The student movement based its thinking on the belief that co leges and universities had become servants of the "financial, i dustrial and military establishments" and that students an faculty were being "sold down the river" by administrators.

DAVE

Folksinger Joan Baez, one of the participan in the conference, stood barefooted before th students and announced that she would start a "institute for the Study of Nonviolence" for stu dents. "We've got to start now to keep the wor from blowing up," she said, "and the way it now, it's heading 100 miles an hour toward th cliff."

The group of self-appointed reformers should stop worrying about the world blowing up an think more of their purpose as students. In h striving for campus supremacy, it is a wonder that the group i cluded the faculty in its plans. Maybe like all students they ar trying to keep in good standing with their professors. After all thi are the ones who dish out the grades.

It is the purpose of the colleges and universities to educat the student in order that he may enter the financial, industria and military world with the best possible preparation. The ad ministration has the duty of coordinating the student's educatio while the faculty does the actual educating. How then can th student take over the role of administrator and still achieve hi puyrpose—to be educated. It seems that it would be more worth while for the group to set up an "Institute for the Study of Studies

Sports Sidelines

What Is Pride?

What is pride? It seems that many people have forgotten the meaning of the word here on campus. We all like to be proud of PC and its accomplishments, but what do we do for it? This lackadaisical attitude is one of the big drawbacks of our school.

TRACK TEAM HAS DIFFICULTIES

Our track team is having a rough time this season partly because of lack of interest by the students. Eight members of last year's team decided against competition this year. Their services have been greatly needed. For instance in our two meets of this season, we have not had a man to qualify in the pole vault at nine feet. One of last year's squad could clear ten feet.

We have not won a 100 or 220 yard dash this season. There is an individual on this campus who was the top high school sprinter in his state, but he doesn't seem to have time for running at PC. The best that we have done in the javelin throw is a third place. Last year's javelin man is not even out this spring. This string of instances goes on down the line.

NOT ALWAYS LOW MAN

PC has not always been on the bottom rung of the ladder in track. During the early '50's the Hose were a state track power. Last year we were 1-4 in dual meets. Thus far this season we are 0-2.

That PC was once a track power was largely due to Coach Lonnie McMillian. Coach Mac was an early pioneer ahead of other coaches in track. He was one of the first to give track scholarships, and thus PC became a "thinclad" powerhouse.

As everyone knows, PC has only two scholarships for spring sports, both of which go to tennis. Consequently we have an apparent lack of interest by prospective athletes. Maybe one doesn't get a scholarship or big write-up for his work in track, but it would help the school. This means working without recognition, but a person can get a big reward for this—self-satisfaction—although it sounds trite.

DAVIDSON NO PICNIC

Coach Nixon's cindermen will travel to North Carolina this weekend to participate in the Davidson Relays, which definitely will be no picnic. The boys on the team have to sacrifice for little reward. How many of us would give up part of a dance weekend to participate in a track meet?

Some of the track men have done well this year. Doug Allen has accumulated a first, two seconds and a third, while Richard Reed has contributed three seconds and two thirds. Other boys on the team have improved and are to be commended for their work.

Coach Nixon, worried about the situation, commented "It is unfortunate that the situation is like it is. Maybe a work scholarship program can be worked out."

The pitiful situation could not have made itself more evident than in Tuesday's meet with Taylor University. PC did not even have one entry in the broad jump competition. A couple of boys who were trained for other events submitted their names so Taylor would have some competition.

SUPPORT NEEDED

How can a person have pride when he doesn't have enough gumption to help? Can we complain about how a team does if we are capable of helping and don't? Pride works both ways.

We sincerely hope that those of the student body who do have the ability to help the school will think about it. It will be worthwhile, and, yes, it will be fun. To each is this a one chance opportunity of their life.

HARRIS

LONG

KELLAM

BROWN

USC, Clemson Favored In State; Hose Shooting For Two Big Upsets

The South Carolina state golf and [illegible] will take place at Hampton, S. C., while the [illegible] to Clemson for their work.

The golf tournament will see Presbyterian, South Carolina, Wofford, Clemson, Citadel, College of Charleston, Furman, Erskine, and Anderson Junior College competing for the title.

Favored University of South Carolina will be the team to beat in the tournament. The Blue Hose fell to the Gamecocks by a 13-10 score. Eddie Brown leads the Carolina hopefuls with help from number two man Billy Stork.

PC ace Bill Kellam defeated Brown in their only meeting this year, but Stork managed a win for the gamecocks. Brown had trouble early in the season but has come on strong in recent matches.

Presbyterian will be the second team of the tournament. Bill Kellam stands an excellent chance of winning the tournament. Kellam came in third last year due to a technicality. The two boys who were ahead of him have graduated so this leaves Kellam in a top position to take the state.

PC has posted a 6-3 record thus far this season losing to USC, Wofford, and Augusta College. Augusta, which defeated the Hose 18-7, this week shot fantistic golf with no man over 75.

Wofford will be ranked third in the tournament. The Hose have split with the Terriers this season.

PC will play the College of Charleston and Citadel Thursday in a practice round. Each man will play eighteen holes a day on both Friday and Saturday.

Each team will play six men with the best four scores comprising the team score. The lowest team score will win the state. The lowest individual score will also make the state's top player.

PC finished second last year behind Carolina and [illegible] to win the state title. [illegible] an Parsons.

The tennis team will be ready to show the states boys that PC dynasty has not ended. Clemson dusts the Blue Hose will be out to repeat.

Clemson suffered two losses from last year's squad but has had their best season in history compiling a 14-3 record. Clemson is led by Roheib and Long.

At the beginning of the season, it appeared to be a race between Clemson, Citadel, and PC with Citadel having the edge. Clemson, however, has defeated both teams 8-1 this year.

Clemson under Coach Swayne Brooks is heavily favored, and it will take a big effort to defeat them.

Presbyterian will be the second [illegible] netmen have been having their share of trouble this year with a 6-8 record. Many of these losses have re[illegible] hurt his foot and lost a close match [illegible] defeated Harris in the tournament last year.

Citadel was supposed to have the powerhouse this year, but they have not come through. Their first four men are seniors, and they did not lose any of the top six men from last year. Dan Bunch will have his Bulldogs ready.

College of Charleston has an impressive winning streak, but they have not played real tough competition. Billy Wilcox will be leading the Maroon hopefuls.

South Carolina, Clemson, Citadel, Furman, Erskine, College of Charleston and PC will be in competition.

The coaches met together to decide which men will play in the number one bracket, number two, etc. The same rule applies for doubles. The coaches seed a number one and two man in each bracket.

Torrid Action Marks IM Spring Sports

In intramural softball action this week the PiKA's took two big victories to push their slate to four wins without a loss. They nipped the Bandits 9 to 3 and the Alpha Sig's 8 to 4.

The loss dropped the Alpha Sig's to third place with a 2-1 record. The Sigma Nu's edged the Snakes 21 to 15 and took a firm grip on second place. In other torrid action, the Faculty forfeited to the Pi Kapp's, and the Bandits swamped the Theta Chi's 19 to 0.

With the opening of the spring tennis competition came one upset. The Sigma Nu's were netted by the Theta Chi's. In this week's only game the KA's overpowered the Pounders.

In the horseshoes department, the Sigma Nu's nailed the Pounders.

PC cindermen Frank Burns clears the bar in track meet against Taylor U.

May Sports Spotlight

May 1	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	Clinton
May 6	[illegible]	[illegible]	Clinton
May 7	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
May 7	[illegible]	[illegible]	Clinton
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
May 11	[illegible]	[illegible]	Clinton
May 17-18	[illegible]	[illegible]	Whispering Pines, N.C.

Parties Reign Eternal

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

This weekend of April 23-25 marks the annual Greek Weekend at PC. The six Greek letter fraternities have parties on campus and at various club houses in an around Clinton and at Lake Greenwood. The Interfraternity Council is sponsoring a concert Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4, featuring a folk singing group, The Brandywine Singers and their "button-down" repitoire.

The Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity is having their annual Hawaiian Holiday party in their fraternity suite from 8 until 12 p.m. Saturday night from 8 to 12 at the Laurens County Shrine Club they have another fraternity party with the Superiors as their combo. The Alpha Sig Brother of the Week is Lewis Hay.

The Kappa Alpha Order held an Easter egg hunt at Thornwell Orphanage Thursday prior to Easter. Also this past week new members were initiated as KA brothers: Evan Pamplin, Hugh Weldon, Sam Williams, Roy Wright, David Davies, Scooter Holcombe, David Berry, Brian Balkcom, Joe Gettys, Joe Dunlap, John Gaw, Mike Coulon, Cliff Sheffield, Mac Smith, and Gus Forbes, who was recently lavaliered at Converse College to Miss Cathy Mock.

The KA's will have a record party Friday night, and for Saturday will have B. S. Plair's Combo at their fraternity house from 8 to 12 p.m.

The Sigma Nu fraternity will have record parties this Greek Weekend since their annual White Star Weekend was held during last weekend—few roasted pigs; few cases of trichinosis.

Brothers Jim and John Settle were voted Best Brothers for 1964-65, and Rick Wilkins was voted Best Pledge. The newly elected Sigma Nu officers are Steve Watson, President; Carrol Jones, Vice-President; Robert Stack, Recorder; Bobby Herlong, Treasurer; Ray Crim, Chaplain; Joe Stevens, Reporter; and Frank Markette, IFC rperesentative.

The Theta Chi fraternity is having record parties in their fraternity suite Friday and Saturday nights. The fraternity congratulates President Rusty Nelson on his election as Vice-President of the Student Council. Richard Waters from Atlanta, Ga., was given a Theta Chi bid this past week.

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity is having the Swinging Kings Friday night at their party at the Laurens Shrine Club. Saturday afternoon they hold their Roman Holiday at the Legion Hut in Clinton at 2 p.m., and have as their combo the Dardanelles. Another party will be held at the Legion Hut Saturday night with the Dardanelles again playing. These parties will be closed.

New PiKA brothers are Sandy Lynn, Mel Davis, Joey Singleton, and Mackey Sinugleton. Brothers of the Week are Walt Todd and Billy Love.

THE BRANDYWINE SINGERS, well-known recording artists, will entertain the PC student body Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4 with a lively program of "button down" folk music.

Wyatt Donates Grant, $100,000 Future Aid

President Marc C. Weersing announced Wednesday that Alumnus Knox Wyatt of Rome, Ga., has designated a deferred gift of $100,000 for Presbyterian College.

According to President Weersing, Wyatt called upon his experience as an outstanding insurance executive in tailoring his program to provide the gift upon the settlement of his estate after death.

Mr. Wyatt pointed out that this insurance policy, which is part of his total estate planning, will enable him to make the most effective provisions to help Presbyterian College at some future date while at the same time he will be able to realize an immediate personal advantage in income tax deductions on annual premiums.

A member of the class of 1931, Mr. Wyatt holds the designation of chartered life underwriters and serves as Southern division manager of the Franklin Life Insurance Company. Twice in the past three years he has been cited as the company's "man of the year" in recognition of record sales volumes achieved by his division.

Student Council Reports

Blue Stocking Interview With Gary Mike Smith

In recent Student Council a joint meeting was held with the Class Absence Committee to discuss proposals for next year's class cut system.

The proposed changes, studied jointly by the faculty and committee, were accepted with modification. The new changes basically required attendance in 75 per cent of classroom lectures.

The Council also met with the student committee on Saturday classes. The faculty has made a thorough study of the possibility of discontinuing Saturday classes, and Council President Smith commented that the consideration had been favorable. The final decision will be published at a later date.

Six members of the newly elected Student Council will attend a conference sponsored by the Southern Union of Student Government Associations (SUSGA) in Gatlinburg, Tenn., April 29-May 1. Over 65 of the nation's colleges and universities will be represented at this "study" session.

Of particular interest has been the Council's work to make improvements for next year's Rat Season. The intention is to shorten the period to three weeks to avoid conflicts with the various fraternities' rush programs. The indication is that the shortened rat season will be more rigid and strenuous.

The constitutional committee is concentrating their efforts toward revising those laws pertaining to the early fall. Among the issues for analysis are the cheerleader and the Homecoming Queen elections.

The new Council in the immediate future will ponder the selection of a new Freshman Control Board. In addition, the study for a Student Entertainment Committee is underway.

JFK—Students' View, Retrospect On Dallas

Austin, Tex. (CPS)—While the nation was still stunned over the assassination of John F. Kennedy, two Texas psychologists, Dr. S. Thomas Friedman and Dr. Joe Pierce-Jones, began an examination of the attitudes and beliefs involved in student views of the assasination.

"In addition to furthering knowledge in the field of psychological research, we wanted to try to help develop some understanding of the burden of tragedy," Friedman and Pierce-Jones agreed.

The project indicated that patterned differences in student attitudes were directly related to such factors as the university attended, geographic region, sex, family income level, religious affiliation, political preference, and self-styled liberalism or conservatism.

The recently compiled results of the project indicated that none of the student groups questioned felt Texas should be assigned the sole responsibility for the assassination. "Texans sampled ascribed guilt to, or denied guilt of, Texas to about the same extent as did non-Texan students," said Pierce-Jones.

Collective responsibility was felt equally by all groups regardless of their region, home or university; but the tests indicated that women, Democrats, and self-styled liberals showed a stronger belief in collective responsibility than did university students.

Fatalistic determination was also examined by the survey. Women and Texans expressed greater acceptance of the fatalistic view than did men or non-Texans. Non-Texans, however, along with self-styled liberals and women, registered less cynicism of police efficiency than other groups.

Less doubt or skepticism concerning the assassination was indicated by men, Texans, Democrats, and individuals in the high income bracket than by their counterparts.

In exploring evaluations of lawlessness in society, the survey uncovered wide differences in opinion. Women, conservatives, Jews, political independents, Democrats, and people from the low income bracket saw more lawlessness in society than the opposite numbers.

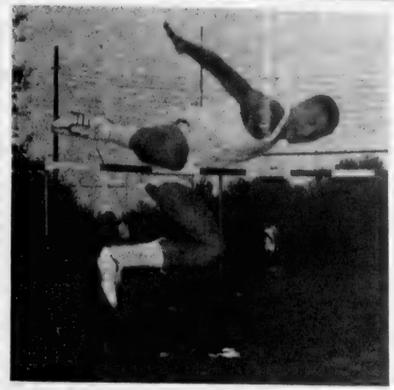
With the final tabulation of results of the 1963-64 project, a new study has begun this year to determine the shifts in attitude toward assassination within a one-year period.

The results of the study will be published by Stanford University Press as a chapter in a book, "The Kennedy Assassination and American Public Communication in Crisis."

Hose Battered Again; Season's Finish Nears

PC's cindermen and glovemen have had more than their share of losses since the regular season opened. In two track meets and five baseball games the Blues have come home without a single victory.

There is speculation that these losses have come from lack of enough material and needed experience.



In a triangle track meet with Wofford and Davidson the Hose came out on the bottom of the team pole with 27 points; whereas, Davidson, the winner, totaling 83 and Wofford at 54 dominated the first place standings. PC did not have a single first place, but did have five second places, a significant one being a 3:34 time on the mile relay.

The only first place in the two meets was taken Tuesday against Taylor University by Doug Allen in the high jump at 6'. Taylor beat the Hose in the muddy conditions of the home track 106½-26½.

The Blue Hose glovemen have run a one-sided season, all downhill, with an 0 and 5 record thus far. The most recent defeat came from the bats of Wofford Wednesday when the Terriers took the game 7-2.

Hits have been few and far between, but Wade Stewart and Don McNeill have been the most consistient in bringing these in. Jimmy Elliott and Wade Stewart have shown some of the best play on defense.

The PC batsmen only have two games left in the abbreviated season, one today with Wofford and the season finale with Belmont Abbey on our home field Tuesday, April 27. The Hose are looking for a late season rally for these two games.

Richard Reed puts the hustle into the high jump in recent track meet.

Monday Chapel Casts 'The Royal Gambit'

"The Royal Gambit," a play dealing with King Henry VIII and the women in his life, will be presented at Presbyterian College next Monday night by the Converse College dramatic group known as the Palmetto Players.

It is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Belk Auditorium, and the public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Playwright Hermann Gresaleker presents a Henry who is the epitome of Renaissance man and then adroitly leads him to contemporary liberal thought. The play begins with the dissolution of Henry's marriage to Katrina of Aragon and proceeds through his alliances with Anne Boleyn, Jane Seymore, Anna of Cleves, Kathryn Howard and Kate Pharr. Henry remains the same throughout, but the women progress in their dress right up to modern times, showing their full knowledge of the lasting effects of Henry's thoughts through scenes in candlelight chambers and towers.

This historical drama is being toured by the Palmetto Players under the direction of James W. Parker, chairman of the Converse speech and drama department.

The Real Gentlemen Please Stand Up!

by I. N. Deski
Blue Stocking Special Agent

We are gentlemen one and all, or so it would seem from the pledge signed by all incoming students. As a coed I pledged to "conduct myself in a gentlemanly manner." On the surface this would seem small cause for alarm or elation; yet deeper investigation showed it a situation fraught with perils unknown to the usual single sexed and intentioned student, male or female.

Consider these off the cuff reminiscences of the "gentlemanly" days of one of the imperiled flock. After recovering from the initial registration day shock, wholly compounded by the somewhat unusual stipulation as to her future conduct, she proceeded with much vigor to do her bounded duty, though knowledge of same was sparse.

This chance was not long coming; finishing registration in all due haste, being by that time the victim of certain characteristic biological needs, our heroine scanned the scene for some sign of relief. And there it was. Clearly marked "gentlemen," she supposed this must be the place, regardless of usual social customs to the contrary. Steeled with pledge in hand, she forcefully entered onto the only mildly confusing (general structure of necessity much the same) array of facilities.

All went well until, when preparing to leave, despite all her efforts, the mechanic results were anything but gentlemanly. Fleeing the scene, our luckless lady decided there was a great deal more to being a gentleman than commonly meets the eye. Still one can't remain daunted if on the side of right.

Assuming the Christian ethic unto you" in preference to "all things come to those who wait," for in the face of such positive failure, this was obviously no time to be hanging around waiting for someone to give instructions. Even with the kindly, almost eager, help of PC's male-only contingent problems continued to plague the newest "dual" member of the campus society. After all, how does one explain to the ignorant (of pledge responsibility) female who can't understand how you cut your throat shaving?

Regardless of her diehard determination and devout devotion to duty, such insurmountable odds will all but quelch the strongest flame of righteousness in anyone. And our gal was no her multiple failure drove her exception. It was understandable in this context that the poor thing's neurotic reaction to to find a haven—a safe harbor where she could moor her troubled and gentlemanly mind. Forgetting her image of duty, bypassing the old pre-college self, it seemed that she had at last found her niche.

Maxie still shakes his head in awe when recounting her last, most unforgettable feat of gentleman masculinity. Clutching a tattered card, with that wondrous phrase still faintly visible, she displayed it as a bathe flag while proposing the solution to all. Duty be damned, it was time to prove her merits as a gentleman. Though swaying sligthly at the start, when the foam had cleared she alone stood; the rest passed out in stuporous humiliation.

She outdrunk them all. Surely this was proof: she was a man (and a gentleman at that) for in her drunkennes she allowed that Charlie should put it all on her bill, and that she would deduct it as part of her scholtic expenses should the government question it. Suppressing a belch, she staggered in stately dignity from that grand, victorious scene, but she was never to return.

Suds and sorrow were to take their toll, liberating her mind to thoughts of bygone days and instincts. Within the glow of her hard won victory, the sudden tactical reverse was perplexing to comprehend. It was soon apparent that beneath that tattered, collarless college tee shirt had always beat the soul of womanhood—wrongly suppressed womanhood. What can be more volitile?

In the closing moments of that memorable year, she was the vanguard of a new, yet older fight, as she battled the now repugnant attempt of a mindless heirarchy to ignore the obvious division of humanity into two sexes. Fervent in the knowledge of her cause, she again surmounted all odds to claim the victor's prize. She left PC a changed woman.

At last reports she was staying in a home filled with girls not unlike herself, as she awaited in serene content the most ungentlemanly of events. It was, she said, to be to all living proof of her true nature and the symbolic masthead of suppressed womanhood of all walks of life. Let us all raise a toast to the gentlemen.

Belk's

WHITE TENNIS SHIRTS 4.00
Enro Short Sleeve
DRESS and SPORT SHIRTS .. 5.99
FARAH WALK SHORTS
5.00 and 6.00

Student Council Releases Final Election Results

Gary Mike Smith, Student Council President of 1964-65 has released the following election results and distribution. These results represent one of PC's biggest elections in turnout.

Henry Lovett, Pres.	270
Rusty Nelson, Vice-Pres.	75
David Davies, Sr. Rep.	57
Junior Representatives:
Bob Herlong, Sec.-Treas.	263
Jim Johnson	246
Bob Warren	236
Grady Marshall	178
Christie Patterson	88
Joe Gettys	59
Sophomore Representatives:
David Berry	272
Bill Bucheit	211
John McCallum	114
Joe Dunlap	65

Myrtle Beach (Continued)

Missouri School of Journalism judges the entrants in several categories and according to the size of the institution submitting the publication.

The Blue Stocking has virtually dominated the small college weekly publications since becoming a member of the association. Awards have been presented to The Blue Stocking in recent years for best small college paper; best editorials; best sports coverage; best physical make-up; best special page; best pictorial features; and best news coverage. The banquet tomorrow night will be the time at which awards and prizes are anounced and distributed.

In addition to the meetings and lectures there will be several social events for the delegates. Parties wil be held Friday night after the initial meeting, and again Saturday night after the awards banquet. All social events at the convention will be chaperoned by faculty faculty advisors of the schools represented and will be held at or near the Ocean Forest Hotel.

Schools sending delegates to the convention include, in addition to PC: South Carolina, Clemson, Furman, Erskine, Converse, Winthrop, Coker, Limestone, The Citadel, Columbia College, Anderson and Greenville Junior Colleges, and Wofford.

Study Favors ROTC Cadets; Graduates Gain Advantages

A strong relationship between civilian success and military training in school has been revealed in a study conducted by the Reserve Officer Training Corps throughout the nation.

Colonel Robert F. Evans, chief, ROTC Division, Office of Reserve Components, The Pentagon, released the information from Washington, D. C., after several months of research and analysis. It covers the statistical relationship between success in four civilian occupational fields and Army ROTC training at college. The four fields are U. S. Ambassadorial sevice, U. S. Congress, state governors, and business.

The study reveals that 15 percent of the ambassadors who last year represented the United States throughout the world have had ROTC training. Colonel Evans indicated that since approximately 5 percent of college students take Army ROTC, the statistical likelihood of any given college student becoming an ambassador is three times greater if he takes military training at college than if he does not.

Ten percent of the membership of the present U. S. Congress has had ROTC training. These men, the colonel said, stood twice as good a chance of becoming a congressman or a senator as their less military minded classmates stood.

A survey of the fifty states revealed that 24 percent of the governors have had college military training. This would indicate that the college student with ROTC training stands five times the chance of becoming a governor than students without such training.

"The study shows," he said, "that the college educated, trained leader who has a sense of idealism has a real advantage in life. We believe that Army ROTC makes a significant contribution to the chances of success."

Campus News Briefs

30 Courses Offered For Summer School

Thirty courses in 11 departments will be offered during PC's 1965 summer school, scheduled for June 7-August 20, Dean Joseph M. Gettys anounced today.

Reservations for the two-term session covering a total of 11 weeks are now being accepted, and interested persons are urged to contact the Director of Summer School for further information.

The first term is set for June 7-July 14; the second, for July 15-August 20. A maximum of 12 hours' credit (two additional for laboratory science) is available for both terms of six hours for either one of the two terms.

The courses to be taught at PC during the 1965 summer session include:

Bible—Old Testament Survey. The Christian Life, Life and Philosophy of Christ, Acts and Teachings of the Apostles; Biology—General Biology; Chemistry—General Chemistry; Economics—Principles of Economics, Money and Banking. Intermediate Economic Theory; English—Composition, Readings in World Literature, Survey of English Literature, The Amercian Novel, Introduction to Literary Types.

History—Survey of European Civilization, History of Russia; Mathematics — Mathematics of Finance, College Mathematics, Introduction to Modern Algebra, Analytic Geometry and Differential Calculus; Political Science —American Constitutional Law, Elements of Political Science; Psychology — Intrdouction to Psychology, Abnormal Psychology, Child Psychology; Spanish Elementary Spanish, Intermediate Spansih.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for the week of April 26-May 1:

Monday: Student Chapel conducted by the SCA.

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service; the Presbyterian College Choir wil present its complete program.

Friday: Speaker, Mr. Ralph Ivey, attorney from Rome, Ga. Sponsored by the SCA.

WF Will Elect New Officers

The Westminster Fellowship will convene this Sunday night for the purpose of electing the new officers for next year.

President Dave Dunlap said that he is expecting a heavy turnout for this all-important election.

Professors (Continued)

perimentation in raising unicellular animals. During the past year of research, he has succeded in isolating several amoeba-like animals and feels that he has virtually solved the problem of raising these animals. The PC scientist said:

"Earlier workers in this field saw sexual reproduction in these animals, but I am convinced from my experiments that no sexuality is present."

In addition to the presentation of papers, both Dr. Carter and Dr. Stump will preside over sectional meetings of their specialties during the conference.

Broadcasters Announce Scholarship

The South Carolina Broadcasters Association has announced its sixth annual scholarship competition. In the past the Association has given one $400.00 scholarship to some deserving student. This year an additional scholarship of the same amount will be given. The deadline for these entries is May 15. Entry blanks may be obtained from the local radio or television station.

E. Ralph Ivey

Prominent Politician Will Speak At Belk

Mr. E. Ralph Ivey, a former candidate for the U. S. Congress from Georgia, will speak to the PC student body on "A Christian's Duty to Government and Politics" in chapel Friday, April 30.

Mr. Ivey was born in Waycross, Ga., and completed his high school education in Albany. In 1946 after graduating from North Georgia Junior College he enlisted for two years service in the U. S. Navy as a member of their public relaitons department.

He received his AB and LL.B. ddgrees from Emory University. He is now a prominent lawyer, and church and civic leader of Rome, Ga.

Mr. Ivey is a strong advocate of state's rights and local self-government. As a political scientist and attorney he has been trained to detect the invasion and double-talk of communism and socialism, and he is dedicated to its defeat.

He speaks out for a dynamic free economy and is opposed to the present economic policy. He feels that civil rights must be worked out by the individual states for their citizens, and speaks against federal "civil rights" legislation.

"The security of our country lies wholly in our strength both in spirit and in armed might. We must also help to a truly free nations maintain their freedom," Mr. Ivey states concerning national policy.

The Student Christian Association is sponsoring Mr. Ivey's visit to the campus.

New All-Time Highs Reached In Student Cleanliness

(CPS) — Cleanliness, so they say, is next to godliness. Fanatics, religious and otherwise, are still splashing away as the shower fad continues to flood campuses.

A Sir George Williams University student in Montreal, Canada, just last month doused himself continuously for 60 hours. Not long after a Utah student immersed himself for 75 hours. Then the championship went south to New Mexico where two University of New Mexico freshmen stood and slept together under the nozzle for 80 hours. And all to no avail. A Canadian, Phil Calvert at Acadia University, has racked up an amazing 101 hours in the shower. Emerging dragging an air mattress behind him, Calvert allowed as to how he felt a little "drizzled."

Not to be outdone on the cleanliness kick, another Acadian student endured a 31 and a half hour molar-polishing marathon to smash the previous world record for toothbrushing by more than 20 hours.

Many social commentators see the current rash of fads as a rebellion against the "unwashed ethic" of the beatnik crowd. Supposedly the fads will continue to expand and will soon include hair-combing marathons, shaving contests, and maybe a nail-clipping go-round or so.

Meanwhile, two Acadia co-eds added a new dimension to godliness and cleanliness, symbolically at least. They sat a new international record for ice-cube tossing: 1,316 tosses of a single ice cube of standard size at room temperature.

While congratulating the Canadian girls, several fraternity types were heard to mumble that they wished people would "get off this good clean fun bit" and get back to bed pushing and piano smashing.

PC tradition: John Weigel crams for that last exam before Greek Weekend.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras · Film · Processing

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WHATSAMATTER? YA CUT HIS CLASS AGAIN?"

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

BROADWAY Theatre
STARTS SATURDAY, APRIL 23
For A Week
GIRL HAPPY
With ELVIS PRESLEY

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

ARTS & SCIENCE GRADUATES
TEACH
Earn while learning . . .
• Master's Degree
• Professional Certification
• Anual Income of $5300 Plus
• Placement and Tenure
Qualifications
• No Education Courses Required
• Bachelor's Degree
• A Liberal Education
• Preparation in a Subject Area
INTER TEACHING PROGRAM
TEMPLE UNIVERSITY
Philadelphia, Pa. 19122

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, May 7, 1965 — No. 19

Blue Key Honors Eight In Annual Spring Ritual

The Presbyterian College chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity tapped eight new members—six students and two faculty members—in its annual spring ceremony today in chapel.

The new men, chosen on the basis of leadership, character and scholarship are David Davies, Henry Lovett, Don McNeill, Philip Olmert, Jim Stanford, Sam Waters, John S. Glover, and David R. Moorefield.

Mr. Glover, head of the Spanish Department, and Dr. Moorefield chairman of the Philosophy Department, were given honorary membership in the fraternity. Mr. Glover has been on the P. C. faculty since 1947, while Dr. Moorefield has served at P. C. since 1962.

David Davies, a Panama City, Fla., native, is serving his fourth year as a member of the Student Council. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order, and is a dorm proctor.

Henry Lovett, a native of Kingstree, is the Council President. He serves as a dorm proctor, and has played two years of varsity baseball.

Don McNeill, from Thomson, Ga., has played on the Blue Hose football team three years. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Philip Olmert comes to P. C. from Bishopville. He was recently elected business manager of the PaC SaC, and presently serves as an officer in Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Jim Stanford, President of the Student Christian Association, hails from Atlanta, Ga. He was a former president of Westminster Fellowship, and is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi.

Sam Waters, from Charleston, is this year's editor of The Blue Stocking. He is vice-president of the P. C. Robed Choir, and an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Initiation of the new members will be held in the near future. The induction will be climaxed by the annual egg roll on the plaza and by the spring banquet.

NEW BLUE KEY MEMBERS pictured from left to right: Davies, Lovett, McNeill, Olmert, Stanford, Waters, Glover, Moorefield.

PaC SaC Announces New Staff Positions

Tom Leland, recently elected editor of the '65-66 PaC SaC, has announced the appointment of the heads of the various departments of the yearbook.

Assisting Leland and Business Manager Phillip Olmert are Pat Goldsmith and Jim Darby, who are included in the coordinating staff. The absence of associate editors marks a change from previous yearbooks.

Other staff members that will work under Leland are; Class Editor, Tom Whitaker; Military Editor, Jim Darby; Sports Editors, Bill Bassham and Mac Smith; and Fraternity Editor, Pat Brown.

In making the announcement Leland stated, "Much work on the 1966 yearbook is being planned for the summer to insure delivery earlier in the spring so students may enjoy the publication to the fullest. It is requested that students give full cooperation to the staff in their planning for pictures so that the time schedule can be kept.

New Women's Organization Elects First Dorm Council

Monday the newly-formed Organization of Women Students elected officers for the coming year. For the Women's Council, they are: Susan Gilbert, President; Carol Tumlinson, Vice-President; for women students, and to plan Mavis Harrop, Secretary-Treasurer; Amelia Nichols, Senior well-rounded activities. and Day Student Representative; Barbara Anderson, Junior Representative; and Kit Caldwell, Sophomore Representative.

Besides the Women's Council, there is a Judicial Board, of which Paula Evans has been elected Chairman.

The functions of the Judicial Board are to investigate and take action in cases concerning infractions of house regulations, to refer such cases, when seriousness warrants, to the Student Council and/or the Dean of Women, to keep records of cases, and to work with and subordinate to the Student Council in all instances.

The Organization of Women Students includes all women matriculating at P. C. and its purpose is to plan and promote a system of government for women students consistent with and subordinate to the Student Council. Its function is to accomplish a well-ordered dormitory ernment of Presbyterian College, to encourage high standards, both academic and social,

Former Aide To Eisenhower Will Address Student Body

Dr. Arthur Larson, Director of the World Rule of Law Center and Special Assistant to the President during the Eisenhower Administration, will speak in chapel Friday, May 14. His subject will be "What We Are For."

Dr. Larson is widely known as a lawyer and educator as well as a former government official. He has written six books, the latest of which is, "A Warless World."

Dr. Arthur Lawson

He attended Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar, and holds four degrees from Oxford, including the Doctor of Civil Law. He is a Fellow of Pembroke College. After practicing law in Milwaukee, he taught in the Law Schools of the University of Tennessee, Cornell, and Pittsburg where he was Dean of the Law School.

Dr. Larson left Pittsburg to become Under Secretary of Labor in 1954. In 1956 he was appointed Director of the U. S. Information Agency. Later he became Special Assistant to President Eisenhower, and continued as a part-time Special Consultant to the President after leaving Washington. He is currently employed by Duke University.

He is considered one of the most forceful and authoritative speakers on the platform today. He is a positive man who looks at life and world affairs from the standpoint of what we are for and what we can do.

Students Nominate New Class Officers

Nominations of class officers were held Wednesday [illegible] of the Student [illegible] out to vote.

[illegible] nominations are as follows: The Senior [illegible] a total of 20 [illegible] Bonnie Gill, Mike Stacy, and Al Lund for President; Ben Parker, Will Akers, and [illegible] for Vice-President; Peter Olmert, Jim Darby, and Bob [illegible] for Secretary; Don McNeil, Dave Dunlap, and Tom Akers for Treasurer.

Nominees for the Junior Class with 45 of the students voting were: Bruce Lawrence, Frank Markette, and Christie Patterson for President; Ray Crim, Evan Pamplin, and Don Blanchard for Vice-President; Hugh Weldon, Allen Harris, and George Lindsay for Secretary; and Brown Johnson, Brad Ray, and Mike Donovan for Treasurer.

With 62% of the students voting, the Sophomore Class nominated Joe Dunlap, John McCallum, and Bobby Staton for President; John Gaw, Kit Caldwell, and Andy Cooper for Vice-President; Diane Brown, Shep Marsh, and Sandy Lynn for Secretary; and James Challen, Orren McKay, and Alex Erwin for Treasurer.

A Man Resigns . . . A Tradition Ends

Jim Loyd, Blue Stocking Staff Writer

A glorious era of Christian service and fellowship, unequalled by any single organization on the Presbyterian College campus since 1880, ends this year with the retirement of Dr. Edouard Patte. Dr. Patte, conductor of the Presbyterian College Rober Choir, has resigned this year after eighteen years of untiring service to the college, community, and churches in the synods of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

The Robed Choir, formed in 1947, grew out of a campus glee club. With Dr. Patte as the conductor, the Choir has been in the words of college President Marc C. Weersing, "probably the most significant single public relations organization in the history of the college." In its eighteen years the Choir has made 653 public appearances. The Choir never gave a concert; rather, it led the congregation in services of worship.

Due to the increased development of the college co-education, the Board of Trustees has felt a need to create a separate music department with, not only choral work, but also, private instruction in piano, organ, and voice. The move anticipates a major in the field of music in the near future.

The current Robed Choir was informed of Dr. Patte's retirement this past week and has unanimously decided to request from the proper authorities that "the name, 'Presbyterian College Robed Choir,' and all traditions pecuriar to it, be retired with the conductor," as a tribute in gratitude to Dr. Patte. The newly elected slate of officers of the choir has also agreed to resign in anticipation of the arrival on campus of the new head of the department.

The Choir officially ended the year with its annual banquet on Wednesday night. Said the new president, "I would like to thank this year's choir for the best fellowship I have ever experienced. No words can express my deep appreciation to Dr. Patte for the example he has set, not only for me, but also for everyone who has had the good fortune to know him as friend and conductor."

The Robed Choir is gone. Its memory will linger as a monument to its success.

Dr. Edouard Patte

Campus News Briefs

30 Courses Offered For Summer School

Thirty courses in 11 departments will be offered during PC's 1965 summer school, scheduled for June 7-August 20, Dean Joseph M. Gettys anounced today.

Reservations for the two-term session covering a total of 11 weeks are now being accepted, and interested persons are urged to contact the Director of Summer School for further information.

The first term is set for June 7-July 14; the second, for July 15-August 20. A maximum of 12 hours' credit (two additional for laboratory science) is available for both terms of six hours for either one of the two terms.

The courses to be taught at PC during the 1965 summer session include:

Bible—Old Testament Survey, The Christian Life, Life and Philosophy of Christ, Acts and Teachings of the Apostles; Biology—General Biology; Chemistry—General Chemistry; Economics—Principles of Economics, Money and Banking. Intermediate Economic Theory; English—Composition, Readings in World Literature, Survey of English Literature, The American Novel, Introduction to Literary Types.

History—Survey of European Civilization, History of Russia; Mathematics — Mathematics of Finance, College Mathematics, Introduction to Modern Algebra, Analytic Geometry and Differential Calculus; Political Science —American Constitutional Law, Elements of Political Science; Psychology — Intrdouction to Psychology, Abnormal Psychology, Child Psychology; Spanish Elementary Spanish, Intermediate Spansih.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for the week of April 26-May 1:

Monday: Student Chapel conducted by the SCA.

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service; the Presbyterian College Choir wil present its complete program.

Friday: Speaker, Mr. Ralph Ivey, attorney from Rome, Ga. Sponsored by the SCA.

WF Will Elect New Officers

The Westminster Fellowship will convene this Sunday night for the purpose of electing the new officers for next year.

President Dave Dunlap said that he is expecting a heavy turnout for this all-important election.

Professors (Continued)

perimentation in raising unicellular animals. During the past year of research, he has succeded in isolating several amoeba-like animals and feels that he has virtually solved the problem of raising these animals. The PC scientist said:

"Earlier workers in this field saw sexual reproduction in these animals, but I am convinced from my experiments that no sexuality is present."

In addition to the presentation of papers, both Dr. Carter and Dr. Stump will preside over sectional meetings of their specialties during the conference.

Broadcasters Announce Scholarship

The South Carolina Broadcasters Association has announced its sixth annual scholarship competition. In the past the Association has given one $400.00 scholarship to some deserving student. This year an additional scholarship of the same amount will be given. The deadline for these entries is May 15. Entry blanks may be obtained from the local radio or television station.

E. Ralph Ivey

New All-Time Highs Reached In Student Cleanliness

(CPS) — Cleanliness, so they say, is next to godliness. Fanatics, religious and otherwise, are still splashing away as the shower fad continues to flood campuses.

A Sir George Williams University student in Montreal, Canada, just last month doused himself continuously for 60 hours. Not long after a Utah student immersed himself for 75 hours. Then the championship went south to New Mexico where two University of New Mexico freshmen stood and slept together under the nozzle for 80 hours. And all to no avail. A Canadian, Phil Calvert at Acadia University, has racked up an amazing 101 hours in the shower. Emerging dragging an air mattress behind him, Calvert allowed as to how he felt a little "drizzled."

Not to be outdone on the cleanliness kick, another Acadian student endured a 31 and a half hour molar-polishing marathon to smash the previous world record for toothbrushing by more than 20 hours.

Many social commentators see the current rash of fads as a rebellion against the "unwashed ethic" of the beatnik crowd. Supposedly the fads will continue to expand and will soon include hair-combing marathons, shaving contests, and maybe a nail-clipping go-round or so.

Meanwhile, two Acadia co-eds added a new dimension to godliness and cleanliness, symbolically at least. They sat a new international record for ice-cube tossing: 1,316 tosses of a single ice cube of standard size at room temperature.

While congratulating the Canadian girls, several fraternity types were heard to mumble that they wished people would "get off this good clean fun bit" and get back to bed pushing and piano smashing.

PC tradition: John Weigel crams for that last exam before Greek Weekend.

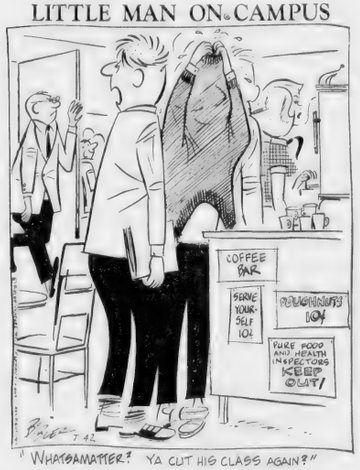
Prominent Politician Will Speak At Belk

Mr. E. Ralph Ivey, a former candidate for the U. S. Congress from Georgia, will speak to the PC student body on "A Christian's Duty to Government and Politics" in chapel Friday, Apr. 30.

Mr. Ivey was born in Waycross, Ga., and completed his high school education in Albany. In 1946 after graduating from North Georgia Junior College he enlisted for two years service in the U. S. Navy as a member of their public relaitons department.

He received his AB and LL.B. degrees from Emory University. He is now a prominent lawyer, and church and civic leader of Rome, Ga.

Mr. Ivey is a strong advocate of state's rights and local self-government. As a political scientist and attorney he has been trained to detect the invasion and double-talk of communism and socialism, and he is dedicated to its defeat.



He speaks out for a dynamic free economy and is opposed to the present economic policy. He feels that civil rights must be worked out by the individual states for their citizens, and speaks against federal "civil rights" legislation.

"The security of our country lies wholly in our strength both in spirit and in armed might. We must also help the truly free nations maintain their freedom," Mr. Ivey states concerning national policy.

The Student Christian Association is sponsoring Mr. Ivey's visit to the campus.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WHATSAMATTER? YA CUT HIS CLASS AGAIN?"

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

BROADWAY Theatre
STARTS SATURDAY, APRIL 23
For A Week
GIRL HAPPY
With ELVIS PRESLEY

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

ARTS & SCIENCE GRADUATES
TEACH
Earn while learning . . .
• Master's Degree
• Professional Certification
• Anual Income of $5300 Plus
• Placement and Tenure
Qualifications
• No Education Courses Required
• Bachelor's Degree
• A Liberal Education
• Preparation in a Subject Area
INTER TEACHING PROGRAM
TEMPLE UNIVERSITY
Philadelphia, Pa. 19122

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, May 7, 1965 — No. 19

Blue Key Honors Eight In Annual Spring Ritual

The Presbyterian College chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity tapped eight new members—six students and two faculty members—in its annual spring ceremony today in chapel.

The new men, chosen on the basis of leadership, character and scholarship are David Davies, Henry Lovett, Don McNeill, Philip Olmert, Jim Stanford, Sam Waters, John S. Glover, and David R. Moorefield.

Mr. Glover, head of the Spanish Department, and Dr. Moorefield chairman of the Philosophy Department, were given honorary membership in the fraternity. Mr. Glover has been on the P. C. faculty since 1947, while Dr. Moorefield has served at P. C. since 1962.

David Davies, a Panama City, Fla., native, is serving his fourth year as a member of the Student Council. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order, and is a dorm proctor.

Henry Lovett, a native of Kingstree, is the Council President. He serves as a dorm proctor, and has played two years of varsity baseball.

Don McNeill, from Thomson, Ga., has played on the Blue Hose football team three years. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Philip Olmert comes to P. C. from Bishopville. He was recently elected business manager of the PaC SaC, and presently serves as an officer in Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Jim Stanford, President of the Student Christian Association, hails from Atlanta, Ga. He was a former president of Westminster Fellowship, and is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi.

Sam Waters, from Charleston, is this year's editor of The Blue Stocking. He is vice-president of the P. C. Robed Choir, and an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Initiation of the new members will be held in the near future. The induction will be climaxed by the annual egg roll on the plaza and by the spring banquet.

NEW BLUE KEY MEMBERS pictured from left to right: Davies, Lovett, McNeill, Olmert, Stanford, Waters, Glover, Moorefield.

PaC SaC Announces New Staff Positions

Tom Leland, recently elected editor of the '65-66 PaC SaC, has announced the appointment of the heads of the various departments of the yearbook.

Assisting Leland and Business Manager Phillip Olmert are Pat Goldsmith and Jim Darby, who are included in the coordinating staff. The absence of associate editors marks a change from previous yearbooks.

Other staff members that will work under Leland are; Class Editor, Tom Whitaker; Military Editor, Jim Darby; Sports Editors, Bill Bassham and Mac Smith; and Fraternity Editor, Pat Brown.

In making the announcement Leland stated, "Much work on the 1966 yearbook is being planned for the summer to insure delivery earlier in the spring so students may enjoy the publication to the fullest. It is requested that students give full cooperation to the staff in their planning for pictures so that the time schedule can be kept.

Former Aide To Eisenhower Will Address Student Body

Dr. Arthur Larson, Director of the World Rule of Law Center and Special Assistant to the President during the Eisenhower Administration, will speak in chapel Friday, May 14. His subject will be "What We Are For."

Dr. Larson is widely known as a lawyer and educator as well as a former government official. He has written six books, the latest of which is, "A Warless World."

Dr. Arthur Lawson

He attended Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar, and holds four degrees from Oxford, including the Doctor of Civil Law. He is a Fellow of Pembroke College. After practicing law in Milwaukee, he taught in the Law Schools of the University of Tennessee, Cornell, and Pittsburg where he was Dean of the Law School.

Dr. Larson left Pittsburg to become Under Secretary of Labor in 1954. In 1956 he was appointed Director of the U. S. Information Agency. Later he became Special Assistant to President Eisenhower, and continued as a part-time Special Consultant to the President after leaving Washington. He is currently employed by Duke University.

He is considered one of the most forceful and authoritative speakers on the platform today. He is a positive man who looks at life and world affairs from the standpoint of what we are for and what we can do.

Students Nominate New Class Officers

Nominations for class officers were held Wednesday, April 28 in all of the Student Body during out to vote.

The results of Wednesday's nominations are as follows: The Senior Class had a turnout of 70% and nominated Buddy Guy, Mike Smith and Al Todd for President; Ben Pickens, Will Akers and Carson Jones for Vice-President; Phil Olmert, Jim Darby, and Bill Crowley for Secretary; Don McNeill, Dave Dunlap and Louis Allen for Treasurer.

Nominees for the Junior Class with 47% of the students voting were: Bruce Lawrence, Frank Markette, and Christie Patterson for President; Ray Crim, Evan Pamplin, and Don Blanchard for Vice-President; Hugh Weldon, Allen Harris, and George Lindsay for Secretary; and Brown Johnson, Brad Ray, and Mike Donovan for Treasurer.

With 62% of the students voting, the Sophomore Class nominated Joe Dunlap, John McCallum, and Bobby Staton for President; John Gaw, Kit Caldwell, and Andy Cooper for Vice-President; Diane Brown, Shep Marsh, and Sandy Lynn for Secretary; and James Challen, Orren McKay, and Alex Erwin for Treasurer.

New Women's Organization Elects First Dorm Council

Monday the newly-formed Organization of Women Students elected officers for the coming year. For the Women's Council, they are: Susan Gilbert, President; Carol Tumlinson, Vice-President; Mavis Harrop, Secretary-Treasurer; Amelia Nichols, Senior Day Student Representative; Barbara Anderson, Junior Representative; and Kit Caldwell, Sophomore Representative.

Besides the Women's Council, there is a Judicial Board, of which Paula Evans has been elected Chairman.

The functions of the Judicial Board are to investigate and take action in cases concerning infractions of house regulations, to refer such cases, when seriousness warrants, to the Student Council and/or the Dean of Women, to keep records of cases, and to work with and subordinate to the Student Council in all instances.

The Organization of Women Students includes all women matriculating at P. C. and its purpose is to plan and promote a system of government for women students consistent with and subordinate to the Student Council. Its function is to accomplish a well-ordered dormitory government of Presbyterian College, to encourage high standards, both academic and social, for women students, and to plan well-rounded activities.

A Man Resigns... A Tradition Ends

Jim Loyd, Blue Stocking Staff Writer

A glorious era of Christian service and fellowship, unequalled by any single organization on the Presbyterian College campus since 1880, ends this year with the retirement of Dr. Edouard Patte. Dr. Patte, conductor of the Presbyterian College Rober Choir, has resigned this year after eighteen years of untiring service to the college, community, and churches in the synods of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

The Robed Choir, formed in 1947, grew out of a campus glee club. With Dr. Patte as the conductor, the Choir has been in the words of college President Marc C. Weersing, "probably the most significant single public relaitons organization in the history of the college." In its eighteen years the Choir has made 653 public appearances. The Choir never gave a concert; rather, it led the congregation in services of worship.

Due to the increased development of the college co-education, the Board of Trustees has felt a need to create a separate music department with, not only choral work, but also, private instruction in piano, organ, and voice. The move anticipates a major in the field of music in the near future.

The current Robed Choir was informed of Dr. Patte's retirement this past week and has unanimously decided to request from the proper authorities that "the name, 'Presbyterian College Robed Choir,' and all traditions pecuriar to it, be retired with the conductor," as a tribute in gratitude to Dr. Patte. The newly elected slate of officers of the choir has also agreed to resign in anticipation of the arrival on campus of the new head of the department.

The Choir officially ended the year with its annual banquet on Wednesday night. Said the new president, "I would like to thank this year's choir for the best fellowship I have ever experienced. No words can express my deep appreciation to Dr. Patte for the example he has set, not only for me, but also for everyone who has had the good fortune to know him as friend and conductor."

The Robed Choir is gone. Its memory will linger as a monument to its success.

Dr. Edouard Patte

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor

Assistant Editor Sam Waters Managing Editor
Merrie Stancill Dave Venecklasen

A Curtain Falls

IT IS A FINAL PORTRAYAL of the brilliant, stormy role—the creation of which had been drawn from the very fiber of its star—explaining thus the nature of the man who acted it. The final curtain falls, cutting the image from sight. The image and presence of greatness embodied fades and dims, with the lowering of footlights, yet it grows as its vibrance takes hold of the imagination. And so a legend is born—a man is immortalized.

JUST SUCH A PERFORMANCE has been played to an audience 18 years in growth, made up of all those whose lives have been touched by the man and his creation. He has remained a "personality" beyond definition. He formed a segment of PC's image and filled that segment with a unique, colorfully personal quality which endeared him to some and estranged him from others. People couldn't help but react to him—such is, in part, the tribute his stature demands.

THE ELEMENT MORE WANTING of tribute, yet not wanting—undeniably to be given, unasked for, is the tribute in and to his creation. The man can only be seen subjectively—thus to be enveloped in the clouds of reminiscence. That which remains a part of this, though fixed—completed with his departure—is that which he nurtured.

LITTLE WILL BE UNDERSTOOD beyond those who were directly involved, yet once the final "note" dies all will sense its death.

PROGRESS LEERS as Madame Change cavorts, perhaps blinding the eyes to the qualities of his bonded mate, "Experience"—she as yet unaware of the impending desertion. The annals of "Time" have already seen the qualities she has shown; it will leave it to the "Future" to judge the motives of her faithless mate and his newest love.

PC NOW SEEKS a new image. It may well be wise that no attempt at duplication has been sought. To ask that anyone fill the same shoes would be a criminal injustice. It is enough to ask that he stand in the shadow cast by the past.

WHAT IS TO BE SAID of this new image? That is better left to the future, so as to gain the advantage of a objectivity and reality. Speculation is the best that could now be achieved; distortion the worst.

LET WHAT CAN BE SAID BE SAID, and a tribute given to Dr. Edouard Patte and "his" Presbyterian College Robed Choir.

M. S.

Business Manager Larry Preston
Associate Editors Gary Crawford, Al Pearce, Alex Patrick, Glen Browder
News Editor Joe Stevens
Feature Editor Susan Gilbert
Sports Editors Bill Bassham, Grady Marshall
Assistant News Editor Jimmy Ramage
Greek Editor Jimmy Humphries
Activities Editor Hugh Weldon
Movie Editor Christie Patterson
Copy Editor Woody McGinn
Cartoonist John Weigel
Circulation Manager Ellis Jenkins
Typists Ray Summerlin, Bruce Hughes
News Staff Jim Bell, John Jones, Joan Vassey, Brooks Styles, Bill Bucheit, Sarah Stribling, Woody Hall, Bruce Hughes

Everything's Going Up, But Where?

Susan Gilbert, Blue Stocking Feature Editor

Contrary to an ever-increasing feeling on campus these days, Presbyterian Colleg and its surroundings have changed in some respects during the past eighty-five years Evidence for this fact is readily seen upon glancing through some of the catalogues years gone by.

In its earliest days, our institution was called Clinton College and maintained within its confines both a preparatory school and a higher-level academy. It consisted of one building, built at a cost of $7000, which served as the President's home, classroom building asembly hall, museum, and library.

Later the name of the school was changed to the Presbyterian College of South Carolina, but the total necessary expenses for a year still stood at $150. The school was in a process of expansion, and further purchases of land gave room for more buildings to be constructed. Neville Hall, Judd Dining Hall, and Laurens Dormitory were built about 1909, and later Spencer and Jacobs were added.

Some of the rules our predecessors had to follow would really cramp the style of modern PC'uns. For example, no student was allowed to go more than two miles from the city limits of Clinton without the express permission of the faculty, there would be no playing on campus during recitation hours, and card-playing and the use of intoxicating liquors were strictly forbidden, anyone known to be participating in such activities being subject to discipline and expulsion.

Chapel was a daily necessity, and on Sabbath days students were required to attend Sunday school and church. One old bulletin stated that students would moreover be required to attend the Presbyterian Church unless their parents explicitly requested otherwise.

Although the institution was especially designed for young men, young women were admitted, since their presence "has in no wise proved detrimental to the scholarly work of the Institution and has materially lessened the the difficulties of discipline." (This view is not shared by many PC'uns this year, however.) All the coeds of those days were residents of Clinton as there was no room for them on campus.

Clinton has also changed, for better or for worse, depending on one's point of view. In 1899 was a town of seven hundred souls, noted for the thrift, energy, and morality of its people. It was comparatively free from the temptations to vice and extravagance peculiar to large towns and cities. No liquor was sold within three miles of the town. There were three churches, and the people were, almost without exception, a church-going, Sabbath-keeping community.

The health record was said to be remarkable—there had been only three deaths among children in Thornwell Orphanage in twenty years. The location was free from malarial diseases as it had good water and a dry atmosphere. (Something has obviously happened to the dry atmosphere in the past eighty years!)

A similar description in a later bulletin stated that there were in Clinton abundant opportunities for recreation but few temptations to extravagance and dissipation. Dancing and card parties were virtually unknown, and prohibition had existed by act of legislature for twenty years. Everything considered, "it would be hard to find a better place for quiet, uninterrupted study." Times have changed.

Perhaps the greatest change in P. C.'s history is now upon us. Next year will mark the end of P. C.'s traditional image as a school for young men. With the influx of about eighty young women in the fall, that image will disappear, much to the sorrow of many tradition-lovers. But in five years a new image will have so embedded itself in the hearts of Presbyterian men and women that the old will be as strange and perhaps as absurd, as some of the rules and practices of years past seem to us.

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Sir,

In a recent sports editorial, the Blue Stocking Sports Editor attempted to place the blame for the failure of spring sports squarely on the shoulders of "certain students who do not have the time to run for P. C."

There has been a gross injustice done. Was it these "certain students" who eliminated the track scholarships completely, or cut the tennis scholarships to a meager two?

Life is and should be a two-way street. The administration and coaching staff should meet prospective athletes half-way, and half-way is definitely not making runners dress in their own rooms, and then make them walk to the track. There is nothing like this in football.

The idea of a dressing room is trivial to most people, but not to the boys who give all they have for two hours each day to P. C. track. They have the right to know they are just as important as the football players, because don't they work just as hard?

I wish that the persons responsible for the accusations would learn the primary purpose for coming to college. I admit that athletics is an all-important ingredient in the well-rounded individual, but what of those who participated in athletics in high school, and would like a chance at some other activities while in college?

I seriously question the right of these persons to pass judgment on others.

Sincerely yours,
Hugh Weldon, Jr.

Dave Venecklasen, Mgr. Ed.

Protesters or Backstabbers

"On a recent weekend more than 15,000 college students carrying signs, guitars, and paperdoves paraded in Washington to protest this nation's involvement in the war in Vietnam." This is the opening statement in a recent editorial in the Army Times of May 5, 1965.

The article goes onto say that "Eleven thousand miles away other young Americans were carrying weapons for a cause they believe in—preservation of the right of self-determination for the Vietnamese and not incidentally, the halting of communist expansion.

One thing the protestors did not think about was the fact that by demonstrating they are adding fuel to the communist fire. Every time they gather they have an audience of photographers and reporters who are ready to flash thier news behind the Iron Curtain.

DAVE

Imagine what a morale booster it is for an American soldier in Vietnam to see posters featuring students protesting against the very ideals he is fighting for. Americans are being shot at from the front by Viet Cong and stabbed in the back by their own countrymen.

Further quoting the article, "The more the Reds feel that the nation is not behind the President, the less inclined they will be to come to the negotiating table. They will wait in the hope that dissension in the United States will weaken the President's position."

How can the students help in the struggle against the communist effort to take over Vietnam? They can keep better informed on the situation in Southeast Asia. A nation that stays informed and educated in the methods of communism is better equipped to fight it, for one of its methods is to stir up opposition to the government among the people themselves.

Sports Sidelines

Trackmen Strike Back

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

In the April 23rd column many people expressed an adverse opinion. Let it be understood that it is not the purpose of this column to be a critique for the sake of criticism. Any criticism expressed is for the purpose of improvement.

ATTITUDE CRITICIZED

Individuals were not being criticized in that column; rather, a school of attitude was. The personal references were for examples only. It was not to be a judgment on these individuals. To be fair to these individuals this column will be devoted to giving their side of an argument.

The opinion of one former trackman was that PC used to be a big track power. This was when scholarships were being given. Now there is no program to get the boys out to run. He thinks track is the hardest sport to prepare for since it is an individual effort in most cases. With no incentive to run the boys are not going to come out.

He believes that Coach Nixon is very interested in the program and will improve it. In recent years though there was not an actual track coach to work with the team. Coach Vickers did not know enough about the coaching end of track.

IMPROVEMENTS CALLED FOR

This person believes the track itself and facilities are in fairly good condition. Some improvements could be made however. One improvement would be to asphalt approaches to the broad jump and pole vault pits.

"I don't know what you could do to build the interest back up. They are going to offer some incentive or scholarships.

Another former trackman had many of the same opinions. He believes that more school spirit as a whole is needed toward the track program. He doesn't believe there is any kind of program here for track.

He believes the coach before Nixon was used entirely because of availability. He hopes and believes Coach Nixon will be able to work out something.

WOFFORD NEW AT TRACK

"For instance Wofford just started track a few years ago, but they have beaten us the last three years. I would rather not have a track team than to have one like this year.

"I don't think the school is behind it, and they don't put any money in it."

One of the track hopefuls who has not come out resents the attitude taken toward the track team. For instance, the track team is not provided with any dressing room facilities. This would lead some to believe that track is not as good as football.

Another trackman said that he ran for three years and never got anything for it. He feels like he is entitled to a free year.

PRIDE RUNS BOTH WAYS

What can be done to improve the program? The boys feel like pride runs both ways, and they must be met halfway by the athletic department.

One of the main complaints is no scholarships. There may not be an answer here. PC has already joined the Carolinas Conference. Only two spring sports scholarships are offered and these will not go to track.

Something must be done if track is to survive. We hope that Coach Nixon can work out some program to save track.

HUCKLEBERRY BURNS gives it all he's got as he swings for the fences in a recent Bandit intramural softball game.

ASP Cindermen Triumph In Meet; IM Titles Going Up For Final Grab

As PC's intramural year draws to a close four important titles—tennis, softball, horseshoes, and badminton— remain unclaimed. The Alpha Sigs literally ran away with the Intramural track meet as they took seven firsts in eleven events and then coasted to a 16-point advantage over their nearest challenger. They finished the day with 39 points.

The KA's took a slim second place lead and held on to it and edged the Pounders 23 to 22. The PiKA's finished with 18 points, followed closely by the Theta Chi's with 16.

INDIVIDUAL SCORING

Broad Jump: 18 ft., 3 in.; Robbins, Theta Chi; Donovan, PiKA; Dunlap, KA; Cottingham, Pi. Kapps.

Discus: 102 ft.; Warlick, Alpha Sigs; West, Pounders; Squires, KA; Smart, PiKA.

Shot Put: 38 f., 11 in.; Thompson, Alpha Sig; Helms, PiKA; Pamplin, KA; Campbell, Pounders.

High Jump: 5ft., 6 in.; Marshall, Alpha Sigs; Sullivan, Pounders; Terrill, Bandits; Robbins, Theta Chi.

440 Relay: KA, Pounders, Theta Chi.

880: 2:21; Roland, PiKA; Martin, Pounders; Sjoholm, KA; Guy, Alpha Sig.

220: 26:1; Hardee, Alpha Sig; Lynn, PiKA; Turner, Pounders; Harrison, Theta Chi.

440: 58:2; Knox, Alpha Sig; Dunlap, KA; Bolick, PiKA; Adams, Theta Chi.

High Hurdles: 18:1; Robb, Alpha Sig; Dees, KA; Taylor, Pounders; Cottingham, PiKapp.

100 Yard Dash: 11:1; Weldon, KA; Knox, Alpha Sig; Robbins, Theta Chi: Buttra, Pounders.

880 Relay: 1:45.5; Alpha Sigma Phi; Pounders, Theta Chi, PiKA.

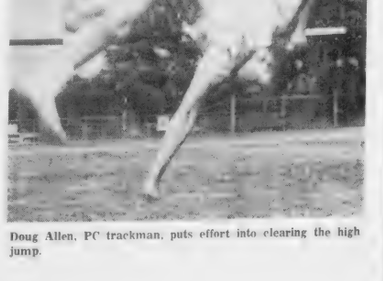
As the intramural softball season draws to a close the PiKA's seem to have the title clinched with a spotless 8-0 record. Trailing them are the Pounders, 4-1, and Sigma Nu's and Alpha Sigs with 4-2 slates, respectively.

The district twenty-six N.A.I.A track meet will be held at St. Andrews Presbyterian College on May 10th. Ten Hose track men plan to make the trip. PC's big hopes rest in junior Doug Allen, last year's high jump champ, and the mile relay team. The Blue Hose will take four freshmen into this year's competition.

Baseball Outlook Brighter for '66

Presbyterian suffered its worst baseball season in many years, losing eight and winning none. Yet hopes are brighter for next year with thirteen of the sixteen players returning. Only Jackie Nix, Danny Charles, and Jimmy Cape will be lost due to graduation. Experience may be one vital lesson learned this year, for there were seven freshmen on the squad who will compose a good nucleus to build on.

The Blue Hose's closest game came losing the last encounter of the season with Belmont Abbey. The game went into ten innings which saw Belmont Abbey win 5-4 on a home run. Richard Corley came through with the highest batitng average of .308. Brownie Johnson and Danny Charles led the team in RBI's with four each. Our pitching suffered a blow when Jimmy Cape showed an injured arm most of the season.



Linksmen Seek NAIA District Championship At St. Andrews

The PC linksmen travel to Winston-Salem, N. C., on May 15 to play in the NAIA Golf Tournament Monday and Tuesday of that week. Tourney play will consist of 36 holes at the Tanglewood Country Club, one of the better courses on the East Coast.

Facing the Hose will be golf teams from Wofford, Appalachian State, Atlantic Christian, and other Carolina Conference schools as well as district NAIA competition. Predictions have it that the three schools above have the best chances for coming through with overall team victories.

A practice round will be played on Sunday, May 16, with the tourney commencing the following Monday. The scores of the four low men on the six-man team will be taken for the team score. PC again has a better-than-average chance of being up among the leaders.

To the team winner goes the district championship as well as the opportunity to go to the national NCAA golf tournament. In addition, individual trophies will be given. Bill Kellam and David Sale should be in with the top contenders fighting for medalist honors. They have been shooting about par or under with creditable consistency throughout the season.

Doug Allen, PC trackman, puts effort into clearing the high jump.

Campus News Briefs

THE SCABBARD AND BLADE conducts its annual spring tapping ceremony. Those honored include Woody McGinn, Roy Wright, Dave Dunlap, Jim Gray, Al Todd, Walt Todd, Wade Stewart, Jimmy Bankhead, Ben Pickens, Bubba Roundtree, Bill Crowley.

Last Chance To 'Blow It Out'

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

This weekend marks IFC Weekend. The Presbyterian College Interfraternity Council planned this dance weekend but is not sponsoring a school function such as the one held Greek weekend.

Most of the fraternities on campus are holding parties Friday and Saturday nights at various locations in and around Clinton.

The Theta Chi Fraternity is having parties Friday and Saturday at the Legion Hut and the Laurens Shrine Club with the Unestimators both nights.

The KA's are having a record party Friday night in their fraternity house and the Constellations at the Mary Musgrove Hotel on Saturday night.

The Pi Kappa Phi's have Friday and Saturday parties at Peck's Ranch outside Clinton with the Jades all weekend, and will celebrate their annual Shipwreck Ball this weekend.

The PiKapp's have two newly pinned brothers: Charles Campbell to Miss Suellen Oliver of Lander College, and John Askew to Miss Bobbie Garrison. Their Brother of the Week is Bob Hodgkin. Mrs. Charlotte Hemphill will represent the Pi Kapp's as their Rose Queen in national competition.

Elections for Pi Kappa Phi officers for next year were recently held: Archon—Bob Hodgkin; Treasurer—John Askew; Secretary—Charles Campbell; Historian—John Morrison; Warden—Pete Collins; Chaplain—Orren McKay; and Rush Chairmen—Neil McKay and Les Smith.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity has a record party Friday night in their fraternity house and Saturday afternoon with the Superiors as their combo. Saturday night they hold a record party.

Larry Connelly was taken into the Sigma Nu brotherhood Wednesday night.

The Sigma Nu's have added a new fence to the backyard of their fraternity house—the third in a series after bad storms and harsh winds.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity has a party Sautrday night with a local combo at the Legion Hut.

Sandy Hagood was recently pinned to Miss Susan Timmerman of Winthrop. The PiKA Brothers of the Week are Sandy Hagood, Don McNeill, and Macky Singleton, who is lavaliered to Miss Joyce Chandler.

The Alpha Sig's aren't having any parties on campus this weekend—Drive Safely. Dr. Edouard Patte is the Alpha Sig Brother of the Week. Newly initiated brothers are: Rick Corley, Alex Burgin, and Mike McGehee.

The Interfraternity Council held elections last week for new officers for next year. Pat W. Brown of the Kappa Alpha Order is President, Ben Pickens, of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity is Vice-President, Jim Bruce of the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity is Secretary, Frank Markette of the Sigma Nu Fraternity is Treasurer. Other newly elected members are Les Smith of the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity and Bill Adams of the Theta Chi Fraternity.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

New Course Added For Summer Work

Dr. Gettys announced today that because several students have requested a Junior-Senior elective for the second term of summer school, Bible 311, which is a study of Pauline Letters, will be offered if a sufficient number of students are enrolled. The course will be tauht by Dr. Gettys, 8:00-9:00 a. m.

Ritchie Heads WF

Jim Ritchie was elected president of the Westminster Fellowship for the coming school year at a recent meeting.

Backing up Ritchie will be John McCallum, vice-president; Sarah Stribling, secretary; and Mong Milligan, treasurer.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for the week of May 10th-15th.

Monday: NO CHAPEL SCHEDULED. All Sophomores who have not seen their advisors for the signing of their Major Cards must do so or be charged with a Chapel Absence.

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service, Dr. Fred V. Poag, First Presbyterian Church, Spartanburg.

Friday: Fine Arts Series, Dr. Arthur Larson, Duke University.

Meeting Called To Form Human Relations Club

There will be a meeting on Monday, May 10, at 6:45 p.m. in the Douglas House meeting room of all students interested in forming a chapter of the South Carolina Student Council on Human Relations.

The purpose of the organization will be to promote better understanding and relations among the races; to establish deeper understanding of all people intellectually, culturally, and spiritually; and to awaken interest in and to stimulate student groups to develop democratic attitudes and programs of action to meet the problems of the campus and community.

This chapter would be an affilate of the South Carolina Council on Human Relations, a non-profit, non-political organization. Any individual who is in accord with these purposes is invited to attend the meeting.

Historia Club Meets; Elects New Officers

The Historia Club will meet Thursday night to elect 1965-66 officers and organize for next year. The meeting is set for 7:30 in Douglas House meeting room, and all students interested in taking part in next year's activities are invited to attend.

Economic Survey Results In; Show Student Expenditures

PC students spend $60.68 per month, according to a survey conducted by Seniors Arthur Baxter and David Worth this spring.

Said Baxter:

"The college community in a small town is always in a unique situation. In certain situations it may be the dominant factor, and its home town would truly be a 'college town', while at the other extreme the school may be too small to have any influence on its town.

"Davidson College is a good example of the former; Shorter College of Rome, Ga., exemplifies the latter. P. C. however, does not fall into either of these two neat categories. It is small in relation to the town of Clinton, yet is is of considerable importance economically to the merchants of the town.

"The purpose of this survey is to show in fairly concrete terms the relationship of P. C. to the economic life of Clinton."

This week Mr. Baxter and Mr. Worth have announced some of their results concerning student expenditures.

Of the students surveyed, 44% own cars. Their expenditures per month averaged $70.00, while those of students not owning cars averaged $45.63. Students indicate that 38% of this is spent in Clinton, while 18% is spent in the canteen.

On the average, students listed dating as their most expensive venture — 22% of their total monthly expenditure is absorbed thusly. 16.9% of their spending went for food, while 14.6% went for car expenses. Students with cars listed cars as their most expensive item.

Students stated that merchants in Clinton were dependable, friendly, and willing to please, but found entertainment, clothing, and good restaurants lacking.

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
BEACH BLANKET BINGO
Frankie Avalon and Annette
MONDAY AND TUESDAY
OPERATION SNAFU
Sean Connery
STARTS WED., MAY 12
MAIL ORDER BRIDE
Buddy Ebsen, Keir Dullea

ROTC Awards Day To Honor Top Cadets

The annual Awards and Decoration Review will be held next Thursday, May 13, on the plaza in honor of graduating senior cadets and others receiving awards.

A total of fifteen awards will be made. Dr. Marc C. Weersing will present all except one.

Lt. Col. L. L. Dunlap, a representative of the Reserve Officer Association of South Carolina, will make his association's award to the "outstanding junior cadet based on moral character and leadership demonstrated in ROTC, academic and extra-curricular activities."

Certificates of Meritorious Leadership and the ROTC Military Achievement Award will be presented. The South Carolina Society of the American Revolution Medal will be awarded to the best trained cadet from the sopohmore class.

In case of rain or inclement weather, the ceremonies will be conducted in Belk Auditorium.

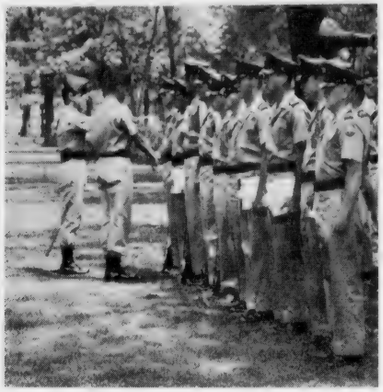
SCA Announces Pl For Year End Picni

The S. C. A. will hold its nual spring picnic next We day, May 12, from 4:00 until 8:00 P. M. President Stanford announced today

The outdoor recreation start at 4. Included in the s ule are swimming, volle softball, relay, and egg tos A picnic supper will be s from 6-7.

The Intramural Compe Sing will start after suppe faculty committee will pres trophy to the best group, ing from fraternities, indo ents, and coeds

Tau Phi Pi Hears Research Results



The Tau Phi Pi Scienc ciety held its last meetin the year on Wednesday

The Biology Department charge of the program and were given by Dr. Stump Dr. Lynn. Dr. Stump spok the asexuality and sub-s tion in Lesquereusia spira shown in long term pure li tures. Dr. Stump has been some individual research a talk dealt with this research Lynn's topic dealt with th lution and display behavio the Horned Lizards.

Following the program, a posed Constitution for th ciety was read by Susa Jeanes who has been worki a Constitution. Suggestion possible changes were mad the remainder of the work ed to be done on the Co tion was left for the new cers.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Count
McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Stude for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.
Yarborough
Studio and Camera S
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Proc
WELCOME, P. C. STUDENT
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square
JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street
Clinton, S.

Campus News Briefs

THE SCABBARD AND BLADE conducts its annual spring tapping ceremony. Those honored include Woody McGinn, Roy Wright, Dave Dunlap, Jim Gray, Al Todd, Walt Todd, Wade Stewart, Jimmy Bankhead, Ben Pickens, Bubba Roundtree, Bill Crowley.

New Course Added For Summer Work

Dr. Gettys announced today that because several students have requested a Junior-Senior elective for the second term of summer school, Bible 311, which is a study of Pauline Letters, will be offered if a sufficient number of students are enrolled. The course will be taught by Dr. Gettys, 8:00-9:00 a. m.

Ritchie Heads WF

Jim Ritchie was elected president of the Westminster Fellowship for the coming school year at a recent meeting.

Backing up Ritchie will be John McCallum, vice-president; Sarah Stribling, secretary; and Mong Milligan, treasurer.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for the week of May 10th-15th.

Monday: NO CHAPEL SCHEDULED. All Sophomores who have not seen their advisors for the signing of their Major Cards must do so or be charged with a Chapel Absence.

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service, Dr. Fred V. Poag, First Presbyterian Church, Spartanburg.

Friday: Fine Arts Series, Dr. Arthur Larson, Duke University.

Meeting Called To Form Human Relations Club

There will be a meeting on Monday, May 10, at 6:45 p.m. in the Douglas House meeting room of all students interested in forming a chapter of the South Carolina Student Council on Human Relations.

The purpose of the organization will be to promote better understanding and relations among the races; to establish deeper understanding of all people intellectually, culturally, and spiritually; and to awaken interest in and to stimulate student groups to develop democratic attitudes and programs of action to meet the problems of the campus and community.

This chapter would be an affilate of the South Carolina Council on Human Relations, a non-profit, non-political organization. Any individual who is in accord with these purposes is invited to attend the meeting.

Historia Club Meets; Elects New Officers

The Historia Club will meet Thursday night to elect 1965-66 officers and organize for next year. The meeting is set for 7:30 in Douglas House meeting room, and all students interested in taking part in next year's activities are invited to attend.

SCA Announces Pla For Year End Picnic

The S. C. A. will hold its nual spring picnic next Wed day, May 12, from 4:00 P until 8:00 P. M. President Stanford announced today

The outdoor recreation start at 4. Included in the ac ule are swimming, volley softball, relay, and egg tos A picnic supper will be se from 6-7.

The Intramural Compet Sing will start after supper faculty committee will pres trophy to the best group, co ing from fraternities, indep ents, and coeds

Tau Phi Pi Hears Research Results

The Tau Phi Pi Scienc ciety held its last meetin the year on Wednesday n

The Biology Department charge of the program and were given by Dr. Stump Dr. Lynn. Dr. Stump spok the asexuality and sub-sp tion in Lesquereusia spira shown in long term pure lin tures. Dr. Stump has been some individual research and talk dealt with this research Lynn's topic dealt with the lution and display behavi the Horned Lizards.

Following the program, a posed Constitution for the ciety was read by Susa Jeanes who has been workin a Constitution. Suggestions possible changes were made the remainder of the work ed to be done on the Con tion was left for the new cers.

Last Chance To 'Blow It Out'

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

This weekend marks IFC Weekend. The Presbyterian College Interfraternity Council planned this dance weekend but is not sponsoring a school function such as the one held Greek weekend.

Most of the fraternities on campus are holding parties Friday and Saturday nights at various locations in and around Clinton.

The Theta Chi Fraternity is having parties Friday and Saturday at the Legion Hut and the Laurens Shrine Club with the Unestimators both nights.

The KA's are having a record party Friday night in their fraternity house and the Constellations at the Mary Musgrove Hotel on Saturday night.

The Pi Kappa Phi's have Friday and Saturday parties at Peck's Ranch outside Clinton with the Jades all weekend, and will celebrate their annual Shipwreck Ball this weekend.

The PiKapp's have two newly pinned brothers: Charles Campbell to Miss Suellen Oliver of Lander College, and John Askew to Miss Bobbie Garrison. Their Brother of the Week is Bob Hodgkin. Mrs. Charlotte Hemphill will represent the Pi Kapp's as their Rose Queen in national competition.

Elections for Pi Kappa Phi officers for next year were recently held: Archon—Bob Hodgkin; Treasurer—John Askew; Secretary—Charles Campbell; Historian—John Morrison; Warden—Pete Collins; Chaplain—Orren McKay; and Rush Chairmen—Neil McKay and Les Smith.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity has a record party Friday night in their fraternity house and Saturday afternoon with the Superiors as their combo. Saturday night they hold a record party.

Larry Connelly was taken into the Sigma Nu brotherhood Wednesday night.

The Sigma Nu's have added a new fence to the backyard of their fraternity house—the third in a series after bad storms and harsh winds.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity has a party Sautrday night with a local combo at the Legion Hut.

Sandy Hagood was recently pinned to Miss Susan Timmerman of Winthrop. The PiKA Brothers of the Week are Sandy Hagood, Don McNeill, and Macky Singleton, who is lavaliered to Miss Joyce Chandler.

The Alpha Sig's aren't having any parties on campus this weekend—Drive Safely. Dr. Edouard Patte is the Alpha Sig Brother of the Week. Newly initiated brothers are: Rick Corley, Alex Burgin, and Mike McGehee.

The Interfraternity Council held elections last week for new officers for next year. Pat W. Brown of the Kappa Alpha Order is President, Ben Pickens, of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity is Vice-President, Jim Bruce of the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity is Secretary, Frank Markette of the Sigma Nu Fraternity is Treasurer. Other newly elected members are Les Smith of the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity and Bill Adams of the Theta Chi Fraternity.

Economic Survey Results In; Show Student Expenditures

PC students spend $60.68 per month, according to a survey conducted by Seniors Arthur Baxter and David Worth this spring.

Said Baxter:

"The college community in a small town is always in a unique situation. In certain situations it may be the dominant factor, and its home town would truly be a 'college town', while at the other extreme the school may be too small to have any influence on its town.

"Davidson College is a good example of the former; Shorter College of Rome, Ga., exemplifies the latter. P. C. however, does not fall into either of these two neat categories. It is small in relation to the town of Clinton, yet is is of considerable importance economically to the merchants of the town.

"The purpose of this survey is to show in fairly concrete terms the relationship of P. C. to the economic life of Clinton."

This week Mr. Baxter and Mr. Worth have announced some of their results concerning student expenditures.

Of the students surveyed, 44% own cars. Their expenditures per month averaged $70.00, while those of students not owning cars averaged $45.63. Students indicate that 38% of this is spent in Clinton, while 18% is spent in the canteen.

On the average, students listed dating as their most expensive venture — 22% of their total monthly expenditure is absorbed thusly. 16.9% of their spending went for food, while 14.6% went for car expenses. Students with cars listed cars as their most expensive item.

Students stated that merchants in Clinton were dependable, friendly, and willing to please, but found entertainment, clothing, and good restaurants lacking.

ROTC Awards Day To Honor Top Cadets

The annual Awards and Decoration Review will be held next Thursday, May 13, on the plaza in honor of graduating senior cadets and others receiving awards.

A total of fifteen awards will be made. Dr. Marc C. Weersing will present all except one.

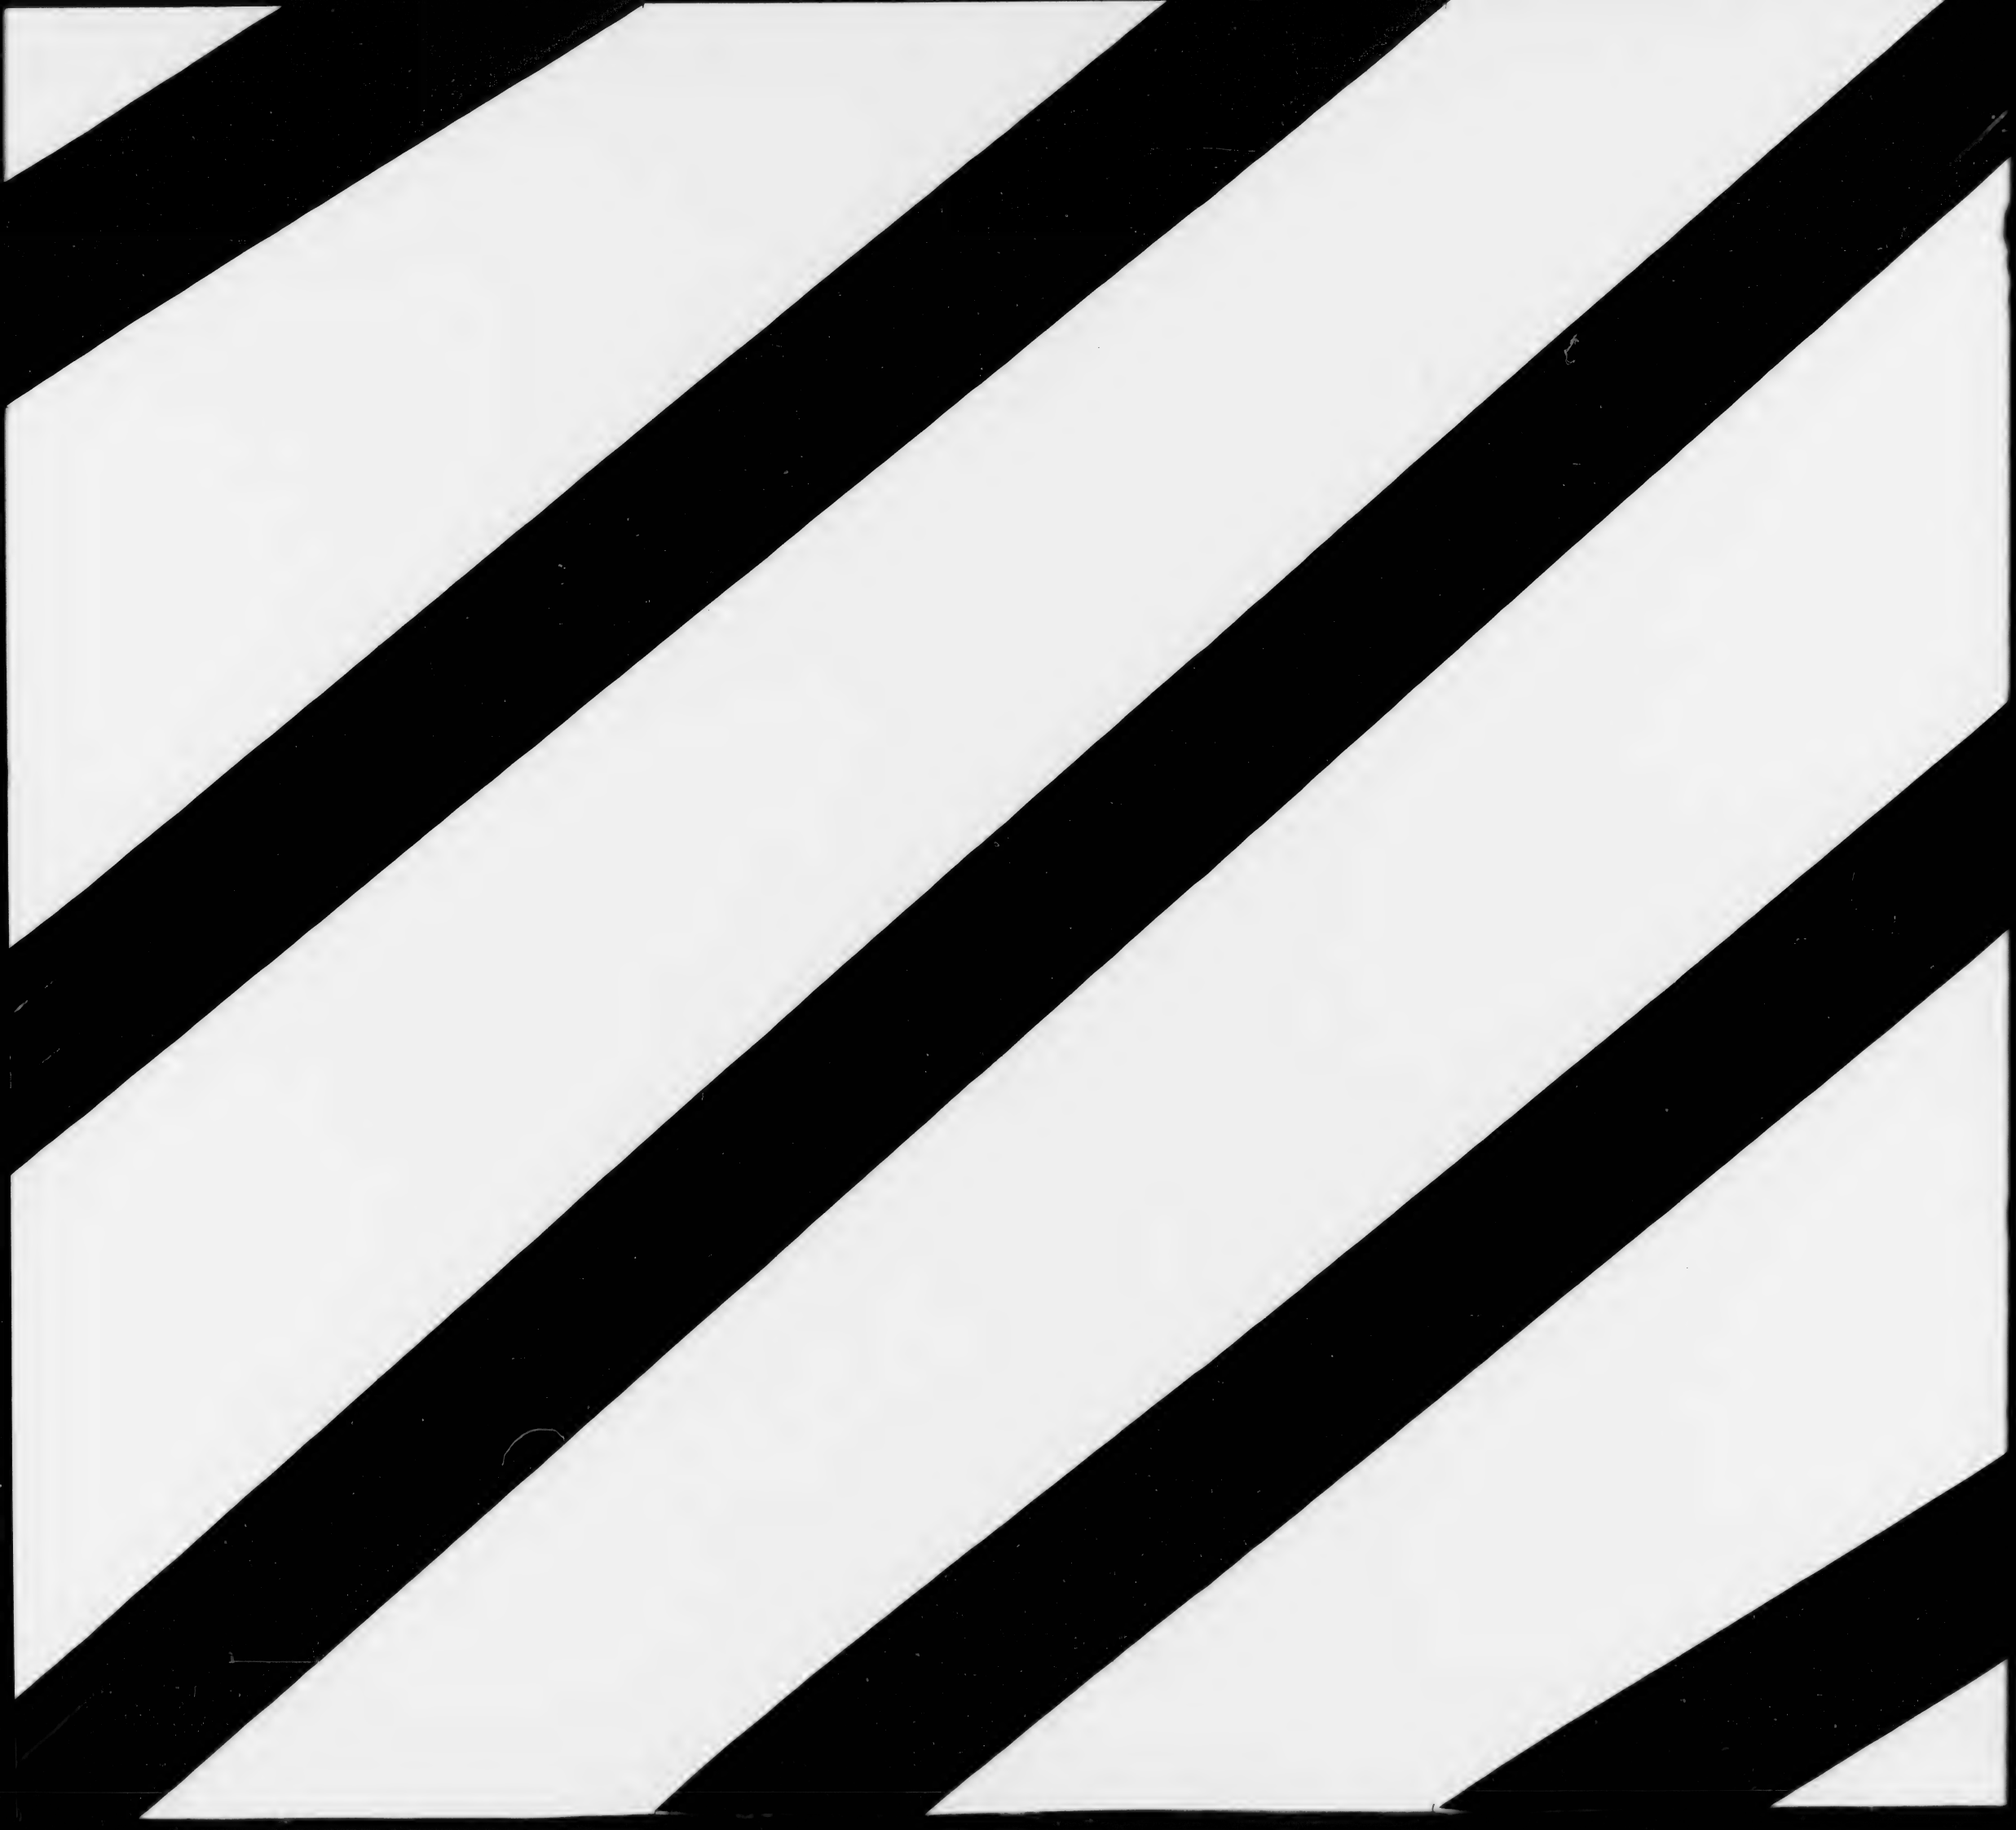
Lt. Col. L. L. Dunlap, a representative of the Reserve Officer Association of South Carolina, will make his association's award to the "outstanding junior cadet based on moral character and leadership demonstrated in ROTC, academic and extra-curricular activities."

Certificates of Meritorious Leadership and the ROTC Military Achievement Award will be presented. The South Carolina Society of the American Revolution Medal will be awarded to the best trained cadet from the sopohmore class.

In case of rain or inclement weather, the ceremonies will be conducted in Belk Auditorium.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
BEACH BLANKET BINGO
Frankie Avalon and Annette
MONDAY AND TUESDAY
OPERATION SNAFU
Sean Connery
STARTS WED., MAY 12
MAIL ORDER BRIDE
Buddy Ebsen, Keir Dullea



JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Studen
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Sh
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Proces

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

1965-66

33

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIII | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, September 17, 1965 | No. 1

Larger Faculty Tightens Academic Clamp; New Record of 670 Students Registered

Fifteen new professors have joined the Presbyterian College faculty for the 1965-66 session now getting underway.

Four of these incoming teachers hold doctoral degrees, and three will receive their doctorates next year. Three members belong to Phi Beta Kappa.

The new PC faculty members are: Dixon C. Cunningham, instructor in economics; William E. Ellis, assistant professor of education; Charles T. Gaines, assistant professor of music; Katherine W. Giles, instructor in physical education; Dr. Fred G. Keihn, associate professor of chemistry; William J. McArthur, visiting instructor in history; James P. Mann, visiting instructor in mathematics; and Richard L. Morgan, associate professor of Bible.

Also Jack R. Pressau, associate professor of Christian education; William G. Reid, visiting instructor in sociology; James Shakespeare, instructor in English and tennis coach; Dr. James L. Skinner, III, associate professor of English; Richard C. Wilson, assistant professor of economics; Dr. H. Lawrence Zillmer, associate professor of speech and drama; and Capt. Calvin R. Claypoole, assistant professor of military science.

Of these, six will strengthen the academic program. Dr. Zillmer will develop a new program in speech and drama and Miss Giles will inaugurate a physical education program for women. Dr. Keihn represents an added teacher in chemistry; Dr. Skinner, an addition in English, Mr. Ellis, in education; and Mr. Morgan in Bible.

Forty-Six Students Claim The Dean's List

Academic Dean Joseph M. Gettys has anounced that forty-six students have been named to the Presbyterian College Dean's List.

The perfect records of 4.0 were turned in by Carlos Emanuel of Ecuador, Thomas Hearon, II, of Bethune, James Johnson of Georgiana, Ala., Mary Ann Kirkland of Moncks Corner, and Hubert S. Wardlaw, Jr., of Kingstree.

Four other students just missed it with averages in the 3.75 range (out of a possible 4.00): James Bell of Copperhill, Tenn.; Neil Lindsay, Jr., of Fayetteville, N. C.; Bruce Pruitt of Bessemer City, N. C.; and DuPont Smith of Decatur, Ga.

Students in the 3.5 range include: Meilnda Gaines and Mrs. Ruth Tiller, both of Clinton; Cecil Brown of Laurens; David Berry, Jr., of Union; Hunter Coleman of Tifton, Ga.; Gene Couch of Owings; Paula Evans of Ludowici, Ga.; William Gillespie of Newport News, Va.; Susanna Jeanes of Lyman; Dan McLemore of Surrency, Ga.

Also Don McNeil of Thomson, Ga.; Roland Matson of Atlanta; John Mebane of Dunwoody, Ga.; James Powell of Scranton; James Ritchie of Southern Pines, N. C.; David Rousey of Jacksonville, Fla.; John Settle of Asheville, N. C.; Joseph Singleton of Conway; and Henry Smith of Marietta, Ga.

Earning averages in the 3.2 bracket: Sally Copeland and Amelia Nichols, both of Clinton; Arthur Baxter and Theodore Caswell, both of Atlanta; Frederick Boiter of Honea Path; William Hall, Jr., of York; Nancy Harvey of Monticello, Ga.; James Hendrix of Lenoir, N. C.;

Also Benny Hurley of Clover; Charles Jackson of McCormick; Mason Johnson of Joanna; Henry Knox of Walterboro; Robert Lynn, Jr., of Memphis, Tenn.; James Murchison of Concord, N. C.; George Salvo of Summerville; Morrow Thompson of Van Wyck; Thomas Whitaker of Florence; and Robert Wyrick of Texarkana, Texas.

SAM LYONS SPURS the freshmen's enthusiasm over a new coed, Cissie Reddick, in PC's first dual rat meet of the 1965 season.

A record 670 students—including 110 women—have enrolled at Presbyterian College for the 1965-66 academic year, Registrar Roslyn Martin announced today.

This total represents a sizable increase over the previous high of 543. Included in the current figure are 320 new students and 350 returned upperclassmen.

Full coeducation and new facilities accounted for the enrollment rise. Presbyterian College opened its first women's dormitory this fall, thus ushering in a new emphasis on coeds. There are 94 resident girls this year, compared to just 20 who lived in campus homes last session. Additional men students now occupy these homes.

In addition to the dormitory, a new dining hall, science building and increased number of faculty members help to provide for the larger enrollment.

College officials point out that, even with the greater number of admissions to the freshman class this year, there were three times as many paid applications as the college was able to accommodate.

Neville Hall Experiencing Quarter Million Renovation

Presbyterian College has begun to give an extensive $250,000 face-lifting to its fifty-eight-year-old landmark building Neville Hall, to restore the structure to an appearance befitting its prominent place at the end of the West Plaza.

Although Neville's familiar dome and other exterior features will remain unchanged, its interior will be completely remodeled. Renovations include modern language laboratory facilities, three new classrooms and twenty-eight additional faculty offices, as well as refurnished classrooms and office facilities. An air-conditioning system will also be installed.

Work done on the upper floors of the building this summer included the suspension of a floor in the old auditorium to provide space for the language lab and classrooms in the main area and offices above. An elevator is planed to service these facilities and the projected floors of office space that will be utilized by enclosing the inside of the dome. Steel and concrete stairways have replaced the former

(Continued on page 4)

Gaines Selects PC's New Choir Members

Charles T. Gaines, head of PC's music department has announced the following members for the Presbyterian College Choir.

Sopranos: Faye Kirkman, Betty Jo Large, Livey Lattimore, Gloria Porter, Rebecca Stevens, Sarah Stribling, Cissy Talbert, Cathy Tindall, Beck Truesdell, Kathi Williams.

Altos: Nancy Alexander; Karen Bremer, Katrina Compton, Helen Moore, Angela Rayes, Anne Rooney, Sandy Shope.

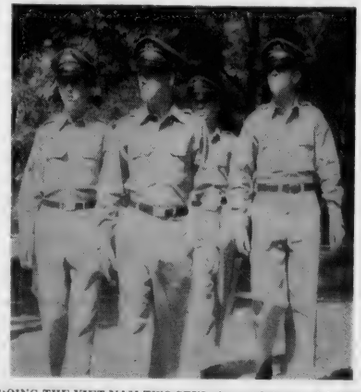
Tenors: John Bartlett, John Guest, Sammy Hobson, Tracy

(Continued on page 4)

New Cadre and Cadet ROTC Slots Filled

CADET LT. COL. ROY WRIGHT

Brooks Styles
Blue Stocking Reporter



Presbyterian's expanded military department welcomes two new officers and one sergeant to the cadre.

Captain Calvin R. Claypoole, an officer in the armored cavalry comes from service in Europe to PC. He was graduated from Morris Harvey College and did graduate work at Marshall University. He is married and has two children.

Captain Lewis A. Johnson will be transferred to PC from Ft. Bliss, Texas, at the end of September. Master Sgt. William D. Cochran, transferred from Ft. Benning, Ga., was graduated from the University of Alabama and did graduate work at Peabody College and the University of Colorado. He is married and has three children.

Taking over command of the PC Battalion is Roy Wright. His executive officer will be Jimmy Bankhead. Filling their posts on the battalion staff are S1, Tom Leland; S2, Henry Lovett; S3, Walt Todd; S4, Bubba Rountree. Assistant S1 is Scooter Holcomb; Assistant S2, Richard Carpenter; Assistant S3, Will Scott; and Assistant S4, Charles Campbell. Woods McGinn will take charge of the Drum and Bugle Corps, Al Todd will lead the Wysor Rifles, and Buddy Guy will command Headuarters Company.

Company commanders are Sam Lyons, Wade Stewart, Dave Dunlap, Skip Matson, and Phil Olmert.

DOING THE VIET NAM TWO-STEP, four cadets march briskly toward their first drill.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor
Sam Waters

Assistant Editor
Merrie Stancill

Managing Editor
Dave Veneklasen

Just A Waystation

THE TRANSIENT ITINERATES have come to harvest another crop of peas, beans and PC students—will it ever be thus? Must the faculty at PC rotate every year like a merry-go-round without even the enticement of a brass ring to hold them to their seats?

NO ONE WILL DENY the high quality generally achieved in the selection of the faculty. Or that during their stay the lost faculty members of the past were a contribution to the campus and the students. It is the major overhaul that attends the end of each academic year that the students find disturbing. A certain amount of change brings life to anything, but the proportion of change cannot exceed a point beyond which is the realm of chaos.

STRENGTH of an academic department rests on stability. Stability of this sort, like the roots of a great tree, takes time to grow and spread if it is to hold the weight of a department. The royal palm, for all its majesty when erect, is the first to topple in a storm—it has no roots.

THE BLUE STOCKING wishes to be among the first to welcome the new faculty members, doing so in the hope that we will not have to bid these same people farewell next May.

LET'S KEEP OUR FINGERS CROSSED that someone, somewhere will get on the stick and do something. Let's stop putting up vacation cottages when what we want are houses of learning.

Building Or Barn

HIGH RISE, LOW RISE and in between, PC's campus is being graced by a number of new buildings. The contrast to the older one's is thought provoking. They too were once structures of grace and beauty. Will the new buildings meet the same fate?

IT IS GRANTED that time does its fair share in the process of aging, but it is not entirely to blame for the forebearing appearance which masks the face of our older buildings.

IT WAS NOT A FREAK of nature that flooded the third floor of one of our dorms last year but the nature of certain freaks.

HOPES ARE RUNNING HIGH in many quarters that maturity is overtaking the student body and that they will be able to restrain their inner frustrations or "buck off" and take their destructive urges with them. In this way it is hoped that the rest facilities will remain attached to the walls and the doors to their hinges. Enough said—Amen.

Business Manager — Larry Preston
News Editor — Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor — Jimmy Ramage
Feature Editor — Susan Gilbert
Sports Editor — Bill Bassham
Greek Editor — Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor — Christie Patterson
Copy Editor — Woody McGinn
Cartoonist — John Weigel
Circulation Manager — Ellis Jenkins
Typists — Helen Moore, Ann Fadeley, Gloria Porter, Sandy Shope.
Contributors this week: Brooks Styles, Ellen Stuart, Gay Theus, Bob Dalton, Charles Campbell, Ed Simons, Carol Tumlinson.

Integral Part—Will It Soon Be Non-existent?

Carol Tumlinson, Blue Stocking Feature Staff

Rat Season has for many years been an integral part of PC's tradition and its story has largely been a successful one. Its purpose has been and continues to be to knock the pure high school out of the senior-just-turned freshmen and to help them adjust to college.

Upperclassmen, for the most part, think the Season is a good thing, and many are grateful for an experience that could have been gained no other way. It serves as a transition period from high school and its ways to college, and the frosh generally get the idea right away. They learn respect for the upperclassmen and any wisdom the latter might have gleaned simply by virtue of their being in college for one or more years.

Besides having many childish idiosyncrasies left over from recent collective existence as BMOC's (or BWOC's, as the case may be), freshmen are a lonely crew. Many of them are away from home for the first time, and find themselves suddenly thrust into a milder version of the cold reality of the outside world. Tolerant and loving parents are miles away, and everybody else seems so preoccupied. But who has time to think of such when he gins and polishes shoes from morning 'til night?

The results of Rat Season are quite obvious to anyone who cares enough to take a look. By the time they are full-fledged collegians, the has-been Rats have a place. They have become acquainted with many of the students and know most of their classmates by name. They are known by the upperclassmen for the way they "took it.", and future campus leaders can be spotted by the spirit they exhibited.

Many who are in a position to have a say-so in the matter feel that Rat Season should be tamed or even eliminated. Such has long been the concern of many campus leaders, who, like most PC'uns, hold dear the tradition and place value on the purpose it accomplishes.

The process of gradual abandonment has been going on for some time, and many feel that with the influx of the fairer sex, this process should soon be completed. But they do not or will not understand how the students feel. They like it, in spite of its inconveniences and its often unsuccessful (thanks to the Rats' rapid acquisition of a sense of humor) attempts at wholesale humiliation.

This year Rat Season has so far been a tremendous success; to such an extent, in fact, that the shortening of it has almost been compensated for. Those who would see it discontinued are those who would tear away our tradition until there remains only a ghost of PC as generations of students have known it.

Campus Attitudes: Spirit or Spoof?

What presents the attitude of a college is the attitude of its people. In past years Presbyterian has been known as a "friendly campus" and has been marked with an intangible element of spirit setting it aside from other schools, whether state or church supported.

What happened to that spirit last year is perplexing; yet it can be traced to the month of September, 1964. In that month more tradition was marred, changed, or destroyed than one could ever aspire to do by student conventions, student councils, demonstrations, or coeducation. Because in that month the freshman orientation, or "rat season", flatly failed to achieve its intended purpose Rush-minded fraternity "men" and apathetic fresh"men" entered into a unspoken agreement which made a mockery of that tradition.

A good year depends largely on the Hell of the first few weeks. Let rats be rats, and upperclassmen be upperclassmen. Let the motto of every freshman be "I consider the day a total loss unless I catch hell from someone." The freshmen will benefit from it, the upperclassmen will benefit from it; and of a far greater value, the school will be enhanced by it.

In the immortal words of a bayonet instructor, KILL!

Ed.

Student Council Reports

Henry Lovett, President

There have recently been many questions about the possibility of revising campus dress rules. The inquiries were brought before the Student Council for discussion and recommendations. At this time a list of the proposed changes is in the hands of the administration awaiting their evaluation and vote.

Until the administration has time to act upon the recommendations, we, the Student Council, wouuld urge each member of the PC student body to continue to conform to the present dress standards as stated in the Knapsack, the student handbook.

The Student Council will continue to keep the students informed of all actions taken by the Council pertinent to the interests of the student. We encourage suggestions and criticisms to make "the Council" truly a Student Council.

Dave Veneklasen Mgr. Ed.

An Indescribable Feeling

The Blue Stocking is a paper about the people, for the people and last but not least by the people of Presbyterian College. By the people is something that concerns every member of the Blue Stocking staff.

Without a strong nucleus of staff members a paper of the Blue Stocking's quality would not be possible. It would turn into a paper of campus announcements and administrative Memorandums This is not the purpose of this or any other newspaper. It is to provide you the reader with articles of interest and importance in the form of news stories, features and sports.

In order to keep up the quality of the newspaper positions must be filled on the staff. Writers in every category including news, features and sports are needed. Typists, proofreaders, and in general anyone willing to burn a little mdinight oil are in high demand.

DAVE

It is funny the feeling a person gets when he can stand back on Friday afternoon and watch the sheets of newsprint roll off the presses in the form of the finished Blue Stocking. A sense of satisfaction and pride comes closest in the description. No one can give a concrete reason why he or she stays up at night, worries a lot and takes stabs from members of the college community while working on the paper.

The Blue Stocking staff would like to extend an invitation to join them in working on the voice of the student body. Hard work and long hours will be served. Featured attraction—self satisfaction. Anyone interested are encouraged to see Sam Waters, Merrie Stancill or Dave Veneklasen.

Who Can Quarterback?

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

With the lack of an experienced quarterback PC will be lucky to win three games this year. This was the opinion expressed by the South Carolina press this past week on a statewide television program. It seems that these same men said we would win two games last year. The Hose's 5-5 season proved this wrong.

It seems that all predictors are basing their attitudes on the quarterback situation. True the experience of these players is practically nil. Junior Mike Donovan of Easley has yet to letter. Paul Ferguson is a sophomore from Columbus, Ga., with no game experience. Junior Olin Grant of Chester lettered his sopohomore year playing strictly defense. Two freshmen, Pat Stogner of Lancaster and Bill Kirtland of Miami, Fla., round out the position.

True these boys are short on game experience, but three of them have understudied last year's all-state quarterback Leighton Grantham. The practice sessions have been long and hard and all three boys have come along fast. Grant will miss the Davidson game due to a hand injury. Coach Gault would not commit himself this week on a starter. The battle is between Donovan and Ferguson.

During scrimmages Donovan has shown himself to be a smart field general. If Mike can hold his poise in game situations, he may be the answer. Ferguson has come on strong this week and has made tremendous strides over the summer. His passing may add spark to a strong ground attack.

A strong running attack will take some of the pressure off our quarterback. If the passing attack does develop, there will be several good receivers to aid the passers. A shallow but strong line is on hand also.

What these boys lack in experience is more than made up for with determination. With some games under their belts these boys will make all Hose supporters proud of them. This writer is behind these boys one hundred per cent. Before the 1965 football season is over, PC's "inexperienced quarterbacks" will have some sports writers eating their words. I hope all people who can will make the trip to Davidson this weekend and give Mike and Paul the support that will mean so much to them.

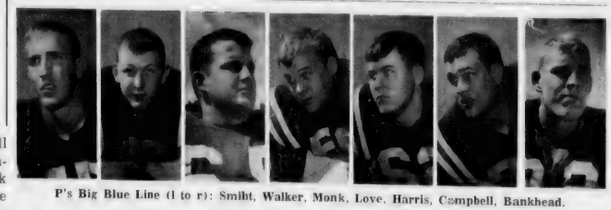
Youthful Look Characterizes 1965 Edition of Blue Hose

The 1965 edition of the Presbyterian fooball team promises to be one of the most youtful in recent campaigns. Out of the eighteen lettermen returning, only four of these are seniors. These four include Jimmy Bankhead, Billy Love, Don McNeil, and Wade Stewart, who is presently on the injured list.

There are only twelve juniors represented on the team, so it is plain that the hopes of the gridiron campaign depend largely on the play of the first and second year men, who currently are giving the older players competition.

Three freshmen have made extremely good showings during practice in the backfield. Dan Eckstain at right halfback, Bob Hackle at left half, and Bill Kirkland at quarterback have all been quite impressive in preseason drills.

On the line, several freshmen have looked extremely good in practice. Austin Woodard, Bob Murray, and Charles Reid have all stood out at tackle. Jim Sullenberger and Dave Blaney have both shown quite a bit of promise at guard, as has Bob Byard at the center position. Benton Lutz and Dave Thompson have both been running well at end.



The outlook for PC is good in future years, however, since a total of twenty-six freshmen and thirteen sophomores are on the squad. The lack of experienced players will be a hindrance to Coach Cally Gault this season but with such a promising crop of newcomers things should look considerably brighter in the future. Several of the freshmen may see a great deal of action this season, and should gain valuable experience and know how for the following years.

Sigma Nus Capture Overall IM Trophy

The Intramural Awards for sports were given out today (Friday) in chapel. The overall winner for the 1964-65 season was the Sigma Nu Fraternity. The Sigma Nu's won first places in football, volleyball, ping-pong and badminton.

The other winners during the year were the Alpha Sigma Phi who copped first places in track, pool, and horseshoes. The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity beat all competition in basketball and softball. While the Kappa Alpha Order wrapped up the year's sports with the tennis championship.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

P's Big Blue Line (l to r): Smiht, Walker, Monk, Love, Harris, Campbell, Bankhead.

Davidson Given Edge Over Hose; Donovan Receives Starting Nod

The Presbyterian College Blue Hose kick off their 1965 football season tomorrow afternoon against Davidson's Wildcats at Davidson. PC will be an underdog to Davidson due to injuries and the absence of an experienced quarterbck.

The Hose were underdogs last year but came off with a 13-0 homecoming victory. The coaches are hoping for a repeat of last year's upset.

Coach Cally Gault has eighteen lettermen returning from last year's team which posted a respectable 5-5 record and won Gault honors as Coach of the Year in South Carolina. The team will be led by tri-captains Jimmy Bankhead, Don McNeil, and Wade Stewart.

PC has an experienced starting unit with the exception of quarterback. Three returning linemen head an aggressive forward wall. The backfield will also feature three lettermen.

The end position will be held down by four lettermen. Senior Jimmy Bankhead and Junior James Smith will get the starting nod. They will be backed up by Joe Lawson and Sophomore Richard Reed. Last year's ends caught fifty passes for seven hundred and forty-seven yards.

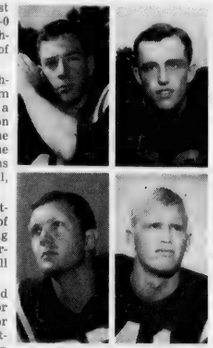
Two sophomores will start at tackle. Eddie Walker and Tommy Campbell will be the big beef up front. Letterman Jim Helms has been lost for the remainder of the season due to a knee injury.

Juniors Allen Harris and John Monk will be the starting guards. Monk has been moved to guard from tackle due to injuries. Letterman Bob Warren will be in there if his shoulder is better.

Center is a solid position with letterman Billy Love holding down the number one unit. Sophomore Mickey Hampshire should prove a capable replacement.

Halfbacks Don McNeil and Wade Stewart are two of the best halfbacks in the state. Junior Jim Johnson will be available if either of these have trouble.

Rounding out the ground attack is little Sam Williams. Backing up Williams is Sophomore Brian Balkcom.



The quarterback job will go to either Sophomore Paul Ferguson or Junior Mike Donovan. Neither have won a letter. The only letterman, Olin Grant, a defensive specialist, is out with a hurt hand. Veteran Jimmy Elliott will handle the kicking duties.

The Wildcats under freshman coach Homer Smith hope to improve on last year's 3-6 record. He will have twenty-one lettermen to build his squad around.

Davidson also faces the problem of being without a seasoned field general. Jake Jacobsen played some last fall and will probaby get the nod. The big backfied power will be halfback Steve Smith who broke school rushing records last season as a junior. Tommy Dews and Dave Hendricks will round out the backfield.

The real strength of the Wildcats is a big experienced line led by Gary Waldran, Phil Hightower, and Dan Barefoot. There is plenty of depth up front to rest the regulars.

The battle of the Carolina Presbyterians will also be interesting because the series will be tied if the Blue Hose can score a win. Davidson leads 11-10-2.

AND THE "COLORFUL" backfield, Donovan, Williams, Stewart, McNeil.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Ben Crabtree Heads Intramural Council

The Intramural season starts again this year with new ideas and new leadership. This year's activity will be organized and headed by a council established by the Student Christian Association.

The SCA will be headed by Benny Crabtree with an assistant appointed by the SCA. This job will be the distribution of equipment and other supplies, posting scores and schedule of events.

The council will be composed of a member from each fraternity and independent team along with Mr. Crabtree and his assistant. The group will arrange the schedule to enforce the rules and regulations of the council and take care of the overall intramural situation in a more efficient manner. This new system will allow more freedom in Intramurals, giving more a chance to participate and benefit.

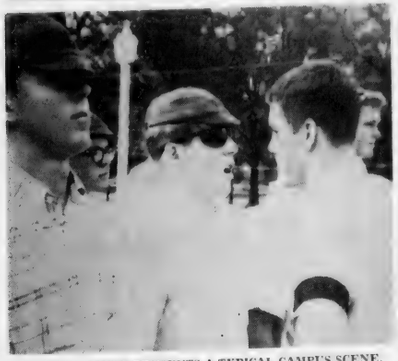
The football season is scheduled to begin shortly. It is requested that all football teams that plan to participate will turn in a roster of players on the 25th of September. The tentative date for the first game is the 27th of September. The games will be played on the Ponderosa, that's the old field below the cafeteria.

Carolina Conference 1964 Final Standings

Conference Play		Overall
Elon	4-1-1	8-1-1
Western Carolina	4-2-0	5-4-0
Appalachian	32--0	6-3-0
Catawba	3-2-0	5-6-0
Lenoir Rhyne	2-2-1	3-6-0
Guilford	2-3-0	5-4-0
Newberry	1-5-0	1-9-0
Presbyterian	0-0-0	5-5-0

This Week's Schedule

Presbyterian	vs	Davidson
Appalachian	vs	Newberry
Catawba	vs	Mars Hill
Elon	vs	Emory & Henry
Guilford	vs	Hampden-Sydney
Lenoir Rhyne	vs	Wofford
Western Carolina	vs	Carson-Newman



Welcome Coeds...

The Tweed Shop

S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

Campus News Briefs

CARROLL JONES PRESENTS A TYPICAL CAMPUS SCENE. The black arm band exemplifies the feelings of many freshmen toward rat season.

Gulf Contributes $1000 Grant To PC

Presbyterian College has received another $1,000 grant from the Gulf Oil Corporation for unrestricted use, announced President Marc C. Weersing.

He said this gift is the second 1965 grant made to PC by Gulf. In May, the college was awarded $5,000 to assist with capital improvements. Both cash grants are a part of the Gulf Corporation's broad aid-to-education program which distributes funds annually to private non-tax-supported institutions.

President Weersing said the latest $1,000 gift, like the $5,000 award, will be used to help underwrite the cost of the new science building now under construction on the Presbyterian College Campus.

Swimming Schedule

The College swimming pool will be open to students, faculty, administration, staff, and their families beginning on Monday, September 20, at the following hours:

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday—3:30 to 5:00 p. m.

Thursday and Sunday—2:00 to 4:00 p. m.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for week of September 20-25.

Monday: Dr. Marc Weersing—Books that make a difference: "Christ in Man's Dilemma."

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service—Thomas A. Stallworth.

Friday: Program by student group.

Browder Takes Over Sports Information

Glen Browder, a 1965 graduate of Presbyterian College, is remaining at his alma mater to serve as assistant director of publicity with primary responsibility as sports informaton director.

Browder is well experienced in the sports writing field and has won several awards while a member of the Blue Stocking staff.

A native of Sumter, Browder received his BA degree with a maor in history at PC's most recent commencement exercises in May. In addition to his work as a student assistant in the public relations department, he served as sports editor of the tudent newspaper, was a member of Blue Key fraternity, president of the Historia Club, and was named to the Dean's List several semesters.

Anonymous Donor Makes Challenge

A challenge grant of $5,000 has been offered to stimulate particiation in Presbyterian College's 1965 Annual Giving program. Alumni and Public Relations Director Ben Hay Hammet announced.

He said the incentive offer comes from an anonymous friend and is dependent upon 40% participation by PC alumni. The Annual Giving program sekes a record 85,000 this year as compared to$ 77,518 in 1964 when 30.5% of the alumni contributed to it.

The challenge grant can be claimed in these three stages: 1—$1,000 when participation hits 30%; 2—$2,000 when the index moves to 35%; 3—$2,000 when the 40% goal is reached.

Hammet said the $85,000 sought by the 1965 effort will be used to help underwrite scholarship aid to needy students, faculty salary increases, and some departmnetal improvements.

PC's Alumni Rank Among Top Givers

Presbyterian College alumni contributions rank within the top five nationally in two areas among smal coeducational colleges, according to the 1963 report recently published by the American Alumni Council.

This report listed PC fourth in the total number of alumni donors during the latest AAC statistical year, with 1,612 contributing to all phases of the college program.

In acknowledging the generous response of alumni, President Marc C. Weersing stated that he was especially pleased with this recognition in view of the fact that other colleges listed within the top ten had larger groups of alumni than PC's 3,200.

Alumni gifts to PC have been increasing steadily for several years, both to the annual giving program and to capital improvements. The goal for the program for 1966 has been extended to another new mark of $85,000. Strenuous efforts are now underway to achieve these funds.

Rush Rules Explained

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

In addition to the bulletin which Inter-Fraternity Council President Pat Brown will distribute to the freshmen class at a later date in order to present the facts concerning fraternities in general and their purpose on the Presbyterian College campus, it is necessary that all freshmen, upperclassmen and transfer students know the brief but important rules concerning rush season.

As stated on page 52 of the student handbook, the Knapsack:

1. There are no grade restrictions on eligibility for pledging incoming freshmen who are pledged before the close of mid-semester. Freshmen who are pledged after mid-semester, upperclassmen, and transfer students must meet present grade requirements.

2. All pledges must attain a 2.00 grade point ratio within two (2) semesters, counting the semester in which they are pledged, or they will be dropped from the fraternity. So freshmen who pledge fraternities this rush season must make their fraternity grades (2.00) this school year, or they will be dropped from their fraternity roles next fall.

This week during their fraternity meetings, all fraternity men on campus were instructed by their proper Inter-Fraternity Council members as to the rules of this rush season, which include the pesent- rat seaon. Fraternity men are not to associate with any freshmen unless instructing him in some manner of work, etc. Fraternity men are not to carry freshmen off campus or give them rides to school from town, etc., or the fraternity man's action will be considered as "dirty rush." Each fraternity has been propely instructed on these rules, so freshmen should also be cautious to remember them.

Infractions of these rules will be considered by the offender's fraternity president and his fraternity's penalty will be considered by the IFC. The decision would probably be to close down the fraternity house involved for the remainder of rush season, so please remember the rules. We don't have but six fraternities here as it is. Fraternity men, please abide by the rules. Rat Season lasts only two weeks this year.

CHOIR (Continued from Page 1)

Lindsye, Sam Lipson, Charles Marchman, Woody McGinn, Hank Parks, Dick Query, Daniel Roberts, Kenneth Terrell, John Weigel.

Basses: Danny Brown, Terry ochran, Ray Combs, John Douglas, Tim Grey, Tim Helgesen, Don McNair, Ken Morrison, Richard Patrick, Hunter Ramseur, Earlie Rash, Bill Riddle, David Templeton, Sam Waters.

NEVILLE (Cont. from Page 1)

wooden ones.

Fraternity quarters atop the building, occupied by Pi Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Phi, and Theta Chi, will remain and will be serviced both by the elevator and the stairs.

Renovation of the first floor of Neville is scheduled for next summer at which time the wooden flooring will be replaced by terraza tile.

President Marc Weersing is enthusiastic over the proposed renovation, he feels that this will provide up-to-date facilities so desperately needed.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

BROADWAY Theatre
Friday - Also Saturday Night
"A VERY SPECIAL FAVOR"
Rock Hudson - Leslie Caron
Charles Boyer
Saturday Afternoon
"GULLIVER'S TRAVELS"
A Giant Full-Length Cartoon Musical!
Monday - Tuesday - Wednesday
Sept. 20-21-22
"UP FROM THE BEACH"
Cliff Robertson - Red Buttons

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

✣ Soft Lights
✣ Sweet Music
✣ Magnificent Food
(Yummy Steaks, Too)
ASK ANYONE . . .
Vernon's at . . .
Hotel Mary Musgrove
N. Broad St. 833-1621 Clinton, S. C.

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Blue Stocking
Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, September 24, 1965 — No. 2

Blue Key Taps Nine Men In Annual Fall Ceremony

The Presbyterian College chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity tapped nine new members—seven students and two faculty members—in its annual fall ceremony today in chapel.

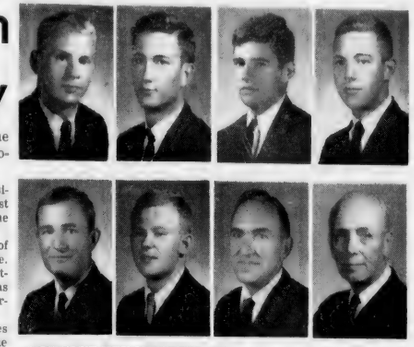
The new men, chosen on the basis of leadership, character and scholarship are Joseph Patrick Goldsmith, Earl Powell Guy, Thomas Mikell Leland, Lewis Russell Nelson, Daniel Meredith Taylor, Jr., Walter Blakely Todd, Thomas Alexander Whitaker, Dr. K. Nolon Carter, and Dr. Edouard Patte.

Dr. Carter, chairman of the Chemistry Department, and Dr. Patte, former head of the Sociology and Music Departments, were given honorary membership in the fraternity. Dr. Carter has been on the PC faculty since 1951, while Dr. Patte has served at PC since 1947.

Pat Goldsmith, a Lancaster native, has served as secretary to the IFC and this year serves as president of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Buddy Guy, from Atlanta, Ga., is president of the senior class. Last year he served in the same capacity for the juniors. Guy is also an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi.

Tom Leland, a native of Summerville, is this year's editor of the PaC SaC, the official college yearbook. He is also a member of the Scabbard and Blade.



Rusty Nelson, serving his first term on the Student Council as its vice-president, is from Thomson, Ga. Nelson is currently the president of Theta Chi Fraternity.

Dan Taylor comes to PC from Atlanta. He recently was selected as head proctor for this school year. Taylor additionally serves as the president of Kappa Alpha Order.

Walt Todd, from Columbus, Ga., also is a fraternity president, of Pi Kappa Alpha. Last spring he was tapped into the Scabbard and Blade.

Tom Whitaker, president of Tau Phi Pi, hails from Florence. He has held offices in the Westminster Fellowship and has maintained a Dean's List average for three years.

Initiation of the new inductees will be held in the Spring. The ceremony will be climaxed by the annual egg roll on the plaza and by the spring banquet.

NEW BLUE KEY MEMBERS pictured from left to right: Goldsmith, Guy, Leland, Nelson, Todd, Whitaker, Dr. Carter, and Dr. Patte. Photo of Taylor unavailable.

Homecoming Special Town Criers' Talent

This year's homecoming festivities will be highlighted by a folk concert in Belk Auditorium Friday night, October 15. PC will play host to the Town Criers, a well-known group which originated at Georgia Tech.

Two fifty-minute shows will be presented from 8 until 10 o'clock. The sponsors of various campus organizations will be introduced at this time as nominees for Homecoming Queen.

The Town Criers consist of four male members. Their program has been described as ". . . a generous portion of musical talent seasoned throughout by dashes of collegiate humor."

They say of themselves, "We define our busines as entertain-

(Continued on page 4)

Sigma Nu Has Smudge Party In Search For Beautiful Lips

PC's coeds were given an unexpected treat Wednesday evening at a "Smudge Party" hosted by the members of Sigma Nu fraternity. Apparently the occasion heralded another historic first at the Presbyterian Coeducational College.

The purpose of the party was to find the girl with the most beautiful lips on campus. Over ninety coeds attended the event at which they filled out an information card including dating status questions, and another card with the imprint of their lips.

The winner will be chosen and presented with a dozen roses at a later date, compliments of the brothers of Sigma Nu.

The girls were greeted at the entrance of the fraternity house by the officers of the fratrenity. Refreshments from the famous refectory at Presbyterian College were served.

TO ENTER, SIMPLY PLACE an impression of your lips upon a card?

Georgia Fund Drive Begins For College

Presbyterian College is one of the principal objectives of a fund-raising campaign being planned for the Synod of Georgia next year, President Marc C. Weersing announced today.

He said recent synod action set a minmum goal of $3,500,000 for its drive to be conducted in 1966 in behalf of PC and other agencies supported by Georgia Presbyterians. It is the largest single campaign ever attempted by this group which owns Presbyterian College jointly with the South Carolina Synod.

Dr. Weersing said PC hopes to secure sufficient funds from this campaign to construct a new men's dorimtory, underwrite the cost of renovating Neville Hall classroom building and make substantial additions to the endowment. He emphasized that all are emergency needs of the college as it endeavors to fulfill its responsibility to the mounting numbers of church young people seeking to enroll here.

The Georgia Synod has authorized its Council to set the specific amounts to be raised for each agency, based on recommendations of a special campaign planning committee. This

(Continued on page 5)

Revised Attendance Rules Give Students More Freedom

The cut system at PC has been revised this year giving more cuts to both freshmen and upperclassmen.

Freshmen are allowed a maximum of three cuts per course and chapel for each semester. These three cuts are in addition to cuts taken for illness, college business, and reasons which must be judged by the Absence Committee.

The 1965-66 Knapsack states that no student may absent himself from the following:

1. Anounced one-hour quizzes.
2. Laboratory Sessions of science courses.
3. Military Drill sessions.

Upperclassmen must attend 75% of their classes except for all military science classes in which only three cuts may be taken. This includes absences for personal reasons, as well as illness, college business, and absences which the Absence Committee must approve.

Students who have a 3.3 average with no grades of "P", "W'P", or "I" may take cuts at their own discretion except for the sessions mentioned above which must be attended by all students.

Cuts for personal reasons are not allowed students who are on probation. Also, any student who has been suspended for part of a semester will lose his cuts for the remainder of that semester.

Anyone exceeding the maximum number of cuts will be allowed to finsh the course but

(Continued on page 4)

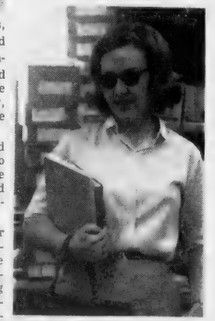
Student Insurance Sign-up By Sept. 28

Ed Campbell, Presbyterian's business manager, has announced that Blue Cross-Blue Shield insurance is now available to the student body. Additional members may be added through September 28. Interested persons should report to the business office not later than 3 p. m., Tuesday, September 28.

Women's Council Posts Laws

The Women's Council of Presbyterian College has set forth these rules for the 1965-66 school year:

1) The closing hour in Clinton Hall for Sunday through Thursday is 11:00 P. M.; for Friday and Saturday, 12:00 P. M.; for college-sponsored and approved social functions—thirty minutes after the regular closing hour; for Homecoming, Christmas, Military Ball, Greek and IFC weekends—2:30 A. M. for the Friday night function, 1:30 A. M. for the Saturday night function; late permission will be granted at the discretion of the housemother—freshmen may request late permission on Saturday nights only; general permission for certain functions will be announced and will not count as a night out.



2) Until mid-semester of the first semester, freshman girls are required to be in at 10:00 P. M. on week nights while on Saturday nights and one other a week an 11 o'clock deadline will be observed. Students who do not maintain a GPR equal to that which they must have to maintain a class standing will abide by the Freshman curfew regulations. The GPR for freshmen is 1.60; for sophomores and juniors, 1.80; for seniors, 2.00.

3) A receptionist will be at the desk of Clinton Hall from 1:00 P. M. to 11:00 P. M. each day (until 12:00 P. M. on Friday and Saturday). Men callers are welcome during these hours and are required to use the front door of Clinton Hall. Residents of the dormitory are requested to use the front door after seven o'clock.

5) Except for date nights, freshmen will observe a closed study period each evening, Monday through Friday. Closed study will be observed in the dormitory room, in the library, in a practice room, or in the language lab.

5) Demerits will be imposed for being late, for failure to sign in or out, for excessive noise during study hours, and for lack of neatness in dormitory rooms.

Gentlemen may keep their dates at Clinton Hall upon request to the housemother. These girls are requested to be informed of and to abide by closing time and quiet hours; any gentleman whose date behaves contrary to these rules will not be permitted to keep a date there again.

MISS SUSAN GILBERT, PRESIDENT of the Women's Council.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor
Sam Waters

Asaistant Editor
Merrie Stancill

Managing Editor
Dave Veneklasen

Red Letter Addition

THE BLUE KEY National Honor Fraternity today tapped seven among the campus leaders to join the ranks of their austere and honored institution of excellence.

WHILE THIS ORGANIZATION most certainly deserves an occasional pat on the back, the tapping brings to mind another point which has been tossed about by a few interested individuals.

THERE EXISTS a companion organization to the Blue Key. Cardinal Key is a national honor sorority. With the influx of true coeducation at PC, plans need to be started so that a chapter of Cardinal Key may be established on this campus.

THERE ARE NOW 95 coeds on campus and in years to come the number will rise to 300, this number definitely warrants the beginnings of action.

IT TAKES TIME and a helping hand to get something like this rolling. The question is now who is going to provide this guidance. With a start now the chapter could grow with the growth of coeducation.

IT IS JUST A SUGGESTION, but possibly the members of our present Blue Key will see fit to get the ball rolling in this direction. To be sure, they would be the one most qualified on campus to assume this responsibility and could benefit themselves and the school in doing so.

This Too Must End

GIN FRESHMAN! Be it man or woman, if a rat cap graces the head, a reaction is not long coming, now that this year's Freshman Contol Board has the situaton seemingly in hand. Though there were grumbles to be heard in and around the campus when the much shortened "season on rats" was announced, some are now willing to admit one definite advantage. This lies in the fact that the upperclassmen cannot put if off, if you're going to do it you've got to get out and rat that freshman today.

INSTEAD OF BECOMING more watered down as it goes along, this year's rat season seems to be gaining steam as it continues. The hospitality of Presbyterian College knows no bounds for its newest members. Some even attempted to kill the fatted calf, or was it pig, as a token of their welcome.

ALL KIDDING ASIDE, congratulations go out to both sides for what, so far has been an effective rat season.

A WORD TO THE FRESHMEN—Don't worry, all good things must come to an end.

Business Manager — Larry Preston
News Editor — Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor — Jimmy Ramage
Feature Editor — Susan Gilbert
Sports Editor — Bill Bassham
Greek Editor — Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor — Christie Patterson
Copy Editor — Woody McGinn
Cartoonist — John Weigel
Circulation Managers — James Challen, Ellis Jenkins
Typists — Helen Moore, Ann Fadeley, Gloria Porter, Sandy Shope
Contributors this week—Jimmy Ramage, Sarah Stribling, Eugenia Thomason, Neill McKay, Bob Dalton, Ellen Stewart, Randy Ferebee, Gene Sullivan, Rush Otey, Charles Campbell, Jim Roberts, Mike Simons, Gaye Theus, Nina Woody.

Don't Let 'Em Drown

Look here, fellows, let's sit down and talk this thing over. Better yet, why don't ya'll get up and do something about a situation you have complained about?

Where is the beautifully brutal blackball system of yesterday? Its open-handed ruthlessness was at once negative in its cruelty yet positive in its effectiveness. Though sometimes wrongly addressed it was usually an accurate guide and gauge to the campus opinion of one's actions and attitudes.

Rise to your calling, men of PC! Such is needed this year more than ever before.

As stated before there is widespread anxiety and consternation at the behavior of our PC women. Much of this may stem from unknowing ignorance of college ways. No matter what the reason, something needs to be done, which in the past would have been done and in the future, it is hoped, will be done.

As one professor slyly put it, "some of those coeds have 60 degree angles on their noses—if it rained they'd drown."

Since the good Lord doesn't make people that malformed, it must be a passing phase in their growth, which could be curtailed with the proper upperclass attitude.

Enough has been said by everyone concerned. The time and thing for now is action. PC must again be known as a friendly campus if it is to be known at all.

Sincerely,
Sev Stud

Letters To The Editor

Smart Poses Problem Anew

When a freshman enters college he is not just going off to school, he is entering the preface of what lies beyond. It is accepted, of course, that the desire to learn lies paramount in each freshman's mind.

However, there remains something else, and this particular is the difference between high school and college. It is the element of decision—whether to a modified or more complementary level depends upon the powers that be.

From this privilege comes one's future strength; the greatest potential is a fossilized tragedy if complacency rules. The capacity for decision is the maturing factor, and sometimes the cripping element of us all.

Upon entrance into a college, one finds himself caught up in a miniature world, faced with the same problems of the world outside.

In academics, few freshmen know what their capabilities and where they lie to the greatest degree. Therefore, a first two years are given for the blind stumbling of dissipated thoughts in order that a sound background for decision may be formed with minimum loss.

Socially, decision also becomes the primary problem. However, this is bound in the choice of group affiliation. All of us are individuals of varyng degrees, and this space that separates us determines at which point our future loyalties will fall.

Thus, as the freshman glances about, many things bear upon his mind, such as the quality of of the group, its interests, and the thoughts of his friends. However, to make a sound decision requires careful personal consideration, information of a secondary source rarely finds truth as its basis.

Thus in making a choice there should be a general disregard of contemporary opinion unless there is no recourse due to an inability to form an opinion for oneself.

However, the most important aspect of any decision is that it it be made, and that it should be formed only after sober self-informed deliberation, void of superficial labels or outside pressure.

—Richard Smart

Dave Veneklasen Mgr. Ed.

Bad Break For Frosh?

All over the United States there are more and more applications by high school seniors for admission into institutions of higher learning. Thousands of these are turned away because of lack of room even though many are qualified. With the nation screaming for more college graduates something must be done.

The problem also strikes deep at Presbyterian College. Last year the admissions office turned away three times as many applications as the college was able to accommodate. Was this too few? Overcrowding and substandard conditions exist in many places of student housing. True the maintenance department is doing all in its power to relieve these conditions but this is not the point.

DAVE

The sad part is that the problem strikes deepest at the freshman. Freshmen coming off to school for the first time should be given every benefit in order that they may acquire a proper frame of mind in the serious business of an education. A student's surroundings play an important part in the formation of proper study habits. It is hard to keep your mind on the books while people are are moving around the room, a radio is blaring down the hall or people are shooting the breeze right outside the door. There are a few freshmen and upperclassmen alike that won't be back next year because they couldn't make the grade. One of the causes of this is that they have never gained the proper attitude or environment of study.

A drastic solution to the problem is to not admit more freshmen than can be housed in conditions that warrant a good study environment. But stop and think, is it really that drastic after all. Aren't we cheating the student who comes to get a good education and finds that he is crowded and does not have a good study environment. In order to create the top quality student the nation wants let's wait until the close to ideal conditions are available.

Don't Let PC Become Anonymous; The Simmer of Reform Must Boil

Nina Woody
Blue Stocking Feature Staff

While an Eastern College boils over the issue of sexual immorality on campus and a California university riots over hot politicalissues, Anonymous College barely manages to maintain a simmer of reform in the September sun.

Anonymous College is a small southern church-related institution. When it was founded many years ago it met a definite purpose and fulfilled a particular need. Today it is antiquated because it valued tradition too highly, failing to recognize the values of a progressive education.

Anon, as it is affectionately called, has many problems, yet these all seem to be centered in one issue: Anonymous College does not believe that college students are adults. True, many of the students at Anon do not behave like adults, but it cannot be established whether this is the cause or the effect of the college's regulations.

Anonymous College has a bountiful supply of professors in the late autumn of their academic lives, many of whom proudly claim to have taught the same courses for twenty years. They lecture from notes yellowed with age and devoid of contemporary ideas. For the most part, they spoonfeed the same lecturers to the students year after year, expecting the students to regurgitate their notes intact at the end of the semester. No new ideas are welcomed and no individual thought is accepted. It is no wonder that a graduate of Anonymous College emerges from the institution with an upset stomach and an empty mind.

The students of Anon are bridled by cumbersome, unnecessary rules. Many of the students are of voting age and most of the men could be called upon to defend our nation in the event of a war. But, at Anon, these same men and women are subjectd to rules about car regulations, weekend permission, dorm hours, smoking, drinking, and even so-called appropriate dress rules.

Anonymous College believes that all college graduates should fit a standard mold, so it adopts a policy of coercion into conformity. Since it is a church-related college, Anon assumes the right to stuff its religious views into all its students. Compulsory chapel attendance, church attendance, and required religion or Bible courses are only the more obvious evidences of this philosophy.

Anonymous College is not an actual institution, but rather an amalgamation of many small church-related colleges in the South. Symbolically, it depicts the conditions on many nearby campuses.

Despite obvious similarities to PC, the description is not of our campus, but a composite of campuses where the students once had the liberties available though unused presently at PC. We can be proud of the fact that Presbyterian College is, to a great extent, a college where students can go and learn to handle their adult responsibilities, without being spoon-fed, bridled, or coerced. But will it ever be thus?

LOUIS HART, BILL BASSHAM, AND MAC SMITH will be the delegates from Presbyterian College at the publications workshop to be held by the Southern Universities' Student Council Association, October 14-15 at Florida State University. They will represent the PaC SaC and the Blue Stocking.

Gaines Trains New Animals To Give Choir Added Boost

By Neill McKay

The Presbyterian College Choir will destroy the past and make history anew this year. In his plans Mr. Charles Gaines, the new and exceptionally competent director of the mixed choir, has projected a diversified and extensive program which will incorporate all the utility that the male and female voices offer.

The all-male chorus of the past will be strictly of the past. "The entrance of so many more women in the college expansion program has made it impossible to consider a strictly male chorus", points out Mr. Gaines. "I can easily envision, with the addition of co-eds through the years, a program that will include an all-male and all-female chorus, but at the present time, the mixed chorus will faciliitate the program which I have planned".

The repertoire for this year will cover a vast range of music. Beginning with the great revival of the Renaissance, the proposed program will include scores up to the contemporary masters. There will be a fall or Christmas concert and a spring concert which will be accompanied by players from the campus, the local community, and Converse College. The choir will, of course, sing at the Wednesday chapel service, but the student body can look forward to at least two occasions at which the talent of the choir will be dramatically used.

Working for the unity of an ensemble, Mr. Gaines has expressed much delight at the calibre of the voices in the choir. "This year we have tenors who sing tenor,, altos who sing alto and members, who even sight read music", proclaimed Mr. Gaines. "With the variety and quality of the voices, once unity comes, the range that we have will be very valuable for contrast and variety."

The bright future that has been expressed by Mr. Gaines is further supported by the early progress of the choir. After only two rehearsals, an ensemble from the choir did an exceptional job in their performance for the women who visited our campus last Tuesday. Also, after five rehearsals, the choir has nearly perfected three pieces.

The students of Presbyterian College can look forward to a choir which will follow the standards established by Dr. Patte in his eighteen years of service.

The Rush Is On

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

Now that Rat Season is closing, the six fraternities at PC are beginning their rush party plans in an effort to show in various ways what their fraternities mean to the brothers and pledges, and to demonstrate to rushees the benefits which they can acquire from fraternities and the relationships involved in the brotherhoods.

Beta Psi Chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity plans a rush party in Rock Hill for the coming rush season and is making future plans for Homecoming. Actions over the summer found Brother Dave Welborn engaged to Miss Nancy Neal of Fort Mill; Pledge Hank Parks married the former Miss Carolyn Hovas of Aiken, S. C.

Beta Pi Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order plans a fall rush party in Columbia, S. C., in early October. The KA house is in the process of renovation, with new furniture and TV set planned for the near future. The brothers and pledges have constructed a new fence around the grounds. Christie Patterson was recently elected to the Number Nine position of the officers of the fraternity. The KA's had a barbecue Thrusday night with the KA Alumni of Clinton in hopes of strengthening the relationship between the groups.

The Alpha Sigma Phi has a rush party on Friday night, September 24, featuring Little Theodore and the Harlem Clippers. Brother Will Scott is engaged to Miss Dona Hurt from Mt. Pleasant. The Alpha Sigs have a new fraternity room over Judd Hall this year.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity reports that a rush party will be held in Clinton, probably at the Legion Hut, the first week in October. The PiKA Brothers of the week are Jim Helms, Wade Stuart, and Don "Fats" McNeill.

The Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity plans a rush party October 1, in Clinton, featuring the Lancers from Greenwood. Their fratenity suite in Nevile Hall is back in shape after the summer construction. Brother Neill McKay is lavalliered to Miss Betty Hill from Winthrop College. The Pi Kapp Brother of the week is Charles Campbell.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity had a Smudge Party for the PC girls Clinton, featuring the Lancers from Greenwood. Their fraternity suite in Neville Hall is back in shape after the summer construction. Brother Gordan Adam failed a Marriage and Family course this summer, losing credit for a one-year lab. Bunky Hanks is married to the former LaRue Gooding of Limestone College. Miss Gloria Howell of Limestone College, pinee of Steve Watson, was elected Sweetheart for 1965-66. Stewart Johnston is married to the former Bruce Hughes of PC.

The fraternities on campus look forward to a successful and rewarding rush season this fall.

Movie Review

Will It Be Life or Death?

Christie Patterson, Movie Editor

Adventure, fantasy, spectacle, and romance are the ingredients found in the fascinating story of a 2000-year-old white queen of an African kingdom who finds in a contemporary Englishman the reincarnation of the lover she had killed in ancient Egypt.

The role of Queen Ayesha, the dreaded SHE who must be obeyed, is enacted by a beautiful new star, Ursula Andress. The role of Leo, the young English adventurer who falls under Ayesha's spell, is enacted by John Richardson.

Leo meets Ayesha in 1918 in Palestine. She gives him a ring and a map which will guide him across the Desert of the Lost Souls and through the Mountains of the Moon to her city of Kuma. She promises him all the power, riches and love he has ever dreamed of—by her side.

Leo and his companions, fighting treacherous tribes and unbearable heat, are motivated by different reasons and haunted by the image of who or what awaits them.

On tht point of collapse and death they are sustained by a slave girl Ustane, who leads them to Ayesha. Leo is offered immortality and has to choose between eternal life or death.

BROADWAY
Theatre
Today, Friday, Saturday
Friday and Saturday
Sept .24-25
Ski Party
Frankie Avalon, Dwayne Hickman, Deborah Walley
Mon. - Tues. - Wed.
Sept. 27-28-29
She
Ursula Andres, Peter Cushing

McINTOSH'S
SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

THE UNSUNG HEROES discuss practice plans with Coach Low.

1930-1964

Carolinas Conference Gains Hose; Now In Full-Fledged Membership

The 1965-1966 athletic year promises to bring many changes and new teams and events to the PC campus. One of these "new deals" is our full-fledged membership in the Carolinas Conference.

Although many of the Conference teams have been included in PC sports schedules of the past, this is the first year that we are officially members and will be ranked in Conference Standings.

What is now the Carolinas Conference was formed in Durham in 1930, "for the greater advantage of the small colleges of North Carolina." The seven charter members were Appalachina, Atlantic Christian, Catawba, Guilford, Elon, High Point, and Lenoir Rhyne. The conference has grown steadily, with the addition of Western Carolina (1933), East Carolina (1947), Pfeiffer (1960), Newberry (1961), and PC (1964). Today it is composed of eleven members, since East Carolina resigned in 1962 to join the Southern Confernece.

Conference members compete in football, basktball, baseball, golf, tennis, and track. Atlantic Christian, High Point, and Pfeiffer prefer not to field teams in football.

Elon, Lenoir Rhyne, and Catawba have shared football honors in recent years. Lenoir Rhyne seemed to have a monopoly on the title from 1955-1962, winning it eight consecutive seasons. Elon and Catawba tied in 1963, but the Fighting Christians of Elon became sole possessors of the crown last year.

HOMECOMING (Cont. from 1) ment. We believe in presenting a blend of music all the way from Broadway to folk, blues, and blue grass — traditional, some modern, some original.

"A successful performance must not only satisfy the audience's appetite for music, but must also be a fun-filled experience with each of us projecting our personal enthusiasm to our listeners. They may expect anything from ole mountain ballads to the "Twelfth of Never", from a humorous collection of historical anecdotes to a rousing singalong. Sometimes we are serious with our audience, more often we find ourselves laughing along with them. Our goal is to entertain."

CC Teams 5-3 In Week's Action

In Carolinas Conference activity last weekend conference teams achieved a 4-2 record against outside foes. In the only game involving loop teams, Appalachian defeated Newberry 10-7 as freshman Jack Underwood kicked a 25-yard field goal for the margin of victory.

Lenoir Rhyne was upset by Wofford 35-27. Terrier quarterback Warren Whittaker had a hand in all the scoring by runing three touchdowns and passing for two more.

In other games, Presbyterian succumbed to a brilliant Davidson passing attack 35-0. Elon, 1964 champion, shut out Emory and Henry 15-0. Guilford overpowered Hampden-Sydney 28-3. Western Carolina edged Carson-Newman 13-6 and Catawba won over Mars Hill.

BLUE HOSE prepare for Lenoir Rhyne Game

Freshman Footballers Showing Promise On Offense And Defense

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

Freshmen players have been showing good promise both on and off the game field. In last week's loss to Davidson two freshmen looked especially good.

Halfbacks Robert Hackle and Dan Eckstein stood out on defense throughout the game .Eckstien proved to be a threat as pass receiver. Dan has the speed to be a break-away threat. Hackle helped in the pass defense.

Quarterback Bill Kirtland looked good in the late stages of the game. Kirtland engineered PC's drive late in the fourth quarter which was stopped by the clock at the Davidson fifteen-yard line. He proved to be the most effective passer of the afternoon.

Another group which deserves some mention is the "meat squad". These are some boys who are used as a scrimmage team for the first two teams. These boys seldom get into a game, some do not even dress out for the games.

The scrimmages have been especially rough since this past weekend. The "meat team" has been wearing red jerseys this week for a pshychological effect.

Some of the boys who are members of this squad show promise for the future. Jack McCaskill, Ken Alexander, and Dandy Kenworthy are some of the linemen who are playing on this team. Bobby McNair, Eddie Darn, Monk Milligan, Larry Yonce, and Sam King are some of the backs.

These unsung heroes of the squad are hard working boys with little recognition. They deserve all the credit they can get. The "meat squad" is as important to the whole team as is the first unit.

Intramural Rosters Due This Evening

All football rosters for the intramural sports program should be turned in by Friday, September 24, to Billy Crowley. In final preparation for the games there will be a meeting of the intramural council in Douglas House Monday night at 7:30.

Independent teams are being formed for non-fraternity men. All freshmen are urged to play on a team if they are interested in football. Those who are interested contact either Ellis Jenkins or Pete Collins.

The six fraternities have already held several practices. Several teams should offer rough comptetion with the Sigma Nu fraternity trying to defend their crown.

CUTS (Continued from page 1)

will receive a grade of "P" if it is passed. The second offense, whether it is the same course or another, carries the penalty of receiving a grade of "F" in all classes that have been overcut. The first offense of overcutting chapel carries the penalty of one week suspension and the second brings dismissal for the remainder of the semester.

Two cuts will be charged for each course that a student is absent from immediately preceding the following holidays or days on which no classes are scheduled.

The absence records may be checked between 2:00 and 5:00 p. m. with Mrs. Stilwell in the office of the administration.

Art Opens Roundball Drills With a Record Eighteen Men

With basketball practice already underway, head coach Musselman has the largest turnout in three years of coaching with eighteen. At this time last year he had only eight. Six of these are returning lettermen. They are: Gordon Adam, Doug Allen, Ken Martin, Jimmy Bankhead, Bob McGregor and Richard Reed.

One loss so far is that of Dave Turner, last year's starting center from Indiana who didn't return. A bright spot though, is Junior Steve Stine of Aberdeen, Md. He couldn't play last year because of the transfer rules.

Included in the other prospects are many high school stars although only one, Jim Kiser, 6'9", from Gaffney is on a scholarship. According to Coach Musselman several more may be according to their play. They are Dave Hudson, Myrtle Beach; John Lown and John Walter, Columbia; Reed Bolick, Frankfort, Germany; Doug McLeod, Higham, Mass; and Stine.

Kellam Aces 13th At Lakeside Club

Bill Kellam, PC's number one golfer, posted a hole-in-one Monday at the Lakeside Country Club. The shot came on the 140-yard, par three, thirteenth hole. It was the first hole-in-one in the linksman's career.

Kellam has played the number one pos tion for the Hose the last two years and is a three-year letterman. He is one of the best collegiate golfers in the state and the Blue's hopes will ride on him again this year.

Kellam, commenting on the shot, said: "I knew it was in the cup when I was about fifty yards away from the green. I wasn't as excited as I thought I would be, but it made me very happy."

PiKA's PREPARE for coming Intramural season under the leadership of Walt Todd.

Dedication's Bound To Pay

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

BLUE HOSE LEADERS

The Blue Hose have three of the most dedicated athletes on campus serving as this year's tri-captains. Jimmy Bankhead, Don McNeill, and Wade Stewart are all experienced gridders with fine leadership qualities.

BANKHEAD ALL-STATE CHOICE

Bankhead is a three-year letterman from Chester, S. C. Jimmy is a strong receiver and a more than adequate blocker. He will be used mainly on offense this year but is a capable defensive player. Bankhead made the all-state grid squad last year.

Bankhead is also a three-year letterman on the basketball and track teams. Jimmy was the sixth man for the Hose cagers last season. He is also a member of the SCA cabinet and chairman of Student Entertainment Committee as well as an officer in the ROTC.

McNEILL OFFENSIVE LEADER

Don McNeill is a three-year letterman from Thompson, Ga. McNeill is an effective ball carrier as well as a pass receiver. Don led the Hose in scoring last season with his finest effort being a two-touchdown performance against Newberry.

Don is a member of the Blue Key and the Freshman Control Board. He is also a starter on the baseball team. McNeill also serves as President of the Block P and secretary of the Senior Class.

STEWART DEFENSIVE ACE

Wade Stewart is a two-year letterman from Picayune, Miss. Wade is a hard runner both inside and outside. Perhaps his strong point is defense. Stewart's bone-jarring tackles on Davidson's Steve Smith must have left the Wildcat fullback sore on Sunday.

Stewart is vice-president of Block P and a company officer in the ROTC. He is also a member of the Scabbard and Blade Military fraternity. In the spring Wade is a standout on the baseball team.

Stewart and McNeill are also co-chairmen of Clinton Hall Cavliers for this year.

Carolina Standings

	Conference Play	Overall
Appalachian	1-0-0	1-0-0
Catawba	0-0-0	1-0-0
Western Carolina	0-0-0	1-0-0
Guilford	0-0-0	1-0-0
Elon	0-0-0	1-0-0
Presbyterian	0-0-0	0-1-0
Lenoir Rhyne	0-0-0	0-1-0
Newberry	0-1-0	0-1-0

Last Week's Results

Davidson 35	Presbyterian 0
Guilford 28	Hampden-Sydney 3
Elon 15	Emory and Henry 0
Western Carolina 13	Carson-Newman 6
Appalachian 10	Newberry 7
Catawba 21	Mars Hill 6
Wofford 35	Lenoir Rhyne 27

This Week's Schedule

Applachian at Western Carolina
Catawba at Newberry
Elon at Guilford
Presbyterian at Lenoir Rhyne

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

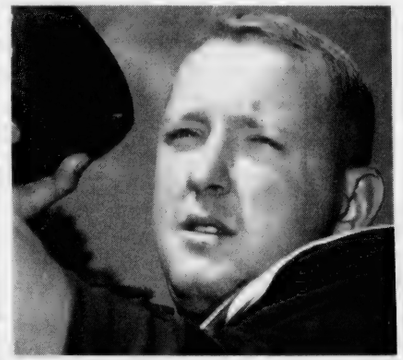
Hosemen Hope To Bring Home Bear Skin In Conference Opener

Charles Campbell
Blue Stocking Sports Staff

The Presbyterian College-Lenoir Rhyne football game this Saturday should be one of the hardest on tap for the Hose this year. Both teams are still looking for that first win of the season: Davidson took advantage of Hose mistakes, and Wofford overpowered the Bears in both teams' opening tilts.

The Lenoir Rhyne Bears have a good team with experienced personnel in almost every position. They have a strong and fast, but small line. In the backfield they have fine runners, but they lack a good passer. Fullback Wayne Bell and signal caller Eddie Garrison are two fine competitors who are the big men for the Hickory squad. The Bears run from the basic single wing formation and depend on their ability to move on the ground more than on a passing attack. On defense they have an exceptionally good middle linebacker in Larry Helms.

The Hose are showing in practice that they want this game Mistakes of the past week are being ironed out. Confidence and determination are beginning to show. The coaching staff is really putting the boys through it, and they are pleased with the performance of the team. No one will be able to say that the Hose are not physically and mentally prepared for Saturday night. First game jitters are being quelled due to these factors.



The Blue Hose linemen will be ready for the assault of the Bears. The line especially this week has really shown that they have what it takes with rough blocking and hard tackling. Linemen Lyons, Love, Hampshire, and Monk are doing fine jobs at their spots. Game tackling seems to be the order of the day as the final preparations for the game get underway.

The backfield problems seem to be solved as quarterback and backs get familiar with each other. The foursome of McNeil, Stewart, Williams, and Ferguson, all in fine physical shape, are ready to storm over the Bears' defense. Jimmy Elliott, the Presbyterian punter who last year rated nationally for his long punts, may prove to be a decisive factor for the Hose. He averaged 42 yards a punt last week.

A few more bright spots for Coach Cally Gault is the return of Big Jim Helms to the offensive and Ed Dorn, who will add depth to the backfield.

Expected starters for Presbyterian are Bankhead and Smith at ends; Campbell and Lyons at the tackle spots; with Monk and Harris at guards; over the ball will be Hampshire. In the backfield, Williams will be at fullback; McNeil and Stewart at the halfback slots, and Ferguson at quarterback.

The team will play hard and well, but nothing helps the morale of the team more than a large, noisy body of fans letting the players know that we as fans and fellow students are behind them. So try hard to be there and let's make the people up there know that when Presbyterian College plays they have support.

PAUL FERGUSON eyes strategy to be used against the LR Bears.

Carolinas Conference Poses Challenge To Presbyterian

Entering its first year in the Carolinas Conference, Presbyterian will have its work cut out for them. Conference play will consist of Lenoir Rhyne, Elon, Appalachian, Western Carolina, and Newberry with Davidson, Wofford, Furman, Troy State, and Frederick rounding out the schedule.

Elon last year's conference champs boasting a conference record of 4-1-1 and an overall 8-1-1, will again be the team to beat. Twenty-two lettermen return to give valuable experience and depth to a team which outscored its opponents last year by over 100 points. Strength, depth, and experience favor the Fighting Christians this year.

The Catamounts of Western Carolina can be expected to be standouts this season also. With a 4-2-0 conference and 5-4-0 overall record, Coach Robinson's gridders may lack some experience but with quarterback Ellis Hohnson, the Western Carolina gridders will roll this year.

Appalachian, 3-2-0 conference and 6-3-0 overall, lost their king of the mountain, Shenley Gabriel, last year. But Coach Messers has great hopes of improving his record with such prospects as quarterback Gus Flynt and fullback Bruce Hardin. The Mountaineers cannot be counted out although they do have a young team.

TRI-CAPTAINS Wade Stewart, Jimmy Bankhead, and Don McNeill.

I DON'T CARE IF HE has turned into a goatdog, you can't move, freshman!

$326,522

Science Hall Receives Education Act Grant

Presbyterian College recently received a $326,522 grant under the higher Education Facilities Act toward the cost of the new science building now under construction, President Marc C. Weersing announced today.

The US Office of Education has designated PC ane one of eight senior colleges in the state to receive grants under this newly inaugurated program. Funds will be made avaliable in the near future.

The $326,522 grant represents about one-third of the total cost of the $833,740 science building.

The Higher Education Facilities Act made available to South Carolina this year $1,969,993 in Federal funds for construction of new facilities for colege libraries and buildings designed to increase instruction facilities in mathemates, modern languages and sciences. An additional $859,181 is available for this fiscal year for construction of buildings of technical centers or public community junior colleges.

GEORGIA (Cont. from page 1)

latter group has been at work for the past year investigating needs, through on-the-spot visits to PC and the other agencies, and making preliminary plans. It is headed by Dr. Davison Phillips, pastor of the Decatur First Presbyterian Church.

Georgia interest in Presbyterian College has grown steadily since that synod assumed a share of responsibility for PC in 1928. At that time, Columbia Theological Seminary was moved from Columbia, S. C., to Decatur, Ga.

The most recent Georgia campaign in behalf of PC was in 1956-57, when $281,287 was raised toward the Diamond Jubilee development program.

PC Plays Host To Area Executives

An Executive's Day Program will be held on the Presbyterian College campus on Thursday September 30.

The group will gather for lunch at Greenville Dining Hall at noon. Dr. Marc Weersing and Mr. E. Craig Wall, Sr., of Conway, will host the convention. The Executive's Day Program will provide an opportunity for leaders who are engaged in fields of agriculture, lumbering, real estate and machinery to visit the campus, to see the progress being made and to share ideas with other leaders relatives to the ways in which they may help in training the hearts and minds of young people in future years.

The school believes that this visit will be of interest to those who attend because the visit will provide them with the opportunity to see what the college is doing in its various fields of concentration.

Campus News Briefs

Fine Arts Expands; Drama, Speech Added

Presbyterian College is inaugurating a program of drama and speech this fall as part of an expanded fine arts department.

H. Lawrence Zillmer, who has completed all requirements for his PhD degree, will head up this program with the rank of associate professor of drama and speech.

The fine arts curriculum at PC is being broadened extensively to provide offerings in art and music as well as drama and speech. Dr. Gettys said he is especially pleased to have Larry Zilmer join the faculty. He comes highly recommended for his work of the past several years as drama director of the University of Wisconsin's Fox Valley Center and he brings with him eight years of college teaching experience.

Zillmer will start off with elementary courses in speech and acting, plans to produce three plays and at least two readings during the coming year and points toward the establishment of a PC debating team.

Physical Education Added For PC Girls

Presbyterian College completing plans for full coeducation this fall, has inaugurated a program of physical activity for women headed by a trained physical education didector.

Dean Joseph M. Gettys announced that Miss Katherine W. Giles of Forest City, N. C., has been added to the staff as the instructor in physical education. The first woman to be employed by PC in this area, she began her new assignment in September.

Two years of physical activity will be required of all girls, with a maximum of four semester hours' credit allowed for courses in this field.

Discussions Slated WF & Predestination

Predestination as related to the Doctrine and Creeds of the Presbyterian Church is the topic on which Dr. Louis Hay will speak Sunday night at the meeting of Westminster Fellowship The supper meeting will be held at 6:00 p. m., with evening worship following at 7:30.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for week of September 27-October 1:

Monday: Wofford Blue Key Deputation.

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service—Dr. Sidney A. Gates, First Presbyterian Church, Columbus, Ga.

Friday: To be announced.

Pool Times Corrected

The Blue Stocking printed an error in the September 17 issue concerning the swimming pool's recreation hours. The following is the corrected schedule at the college pool: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday 3:30 to 5 p. m. Thursday 7:00 to 9:00; and Sunday 2:00 to 4:00 p. m.

PC Business Office Begins New Hours

The Business Office requested today that students observe the new time schedule during which the Business Office will be open.

Said Business Manager, G. Edward Campbell, "In order to complete the increased amount of detailed work on the books and reports, the Business Office hours at the window are as follows: 9 o'clock until 11 o'clock in the mornings, and 1 o'clock until 3 o'clock in the afternoons.

Student Council Reports

With PC Homecoming fast approaching, those concerned with the Homecoming festivities, especially the decorating committee chairmen of the six fraternities, should take all problems and questions to the Homecoming Chairman, Whit Blount, Smyth 115. The Student Council also encourages these chairmen to make progress reports to Mr. Blount concerning their particular displays.

Each recognized campus organization is asked to begin making plans, according to the revised rules in the constituiton for selection of candidates for the title of Homecoming Queen. These candidates' names and pictures should be turned in to Mr. Blount by Monday, October 11.

With regard to the presentation of the Town Criers, a folk group, scheduled to perform in Belk Auditorium October 15, all persons wishing to escort dates for the evening or to invite other guests may obtain tickets at a cost of $1.00 per person from Jimmy Bankhead, the entertainment chairman, or purchase them at the door.

All PC students will be admitted free of charge.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

✣ Soft Lights
✣ Sweet Music
✣ Magnificent Food
(Yummy Steaks, Too)
ASK ANYONE . . .
Vernon's at . . .
Hotel Mary Musgrove
N. Broad St. 833-1621 Clinton, S. C.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Belks . . . welcomes
P. C. students back to school
Farah
Slacks $6.98
Press Free
Gold Cup
Socks $1.50
Jantzen
Sweaters ..... $10.95 - $17.95
Enro
Shirts $5.99

Welcome Coeds...
The Tweed Shop
S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, October 8, 1965 | No. 3

1000 High Schoolers Expected At PC's Third Annual Youth Day

Some 1,000 Presbyterian high school students of South Carolina and Georgia will visit the Presbyterian College campus this Saturday for the third annual "Presbyterian College Youth Day."

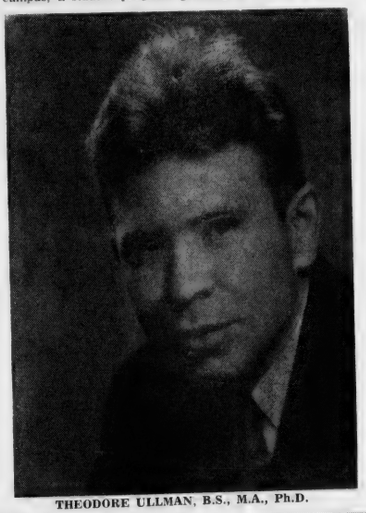
Although this number is 500 less than last year's figure, reservations for young people and their adult advisors have been received from all sections of both states.

The students, representing members of the Senior High Fellowship organizations, will be the guests of PC for this special program which includes tours of the campus, a student program of entertainment, dinner in the new dining hall and the Blue Hose-Elon football game.

Youth Day is scheduled to get underway at 10 o'clock in the morning with registration in the Douglas House, followed by campus tours conducted by members of the Blue Key leadership fraternity.

The Blue Key will also have responsibility for the 11 a.m. program in Belk Auditorium. David Davies, Blue Key President, will preside over this affair, designed to give the visiting young people a glimpse of the school and college life. The opening welcome will be given by student body president, Henry Lovett.

After these preliminaries, a program of entertainment will follow. "The Other Five," a singing group composed of Mary Ann Arnette, Steve Banakas, Don Dillard, Angie Reyes, and Sarah Stribling will perform. Also the Singleton brothers, Mackey and Joey, of Conway, and Robin Williams of Myrtle Beach will add to the entertainment with their renditions of various folk melodies.



During the latter half of the program, Tom Whitaker will address the visitors concerning the academic side of PC; Jim Stanford, the Student Christian Association and religious life at the college; Tom Leland, general campus activities; and Dan Taylor, athletics.

President Weersing will follow these student leaders with a few comments of his own for the high schoolers.

After dinner in Greenville Hall, the group will be invited to sit as a body in a special section of the bleachers at the Walter Johnson field for the 2:30 p.m. tilt between Presbyterian and Elon. The game will officially end the day's activities.

Clinton Arts Series Sponsors Theodore Ullman on Monday

On Monday, October 11, the Clinton Arts Series will sponsor a piano recital featuring Theodore Ullman. The recital will be held in Belk Auditorium, during chapel beginning at 10:00 A.M.

THEODORE ULLMAN, B.S., M.A., Ph.D.

Mr. Ullmann has presented recitals in countries located on every continent of the globe, including concert performances in each of our fifty states, and has received a score of awards in music. He holds the Bachelor of Sciences, the Master of Arts, and the Doctor of Philosophy degrees and is an alumnus of several universities.

At the Institute of Musical Art, Juilliard School of Music where he is presently a member of the teaching staff, he completed Post-Graduate work "with highest honors." Mr. Ullman is also a veteran of five years in the armed services and was wounded twice and decorated eleven times.

The repertoire of the program will be taken from the music of Frederick Chopin. The program will be presented in two parts. Mr. Ullmann will perform the Prelude in B-flat Minor Opus 28, the Nocturne in F-sharp major Opus 15, the Polimuse in A-flat major Opus 53, and after an intermission he will conclude his program with the Sonata in B-flat Opus 35.

History Dept. Offers Double Major

This year for the first time, a double major in History and Political Science is being offered at PC. Since, at the present time there are not enough courses offered just in the field of political science for a major, a double major in History and Political Science has been added to the curriculum leading to a bachelor of arts degree. If there is sufficient demand for this double major the department will be expanded and more courses will be offered.

"Political science is the organized body of knowledge that deals with the phenomena of public authority in society. The fields of political science include political theory political institutions, parties, groups, and public opinion; and international relations," stated Professor Earl Halsall who teaches all political science courses currently offered at PC.

The courses in political science now offered at Presbyterian are Constitutional Law, International Law, and General Political Theory, which is a one-semester course but will be expanded into a two-semester course in the future. Also offered are the Elements of Political Science, a one-semester survey course of the entire field of political science; and Modern Political Thought, a comparative analysis of communism, socialism, fascism, and democracy.

The requirements for a double major in History and Political Science are:

15 hours of Political Science including Political Science 301 and 302.

21 hours of History including History 201 and 202, 301 and 302. Economics 201 and 202.

6 hours from the departments of philosophy, sociology or psychology.

Concerning a student's decision to major in History and Political Science, Professor Halsall stated, "The primary factor in selecting a field of study which leads to preparation for one's calling is to obtain insights into the broad problem involved. In this way the suitability of the individual's temperament and the existence of a proper 'feel' for it can be determined. The survey course (Political Science 301) offers such an opportunity". The major areas of opportunity which develop from a study of political science are law, teaching, government service, foreign and domestic; and executive management. Graduate work leading to the Ph. D. in political science is at present offered at all leading universities including Duke, UNC, the University of Georgia, and the University of Florida. The Ph. D. in political science will also be offered at the University of South Carolina beginning September, 1966.

Board Gets Report On Development

The fall meeting of the Presbyterian College Board of Trustees was held Monday and Tuesday, October 4 and 5. Reports of the faculty self-study and long - range development plans were among the key items of business.

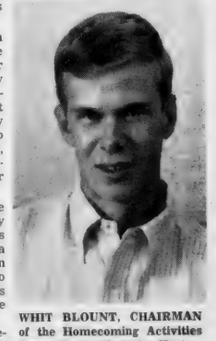
The trustees and their wives arrived on Monday afternoon, in time for dinner in the college dining hall, and remained until Tuesday afternoon. The board met in committees Monday night; on Tuesday morning they gathered as a group. The group meeting was presided by Robert M. Vance of Clinton who is presently serving as chairman; and Hugh S. Jacobs of Clinton, secretary.

The various trustee committees, which met separately for detailed business were finance and budget—Wallace Montgomery of Marietta, Georgia, chairman; academic affairs — Dr. Merle C. Patterson of Atlanta, chairman; Financial development—L. J. O'Callaghan of Atlanta, chairman; physical development—J. L. Bruce of Cornelia, Georgia, chairman; and executive committee — Robert M. Vance of Clinton, chairman. The administrative officers of PC met with their respective trustee committees and made reports concerning their departments.

Dr. Weersing made a short report to the group and the meeting closed Tuesday afternoon.

Blount Eyes Homecoming; Better, More Varied Plans

"Including the changes made last year and the changes the newly-appointed homecoming committee will adopt this year, homecoming is going to be better and more varied than ever before," stated Whit Blount, chairman of this year's homecoming committee.



However, the extent of improvement is now being discussed and will primarily depend on the availability of necessary funds. The committee is seriously hampered by a lack of money and would like to hear some student opinion before scheduling anything definite. Trying to appropriate funds for the homecoming festivities the committee has taken on the responsibility of selling programs for the next two games.

To start off the week-end with a lot of spirit, the committee would like to have a street or patio dance starting Friday afternoon and ending at suppertime. The committee feels that this would be an excellent way to begin the week-end and fill up the vacant Friday afternoon, provided the students are interested and willing to give it their support.

According to tradition, the week-end will feature fraternity displays on designated areas around the campus as well as a display set up by the co-eds on the east plaza. In addition to these displays, some members of the committee will decorate the football field.

Names of candidates for homecoming queen this year should be turned in by Monday, October 11. Pictures of the candidates will be shown in the Douglas House Thursday, October 14, through Saturday, October 16, and the contestants will be presented on stage during the intermission of the Town Criers concert Friday night. Campus election will be held Saturday

(Continued on page 6)

WHIT BLOUNT, CHAIRMAN of the Homecoming Activities Committee.—Photo by Hart.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor

Assistant Editor Sam Waters Managing Editor
Merrie Stancill Dave Veneklasen

Go Build a Bonfire

PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE in the past few years has come a long way. Today, our campus boasts a student body of approximately 670; we have the privilege of eating in a new dining hall and soon will enjoy the facilities of a new science building.

GRANTED, PRESBYTERIAN College is lacking in many ways. We would like to see a stronger athletic program with a few winning teams; we would like to have a student government with an efficient budget so that it can truly be called "Student's" Council; and we would like to have a specific fund set aside in order to bring worthwhile speakers to our Monday, Wednesday and Friday "required" chapels.

COLLEGE STUDENTS ARE NOTORIOUS for their complaining. Around the campus you hear such old familiar phrases as "This school hasn't got any business with 115 students off campus" or "those guys down at the adminsitration are just trying to get away with it" or "I wouldn't feed that to my bulldog."

THE OLD SAYING of "there are too many chiefs and not enough Indians" is reversed on the PC campus. There are too many Indians and not enough chiefs in that Presbyterian College students are willing to complain about things but are unwilling to do something about them.

THERE IS A DEFINITE NEED for people to complain about the conditions at our school. An institution without criticism is an institution that never progresses. In fact, the more criticism the better. But the criticism has to be realistic and must be supported by facts. But most important of all, those who continuously complain about conditions must be willing to do something to make them better.

WHY IS IT that PC students are unwilling to supply the manpower to correct some of their misgivings? This can be answered by the fact that they are afraid to bring their "gripes" out into the open.

TRUE, WE HAD A STUDENT UPRISING last spring, but it died out because there were not enough students willing to keep the fire going by continuously working toward what they wanted.

OUR SCHOOL IS ON ITS WAY down the road of progress. Now its time for some of our PC Indians to start thinking about becoming chiefs and in so doing build the spark of criticism at Presbyterian into a bonfire of reform.

Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor ..... Jimmy Ramage
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Copy Editor ..... Woody McGinn
Cartoonist ..... John Weigel
Circulation Managers ..... James Challen, Ellis Jenkins
Typists ..... Helen Moore, Ann Fadeley, Gloria Porter, Sandy Shope

Contributors this week: Bob Dalton, Jim Ramage, Tana Page, Eugenia Thomason, Woody Hall, Gaye Theus, Charles Campbell, Gene Sullivan, Mike Simons, Rush Otey.

Student Report From Vietnam

by Emira Kendricks

Miss Kendricks is past president (1964-1965) of the National Student Christian Federation. This summer she was a member of the group of 14 American and world religious leaders who visited Vietnam to seek a solution to the conflict. The group met with religious leaders in Vietnam, with government and army officials, with GI's and students, and with Vietcong defectors and captives.

Perhaps the most influential thing that we learned in our visit to South Vietnam is that war is real. Twenty-five years of war is too long. The consequences of this too long period of war have touched each village, each family, each person in Vietnam.

War has become the normal way of life for the nation. Small children in areas controlled by the Vietcong now learn to set land mines to blow up South Vietnamese government troops. Families of South Vietnamese soldiers live in the fox holes with the soldiers, and durnig battles in the camp areas a wife must divide her energies between watching her children and loading ammunition clips for her husband.

At present there are a total of 530,000 refugees in Saigon alone. The refugees are mainly simple Vietnamese farmers and Montagnards who have fled their villages because the villages have become battle grounds between South Vietnamese and US Government troops and the Vietcong. The refugees are now completely dependent upon the South Vietnamese government for shelter, food and all other necessities of existence.

In the city of Saigon, which often seems to be untouched by the reality of the rural areas, it is difficult to miss the signs of war. Saigon's new lullaby is the sound of distant "harassment" mortar fire combined with rock and roll music that spills out from the new crop of bars and night clubs that cater to the US soldiers.

During the day, Saigon's normally heavy traffic is now complicated and halted by movement of troops and equipment through the city toward the battle zones. Even the art exhibit sponsored by the Catholic chaplains is a propaganda vehicle against the Vietcong.

Our conversations with members of the religious community in South Vietnam were very enlightening. It appears that the keystone of the Roman Catholic position in South Vietnam is anti-communism. This position makes it difficult for them to think constructively about the political future of the nation.

The Buddhist leaders seemed to be deeply sensitive to the prolonged sufferings of the people and report that the lesson learned from war is the lesson of the loss of one freedom after another. They possess a sense of their political responsibility and power but do not over-estimate the effect of that power on military decisions.

The Buddhists and the Catholics are beginning to plan joint action for relef. The Protestant community understands its task as pure evangelism. Paradoxically it has therefore taken a political position.

Dave Veneklasen Mgr. Ed.

Brave "New" World

It has finally broken into the open. Everyone has been watching for it since the arrival of a new administration member. The question that has gone through many peoples' minds is how far will they go? Will my sanctuary on the back streets of Clinton be violated? Will I have to sneak a beer like a small boy sneaks his first cigarette?

DAVE

The question of drinking by members of the student body of Presbyterian College has been brought into the open. A long trial by the Honor Council has taken place. Whether fact or fiction, rumor has it that a secret "Drinking Committee" has been set up with the purpose of reporting all violations of the drinking rule. This is sort of reminiscent of the "Big Brother is Watching" theme in Orson Wells' "1984". It may bring to mind the Nazi SS of World War II. Maybe the comparison is too harsh but the mere idea of it makes a person's blood run cold.

Article XI, Section 6 of the Student Constitution states, "Drinking: No student shall be, while on the campus or off the campus, (representing the college), found drunk, drinking, or having in his possession intoxicating liquors."

The big question arises around "representing the college". Does this mean a choir trip, while attending a football game away from school, of a state Spring S. C. A. Conference? Could it go so far as to say if you have a Presbyterian College sticker on your car you are representing the college or are you under the rule in the privacy of your own home.

The question remains. The rule can be read any number of ways. It should be reworded or brought up to 1965 standards. Behind the scenes work has been done by the Student Council on revision along the lines of other schools in this area, but roadblocks have been encountered.

Revision involves more than the students, the administration or the Board of Trustees. It goes back to the supporters of Presbyterian College. Will it ever be solved? It's a vicious rule. Enough said!

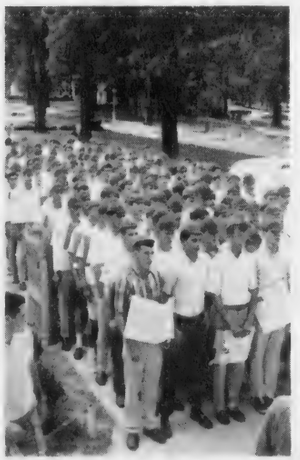
RAT SEASON...1965

BUT THIS ISN'T the time or the place!

A DEMONSTRATION of Freshman organization and intent . . .

THEY TOLD ME it was a snowstorm, but all I've seen is mud . . . ? !

Photos by Hart & Peace



ROSES ARE RED, violets are blue—put a bag on your head and maybe he'll date you!

NEITHER RAIN NOR SLEET, nor hail, nor dark of night can stay these rats from their appointed rounds.

BUT MAMA he's a good boy . . . he goes to PC.

TOGETHERNESS . . . oh sweet togetherness

Summer Camps May Be Real Nice, But One You Don't Bragg About

RUSTY NELSON
Feature Staff Writer

Upon entering these hallowed halls of learning for the first time, a little over three years ago, I had never really thought of myself as a military man. Indeed, it was so inconceivable to me that it took a great deal of restraint to keep myself from breaking out in near hysterics the first time I really comprehended that I was actually in uniform, in ranks, learning how to act like a soldier.

Many things changed during my first two years in ROTC, not the least of which was my thinking concerning what I could do for my country and (in spite of J.F.K. and my own innate patriotism) what my country could do for me. I learned that Uncle Sam was willing to pay me for the chance to make an officer out of me and that a six week vacation at Fort Bragg was included.

Thus it was that fate and the Third Army that put me in ROTC Summer Camp.

The first few days at Camp were spent in waiting in long, impatient lines to be throughly examined by a staff of Medical Corps captains who wished they were back in their air-conditioned, civilian offices giving lollipops to good children and sugar pills to bad hypochondriacs. We also drew uniforms and equipment and got organized in the barracks.

There were still fifty-two men (a term I still tend to use with reservation when including myself) in my platoon, 210 men in the company and about 2300 in the whole camp. These cadets came from schools all over the southeast, including institutions with as much contrast in their military organizations as the Citadel and Florida Southern (I could have said PC but I didn't).

After operations got underway we began going out in the field (known popularly as the boondocks) for instruction and practical exercises in what every young officer should know. Some very impressive demonstrations were given in conjunction with this instruction.

I DON'T CARE, he's not going to steal my picnic lunch, my lunch was made in the dining hall.

We assembled and fired machineguns, mortars, .45 caliber pistols and had training in the use of recoilless rifles, hand grenades, land mines, and bayonets. We were taught how to use communications equipment, camcuflage, patrolling techniques, first aid equipment and salt tablets.

A good bit of time, leading to firing for record, was spent in training with the M-1 rifle with which most of us had never done anything more exciting than inspection arms. Before camp was over we had fired many rounds of live and blank ammunition at cardboard silhouettes and mock aggressors, usually in that order.

The training we had in small unit tactics was the most exhausting and discouraging. We soon found that controlling a unit in the field was much more difficult than handling troops on a map or a blackboard.

The culmination of all this training was the 36-hour Field Training Exercise. The entire company went to war against another cadet company, and the two alternated on the offensive and defensive on the platoon levels.

Our road march was ambushed, and some units were gassed. We sat up a defensive position and dug in for the night after only slight contact with the enemy.

A midnight patrol and preparations for it took up most of my time so that when morning came I was defending from a foxhole the size of a bait bucket. But we soon filled the foxholes, breakfasted on C-rations, and took the offensive.

Toward the middle of the afternoon, the cadet leader for the day realized that we had overshot the enemy position, so we turned and hit them on the flank in what proved to be a brilliant, if accidental, maneuver. Satisfied that we had gained a glorious victory, we returned to the garrison and barracks routine.

Several of the most pleasant nights were spent on bivouac, or, as we usually called it, camping out. When we spent the night in the field, the barracks didn't have to be spit-shined for inspection in the morning, and we could sometimes get to sleep soon after dark.

However, these were not always restful nights. In the midst of a spectacular electrical storm, my company's camp eroded away while a company in another location was hit by lightning and had 23 cadets taken to the hospital.

Summer Camp was an effective introduction to the army of the enlisted man whom we will be required to lead. It also provided a preview to the responsibilities of a junior officer and a taste of actual leadership. There were many tests of patience and determination as well as squalid conditions. But I am still convinced that ROTC is the most desirable method of becoming an army officer.

MAJOR ROBERT HOWE, tactical officer, Company A, 3rd Platoon.

JUMPING FOR JOY? No, I just needed $10 at the end of my sophomore year.

Coaches Boast Balanced Staff

The Presbyterian College coaching staff is headed by Cally Gault, who serves as head coach and athletic director. Coach Gault graduated from PC in 1948 and returned here in 1963, when he began his college coaching career. Before coming to PC, he was one of the most outstanding high school coaches in South Carolina, and he is fast building his reputation as one of the finest college coaches in the state. Coach Gault received the honor of being named South Carolina Coach of the Year after his Blue Hosemen posted a 5-5 record in football during the 1964-65 season.

Billy Tiller is currently in his fourth year as head line coach for the Blue Hose. Coach Tiller, a 1955 graduate of PC, coached at Manning High School and Hillcrest High School before returning to PC in 1962. In addition to his football duties, Tiller also coaches the baseball team and is a physical education instructor.

Art Musselman is beginning his third year as head basketball coach for PC. Coach Musselman graduated from the Citadel in 1960, where he was an outstanding basketball player, being named South Carolina's top cager in 1958. Besides coaching the bucket men, Musselman also serves as football assistant and head scout.

The defensive backfield and end coach for PC is Joe Nixon, who is beginning his first football season at the institution from which he graduated in 1963. Nixon starred for the Blue Hose defense for three years, and was team co-captain in 1961. Nixon also coaches the cindermen and is a physical education instructor.

Mike Lowrance is a rookie coach on the Blue Hose staff, having graduated from PC in 1964. He served as team co-captain in his senior year. Lowrance assists Coach Tiller with the interior line and with the linebackers. He also is a major factor in scouting the Blue Hose opposition.

COACHES TILLER, GAULT, MUSSELMAN, AND NIXON. Coach Lowrance not pictured.

Netmen Get In the Swing

Although the tennis season does not officially begin until late in March, the PC netmen are already planning for the wars by holding fall practice sessions.

Rookie tennis coach, Jim Shakespeare explained that fall practice is a very important step in having a successful won-lost record. During the next few weeks the team will be concentrating on the fundamentals of the game so that practice time in the spring may be spent on strategy and the finer points.

Returning from last year's team, which posted a 12-9 record and missed the state championship by only one point, are Bob Harris, Howdy Letzring, Pete Collins, Larry Connelly, Doug Haney and Bobbie Hibbits. Several freshmen and newcomers are also trying out.

A definite schedule has not yet been posted for the 1966 season. However, PC's conference membership should not influence past rivalries to any degree. Coach Shakespeare hopes to retain such opponents as Howard, Davidson, Georgia, Duke, and North Carolina.

Coach Shakespeare urges that all interested in trying out for the team contact him if they have not already done so.

If experience and desire are any indication, the PC tennis team will be serving up some rough opposition to its opponents, and should net an even better record than did last year's squad.

Pounders, KA's Lead AS IM Race Begins

The independent Pounders blasted off to an excellent start by defeating the powerful Sigma Nu's 7-6 and then dispatching the Bandits 13-0. Both wins have been climaxed by Pete Collins' pass catching and the defensive play of Tom Stallworth and Dave Cottingham.

The mighty KA's led by fleet Brownie Johnson rolled over the Pikas 26-7 and annihilated the Vetville squad 32-6. Johnson has scored 6 touchdowns in the two opening wins to place him in top running as the offensive leader.

Led by the running Pat Goldsmith and the defensive ability of Morrow Thompson, the Alpha Sigs slashed the Theta Chi's 26-6 but lost to the Bandits 1-0 in a penetration decision.

Last year's champs, the Sigma Nu's bounced back from an opening loss to the Pounders and regained their form as they stunned Vetville 27-0. Crow, Todd, and Bordner led the powerful Snake attack.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

He Once Was A Second String Nobody

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

IT IS A LONG TRIP from Miami, Florida, to the cam- s of PC. It can also be a lonely trip, especially if one is ming 800 miles to play football. An individual would el much better if he knew someone when he arrived.

Bill Kirtland knew no one. He was coming as an own stranger. His football abilities were almost unown too. For four years in high school Kirtland never rted a football game. Instead he spent his time underidying a high school All-American who is now at the iversity of Florida.

BILL'S TEAM HAD AN IMPRESSIVE record and went o seasons undefeated. During this time Kirtland didn't end his hours picking up splinters from the bench. He ayed some and looked good but couldn't quite get the rting nod.

Then came the end of football season his senior year, time of year when collegiate scouts are scouring the diums for young, prospective grant-in-aid athletes. Kirtd didn't have to fight the scouts away, because they n't seem interested in him. After all, wasn't he only a ond string quarterback, and at a mere 145 pounds, skinone at that?

CALLY GAULT DID NOT SEE IT that way. Kirtland d plenty of potential, and if he were brought along ht, he might make a pretty good small college passer.

So Bill Kirtland made the long trip to Clinton in Aust to begin football practice. PC was in need of a good arterback due to the unexpected absence of All-Stater ghton Grantham, but the job looked hopeless to the le freshman.

ALTHOUGH THERE WAS NO REAL EXPERIENCE quarterback, there were three upperclassmen in front him. Thus he was relegated to a fourth string position the first threeweeks, always waiting for a chance.

MANY PEOPLE TOOK LITTLE NOTE of Kirtland's y. After all he was playing against the Wildcats' reves, and they were willing to give up the short passes. when kickoff time came against Lenoir Rhyne, Kirtland s still on the bench.

On the bench he sat as Lenoir Rhyne rolled to a 21-0 d. At the same time Presbyterian's offense was held mpletely bottled up. Gault decided to go with Kirtland he second half, and produced P. C.'s first offensive of evening.

BILL COMPLETED FOUR OUT OF NINE passes for touchdowns. The first was to Don McNeil and the nd to James Smith. He also completed a two-point version to Richard Reed.

Gault and the skeptics were convinced. Against a pow- l Wofford team, Bill was called upon to start. Kirtd proved everyone's faith in him by leading the Blue e to a 12-7 victory.

KIRTLAND SHOWED THE POISE of a seasoned vetn against the Terriers. After having a couple of passes pped or being roughed up by a couple of linemen, would come back to complete a pass or make the big

Thus far this year Kirtland has completed 19 of 33 ses for four touchdowns and one extra point. This is total of PC's scoring. His passing has covered 256 ds of the Blues' 563 total yardage.

KIRTLAND's PEFORMANCE AGAINST WOFFORD ed him Player-of-the-Week honors in South Carolina h experience that should come, Kirtland will improve hopefully solve PC's quarterback problem for the next years. The trip to Miami this year may be long and ly, but Bill should have some fond memories to keep company.

CONFERENCE STANDINGS

	Conference	Overall
ern Carolina	2-0-0	3-0-0
ir Rhyne	2-0-0	2-1-0
lachian	2-1-0	2-1-0
ord	1-1-0	2-1-0
berry	1-2-0	1-2-0
wba	0-1-0	2-1-0
byterian	0-1-0	1-2-0
	0-2-0	1-2-0

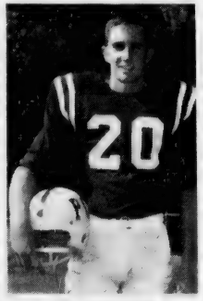
LAST WWEK IN THE CAROLINAS CONFERENCE

wba 28	Emory and Henry 16
byterian 12	Wofford 7
ern Carolina 9	Guilford 7
lachian 9	Elon 0
ir Rhyne 3	Newberry 0

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

	At Presbytreian
lachian	At Appalachian
wba	At Western Carolina
gewater	At Guilford
erick	At Newberry

Hose Ready For Elon's Christians, Hope For Eighth Home Game Win



Presbyterian's Blue Hose will entertain the youth of South Carolina and try to extend an eight home game winning streak this Saturday against the touted "Fighting Christians" of Elon. Starting time at Walter Johnson Field is 2:30 P.M.

Elon has a fine team with all of the starters, except the quarterback and an end, returning from last year's squad which posted an impressive 8-1-1 record. The Fighting Christians are a big team with a backfield weighing in at slightly over 200 pounds and a line at 221 pounds that is just about 35 pounds-a-man heavier than the Hose. At the season's beginning they were the team that experts said would take the Carolinas Conference title. But Elon just hasn't gotten the offense rolling and their record of one victory and three losses just doesn't show what they are stacked up to be. The spark-plug for the offense is a big halfback number 28, Fred Stewart, praised for his swiftness and agility.

Elon runs from the split "T" offense and are more of a running team. They run a strict offense and defense.

The defense is the bright spot for the Christians. They are, according to Coach Gault, one of the best the Hose will come up against. Not only are they large, but also they are fast.

As for the Hose, you can bet the boys are up for this meeting with the Fighting Christians. Saturday night's victory definitely answers the quesiotn posed by the skeptics. The Hose are no team to count out of the competition. Morale is high, and that all-important first win is under their belt. The Blue Hose came out with nothing worse than bruises and other minor aches and pains, even with the action as rough as it was. Elon must realize that Presbyterian is again a two-way threat in the air as on the ground. The offense was great, and quarterback Kirtland had time to hit his receivers. The big Blue's defensive unit really came out and held the opposition in check. It does not appear that they have lost that sharpness from the way they were popping leather out on the practice field. The Hose are ready, willing and able to play one of their best games.

BILL KIRTLAND

BLUE HOSE STATISTICS

PC		Opponent
29	First Downs	47
296	Rushing Yards	525
267	Passing Yards	349
20-43	Passes	25-47
0	Passes Intercepted by	3
21-41.4	Punts	20-41.1
4	Fumbles Lost	3
65	Yards Penalized	175
563	Total Yardage	874

TOP INDIVIDUAL PERORMANCES

Rushing

Player	Carries	Yards	Avg.
Sam Williams	30	132	4.7

Passing

Player	Attempts	Comp.	Yards
Bill Kirtland	33	19	256

Pass Receiving

Player	Passes Caught	Yards Gained
Richard Reed	5	76
James Smith	5	72

Punts

Player	Punts	Avg.
Jimmy Elliott	21	41.4

Elon Drops Another; C. C. Race Tightens

The youthful Appalachian Mountaineers overcame the fighting Christians of Elon in a defensive struggle which saw little offensive action. Appalachian scored late in the first quarter when Russ Steward tackeled Bob Russell for a safety and then again when Bill Bobo plunged in from the two. The PAT by Underwood was good and the Mountaineers walked away with their second Carolina Conference victory.

Newberry seems to have foot trouble this year as Lenoir Rhyne edged the Indians on a field goal. Earlier this year the Mountaineers of Appalachian cut Newberry 10-7, the decisive margin being a field goal.

Mighty Western Carolina, led by their fleet quarterback Williams, rolled to a 9-7 victory over Guilford. Williams completed 18 of 27 passes for 247 yards and rushed for 143 more while the tenacious defensive unit held Guilford to a mere 108 yards. W. C. now leads the Carolinas Conference with two wins without a loss.

In other Carolinas Conference action offense minded Catawba ran by Emory and Henry 28 to 16.

Blue Stock Rifles Prepare For Season

The Presbyterian College rifle team should be as strong this year as it has been in the past. In talking with Sgt. Leonard Creel, it was disclosed that although the complete schedule is not yet available, the team is planning to participate in matches with Wofford, Furman, and other schools in this area.

Sgt. Creel reports that he has three returnees from last year's squad. These are Evan Pamplin, Terry Dye, and John Askew. In addition to these three, an outstanding crop of freshmen have reported for practice, but it is too early at present to determine who will make the squad.

The first match will be on Saturday, October 16, with two additional matches the following week.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL in full swing as teams end first week of play. The KA-Vetville game seen above ended in a powerful 32-6 win for the KA's.—Photo by Hart.

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

Campus News Briefs

JIM STANFORD, SUSAN GILBERT, AND HENRY LOVETT

Students Convene at Tryon; Debate Centers On Morals

Student leaders from the nine Independent Colleges of South Carolina convened last Wednesday at the Converse College Block House near Tryon, N. C., with Converse student government leaders serving as hostesses. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss "Moral Values in Our Colleges."

Representing PC were Student Body President Henry Lovett, SCA President Jim Stanford, and Women's Council President Susan Gilbert.

Dr. A. G. D Wiles, President of Newberry College and Chairman of the South Carolina foundation of Independent Colleges, made a few introductory statements, saying that the success of a similar discussion last year prompted the Foundation to call another meeting this year.

The discussion centered around the moral problems which confront colleges and the manner in which small, independent colleges deal with them. Also brought out were the parts played by students, faculty, and administration in general in dealing with moral issues and the role of student governments.

Several resolutions were made by the group, outstanding of which was the recommendation that emphasis be shifted from obeying rules to adhering to a standard of conduct. These resolutions will be submitted to Dr. Wiles and the other President of the colleges represented.

Student Council Reports

On Wednesday of this week the new dress regulations for men were voted on and passed in the monthly faculty meeting.

As stated in an earlier issue, the student council had been formulating a new dress code in order to keep up with the changing flair of P. C. At this time all evaluations have been completed and a final vote (was) possible.

This new dress code will be posted by the administration at the earliest possible date so that all students may familiarize themselves with these regulations.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for the week of Oct. 11-16.

Monday, Oct. 11th: Theodore Ullman—Pianist.

Wednesday, Oct. 13th: Chapel Worship Service, The Rev. Bill Rogers, Broad Street Methodist Church, Clinton, S. C.

Friday, Oct. 15th: To be announced.

Deposit Box Installed

Miss Burts has announced that there has been a collection box installed in front of the library. Students may return books to this box after the library has closed. Miss Burts said, "This box will benefit both the library and the students."

Book Store Hours

Until further notice is g
the bookstore will be open day through Wednesday be 1:30 and 4:30 P.M., and on day from 1:30 until 3:00
The bookstore will be close
Thursdays and Saturdays.

Because the bookstore is operating on a self-service b all book sales will be final no book may be returned being the wrong book. It is vised that the student know book which he wants to purc before entering the store.
bookstore is now on the ca
phone system, extension 20

Greenville Plans Concert Programs

On October 11, 12, 13, and 14, the fall membership drive for the 1965-66 Greenville Community Concert Association Series will be conducted in Greenville.

Programs which will be included in this year's series are: October 14, 1965—Music of Richard Rodgers; November 2, 1965—Peter Nero and His Ensemble; February 16, 1966—Die Kemmermusiker; March 6, 1966 — Anna Moffo; March 13, 1966—Houston Symphony.

Reserved sections tickets for students are $4.00 and adult tickets are $11.00. Memberships will be available opening night at the Greenville Memorial Auditorium Box Office.

Frosh Officers Nominat
Await Wednesday's Electi

Freshmen will choose class officers and Student Council representatives Wednesday in a Student Council-sponsored election.

Officers and representatives will be elected from a slate of freshmen nominated Wednesday when 76% of the freshman class cast ballots.

Nominated for Student Council seats were Tommy Lovett of Kingstree, Bobby Byard of Charleston Heights, Dave Gravely of Myrtle Beach, and Don Mathews of Alexandria, Va.

Vying for the presidency of the class are Ray Combs of Bradenton, Fla., Dan Eckstein of Atlanta, Ga., and Wayne Shugart of Gainesville, Ga.

Nominess for the vices-presidnecy are Jerry Holland of Atlanta, Ga., Bill Kirtland of Miami, Fla., Ed Robeson of Greenwood, and John Wingfield of Columbia.

Nominated to run for secretary were Andy Bunch of Atlanta, Ga., Sammy Pruett of Columbia, and Sara Beth Ragsdale of Taliahsssee, Fla.

The treasurer will be chosen from three nominees: Bo Be ell of Greenville, Robert of Walhalla, and John Lo
Columbia.

Doodle Dingle, Helen M and Ann Rooney were nom
ed to run for Freshman R
sentative to the Women's C
cil. Ninety-six percent of freshman girls voted in this tion. The elections will be from 5 to 8 p. m., Wednes
October 13, in Clinton Hall women are to vote in the tion.

HOMECOMING (Cont. fro morning and the queen w crowned during half-time monies of the PC-Furman h coming game. In addition t formal functions for the c dates, there will be a party held in their honor S day morning.

As the committee chai said, "We have an inter hard-working committee t hopes to make this the homecoming yet; however success will depend on the dent body and their particip in the functions that we planned."

MOVIE REVIEW

'High Wind'-Hot Air

Christie Patterson
Movie Editor

"A High Wind In Jamaica" is set in the Caribbean of 1860's, when steam-powered warships were slowly chasing pirates off the seas. Among the last of the pirate ships is one commanded by the grizzled Captain Chavez, played by Anthony Quinn. One day Chavez and his crew of disgruntled buccaneers capture a sailing vessel, murder its crew, and kidnap its passengers, who are all children on their way to school in England. In the days that follow, the children have the run of the ship; and eventually it becomes difficult to discern between kidnapers and the kidnapped.

Supporting Quinn in the film are James Coburn, who plays the First Mate, Zac, a very bloodthirsty and profane young pirate; Lila Kedrova, who appears as the proprietress of a brothel; and Gert Trobe, who played title role in "Goldfinger," plays a sea captain captured by Chavez and his pirates.

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
ZEBRA IN THE KITCHEN
Starring TV's Dennis the Menace
MONDAY AND TUESDAY
A HIGH WIND IN JAMAICA
Anthony Quinn, James Coburn
STARTS WED., OCTOBER 13
THE SECRET OF MY SUCCESS

The Greeks

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

Beta Psi Chapter of Theta Chi will have a rush party the 8th of October at the American Legion Hut in Rock Hill. Music will be furnished by the Versatiles and dates will be provided. Plans are underway for the Homecoming display and party. All freshmen and transfer students, their dates, and parents are invited to a drop-in in the fraternity suite Saturday night after the game. Cecil McClary was pledged last week.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity had a rush party in Spartanburg last week that was a big success. Preparations are being made for the closed smoker to be held at the Legion Hall next week. The "Six Pack" from Savannah have been contracted to play for the Homecoming party to be held at the Laurens Country Club. There will be a drop-in at the Sigma Nu House before and after the game Saturday. Glenn Barlow was recently pledged by the Sigma Nu. A new color TV set and two new sofas were purchased and their patio and fence were remodeled. Susan Alexander has been chosen to represent Sigma Nu as their Homecoming Representative.

A social held in their Fraternity suite last Friday by the Pi Kappa Phi was a big hit. Plans are being made for a Homecoming party at Barnes' Barn located off the Laurens Highway. All freshmen are cordially invited to come.

The Kappa Alpha Order has made final plans for their rush party this weekend. Plans are also completed for their Homecoming party to be held at the American Legion Hut. Miss Rette Chandler, who is engaged to Brother Rick Rhame, was selected to be the KA's Homecoming Representative.

The Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity's kickoff rush party was acclaimed as a big success. For Homecoming they are planning a party in the Fraternity suite after the concert which will be opened to all freshmen. Saturday night of Homecoming the Alpha Sigma Phi's are having the Nomads at J. E. Barnes' Recreation Center. New pledges for the ASP's are Jack Murphy and Bubba Roundtree. The Brother of the Week is Woody Hall.

Plans are underway for a big Homecoming weekend featuring Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs by the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. A drop-in will be held in the fraternity suite after the ball game Sautrday night. New Brothers are Larry Yonce, Charlie Roland, Reed Bolick, and Jimmy Wagers. Brothers of the Week are James Smith, Allen Harris, and Kit Regnery.

Welcome Coeds...
The Tweed Shop
S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

Belk's
Weyenberg Loafer 14.9
Archdale Cardigan Sweaters 12.9
Virgin Wool and Mohair — Navy, Light Blue, Maize, Whiskey
Formfit Sports Shirts 3.9
Solids — Stripes — Checks

The Blue Stocking
Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, October 15, 1965 — No. 4

ALEXANDER ARGO BLAKELY CHANDLER FOWLER

GARLAND KNOX McCALL McCRARY MOCK

MILLER NICHOLS ROSS TRUESDALE

1965 Homecoming Will Reach Climax At Halftime Ceremony

The Town Criers' performance tonight will kick off the Presbyterian College Homecoming activities for 1965. Homecoming Queen candidates will be presented to the Student Body during intermission of the Town Criers' performance, which begins at 8:00 p. m. in Belk Auditorium.

The 14 nominees are: Susan Alexander, a graduate of Spartanburg Jr. College, Sigma Nu; Allyson Argo, Georgia Southern, Alpha Sigma Phi; Julianne Blakely, Columbia College, Blue Key; Rita Chandler, Converse College, Kappa Alpha Order; Mary Emma Fowler, University of Georgia, The Knapsack; Betty Garland, a graduate of Winthrop College, Theta Chi; Mary Knox, Wesleyan College, Pi Kappa Alpha Order; Mary Ann McCall, a graduate of King's College, Pi Kappa Phi.

Also, Rose Ann McCrary, Winthrop College, Student Council; Nancy Miller, Depauw University, Greencastle, Ind., Christian Vocation Club; Cathy Mock, Converse College, Inter-Fraternity Council; Amelia Nichols, Presbyterian College, Student Christian Association; Betty Ann Ross, Radford College, Radford, Va., Hall Procters; Beck Truesdale, Presbyterian College, The Blue Stocking.

The Student Body will vote for these candidates tomorrow morning from 9:00 a. m. until 12:15 p. m. in Douglas Hall. While the study body is voting, the candidates will be entertained with a coke party in President Weersing's home at 10:30 a. m.

The College Board of Directors will meet at 10:00 a. m. tomorrow in Belk Auditorium, followed by a barbecue under the Oaks next to Belk for students, alumni and friends. Students may begin eating at 11:00 a. m. and everyone at 11:30 a. m.

Fraternity displays must be finished by 11:00 a. m., Saturday. Prizes are $25 for first, $15 for second, and $10 for third.

Dr. J. Edward Graham of Charleston will preside over the PC Alumni Association meeting in Belk Auditorium at 1:00 p. m. when the new Alumni Officers will be installed. This year the Alumni Service Award goes to Thomas E. Addison and the Gold P to Henry J. McLaurin. College President Marc C. Weersing will give a report to the Alumni at this meeting. The Walter Johnson Club will meet at 1:30 p. m., also in Belk Auditorium.

The Homecoming football game with the Blue Hose facing Furman University will begin at 2:30 p. m. Homecoming Queen will be crowned during the half-time ceremonies and the awards for the best fraternity displays will be given.

Homecoming weekend will be concluded by open house for the Alumni in the Leroy Springs Gymnasium and open house at the fraternity rooms for Alumni, members and freshmen.

(Cont. on page 4, Col. 1)

Cornwell Elected Alumni President

The Presbyterian College alumni have named Sam Cornwell of Charlotte president-elect and Dr. Dill D. Beckman of the PC Alumni Association Columbia as a trustee representative to the board of trustees. These and other association officers and directors were selected in a mail-ballot election conducted among the PC alumni. They will be installed during special ceremonies at Homecoming on October 16 and will officially take office in January.

Cornwell, a 1955 graduate who is an underwriter with Pilot Life Insurance Company, succeeds Dr. J. Edward Graham of Charleston. Dr. Graham will remain on the alumni board of directors as past-president.

Dr. Beckman, class of 1930 and director of the South Carolina Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, will replace John Montgomery, also of Columbia, as one of three alumni elected trustees.

The alumni also elected Pitts Delorme, '47, of Sumter, vice-president of the Alumni Association, and Herbert Hunter, '53, of Columbia, secretary - treasurer.

Students Enact Anti-war Activities In Two Day Protest This Weekend

WASHINGTON, D. C. (CPS)— Student groups across the country are planning anti-war activities on campuses and in communities as part of a two-day protest Oct. 15 and 16 against the war in Vietnam.

The "National Days of Protest," called by the "National Committee to End the War in Vietnam", will consist of activities ranging from campus teachings to civil disobedience at military induction centers. The demonstrations are being organzied by local committees to end the war and by local chapters of groups such as the Students for a Democratic Society, Du Bois Clubs, and the Young Socialist Alliance.

The national committee was organized during the "Assembly of Unrepresented People" in Washington in August to provide a clearing house for information for the various groups protesting the war in Vietnam. In its call for the Oct. 15-16 protest, the committee declared that "unless we leave the confines of the usual government channels, we shall not be heard. The war shall continue. The last world war taught us at least one terrible lesson, that silence is affirmation, that inaction is assent."

The form of the Oct. 15-16 protests will vary with local organizations. Most campus activities will involve teach-ins on Friday, Oct. 15. Mass demonstrations, civil disobedience, and anti-draft projects are predicted for Saturday, Oct. 16.

The following campuses are among those which will see protest activities:

* Berkeley. The Vietnam Day Committee is planning a teach-in on the 15th and demonstrations, possibly involving civil disobedience, on the 16th at both the campus and at Oakland army terminal. The VDC, combining both students and faculty support, was recently attacked by 300 faculty members who denounced the committee's call for mass civil disobedience and its analysis of the war. In a four-page open letter, the signers expressed their opposition to the war, but declared that "we would be derelict in our duty, particularly as members of the academic community, if we failed to register publicly our dissent from the tactics and policies of the committee."

In an eight-page response, the VDC told their critics: "You claim to be 'deeply concerned about the war in Vietnam'. But you have united to attack a group which protests the war, rather than the government which wages it".

* University of Wisconsin. Reports indicate that the "Student-Faculty Committee to End the War in Vietnam" has lined up 100 students who will attempt to be arrested for sitting-in on the runways of Truax field, Madison's municipal airport and a base for the state Air National Guard.

The Blue Stocking Seeks Editor For '66

Applications for the position of editor and business manager of the 1966-67 Blue Stocking are now open for consideration by the paper's editorial board.

Interested students may contact either Sam Waters, editor, or Merrie Stancill, assistant editor.

The candidates will be nominated by the board for election by the student body during the second week of the second semester.

The present Editor Waters noted, "The position of editor is one of the most important on campus because it is the voice of the student. Unfortunately little interest has been shown in the past and it would be in the interest of the student body if the students showed more concern".

Semester System Revised; Fall Term to Open in August

A new semester system, similar to that adopted by Clemson University and Winthrop College this year, has been set up for next year's PC students. Primary changes in the semester system are an updated opening and closing of college and an extension of the Christmas holidays. These changes will provide for the scheduling of examinations before Christmas vacation.

The college will open August 22 for new students and August 23 for upperclassmen. Mid-semester examinations will be held October 18-21 and final examinations will be held December 10-17. Christmas holidays will begin when examinations are completed and will end January 8.

Second semester's mid-semester examinations will be held March 1-4 and will be followed by the Spring holidays. Final examinations are scheduled for May 5-11. Commencement exercises for the 1967 graduating class will take place Sunday, May 14.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor
Sam Waters

Assistant Editor
Merrie Stancill

Managing Editor
Dave Veneklasen

PC's High Wall

For the past three years Presbyterian College has hosted an annual Youth Day program for high school students and their parents. This year bus loads of people came from as far as Georgia to hear and see just what our college stands for.

They were given tours over the campus and shown the progress PC is making in its building program. At Belk Auditorium the students and interested parents were spoken to by some of our student leaders on the various aspects of life at Presbyterian, such as education, athletics and social activities.

It seems to be the general concensus of most of the parents that Presbyterian College is a wonderful place to get an education. But there seems to be an important factor that underlies their feelings that has never been brought out into the open by the parents who accompany the high school students or by the college itself.

Everyone agrees that a college education is something more than what a person learns out of a book. It is a time for growing up, accepting responsibility, questioning one's religion and finding out just what one really believes. Yet this subject is never mentioned by the administration or student leaders each year during the program.

Last year the Greenville Presbyterian Church wrote a letter to PC asking if the college might send two or three of its students to a program designed for youth. The letter requested that these students give their ideas on just how college affects religion. The meeting turned out to be of as many parents as it did church youths. The students went, presented their ideas of how college life reflects on religion and how many students during their four years at college tend to question their own faith. The result of the gathering was disbelief on the part of the parents. Many of them were appalled at the idea that such a thing could ever happen at Presbyterian College.

Our college is a church supported school and must go along with many of the dogmas that the Presbyterian Church supports. However, why is it that the subject of how college changes a person is never brought up. Are the parents scared that their "Johnny" or "Judy" will be too violently shocked by such a presentation? Is it too afraid that it will be looked on dimly by the members of the Presbyterian Churches that give it its support? Our college is not a vacuum . . . it does not build a "high wall of Christianity around its students where no evil from the "sinful" outside world can get in.

The time has come for the myth associated with PC to be done away with. Parents as well as the students should be awakened as to what college life is really all about. This is the joke of the administration who seems to have held back the possible mentioning of this idea to any students. This fact needs to be faced, and the "high wall of Christianity" surrounding PC torn down.

Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor ..... Jimmy Ramage
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Copy Editor ..... Woody McGinn
Cartoonist ..... John Weigel
Circulation Managers ..... James Challen, Ellis Jenkins
Typists ..... Helen Moore, Ann Fadeley, Gloria Porter, Sandy Shope
Contributors this week: Gaye Theus, Karen Weaver, Bob Dalton, Kit Caldwell, Mike Simons, Charles Campbell, Jack Kennedy, Gene Sullivan, Christie Vene, Jimmy Ramage, Ellen Stewart

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Movie Review

"The Restless Ones"

Premiering at the Broadway Theater Monday, October 18, is "The Restless Ones", a motion picture that tells the world the truth. From the opening scene of destruction to the surprising climax, there is a surging, pulsating crescendo of excitement and drama in the movie. This newest film release of World-Wide Pictures is a searching portrayal of today's teen-agers set to the heartbeat of their trials and triumphs.

This penetrating motion picture is a frank, sometimes startling portrayal of the thoughts and actions of today's teenagers. Their expressions and pent-up frustration . . . their searchings for approval, discipline and guidance . . . their yearnings for love and understanding . . . their attempt to find security and to express maturity . . . their longings for something real and meaningful.

Part Two

South Vietnam Rejects Communism

by Elmira Kendricks

Miss Kendricks is past president (1964-1965) of the National Student Christian Federation. This summer she was a member of the group of 14 American and world religious leaders who visited Vietnam to seek a solution to the conflict. The group met with religious leaders in Vietnam, with government and army officials, with GI's and students, and with Vietcong defectors and captives.

According to the South Vietnamese foreign minister, the military action of his government is purely defensive; South Vietnam is the victim of aggression from the North. According to him, freedom (individual) is too high a price to pay for political independence. While reunification with the North is the dream of all those in South Vietnam it is only a distant possibility.

Other persons in South Vietnam produced more evidence of the complexity of the situation. Students, for example, both Buddhist and Catholic, were a part of the South Vietnamese Union of students, which were an important factor in the opposition to and overthrow of the Diem regime. At present their position is both anti-Vietcong and anti-Government of South Vietnam.

They are anti-Vietcong because of Vietcong terrorism and and anti-Government of South Vietnam because the government has failed to try to meet the needs of the pepole. At the same time while they do not like the presence of US troops, they feel that the troops are necessary to protect the country from a takeover by the Vietcong. Their solution to the economic problems of the nation are socialistic but they reject communism, feeling that it restricts or forbids the development of full humanity.

US newsmen acknowledge the desperations of the present military and political situations and yet see no alternatives to the present policy short of complete US capitulation. A South Vietnamese Lt. Col. described the present military action as a holding operation, that is the present situation demanded that the government of South Vietnam and US troops seek to hold their positions against Vietcong attack through the rainy season.

A non-Vietnamese doctor from Hue reported that the current National Liberation Front positions may not demand immediate US withdrawal but a ceasefire to be followed by some kind of recognition and acceptance of their control of certain provinces of the country and then the setting up of the machinery for an election of a national coalition government.

The complexity and ambiguity of the situation does not lend itself to easy conclusions about the situation or easy solutions to the present problems. And so instead of conclusions, I would simply like to raise three questions: 1) Present US policy is designed to secure a military advantage for the Government of South Vietnam and US troops so that the Vietcong and the North Vietnamese will be convinced that a military victory is impossible and be willing therefore to negotate. Even if we grant that there is a possibility that this may happen, what kind of enemy will the Government of Vietnam and the US be negotiating with?

2) Does the present US policy make it impossible in the future for multi-national efforts to serve this or other international erises?

3) From what sources can we draw constructive alternatives to the politically impractical suggestion for immediate US withdrawal? How can solutions be developed that will make possible maximum national integrity for all nations and groups involved in the present conflict?

Letters

"I'm Afraid This Is It'

Dear John:

I really don't know how to begin this letter. I know you're going to be shocked, so be prepared.

First of all, I'm sorry but I can't come for Homecoming. One reason is because I have two tests on Monday after that weekend. But, there is also another reason.

John, you remember before we left school, we talked about if we ever stopped loving each other that we'd let it be known. Well, I'm afraid this is it. John, I don't know why I feel this way, perhaps it's being away from you so long. But I have been thinking about this since two weeks after I came. All I can ask is that you understand.

I'm not breaking up because of anything you've ever done to me or said, but it's just the way I feel. I am so sorry that Sunday night I accepted your date for Homecoming, but I guess I wasn't the girl with enough guts to tell you. i really apologize for it, but I couldn't tell you.

I feel that I would be doing an injustice to you if I kept dating you. I want you to have the best, because in my opinion you're still a great guy. I just don't want to lead you on—it's just not fair to you. John, please don't think that I hate you and all that stuff because that's not it at all. Please let's be friends.

I could never forget all the "trials and tribulations" we've had since last October. There were really great times, and I want you to know that you were the first boy I ever loved. I've always heard that a person never forgets his first love and that will be true with me. I'll always have a soft spot in my heart for you.

All I can ask now is that you won't hate me. Please try to understand how I feel. I want us to be friends. If you're near Lake City or Hartsville, please stop to see me. I do want us to write and I'd love to hear from you sometime.

John, I like you a lot. If you liked me any at all maybe you can understand that this was best for us.

I'm sorry it had to be this way, in a letter, but I know I couldn't tell you this on the phone. Please write sometime and let me know what's going on.

Please understand!

Love,
Taj

Sports Sidelines

With Gene Sullivan

Homecoming: Always Tough

Can Hose make it eight?

It seems somewhat amusing that PC always faces a big, tough team during Homecoming. This weekend is no exception. The Furman Paladins invade the campus with a fired up team after last week's setback to Wofford.

The Hose have a few things going for them. Bill Kirtland will be able to play but Reed and McNeil seem lost for this one. All the bad luck hasn't run this way. Furman Quarterback Sammy Wyche will have to play with a broken finger, but this won't stop their rugged running game.

The Big Blue try for their eighth straight win at home but the Hose haven't cut Furman in quite a while. It should be a typical Presbyterian Homecoming.

In the Hose dressing room there is a sign that says, "How bad do you want this game?" and another which asks "Did you give 100 per cent today? If not, you cheated us, if so we will be better because you did". How bad do the students want this game, will they give their 100 per cent effort and spirit for Saturday's contest? If not, we are cheating the PC spirit. If so we will be better because we did. The Hose have given us seven straight at home, will we give them our greatest support this weekend? Let them know you care about them, encourage them, wish them luck. They will play their best. Let us give them our best.

Lenoir Rhyne takes the lead

The Carolinas Conference race seems to confound most prognosticators. Big Elon, last year's champs and a favorite for this year, are on bottom with 3 losses. Previously undefeated Western Carolina was edged by Catawba to knock them from the lead. Lenoir Rhyne has taken command, but PC or Catawba could still win it. Watch Guilford. They may pull a few upsets also.

Basketball looks promising

Coach Arthur Musselman seems well satisfied with his Blue Hose basketball team. Back from last year are seniors Gordon Adam and Doug Allen, sophomore letterman Richard Quillen, Ken Martin and Bob Mcgregory, and a new sophomore Steve Stein. These men figure heavily in the Hose play. The depth problem should be solved by freshman Jim Kiser, John Walther, John Lown, Doug McLeod, and David Hudson. The boys have been practicing hard and should be ready for the Tip off tournament on November 26, at Spartanburg.

CC STANDINGS

Team	Conference	Overall
Lenoir Rhyne	2-0-0	2-1-0
Western Carolina	2-1-0	3-1-0
Appalachian	2-1-0	3-1-0
Guilford	1-1-0	3-1-0
Catawba	1-1-0	3-1-0
Presbyterian	1-1-0	2-2-0
Newberry	1-2-0	1-3-0
Elon	0-3-0	1-3-0

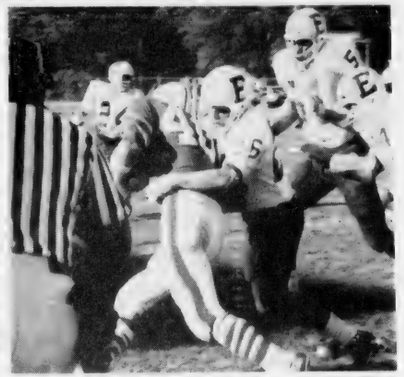
PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

Presbyterian's 'A-Go-Go' Eleven Ready For Paladins Tomorrow

The Presbyterian Blue Hose will be a team on the "a-go-go" when they meet the Furman Paladins Saturday at Clinton, in PC's Homecoming game. According to head coach Cally Gault, the Blue Hose are "ready, willing and able" for the game. Team morale is extremely high after two consecutive victories, and the added impetus of playing before a Homecoming crowd should give the Blue Hose the necessary incentive to win.

Winning will be no easy chore, however, as the Paladins of Coach Bob King figure to be on the rebound after a 35-13 trouncing at the hands of Wofford last week. On the other hand, the PC squad is in high spirits and intends to extend its home field winning ways. PC now has seven straight home victories and will be going for number eight against Furman.



Furman holds a decided edge in this series, which dates back, intermittently, to 1913, having 20 victories against 7 losses and no ties. Last season Furman beat the Blue Hose 28-6 before a Furman homecoming crowd. The Hose hope to uphold the trend this year and win their homecoming game.

Coach Gault expects to stick with the same starting backfield against Furman, except where injuries force changes. Line Coach Billy Tiller expects to keep the same line arrangement, with a special "go-go" offensive unit composed of tackle Jim Helms and Bob Murray, center Mickey Hampshire and guards Jack McCaskill and Eddie Walker. On defense Sam Lyons, John Monk, Tommy Campbell, and Allan Harris will alternate in the front three positions in the interior line.

There is no sure-fire way of knowing just how Furman will be playing against PC. Their play has been erratic so far this season, to say the least. At times they have played like true champions, beating highly-touted East Carolina, eighth-ranked in the nation among small colleges. On other occasions they have looked lifeless and disorganized, as in their crushing defeat by Wofford.

Coach Gault says the fans can expect a lot of throwing and some hard running. The Paladins' outstanding quarterback from last season, Sammy Wyche, and his favorite target, Tim Crawford, are both back this season. In addition to these two as threats, the Paladins boast two powerful runners in their attack. Bob Buzzell and Billy Turner, alternate at fullback, and both Coach Gault and Coach Tiller say that this pair is really a tough twosome to handle.

The Furman game is not a conference affair, but just the same, it is a big one for both the squads and fans alike. This battle pits the visiting Baptists against the homecoming Presbyterians in the interdenominational battle of the year. Both teams will be out for victory just as if a national championship were at stake.

Get Off My Back, Buddy
Eckstein evades Elon defenders as he darts around left end for vital yardage.

WC, Catawba Game Puts Bears In Lead

Last week in Carolina Conference play, Lenoir Rhyne took sole possession of first place without playing a game. The conference game results were PC—14, Elon —7, and Catawba—18, Western Carolina—13. In non-conference games, Guilford ran over Bridgewater 56-6, and Frederick downed Newberry 25-14. Appalachian and Lenoir Rhyne were idle.

Against Elon the Hose called on Paul Ferguson to substitute for the inured Bill Kirtland and he responded by directing the Blue Hose to two first-half touchdowns.

The Christians tallied first before the Presbyterian touchdowns but were unable to score again, leaving the score at the half and at the game's end, 14-7.

At Newberry the Frederick Lions jumped off to a 16-0 lead before the Indians whittled it down to 16-14 at the half. In the second half Frederick kicked a field goal and scored one while holding the Indians in taking the win.

Catawba beat favored Western Carolina 18-13 in that important conference game, and Guilford ran their record to 3-1 in stomping Bridgewater 56-6.

I-M Football in Second Half; Pounders Ahead One Game

PC's Intramural football season is now entering the second half with the Pounders out front, but by only one game.

The action this year has been rough for all, especially the hard-nosed linemen. Defense seems to be the secret to this year's games and the low scores prove that some fine efforts have been shown by the defense.

A good example of this was this week's Kappa Alpha vs The Bandits which had a scoreless four quarters and was won in penetration by The Bandits.

The main trouble for all teams is penalties. All the boys seem to be getting excited as the clock runs and tempers get short. But all and all this season is shaping up to be one of the finest.

The winning team in football this year gets a trophy and 100 points toward the overall Intramural Trophy which is presented annually to the team with the most points gained from participation in all athletic events.

But with football soon ending, the teams will get opportunities for the second phase of Intramurals. Soon to begin are basketball, pool, swimming, and ping-pong. These events are scheduled to begin shortly and all teams are requested to turn in their rosters for each event as soon as possible. Another note of interest is the soccer craze. There was a lot of interest exhibited to starting a team at Presbyterian. The development stage is past and it looks as if there will soon be a new intercollegiate sport on campus. Many surrounding schools have voiced an interest in soccer.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Campus News Briefs

S and B Taps Eight Seniors

Eight outstanding seniors in the advanced ROTC program at Presbyterian College were tapped by the Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, this past Thursday. The cadets were selected because of their military aptitude, leadership potential, military interest and academic achevement in military science. The eight, tapped during drill exercises, are Buddy Guy, Jim Stanford, Sam Lyons, Charlie Meriweather, Henry Lovett, Pat Goldsmith, Philip Olmert, and Tom Leland.

During the initiation period the recently honored cadets must wear their full military uniform at all times, carry a favor bag for the older members of the organization and learn the background and history of the organization.

This tapping increases the total active membership of the fraternity to 19. Captain Al Todd, commander of the organization, congratulated the pledges on their honor.

The Scabbard and Blade, has as one of its major projects, the planning and promotion of the annual Military Ball. Plans have not been completed, and a later announcement will be made regarding the date and place.

Presbyterian WF

Sunday night, October 17, Westminster Fellowship will have its regular supper followed by a program featuring Ricky Mill, former basketball player for Venture for Victory, an international exhibition team.

The Fellowship is also planning a hayride for October 22. Further plans will be anounced.

Sunday night, October 24, at 6:00 p. m., Dr. Babbage of Columbia Theological Seminary, will have a program entitled "Christianity and Sex". He will also head a discussion group following the evening service.

On the Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday night following his lecture, he will hold discussions on "Christianity and Existentialism", "Modern Morals", and "Man in Art and Literature". These discusions will begin at 10:00 p. m. on each of these nights in the Douglas House.

Homecoming

Saturday classes have been cancelled for the festivities, a practice which was begun last year. Double cuts will be given students who miss Friday or Monday classes; also double cuts given for any classes missed in succession to these days.

Hundreds of Alumni will return to the campus tomorrow to join in the celebration of Homecoming. Their program will feature a giant barbecue as well as the game.

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY-SATURDAY
OCTOBER 14-16
The Secret of My Success
Shirley Jones, Stella Stevens, Honor Blackman, James Booth, Lionel Jeffries

MON.-TUES.-WED.
OCTOBER 18-20
The Restless Ones
Georgia Lee, Robert Sampson, Johnny Crawford, Jean Engstrom, Jerome Courtland.

Tau Phi Pi

The Office of the Registrar is currently checking requirements for entrance to Tau Phi Pi, an organization for students who have completed at least twelve hours in some scientific field and have maintainde a C average or above. Future plans for the club include a program on the history and application of mathematics and a Southern Bell Telephone Company film on heredity.

Student Council Reports

The PC faculty has approved a new set of Dress Regulations for men students that was submitted by the Student Council. The new rules which are now in effect will replace the ones listed in the 1965 Knapsack.

For concerts, church functions and Sunday dinner the minimum dress will be dress shirts, tie, trousers, coat and shoes.

On campus and in town, the required dress is trousers or shorts, shirt with the tail tucked in, and shoes. Shower shoes short shorts, undershirts, T-shirts, are not to be worn outside the dormitories.

Under the revised rules students are now allowed to wear shoes without socks and shirts without collars. As stated in the 1965 Knapsack, "Most students take pride in exceeding the minimum acceptable dress standards".

Alumni Service Award

Thomas E. Addison, Clinton business leader and immediate past president of the Presbyterian College Alumni Association, has been selected to receive PC's 1965 Alumni Service Award.

He was chosen by the alumni board of directors for this citation in recognition of his work as Association president last year. The award will be presented at Homecoming this Saturday, as part of the special 1:00 p. m. program which will follow the alumni barbecue.

Addison is regional vice-president of Waddel and Reed investment firm and owner of Clinton's Canada Dry Bottling Company. A member of the class of 1938, he has been a loyal friend of Presbyterian College through the years. His leadership contributed to the success of the last three capital funds campaigns conducted by the college, and he served with unusual effectiveness during the past year as alumni president.

Chain Offers $1000 To Needy Seniors

The Chain Scholarship Foundation, which has been in existence for three years, is currently awarding scholarships of up to $1,000.

In order to be eligible a student must be a senior in need of funds, who plans to seek employment upon graduation rather than undertaking a post-graduate curriculum, has grades of candidate status and will, if able, help Chain support future needy students.

All students desiring to apply for a Chain Scholarship should write to The Chain Scholarship Foundation, Box 550, White Plains, New York.

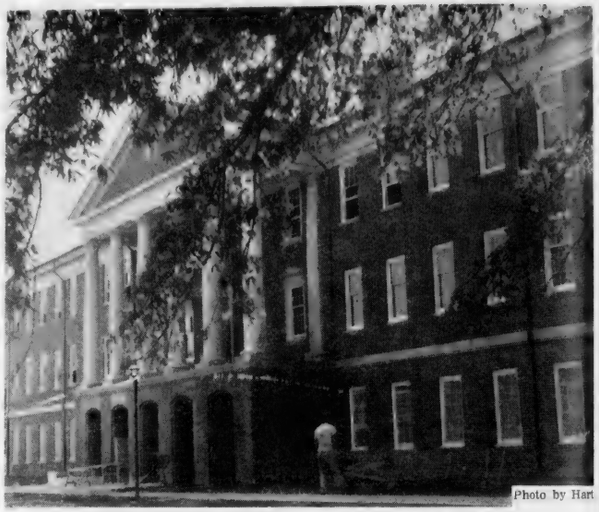


Photo by Hart

Science Building Opens Labs

Construction of the new science building, situated at the head of the East Plaza, has almost been completed. Afternoon labs have already begun to meet, and classes are scheduled to begin in the very near future. The three-story structure will greatly enhance the science department with its larger classroom and laboratory space. The physics department will be housed on the ground floor, while the biology and chemistry departments will be located on the second and third floors, respectively.

Caldwell Reflects on McLeod Bryan: 'The Liberation of the White Man'

By Kit Caldwell

Dr. G. McLeod Bryan, who spoke in chapel last Friday, also spoke to a group of interested students and faculty members on Thursday, October 7. He is presently a professor of ethics at Wake Forest College, Winston-Salem, N. C. A PhD in philosophy was awarded to him by Yale University.

"The Liberation of the White Man" was Dr. Bryan's topic for Thursday evening. In opening, he pointed out that the white man has profited more from the race issue than has the negro. "Whites are being liberated", he explained, "from a bad conscience and a frozen history".

Bryan stated that the negro is not asking for equality. If the negro were given true equality, the white man would be subjected to suffering identical to the negro's in intensity and duration before the two could exist on a truly equal basis. "The negro", said Bryan, "is asking for only an edge of equality".

America's "New Black Joe" was characterized as a calm protestor with the law on his side. Bryan illustrated his point by quoting the revised version of Stephen Foster's "Old Black Joe"—"I'm coming and my head ain't bending low/I'm walking of tall,/I'm talking strong — I'm America's new black Joe".

The negro in the south now lives in an area where the white image has been destroyed. If a white man lives by the white image, he is not living realistically. Wiliam Faulkner put it this way, "To live in the south today and oppose the integration of the races is like being an Eskimo and opposing snow".

FAWN HOSE, pr. 59c
PICKFAIR PLACE COATS
from 39.95
The Tweed Shop
S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

McINTOSH'S
SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

FEELING
•
•
•
•
•
•
•
•
LOW?
YOU NEED A MEAL
WITH VERNON!
Hotel Mary Musgrove

PC HOMECOMING means fine food at
"The Wrangler"
—Steaks
—Fried Chicken
—Barbeque

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, C., Friday, October 22, 1965 | No. 4

Army ROTC Chief Plans Tour of PC

Colonel Winston G. Whall, Chief of the ROTC Division of the 3rd U. S. Army, will visit Presbyterian College on October 26 and 27. He will inspect the ROTC facilities with Dr. Weersing on an orientation tour and meet the members of our Military Department.

As of October 1 of this year all ROTC activities are the responsibility of the 3rd U. S. Army. They were formerly handled by the 12th Corps.

This visit will familiarize Colonel Whall with the ROTC facilities provided by the college.

The P. C. Military Department is now under the direction of four officers: Col. Richard Ulrich, P.M.S.; Major Robert Howe, Assistant PMS; Capt. Calvin Claypoole and Capt. Lewis Johnson.

Lt. Col. Ulrich commented: "Capt. Claypoole and Capt. Johnson bring the number of officers to four, due to an increased emphasis on military and an increased size in the student battalion. Since we have a scholarship program the Army is looking to ROTC for its future officers more than in the past".

Record 118 Men Complete Rush; Fraternities Near Full Capacity

Formal Greek fraternity rushing was climaxed this Thursday with a record breaking 118 rushees pledging out of a total of 211 men students attending. Pi Kappa Alpha led this year, closely followed by Sigma Nu, Theta Chi, Alpha Sigma Phi, Kappa Alpha, and Pi Kappa Phi.

Photo by Hart

Rushees To Pledges
John Erwin and Mack Binton drop their ballots

Pi Kappa Alpha led with 24 pledges bringing their total membership to 58. Sigma Nu and Theta Chi both pledged 22 to bring Sigma Nu's membership to 60 and Theta Chi's to 51. Alpha Sigma Phi brought in 18 pledges bringing their total to 48. Kappa Alpha Order and Pi Kappa Phi both pledged 16 Kappa Alpha now has 64 members and Pi Kappa Phi 33.

Interfraternity President Pat Brown commented: "Rush this one, and many fraternities were as I had hoped, but this was to be expected due to the new rush regulations. On a whole, the rush season was a very successful one a,nd many fraternities were built up to near capacity. I hope that now what with the larger freshman classes entering, we can raise the maximum number of members in the fraternities to at least 75".

Those pledged by Pi Kappa Alpha were:

Jim Allred, Lewis Caldwell, Charles Chapman, Cleve Dobbins, Dan Eckstein, Rod Free, Evins Godwin, David Jameson, Ron Kenworthly, Bill Kirtland, John Lewis, Robert McNair, Robert L. McNeil, Alexander Nisbitt, Henley Olmert, Blaney Pridgea, Charles Reid, Charles Rowe, James Sharrock, George Stogner, Robert Sullenberger, Abney Wallace, Charles Weston, and Austin Woodward.

Sigma Nu pledges were:

Steve Albright, David Ballard, Norman Bell, Jim Brumbalow, Jim Cassady, Richard Crozier, Hart Cobb, Carl Conant, Woody Daniel, David Gravely.

Also John Hardy, Julius Heden, John Lown, Ricky Nexsen, Gilber Nix, Mike Reeves, H. F. Shull, Larry Smith, Brooks Wade, John Walther, Steve West, Robin Williams.

Added to the ranks of Theta Chi were:

William Anderson, Eddie

See Pledging, Col. 3, Page 6

Board of Visitors View PC's Progress

The Sixth Anuual meeting of the Presbyterian College Board of Visitors was held Thursday and Friday, October 21-22.

The members and guests arrived in Clinton at 5:00 p. m. Thursday afternoon for a reception at the President's home. The reception was followed by a tour of the campus and an evening program. This morning at 9:00 the Business Session met to hear reports concerning various areas of the school such as student activities, the academic program and the development program.

The Board of Visitors is a group of outstanding and influential leaders in their fields. The Board meets once or twice a year at PC and serves in an advisory capacity. Its members are interested in the program PC is making and help to promote it in their local communities and spheres of influence.

The program that Presbyterian College conducts on behalf of the Board of Visitors is of great benefit to the school. It permits the public to become more familiar with the college through its program of useful interpretation.

Hunt For Communists May Result From US Protests of Vietnam War

(CPS) — A new hunt for Communists may be one result of last weekend's (Oct. 15-16) protests of the widening United States role in the Vietnam war.

In Chicago Sunday night, U.S. Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach claimed that Communists are active in the marches and demonstrations protesting the war in Vietnam and that the Justice Department has begun an investigation.

Katzenbach charged that some Communists were working for the Students for a Democratic Society, a national group that has been a leader in the anti-war movement. The Attorney General said he is awaiting results of his department's investigation to determine the strength of SDS and whether there are direct ties between the group and the Communist Party.

Katzenbach cited federal laws against aiding and abetting persons to avoid the draft and described SDS pamphlets that were distributed at several rallies that tell how to avoid military service.

Paul Booth, a spokesman for SDS, said Monday that "our program is perfectly legal. We are advocating that people should become conscientious objectors, not draft dodgers." SDS leaflets and literature do not advise people to avoid the procedures of the Selective Service Act, he said, but to file with their draft boards as conscientious objectors.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.), vice-chairman of the subcommittee, said that the weekend demonstrations were especially characteristic of Communist tactics.

The subcommittee's study, prepared at Dodd's direction, concede that "the great majority" of persons who differ with the administration's policy in Vietnam are "loyal Americans." But the study suggested that leaders in the anti-war movement have failed to prevent or limit Communist infiltration of their ranks and have thus left control to people "who are openly sympathetic to the Vietcong and openly hostile to the United States."

North Vietnam's official newspaper, Nhan Dan, described the protests as a "hammer blow at the Johnson clique."

The weekend demonstrations ranged from a parade of 10,000 down New York's Fifth Avenue to a memorial service for Vietnam war dead at Purdue University. Similar demonstrations were held overseas and in Canada. In London, some 20 pickets marched in front of the American Embassy while others paraded in Trafalgar Square.

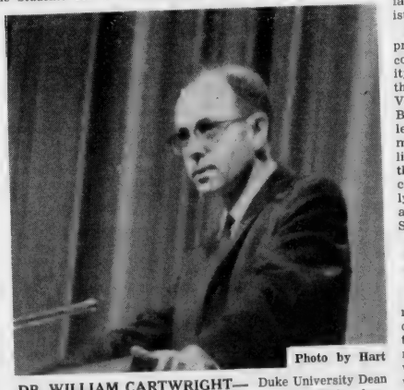

Photo by Hart

DR. WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT— Duke University Dean William Cartwright addressed PC's student body Wednesday on "Teacher Education". In praising the liberal arts program, Dr. Cartwright stated that such a curriculum "strengthens a person's ability to think and act rationally".

Edna Millay's 'Aria Da Capo' To Be Presented on Monday

Aria da Capo, Presbyterian College's first play since the drama department was begun, will be shown in Chapel Monday, October 25, and on Saturday, October 30, for Parent's Day.

Aria da Capo (a musical term meaning "go back to the beginning and reappear") is Edna Vincent Millay's attempt to express her feelings on nationalism. It is an idea play different from traditional college drama in that the whole structure is built around the playwright's perception on occurrences in life. The play, as an example of modern playwriting, is thought-provoking and is a good introduction of things to come from PC's drama department.

Dr. H. L. Zillmer, director and head of the drama department, said of Aria da Capo: "As an audience views this play, they come face to face with her (Miss Millay's) ideas and must, to a certain degree, think about them."

"I chose this play because I thought it would be a good vehicle to introduce the PC audience to idea plays. Modern drama has left the simple plots of melodrama as well as the involved character conflicts of older dramatic forms in favor of the idea plays."

Speaking of his performers, he said, "I am very pleased with the responses and attitudes of the students."

Actors in Aria da Copo and their respective roles are: Carolyn Colby, Columbine; Rush Otey, Pierrot; Tommy Eland, Cotburmus; Marg Bounds, Thyrsis; and John Jones, Corydon.

Supporters of the cast include: Vicki Brown, assistant director; Rick Stall, stage manager; Joan Vassey and Pat Driggers, lighting crew; Barbara Rabb, Kit Caldwell, and Dessie Jean Roberts, costuming; Tana Page and Danay Wyatt, construction; Pat Riddle, Sherry Connell, and Elaine Mason, make-up; and David Aiken, Nina Woody, and Ellen Stewart, box office.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor

Assistant Editor Sam Waters — Managing Editor Dave Veneklasen

Merrie Stancill

Just Send Them Over

BATTLE WEARY, wounded, the marine was coming home, when asked how he felt about the recent student demonstrations. All he could manage was a disgusted spit.

THE STUDENT PROTESTS have so far shown less thought than it requires to blink.

IT IS THE OPINION of the Blue Stocking that these students, rather than displaying mature judgment concerning their actions, have been used as the pawns of communist front organizations.

WHEN THERE ARE WAYS set up within our government for lawful and constructive methods of protest, the recent demonstrations take on the appearance of unrealistic child's play.

PROTEST AND DEMONSTRATION may have been the foundation of the American revolution, but we, as a people, are no longer in a state of revolution. The revolution is in Vietnam.

THE COMMENT OF ANOTHER embattled soldier in Vietnam summed up the situation, "Just send them over here, we'll see that they get to march."

ALTHOUGH THE BLUE STOCKING does not agree that we should allow ourselves to be backed into an international "corner", it seems senseless to hope that by backing out and ignoring them that the Red Chinese will either cease to exist or possibly go back to their own little rice paddies.

FURTHER, the recent poll substantiated the paper's feeling that these demonstrations are not an accurate gauge of the feeling generally held by American students. It is unfortunate that such a small faction can receive so much notoriety. It breaks the force of a united stand and to the guys being killed and wounded, it's like being shot at from the front and stabbed in the back at the same time.

WHAT CAN BE DONE to make the nation and, more importantly, the world realize the smallness of this group in an overall comparison? How can these students be shown that a better way does lie open?

THESE ARE IMPORTATNT QUESTIONS for our generation to ponder. Could you give the answers?

Homecoming Big Success

The enactment of PC's 1965 Homecoming stands as a noteworthy success. The entire weekend indicated the great amount of administrative and student planning which went into it.

The Town Criers' concert Friday evening before a usually unattentive PC audience established new heights in the quality of dance weekend entertainment. We extend our congratulations to Jimmy Bankhead, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee,, and his staff of students and advisors.

The Alumni Barbeque, a project of Ben Hay Hammet, was a fitting antecedent to the Presbyterian victory over a five-year Furman jinx Saturday afternoon.

For the second consecutive year, students were allowed absences from Saturday's classes in anticipation of greater student participation in the weekend's activities. The outcome of the somewhat dubious plan was proven unequivocably last year —and again this year—as a worthy decision.

We pay tribute also to Whit Blount, coordinator of the Homecoming Activities Committee, whose administrative efforts paved the way for a proper timeliness in the sequence of events. Although his half-time program cost the Hose a "delay of the game" penalty, it was well worth the five yards.

It was the cohesive efforts of the student body, alumni, and administration that deserve credit for Homecoming's success. We commend these people for their accomplishment, and strongly urge the continued cooperation of students and administration for the betterment of the overall program at Presbyterian College.

Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor ..... Jimmy Ramage
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Copy Editor ..... Woody McGinn
Cartoonist ..... John Welgel
Circulation Managers ..... James Challen, Ellis Jenkins
Typists ..... Helen Moore, Ann Fadeley, Gloria Porter, Sandy Shope

Contributors this week: Gwen McNair, Gaye Theus, Karen Weaver, Ellen Stewart, Woody Hall, Mike Simons and Rush Otey.

THE LOAD GETS HEAVIER.....

Opinion Poll

Students Condemn Protests

Wednesday of this week, the Blue Stocking ran a campus poll in an effort to determine how the average PC student stands on the the issues surrounding the present Vietnam situation.

Slighly over half of the resident students responded, and with the exception of two questions, campus opinion weighed heavily in one direction on each of the areas probed.

Those questions where the difference could be noticed concerned the effect of student protests on the students whether he is a soldier in Vietnam and whether or not the student thought that the communists were backing the protests that have occurred recently.

One student, however, seemed to feel that the poll was inadequate, and rather than fill in the form instead, stated, "I believe in love of my fellow man."

The rest of the students' opinions ranged as follows:

1. Do you agree with US policy in Vietnam?

Yes, 82%; No, 12%; Undecided, 6%.

2. What policy do you think the US should follow?

Intervention, 90%; Non-intervention, 4%; Other, 6%.

3. Does the "emergency" merit drafting students who are attending college?

Yes, 13%; No, 78%; Undecided, 8%.

4. Would you participate in student protest activity such as that carried on this past weekend throughout the North and West?

Yes, 6%; No, 84%; Undecided, 5%; Didn't know anything about it, 5%.

5. Do you think the protest reflected the majority opinion of draft-age men?

Yes, 12%; No, 79%; Undecided, 9%.

Do you think the communist party and groups of communist sympathizers are behind the action and are the leaders of it?

Yes, 42%; No, 18%; Undecided, 7%; Partially, 33%.

Have you considered burning your draft card?

Yes, 6%; No, 89%; Undecided, 4%; In part, 1%.

6. If you were a US soldier in Vietnam, to what extent do you think the student protests would affect your morale?

Positively, 20%; Negatively, 28%; Very Negatively, 18%; None whatsoever, 20%; Undecided, 14%.

Movie Review

Frank Sinatra Star Of World War Flick

The story centers around Colonel Joseph Ryan, an Air Force officer played by Frank Sinatra, who is captured, having been shot down over Italy and sent to a POW camp in Central Italy. Shortly after his arrival all the prisoners are put aboard a train bound for Austria. With the aid of British Major Turchan (Trevor Howard) Ryan and the prisoners subdue their German captors and then fight and blast their way through 400 miles of Nazi-controlled Italy to the safety of Switzerland.

Two vintage trains, one for the escapees and one for their Nazi prisoners, were acquired by Robson, the director, for filming. Robson, his cast, and and his crew after having received permission from the Italian government boarded the trains and began filming the picture along the 400-mile journey.

Ryan, aside from being unpopular with his men, commits a few necessary but distinctly unheroic acts in the course of the escape. It goes without saying that the ending of this story is not a glorious one for Ryan. There are no medals or pretty girls waiting for him at the end of the line.

Dave Veneklasen Mng. Ed.

More Greek Fraternities

Rush season is over. The bids have been cast. Fraternity men can sleep nights without the question being in their mind "Which way is he going to pledge?" Rush chairmen can stop biting their nails. Peace has once again settled over Presbyterian College.

Rush season is the thing most dreaded by many Greeks; the time people listen at doors; spy on each other and sling mud. Fraternity men deplete their pocketboks. Treasuries are drained on rush parties.

DAVE

Is it all really worth it? Fraternities had to rush in order to survive in the past. This year things have changed somewhat. It's getting so you just about have to rush a fraternity and commit in order to receive a bid. Looks mighty similar to the large university fraternity system.

What about the potential rushee? Now here is an individual who is thoroughly confused about what fraternities are all about. If within a week after he arrives on campus he doesn't show any indication of really being sharp or showing at least a little interest in a fraternity he is dropped from consideration.

Rush season is a trial period when fraternities are looking at freshmen and vice versa. Complete strangers walk up to a freshman and say, "How about a blind date at Converse"? or "Let's go to Winthrop". They pile into a car and take off to the headpackers. The result—"a snow job". The rushee looks around and sees how many other freshmen are present and goes into some minor mathematical figuring. Sixty-five places in the fraternity minus the number of brothers and pledges leaves X number of openings. The only way to insure that his name is in one of the openings is to pull out the stops and sell himself to the fraternity.

The sad result of all this is every fraternity filled to the brim and many students walking around campus who really should be a member of one. Within the fraternities factions will form and dissension occur. The real purpose of the fraternity system is destroyed. It's impossible to really get to know sixty-five people as brothers.

The sensible solution points toward more Greek letter fraternities on the Presbyterian College campus. The problem is under study before the Intefraternity Council. Before the situation gets out of hand and more students are enrolled an answer must be found.

While on the subject of rush season and fraternities, a word of praise should go out to Pat Brown and the IFC. Rush season has gone the smoothest and been the best managed it has been in a long time.

HOMECOMING 1965 STYLE

Gov. McNair
. . . Among those present

Barbecue beside Belk
Students and alumni were invited to a barbecue lunch held under the oaks between Belk Auditorium and Bailey Dormitory

Town Criers were in concert Friday
The Town Criers of Georgia Tech entertained a full-capacity crowd

Queen Amelia (Nichols) Crowned
President Weersing makes full use of his authority

Photos by Yarborough

And the Blue Hose did ground the Paladins
ASP's placed first in display competition and won $25

Mackey and Joey
. . . Rendering usual above-par performance

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor

Assistant Editor Sam Waters Managing Editor
Merrie Stancill Dave Veneklasen

Just Send Them Over

BATTLE WEARY, wounded, the marine was coming home, when asked how he felt about the recent student demonstrations. All he could manage was a disgusted spit.

THE STUDENT PROTESTS have so far shown less thought than it requires to blink.

IT IS THE OPINION of the Blue Stocking that these students, rather than displaying mature judgment concerning their actions, have been used as the pawns of communist front organizations.

WHEN THERE ARE WAYS set up within our government for lawful and constructive methods of protest, the recent demonstrations take on the appearance of unrealistic child's play.

PROTEST AND DEMONSTRATION may have been the foundation of the American revolution, but we, as a people, are no longer in a state of revolution. The revolution is in Vietnam.

THE COMMENT OF ANOTHER embattled soldier in Vietnam summed up the situation, "Just send them over here, we'll see that they get to march."

ALTHOUGH THE BLUE STOCKING does not agree that we should allow ourselves to be backed into an international "corner", it seems senseless to hope that by backing out and ignoring them that the Red Chinese will either cease to exist or possibly go back to their own little rice paddies.

FURTHER, the recent poll substantiated the paper's feeling that these demonstrations are not an accurate gauge of the feeling generally held by American students. It is unfortunate that such a small faction can receive so much notoriety. It breaks the force of a united stand and to the guys being killed and wounded, it's like being shot at from the front and stabbed in the back at the same time.

WHAT CAN BE DONE to make the nation and, more importantly, the world realize the smallness of this group in an overall comparison? How can these students be shown that a better way does lie open?

THESE ARE IMPORTATNT QUESTIONS for our generation to ponder. Could you give the answers?

Homecoming Big Success

The enactment of PC's 1965 Homecoming stands as a noteworthy success. The entire weekend indicated the great amount of administrative and student planning which went into it.

The Town Criers' concert Friday evening before a usually unattentive PC audience established new heights in the quality of dance weekend entertainment. We extend our congratulations to Jimmy Bankhead, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee,, and his staff of students and advisors.

The Alumni Barbeque, a project of Ben Hay Hammet, was a fitting antecedent to the Presbyterian victory over a five-year Furman jinx Saturday afternoon.

For the second consecutive year, students were allowed absences from Saturday's classes in anticipation of greater student participation in the weekend's activities. The outcome of the somewhat dubious plan was proven unequivocably last year —and again this year—as a worthy decision.

We pay tribute also to Whit Blount, coordinator of the Homecoming Activities Committee, whose administrative efforts paved the way for a proper timeliness in the sequence of events. Although his half-time program cost the Hose a "delay of the game" penalty, it was well worth the five yards.

It was the cohesive efforts of the student body, alumni, and administration that deserve credit for Homecoming's success. We commend these people for their accomplishment, and strongly urge the continued cooperation of students and administration for the betterment of the overall program at Presbyterian College.

Business Manager ..... Larry Preston
News Editor ..... Joe Stevens
Assistant News Editor ..... Jimmy Ramage
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Copy Editor ..... Woody McGinn
Cartoonist ..... John Weigel
Circulation Managers ..... James Challen, Ellis Jenkins
Typists ..... Helen Moore, Ann Fadeley, Gloria Porter, Sandy Shope
Contributors this week: Gwen McNair, Gaye Theus, Karen Weaver, Ellen Stewart, Woody Hall, Mike Simons and Rush Otey.

THE LOAD GETS HEAVIER.....

Opinion Poll

Students Condemn Protests

Wednesday of this week, the Blue Stocking ran a campus poll in an effort to determine how the average PC student stands on the the issues surrounding the present Vietnam situation.

Sligthly over half of the resident students responded, and with the exception of two questions, campus opinion weighed heavily in one direction on each of the areas probed.

Those questions where the difference could be noticed concerned the effect of student protests on the students whether he is a soldier in Vietnam and whether or not the student thought that the communists were backing the protests that have occurred recently.

One student, however, seemed to feel that the poll was inadequate, and rather than fill in the form instead, stated, "I believe in love of my fellow man."

The rest of the students' opinions ranged as follows:

1. Do you agree with US policy in Vietnam?

Yes, 82%; No, 12%; Undecided, 6%.

2. What policy do you think the US should follow?

Intervention, 90%; Non-intervention, 4%; Other, 6%.

3. Does the "emergency" merit drafting students who are attending college?

Yes, 13%; No, 78%; Undecided, 8%.

4. Would you participate in student protest activity such as that carried on this past weekend throughout the North and West?

Yes, 6%; No, 84%; Undecided, 5%; Didn't know anything about it, 5%.

5. Do you think the protest reflected the majority opinion of draft-age men?

Yes, 12%; No, 79%; Undecided, 9%.

Do you think the communist party and groups of communist sympathizers are behind the action and are the leaders of it?

Yes, 42%; No, 18%; Undecided, 7%; Partially, 33%.

Have you considered burning your draft card?

Yes, 6%; No, 89%; Undecided, 4%; In part, 1%.

6. If you were a US soldier in Vietnam, to what extent do you think the student protests would affect your morale?

Positively, 20%; Negatively, 28%; Very Negatively, 18%; None whatsoever, 20%; Undecided, 14%.

Movie Review

Frank Sinatra Star Of World War Flick

The story centers around Colonel Joseph Ryan, an Air Force officer played by Frank Sinatra, who is captured, having been shot down over Italy, and sent to a POW camp in Central Italy. Shortly after his arrival all the prisoners are put aboard a train bound for Austria. With the aid of British Major Turchan (Frevor Howard) Ryan and the prisoners subdue their German captors and then fight and blast their way through 400 miles of Nazi-controlled Italy to the safety of Switzerland.

Two vintage trains, one for the escapees and one for their Nazi prisoners, were acquired by Robson, the director, for filming. Robson, his cast, and and his crew after having received permission from the Italian government boarded the trains and began filming the picture along the 400-mile journey.

Ryan, aside from being unpopular with his men, commits a few necessary but distinctly unheroic acts in the course of the escape. It goes without saying that the ending of this story is not a glorious one for Ryan. There are no medals or pretty girls waiting for him at the end of the line.

Dave Veneklasen Mng. Ed.

More Greek Fraternities

Rush season is over. The bids have been cast. Fraternity men can sleep nights without the question being in their mind "Which way is he going to pledge?" Rush chairmen can stop biting their nails. Peace has once again settled over Presbyterian College.

Rush season is the thing most dreaded by many Greeks; the time people listen at doors; spy on each other and sling mud. Fraternity men deplete their pocketboks. Treasuries are drained on rush parties.

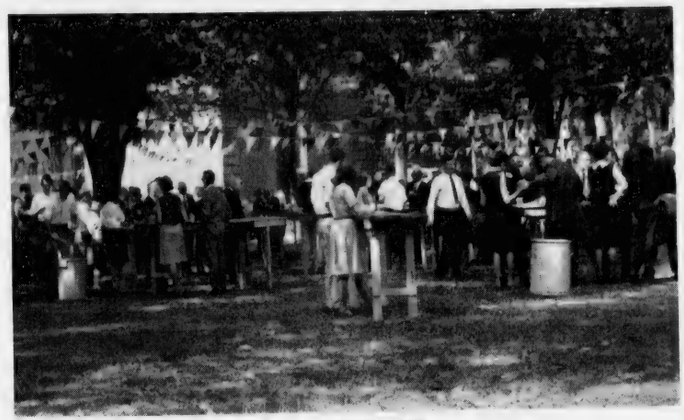
DAVE

Is it all really worth it? Fraternities had to rush in order to survive in the past. This year things have changed somewhat. It's getting so you just about have to rush a fraternity and commit in order to receive a bid. Looks mighty similar to the large university fraternity system.

What about the potential rushee? Now here is an individual who is thoroughly confused about what fraternities are all about. If within a week after he arrives on campus he doesn't show any indication of really being sharp or showing at least a little interest in a fraternity he is dropped from consideration.

Rush season is a trial period when fraternities are looking at freshmen and vice versa. Complete strangers walk up to a freshman and say, "How about a blind date at Converse"? or "Let's go to Winthrop". They pile into a car and take off to the headpackers. The result—"a snow job". The rushee looks around and sees how many other freshmen are present and goes into some minor mathematical figuring. Sixty-five places in the fraternity minus the number of brothers and pledges leaves X number of openings. The only way to insure that his name is in one of the openings is to pull out the stops and sell himself to the fraternity.

The sad result of all this is every fraternity filled to the brim and many students walking around campus who really should be a member of one. Within the fraternities factions will form and dissension occur. The real purpose of the fraternity system is destroyed. It's impossible to really get to know sixty-five people as brothers.



The sensible solution points toward more Greek letter fraternities on the Presbyterian College campus. The problem is under study before the Intefraternity Council. Before the situation gets out of hand and more students are enrolled an answer must be found.

While on the subject of rush season and fraternities, a word of praise should go out to Pat Brown and the IFC. Rush season has gone the smoothest and been the best managed it has been in a long time.

HOMECOMING 1965 STYLE

Gov. McNair
. . . Among those present

Barbecue beside Belk
Students and alumni were invited to a barbecue lunch held under the oaks between Belk Auditorium and Bailey Dormitory

Town Criers were in concert Friday
The Town Criers of Georgia Tech entertained a full-capacity crowd

Queen Amelia (Nichols) Crowned
President Weersing makes full use of his authority

Photos by Yarborough

And the Blue Hose did ground the Paladins
ASP's placed first in display competition and won $25

Mackey and Joey
. . . Rendering usual above-par performance

Hall Reminisces On Trip Abroad

By Woody Hall

I was one of thirty-five Americans, predominantly students, who sailed from Montreal, Canada, aboard the Empress of England this past June 17th. The week's crossing of the North Atlantic gave me a chance, after nine months of regimented study, to "unwind" and acclimate myself for a full and glorious summer.

We landed in Liverpool and proceeded toward London, but not without spending an evening at Stratford-on-Avon, where we saw The Merchant of Venice at the Shakespearian Theatre. We also visited the campus of Oxford University, where a friend of mine is presently enrolled.

In London, Hyde Park and Speaker's Corner made a lasting impression. The Corner is literally a stage for public speakers. Anyone who had a gripe or protest seemed to be on hand and had a vast participating audience. I heard a Communist, a Socialist, an atheist, a Catholic, a Protestant, a homosexual, and a Salvation Army officer plea zealously for their respective causes.

By overnight steamer, we journeyed over the North Sea to Denmark and Copenhagen. What I remember most vividly about Copenhagen are its world-famous Tivoli Gardens, which can be likened to a glorified state fair. A cross-section of the world shared its musical concerts, its dances, its carnival, its souvenir shops, its sidewalk cafes, and the beauty of its formal gardens.

From Copenhagen we flew to Amsterdam in the Netherlands. Not only did we see the historical side, in the form of old Dutch towns and cheese factories, but our director gave us a guided tour of the "red-light" district

Prostitutes
Amsterdam has reputation

on Canal Street. Prostitution is legal in most European countries. Every hamlet or city has its Canal Street, but Amsterdam claims the Canal Street.

Prostitutes openly display their trade and concoct their red-lights from every conceivable material. Police patrol this area but only to prevent misdemeanors. The government provides monthly health inspections and takes a percentage of the lucrative revenue in return.

Bypassing Brussels and its lace, where the only significant memory is the remnant of the 1958 World's Fair, I would like to relate some facts and impressions in regard to Germany. One afternoon we stopped at Dachau, near Munich, the scene of one of the grim concentration camps where thousands perished during the terrible days of the Nazi regime in Germany. We saw the gas chambers and the crematorium, which are ever-present and constant reminders of "man's inhumanity to man."

Along the historic Rhine River we saw quaint towns and historic castles, beautiful beyond description. At Rothenburg, an old walled city, I purchased a Bavarian guitar which we enjoyed for the remainder of the trip.

We also visited the Deinhard wine and champagne cellars. In Germany wine and beer are more plentiful than ice water, and ice water is served in wine glasses upon request. Tots and teenagers are practically weaned on beer in Germany.

In Salzburg, Austria, the land of "The Sound of Music," we viewed the most picturesque mountains conceivable. From there we motored to Italy, a land of contrast, where the very very poor and dejected-looking peasants mingle in the streets with a very affluent society.

. . . on Canal Street
Police sanction the area

In Florence, which is renowned for leather goods. I remember particularly the museums containing the works of Michelangelo, especially the statue of David. Venice is known for its canals and glass-work, but I like to recall a personal experience there. Our last night there a friend and I saw an impromptu concert at San Marco Square. A small group of Italian teenagers were playing guitars and singing. Somehow, without forethought, I found myself with one of their guitars in my hand. They seemed to enjoy especially our rendition of "Scotch and Soda," and we thus felt an affinity.

In Rome, "the Eternal City," we visited places I have always read and heard about: the Coliseum, the Vatican, the Forum, and the Catacombs. The opera Aida, presented in the Baths of Caracalla, is what I remember most vividly. At one time over three hundred people were on the stage, and a horse-drawn carriage was driven full-blast onto the stage.

Switzerland, with its chalets strewn over the mountainside, is a land of peace and tranquility. We visited the idyllic town of Zermatt, high in the Alps at the foot of the Matterhorn.

Leaving Switzerland we flew over the Alps to Paris. Paris is a historical city, the site of the Arch of Triumph, nearby Malmaison and Versailles, and the Louvre houses the Mona Lisa. Napoleon's bed at Malmaison appears to be a youth's bed; but I understand that the French, although short of stature today, were even shorter a few centuries ago.

A visit to Paris would not be complete without seeing the "Follies Bergere." The nudity amazed me at first, but later I realized that there was more than sex to the "Follies." The costumes were elaborate and costly, and the performance was one of precision.

The book stalls at the Sorbonne invite browsing and perusal of the books offered for sale. Vast numbers of Parisians frequent the stalls.

On one occasion I witnessed French tempermant and wrath first-hand. A French artist, upon our refusal to purchase a poor portrait which he had made of one of our group, resounded us grily and shouted anti-American statements.

Via Air France we flew nonstop from Paris to New York and then home. In less than eleven hours we flew over five thousand miles, thus ending a wonderful summer. What an investment for less than $2,000!

Besides having a wonderful vacation, we had an opportunity to visit the "old country" and witness first-hand the renewed prosperity of Europe — the absence of unemployment, the complete mobilization of the people in the trades and businesses. Over there there seems to be a general sense of confidence that peace will reign for many years between Europe and America.

One Dutchman explained, "Only a generation that does not know war will bring it again." The present generation has lived with war and suffered in it. Like us Americans they desire peace among all nations.

Draft Call Largest Since Korea; Deferments More Closely Screened

by William Grant
The Collegiate Press Service

WASHINGTON (CPS) — With the October and November draft calls the largest since the Korean War, the nation's draft boards are set to look at requests for student deferments with a more discerning eye.

The Selective Service System has no intention of abandoning deferments for students in colleges and universities but, under the tighter policy, draft boards will be picking up some deferred students who are not attending school full time or who are not making satisfactory progress in their classes.

Last January the total nationwide draft call was only 5,400 men. In February, it dropped to 3,000. The Vietnam crises shot the draft call to 7,900 in March; 13,700 in April; 15,100 in May; 17,000 in June; 17,100 in July, and 16,500 in August.

Then, on July 28 President Lyndon Johnson announced that a September call of 27,000 men would be necessary in order to meet the increased commitment in Vietnam.

Even at that time most state Selective Service men were quoted as saying they didn't feel the new figures would cause any change in the draft status of most men because "draft pools" were large enough to take care of the increased demands. In most states, draft officials were quoted, some off the record, as saying that married men with no other dependents still need not fear the draft. Under a 1963 order by President Kennedy, married men with no children were not to be drafted as long as single men were available.

But the Defense Department announced an October call of 33,000 and recently announced its November call of 36,450—the two largest calls since the end of the Korean War. And in November, for the first time since Korea, the draft will include men for the Marine Corps.

Some states began to backtrack on their previous statements about married men and many conceded that it would be necessary to take married men "sometime in the fall."

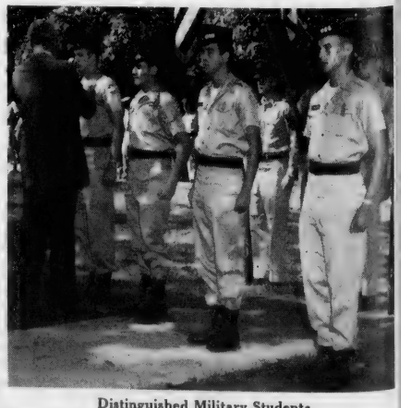
On August 26, President Johnson dropped his well-remembered bombshell and announced he had revoked President Kennedy's order and that from now on married men without children would be considered the same as single men as far as the draft is concerned.

Trying to beat the order's midnight deadline, young couples sought out marriage spots like Los Vegas, Nev. Some made it and got married before midnight.

But Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the Selective System, observed, "I believe these couples will find they didn't beat any deadline. We'll get most of them—in four or five months."

The facts remain that with the increased draft calls local boards are rapidly running out of single men between the ages of 19 and 26—the present induction limits —and the childless married men are the next to go.

Music Dept. Given Band Arrangements



Presbyterian's Music Department has received a valuable gift of band music from Mr. Melvin Riggs, Assistant Professor of Education. The musical selections, formally owned by Mr. Riggs, were designed for use in any manner.

"It will be a while before Presbyterian College has a band, but this library of music will certainly help to get a band program off to a good start," commented Mr. Gaines, head of the music department.

All those students who are interested in forming a band should see Mr. Gaines as soon as possible.

Juniors Sworn In
Juniors in Advanced ROTC take oath of induction

Distinguished Military Students
From left to right: Buddy Guy, Neill Lindsay, Henry Lovett, Roland Matson. Jimmy Bankhead not pictured.

IM Football Season Nears End; Pounders Picked to Grab Title

by Mike Simons

The 1965 All-Star game Friday, October 29, will bring to a close one of the most successful intramural football seasons in recent years, according to Bill Crowley, assistant chairman of the intramural program. The All-Stars, the best from all the teams except the championship winner, will play the team which wins the intramural football crown. Each team will select the player it thinks is the best at each position and these selections will be turned in to Crowley, who will tabulate the votes. The teams cannot nominate members of their own teams as All-Star candidates.

The way things look now, the All-Stars will probably be playing the Pounders, currently holding down the top spot with a perfect 6-0 record with only one game remaining. The Pounders are assured of at least a tie for finish with the Sigma Nu's, if the Sigma Nu's win their last game and the Pounders lose theirs. The Sigma Nu's sport a 5-1 record, their only loss coming at the hands of the Pounders, 7-6 in a hard-nosed contest. If the season ends in a tie, there will be a play-off to determine the winner.

After football season ends, however, there will be no rest for the football field, which will be the scene of intercollegiate soccer competition. Crowley reports that inquiries have already been sent out to such schools as Emory, South Carolina, Newberry, Erskine, and Emory-at-Oxford pertaining to soccer matches. Crowley points out that soccer will be on the intercollegiate level. Although a definite schedule has not yet been worked out, it is a fact that PC will have soccer this year.

Elsewhere on the intramural front, basketball, pool, ping pong, and swimming will all be starting soon. Pool and ping pong both start the eighth of November, with swimming coming on the twelfth, and basketball on the fifteenth. The complete team rosters for all of these sports must be in by November 5th.

Crowley said he hoped that the remainder of the intramural season went as smoothly as football season did. Crowley commended the officiating and stated that this season was much better than those of the past. Crowley also was pleased with the small number of injuries received this season. While there were some mishaps this season, they were not as frequent as in past seasons nor were they as serious.

Standings

1.	Pounders	(6-0)
2.	Sigma Nu	(5-1)
3.	Pi Kappa Alpha	(2-1)
4.	Bandits	(2-2)
	Kappa Alpha	(2-2)
	Theta Chi	(2-2)
5.	Vetville	(2-1)
6.	Alpha Sigma Phi	(1-3)

Brownie Johnson leads all scorings with Pete Collins and Crowley following in the scoring race. Johnson has tallied seven touchowns for a total of 42 points.

Conference Evaluation

Bill Bassham, Sports Editor

The Carolina's Conference race seems to get more hectic as the weeks go by. Every week it seems the standings have been put into a dice tumbler and thrown out. Three different teams have held the lead at one time or another. Through the midway point of the season Lenoir Rhyne is sitting on top with an unblemished three wins and no losses record.

The Bears from Hickory have run roughshod over conference opponents Presbyterian, Newberry, and Appalachian. However, Newberry and Appalachian have had disappointing seasons, and PC had not found a quarterback when they played. They still have to face Western Carolina and Catawba.

Outside of the conference Lenoir Rhyne is winless in two starts, dropping close games to Wofford and Frederick. With Wayne Bell at the controls the Bears rate as favorites at this time to be the conference champs.

Following close behind are Western Carolina and Catawba. Both teams have lost one conference game and are four and one overall.

Catawba has already played Western Carolina, defeating them 18-13. The Indians have also beaten Appalachian but lost an upset to Newberry. They still have to face Elon, Guilford, and Lenoir Rhyne.

Western Carolina has beaten Appalachian and Guilford. The Catamounts still must face Lenoir Rhyne, Elon, Newberry, and PC.

The probable dark horses in the conference seem to be either Guilford or PC. Both teams have won one and lost one overall and have identical three and two records.

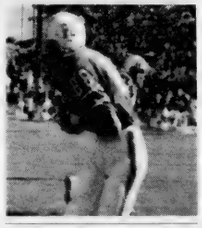
The Quakers, led by the passing of quarterback Jim Williams to halfback Henry McKay, have beaten Elon while losing to Western Carolina. They have only two conference games remaining with Newberry and Catawba which probably makes them more doubtful than PC.

After a slow start the Blue Hose have come on strong, winning their last three games. The conference win came over Elon and the loss was to Lenoir Rhyne.

PC, however, has found a passer in Bill Kirtland who can get the ball to Jimmy Bankhead, Richard Reed, or James Smith. Kirtland's passing has opened up the Blue Hose running game.

The Blue Hose rushed for 350 yards last week against a strong Furman team. Ground leaders for PC have been Sam Williams, Wade Stewart, Jim Johnson, and Dan Eckstein. Injured Don McNeil has been a capable rusher also.

With the momentum PC has picked up, the Hose could definitely go all the way. They have conference games left with Appalachian, Western Carolina, and Newberry. The only disadvantage is that all these games are away from home. Presbyterian's eight straight wins have proved them to be tough to beat at home.



CONFERENCE STANDINGS

	Conference	Overall
Lenoir Rhyne	3-0-0	3-2-0
Western Carolina	2-1-0	4-1-0
Catawba	2-1-0	4-1-0
Presbyterian	1-1-0	3-2-0
Guilford	1-1-0	3-2-0
Appalachian	2-3-0	2-3-0
Newberry	1-2-0	1-4-0
Elon	0-3-0	1-4-0

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Presbyterian (idle)
Carson-Newman	at Appalachian
Elon	at Catawba
Guilford	at Western Carolina
Furman	at Newberry

BLUE STOCKING
SPORTS

CC Teams Fall Below .500 In Rough Action Last Week

The Carolina's Conference football season is now entering the final half, and the competition is getting rougher as all the teams make their bids for the conference championship.

This past week's action saw three of the Conference members coming out on top. They were Presbyterian, who dropped Furman 14 to 7, Western Carolnia, who registered a score of 40-0 over Mars Hill, and Catawba, who tromped Appalachian, 32 to 7.

The rest of the members didn't come out so lucky: William and Mary beat Guilford 26-40; Frederick edged Lenoir Rhyne 27 to 20, Carson-Newman popped Elon 18-0, and Wofford defeated Newberry 19 to 7.

All of the teams see action this week except Presbyterian who will enjoy a week formulating new strategy for the last home game against Troy State.

If the Hose can continue to play as well as they have, the opportunities are excellent for capturing the Conference trophy in our first year of competition in the Carolinas' Conference.

Blue Stocks Beat FU

The Presbyterian College rifle team defeated Furman in a match at Furman last Saturday, October 16. The final score was 1220 to 1155. The two high scorers for PC were Cadet Lockwood with 260 and Cadet Pamplin with 258.

The rifle team will travel to Spartanburg for a match with Wofford College this week.

When asked how the team would do this year, Sergeant Creel stated, "I am not sure. The team was defeated by the Clemson team which is the best in the ACC. We are glad to leave that match behind us and are looking for the rest of the season to be successful."

Roundballers Show Great Potential

Seldom has there been as much to look forward to as the '65-'66 edition of the Blue Hose basketball team. Coach Art Musselman, now in his fourth season as the Hose mentor, has seven returning lettermen and six promising freshmen. Back from last year's squad are seniors Gordan Adam, a co-captain, and Doug Allen, Richard Quillen, Bob McGregor, and Ken Martin are all sophomores and are slated to start. Steve Stine, a transfer student from Maryland has joined the team and will add depth to the guard spot.

A probable freshman starter is 6-9 Jim Kiser of Gaffney, an all-stater in high school, who could help the Hose at center. Another big man is 6-7 Doug MacLeod, another all-state choice from Hingham, Mass. John Lown and John Walther, both fresh from A. C. Flora, the state's second ranked team, add needed depth to the lineup. David Hudson of Myrtle Beach figures in the Hose plan also. At the close of the football season, the team will add Jimmy Bankhead of Chester and sophomore center Richard Reed to the roster.

UP
Camera not fast enough

Photos by Hart

. . . And IN
. . . to prevent blurr

TOP INDIVIDUAL PERFORMANCES

RUSHING

Player	Carries	Yards	Avg.
Williams	51	255	5
Stewart	34	210	6.2
Eckstein	32	130	4.1
Johnson	17	54	3.2

PASSING

Player	Attempts	Comp	Yards
Kirtland	46	24	309
Ferguson	14	5	87

PASS RECEIVING

Player	Passes Caught	Yards Gained
Reed	6	80
James Smith	6	74
Eckstein	5	111
Bankhead	5	53

Campus News Briefs

Teachers' Exam Schedule Released

The National Teachers' Exam Schedule for this year has been received by Mr. Riggs, Assistant Professor of Education. Dates of these exams are: December 11, 1965; March 19, 1966; July 16, 1966; and October 8, 1966. Respective deadlines are: November 12, 1965; February 18, 1966; June 17, 1966; and September 9, 1966. The exams will be held in various centers over the state.

It is suggested that students use the March date in order to be fully certified for the Sept., 1966, school term. January graduates, who expect to teach the second semester of this school year, should avail themselves of the December date because their salary will be affected.

Chapel Schedule

Chapel schedule for week of October 25-29.

Monday—Play by P. C. Drama Group.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service. Dr. Stuart B. Babbage, Professor of Apologetics and Church History, Columbia Theological Seminary Decatur, Ga.

Friday—Mr. Ellis McDougall, Director, South Carolina Department of Corrections.

Student Council Reports

By Henry Lovett

The Student Council has geared its work this year to the recognition that changes are necessary to the growth and improvements of the student government. Steps have already been taken in this direction.

I recently had the opportunity to attend a meeting held in Tryon, N. C., with leaders of other independent colleges from our state. Like PC, they are experiencing governmental problems. It is hoped that the future meetings of this sort that have been planned will result in progressive, concrete suggestions to the benefit of all.

There are definite advantages in belonging to this type of organization, stemming from the similarities between the participating schools. All are church-supported and all compare closely as to size.

The ideas for improvement already gained will be discussed with you, the student body, in the near future. As an example of progress now in action, last Monday a delegation from PC visited Wofford for an evaluation session to review their government system.

SUSGA Convention

On October 14-15 Mac Smith, Louis Hart, and Bill Bassham attended the SUSGA publications workshop at Florida State University. It was the sixth annual workshop with over 200 delegates from the Southern states participating.

SUSGA is the Southern Universities Student Government Association. It was started ten years ago to further relations between Southern colleges and universities. There are 75 members of SUSGA now.

The opening session of the workshop was presided over by Wayne Seabott of Western Georgia who is this year's SUSGA chairman. The vice-chairmen from each state were also introduced.

The delegates were welcomed by James Groot, President of the student body; and Dr. John E. Champion, president of FSU. H. L. Martin, Executive Secretary of SUSGA, briefly explained the organization.

NATIONAL SISTERHOOD CLUB QUEEN—Modine Gunch, the National Sisterhood Club queen for this year will make an appearance on PC's campus next week. Said one skeptic: "She looks like something only a mother could love", to which we answer: "A mother what?"

Pledging

Branam, William Dorn, William Elebash, David Hoffman, Richard Horne, Edgar Lane, George Latimer, Frank Lee, Michael Lefever, Tracy Lindsey.

Also Hayes Martin, John Pate, Frederick Pratt, William Register, Joseph Riddle, William Robertson, Charles Robinson, William Scott, Stanley Sibley, William Thompson, Doug Catoe.

Pledging Alpha Sigma Phi were:

Dickie Querry, Cloudy Gwynnette, Tim Helgeson, Jim Brewer, Dan Crisp, Burke Robertson, Ashton Blount, Rush Otey, Hunter Ramseur.

Also Tom Ivey, Bobby Byard, Richard Hay, Sidney Dew, Wayne Shugart, Jim Page, Tommy Efland, John Greer, Ray Combs.

Added to the ranks of Kappa Alpha were:

Mack Binion, Bo Brownell, Arthur Clements, Jack Coward, Elbert Felder, Tom Gower, Dan Hartley, John Erwin, Tom Kaplan, Tom Lovett, John McNeill, James McNeese, Sam Pruett, Jim Roberts, Ward Stone, James Wade.

Pledging Pi Kappa Phi:

Dave Austin, Danny Brown, Larry Bullis, Bob Gaw, Collin Grey, Jerry Holland, Al Hudgins, Tom Jackson, Russ McAllister, Tom McDaniel, Chip Moore, Ken Morrison, Jack Phillips, Dan Roberts, John Scarborough, Steve Banakas, Terrell Owen.

Bordner, Marshall Awarded ROTC Full Tuition Grants

David Bordner and Grady Marshall, juniors at Presbyterian, are among 600 college students who have been selected to receive the first two-year Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarships ever to be given by the Army.

The awards were made to outstanding ROTC students entering their junior year of college. Each scholarship will pay for tuition, textbooks and fees and will provide the recipients with an allowance of $50 a month for the duration of their award.

Marshall is from Hapeville, Georgia and Bordner hails from Atlanta, Georgia.

They were nominated by the Professor of Military Science and PC officials on the basis of their academic and extracurricular record, performance during the first two years of ROTC and scores on the ROTC qualification test. Interviews by Army officers and faculty members were held with the nominees to determine that they were highly motivated toward a career as an Army officer.

The scholarships are the first to be awarded to students in the Army ROTC program, which provides approximately 85% of the new officers entering the Army each year. This is approximately twenty times the number of officers commissioned at West Point each year.

This year about 11,800 ROTC graduates from 247 colleges and universities are being commissioned as second lieutenants in the Regular Army or Army Reserve.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy

Stationery, School Supplies

FAWN HOSE, pr. 59c

PICKFAIR PLACE COATS

from 39.95

The Tweed Shop

S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE

Cleaners

. . . and . . .

Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists

Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria

Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

SERGEANT DEADHEAD

Fred Clark, Gale Gordon, Reginald Gardiner, Harvey Lembeck, Buster Keaton, Eve Arden.

MONDAY and TUESDAY

CAT BALLOU

Jane Fonda yand Lee Marvin

STARTS WED., OCT. 27

VON RYAN'S EXPRESS

Frank Sinatra, Trevor Howard

IF THAT SUNDAY NIGHT MEAL,

JUST DON'T SEEM TO APPEAL,

THE WRANGLER'S GOT PRICES THAT REALLY ARE A STEAL

"The Wrangler"

Hamburger Steak $1.25

Sirloin For Two $5.00

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, November 5, 1965 — No. 5

Eleven Leading Students Are Chosen Who's Who

By Rob Dalton

Eleven Presbyterian College seniors have been given the highest honor which an undergraduate of PC can receive—being listed in the 1965-66 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Students selected were David G. Davies, Jr., Earl P. Guy, James H. Johnson, Thomas M. Leland, Henry B. Lovett, Lewis Russell Nelson, Amelia Nichols, J. Phillip Olmert, James B. Stanford, Dan M. Taylor, and Sam C. Waters.

Selection by Who's Who starts with the Faculty-Student Activities Committee which is headed by Richard Adams and composed entirely of faculty members. The committee draws up a list of outstanding seniors and submits the list to the faculty for approval. Then the names approved are sent to Who's Who which makes the final selection.

Blue Key President David Davies of Panama City, Florida, is on the Student Council and a member of Kappa Alpha Order.

Earl P. Guy is president of the senior class and belongs to Alpha Sigma Phi. The Clinton native has been president of his class for the past two years.

Georgiana, Alabama, native Jim Johnson is vice-president of the junior class, a brother in Pi Kappa Alpha, and class representative to the Student Council.

Tom Leland is from Summerville and is the current editor of the PaC SaC.

Kingstree native, Henry Lovett, is president of the Student Council this year.

Russell Nelson, this year's Student Council vice-president, is from Thomson, Georgia, and is also vice-president of Theta Chi.

The only woman chosen was Amelia Nichols of Clinton, who is secretary of the SCA and senior representative to the Women's Dorm Council.

Phil Olmert of Bishopville is Business Manager of the PaC SaC, vice-president of the SCA and a brother in Pi Kappa Alpha.

SCA President Jim Stanford of Decatur, Georgia, is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Head Proctor Dan Taylor of Atlanta, Georgia, is president of Kappa Alpha Order.

Sam Waters, editor of The Blue Stocking, is from Lugoff and is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi.

Annual Parent's Day Program Produces Record Turn-Out

Over 1,000 visitors were on the Presbyterian College campus last week-end for the college's Ninth Annual Parents Day pogram.

This number is 200 above the previous record which was established last year, and 100 above the number that was expected.

Blue Key members opened the Saturday afternoon program with tours of the campus. Following the tours a program of welcome and entertainment was held in Belk Auditorium.

Henry Lovett, Student Body President, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the students. College President Dr. Marc C. Weersing spoke to them on what the future holds for Presbyterian College.

"The Other Five", a singing group from the campus, performed; members of the group are Mary Anne Arnett, Steve Banakas, Don Dillard, Angie Reyes, and Sarah Stribling. PC students Joey and Mac Singleton of Conway also entertained the parents.

"Aria da Capo", a one-act play by Edna St. Vincent Milay, was presented by the Presbyterian College Dramatics Group. This was the newly-formed group's first production. The College Choir presented several selections at the close of the program.

Dinner in Greenville Hall was followed by Open House in the fraternity rooms and the Clinton Hall parlors.

The PC victory over Troy State on Johnson Field added the final touch to the Ninth Annual Parents Day.

Calder, Eminent British Authority, Sees 'World of Vast Opportunity'

By Woody Hall

Dr. Ritchie Calder, Danforth visiting lecturer on international affairs, spoke in Belk Auditorium Wednesday during chapel. He appeared as part of a program sponsored jointly by the Danforth Foundation and the Association of American Colleges.

Dr. Calder, professor of international relations at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, entitled his remarks "The World of Opportunity". As his premise Dr. Calder stated that we live in a "university of the world". The generation living in this "university" is a unique generation because the Atomic Age has changed the whole nature of our world.

Actually, the world is the same as it always has been. He qualified his remark by stating that all NASA and its space program are doing is showing us that what astronomers believed in the past is actually true. We would just not believe their assumptions to be accurate. Another reason why this new generation is unique according to Calder is there are three billion people living in the world today. Thirty years from now, this figure will have doubled. This is a progeny of scientific advancement. The population explosion actually began ten years before the Atomic Age with the development of methods to attack disease within the body.

"Since 1945 more lives have been saved by penicillin than have been lost in all the wars of history". Not only are people cured from infectious diseases, but more people live longer than in the past and with less likelihood of contracting these infectious diseases.

He continued, "We cannot escape this changing world in which we are living". No part of the world is inaccessible because "modern communication has made everyone politically conscious. As a result the problem arises of how to put these technological devices to their best and most efficient use".

Americans are worrying about what to do with their increased spare time, and yet two-thirds of the world is starving. Dr. Calder says that while it is all very good to say, "Give of your abundance and be generous", this is not the solution. We need to develop a program of "enlightened self-interest". We must help these unfortunates to help themselves because by 1975 the United States will be dependent on these under-developed nations for over fifty per cent of its raw materials.

Calder believes that this is the program upon which the United Nations is placing its most concentrated emphasis. Eighty per cent of its total effort is being routed in this direction. Helping people to help themselves is in

See Calder, Col. 4, Page 4

DR. RITCHIE CALDER

"We cannot escape this changing world . . ."

Graduates In Hotseat; December Call 45,224

CPS—Students, especially graduate students, are finding themselves in the Selective Service hotseat as local draft boards begin to tighten their requirements for student deferments.

The extent to which students will be called in the next few months cannot be accurately determined since local draft boards set their own standards in this regard. What is certain, however, is that some students will be called. In fact, some have already been ordered to appear for physicals—the first step in the induction process.

Behind it all is the rising monthly draft quotas because of the build up of forces in Vietnam and the expansion of active-duty forces to three million—an increase of some 300,000. The build up in Vietnam and the expansion of the number of men on active duty were ordered by the President this summer. Since then draft calls have risen each month to levels that are the highest since the end of the Korean War. The December call will be 45,224.

Although the policy of national headquqarters is to encourage the deferment of students, some local boards have found themselves unable to meet their quotas without a severe tightening of the requirements for student deferment.

The request by the national

See Draft, Col. 3, Page 4

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325

SAM WATERS, Editor — MERRIE STANCILL, Ass't. Editor — DAVE VENEKLASEN, Mng. Editor

Page Two — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Nov. 5, 1965 — No. 5

'The Restless Ones'

Presbyterian College is an institution of higher learning for young men and women with the purpose of educating them in a distinctly Christian context. If this statement is true and the college calims to live up to its established purpose, its student body should have a "distinctive Christian atmosphere" about it also.

A statement was made a few weeks ago by one of the college's new professors who has been associated with a number of colleges and universities around the country for the past few years before coming to PC. The professor observed that other schools throughout the United States, who were not associated or affiliated with any church had far more religious interaction among their students than this college does, which is supported and controlled by Presbyterian Synods of Georgia and South Carolina.

This observation on the part of the professor definitely has a great deal to say about this institution's way of indoctrinating its young men and women into the religious context it claims to maintain. Other schools throughout South Carolina seem to have this problem of being a "non-religious, religious school". If this is true, there definitely should be some steps taken to do something about this fact at our institution, if nothing else but to reassure itself of being "Presbyterian College".

The trouble seems to lie in the fact that in trying to maintain the Christian context that the college says it has, it is forcing religion down the students' throats to the extent that they react to it by not reacting.

A parallel can be drawn between this problem at PC and the United States problem in Vietnam. It is the general assumption by many of our countries' leaders that the war in Vietnam can only be won by bringing the Vietnamese people over to the side of democracy. In California this year a conference is to be held, made up of the major democratic nations of the world, with the theme of "Democracy Is Not For Export." The purpose of the California meeting is to insure that democracy is not enforced on a country, as in Vietnam, but has the principles of democracy instilled within the countries' society. In other words, the people must do the work of becoming Democratic themselves.

This theme, evident in international relations, can also be applied on our campus. The students must want to be of a Christian nature before the college can point them in the right direction. Therefore, colleges, along with PC, should extend their religious doctrines in principle to the students rather than by force.

The generation in college today is the richest in material wealth that has ever existed. As wealth was a great factor in the Old Testament Jews forgetting their God, so does wealth today give a person a feeling of confidence that he can manage his own problems. There seems to be no need for the God of the "troubled times". Consequently He is neatly tucked away until a new crisis emerges.

This is the problem on every campus today. The religion of the War and depression years has lost its sting in today's prosperous world. The answer for puzzled churchmen and ministers is a hard one to accept and even harder to put into effect. Religion has to be revitalized; its standard lecture methods are falling on deaf ears. The church has either got to attempt new, radical and pointed approaches, or begin praying for another depression or World War.

The answer to this problem at PC is doing away with its "chapel complex". More speakers must be brought to the campus who have a controversial nature in regard to religion such as an atheist, a Jewish Rabbi, a Christian Scientist, or a Mormon. This certainly would make the student sit up, and in doing so, turn themselves inward rather than outward in regard to the college's presentation of religion.

Movie Review

'Help' Actually Has a Plot

By Will Akers

The latest Beatle box office hit has considerably more to offer than the first Beatle movie A Hard Day's Night. The dialogue in Help, between the young singer-actors is almost intelligible and the movie actually sports a plot which was sadly lacking in their previous movie.

By accident, Ringo (naturally), has acquired a strange ring which he can't remove from his finger. Unknown to him and John, Paul and George, this ring belongs to some mystic religious cult who always sacrifices the wearer of the ring. This bizarre cult, headed by a fat sultan and a good looking priestess, initially, try to remove the ring, through various and often hilarious little tricks. When their efforts fail it is decided that Ringo must be sacrificed. The bad guys chase Ringo and company all over England and finally into Nassau before Ringo is able to rid himself of the ring and get himself out of hot water.

Although Help will win no Oscars, it is a funny movie, and it contains some usual values such as the Good guys in a huge pasture guarded by British tanks and marines. The Beatles may not be competent actors, but any true Beatle admirer will enjoy the many current hits which are sung throughout the movie.

Columnist Tells How to Win At U of C's Berkeley Campus

(ACP)—(The following column was written by Thom Fraser in the Daily Tar Heel, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.)

University of California researchers at Berkeley recently told their professional colleagues that campus protest leaders are "the nucleus of future scholarship".

What is not known however, is Berkeley's new graduate school admission policy. To get the inside dope, I interviewed Koob Edgelwonk, who, although he graduated from the University of North Carolina with a 4.00 and an impressive record in student government, was turned down at Berkeley. He wanted to work for a Ph.D. in nuclear physics there.

"You look extremely qualified," the admissions officer said, "yet you have a 4.00 average without ever having belonged to the Free Speech Movement."

"Yes, sir," answered Koob very respectfully.

"We're sorry" the admissions officer said, "but we must rely on past deeds, not just on ability. Judging from your record, I would say you lack the motivation one needs to succed at Berkeley."

Six months later, Koob revisited Berkeley after changing his identity. He wore dark glasses ,a dirty T-shirt, and sandals. What's more, he did not hesitiate before accepting the marijuna cigarette offered him by the interviewer.

Koob casually remarked that he had barely managed to graduate from UNC, that he had been suspended from school several times at the request of the governor, and that he used LSD (a hallucinatory drug).

Two weeks later he received a letter from Berkeley. "Dear Mr. Edgelwonk," it read. "We have been checking and have found that you have neve been disciplined by the school as you said you were, and furthermore, that Chief Beaumont has never arrested you for smoking marijuna. We find you to be an intellectual fraud."

Depressed, Koob ran out into the middle of Franklin St. and began screaming obscenities at the top of his lungs. When the authorities threw him into the paddy wagon, Koob said he was merely expressing his right of fre espeech.

Meanwhile, back at Berkeley, the admissions officers read about the incident. The next day they paid Koob's bail so he could immediately take advantage of a $6,000 scholarship offered by their physics department.

Dave Veneklasen Mng. Ed.

Bailey Goes Female

Homecoming weekend presented a problem to the student body that seems will only get worse in the future. It deals with where to keep dates on dance weekends. In the past Clinton townspeople have generously opened their doors to students' dates. Somehow over the past few years the relationship between Clintonians and PC students has gradually worsened. Townspeople have become reluctant to house dates on dance weekends.

DAVE

Motels in the general area of Clinton have outrightly refused to keep dates for students. The answer given "We just don't rent to Presbyterian College". If the motels are willing to rent rooms they raise the price. Ever wonder what Martin Luther King would do in a case like this? This is not an endorsement for demonstrations or cross burning at your local Clinton Hilton.

The opening of Clinton Hall Homecoming helped to solve the problem somewhat although certain students did violate the privilege of deciding at the last minute they had a better deal elsewhere. This created problems in planning for accommodations in the dorm. Nonetheless was a step in the right direction.

Davidson uses a system where the boy's dorm is vacated on dance weekends and turned over to dates. This points toward the use of Bailey or similar dorm on dance weekends. Residents could double up in other dorms where couches and empty beds are available.

Dates could be governed by rules similar to those imposed on coeds on dance weekends. While this solution may not be the best it seems to be the most practical in terms of convenience and least strain on the ever empty student's pocketbook.

Hose Head North With Victory String; Fight Mountaineers for Second CC Win

By Mike Simons

After capturing four straight victories at home, the Blue Hose will hit the road for their remaining four games. The first of these road games will be a conference affair against the Appalachian Mountaineers of Coach Earl Messer in Boone, North Carolina.

The Mountaineers have been the surprise team of the Carolinas Conference this fall, having posted a 3-4 record in what was originally labeled as a rebuilding year. Appalachian returned only ten lettermen from last year's squad which posted a fine 6-3 mark. Included in these lettermen is Appalachian's top - noted quarterback, Guy Flynt, who set an all-time passing record against the Hose last year by throwing for 153 yards.

Also returning is halfback Wayne Byrd, who gives the Mountaineers a capable backfield, and Bill Mauldin and center Jerry Price, who compose the core of the line.

PC's Coach Cally Gault says that although the Mountaineers are a young team, they are aggressive and have plenty of spirit and desire. The Mountaineers wil surely be up for this game, trying to gain revenge for a 23-21 loss by a field goal in the last eight seconds in a thriller last year at Clinton.

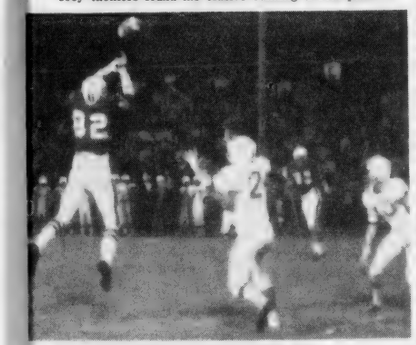
The Appalachian squad has an additional impetus for the PC game since this game will close out the Mountaineers' home season; they would like nothing better than to finish on a winning note before the home town fans.

The Presbyterian squad is in good shape physically with the injuries healing rapidly. They should be at full strength against Appalachian, although the playing status of a few squad members is uncertain. Coach Gault says that the weather gets extremely cold in Boone at this time of the year but that shouldn't have any adverse effects on the squad. Coach Gault says that PC previously has been a good cold weather ball club.

The Hose hold a 7-4 edge in this series, and would like to see their lead increased to 8-4, especially since PC moved into the tough Carolinas Conference. Appalachian has already been eliminated from the conference race by virtue of three conference losses coming at the hands of Western Carolina, Catawba, and Lenoir Rhyne.

These losses coupled with Lenoir Rhyne's perfect 4-0 conference slate, have put Appalachian out of the title race. PC, on the other hand, still has a chance to cop the championship if the other conference teams will cooperate. Lenoir Rhyne will have to lose its two remaining conference games while PC is victorious in its three remaining conference affairs if the Hose are to entertain any title aspirations.

It is clearly evident, therefore, that this game is a big one for the Blue Hose if they wish to remain in the thick of the conference fight. A loss to Appalachian at this stage would knock Presbyterian out of the title contest, regardless of what Lenoir Rhyne does.



Against mutual foes this season the Hose have a slight advantage. Both PC and Appalachian have beaten Elon and lost to Lenoir Rhyne, but the Blue Hose have defeated Wofford, while the Mountaineers lost to the Terriers.

The Blue Hose rate as slight favorites in the game, and Coach Gault says that it "could be a repeat of last year's thriller." The Hose have all the necessary ingredients for victory — incentive, teamwork and ability, as well as a four-game winning streak providing the momentum.

The Mountaineers would really like to stop the Hose's win skein and title hopes, and will pull out all the stops to achieve victory.

JIM JOHNSON ON THE MOVE
Troy tacklers found his elusive running a real pain

BANKHEAD MISSED THIS ONE
Troy State's pass defense wasn't usually so lucky

CONFERENCE STANDINGS

Team	Conference	Overall
Lenoir Rhyne	4-0-0	5-2-0
Catawba	3-1-0	6-1-0
Guilford	2-1-0	5-2-0
Western Carolina	3-2-0	5-2-0
Presbyterian	1-1-0	4-2-0
Appalachian	2-3-0	3-4-0
Newberry	1-3-0	1-6-0
Elon	0-5-0	1-6-0

LAST WEEK'S SCORES

Presbyterian 21	Troy State 0
Guilford 25	Newberry 7
Wofford 22	Appalachian 14
Lenoir Rhyne 21	Carson Newman 12
Western Carolina 26	Elon 14
Catawba 42	Frederick 7

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Presbyterian	at Appalachian
Catawba	at Wofford
Elon	at Newberry
Guilford	at Randolph-Macon
Lenoir Rhyne	at East Carolina
Western Carolina—Open

Bill Bassham

Pounders Win, End Great Season

The most successful intramural season in recent years will wind up this week with the Pounders-All-Star clash. Thanks go out to the six fraternities and the independents who participated. All concerned agree that there was a lot of hard playing but good sportsmanship showed most of the season. There were fewer injuries this year than in the past.

One reason for the success of the season lies in the quality of officiating this year. Ronnie Morris, Buddy Ellisor, George Taylor, and Webb Watters kept the games clean. But after all, who is going to argue over a call made by Ronnie?

Congratulations are due the Pounders who went through the season with a flawless 7-0 mark. They won some close games and gave 100 per cent all the time. They do not have men on the All-Star team, but Pete Collins, Neill McKay, Richard Cash, and Larry Bullis were standouts.

Special thanks also go out to Benny Crabtree and Bill Crowley for their fine job coordinating and supervising intramural activities. They have provided the leadership our intramural program has needed in past years.

The Pounders became the first team in several years to defeat the All-Stars as they pulled off a 20-13 win Thursday afternoon. It was a close game with plenty of excitement and hard hitting.

The Pounders scored the first time they had the ball. Richard Cash passed to Larry Bullis for eight yards on a fourth down pass play. Cash then completed a pass to Don Taylor for the extra point.

The All-Stars came right back behind the passing of Al Todd and some great catches by George Taylor and Bill Crowley. A Todd-Taylor combinaton put the All-Stars on the score board. Todd made the conversion attempt good with a pass to Brownie Johnson.

BASSHAM

The Pounders roared back with a long pass to Don Taylor for 35 yards. The extra point came on a pass to "Hot Dog" Collins. At the half it was 14-7.

At the beginning of the second half the All-Stars drove 80 yards for a touchdown. The extra point came on a pass to Benji Pickens. The try for the point was blocked.

The Pounders rounded out the scoring after Alan Calloway intercepted a pass and returned it to the three-yard lne. Cash ran over for the TD. The extra point attempt was no good.

Besides those scoring for the Pounders others looked good. McKay, Ellison, and Barnett were standouts in blocking. Tommy McDaniel and David Cottngham played a good defensive game.

Pounders Win Football Title; IM All-Star Team Chosen

As the intramural football season closes we find the Pounders on top with a 7-0 slate. Finishing close behind were the Sigma Nu's with a 6-1 record. The Sigs placed five on the All-Star squad. Bill Crowley at end, Eddie Bolton at guard, George Taylor at halfback, Art Sammons blocking back. and Al Todd quarterback.

In third place were the KA's with a 5-3 chart. They placed Ruddy Deas, Christy Patterson, Dave Dunlap, Will Akers, and scoring leader Brownie Johnson on the All-Stars.

The independent Bandits posted a 4-4 season due mainly to the efforts of Jackson Touchberry, but were edged in the playoffs by the PiKA's. Led by ends Don Blanchard and Sandy Lynn, lineman Ed Ellington and Ben Pickens, and backs Walt Todd and Ted Chalgren, the PiKA's posted a 4-3 record.

Vetville and Theta Chi established losing records and failed to place men on the squad.

In last place were the Alpha Sigs. End Buddy Guy, guards John Jones and Morrow Thompson, and halfback Pat Goldsmith received All-Star nominations.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Kid Gloves from $6.00
Etienne Aigner Bags,
Belts and Gloves
The Tweed Shop
S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

"ARIA DA CAPO"—a play presented in chapel Monday, October 25, and again on October 30, Parents Day. The presentation was directed by Dr. H. L. Zillmer, director and head of the drama department. Actors include: Carolyn Colby, Columbine; Rush Otey, Pierrot; Tommy Efland, Cothurmus; Maig Bounds, Thyrsis; and John Jones, Coryden.

Campus News Briefs

SCA Organized On New Lines

By Jim Stanford

In making plans for the coming year and in looking forward to an active year, the SCA officers reorganized the Cabinet for this year along new lines, keeping abreast with our growing and fast changing campus.

This year the officers went "into the dorms" so to speak to select a cabinet. It is felt by doing this that the SCA as an organization can come in closer contact with its members, the student body.

As a Christian organization, we are stressing the fact that we are Christian oriented and that our purpose is "to reveal the value of doing things regardless of their nature, with a Christian attitude and desire". We feel that "worship in the university or college must be worship of the university or college, the worship which Christians there feel it right to offer. Its forms to . . . a youthful technologically minded, democratic community should be . . . those appropriate of Christians". As such, we believe that this worship takes on many forms other than a formalized church service. We can worship through projects, discussions with trained leaders and and among ourselves within the dorm, and even through social events. It is to this end that our Cabinet looks this year.

Taking the statement, " a solitary Christian is no Christian at all", we are united as a group of Christians seeking to know God and to understand ourselves in relation to Him and to the world around us. It has been said that Presbyterian College is a small Christian College for small Christians. However, with an organization as large as the Cabinet and the Association itself and with the desire of our Cabinet for "worship" and service on our campus, this could not be true.

Chapel Schedule

Monday: Student Devotion Jimmy Bankhead.

Wednesday: Chapel Wors Service, Dr. P. D. Miller, Trinity Presbyterian Chur Travelers Rest, S. C.

Friday: Special progra Mr. Wayne Holman, Jr., T tile Executive Day speaker

Chapel will meet at 12 rather than at 10:00. The day 12:00 class will meet 10:00.

Annual Giving $60,00

The Presbyterian College A nual Giving program to d stands at more than two-thi of its record goal, with $60,0 reported thus far for the 1 effort.

President Marc C. Weersin in making the announcemen pointed out the $85,000 objecti represents the largest total y sought by this PC program compares to the $77,118 produce in the record campaign of la year.. He said the 1965 pace ahead of any previous year i this date.

Giving added incentive to t current program is an anony mous challenge grant of $5,0 offered if alumni participation the Annual Giving effort reac es 40%. Thus far, 25% of t PC alumin group are on recor with gifts as the campaign pick up steam for the closing tw months. Alumni participati amounted to 30.5% in 1964.

Of the $60,000 given to dat $44,715 has been earmarked fo Living Endowment purposes, i cluding $7,215 for the Walte Johnson Club. Another $15,0 has been sent directly to th Johnson Club, bringing the tot for this alumni athletic organ zation to $22,500.

Mormons Ban Frug

(ACP) — The frug, swim, jerk, and other "fad dances" were banned from the Brigham Young University campus October 4.

The student government Executive Council voted to prohibit "suggestive" dances it considered contrary to Mormon standards.

University President Ernest L. Wilkinson commended the Council for the "positive action they had taken in dance standards" and said classes were being scheduled to teach students social dancing.

Draft (Cont. from page 1)

Selective Service officials that students be deferred covers graduate students as well as undergraduates. The law officially states that a local board may defer a student whose study "is found to be necessary to maintenance of the national health, safety, and interest."

The clerk of the board said that a registrant's course of study and grades were both considered in granting a deferment. A student of the social sciences would be reclassified 1-A before a student of engineering or the natural sciences, the clerk said.

The law permits a student satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of study to be deferred until the end of the academic year, should he be called for induction. However, only one such deferment is permitted.

Calder (Cont. from page

accordance with the Christi principle of doing the right thi

Dr. Calder closed his re marks by stating, "You ar living in the most advantage ous and the most challenging generation of all times. If you don't read... the signs right you're headed for trouble; I you read them right, you ca be ready to meet that great challenge".

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
OLD YELLER
Dorothy McGuire, Fess Parke

MON.-TUES.-WED.
NOVEMBER 8-9-10
BEACH BALL
Edd Byrnes and Chris Noel

THE GREEKS...

Sororities to Face Extinction?

A University of California sociologist says that sororities, long influential in manipulating the campus social order, now face extinction.

John F. Scott, professor of of California, Davis, California, says that the factors that sociology at the University caused the growth of these social institutions during the first half of the century have changed and that rigidly structured sororities are finding it more and more difficult to mesh with today's highly competitive campus society. I can't understand his grounds for stating the above.

Marriage Control

Dr. Scott, who has studied sororities in detail, says he finds them an outgrowth of society's efforts to control marriage and the selection of the "right man". Well, since sororities are a chief source of finding dates, and since tremendous numbers of sorority women get married each year, I can't understand why Dr. Scott claims sororities to be a marriage control method.

"University administrations are not as hospitable to Greeks as they once were", he says, citing regulation changes that tend to minimize the influence of Greek acvtivities on campus. Extensive dormitory complexes are effectively competing with sorority housing and off-campus activities are proving as popular and as varied as sorority activities.

Academic Pressure A Blow

"But the worst blow of all to the sorority system comes from the effect of increased academic pressure on the dating habits of college men," Scott says. "Academic competition on most campuses is keen and college men no longer have time for the form of courtship that made sororities so exciting" he says. Sure! He must have gotten his information from a fairly reliable source.

Scott concludes that the sorority system, "not likely to yield to change", will no longer be able to sustain itself. "When parents find that sorority membership does their daughter little good, the system as we know it will go into history", he says. As far as a sorority doing "their daughter little good"—that's a matter of opinion, and opinion and freedom of choice and individual rights are a part of fraternities and sororities in our country. Fraternal organizations are excellent examples of a democratic system. So whta grounds does Dr. Scott have for maintaining that sororities do young women little good. I maintain thta sororities, as well as fraternities, do a young person as much good as the student wants them to do. He will get out of this type of organization as much as he puts into it, and this is precisely one of the main purposes of a fraternity or sorority.

I'm not trying to lean on Dr. Scott too heavily here, but I think there is much more to an organization than meets the eye of a critic, who I don't imagine has dated at a sorority house lately or has lived in one and among a group of sorority sisters to determine how much satisfaction a young student can gain from a sorority. Both sororities and fraternities engage themselves in many civic duties in various communities throughout the country, and a student achieves self-satisfaction from this type of activity, if nothing else.

Campus Activities

To get to fraternity activities on our own campus, and dropping the subject of fraternities and sororities in general . . .

The Sigma Nu's are planning a closed party for Saturday from 3 to 12 p.m. at Artie McCall's mountain house on Paris Mountain. Bob Herlong is pinned to Mary Jo Jarrett, and Joe Stevens to Patricia Fergeson. Phil Ward of Kingstree is the newest snake.

From the Kappa Alpha Order: Golden Goose Hart has lavaliered Sendra Glenn from Anderson; Scooter Holcombe has pinned Janet Hamer of Winthrop; and John Gaw has pinned Elaine Dempsey, also of Winthrop.

From Pi Kappa Alpha: Jim Wagers has pinned Becky Godbold; Les Newsome has lavaliered Pam Pinner; and Ben Pickens is lavaliered from Columbia College. Brothers of the Week are Wagers, Pickens, and Stewart.

From the Alpha Sigs: Larry Platt has pinned Ann Addison of Winthrop; and Will Scott is engaged to Donna Hurt of Columbia College. Brother of the Week is shared by Brooks Styles and Sam Lyons.

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, November 12, 1965 | No. 6

Judd Designated For Physical Ed; Women, Men to Use Facilities

By ROB DALTON

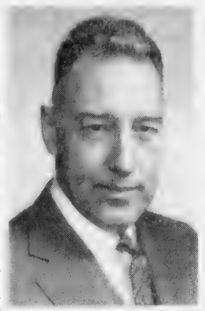
Judd Dining Hall is falling in line with other college facilities as the necessary changes are made for Presbyterian College to become fully coeducational. Judd, which is no longer used for the college dining room, is being remodeled for the use of the women's physical education program.

A new hardwood floor, lights and metal screens over the windows have been installed. Basketball, ping pong, volleyball, and badminton will be set up in the remodeled area. Also a two-position archery range has been installed. Judd will also house the women coach's office and shower, although no dressing rooms or showers for students are being installed at this time.

Judd will also be used for supervised recreation open to both men and women students. Plans on how the supervisions will be carried out, whether through proctors or an outside director, are not complete.

"Remodeling should be finished within two weeks," stated G. Edward Campbell, college business manager. He also said the hold-up in the completion of Judd was due to the remodeling of Neville which had to be finished first.

All women students at PC are required to complete four semesters of physical education. This year's program for freshmen consists of field hockey and volleyball during the first semester and basketball and speedball the second semester. Sophomores concentrate on tennis and archery the first semester and swimming and recreational games during the second semester. Swimming is offered both semesters for sophomores and freshmen.



Miss Katherine Giles, who teaches women's physical education, said, "The new facilities will allow more participation for both men and women, than is now possible with the use of Springs Gymnasium excusively." She also stated that when the new facilities are complete an attempt would be made to start a women's intramural program.

Judd Dining Hall was named in honor of Mrs. E. A. Judd of Spartanburg who made a large gift toward its erection in 1908. It was expanded in 1923 and was later converted to cafeteria-style serving. Judd was replaced this year by Greenville Hall.

Photo by Hart

A view from the old manager's office in Judd shows construction work underway

WAYNE HOLMAN

J and J Treasurer Keynotes Exec. Day

One of the nation's outstanding textile leaders spoke at Presbyterian College today before a Textile Executives' Day group and the PC student body.

He is Wayne J. Holman, Jr., of New Brunswick, N. J., treasurer of Johnson & Johnson Company and former president of the Chicopee Manufacturing Corporation.

Some 100 textile executives, mainly from South Carolina and Georgia, are expected to assemble on the PC campus at 12 noon for the start of the Textile Executives' Day program. They will join Presbyterian College students in Belk Auditorium to hear the keynote address by Dr. Holman.

This occasion marked Wayne Holman's second visit to Presbyterian College. His first appearance was to deliver the commencement address to the 1960 graduating class.

A native of Tennessee and 1928 graduate of Georgia Tech, he received graduate degrees from Yale, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and New York University.

Sock Editor Included As Panelist In Winthrop's Orientation Series

Impressions Report by BROOKS STYLES

Male representatives of major South Carolina colleges were invited to Winthrop College on Nov. 10 to participate in a panel discussion on dating before an assembly of Winthrop freshmen. Blue Stocking Editor Sam Waters along with Ralph Phillips of Wofford, David Powell of Davidson, Stoney Denny of USC, and Gray Walsh of Clemson walked on stage to the oohs and aahs of 1300 females.

The intent of this panel was to give the freshmen women an insight as to what would be expected of them in their college dating. The intent was good but the execution was a farce. Hampered by ambiguous questions on broad categories ranging from sex to education and the risque thoughts of the giggling girls, the discussion turned into a Sunday School lesson on how "good" college men were and how "nice" girls should always act on dates.

Realism was strikingly absent from the comments of the representatives from Wofford and Clemson, (who, by the way, drew most of the applause) and as a college man, I felt as if these men had never dated on a college level.

Mr. Powell of Davidson expressed, before the program began, his desire to make a joke of the whole thing. He fell flat on his face on the first topic and little was heard from him for the remainder of the discussion.

Mr. Waters and Mr. Denny tried to be realistic and not delve into the "middle class morals" which stem from Sunday School lessons of our youth and are definitely rearranged on the college campus; but the questions asked and the unreceptive audience cramped their style.

What can you say to a group of attractive young women when asked, "What do you consider a reasonable attitude toward making out?" or "Do you like dates who cuddle in public?" Some of the answers to these and other questions made me feel that the girls should be telling certain young gentlemen from our neighboring schools the facts of dating.

This panel discussion in a true FRASER Column 1, Page 4

Col. Fraser Talks Expansion Program With Student Group

In a dinner meeting in Greenville Hall Monday night, November 8, Col. Powell A. Fraser explained to student leaders PC's expanding development program.

The purpose of the meeting as stated by Col. Fraser "was to inform the student leaders about the long-range development program of the college and to receive student suggestions regarding the long-range plan."

During the meeting Col. Fraser indicated ways in which the student leaders could help PANEL Column 1, Page 4

Stanford Questions Means to End

By JIM STANFORD

About these visitors to our campus, the Bob Jones boys, let me say this!

While we may not agree with them or their method of presentation to the fullest extent, I think it is necessary that we recognize them as individuals and afford them courtesy as we would say any other person.

I cannot say that their first couple of visits to our campus was by invitation. However, this last one was.

I mentioned in last week's paper that the SCA Cabinets were chosen "out of the dorm." This was done for several reasons, one of which was, as Cabinet members, to come in closer contact with all members of the SCA, namely the student body. Again this was done in hopes that the Cabnet members could start bull sessions in whch we can question together the things which concern us, and not particularly religious matters only.

One of the Cabinet members invited these visitors down to speak to his floor of his own dorm for this is especially where his concern lies. He invited them to participate in a bull session because he felt that possibly the SCA members on his floor might get something out of such a discussion.

Instead of being treated though as any other invited visitors to our campus might be, they were rudely welcomed, not by the group they were to be with, but by over a third of the campus. They were jeered! They were mocked! They were cursed! (No matter how fundamental you might take it, I would remind you also of another fella who was jeered, mocked, and cursed, and who died on a cross, saying, "Forgive them, for they know not what they do.")

Enough said about the way they were received, only to ask that you not make a fool of yourself and of your school, particularly toward an invited guest. There was great interest, after the mockery, shown both in agreeing and disagreeing with what these people had to say. What was intended for about twenty people, however, mushroomed into a crowd of over 200. If you would like to talk with these fellas or invite a professor or anyone else to come in for a bull session, do it through your cabinet members on your floor of your dorm. That's what they are there for!

Photo by Hart

JIM STANFORD

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

SAM WATERS, Editor — MERRIE STANCILL, Ass't. Editor — DAVE VENEKLASEN, Mng. Editor

Page Two — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Nov. 12, 1965 — No. 6

Food For Thought

Presbyterian's boom years are setting the college apart as one of the most progressive small colleges in South Carolina and surrounding states. The extensive development program has been divided into several phases of physical and academic improvement, many of which have become a present reality.

As one in a series of editorials probing the more standard areas of contention, the following concerns the dining hall, with a more objective approach than in the past and with suggestions based on general campus thought in these areas.

There was speculation at the end of last year that the new dining hall would provide both improved quality of overall food service and more pleasant surroundings in which to eat. Unfortunately, it is true that the building has been relegated to only the latter position.

There have been improvements in sanitation, but who thinks about sanitation when the same meat appears on the menu countless, consecutive meals? Who could, in all honesty, take his or her parents to a meal on Sunday evening and feel a sense of pride, knowing that they were being served the best meal anywhere in Clinton?

This is not a condemnation of any one person; it is a condemnation of a situtaion vital to the disposition of every student here. Even though experience gives invaluable training, it is no substitute for the additional qualifications that a degree in nutrition gives with all its implications of menu planning, financial dealings, quality presentations, and genuinely pleasant service. Our dining hall leaves much to be desired in managerial functions.

There is yet another aspect to the overall problem of service — compulsory payments. Each boarding student pays 465.00 for meals covering less than nine months. It would be mere speculation to guess how many of the students do not eat all three meals a day at the dining hall.

In the spring semester of last year, however, with approximately 150 less students, the breakfast meal average was around 225 per day on week days. This indicated the following, allowing that 100% of the students eat the other two meals, the average loss per student in meals paid for but not eaten is roughly $100 per year. These calculations bring to mind a serious question: what happens to the $500.00 clear profit? It certainly cannot be found in the dining hall coffers.

The time is ripe for a new system because it is in keeping with the new "progressivism" of the college. As a step toward this system, it has been suggested that students purchase meal tickets. The cafeteria could easily approximate the number of students per meal; it must be doing so already in order to know what quantity to prepare now. The student, at the same time, would no longer feel guilty for wasting money on those meals he does not eat in the dining hall.

A second suggestion is that menus be posted in advance. This would alleviate the present cloak of mystery and show cooperation with the students' interest. Nothing is so feared after all, as fear of the unknown.

In conjunction with the second suggestion it might serve a purpose to review the present menus, the ones under fire. It would be of interest to see what a trained dietitian would have to say about the balance of our meals. It is contended that they would fail to meet minimum standards for college age students in all the basic areas except startch. The informtaion to draw this conclusion is in one of the dietary supplements published by the US government and available to all.

The consideration of these suggestions alone could do a great deal to further the much talked about improvement of student-administrative relationship. Give the student food for thought and the result could be dramatic.

Dave Veneklasen Mng. Ed.

Sidewalk Preachers

Have you been saved? Have you found Jesus Christ? These questions have been directed toward Presbyterian College students for the past few weekends. Those directing the questions are the so-called "Sidewalk Preachers" of Bob Jones University. With the increased activity and number of amateur evangelists on campus it would seem that Presbyterian College has been declared a disaster area.

DAVE

One of the more popular sports on campus on a dead Sunday night is to go and listen while some of the "preachers" rant and rave and even condemn people to hell. Some of the PC students listen objectively and ask serious questions. In reply they receive an answer that a majority of the time is a literal translation of the Bible. All well and good for those who take the Bible literally but what of those who believe that it must be read between the lines in order to get the true meaning.

There is such a thing as freedom of speech on this campus but the same does not hold true at Bob Jones. A group sent to BJU with the same purpose with but different views would not be permitted to enter the gates.

The Student Christian Association in sponsoring visits by BJU students has good intentions but the value of the visits is to be questioned. Last Sunday night the discussion turned into a carnival on the steps of Spencer. Many students turned out to see the well-meaning but little sense-making preachers. The students' purpose in most cases was not to be saved but to try and break the "Preachers." If discussions are to be held they should be in a semi-private atmosphere on possibly a panel basis. The SCA should also have the responsibility of being more selective in the type of BJU student that speaks before the group. An experienced upperclassman that could stand up under the fire of PC students would be far more effective than one when he is backed into a corner evades the question.

President's Home Boasts Forty-Nine Year History

by MAC SMITH

The President's home at Presbyterian is perhaps one of the most tasteful and attractive buildings on the campus and in many ways reflects various aspects of the character of the institution.

The original structure was built in 1916 by Mr. and Mrs. George Young of Clinton. The company which designed the house, Casey and Fort of Anderson, later became Fort and Fort, and was recently responsible for the erection of the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church in Clinton.

George Young raised cotton and was an extremely prosperous gentleman farmer. In fact at one time there were as many as one hundred and twenty laborers living on the estate around his home. At the death of George Young the house became the property of his brother, John Young.

John Young was even more of an agrarian than his brother; he had no intention of moving into his new house in the "city." Consequently in 1929 a negro farm hand dismounted his mule in front of the Presbyterian College Administration building, walked into the office of John McSween, plunked a key down on the president's desk and declared that Mr. John wanted Dr. McSween to move into the house across the street. The ownership of the home, however, was not yet definitely established; for, when the grateful Dr. McSween rode to thank his benefactor and suggest a public ceremony to recognize the gift, the reclusive bachelor threatened, "If you're going to have all that folderol about it, just give it back!" With an always shrewd eye for business, the college administrators quietly accepted the house and honored the gift with only a small plaque placed near the front entrance in memory of Mr. and Mrs. George Young.

The next president, Dr. William P. Jacobs, owned his own home just down the street; consequently, between the years 1935 and 1945, the dean of students lived in the president's home. In 1945 Dr. Marshall Brown became the fourth president of the instiution and moved into the home where he resided until his retirement in 1963.

At this point the house underwent an extensive four and one-half month renovation process. New additions included the front walk, lanterns on the front posts, and solid mahogany front doors; however, the basic structure remained as it was constructed in 1916.

Certain portions of the old home came under closest scrutiny during the renovation. One was the "widow's walk" on the peak of the roof. This structure was a carry-over from the early New England houses on which the "widows' walk" was included to provide a place from which wives could look for their husbands to return from sea. Another was the small smoke house in the back in which an erstwhile president had intermittently confined his incorrigible son. Finally tradition prevailed and both structures remained.

Movie Review

Going Underground

by CHRISTIE PATTERSON

Starring in an epic drama of the French Renaissance during World War II, "The Train," Academy Award winner But Lancaster portrays an official of the French Railroad, who also is a leader of the Underground. He comes into conflict with Britain's Paul Scoffield, as a German Army Colonel, whose mission it is to send a trainload of France's looted treasure out of Paris and into Germany, before the city is recaptured by the Allied Forces. Miss Jeanne Moreau, one of France's greatest actresses, is the proprietor of a railway hotel, who becomes involved in the desperate struggle and in a romance with Lancaster.

"The Train" is based on a true incident recorded in Rose Volland's book, "Le Front l'Art," which relates her experience as curator of the Jeer de Paume museum during the Nazi occupation of Paris.

On the Road Again

Hose Put Emphasis on Defense; Assume Favorite's Role Over Lions

by CHARLES CAMPBELL

This week sees the Presbyterian College Blue Hose journeying to Portsmouth, Va., to take on the Frederick College Lions.

This will be the third meeting of these two teams and Presbyterian enters the series a solid favorite to make it for three. But Frederick College is no team to use the record by. They are an unpredictable team. One week they can beat the best and the next week lose to the worst. When they're up for a game they show some of the best football one would ever want to see, but when they are down they are really down.

Entering Saturday's game the Lions have a season record of 3 wins and 5 losses. They run a basic Wing T offense and have a fair size line to open the holes. The Lions have two exceptionally fine backs in Quarterback Jim Cruthoff, a sophomore weighing 205 pounds. Just last week he passed and rushed over a thousand yards. Senior tailback Ted Putman is the other sparkplug for the Lions' offense; he, too, has over a thousand yards on passes and runs; he weighs 185 pounds. The Lions-Blue Hose contest is the last of the home games for Frederick. Another man to watch is their excellent punter and kicker specialist, Dennis Kozlowski, a sophomore.

The Blue Hose have been through the grind this week after the upset loss to Appalachian The emphasis this week has been defense and reaction to the ball. The backfield especially has been working hard to smooth out the rough spots. The line on defense has been practicing pursuit drill and tackling.

Offensively the Hose are working on plays and pass protection. The fairly new middle line made up of Sophomores Mickey Hampshire and Eddie Walker and Junior Jack McCaskill has been real sharp and rates the praise it has been getting.

The overall preformance of the Blue Hose has been much improved and it looks as though the desire to win is high. The season so far has produced a 4-3 win-loss overall and in the Carolinas Conference the Hose record is 1-2.

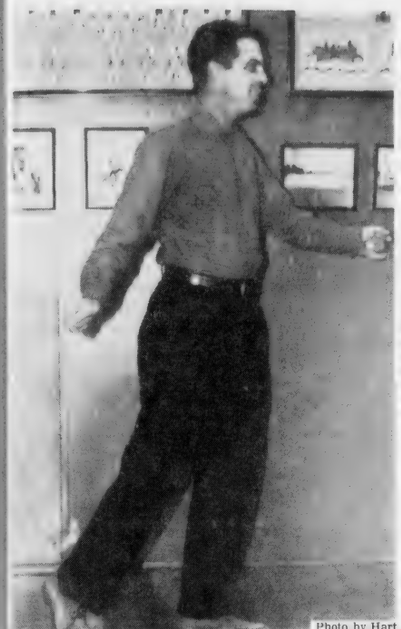

Photo by Hart

CALLY CANTERS—Cally Gault, PC football coach, made good his promise to the student body of a tap dance in chapel Monday. The dance came after PC's 14-7 victory over Furman.

Conference Title Narrows To a Three-Team Marathon

by MIKE SIMONS

The Carolinas Conference has narrowed down to a three-team race with the results of last week's scores. Lenior Rhyne, Catawaba, and Guilford still have a shot at the conference crown.

Lenoir Rhyne is still the conference leader with an unblemished 4-0 record. But outside the conference the Bears have manaed only one win in four tries. Last week East Carolina completely ran roughshod over Lenoir Rhyne 44-0.

Catawba is our choice as the winner of the conference. They have only an early season upset to Newberry to mar their 3-1 conference record, and they are 7-1 overall. The Catamounts are the highest scoring team in the conference.

They won a 29-26 see-saw battle over Wofford last week. Quarterback John Scott paced Catawba by passing for 287 yards. Scott plunged over for the winning touchdown with two minutes left in the game.

Guilford won over Randolph-Macon 17-14 in a real squeaker. Quarterback Jimmy Williams again led the Quakers with his passing and running.

Presbyterin was upset 26-10 by Appalachian. Fumbles, interceptions, and a muffed punt added up to the loss. Bill Kirtland's pass to Don McNeill and Richard Reed's field goal was the total of PC's scoring.

Newberry defeated Elon 3-0 on a fourth quarter field goal. Western Carolina was idle this week.

Blue Stocks Head To Mercer For Meet

"A steady hand and true eye with constant high scores," these are the talents attributed to PC's three promising riflemen, Fred Lockwood, Dan Wyatt and Evan Pamplin. Sgt. Creel has said, "the team is improving and is showing great promise for future matches.

Last week there were no matches, but the marksmen face Mercer at Mercer Saturday. Next week two matches are scheduled. On the 16th the Hose face Wofford here at 2:00 p. m. There is a tri-match on the 19th between Presbyterian, Wofford, and Davidson at Davidson.

Thus far the team has posted 1 win and 2 losses. With Scores like 251 by Pamplin and 255 by Wyatt, the future looks bright for the Presbyterian squad.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy

Stationery, School Supplies

IM Volleyball Rescheduled; 15 Teams on B-Ball Roster

The Pounders have captured the Intramural football crown and with the close of the season usher in the winter sports schedule.

The intramural committee announced that volleyball will be rescheduled later in the year due to lack of courts at the present time.

Plans for the swim meet have been made and it will be held next Tuesday, November 16, in the pool at Leroy Springs gymnasium.

The pool and ping pong seasons have already been initiated sons have already been initiated and renewed interest has been shown in both activities.

Bill Crowley, head of the intramural committee, has the rosters of fifteen teams interested in basketball. The teams will be separated into two leagues and winners of each deciding the overall championship at the season's close. Next Monday marks the tip-off of this season, which is one of the more hotly contested activities in the intramural year. The Sigma Nu's, as well as the PiKA's, should turn out topflight teams and are expected to repeat as leaders in this year's race. The faculty could prove the dark horse and are capable of taking the crown. Several of the independent teams as well as the Alpha Sigs and Pi Kapps could prove bothersome.

All games will be played at night beginning November 16.

With the addition of the "Ponderosa" to campus, a soccer field has been planned and those students intrested in the game are asked to express their desire to play by seeing a member of the intramural committee.

CONFERENCE STATISTICS

Team	Conf.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.	Ov'all	Pts.	Op. Pts.
Lenoir Rhyne	4-0-0	75	33	5-3-0	143	151
Catawba	3-1-0	85	47	7-1-0	232	102
Guilford	2-1-0	39	16	6-2-0	199	71
Western Carolina	3-2-0	68	53	5-2-0	121	59
Appalachian	3-3-0	58	79	4-4-0	80	100
Newberry	2-3-0	38	52	2-6-0	71	144
Presbyterian	1-2-0	38	68	4-3-0	85	117
Elon	0-6-0	27	80	1-6-0	42	98

LAST WEEK'S SCORES

Appalachian 26	Presbyterian 10
Newberry 29	Elon 0
Catawba 29	Wofford 26
East Carolina 44	Lenoir Rhyne 0
Guilford 17	Randolph Macon 14

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Presbyterian at Frederick
Appalachian at Emory and Henry
Guilford at Catawba
Elon at Lenoir Rhyne
Newberry at Western Carolina

BEAT FREDERICK!

Bill Bassham

Soccer's On Its Way

Presbyterian is finally getting a needed addition to its intercollegiate sports program. Soccer is a sport which could allow PC to compete with schools who have a good name, which in turn would be an advertisement of the school.

PC could produce a team which would have the material to compete and show up well. Several members of the student body have gotten experience from such schools as Darlington, Baylor, McCallie, and Georgia Military.

BASSHAM

With a soccer team PC can compete with such teams as Citadel, Clemson, Mercer, Carolina, and Emory. Three matches have already been tentatively set up this year with Citadel, Mercer and Clemson.

Several boys with a lot of experience are already practicing. Bony Peace, Mickey Humphries, Eddie Miller, Butch Tuck, Mack Binion, Mac and Joey Singleton, and Rick Sjoholm are trying to get into shape to play.

If anyone on campus has any experience in soccer or would like to play, contact Bill Crowley or one of the intramural representatives.

I hope this activity is sponsored by the student body and doesn't fall flat since it would be a good thing for the school.

For the first time this year I'm going to venture into the role of predicting football games.

Here's the way they should stack up.

Presbyterian over Frederick
Lenoir Rhyne over Elon
Catawba over Guilford
Western Carolina over Newberry.
Appalachian over Emory and Henry
Alabama over South Carolina
Clemson over Maryland
Furman over Richmond
VMI over The Citadel
Wofford over Davidson

Stewart, Williams Lead Rushing Stats

Here is a composite picture of Presbyterian College's Blue Hose statistics for the past seven games.

PC		Opponent
88	first downs	85
966	rushing yards	1035
650	passing yards	601
48 for 110	passes	56 for 115
4	passes inter. by	10
45 for 41.6	punts	48 for 40.9
9	fumbles lost	8
197	yards penalized	311
1616	total yardage	1636

In the rushing department the Hose leaders are Fullback Sam Williams with an average of 4.6 yards per carry getting the ball 79 times and making 360 yards Wade Stewart has had the ball 38 times and gained 276 yards for an average of 7.3 yards.

Campus News Briefs

Library Director to Visit Campus

Miss Betty Callahan, Director of Field Services for the South Carolina Library Board, will be at Presbyterian College Monday, November 15, to meet with student groups and with individual students considering careers in librarianship.

Miss Callahan, who is visiting Presbyterian College in connection with the annual career information program of the State Library Board will meet with students at assembly that morning and will also be available afterwards for conferences in the music room of the college library.

The Library Board's information program is planned to inform students of study and work opportunities leading to careers in librarianship. It has been expanded this year to a month-long series of campus consultations, each member under the direction of a member of the State Library Board staff.

Special attention will be given to opportunities now available through the Library Board's library intern and scholarship programs.

The State Library Board's scholarship program offers college graduates a year of study at an accredited library school. Each student is sponsored by a particular public library, and upon graduation returns to work in that library for two years. The scholarship program is now in its fifth year. Twelve scholarship recipients have graduated and three are now enrolled in graduate library schools.

Under the intern program, college students or recent graduates work during the summer months in a South Carolina public library, where they have an opportunity to learn all phases of library work. The intern program is now in its seventh year, and 98 young people have participated.

A series of more than twenty such campus visits has been scheduled, including the majority of the state's senior colleges and universities.

Club Activities

Members of many PC organizations are working rapidly to insure a successful first semester in the extracurricular realm.

The members of the Christian Vocations Club are readying for their first chapel program which will be on Dec. 6. A member of the Jewish Chautaugua Society will speak to the student body on Juadeo-Christan relations. According to President Eric Johnson. This will be the first of several chapel programs to be presented by the CV Club. Deputations to other schools will begin in the early part of the second semester.

The Phi Pi Science Club held a meeting on November 11. Charles Fountain presented a program on "The History and Application of Mathematics." New members were also inducted at this time.

Tom Leland, editor of the PaC Sac, says that work on this year's edition is progressing satisfacorily. Taking of pictures of all organizations on campus will begin next week. All organizations and fraternities are requested to turn in a resume of their year's activities to the PaC SaC as soon as possible. Before any pictures will be made, these resumes must be turned in containing the name of the organization and a list of its members.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, Nov. 15: Miss Betty Callahan, Director of Field Services for the South Carolina Library Board. She will talk on the subject, "Opportunities in Librarianship."

Wednesday, Nov. 17: Chapel Worship Service, Dr. Marc C. Weersing.

Friday, Nov. 19: The Rev. W. Robert Martin, Dean of Students, Union Theological Seminary.

Swimming Schedule

The college swimming pool will be open to students, faculty, administraton, staff, and their families, from now on, only on Tuesday and Thursday from 3:30 to 5:00 p. m.

Jazz Festival

The Mobile Jazz Festival is looking for talent. It will be held in the new Municipal Auditorium in Mobile, Ala., on April 2 and 3, 1966. Dave Brubech, Pete Fountain, Al Hirt, Henry Mancini, and Peter Nere compose the advisory board for this event. They will judge the top winners that advance to Mobile.

If you as an aspiring vocalist, instrumentalist, or combo would like a chance at something big, see Mr. Gaines for an entry blank and information about the ten-minute tape to be sent in.

Applications must be submitted to Mobile by Nov. 15, 1965, and tapes should be in prior to Dec. 15, 1965.

CAPT. CLAYPOOLE GETS MEDAL—Capt. Calvin R. Claypoole, assistant professor of military science is pictured here (left) receiving the Army Commendation Medal from Lt. Col. Richard Ulrich in a recent campus ceremony. He was cited for meritorious service during the period June 1, 1964, to August 16, 1965, while assigned as S-2 of the 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment in Nurnberg, Germany. Capt. Claypoole had the supervision of four armored cavalry squadrons in the performance of their mission of border operations along 360 miles of Soviet zonal border between West Germany, Czechoslovakia and East Germany. —Photo by Hart sense was a failure. As one Winthrop freshman said, "I think we all took it with a grain of salt." Sitting among these lovely young women of tomorrow during the program, I learned how cute the panelist on the right was (but not as cute as the second from the left) and in relation to the answers given to the question on the premarital sex, the comments were very "educational."

Panel Continued from page 1)

So boys, don't worry about these big college seniors corrupting the Winthrop freshmen with their views on conduct, sex, or marriage. They're still "nice" as ever.

Fraser Continued from page 1.

the development program in the coming months.

First, student leaders could encourage members in the local churches to complete payment of the 1962 pledges made to the development campaign. As of November 1, 1965, $1,500 had been given representing payment of 148 pledges. This leaves a balance of $447,369 to be paid. The money will be used to add $700,000 to the endowment fund, and to help pay for the construction of new buildings.

Secondly, student leaders could submit names of families in their local communites to be placed on the deferred gifts list. These families would be given subscriptions to "Economy of Living," the quarterly booklet sent out by the development office.

Finally, student leaders could, after studying the proposed locations of future buildings, submit their recommendations to the development office.

Col. Fraser emphasized in his remarks that the Development Concept is an effort on the part of the entire institution, the Board of Trustees, the administration, the faculty and the students to crystalize its objectives, to project them into the future, and to make sure that its highest destination is realized by taking the necessary steps to reach its established goals.

THE GREEKS...

What Marks Discrimination?

Jimmy Humphries

A trouble with the Greek system, either implied or actual, is racial and religious discrimination. Last spring, the national Sigma Chi fraternity organization dropped the Stanford University chapter from its rolls after it had pledged a Negro. The national body said this was not the reason the chapter was dropped, however.

Because of the Stanford incident, which prompted Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel to warn that any institution of higher learning allowing fraternities or sororities to discriminate would not qualify for federal funds, Sigma Chi is now under scrutiny at campuses across the nation.

At Yale University, the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity chapter just voted to go local in opposition to its national's membership selection policies. The chapter had pledged the first Negro in its history of the national last spring and had subsequently been subjected to heavy pressures from the parent body.

Four national fraternities and two sororities took their fight to remain at the State University of New York at Buffalo all the way to the New York Supreme Court. The school had adopted a policy that national Greek organizations would have to leave campus or drop their national ties after this school year.

Court Decision

In a July decision denying the sororities and fraternities the right to remain at Buffalo, Justice Matthew J. Jansen said the school had the right to regulate its own student organizations. A fraternity is a discriminatory organization much the same as is an individual, because one cannot determine who someone else's friends should be. Therefore the national opinion of the selectivity of fraternities and sororities is unjust, since any group has the right to select its associates by its own standards.

The Kappa Alpha Order is having a closed combo party this Saturday night at the KA house featuring the Nomads.

Four KA's were initiated into the Brotherhood Tuesday night: Jimmy Humphries and Tommy Greer both from Atlanta, Tommy Edwards from Union, and Louis Hart from Anderson.

From the Sigma Nu Fraternity: Robert Stack has pinned Miss Barbara Miller of Charlotte, N. C.

From the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity: Jack Avery of Rockville, Md., and Bill Jackson of Manning, S. C., have been initiated into the brotherhood. Bob Hodgkin pinned Miss Roxanna Beam of Converse College, and Davis Templeton lavaliered Miss Janice Shouse of Laurens, S. C. Brother John Morrison is Brother - of - the-Week.

From the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity: Don Crisp has lavaliered Miss Allison Ramsaur of Jacksonville, Fla. Brother Jim Bruce is Brother - of-the-Week.

BROADWAY Theatre

Mon. and Tues., Nov. 15-16
"THE TRAIN"
Burt Lancaster, Paul Scoffield, Jeanne Moreau

Wed. and Thurs, Nov. 17-20
"RED LINE 7000"

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

PITTS MENS SHOP...
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Christmas Gifts
Holiday Clothes
Casual and Formal
The Tweed Shop
S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, November 19, 1965 | No. 7

Clinton Hall Dedication Set For Dec. 5th

Frosh Co-eds Vie for Miss Freshman Crown

Governor Featured Speaker

The convocation and dedication of Clinton Hall, the new women's dormitory, will be held Sunday afternoon, December 5, at a three o'clock service in Belk Auditorium. The featured speaker will be South Carolina Governor Robert E. McNair.

Clinton Hall, built in a colonial Georgian style, was completed last summer at an approximate cost of $500,000. The residents of Clinton underwrote the expense of the building, from whom it derived its name.

The four story structure features two-room suites with adjoining baths, laundry rooms and lounges on each floor, infirmary facilties, a second floor sun deck, wall-to-wall carpeting, and reception and dating rooms on the main floor.

During the dedication service at Belk, Dr. B. O. Whitten, past superintendent of Whitten Village in Clinton, will be awarded an honorary doctorate degree by Board Chairman Robert Vance, marking the first time a degree has been presented at a time other than graduation.

Among college guests will be residents of Clinton, Dr. Whitten's associates, the parents' club of Whitten Village, and state legislators. Members of the PC student body should also be on hand for the dedication activities, since the weekend is the annual Christmas dance weekend.

Greenville Hall, the new cafeteria completed for use this fall, will be dedicated Friday, December 3. The convocation and dedication will be held on that Friday at the 10 a. m. chapel service.

The ceremony will be short but very formal. Mr. Buck Nickles, President of Daniel Construction Co., of Greenville, will be the main speaker. There will be special guests from Greenville present for the dedication and they will have lunch at the college. These guests are leaders and supporters of the movement that contributed so that Greenville Hall could be constructed.

The cafeteria was so named Greenville Hall because of the great amount of support P. .C. received from Greenville in building it.

Looking down the West Plaza is Clinton Hall on the right Directly across from it is Greenville Hall, also to be dedicated

Women Denied Council Seat In Hotly Debated SC Issue

Presbyterian's Student Council denied the Women's Council an ex-officio seat in the organization in a heated five to three roll call vote at Wednesday night's regular meeting.

The action ended an intense 45-minute debate over the constitutionality and validity of the proposal. The possibility of seating a woman was originally introduced last spring during the "lame duck" days before the close of the semester. At that time the discussion was tabled indefinitely.

Council President Lovett included the proposition on the

(See WOMEN, Col. 1, Page 4)

Hall: Students Want Action Now

Although these statistics may not accurately portray student opinion since many students do not take the time to read the editorials or to fill in questionaires, this poll does show that there is a unity among the number of students who did participate in the poll. An examination of written comments found on these questionaires can verify this fact.

One student is quoted as saying, "They cannot remain so lax as they were when the student body was 20 per cent smaller." A segment of the participants could not understand why prices might be higher if a meal-ticket system was instituted.

It is the understanding of "The Blue Stocking" that the dining hall management takes into account the fact that a certain percentage of the student body will not eat breakfast, and for that matter the other two meals of the day also. This fact is considered when the dining hall budget is drawn up and adopted. If a meal-ticket system were adopted, it seems reasonable that the loss in student tuition fees would have to be compensated for in higher prices for meals.

A majority of the participating students stated that the food was only fair in quality, and 48 per cent said that it compared unfavorably with that of other schools. I wonder how many students have eaten in enough school cafeterias to honestly say that this food compares "unfavorably."

Perhaps the greatest implication is that the students are ready for a change. They advocate a meal-card system, menus posted in advance, and increased specialization in management.

(See ACTION, Col. 4, Page 4)

Editorial Wins Support

By WOODY HALL

Wednesday of this week, "The Blue Stocking" took a campus poll to determine the amount of student support for last week's editorial, "Food for Thought." Only 37 per cent of the student body participated in the poll, but one must consider that this poll was taken at supper only and not all of the boarding students were given a chance to express an opinion.

The questions asked were about the dining hall operations and what improvements, if any, the students favored. A total of five questions were asked and the results are as follows:

Asked if the editorial was an objective approach to the situation, 63 per cent answered yes, 7 per cent no, with 23 per cent claiming partially. Fifty-two per cent of those voting believed that the editorial was an objective appraisal of the situation, 8 per cent did not believe it to be so, and 21 per cent felt that it was only partially so.

Another question concerning whether or not greater specialization is imperative in management by the dining hall staff brought the following results—84 per cent said yes and 11 per cent did not believe it necessary.

Sixty-eight per cent favored the inauguration of a meal-ticket system even at the risk of higher prices, but 29 per cent were against this. Only 3 per cent stated that they ate every meal every day seven days a week in the dining hall. Thirty per cent said that they ate every meal anywhere from four to six days per week 16 per cent stated between two and three days, but 42 per cent claimed they never ate every meal served during the week at Greenville Hall.

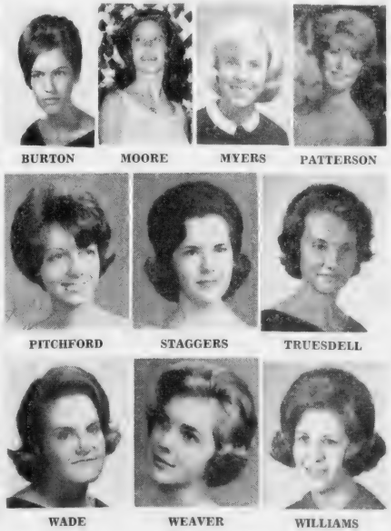
The poll snowed that an overwhelming number of students, 86 per cent yes as opposed to 11 per cent no, favored the policy of having the choice of food posted on placards on the serving line. Eighty-six per cent favored posting menus at least once a week in advance, while 11 per cent saw no necessity for this policy.

Regarding the quality of the food, 20 per cent classified it as poor, 58 per cent fair, 16 per cent good, and only 2 per cent as excellent. Asked if the quality compared favorably with that of other schools, 39 per cent stated in the affirmative as opposed to 48 per cent who said no.

by SARAH STRIBLING

A new and different event is being sponsored this year by PC's freshman class— a Miss Freshman contest. On November 29 various campus organizations will present their sponsors for Miss Freshman. These sponsors were selected by the freshman members of the organizations represented.

The contestants include Miss Pat Burton from Charleston for the Calvert House; Miss Helen Moore from Summerville for the SCA; Miss Sue Myers from Columbia for Kappa Alpha; Miss Cheryl Patterson from Decatur, Ga., for Sigma Nu; Miss Sandi Pitchford from Doraville, Ga., for the Blue Stocking; Miss Sallie Staggers from Montgomery, Ala., for Pi Kappa Phi.



Miss Beck Truesdell from Newberry for Pi Kappa Alpha; Miss Frances Wade from Decatur, Ga., for the PaC SaC; Miss Karen Weaver from Atlanta, Ga., for Alpha Sigma Phi; and Miss Kathi Williams from Montgomery, Ala., for Theta Chi.

The program will begin with an introduction of the judges by Tommy Lovett, representative to the Student Council. The judges' panel will be comprised of various campus leaders and professors and Miss Sue Smith, Miss South Carolina of 1964.

Ray Combs, president of the freshman class, is to emcee the program and crown the queen. Each girl will be presented twice in different outfits. The second time she will be asked several questions. Between presentations entertainment will be provided by campus singing groups.

"The Friendly Folk," members

(See CONTEST, Col. 4, Page 4)

BURTON MOORE MYERS PATTERSON

PITCHFORD STAGGERS TRUESDELL

WADE WEAVER WILLIAMS

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

SAM WATERS, Editor — MERRIE STANCILL, Ass't. Editor — DAVE VENEKLASEN, Mng. Editor

Open More Books, Open More Minds

In a continued effort to treat problems of campus interest The Blue Stocking would like to probe the question of inadequacy in the college bookstore. The PC bookstore is at present serving only the minimal needs of the students.

A college bookstore should be able to provide not only the basic texts for the student body but those books that the student wants for his own personal interests or for compiling his own library in major or related fields. What has permitted this situation is not the point of this editorial but rather that positive suggestions on how the situation can be remedied to the benefit of both the students and the college plant as a whole.

Certain suggestions have been forwarded. So as not to get bogged down in what is apparent to most, more time and weight will be given to these. First and foremost of these is the relocation of the bookstore to a more easily accessible and larger area. Just speculating it would seem feasible to make this change in accordance with changes in the present canteen setup.

These facilities are used at present not only for the specific purpose of canteen use but also houses an unlimited amount of paraphernalia that the student seldom has occasion to need or the desire to purchase. These might better be shelved in a less important area and the additional space used for expanding the present canteen within its own limits so as to serve the proposed increase in the student body.

The counter for food service should be lengthened and more booths installed in the area cleared. Meanwhile other items could easily be carried in an enlarged bookstore without hampering its operation.

These could be housed in what is now a not sufficiently used room—the TV room in Douglas House. Not only is this space large enough for the suggested plans, but its location is ideal to promote increased sales for the canteen and the bookstore alike.

It would place the bookstore in closer proximity to the students' usual routes, making it more natural for them to drop in and browse. This is supposing that the move would be accompanied by a great increase in the type and nature of the books offered.

The demand created by the doubled enrollment proposed to be completed in three years will more than double the problem. This is even more obvious when it is noted that the new library will not be completed for at least five years, or possibly longer.

One wonders how anyone will be able to keep abreast of the literary situation or to do a term paper for a professor that requires only recent sources. The present situation is bad enough without getting worse. What is more deadening to a course than to have the professor go to the trouble to give pertinent sources to be found in paperbacks when all know they aren't available to the student to inspect for possible purchase.

Of course expansion would present extenuating problems. The first of these, as far as the independent students are concerned, would be the relocation of the TV room.

Secondly, as to the actual operation of the bookstore, more than a student manager would be required. It would probably necessitate a full time manager with student help. That too could be hashed out as a realistic conclusion.

If none of these suggestions are feasible, at least some clarification could be gained by discussion of the situation. Both the students and the campus as a whole could benefit from a change to a more modern system that would be in keeping with schools of comparable size. Ours is at present only a depository for the necessities of class life.

The End of an Era... (Hopefully)!!!

Derby Dipped In Tradition; Symbol of Many Batterings

By ROB DALTON

The annual Bronze Derby gridiron clash on Thanksgiving Day carries 18 years of rich tradition for the two participating teams—the Presbyterian College Blue Hose and the Newberry College Indians. This year's game which is in Newberry on Wednesday, at 2:00 p. m., is the final game for the Blue Hose this season.

The Bronze Derby is a beaten old hat that sat on the head of a PC student some 18 years ago while he watched a Blue Hose-Indian basketball game. This game was played at Newberry in the winter of 1947. As the action on court blazed, the stands also blazed. A Newberry student grabbed the little brown derby from the PC student's head and ran.

A spirited argument resulted in which Presbyterian's present Head Football Coach, Cally Gault, was involved. Out of this the beaten brown derby became the symbol of athletic superiority between the two colleges.

The derby was dipped in Bronze and was ceremoniously presented to the college which was victorious after each football, basketball, and baseball game.

After the first few years, the ownership of the Bronze Derby was decided by the traditional football game each Thanksgiving. Thus evolved the name of the annual Bronze Derby football game between Newberry and Presbyterian each Thanksgiving.

Last year some 4,000 fans watched as Presbyterian trounced Newberry 36-6. This gave PC possession of the Bronze Derby for the seventh consecutive season. The two teams first met in 1913 and played each other twice that year. Newberry won both encounters by an identical score of 51 to 0.

Over the years the Blue Hose have fared well against the Indians. In 50 meetings with Newberry, PC has won 32 of them, lost only 14 and tied four.

Last year the Bronze Derby was given a new bright coat of bronze; it will be displayed along the sidelines this Wednesday at the annual Thanksgiving Day game.

Movie Review

'Red Line 7000'

By CHRISTIE PATTERSON

"Red Line 7000"—the title refers to an engine speed beyond which it is dangerous to operate a racing car—is set against the thrilling background of dangerous stock car racing. The film deals with the young drivers, their loves, their fears, their joys and their tragedies. It is a fascinating story of three girls and the daring race car drivers they love.

James Caan, one of those rare, young leading men, stars as an explosive race car driver n this film. Caan portrays Mike Marsh, a reckles young man so tormented by suspicion and jealousy that he nearly destroys two lives in the dramtic story of young people, their loves, and the thrilling world of racing in which they live.

Dave Veneklasen Mng. Ed.

Fluorescent Tennis

The recent additon of mercury lights in several strategic locations around campus has brought up a question that has been an issue in past student council elections. A few years ago one of the candidate's election platform contained a promise for lighted tennis courts. Although at the time the statement was considered an empty promise it does contain a good idea.

DAVE

The college's purpose can be seen through the bright glare of the lamps. With the coming of many females to the student body people will naturally become acquainted and begin dating each other. With time this leads to the desire for a little privacy. This desire seems to be hampered by the glare of a 400-watt bulb. Since this question is as old as time there is no way to solve it. Back to the tennis courts.

It is small wonder that a college as tennis-minded as Presbyterian has never seen fit to light the courts. With the coming of spring an epidemic of tennis fever sweeps the campus and lines form waiting for courts. When the tennis season starts and the courts are tied up with practice sessions and matches, the overcrowding becomes multiplied.

In order to get more use from the tennis courts lights seem to be the practical solution. Another solution points toward the invention of a fluorescent tennis ball. Whether the problem is solved via the business office or the chemistry department the need is present for night time tennis.

Letters to the Editor

Give Me a Meal Card

Dear Editors,

As I lift my pen to write, I am bent double with the agony of abdominal pains which leads me to the purpose of my letter. I would say that I am fed up, but fed is what I am not. I suffer from a free-running system. I bear no personal grudge against our dining hall or its administration, but I am thoroughly dissatisfied with the fact that I am forced to pay for meals I do not eat and what is more have no desire to eat. I, for one, cannot afford to support our dining hall in addition to various grocery stores and hamburger stands. What more can I say—give me a meal card or give me a release.

Sincerely,
—Kathryn C. Caldwell

Tough 'Catamounts' Test Hose Tomorrow

By MIKE SIMONS

The Presbyterian Blue Hose will be seeking their second straight road victory when they journey to Cullowhee to take on the Western Carolina Catamounts. The Catamounts, coached by Dan Robinson, have been one of the strongest teams in the Carolinas Conference, compiling a 4-2 conference record and a 6-2 record overall.

Their only losses came at the hands of conference champion Lenoir Rhyne when the Catamounts failed on a two-point conversion attempt, and in a close loss to tough Catawba. Last week Western Carolina shut out conference foe Newberry by a 19-0 verdict.

The game will mean nothing as far as conference championships, but it is still a big game to the players. Both squads would like to put this game in the victory column as a matter of pride. PC will be going for its fifth conference victory of the season.

Also, this game will conclude Western Carolina's 1965-66 football season and any team likes to capture its last game of the year. The Hose, however, would like nothing better than to wind up with a 7-3 season, and this game is absolutely essential if this goal is to be realized. The Hose go into the contest as slight underdogs according to some writers, but the game probably would be more accurately rated as a toss-up.

The Hose should be in their top physical shape of the season according to Coach Cally Gault. Halfbacks Wade Stewart and Don McNeill will be at full speed this week, a fact that should strike fear into the hearts of opposing linemen. Stewart has been averaging over seven yards per carry this season, even though he has been hampered by injuries.

This season marks the first time in recent years that the Hose have played on the weekend preceding the big Bronze Derby classic with Newberry. This was necessary in order to give the Hose the required number of Carolinas Conference opponents.

PC holds a 4-0 edge in this series, which was renewed just this year. The last time these two teams met was in 1953, when PC chalked up a 20-7 victory.

Western Carolina's backfield is led by halfback Ellis Johnson, while the line is anchored by center Ronnie Scott. The Catamounts run from a slot-T type offense, and the Hose have been working on defending against this offense in their drills.

Coach Gault says that the fans can expect a lot of passing, since both teams like to make extensive use of the air routes. Quarterback Bill Kirtland is in fine shape, and the return to full speed of Stewart and McNeill should make the Hose an even greater air threat.

PRESBYTERIAN'S BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Day	Month	College	Place
Fri.,	Nov. 26	TIP-OFF (Erskine, Wofford, Newberry, PC)	Spartanburg
Sat.,	Nov. 27	TIP-OFF	Spartanburg
Tues.,	Nov. 30	*Appalachian	Boone, N. C.
Wed.,	Dec. 1	*Catawba	Clinton
Sat.,	Dec. 4	Ball State	Muncie, Ind.
Wed.,	Dec. 8	*Catawba	Salisbury, N. C.
Fri.,	Dec. 10	Augusta	Clinton
Sat.,	Dec. 11	*Lenoir Rhyne	Hickory, N. C.
Wed.,	Jan. 5	Col. of Charleston	Clinton
Sat.,	Jan. 8	Erskine	Clinton
Mon.,	Jan. 10	*Lenoir Rhyne	Clinton
Wed.,	Jan. 12	Augusta	Augusta, Ga.
Mon.,	Jan. 24	Piedmont	Demorest, Ga.
Wed.,	Jan. 26	*Newberry	Clinton
Fri.,	Jan. 28	*Appalachian	Clinton
Mon.,	Jan. 31	*Guilford	Clinton
Wed.,	Feb. 2	*Elon	Elon, N. C.
Tues.,	Feb. 8	Piedmont	Clinton
Wed.,	Feb. 9	*Guilford	Greensboro, N. C.
Fri.,	Feb. 11	Col. of Charleston	Charleston
Sat.,	Feb. 12	*Elon	Clinton
Tues.,	Feb. 15	Erskine	Due West
Thurs.,	Feb. 17	*Newberry	Newberry
Feb.	23-26	Conf. Tour.	Lexington, N. C.

*Conference Games

Roundballers Take on 'Fleet' In Annual Tip-off Tourney

With at least an even season assured and a possible 7-3 chart, the Blue Hose gridders have another campaign nearly under their belts.

But turning our emphasis from football, we find the basketball team preparing for a rugged season, their first in the Carolinas Conference.

While the rest of the student body takes off for home and parts unknown for the Thanksgiving holidays, the Blue Hose journey to Spartanburg for the annual Tip-Off Tournament against arch-rivals Erskine, Newberry, and Wofford.

Friday night's game will pit the Hose against Erskine's Flying Fleet who only lost one letterman and should prove very tough. Newberry, with its new freshman giants, challenges tenacious and experienced Wofford in the other game. The winners will play to decide the championship Saturday night.

STANDINGS

Team	Conf.	Pts.	Pts.	Overall	Pts.	Pts.
Lenoir Rhyne*	5-0-0	95	39	6-3-0	163	157
Guilford	3-1-0	49	19	6-3-0	209	74
Western Carolina	4-2-0	87	53	6-3-0	140	71
Catawba	3-2-0	88	57	7-2-0	235	112
Appalachian	3-3-0	58	79	5-4-0	108	110
Presbyterian	1-2-0	38	68	5-3-0	122	131
Newberry	2-4-0	38	71	2-7-0	71	163
Elon	0-7-0	33	100	1-7-0	48	118

*Lenoir Rhyne has clinched conference championship

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS

Appalachian 28	Emory and Henry 10
Western Carolina 19	Newberry 0
Guilford 10	Catawba 3
Lenoir Rhyne 20	Elon 6

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Presbyterian	At Western Carolina
Frederick	At Elon
Emory and Henry	At Guilford
Appalachian	At S. E. Louisiana (Nov. 27)
Catawba	at Lenoir Rhyne (Nov. 25?
Presbyterian	At Newberry (Nov. 25)

Lenoir Rhyne Wins Conference Title

Lenoir Rhyne won its twelfth Carolinas Conference title with a 20-6 win over Elon. This gives the Bears a perfect 5-0 slate with but one game left. It was Lenoir Rhyne's first championship team since 1962.

Lenoir Rhyne was helped by Guilford's 10-3 upset of Catawba. It had appeared the conference title would boil down to the Catawba-Lenoir Rhyne game on Thanksgiving day.

It was a close game all the way but a fourth quarter Jimmy Williams to Henry McKay pass spelled disaster for the Catamounts.

Presbyterian unleashed a powerful offense to crush Frederick 37-14. PC roared off to a 21-0 lead but had it cut to 21-14 at halftime. After a hard-fought quarter, the Hose pushed two more scores across for the victory.

Carlos edges out Jernigan
Soccer team takes practice drills seriously

PC Winter Intramurals Set In New Action with Five Sports

Although Intramural football is over, the interest and action of sports continues. There are five winter sports ranging from pool to basketball.

Ping pong is over, and the results of the matches will be released at a later date. The swimming meet was held Wednesday night with the PiKA's winning, and Pi Kappa Phi and Sigma Nu finishing respectively.

New action on campus is the Soccer Team. Bill Crowley has said, "The interest is keen and the team is coming along well." The PC team meets Erskine College on the 30th of this month at Erskine. There will be a return game on December 7. Six more games have been scheduled, tentatively.

Intramural basketball sees 18 teams divided into two leagues, the Red and Blue leagues. These teams will engage in a 70-game schedule. At the end of the season there will be a tournament with double elimination. Crowley stated, "We hope to have an intercolegiate tournament with possibly Wofford, Erskine, and Newberry.

Bill Bassham

Basketball Preview

While most of the students are home celebrating Thanksgiving Holidays, eleven PC men will be laboring on the basketball court. The annual Tip-off tournament gets underway November 26.

BASSHAM

Presbyterian, Erskine, Wofford, and Newberry take part in the annual event. PC faces Erskine, with Wofford and Newberry vying for the second game. On Saturday night the winners will take on each other as will the losers.

PC will play a twenty-three game slate plus the conference tournament. The conference has eleven teams who participate in basketball. Besides those who field football teams, Pheiffer, High Point, and Atlantic Christian will compete in basketball.

The Hose will play twelve conference games this year. Besides traditional games with Erskine, College of Charleston, Augusta, and Piedmont, the Blues will travel to Muncie, Indiana, to play Bull State. Ten of the games will be played at home.

The Conference tournaments will be played February 23-26 at Lexington, North Carolina. The teams will be seeded according to season's performance in the conference.

Five lettermen, five freshmen, and one transfer student will make up the team. Sophomore Richard Quillen is serving as captain. The loss of two lettermen since school began may hinder the team. Coach Art Musselman has been working the team extra hard.

The Blue Hose will again base their offense on the fast break with a man-to-man defense. Changes will come as are needed by Coach Musselman.

PC will be taller than last year, averaging six feet four inches. The probable starting line-up will be Ken Martin and Steve Stein at guards, Doug Allen and Richard Quillen at forwards, and Jim Kiser at center.

Richard Reed and Jimmy Bankhead will join the squad at the conclusion of football season. John Walter, John Lown, and Dave Hudson round out the squad. Gene Sullivan is serving as student manager, and Ray Priestino as assistant coach.

Last week I was pretty lucky, hitting eight out of ten predictions, so I'll try one more time.

South Carolina over Clemson Presbyterian over Western Carolina
Frederick over Elon
Guilford over Emory and Henry
Appalachian over S. E. Louisiana
Catwaba over Lenoir Rhyne (Nov. 25)
Wofford over Davidson
Presbyterian over Newberry (Nov. 25)

HI HO FIRESTONE!—Dr. Joseph M. Gettys is in his fourth year as Academic Dean. During his four years of service he has done much to strengthen the faculty and the academic program of Presbyterian College. Many students feel that "Dr. Joe" is a personal friend of theirs and look to him for advice on many matters.

Campus News Briefs

Europe Wants Collegiate Workers

The Placement Department of the American Student Information Service announces that an interesting selection of summer jobs in Europe, numbering more than 20,000, is available to college students who apply now.

Most jobs do not require previous experience or foreign language ability. Wages range to four hunared dollars a month and room and board is often included.

Available positions include lifeguarding and other resort work, child care, office work, factory work, sales work, farm work, shipboard work, hospital work, construction work and camp counseling.

Although applications are accepted throughout the school year, jobs are given on a first come first served basis. This year the ASIS is granting a $250 travel grant to the frist 5,000 applicants.

Chapel Schedules

Monday — Newberry Blue Key deputation.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, Dr. T. Layton Fraser.

Monday — Dean of the Law School of the University of Georgia.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, Dr. John K. Mitchell, Minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Dearborn, Mich.

Friday—Regular Chapel, Dedication of Greenville Hall, Mr. Buck Nickel, President of Daniel Construction Company.

Holiday Activities

A party for Thornwell Orphanage today kicked off the Student Christian Association's activities for this Thanksgiving season. The Freshman Cabinet held the party for children in the second through sixth grades on the Ponderosa. Games and stories were the planned entertainment, with refreshments rounding out the occasion.

Monday, November 22, the Senior Cabinet will spnosor a formal Thanksgiving worship service for married students. The speaker for the service, which begins in Wyatt Chapel at 8:30 p. m., will be Rev. Harry Ferguson of the Nazareth Presbyterian Church in Moore.

The Senior Cabinet also plans a Thanksgiving Service for the entire student body at 9 p. m. in Wyatt Chapel Tuesday, November 23. The speaker will be Rev. E. W. Rogers of of Broad Street Methodist Church in Clinton.

'War Lover' Plays At Belk Monday

"The War Lover," with Steve McQueen, the first in a series of campus moves, will be shown Monday night, Nov. 22, at 7:3 P. M. in Belk Auditorium. Admission will be 25c per person.

X-mas Holidays

Christmas holidays will begin after classes on Saturday, December 18, Dean Gettys announced today. The change from December 17 is due to the holiday students were given the Saturday of Homecoming Weekend.

Contest

of which are Mary Ann Arnett, Stephen Banakas, Don Dillin, Angie Reyes, Sarah Stribling, and Robin Williams, will perform. Joey and Mac Singleton of Conway will also provide entertainment.

Residents of Clinton, the faculty, and the Student Council are invited to attend. Miss Freshman and first and second runner-up in the contest will participate in the Clinton Christmas parade.

Action

out into the open such an opinion through the use of this poll.

The students have no power to take any further action in the direction. What can be done must be accomplished at a higher echelon, but we can keep them informed of our interest and are bound to continue to do so until some positive action are effective.

Women

docket for Wednesday's meeting. Junior representative Bob Warren initiated the debate, moving that "members of the Women's Council shall not be permitted to serve in an ex-officio capacity on the Student Council."

"The Student Council is at present contemplating moving into a three-branch government," President Lovett stated. "With a girl serving in an ex-officio capacity to the present council, it would not only give this body better understanding, but it would also serve as advantageous to the council in their efforts to revise the constitution."

Junior represenative Bob Herlong, an outspoken opponent of the motion, made this statement to the paper: "One of the main arguments for this motion was that members of the Student Council are elected by the student body to represent them. I feel that the main point here is that these members are representatives of the student body. The fact that they are elected is of little importance in this argument. In order to provide a more complete representation and a better rounded view of the feelings of the entire student body, I feel that a female representative is essential."

Warren volunteered the following as his stand: "Because the Student Council is an elected and a representative body of the whole student body, I believe that an ex-officio member appointed by the council would be superfluous.

"Each Student Council member should represent the students first and then the organization to which he belongs second. Included in these organizations would be any hall sections or dorm blocks; therefore, if Clinton Hall had an ex-officio member, then every other dorm or hall or organization has the right and privilege to the same representation."

The Greeks

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

When it comes to the question of discrimination, especially among Greek organizations at the universities and colleges, the logic of questions and affirmation which seem imperative to those of liberal persuasion, unlawful overthrow of the U. S. Government such as loyalty to the United States, etc., seems to vanish. It is these same parties of liberals who wish to compel all Greek organizations to answer "discriminations" affidavits and loyalty oaths, when at the same time and over different topics of loyalty, they suggest that no citizen should have to plead or affairm his loyalty, that such is to be presumed in the absence of proof to the contrary.

"Have you ever or do you now discriminate in membership on the basis of color, creed, national origin, religion, or sex:" arose as the new interrogary, and "We pledge that we do not now, nor will we in the future discriminate on the basis of color, creed, national origin, religion or sex" becomes the new loyalty oath to integration. Already many colleges and universities are requiring Greek chapters to sign "loyalty oaths," with regard to efforts to eliminate discrimination in their respective nationals. (Sex, of course, will have to be terminated from the oaths, since most fraternities do not take a woman, and most sororities will not take men. The list of those who do remains confidential.)

Discrimination based on the enumerated premises is deplorable, but what is irksome is the double standard that seems to exist. It doesn't seem consistent, regardless of the worth of intentions, to argue and campaign against affidavits and loyalty oaths when inconsistent with one's interests, and then turn around and impose one's objectives when it is advantageous.

So that we may not be trapped into raising the double standard, it is imperative when pressing for anti-discrimination in the Greek system, if you chose this action, that you don't resort to methods and tactics that you yourself would feel reprehensible in a different given circumstance.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

From the Sigma Nu Fraternity: Placed third in swimming intramural meet; posting three basketball teams: main team, Snakes, and Worms coached by Webb Watters and Brad Ray. Gordan Adam is the "Head" basketball referee.

The Alpha Sigma Phi's are making final plans for Christmas Dance Weekend. Brooks Styles has lavaliered Miss Ellen McCulloch of Queens College. Brother of the Week is Buddy Guy.

The Kappa Alpha Order is having a closed combo party Saturday night with the Nomads.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

West Coast Corporation recently reorganized that can withstand rigid financial examination is offering on a no-franchise fee basis exclusive distributorships. This is a product in demand by every home owner and every business and is currently being used by such national organizations as Sears, Roebuck and Co., Holiday Inn Motels and various branches of the armed forces. Product 100% guaranteed; investment from $600 to $14,000. Investment guaranteed with 100% markup. Manufacturer has proven method of distribution advertising and merchandising. A factory representative will assist you in setting up your business. For complete details and descriptive literature write National Chem-Plastics Corp., 1550 Page Industrial Blvd., St. Louis, Missouri 63132, or call collect Robert T. Adams at Ha-6-7242, Area Code 314.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
"RED LINE 7000"
Caan, Devon, Hire, Holt, Crawford, Hill, Ward, Alden

MON.-TUES., NOV. 22-23
"THAT FUNNY FEELING"
Sandra Dee and Bobby Darin

STARTS WED., NOV. 24
"HARUM SCARUM"
Elvis Presley

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, December 3, 1965 | NO. 8

Karen Weaver Wins Title As PC's 1st Miss Freshman

By WOODY HALL

For the first time in the history of the 85-year-old institution, the freshman class of Presbyterian College sponsored a Miss Freshman beauty pageant last Monday evening, November 29, and Miss Karen Weaver of Atlanta was chosen by a panel of judges to be the reigning queen.

GOVERNOR McNAIR

Miss Weaver was sponsored by the pledge class of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. Miss Frances Wade, from Decatur, Ga., the candidate sponsored by the PaC SaC, was named first runner-up; and Miss Pat Burton of Charleston, sponsored by the Calvert House, was second runner-up.

The panel of judges included Miss Marian Hill, Dean of Women; Dr. R. L. Morgan, Professor of Bible; Henry Lovett, Student Body President; Tom Leland, editor of the PaC SaC; Sam Waters, editor of The Blue Stocking; Jim Stanford, SCA president; Miss Amelia Nichols, Homecoming Queen; and Miss Susan Gilbert, Women's Dorm Council President, all of Presbyterian College.

Before a crowd of 175 students, faculty members, and residents of Clinton, the ten contestants were presented twice in different outfits. During the second presentation each candidate was asked a question. The questions asked ranged from "What would be the first thing you would do if you were elected President of Presbyterian College?" and "What would you do if you suddenly discovered that your husband was a Communist?" to "When have you been the most embarassed?" and "If you could date anyone in the entire world, who would you date and for what reasons?"

PC's own "Friendly Folk" provided entertainment between the two presentations. Their renditions of "Silvey" and especially "Hey, Liddea, Lidden" were loudly applauded.

Miss Weaver was presented a trophy and was then crowned by Ray Combs, President of the Freshman Class. Dillard Boland, Jeweler, of Clinton, donated the crown, and Cally Gault, Jr., acted as crown bearer.

Miss Freshman and the two runners-up participated in the Clinton Christmas parade held yesterday.

—Photo by Howard

Her Majesty Receives Her Crown
Miss Karen Weaver accepts the laurels of her victory from Ray Combs.

Greenville Hall Dedicated; Clinton Dorm Services Next

A double-barreled dedication program at Presbyterian College this weekend will feature Governor Robert E. McNair, ace builder Buck Mickel, Whitten Village's own B. O. Whitten and two buildings representing $1 million dollars in brick and mortar.

Together, they form a colorful combination to spotlight the biggest phase yet achieved in PC's long-range program. And they will pay tribute to the generous spirit that moved two special communities in behalf of Christian higher education here.

Activities began Friday morning with an address by Mickel, president of the Daniel Construction Company, and the formal dedication of Greenville Dining Hall.

Governor McNair will speak Sunday afternoon at the formal ceremonies dedicating Clinton Hall women's dormitory. This is also the occasion when PC will honor Dr. B. O. Whitten, recently retired Whitten Village superintendent, with an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree. It's set for 3 p.m. in Belk Auditorium.

The convocation on Sunday afternoon is of special significance to Clinton residents. They subscribed the entire $500,000 cost of PC's first women's dormitory, which this fall ushered in a new era of full coeducation. And college officials felt it fitting at this time to combine the official naming of Clinton Hall with the presentation of an honbrary degree to one of Clinton's foremost sons, Dr. Whitten.

Greenville Hall and Clinton Hall are two of three air-conditioned buildings which have been under construction on thePresbyterian College Campus for the past year. They were completed in time for the start of the 1965-66 session in September. The third structure, the new science building, is almost finished and will be dedicated at a later date. All three new structures follow the colonial Georgian style of architecture in keeping with the style of other buildings.

Presbyterian Students Participate In Mock Assembly at State Capitol

By BROOKS STYLES

This weekend at Columbia, representatives from the colleges and universities of South Carolina meet for the South Carolina State Student Legislature. PC will be represented by Henry Lovett, David Berry, Rusty Nelson, Will Scott, and Bob Waren.

Lovett will act as Secretary of State while Berry and Nelson will sit in the Senate and Scott and Warren in the House of Representatives. Warren is also chairman of the Finance Committee and will possibly seek election to an office in next year's Student Legislature.

The Student Legislature was originated in 1955 as the Student Government Association with the purpose of giving college students of South Carolina an organization through which they could express their opinions. It achieved its present form in 1960 as the South Carolina State Student Legislature and meets twice a year, once in the fall for a legislative session and again in the spring for a planing session. It is supported both physically and financialy by the State Elks Club.

The State Student Legislature is the strongest available organization through which college students throughout the state may express their opinions as to how their state should be run.

Legislation formed and passed by the students is forwarded to the State General Assembly for considerartion, and much has been acted on and passed by the State Legislature.

This Student Legislature also serves as a means through which college students may obtain legislative experience and a working understanding of governmental process.

This year Bill Youngblood of USC will serve as governor with Larry Estridge of Furman as Lt. Governor and John Matthew of Clemson filling the position of Speaker of the House.

Seniors Finish Cards Drive; Send Greetings to Vietnam

By ROB DALTON

American troops in Vietnam will receive Christmas cards from PC's students this year. The Senior Class sponsored a drive, beginning November 19 and concluding November 29, netting over $61 from the college's students and faculty for the purchase of 400 to 450 cards.

The cards were maied in groups of 100 to each armed forces division serving in Vietnam. There they will be distributed to each company-sized unit, one card for each company.

The Christmas cards are signed "From the students of Presbyterian College, Clinton, South Carolina." They were mailed last Wednesday, December1, and should arrive in Vietnam in time for Christmas.

Senior Class President, Buddy Guy, gave PC students an insight into the reason the senior class chose this project. Guy stated, "With so much student activity against the United States' involvement in Vietnam, the least we could do would be to show our appreciation for our own people being killed so that we can live in a free land.

Whether we agree with the U. S. position or not, the fact is that we are fighting. The Senior Class felt that was a small way

See CARDS Col. 3, Page 4

Dining Hall Sees Changes

By JIM RAMAGE

A committee concerned with the conditions of the dining hall was formed for a meeting Monday, November 22. The committee, instituted by Mr. Ed Campbell, made several changes in the operating policies of the dining hall.

The breakfast time has been changed adding a forty-five minute period after 7:45 when students will be permitted to have coffee, milk, and cereal. During this period students will be asked to sit in a certain section so that tables may be cleaned quicker.

Mrs. Bowers agreed that students should be able to have second servings of all the foods except meat. If any meat is left over at the end of the serving period, students are welcome to it for as long as it lasts.

The members of the committee, feeling that student opinion is very important in building a better school, have placed a suggestion box in the cafeteria for this purpose. The suggestions made should be reasonable and a student who makes a suggestion must sign his name so that he can be notified about the progress being made concerning his suggestion.

The parking situation at the dining hall was also discussed at this meeting. Temporary parking facilities are being constructed to accommodate students. The seeded areas around Greenville Hall are being blocked off by logs so that cars can be kept off the grass.

This new committee will continue in the future to work on behalf of the students. Cooperation with the school policies and the use of the suggestion box should greatly help PC's progress.

Members of the committee are Mr. G. Ed Campbell, Mr. John Daniluk, Col. A. J. Thackston, Mrs. S. P. Bowers, Sam Waters, Henry Lovett, Susan Gilbert, Larry Preston, Dan Taylor, and David Davies.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325

SAM WATERS, Editor — MERRIE STANCILL, Ass't. Editor — DAVE VENEKLASEN, Mng. Editor

Prelude to Progress

The new changes in the dining hall functions announced in this week's paper could be the beginnings of a program to accommodate more fully the will of the student body at PC.

The willingness of administrators, the dining hall manager, and several students to gripe with the grievances against the dining hall November 22 merits commendation.

However, in making some concessions to students' requests, there seemed to be implied some sort of a bargain. The actions of some students in the dining hall, accordnig to Mrs. S. P. Bowers, dining hall manager, and G. Edward Campbell, college business manager, are the arresting forces that have a part in restricting many changes in service.

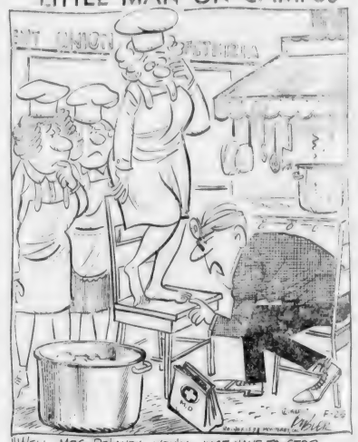
Although this situation was implied, and although the paper does not endorse a "scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" policy, it does recognize the fact of the matter. If the student body is genuinely interested in making changes for the better, it will have to play the game.

Since our administrators are looking at what students do rather than say, then student actions will of necessity, have to justify the validity of their grievances. If students ignore the opportunity of responsibility, they will have cancelled the efforts of the groups already seeking better conditions.

Juvenile displays, and actions suggestive of ill-breeding made by students in the dining hall are definitely hurting their own cause. For instance, last week three jars of peanut butter were found with pepper shakers, milk, and cigarette butts crammed in their tops. Countless times students have completely left their during-the-meal messes repulsively covering table tops, chairs and floors. And at least one student has written several crude, insulting and profane messages on napkins before leaving the dining hall.

This kind of activity is disgraceful to the student body (no matter how bad one finds the meal to be) and has to be stopped, or progressive change will fail to come altogether.

Diplomacy is the key to winning the good will and support of those in charge. If the students will, for their own self-respect, as well as for the sake of progress, conduct themselves in a more discerning manner in the future, there lies ahead the promise of more complete satisfaction for the entire student body.



A 'Sick' Situation

It is generally held as truth in most areas that sickness is not only undesirable, but also not given to regulation as to when it appears. Scheduled hours in which to be sick, and Tums for all illnesses except possibly epileptic seizures present a discouraging outlook for the student body member who is truly in need of medical attention.

Granted, many students have and will try to get out of classes, drill and quizzes by playing sick, but these represent the minority of those requesting infirmary aid.

The possibility that the rapid growth has not taken into account the increased burden in this area is evident. Another professional added to the staff could eliminate overtaxing one person's patience and energies. If this is feasible it could relieve a great deal of strain and misunderstanding on both sides.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WELL, MRS. DELANEY, YOU'LL JUST HAVE TO STOP MASHING POTATOES UNTIL THIS RASH CLEARS UP."

Letter to the Editor

Frosh Dumb, Dazed or Dead?

Dear Editor:

PC has for some time been thought of as a "country club" with its academic affairs as a by-product of its purpose. Times are changing, and PC has changed in the right direction but greater steps have to be taken if it is to become one of the best small colleges in the South.

The most significant aspect of change for an institution is academic improvement which must be brought about by two processes. The first of these is a requirement that classroom work must become more demanding, and the second is that students must work harder outside of class to meet the demand in the classroom. If either of the two is not present, academic progress cannot be made. I am sure no one would challenge the fact that classroom work has become more demanding, but everyone could challenge the fact that students are doing what is expected of them.

Figures released by the office of the Academic Dean on November 19 show that 39 per cent of all grades were in the D or F category. Or approximately two out of every five grades were D's or F's. It it easly seen that a large percentage of students are not performing according to their capability; therefore, a large number of students are lacking in the second process mentioned above.

Freshmen must realize how serious the situation is. What they do first semester will largely determine what they do in college. It is during the first part of their college career that good study habits are or are not formed. Also it should be pointed out that the more hours a student earns the harder it is to change his quality point ratio.

In the the same memo from the Academic Dean the figures were given that 170 out of 280 Freshmen made three or more D's and F's while 73 out of 395 upperclassmen did. With the Freshman class having the highest SAT scores of any class there is no other excuse except the Freshmen are not doing what they are capable of doing. Of the total number of D's and F's given, 48.8 per cent and 65.6 per cent, respectively, were earned by Freshmen.

Without a doubt there is a problem. It must be remedied now—not only because final grades will soon be recorded, but also for the sake of the past, present, and future students of this institution.

—T. A. Whitaker

Movie Review

What? Robots in Bikinis?

By CHRISTIE PATTERSON

"Dr. Goldfoot and the Bikini Machine."

Lively songs with a beat, a tenor out of the catacombs, and a secret agent on the loose for laughs make the new spoof comedy, "Dr. Goldfoot and the Bikini Machine" an entertainment treat.

Starring Vincent Price, Frankie Avalon, Dwayne Hickman, Susan Hart, and Jack Mullaney, with special guest star Fred Clark, the new movie offering for the "twixt, tween and twenty" movie-goers is a bizarre tale about a mad scientist who wants to corner the world's wealth.

In order to do so he has invented an amazing machine that manufactures bikini-clad, life-like robots. After he hooks the robots up to electronic equipment which teaches them the likes and dislikes of his prospects, Price sends the beauties out to marry milionaires.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
DR. GOFDOOT AND THE BIKINI MACHINE
Vincent Price, Frankie Avalon, Dwayne Hickman, Susan Hart

MON.-TUES.-WED.
WINTER A-GO-GO
With James Stacy

Letter Policy

Due to the active interest of students in writing letters to the editor, some changes in length of letters should be effected. In the future the letters to the editor should not exceed 250 words, typed in double space, and submitted not later than 8:00 p. m. on Wednesdays.

Letters do not necessarily express the views of the Blue Stocking.

Dave Veneklasen, Mng. Ed.

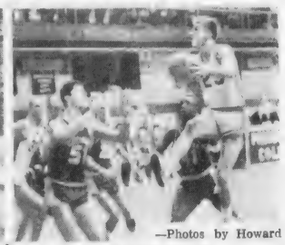
Curriculum Stranglehold

As Presbyterian College makes more changes in its physical plant such as a new science hall, new dining hall and women's dorm, and more changes in its rules dealing with cuts and so on, there is one more change that should be considered. With the world of business and industry crying for more specialization from college graduates the choice of a field of concentration becomes more important.

DAVE

Under the general education requirements of PC a student is required to take 12 hours of Bible, eight hours of lab science, 12 hours of English, 12 hours of foreign language, six hours of mathematics, eight hours of military science, and six hours of history. All these requirements total sixty-four hours with the remaining six hours taken up by electives. Theoretically all these courses should be completed during the freshman and sophomore year.

During the middle of his sophomore year the student is asked to make a statement of major. How is he supposed to make a wise choice having completed only those courses that are required along with six hours of an elective. The required courses limit the student in his contact with other major fields whose courses are not included in the general education requirements. The only possible opportunity available is the six hours elective in the sophomore year.



Would it not be to the advantage of the student to give him an opportunity to take more electives during his first two years. This would give him a chance to better select his major field because he has had some contact with other than required courses. With more departments being created in the college it is possible the student will not be able to take full advantage of them because he is strangled by required courses that could be fulfilled during his junior and senior year.

Final CC Standings

Team	Con.	Pts.	Pts.	Overall	Pts.	Pts.
Lenoir Rhyne	6-0-0	109	46	7-3-0	177	164
Guilford	3-1-0	49	19	6-3-0	209	74
Western Carolina	5-2-0	94	60	7-3-0	148	78
Catawba	3-3-0	95	71	7-3-0	242	126
Appalachian	3-3-0	56	79	5-5-0	115	138
Newberry	3-4-0	44	71	3-7-0	77	163
Presbyterian	1-4-0	45	82	5-5-0	129	145
Elon	0-7-0	33	100	4-7-0	89	125

A-A-Agh!
Allen just barely gets this one off

Up, over and through PC could have used a few more of these

—Photos by Howard

Soccer Kicks Off; Ties With Erskine

Due West — Presbyterian's first soccer team tied its opening game this week with a seasoned Erskine squad by a 1 to 1 score. Erskine had won three previous matches and had been practicing for two months.

The tie showed that PC is ready to participate in intercollegiate soccer. Everyone played better than expected since most of the boys had not played in two years. They had only practiced for two weeks before the game.

A starting line of Rick Sjoholm, Carlos Emanuel, Arthur Clements, Eddie Miller, and Walt Sheppard displayed good talent. Sheppard scored the Blue Hose's only goal.

The backfield was composed of Bony Peace, Jim Humphries, Les Newsome, Richard Waters, and Pat Brown. Mac Binion played goalie.

Next Tuesday the soccer team will host Erskine here at 2:00 p. m.

The football field now has soccer goals and field markings. Because of the efforts of the athletic department and the maintenance department, the soccer team now has a regulation field to practice on.

Basketball Team Seeking 1st Win; Inexperience Plagues PC Varsity

By MIKE SIMONS

The 1965 edition of the Blue Hose basketball squad will be shooting for its first winning season in six years. Art Musselman begins his third year as cage mentor with a hard struggle facing him and his team, if this goal is to be reached.

The early season loss of Gordon Adam, last season's top scorer with an 18.8 point average, and Bob McGregor, an outstanding substitute last season, considerably hurt the Hose's propsects.

Richard Quillen, the top returning scorer and leading rebounder, will be out for at least a month with calcium deposits in his legs. This was a crushing blow, since the brunt of the Hose offense was on Quillen's shoulders. He averaged 11.3 points and 7.7 rebounds per game last season and the Hose must find somebody to take up the slack while he is out of action.

Returnees from last year's squad, which posted a 9-17 won-lost record, include, besides Quillen, Doug Allen, a 6 ft., 6 in. senior, Jimmy Bankhead, 6 ft., 3 in. senior, Ken Martin, 6 ft., 2 in. sophomore, and Richard Reed, 6 ft., 4 in. sophomore.

Several new players will see considerable action as the season progress, and some of them will start. The latter include Steve Stine, a 6 ft. junior playing basketball at PC for the first time, and 6 ft., 8 in. freshman, Jim Kiser, who is slated to handle the center chores. Freshmen on the squad include Dave Hudson, John Lown, Doug McLeod, and John Walther.

It is clearly evident that the frosh will play an increasingly important role in the Hose's basketball fortunes. They will form the reserve corps which the Hose must have in order to be successful this season.

The Hose have dropped their first four games of the season, two in the Tip-Off Tourney and two more during regular season play. They have experienced some difficulty in bringing the ball down the court in recent games, but the return of Quillen should alleviate that problem.

The Hose will attempt to pick up their first wins as they hit the road for contests against Ball State University of Muncie, Ind., and a return match against the Catawba Indians. They will return to Clinton on December 10, for a game with Augusta College.

The Hose have twenty-one regular season contests scheduled, with ten of these being at home and eleven on the road. Included in this schedule are twelve Carolina Conference foes and several interstate opponents. At present PC stands 0-2 in the conference.

In addition to the regular season affairs, the Hose will journey to Lexington, N. C., in late February for the Carolinas Conference Tournament.

Bill Bassham

Where Is The Fault?

With basketball season less than a week old PC's hopes look very dim. We have lost four straight games and managed only 32 points in two of those outings. The Catawba game showed some improvement which may have come with the additions of Jimmy Bankhead and Richard Reed.

BILL

In the Catawba game the Blue Hose began playing very poor ball. Time and again we took the ball down the court only to throw it away. In the second half the team pulled together and played some ball. At one point they pulled to within nine points, only to have Catawba pull away again.

Students had varied comments leaving the game. Unfortunately the concensus was that the team has very little chance. It is very easy to jump on a dog while he is down. This is not a criticism of the student body, since most of us are that way because we are human.

This is not a criticism of the team, because those boys are giving all they have. To go through what they do, every member on the team needs all the support in the world from the student body. The fault does not lie with these boys. Many of them were thrown into starting positions unexpectedly due to unforseen developments.

Another scapegoat can be Coach Art Musselman. The fault does not lie here either. No one on this campus wants a winning team more than the Coach. His recruiting is not at fault. Last year five outstanding boys were brought in but Lady Luck decided to change that.

Many criticisms have come for the dismissal of one of the state's leading players. Sure, it would be great to have this individual in uniform. But rules, no matter how insignificant, are made to be kept by the whole team. Discipline of all is necessary for a team. It takes a lot of courage for a coach to stand up for his principles.

Another fault has been the step up in academics. It is becoming increasingly hard to get good athletes who can keep up the lead with the books. This has already cost us two players this year. Then the final crippling blow came when Richard Quillen was put out of action for a month with a leg injury.

Where does the fault lie? Certainly not with any one faction. Lady Luck has cast her shadow on us, and the student body will have to make do with what they have. This means support our teams and help them pull together to win some games. A winning team doesn't need support as much as a losing one. Support to our team can help them more than any other element to get spirit and confidence.

It seems that what was supposed to be our year has turned into another rebuilding year. But this is not the time to turn our backs on them. Now is the time to stand behind the Blue Hose and support them.

PiKAs, Sigma Nus Pre-season Pick To Capture League Championships

SCOUTING REPORT
By GENE SULLIVAN

Intramural basketball bounced into a spotlight last week as eighteen teams competed in the winter sports program.

RED LEAGUE

In the Red League the PiKA first team is a pre-season favorite. Don Blanchard, Sandy Lynn and Mike Donovan should be too much for anyone in the league.

The Sinkers are a big surprise led by the shooting of guard John McGill and the rebounding of Glen Riddle. Some speculate they will be able to unesat the PiKAS.

The PiKA second team is another favorite. They are led by Mel Davis, Phil Olmert, and the Singletons and could be the competitors for second place.

The Bandits rely on the shooting of Chuck Sharman and John Bankhead and seem to be an average contender.

If offense is the key, then the Pushers have a chance. They have three men in scoring in double figures with Sullivan Lassiter, and Hope and could possibly be trouble.

Upset in their first outing, the Snakes could come back and be tough. They rely on the ability of Bill Crowley, Bill Buchheit, and Bob Sleet.

The Crushers have the size but not the scoring punch. Their only hopes rest on Jim Elliott, Tom Campbell, and Al Callaway.

As usual the Faculty is the "dark horse" team of the league. With Creel's rebounding ability and Burnside's defensive play the faculty could go if they can find a big scorer.

In last place are the lowly Oxen who could possibly win one or two if Skip Horne and George Lattimer come around.

BLUE LEAGUE

Probably the most likely choice this year is the Sigma Nus. With Frank Markette, George Taylor and freshmen Robin Williams and Hart Cobb, this is the team to beat. Andy Cooper adds depth to the team.

The most serious contenders seem to be the KAs, led by scoring leader Joe Gettys and forward Tim Yancey, and the Theta Chis, who rely on David Welborn, Gene Bowie, and Paul Robins.

Alpha Sigma Phi has three good freshmen, but have to rely on Grady Marshall and Buddy Guy for too much. If the freshmen come around in time, they could be trouble.

Pi Kappa Phi is also a young club led by David Cottingham and Pete Collins. They too could upset some teams.

The Rebels, Worms, and Johns have a long way to go but their games between each other should be good.

The Outlaws' chances depend on Bob McBee and Bob Newman for their success.

Intramural director Ben Crabtree sees this year's activities as the best in recent years.

Indians Blank Hose In Season's Finale

The Presbyterian Colege Blue Hose wrapped up the 1965 football season with a disappointing 5 win, 5 loss record.

The statistics for the overall season were fairly well balanced. The top scorer for Presbyterian was RRchard Reed who was 13 for 13 in the point after touchdown department for the year. And in a recent survey taken by the Greensboro Daily News for the Carolinas Conference the Hose had two men on the squad: Sam Lyons and Jimmy Bankhead.

The leading rusher for the Hose were Sam Williams who had 522 yards in 125 carries for an average of 4.2 yards per carry.

In passing, Bill Kirtland had 66 completions for 132 tries gaining 903 yards.

Campus News Briefs

Jewish Rabbi to Speak in Chapel

Rabbi Edward L. Cohn, inaugurating the first in the Christian Vocations Club's series of "The World's Great Religions," will address PC's student body during the regular chapel hour Monday, December 6.

Rabbi Cohn received his B. A. Degree from the State University of Iowa. He was ordained at Hebrew College, Jewish Institute of Religion, in 1961, receiving his M. H. L. Degree.

Rabbi Cohn is spiritual leader of Temple Israel in Greenville. He previously served as assistant rabbi at Temple Emanu-El in Birmingham, Ala.

The rabbi has done considerable work with the National Federation of Temple Youth and was a faculty member of the National Camp Institute for two years.

The rabbi lectures on college campuses under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society, an organization which creates better understanding of Jews and Judaism through education. The Jewish Chautauqua Society is sponsored by the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods.

Rabbi Cohn will hold an informal discussion group that evening as well as speak to any students personally.

RABBI COHN

Chapel Schedule

Monday — Rabbi Edward L. Cohn, Temple Israel, Greenville. Program sponsored by the Christian Vocations Club. See article.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service. The Rev. Joseph A. Greer, First Presbyterian Church, Clinton.

Friday — No chapel. Special pre-registration schedule.

Xmas Carol Service

A Christmas carol service will be held December 12 in Belk Auditorium beginning at 5:00 p. m. Presbyterian College's 34-voiced choir will present a program of special music and selected readings pertinent to the Christmas story.

The music will range from selections of composers of the sixteenth century to the present. The choir will also sing several carol arrangements. Guitar, percussion, trumpet, and organ will accompany the choir in its presentations. The choir will close its part of the program with the singing of several anthems unaccompanied.

A part of the program will be devoted to carol singing, and the congregation will be invited to participate. The service is open to the student body and the public.

—Photo by Har

WYSOR RIFLES AT WHITTEN VILLAGE

The Wysor Rifles, drill team of Presbyterian College, were one of several units in the Annual Whitten Village Christmas parade. Marching also in the parade was the Presbyterian College Drum and Bugle Corps, better known as the Grenadiers.

Jaycees, SCA To Solicit Funds

The Clinton Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Presbyterian College student body will solicit funds for needy families Sunday, December 12, between eight and ten in the morning. Money raised will be used to purchase shoes, clothes, and toys as well as to sponsor a party for the underprivileged children of the Clinton area. The goal this year is to raise $500 to provide Christmas gifts for 50 children.

The SCA is asking the support of the fraternities, the independents, and the coeds in this soliciting. Andy Cooper is chairman of the SCA committee which will organize the student body's part in this project.

Jim Stanford, president of the SCA, has announced that a plaque will be presented to the group offering the greatest participation in the drive. All groups are urged to support this effort.

Breakfast will be served from 7:00 until 7:30 to those helping with the drive, and doughnuts and coffee will be served in the dining room from 8:00 until 9:30 to solicitors as they return.

The Greeks

Jimmy Humphries
Greek Editor

This weekend marks the spot on our calendar for the annual PC Christmas Dance Weekend. In the past, with the exception of last year, fraternity Pledge Day preceded Christmas Dance Weekend, affording high spirits from freshmen and upperclass fratenrity men to charge into this weekend with. But now all we have is the Christmas spirit and prayers for no tests Friday, Saturday, or Monday.

The six fraternities on campus are having combos from all over the South in all sorts of quaint little night spots throughout Clinton and neighboring cities of "the belt."

For years in the past the IFC has sponsored a big name band for this weekend's concert, but due to the bad attendance and lack of necessary support, this practice has been withheld.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity has the Swinging Kings at a party in Newberry Friday night. Saturday night at 8:00 at the Newberry Country Club they are having Dr. Feelgood and the Interns. Both parties are closed. Saturday afetrnoon they are having a Christmas party at Thornwell Orphanage where Allen Harris will play Santa Claus, and Bruce Lawrence will be his elf helper.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity is having a closed party Saturday night from 8:00 till 12:00 p. m. at the Whitmire Armory featuring the Six Pack from Savannah, Ga. Brother Bobby Staton was recently pinned to Miss Margie Madans from Charlotte, N. C., who attends the University of North Carolina.

The Kappa Alpha Order is having a closed party Friday night featuring the Fabulous Five and one Saturday night with the Dynamic Showman, from Greenville, at the Legion Hut in Clinton. During intermission Saturday night the KAs will present their 1965-66 Rose, Miss Jeannie Byrd of Queens College, from Atlanta, Ga. Jimmy Humphries has pinned Miss Mary Emma Fowler from Marietta, Ga., who attends the University of Georgia.

The Theta Chi Fraternity will have a closed party Friday night with the Dynamics at the Greenwood Shrine Club and one Saturday night with the Fabulous Five also at the Greenwood Shrine Club.

The Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity is having a record party Friday night in their suite and a closed party Saturday night at Charlie's School House on the Spartanburg Highway featuring the Rogues from Gainesville, Ga.

After a closed record party Friday night in their suite, the Alpha Sigs will have the Soul Masters at Barnes' Barn on Saturday night. This party will be closed except by invitation. The annual weekend has an additional attraction with its little-brother-to-big-brother gross gifts, to be presented during intermission at Friday's party.

Cards Continued from Page 1 in which we could express our gratitude to our own people who will not be able to have a Christmas such as we will experience.

The money for this project was collected in the Dining Hall during meals. Donations averaged about seven cents per person.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY
West Coast Corporation recently reorganized that can withstand rigid financial examination is offering on a no-franchise fee basis exclusive distributorships. This is a product in demand by every home owner and every business and is currently being used by such national organizations as Sears, Roebuck and Co., Holiday Inn Motels and various branches of the armed forces. Product 100% guaranteed; investment from $600 to $14,000. Investment guaranteed with 100% markup. Manufacturer has proven method of distribution advertising and merchandising. A factory representative will assist you in setting up your business. For complete details and descriptve literature write National Chem-Plastics Corp., 1550 Page Industrial Blvd., St. Louis, Missouri 63132, or call collect Robert T. Adams at Ha-6-7242, Area Code 314.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street — Clinton, S. C.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square — Laurens

Christmas Gifts
Holiday Clothes
Casual and Formal
The Tweed Shop
S. Broad St. - Telephone 833-0980

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, December 10, 1965 — NO. 10

Freedom Xmas Asks Volunteers to Help In S.C. Voter Drive

Washington — A major voter registration drive, Freedom Christmas, is underway in the states covered by the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Five national civil rights groups — SNCC, MFDP, CORE, SCLC, and NAACP—have requested the aid of hundreds of student volunteers during Christmas vacations and semester breaks; and USNSA has responded with a recruiting campaign designed to get 30 to 600 volunteers into the field by December 20.

The volunteers will canvass door to door to encourage people to register, drive these people to the registrars' offices, publicize meetings, and help in voter education projects.

Each volunteer will attend an orientation session given by the civil rights group with which he will be working. If a volunteer has been a civil rights worker previously, he may be assigned to his area of experience.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will be running projects in at least 17 South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, North Carolina and Florida counties. Similar projects will be in effect in the western states of the Deep South; however, specific projects which will require workers have not been determined yet.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference will be working mainly in the urban centers. Projects in Atlanta, Birmingham, and Montgomery are planned; and (if enough volunteers are available) Bessemer, Chattanooga, and Charleston will also require volunteers. Orientation will take place at Morris Brown College in Atlanta on December 21, although workers who cannot come South till later are welcome.

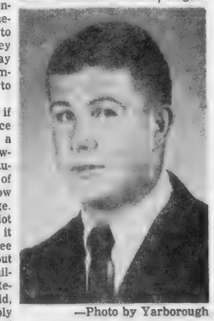
Warren Elected Lt. Governor Of State Student Legislature

—Photo by Howard

By RUSTY NELSON

The South Carolina Student State Legislature opened its fall session on Thursday, December 2, at the state capitol in Columbia. About 150 students from 12 South Carolina colleges and universities attended. Each institution was represented by two senators and a number of representatives determined by the enrollment of the school.

A number of bills and resolutions were processed through committees and sent to the houses for consideration by the aspiring young legislators. Of the 50 bills introduced, 29 were passed by both houses and some of these were strongly amended. One such bill, providing for damage or loss to a South Carolina resident, was drafted by Bob Warren, and presented in committee and on the senate floor by a member of the PC delegation. It was passed without amendment.



PC was represented in the senate by Henry Lovett and Rusty Nelson, and in the house by Bob Warren, Will Scott, and David Berry. Lovett, a veteran of three such assemblies, served as head of the delegation as well as Secretary of State, and his influence on his fellow student-solons was apparent as he distinguished himself in debate on the senate floor and in political maneuvers behind the scenes.

The climax of the conclave came Saturday morning with the election of offcers in joint session after the legislative docket had been cleared. Bob Warren of PC was victorious in the contest for Lt. Governor, defeating Jim Row of The Citadel. Dan Yarborough of Furman defeated Terry Richardson of Clemson in the gubernatorial election. Hs name had been placed in nomination by Henry Lovett.

Thornton Compton of Carolina, Wain White of Wofford, and Angela Brown of Winthrop were unopposed for Speaker of the House, President pro-tem of the Senate, and Speaker pro-tem of the House, respectively.

Headquarters for the delegates was the Hotel Columbia, across the street from the capitol. The hotel was the location, between sessions, for much

SEE WARREN Col. 2, Page 4

—Photo by Yarborough
ROBERT WARREN

Jaycees, SCA Set Sights for $500 In Sunday Drive for Clinton Needy

By JIM STANFORD

A goal of $500 has been set for the up-coming Christmas Stocking Drive scheduled for Sunday morning. The project is being jointly sponsored by the Clinton Jaycees and the Student Christian Association of Presbyterian College. The money collected will be used to purchase clothing, shoes and gifts for several needy families. Everything in the way of organization has been completed. The people of Clinton have been informed of the drive and are expecting to be solicited. The only question that remains: Is the Presbyterian College student body ready? Will they be out in force early Sunday morning?

For the benefit of those students who do turn out, the dining hall will serve breakfast from 7:00 to 7:30 Sunday morning and will continue to serve coffee and doughnuts until 9:30 to those returning from drives.

Jim Stanford, President of the Student Christian Association, had this to say, "A great deal of work has gone into this event. Plans were started over a month and a half ago so that things will go smoothly Sunday morning. The Jaycees were wonderful to accept us like they have and allow us to work with them on their Christmas project. They have done a tremendous job in publicity and in securing lay-outs of the town to guide the collectors, and they will be out to help us on Sunday morning. Their part is now completed and our thanks go to them for all of it.

"It would be a shame now if this thing fell flat on its face Sunday morning, and if only a handful of P. C. students showed up. I would remind the student body that the people of Clinton are looking at them now as a group, not at the college. They are really expecting a lot of the students. Is it not worth it to get up early for two or three hours one Sunday morning out of the year to make some children happy this Christmas? Remember you were once a child, and you enjoyed (and probably

SEE DRIVE Col. 3, Page 4

HR Panel Disagrees on Viet Policy

A number of students and faculty members were recently exposed to varying views on the United States' involvement in Vietnam. Dr. Burnside, Mr. Ingle, Col. Fraser, and Mr. Halsall presented their views of the situaton at a session on Wednesday night, December 8.

This meeting of the minds was sponsored by the Human Relations Council for the purpose of stimulating thought and encouraging the formation of individual opinion.

Dr. Burnside is of the opinion that U. S. Foreign policy needs re-evaluaton. He questions whether or not the role of the U. S. as the world-wide police force is realistic. He considers the SEATO agreement to be unbinding unless all signing nations decide on an action and carry it out jointly.

Dr. Burnside pointed out that in 1964 the U. S. spent 3 billion dollars on the Vietnam crisis, and that the projected cost of victory will be 10 to 14 billion dollars annualy and 3 million men in uniform. He doubts, too, if victory is attainable.

Mr. Ingle was, on the whole, in agreement with Dr. Burnside. He did, however, point out several misconceptions that are prevalent in the U. S. The world is actually in revolt. The Southern and Eastern portions of the world are seeking the material and industrial progress of the Western world. Communism and the U. S. offer this advancement, but in different ways. The struggle is not just between the free and communist worlds, but rather it is a struggle for economic advancement. According to Ingle, the war in Vietnam is not being fought for democracy.

Ingle also doubts our administration's sincerity in seeking peace. Ingle seems to think that the U. S. is seeking a military victory, and that the fruits of that victory will be nothing more than a "bombed-out" hole."

Col. Fraser dealt mainly with the geographical necessity of victory in Vietnam. U. S. defeat would mean a shift in power against the free world. He also mentioned briefly the nature of warfare in Vietnam.

Mr. Halsall seemed to disagree, at least in part, with everything that was said. He views the U. S. as a rich and powerful empire with the responsibility of maintaining world peace. Halsall thinks that the nature of the SEATO agreement does not matter when we have been looked to for help. Victory in Vietnam is worth whatever effort must be expended.

Mr. Halsall sees the necessity for revamping Vietnam before we can expect to transplant democracy. He emphasized the great responsibility the U. S. has to succeed in Vetnam.

The panelists defended their views during a period of open discussion. A few questions were answered in the midst of the debate, carried on simultaneously by all four panelists. New insights and different understandings of the Vietnam crisis could be gleaned from the jargon of the two mainstreams of thought. It is felt that some students were disappointed in the debate, however, as no solution to the problem of a 1-A classification was offered.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

SAM WATERS, Editor — MERRIE STANCILL, Ass't. Editor — DAVE VENEKLASEN, Mng. Editor

Page Two — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Dec. 10, 1965 — No. 10

Giving Credit Where Credit Due

As a bit of reverse psychology The Blue Stocking would like to praise the administration and faculty, first for their foresight in implementing a new cut system.

The long range effects of this change may already be surmised from the effects so far this semester.

Those willing to see the opportunity in the new system have used discretion in taking cuts, using them only when it worked to their advantage. To these students the greatest benefit lies in the psychological effect of the admission of their possible maturity.

The unthinking students have taken "advantage" of their abundance of cuts to their own detriment. No longer protected from their own immaturity, these students must suffer the consequences. Here again, through the absence committee, the administration has forcd the students to face the results of their actions.

This is a step towards a more truly academic community, where the deadwood isn't permitted to linger indefinitely, but is cut out when its shows no signs of life.

Secondly, on a more personal level to the paper, the editorial staff would like to recognize the great degree of freedom, through expression in their paper, allowed the student body.

Few other schools are permitted a free rein to deal with the problem of developing responsibility in attitudes and expression. Perhaps in future years this freedom will be explored and expanded, in this way enlarging the students' perceptions of themselves in relation to the surrounding world.

To the Staff

In preparation for the end of the present publication the present editor would like to extend thanks to all those who have made publication possible—the staff.

They have been largely unrecognized, though deserving of recognition. It is hoped they will continue to devote their talents in ever-increasing roles of responsibility.

Birthplace of a King

Get the picture? A dirty barn where a frightened young woman, married far less than nine months ago, gives birth to a strange child.

Forget all of the nice miniature scenes you've seen, dear lady—turquoise horses actually smiling at a marble doll in a mahogany manger filled with silk swaddling clothes, and alabaster sheep who can't even give their disconcerting ba's, much less fill the ivory hall with their stench, as oft as they are want to.

No! Forget your fabrications!

I know a lady of opulence who, for many years at the Christmas season, has commissioned at the lower end of her estate the construction of an "authentic" manger scene—with real hay, real cows, real horses, and a china baby Jesus soaked in a pale electric light from a blue plastic star. Each year people from neighboring shanties journey to the high fence to peer in at the ethereal scene. Once as a child, I to made the pilgrimage; but wantonly unhappy with the view from a distance, I slipped through the railings and rushed across the field to view the animals face to face. In my pursuit of the heavenly light, I fortuitously slipped upon a dung heap; and the ringing in my head still sings "it came upon a midnight clear."

Get the picture? I've been grateful ever since.

There is a crying in a stable
On a cold winter night:
There is a crying at the bosom
Of the lonely world.
A small, red baby
Has now seen the light
As the bloody little boy
Of a sacred young girl.
"JOY TO THE WORLD"

—Louie Crew

Languages - Playing it by Ea

By ROB DALTON

A language laboratory, which is now in full swing, has been added to the ever-increasing number of up-to-date facilities on the Presbyterian College campus. Students taking a modern language are now able to hear Frenchmen, Spaniards, or Germans speak their native languages.

A room on the second floor of Neville Hall was remodeled this summer to house the unit. Metal cabinets which are between each two rows of seats house the students' headsets. Each of the 30 headsets have earphones and microphones. Through earphones the student listens to pre-recorded programs coordinated with the daily textbook assignments and classroom work.

The console, which houses the dual channel tape recorded unit nervous system of the lab, is a dual channel tape recorder which distributes two programs simultaneously. The progra desired by each individual li tening is selected by a switch o the console.

The instructor may listen t each student while he is repea ing what he hears on the tap The instructor can correct th individual student or speak t the class through the co sole. In addition to the 30 listen respond positions there are s cartridge-type tape record playback units to meet specia needs such as intensive indiv ual practice or make-up wor

The objectives of the langua laboratory are "to develop th ability of the student to unde stand the colloquial langua and to respond spontaneous and idiomatically and intelli ibly. Also, to reinforce, throu audio drills, the visual learni processes, directed towards t acquisition of the reading a writing skills," stated a pap prepared by PC's Departme of Modern Language.

Letters to the Editor

USC President Praises PC, SGA

Dear Editor:

For some time now I have been very favorably impressed with the high calibre students at Presbyterian College. I have always been struck with the tremendous pride most PC students hold for their school; and I have wondered what the reasons were for this strong feeling.

Recently I have renewed old friendships, done summer work, and been involved in student government and State Student Legislature with a good number of Presbyterian College students.

I have been especially interested and concerned with the work of your student council and its leaders. In these men, and particularly in Henry Lovett. I have seen evidence of true concern and devotion to your student body and your college. These student leaders are earnestly attempting to create an effective, permanent student government organization for the student body of a growing, first class institution: Presbyterian College.

And so I, as one on the outside, yet one with a great interest in PC, urge the full support of the student body, faculty, and administration of Presbyterian College, of the ideas, projects, and plans of your student council, headed by Henry Lovett.

My best wishes for continued success and growth.

Very sincerely,
Jim Graves
President, Student Body
University of S. C.

A Real Christmas Spirit

Dear Editors,

Quiz-frenzy seems to have eclipsed the Christmas spirit on our campus. When the holidays finally come, and the Yuletide spirits begin their incessant flow, I dare say the spirit of Christmas will still be unnoticed. The glittering tinsel, the soft lights, the bright lights, the gay ribbons on hoped-for gifts—even these cannot completely overshadow, a stirring, a longing, an unpinpointable expectancy in each heart.

I would like to suggest that this expectancy is one and the same with the Jewish hope for a Savior, their search that should have ended in Bethlehem. The Christmas season is always filled with a whirl of activities—but on closer examination, there is an emptiness that aches within us—one we won't examine long enough to learn how to fill.

The world acknowledges Christmas as the birth of Christ and we let it go at that. And we can discount the season's emptiness as boredom with the traditional parties or as not getting an expected gift. Or we can look deeper and longer into ourselves and find that this emptiness is there year 'round and that it is only magnified by the season in which we celebrate the birth of a stranger.

We call ourselves Christians. But it seems that a Christain's Christmas should go deeper than glitter and fresh fallen snow. We should be celebrating the birth of our Lord, the birth of hope, the birth of life with meaning . . . we should be celebrating the anniversary of our own birth into God's family.

Perhaps all I am trying to do, and indeed, all I have intended to do—is to wish all who consider themselves Christians a happy birthday.

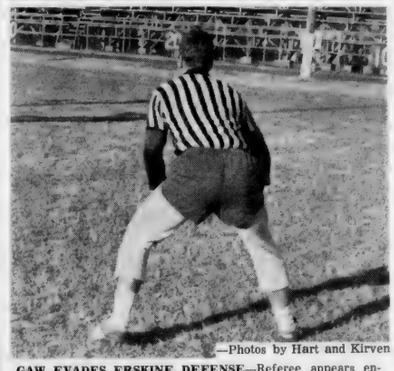
Cathryn C. Caldwell

On Hour Quizzes

Dear Editor:

It is a well-founded rumor that the administration requested that more tests be given. Although the students realize that a certain number of quizzes are necessary and beneficial, it is just as detrimental to have too many as too few quizzes.

Many students have found themselves with at least one quiz or paper every week, and usually more. A schedule was followed last year, and it seems that the same could be done th year.



Those carrying four cours are pushed for time because quizzes (to say nothing of tho carrying five or more su jects!).

Professors preach daily pre aration for classes, at least t hours spent outside class for e ery hour of actual class tim But students who must cram b frequent quizzes have no tim for daily preparation. An exc less cycle of cramming resul with the effect that students p little sleep and feel impelled t use "pep pills." This overloa ing and its resulting physic and mental exhaustion under mine those things a college ed cation represents.

It is senseless to imagine tha someone reeling under the bla of quarter quizzes back to back seasoned liberally with researc papers, will be inspired to an thing but a bed, a bottle, and (depending on sex) broad.

Sarah Stribling
Carol Tumlinson

—Photos by Hart and Kirven

GAW EVADES ERSKINE DEFENSE—Referee appears engrossed with Gaw's (top frame) field play in action against Erskine Monday. PC tied match 3-3.

Former Hazing Game Brightens PC Sports

By MIKE SIMONS

Once used to haze freshmen students at Harvard and Yale, the game of soccer has now developed into full-fledged intercollegiate sport on the PC campus. Soccer has enjoyed a rapid rise in popularity in recent years on the campuses of Amercian colleges and universities, and this year PC has incorporated it into the school sports' program.

The PC squad is made up of players who have had experience in playing soccer at other schools, such as Darlington and McCallie. With suitable intercollegiate game experience, the squad could well shape up and be one of the finer teams in the area.

In its two outings thus far this season, against Erskine, the team has tied both matches with respective scores of 1-1 and 3-3. With only three practices under its belt, this fact speaks very well against an experienced Erskine team.

The playing team consists of eleven players who are distributed as follows: Five men are linemen, three are at halfback position, two play fullback, and there is one goalie.

Carlos Emanuel, Eddie Miller, Arthur Clements, Bobby Rodwell, Rick Sjoholm and Walt Shepard all play on the line. The halfbacks on the squad include Bony Peace, Wells Van Pelt, Jimmy Humphries, Les Newsome, Sterling Jernigan, and Joey Singleton. Pat Brown, Evan Pamplin, and Richard Waters all play fullback, while Mac Binion plays at the goalie position.

Miller and Peace were both named All-South at Darlington. Emanuel has been the Hose's best-looking player to date, but the entire squad has looked impressive.

There are no definite future games scheduled at the present time, but there is hope that games can be arranged with Brevard, Furman and Mercer, as well as other schools who field soccer teams.

The Hose do not have a full-time soccer coach, but Benny Crabtree helps with the team. Rick Sjoholm commented that everyone on the squad has really put out a great deal of effort to give PC a soccer team of which it can be proud.

A soccer game or match is divided into four quarters ranging from 15 to 20 minutes in length. The aim of the game is to put the ball into the goal by kicking it or by butting it with the head. The goalie is the only person who can touch the ball with his hands and arms. PC has some soccer nets on order, and these will be put on the wooden goals which have been erected on the football field.

Soccer is a rough, fast-moving game which requires much stamina as well as skill. It is the forerunner of modern football, and is very popular with European and South American peoples. It is still not as popular in America as in these places, but it is achieving more and more popularity as time progresses.

Conference Standings

	CONFERENCE			All Games
	W	L	Pct.	W	L	Pct.
Appalachian	4	0	1.000	4	0	1.000
High Point	2	0	1.000	4	0	1.000
W. Carolina	1	0	1.000	3	0	1.000
Guilford	1	1	.500	3	1	.750
Newberry	2	2	.500	2	4	.333
Lenoir Rhyne	2	3	.400	2	4	.333
Pheiffer	2	3	.400	3	3	.500
Atlantic Christian	1	1	.500	1	1	.500
Catawba	1	2	.333	1	3	.250
Elon	1	2	.333	3	2	.600
Presbyterian	1	3	.250	1	5	.167

Catawba Upset Ends Jinx; PC Faces Augusta Tonight

By BILL BASSHAM

Presbyterian's basketball team picked up their first win of the season with a stunning 79-76 upset of Catawba Wednesday night. The Catamounts had defeated the Blue Hose in Clinton earlier this season 77-62.

The Hose were red hot, hitting 26 out of 50 from the floor. The game was actually won at the free-throw line. PC hit 27 of 34, while Catawba cashed in on 14 of their 23 attempts.

Ken Martin led the Blue Hose, scoring with 29 points, followed by Jimmy Bankhead and Richard Quillen with 18 and 14 respectively. Doug Allen pulled down 12 rebounds.

Catawba was paced by little Dwight Durante, who scored 36 points. He kept the Blue Hose from pulling away by scoring 16 straight points in the last four minutes.

PC is now 1-3 in the conference, while Catawba is 1-2. The next outing for the Blue Hose will be against Augusta College Friday night in Clinton. Augusta is off to a slow start and will bring a fast team in looking for a big win.

Saturday night the Blue Hose travel to Hickory to face the Bears of Lenoir Rhyne. Lenoir Rhyne is fresh from a 61-58 loss to Elon. The Bears are 2-4 in all games and 2-3 in the conference.

All-State First Team Choice Includes PC's Sam Williams

Clemson's Hugh Mauldin and Carolina's Benny Galloway were unanimous choices to the South Carolina Association of Sportswriters All-State team announced Tuesday. The Tigers and Gamecocks led the voting, placing eight and nine players each, respectively.

Presbyterian's Sam Williams was named to the first team fullback position. Williams, the 5'7", 180-pound junior from Monroeville, Ala., has led the Blue Hose in rushing for the past two seasons. Williams picked up 522 yards in 125 carries for an average of 4.2 yards per carry this year.

Senior end Jimmy Bankhead of Chester, made the second offensive team. Bankhead was the team's third leading receiver this year and stood out on defense.

The third Blue Hose gridder to make the squad was junior tackle John Monk of Atlanta. Monk made the second defensive team. Monk has been a defensive standout for PC for two seasons.

MONK

BANKHEAD

WILLIAMS

—Photos by Yarborough

Bill Bassham

'Powerhouses' Not in Bowls

With football season drawing to a close, interest naturally turns to the post-season bowl games. These games should be the perfect end to what may have been the most unusual football season on record.

There was a big mistake this year in that the teams who were supposed to be the big powerhouses were not. Of the fourteen teams going to bowl games, only four were rated in the top twenty teams according to pre-season polls.

BILL

The Southeastern Conference again proved their domination of college football. Six of its members will play in bowl games. This season also produced a large number of unbeaten and untied major teams with Arkansas, Michigan State, and Nebraska.

The granddaddy of all the bowls, the Rose Bowl, will as usual feature the winner of the Big Ten and the winner of the Pacific Eight Conferences. This year Michigan State (10-0-0) will face UCLA (7-2-1). This is unusual since these two teams met each other in regular season play. The Spartans won that contest 13-3.

All-American quarterback Steve Juday should lead Michagan State to a victory over UCLA. The Spartans have a perfect season and a national championship at stake.

In the Cotton Bowl, Arkansas (10-0-0) will take on LSU (7-3-0). Arkansas, led by quarterback Jon Brittenum and tailback Bob Burnet, is gunning for national recognition. The Razorbacks are riding a twenty-game winning streak, and Coach Frank Broyles wants to repeat as a national champion.

The Sugar Bowl has Missouri (7-2-1) pitted against Florida (7-3-0). Missouri's only losses came to up-and-down Kentucky and undefeated Nebraska, with the tie coming with Rose Bowl-bound UCLA. Florida's only losses came in the rugged SEC which had everybody beating everyone else. Steve Spurrier will direct their passing attack. Florida will upset the nation's number six team.

The Orange Bowl may prove to be the most exciting bowl of all. Alabama (8-1-1) will go against Nebraska (10-0-0). Although Nebraska is larger, they have not played the teams that the Tide has.

After an early season loss and tie, many thought Bear Bryant's football dynasty would crumble. The Bear's boys disproved this with crushing wins over LSU and Auburn. Bryant wants to get as high up in the AP poll as posible. Since the final poll is not taken until after the bowl games, the Tide will roll.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

—Photo by Howard

THE PARTY'S OVER AT LAST—B section of Smythe Dormitory was the scene of what appears to be one of the better parties held on campus during Christmas Dance Weekend, December 3-5.

The Greeks

JIMMY HUMPHRIES
GREEK EDITOR

Beta Psi Chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity crowned Miss Betty Garland sweetheart of Theta Chi at their Christmas party Friday night. She is a graduate of Winthrop College.

Congratulations to Brother Henry Booker who has taken over the duties of Treasurer. The pledges are busy working on their pledge project. Officers of the pledge class are Rhet Anderson, president; Ed Horne, vice-president; Tracy Jennings, secretary; and Bill Elerbash, treasurer.

The Kappa Alpha Order presented Miss Jeannie Byrd as their Kappa Alpha Rose at a Christmas party this past Saturday night. Immediately thereafter, Pat Brown, her lover, was so fired up due to her presentation, that he pinned her and stayed out all night long! She is a student at Queens College and is from Atlanta.

From the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity: brothers of the week are Joey Singleton who is pinned to Miss Beth Thompson of Columbia College; Ben Pickens, pinned to Miss Joey Mitchell of Columbia College; and Allan Harris. The PiKA Field Secretary, Mr. Doug Winger from Illinois, visited the chapter this past week.

From the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity: Brother Woods McGinn is engaged to Miss Julia Watts of Mountville. Brother William Hanger joins the world of wedded 'bliss, tomorrow when he marries his fiancee, Diane Brown, of PC. The wedding will be held in Chattanooga, Tenn. Brother of the Week is Sam Waters who is in the final edition of the Blue Stocking.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
FRANKENSTEIN and THE SPACE MONSTER
— Plus —
CURSE OF THE VOODOO

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
HAVING A WILD WEEKEND
With Barbara Ferris

STARTS WED., DEC. 15
CICURS WORLD
John Wayne, Claudia Cardinale, Rita Hayworth

Campus News Briefs

Patte Announces Third Art Exhibit

Students who so desire will be given a chance to display their artistic talents this coming January when the Fine Arts Department of Presbyterian College, under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Edouard Patte, will sponsor the Third Art Exhibit.

The exhibit will display paintings sculptures, engravings and other works by the non-professional artists of the community.

If a person so desires he may enter works of water-colors, pastels, crayon or finger-paintings. The Fine Arts Department would like to encourage anyone who is so inclined to submit an entry. To do so he should contact Dr. or Mrs. Patte and fill out the necessary application blank.

Civil Service Job Opportunity

Washington — A nationwide competitive examination for temporary employment in the Federal Government as an office assistant or a science assistant was announced today by the Civil Service Commission.

Applications seeking summer employment in grades GS-1 through 4 in such occupations as clerk, stenographer, typist, office machine operator, student assistant, engineering aid, physical science aid, biological aid, and mathematics aid should ask for a copy of Anouncement No. 380.

Candidates for the examination should obtain a Civil Service Form 5000-AB. This form is available at many post offices, at U. S. Civil Service Commission offices, and at Boards of U. S. Civil Service Examiners. The completed form should be mailed to the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., 20415, before January 3, 1966, to enable the candidate to take the 2½-hour written test which will be given in various cities on a early February of 1966.

The test, which is scheduled to be given only once, is designed to measure clerical skills, vocabulary, reading comprehension, abstract reasoning, and table and chart interpretation. Sample questions wil be provided in advance.

Al citizens will be given equal opportunity to compete in the nationwide examination. Those who pass the test will be permitted to file applications with as many as six Federal agencies or installations: three in the Washington area and three outside of Washington.

BS Last Issue

Due to the pressures of the closing semester this will be the last edition of The Blue Stocking until the Blue Key edition of the first or second week of next semester. We would like to remind those students interested in the editorial position next year to submit their names to The Blue Stocking within the next week.

The election wil be held before semester exams. It is suggested that the students be a second semester junior with a minmum of a 2.0 overall (required). The position of business manager is also open and holds the same requirements as those for editor.

Communion Services

In looking forward to Christmas, the SCA has arranged for several communion services to be held in the Wyatt Chapel the week before the holidays begin.

On Tuesday night, December 14, the married students will have their Christmas Communion Service at 7:30. Rev. Jimmy Richardson will lead the service on this evening. Mr. Richardson, a recent graduate of Columbia Seminary lives in Anderson, where he is the Associate Minister of the Central Presbyterian Church.

There will be an informal coffee hour after this service for these and several invited faculty coupies in the lobby of Belk Auditorium.

The student body and faculty will have a chance to participate together in their own communion service on Thursday night, December 16, at 9:00. Jack Crandall from Trinilty Presbyterian Church in Chester, will lead this service. Mr. Crandall, a Florida native, is a graduate of Presbyterian College and Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. He is married to a former resident of Clinton.

Music for both services will be provided by Sam Hobson and Karen Bremer. The Freshman Cabinet has undertaken the task of decorating the chapel for this event. It is the SCA Cabinet's desire that all who desire to participate in this remembrance of Chrst's birth and death join with them for these services.

Chapel Schedule

Monday — Student Convocation, Mike Smith.
Wednesday — Chapel Worship, Dr. Jack Pressau.
Friday—To be anounced.

Annual Giving

The Presbyterian College Annual Giving program moved closer to its goal today, with $73,615.61 reported thus far for the 1965 efforts.

President Marc C. Weersing, in making the announcement, pointed out the $85,000 objective represents the largest total yet sought by this PC program. It compares to the $77,518 produced in the record campaign of last year. He said the 1965 pace is well ahead of any previous year at this date.

Of the $73,615.61 given to date, $56,249.11 has been earmarked for Living Endowment purposes, including $7,727 for the Walter Johnson Club. Another $17,366.50 has been sent directly to the Johnson Club, bringing the total for this alumni athletic organization to $25,093.50.

Annual Giving is a program conducted each year among the alumni and friends of Presbyterian College for gifts to supplement the current operating budget of the college.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

DRIVE

Cont. from Page 1

still enjoy) Christmas with all the giving and receiving and the spirit that goes along with it. Come on out Sunday morning at 7:00 at the dining hall that some others may enjoy Christmas this year."

Clinton Jaycees President Bob Hanson expressed his thanks to the students of PC for their participation in the Christmas Stocking Fund Drive. He said that the fine attitude and desire of the PC student body to help others less fortunate than themselves is certainly worthy of praise. The Clinton Jaycees welcome this opportunity to work with the PC students and hope that the two organizations can make this an annual affair. As symbolized in the words of the Jaycee Creed—"Service to humanity is the best work of life" —the organizers believe that you who give your time to this project will benefit in knowing that you have helped an underprivileged child.

The Jaycees wish to extend an invitation to any PC student to attend the Christmas Shopping Tour on Wednesday, December 15, starting at 3 p. m. from the Army, and concluding with supper for the children at 5 p. m. at the Armory.

WARREN

Cont. from Page 1

planning and discusion on legislation. It also provided a base for a great deal of politically slanted social activity.

Taking part in this student legislature was an excellent opportunity for student leaders to express their ideas concerning the legislation of this state. At the same time there was much to learn about the legislative process. Every member of the PC delegation took an active part in debate and discussion, grasping an experience beneficial to any citizen.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1023

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Blue Key Presents Annual Sock Edition

Blue Key National Honor Fraternity is the result of Dean B. C. Rileys' faith in the sincerity and ability of college men. The Fraternity had its foundation first in the idea that real American college and university student leaders are God - fearing, law-abiding citizens who believe that worthwhile progress can best be achieved through the orderly processes of evolution, not revolution; second, in his belief that students are men and must be treated as such; third, that they are men willing to accept responsibility, willing to work with their fellow-students, willing to cooperate with faculty, and capable of advancing ideas and creating the right attitudes which will do much to improve student life and welfare.

Blue Key had its beginning at the University of Florida in 1924 when Dean Riley organized the first group to meet an emergency. Dean Riley selected twenty-five outstanding student leaders, who by election or attainment held places of prominence and confidence in the student body to plan and coordinate a combined Parent's Day and Homecoming. The group was so successful that it was requested to meet regularly. The progress and the results obtained by this group were amazing and there arose the need for exchange of ideas with similar groups on other campuses. From this need there arose Blue Key Honor Society.

Ten years after its founding date a convention was held in Chicago to change this loose federation into a closely-knit fraternity. After this convention Blue Key gained much in strength and prestige. At the beginning of World War II, the Fraternity had a total of seventy - eight active chapters with a membership of more than 20,000 men. Now the Blue Key has over 4,000 members in some 120 chapters from the University of California to the University of South Carolina.

Blue Key has been active at PC since 1932. In 1931, President Marshall W. Brown, then Dean, along with Colonel R. E. Wysor, Jr., PMS&T, and C. W. Grafton, English professor, established an honorary fraternity on the campus called the Archons. The Archons joined another honorary society and received a charter from Blue Key in 1932.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, February 11, 1966 — No. 11

SCA Religion-in-Life Week To Feature Professor Wade Huie

by Jim Stanford

February 16-18 marks the annual Religious Emphasis Week on the Presbyterian College campus. This year, however, instead of particularly "emphasizing" religion as such, the occasion is being called Religion-in-Life Week because we are questioning the place of religion in our lives today.

Under the theme of "Christian Faith and the Mind of Today", a diverse program of events has been scheduled for this three-day week. There will be chapel services on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, led by Dr W.ade Huie, our guest speaker. Dr. Huie is professor of homiletics (Peter Marshall Chair) at Columbia Theological Seminary.

In these chapel services he will be dealing with such topics titles as "Questioning our Questions", "Bound to be Free", and "What We DO Know Counts". A very outstanding speaker, Dr. Huie is popular with college students because of his ability to identify with them and deal with problems of their concern.

DORM DISCUSSIONS

Four other ministers have also been invited to participate in these activiites. These men will be conducting fraternity discussions, discussions for the co-eds, and the married students, and something new this year—dorm discussions. In this way they will be in closer contact with the students, and it is hoped the students will get to know them.

The four are: Rev. Tom Murphy, minister of the Druid Hills Presbyterian Church in Atlanta; Rev. Tom Horton, Executive Secretary of the Charleston Presbytery; Rev. Frank Harrington, minister of the Fairview Presbyterian Church in North Augusta; Rev. Canty Dubose, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Hapeville, Georgia.

SCHEDULES

Schedules of the discussions have been posted around the campus. Of note is the campus-wide discussion with Dr. Huie to be held Wednesday evening at 7:00 in Douglas House Lounge. All students are invited and urged to attend.

DR. WADE HUIE

WILLIAM S. CANNON

Cannon to Assist Revision of Text On Abstract Algebra

Mathematics Professor William S. Cannon will assist in the revision work of the Macmillan Company's popular Elements of Abstract Algebra by Dr. John T. Moore.

The announcement made today noted that the second edition of this book, with added pertinent information to make it more up-to-date, is to come out next summer. Cannon also aided Dr. Moore in the preparation of an earlier textbook for freshman mathematics.

Dr. Moore is presently on a year's leave-of-absence from the faculty of the University of Florida to teach at the University of Western Ontario in his native Canada.

Campus Academic Societies Cite 14 Honor Recipients

by Tom Whitaker

Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, Academic Dean, announced today three seniors and eleven sophomore have been recognized as members of Sigma Kappa Alpha and The Sophomore Academic Honor Society.

SIGMA KAPPA ALPHA

The new members in Sigma Kappa are James Henry Johnson, Amelia Nichols, and Thomas Alexander Whitaker. The eleven new Sophomore Academic Honor Society members are David Pinckney Berry, Jr., Cecil Yates Brown, James Edward Bush, Carole Bruce Hughes Johnson, John Charles Jones, Robert Dewese Lynn, Jr., John Spencer Mebane, James Herbert Powell, Joseph Franklin Singleton, Henry McCord Smith, Jr., and Francis Carol Tumlinson.

Sigma Kappa Alpha was chartered in 1959 in co-operation with the Blue Key. Requirements for the Honorary Scholastic fraternity are a grade point ario of 3.2 or better and completion of six or seven semesters at Presbyterian College.

SOPHOMORE ACADEMIC SOICETY

Sophomore Academic Honor Society was conceived and originated by the Presbyterian College Blue Key Chapter. Requirements for the Society are grade point ratio of 3.2 or better for three or four semesters at Presbyterian College.

Hall, Stevens Named To Top Blue Sock Posts

by Sam Waters

Next week's Blue Stocking will find the student newspaper under a new tenure of editorship as Woody Hall takes the editorial chair.

Replacing Sam Waters, the new editor was chosen in an uncontested election Wednesday. Also uncontested was the position of business manager, claimed by Joe Stevens.

The election marked the fifth consecutive year that only one candidate has sought the title of editor.

Mr. Hall, an economics major from York, has served on the Blue Stocking staff for more than a year as reporter, and for the past semester as the assistant editor and as acting news editor. Hall is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

Mr. Stevens, a junior from Greenville, renders an excellent

SEE EDITOR Col, 4, Page 4

NEW MEN HALL AND STEVENS

PC Officials Hear Ulrich

by Tom Leland

Lt. Col. Richard W. Ulrich, Professor of Military Science, spoke in Greenville Hall on February 8 on the value of the ROTC program as part of the college curriculum and of its necessity to the Armed Service. The guests present included college officials, cadre and student leaders and representatives from each academic department.

Lt. Col. Ulrich reviewed the ROTC program and pointed out its contributions to the nation's defense and the advantages of taking ROTC. Col. Ulrich stated that "the ROTC program provides about 85% of the officers entering the army."

Major Robert H. Howe, Assistant P.M.S., discussed the highlights of the ROTC's scholarship program. He said that at present PC had two men on ROTC scholarship and that another would be awarded to begin in August 1966.

Lt. Col. Ulrich also announced recently that he is retiring from the U. S. Army and his position here at PC. This retirement will be effective on February 28, at which time, he will have completed 20 years of active duty in the Infantry. Colonel and Mrs. Ulrich will reside in Columbus, Ga.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor ..... David Davies
Managing Editor ..... Sam Waters
Activities Editor ..... Phil Olmert
Associate Editor ..... Jim Stanford
Sports Editors ..... Pat Goldsmith, Don McNeill
News Editors ..... Tom Leland, Henry Lovett, Tom Whitaker
Greek Editor ..... Buddy Guy
Movie Editor ..... Dan Taylor
Feature Editors ..... Rusty Nelson, Walt Todd

Blue Key Speaks Out

THE BLUE KEY CHALLENGES each student on this campus to evaluate his purpose as a student at Presbyterian College. What is your purpose? Are you here because college is "the thing to do", you may get a piece of paper, someone made you go off to school, or are you here to accept the purpose and goals that Presbyterian College has to offer—" . . . the education of young men and women in the realm of liberal arts and sciences within a distinctively Christian context."

IF YOU HAVE NOT ACCEPTED this goal, you are not worthy to be a student at this institution. Your presence here not only hurts yourself, and this institution, but also other students because you hinder this school from attaining progress thorugh an academic progam of definite quality.

AN INSTITUTION OF HIGHER LEARNING must have an academic atmosphere if it is to attain scholastic excellence. PC definitely lacks an atmosphere conducive to advancement. It is th conviction of this institution as stated in its catalog "that education in the liberal arts tradition can be achieved successfully through a program which is characterized by academic excellence"; therefore, PC must not be accomplishing its objective to the fullest.

THE QUESTION HAS BEEN RAISED lately: "How can PC achieve an academic atmosphere?" Such discussions have included such things as quieter places to study, different times for "rush", effectiveness and worth of "rat season", effectiveness of faculty members, minimum entrance requirements, and grade stipulations. There is no doubt that all of these are essential and should be questioned, but the most essential criteria is that each student must have a motivaiton to attain an EDUCATION and not just a sheet of paper after 126 to 130 hours of work.

THE ESSENTIAL ELEMENT for this motivation is self-discipline of the individual. Without self-discipline there is no motivation academic atmosphere, or monitory excellence.

AN ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY FAULT can be seen in what is required of freshmen. For this past semester a freshman needed only to have a quality-point ratio of 0.75 to remain at Presbyterian College. Is it possible that if the stipulation was raised considerably—2.00—a student would have to have more self-disciplinee to attain this requirement and therefore more motivation?

THE FIRST SEMESTER REQUIREMENT is entirely too low. In fact by allowing a student at PC to continue not only is detrimental to him by the fact that he is wasting his time but also by the fact that it hurts the reputation of the school and reflects on the other members of the student body.

WHATEVER THE SOLUTION to the problem is, the answer must be found now, or PC will find itself losing an eternal race for academic excellence. The Blue Key member pedges himself to "encourage and to promote the welfare of the community in which he resides and to live so as to reflect credit upon Presbyterian Collge; that he will strive to further the best interest of Presbyterian College and will sustain the constitutd authorities at all times".

DO YOU?

Thom A. Whitaker

In Retrospect: Progression or Depression?

by NELSON FLETCHER AND TODD BEAUMONT

As veterans of Laurens County's most distinguished campus community, PC's seniors are in a nostalgic position quite conducive to a short and uncomprehensive review of the progress that has been made at this institution during our tenure.

Speaking of progress, the most obvious evidence is, of course, to be seen in the shape of our three new buildings, and something can be said for each of them.

The magnificent science hall bears the name that has meant so much to science at PC over the years (it is also to be found on mouthwash bottles and vaporub jars) in the way that counts. Money gets bricks layed while decades of dedication and service only builds knowledge.

Greenville Hall has established gracious dining on campus. Not only do we have a much nicer atmosphere in which to eat PC food, but sometimes we get to wait in two lines. We are very appreciative of the arrangements made for us to spend so much time in such a nice building.

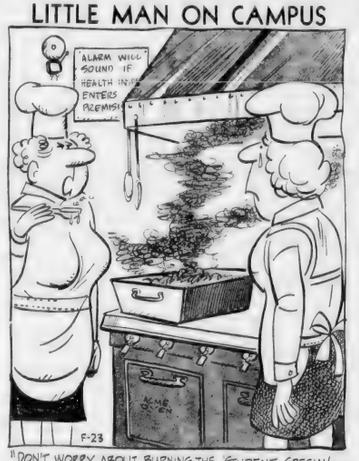
The men's dormitories have taken on a new glow morally and physically under the guidance of a dormitory supervisor. Such evil influences as stuffed furniture, refrigerators and "paper women," have given way to reverant attitude and academic determination. A young man receives invaluable incentive by such experiences as being roused in the morning to be informed that his bed is tumbled and there are clothes on his chair.

Mail has always been a factor in the morale of the student body here, and everyone wants to get several letters every day. We are comforted by the dedication with which the students carry out their obligation to get their mail at the earliest possible moment.

The coeds, once again, stand out because of their very presence in the surging flood of anticipants. They are also noted for the patience with which they wait for an epistle, from a distant knight, to appear, as miraculously as the grail, in their mailbox long after the last parcel has been placed.

The eventual greatness of PC will be seen in the product which is produced here. For that reason, the administration has seen fit to step up the academic program. To achieve excellence in that realm, we must burn with the hard, gem-like flame.

The administration has decided that several bridges can be crossed at once, and the flame has been set to both ends of the academic candle. At this wonderful rate, perhaps no freshman will be able to pass both math and biology next year, and the world will know that PC is a good school.



Progress in the world of education often takes a liberal form. Liberalism is no stranger to the PC campus. Only 3 semesters of Bible are now required for graduation. This was a frightening measure, but fortunately, we have a president who has shown that he is capable of protecting us from the evils of the liberal thinkers in the outside world.

The backbone of PC's reputation as a leading liberal arts institution is the well-rounded student. In PC's progress, this term has come to represent the student who maintains a g.p.r. of 3.30 or more, is active in all available church functions, writes once a week his family and the girl he dates during holidays and the summer; attends home athletic events; and studies for every course every night.

Ostensibly, the stigma of PC is the student that has mediocre grades; goes to Winthrop twice a week; gets involved in fraternity or club business; participates in all intramural events; and spends his other time sleeping, shooting the breeze, or watching movies or T.V. shows designed by and for "losers."

We all know that such people have no contribution to make to society or to their alma mater. Therefore we urge the administration to continue with their program, to abolish such individuals from the face of this campus.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"DON'T WORRY ABOUT BURNING THE STUDENT SPECIAL'— JUST GET ME A GALLON OF CATSUP."

Movie Review

The Phoenix Carried Five

By DAN TAYLOR

A shuddery old two-engine transport crashes into the Sahara, and the crew makes an effort to construct from the wreckage a spit-and-bailing-wire one-engine plane. The excitement reaches a peak when this kite struggles to take off with five men sprawled on its wings. "Measured against the ordinary run of adventure epics, Phoenix is a Bonanza."

The Phoenix, enroute to Bengazi, comes down with 14 men aboard. Two are dead on impact and more are destined to die during a bitter struggle for survival. James Stewart plays the stubborn, and not very bright bush pilot, who demonstrates leadership by guarding the water rations. The other members of the cast have varying degrees of ability and throughout the picture the heroes are rewarded with refreshing cynicism.

Heat, thirst, mounting mutual casualties and distress corrode the men's nerves until the time has come when the five remaining men are ready to test and begin their adventure on to Bengazi.

As Time Magazine explains it: The shocks occur when least expected, notably in the delicate prologue and grisly aftermath of an encounter with a band of Arab cutthroats. Most of the time, Phoenix flexes its muscles as the sort of virile, enthralling entertainment moviegoes too seldom see.

TIME MAGAZINE,
February 4, 1966

Letter to the Editor

Chapel a Mockery

Dear Students,

Down with chapel services the way they are!

It has come to the attention of your Student Christian Association Cabinets that our chapels, particularly the ones on Wednesday, are nothing but a mockery of a worship experience.

Now we cannot do away with them, and some of us actually do not want to. This school does not demand that you worship, just that you attend; but it is most inconsiderate to destroy the experience for those of us who would actually like to worship.

What is wrong with our chapels? Where does the fault lie? No, it does not lie totally with either the student body or the administration. The fault is of both. After discussing this situation, the Cabinets would like to make these recommendations to all concerned:

(1) That those who come to chapel try to be more considerate of others.

Nothing is more distracting than for the person behind or beside you to be reading a paper or a book, talking, or sleeping.

(2) That, if possible, students should try to enter the auditorium in a reverent attitude (it is a sanctuary of worship on Wednesday) and leave the talking outside.

(3) That more be done to prepare a proper program. The S.C.A. feels that as much preparation should go into any chapel service as any professor spends on a lecture.

(4) That those who are able try to create an atmosphere of worship within the auditorium itself. Dimming the lights

SEE LETTER Col. 3, Page 4

P Hose Eye Vital CC Tilts

Chances Slim for Tourney Berth

By Don McNeill

PC's chances for attending the Carolinas Conference Basketball Tournament in High Point, N. C., became very slim Wednesday night when the Blue Hose were defeated 86-57 by Guilford in Greensboro, N. C. However, the team has not been mathematically eliminated and head coach Art Musselman vows the Blue Hose will let out all stops in a last-ditch attempt to attain a tourney berth.

With only the top eight teams eligible for the tournament, three members of the eleven-team conference will be left out in the cold when tourney action begins the first week in March. Newberry and Atlantic Christian are definitely out of the running, so it remains to be seen which one of the remaining nine teams will be eliminated.

High Point, Guilford, Western Carolina, Appalachian, and Lenoir Rhyne have already qualified, and Catawba is virtually in, so the remaining two places will be filled by two of the following three squads — Elon, Phieffer, and Presbyterian. The Hose have two conference games remaining (Elon and Newberry) and they must win both of these to stand a chance.

Assuming the Hose do win their remaining conference games, then Phieffer would still have to lose three of four for PC to push past them or, Elon must lose two of three for PC to pass them.

Coach Musselman said the Hose's best chance lay in overtaking Elon since we have a game with them here, but he also pointed out that it is unlikely for the Christians to lose either their remaining home contests.

In action this week the Hose are 1-1. Monday night, PC slaughtered Piedmont 97-56. As five players were in double figures, everyone on the team saw action as Musselman cleared the bench. In a special added attraction manager Monk Milligan dressed out for the game, played, and scored a field goal on a driving lay-up in the second period. As stated previously PC lost to Guilford 86-57 Wednesday night, nevertheless forward Richard Quillen played an outstanding game, scoring 20 points and pulling down 11 rebounds.

In yesterday's Blue Stocking interview with head coach Musselman and Assistant Ray Priestino, both had nothing but praise for the '65-'66 cagemen. Musselman stated this group of boys always give 100% effort on the playing floor as welll as the practice floor. Even though this team is nearly always outmanned by physical size, statistics show they are rarely ever outrebounded by opposing teams.

The head coach went on to say that the vast improvement in senior center Doug Allen was probably the difference shown in the team the last few weeks.

Of course steady regulars Jimmy Bankhead, Ken Martin, and Richard Quillen have been outstanding all year long, with Quillen being one of the best rebounders inch for inch in this section of the country. Musselman also went on to say that Steve Stein, who rounds out the starting five, has been an inspiration to this team in his tremendous hustle and determination.

When asked about bench strength Musselman once again only had words of praise. Even though these boys are relatively inexperienced, they have certainly been a tower of strength, especially in preparing the starting team for opponents.

BLUE HOSE CAGEMEN FOR 1965-66 seated (left to right): Stine, Walther, Bankhead, Martin, Quillen. Standing: Coach Musselman, Reed, Allen, McLeod, Kiser, Hudson, Lown, Assistant Coach Priestino.

BIG PiKA

DON BLANCHARD

Sports Sidelines

GOLDSMITH

'20 Hard Days'

McNEILL

Practice Jerseys are once again out of cold storage and again the sounds of whistles and leather-popping are echoing across the Ponderosa as spring practice has begun. Head Coach Cally Gault along with Assistants Bill Tiller and Joe Nixon feel they have the nucleus for a fine team, assuming the following gaps left by graduation can be filled.

Gone via graduation will be standout defensive linebacker Billy Love, All-State end Jimmy Bankhead, and backfield regulars Wade Stewart and Don McNeill. Also gone will be nationally ranked punter Jimmy Elliott, who has averaged over 40 yards per kick the past two seasons. Gault said these performers will certainly be missed, however, he is very elated that the PC troops were not hard hit with ineligibility due to poor grades.

Returning next year to anchor the Hose interior line will be lettermen Tommy Campbell, Mickey Hampshire, Allan Harris, Jim Helms, Sam Lyons, Jack McCaskill, John Monk, Bob Murray, Ed Walker, and Bob Warren, Gault had special praise for the work of old Pros Lyons, Monk, and Warren.

Flanking this fearsome group of bulls will be four lettermen ends who possess both experience and ability; they are sure handed receivers James Smith and Richard Reed, along with defensive specialists Joe Lawson and Richard Munn.

In contrast to this past fall Gault will have an abundance of experienced signal callers to choose from. Leading the way will be Bill Kirtland, closely followed by veterans Paul Ferguson and Mike Donovan. Old timer Olin Grant, out with a broken leg this spring, should be in top form by fall to also make a bid for the starting nod at quarterback. Freshman Charles Chapman is also a dark horse for the position.

Showing the way in the mail carrying department will be senior Jim Johnson along with Dan Eckstein. Also freshman Bob Hackle proved himself capable both offensively and defensively during the 1965 campaign. We also believe it wise to keep an eye on power running Randy Kenworthy and speedy Bob McNair.

At present with spring practice in high gear Gault is putting a great deal of emphasis on basic fundamentals, a phase of the game which did leave something to be desired last football season. Also Gault said much concentration is being put on the defensive game in which several positions are up for grabs due to graduation losses. Offensively the team is concentrating on the ground game, with special emphasis being put on the outside running game due to increased speed in the backfield.

In summing up, prophesiers Goldsmith and McNeill forecast PC's first winning football season since 1960 when the Blue Hose compiled a 6-3 record.

Fierce Action Seen for IM Classic; PiKAs, KAs Given Nod as Favorites

By Pat Goldsmith

In an exclusive interview with the Blue Stocking, "Doc" Crabtree, Director of Intramurals, had this to say about the Intramural roundball situation: In the Blue League, the KA's are at the top with a 5-0 record, following closely tied for the number two spot are the ASP's and the Sigma Nu's with identical 6-1 records, and holding down fourth place are the Theta Chi's with a 5-2 record.

In the Red League the PiKA's are leading with a 7-0 record, the Crushers are following in second place with a 5-1 record, the Sinkers are in third with a 5-2 record, and in fourth place we find the Pushers and PiKA (2) all tied up with 4-3 records. Fourth place will be decided, probably by these two teams, before tournament action begins next week.

Crabtree pointed out that fourth place is a very important position in the standings because only the top four teams from each league will be invited to play in the tournament to decide the intramural champions next week.

Top seeding in the tournament this year will go to the PiKA's and the KA's. The PiKA's, who have taken everything in basketball the past three years, have once again crushed all opposition in their league. Sporting a well-balanced attack they are led by high-scoring Don Blanchard, play-maker Mike Donovan, and the human rebounding machine, Sandy Lynn.

The KA's once again showing a power-packed attack, are led by league-leading scorer Joe Gettys and play-maker deluxe Gus Forbes. However, the KA's will sorely miss the services of Tim Yancey, a former all-city star for Lovett High in Atlanta.

Certainly the Sigma Nu's can never be counted out of anything that has to do with intramural competition. They did capture the overall intramural trophy last year. In the forthcoming tournaments they will floor a very strong team, capable of stealing the show. Leading the way will be the ageless wonder himself, Frank Markette, who is once again making opposing coaches prematurely gray with his point-scoring antics. Markette will get able support from newcomers Hart Cobb and Ray Crim.

Surprisingly strong this year are the ASP's who have fielded one of the strongest teams in their circuit. Having lost only one contest this year, they certainly must be regarded as capable of taking the title. Stalwarts Buddy Guy and Grady Marshall have been the backbone of the team, with freshman Bobby Byard coming on strong to be regarded as one of the fine young prospects in intramural circles.

Possible tourney dark horses are The Crushers, Theta Chi's, and PiKA's (2).

Doc Crabtree also said the scrappy faculty five, even though they did not qualify for the intramural tournament, did show a lot of spirit and now seem to have the nucleus for future building. Star players include leading scorer Sgt. Creel, play-makers Dr. Burnside and Mr. Stallworth, all-around performer Coach Joe Nixon, and Crabtree did not mention himself to be potentially one of the greatest scorers ever to hit the Leroy Springs hardwood.

CC STANDINGS

Conference			All Games
High Point	12	1	14	3
Guilford	11	4	15	4
Western Carolina	8	4	15	6
Appalachian	9	6	12	8
Lenoir Rhyne	8	7	11	11
Elon	6	8	11	8
Phieffer	6	8	10	11
Catawba	7	9	9	10
Presbyterian	3	7	7	12
Atlantic Christian	3	10	7	15
Newberry	2	11	7	15

Campus News Briefs

Maj. Howe to Serve in Vietnam

Milo News:

Major Robert H. Howe, Assistant Professor of Military Science at Presbyterian College will depart in June of this year for his new assignment in Vietnam.

Major Howe was assigned to the Military Department in January 1964. His family will reside in Monterey, California.

Career Speakers

Representatives of 3rd Army and 12th Corps presented an informative program to Presbyterian's students in chapel on Feb. 4, 1966, on the advantages ROTC students could realize in the fields of medicine, dentistry, several types of graduate schools, and the ministry.

Lt. Col. Charles A. Meeks, 12th Corps Chaplain and Capt. Jerry M. Johnston, MSC, from 3rd Army AMeds lectured in chaple and later discussed individually with students the programs students can take part in while fulfilling portions of their military obligation.

Viet Cards Praised

In November under the leadership of President E. P. Guy of the senior class, Presbyterian's students expressed their appreciation to our service men in Viet Nam by sending Christmas cards to the U. S. forces stationed there.

Purely by chance these cards were placed on the desk of Lt. Col Joseph J. Scott at his post in Viet Nam. Col. Scott, who was at that time Major Scott, had previously been attached to the PC ROTC unit. Recently the administraiton here has received a letter from Lt. Col. Scott expressing his and his men's appreciation for the thoughts and cares of Presbyterian students who sent these cards.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment:

Belk-Hudson Company, Feb. 14.

Cannon Mills Company, Feb. 15.

Retail Credit Company, Feb. 18.

Stevenson Re-Ups

Sergeant Frist Class William H. Stephenson reenlisted recently for three years in the United States Army. He has completed 22 yeras of actice service and is currently serving with the Military Department at Presbyterian College.

Sgt. Stephenson's reenlistment became official last week when he was administered an oath by Lt. Col. Richard W. Ulrich,, Professor of Military Science at Presbyterian College.

Chapel Schedule

Monday: Because of Religion-in-Life Week, all Thursday 10:00 a. m. classes for Thursday, February 17, will be held on Monday, February 14, at 10:00 a. m. (Chapel hour).

Wednesday: Chapel Worship Service, "Questioning our Questions," Dr. Wade Huie.

Thursday: "Bound to be Free", Dr. Wade Huie.

Friday: "What We DO Know Counts" ,Dr. Wade Huie.

S and B Tapping

Five rising seniors were tapped yesterday for membership in Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military organziation.

Cadet Captain Al Todd, commander of K Company, 10th Regiment of Scabbard and Blade, inducted the new members at drill yesterday.

The cadets tapped were Will Scott, Scooter Holcombe, Grady Marshall, Bob Herlong, and Bob Warren.

Job Opportunity

The Blue Stocking, at the present time, has staff openings for reporters and typists. Anyone interested in serving on the staff for the 1966-67 year is encouraged to give his name to the new editor or business manager.

JOHNSON FIELD AS IT LOOKED ON REGISTRATION DAY —PC students, as they returned for second semester, were welcomed by snow and ice. The Clinton area received four inches of snow with drifts as much as eight inches. Once students got back, they found they couldn't get out. But by Monday, most of the snow and ice was gone, and things got back to normal.

Court Trial Strikes Fear; Four PC Students Convicted

Ending a carefully deliberated eight and one-half hour court trial at 6 a. m. this morning, four Presbyterian College students were found guilty of cheating in violation of the honor code.

The action by the Student Council's judiciary arm headed by Senior David Davies, in spite of its severeity, marked the offense as only the second serious conviction in nearly one year.

Names of the guilty were withheld from publication in The Blue Stocking. However, informed sources have indicated that of the four convicted, two were sentenced to two weeks suspension, while two others were suspended for the remainder of the present semester and for one summer school.

The above article has been published not for the intention of publicly exposing the guilty, but to stress the importance of student honesty and fair play.

Editor (Cont. from page 1)

record of service since his freshman year with the Blue Stocking where he has served as reporter and as news editor. A member of Sigma Nu fraternity, Stevens will fill the business managers' post vacated by Howard L. Preston.

Said outgoing Editor Waters: "Hall is a capable, conscientious person and has displayed excellent aptitude and ability for this high office. All in all he has the will and knowledge to turn out a Blue Stocking of definite quality. The retiring staff gives him their complete endorsement."

Letter (Cont. from Page 2)

would help a little, and perhaps, maybe a cross as well as other symbols of worship might be used more often.

(5) That more attention be paid to the order of worship and that items such as the prayers of confession which become monotonous and totally unlike anything to be considered as a prayer be dropped or changed.

(6) That more ministers worthy of a college congregation be asked to speak and that they even be of different denominations. It was also suggested that, if needed, the Cabinets would be glad to draw up suggested topics to send to these men.

These are a few suggestions, some drastic, that have occurred to us might improve our chapel servicse, improve our frame of minds for these services, and, chances are, will enable those who want to worship their God as He should be worshiped to do so.

$120 Per Week Plus

for married or single student who wants to work 3 or 4 hours a day. Must be over 21, have car and personable for sales work in Clinton-Laurens.

Call Newberry 276-2341
After 5:30

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS

•

Adair's Men's Shop

— Court Square —

Yarborough Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1020

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE Cleaners

. . . and . . .

Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

BROADWAY Theatre

TODAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY
"DO NOT DISTURB"
Doris Day, Rod Taylor

MON.-TUES.-WED.
Elvis Presley in
"GIRL HAPPY"
With Shelley Fabares and

The Greeks

BUDDY GUY
GREEK EDITOR

Having been a Greek for three and a half years I have seen, along with my classmates, the good and the not-so-good that has come out of fraternities. During my stay here I have heard the Greeks talked about for one thing or another, usually receiving more criticism than not.

I have seen three classes of men come to this institution, some joined a fraternity, some did not. Being a senior I ame able, as my fellow Greeks who are seniors are able, to look back over the four years at PC and form some sort of opinion one way or another concerning the Greek system here. Instead of going into a personal testimony about fraternities here, I would but ask you who are one of the "Senior Greeks," and you who are underclassmen-Greeks, when you reach your last year, to reflect in your own mind back through the years you have been a fraternity man.

Try and recall that feeling you got on Pledge Day, the year the boy you wanted came your way or did not come your way. Recall the friendships you formed which could have only existed between men united in the secret bonds of brotherhood. Remember Greeks, and you will come to the same conclusion as I did, it was the best step you ever took at college.

FROM THE FRATERNITIES COME THESE REPORTS:

Alpha Sigma Phi: Whit Blount has pinned Miss Pat Boyles of Converse College. Pat Goldsmith has pinned Miss Lynn Cople of Wake Forest College. Morrow Thompson has pinned Miss Carol Wilson of Winthrop College. Lavoliered is Rush Otey to Miss Lilith Quinlan of Converse College. Blount is also brother of the week. New officers in the fraternity are Jim Bruce, Pres., Will Scott, V. P., Brooks Styles, Sec., and Mike McGehee, Treas.

Sigma Nu: Art Sammons married Mrs. Cheryl Sammons of PC; E-baum Erwin lavoliered Miss Harriet Gordon of Clinton; Frank Markette pinned Miss Anne Collins of Converse College. Steve Watson is engaged to Miss Gloria Howell of Limestone College; Jim Cassady is lavoliered to Diane Dennington, and Al Todd is pinned to Miss Mary Ann Arnette of PC.

Sadie Hawkins Day has been planned for Feb. 19, and the snakes have also a steak and beans supper for the near future.

Theta Chi: The pledge class of Beta Psi of Theta Chi is giving a brotherhood party on Saturday, Feb. 19. The theme of the party will center around one of Theta Chi's famous "Passion Pits." Our sympathy is extended to Brother Rusty Tatum who has recently been banned from Winthrop College.

Kappa Alpha: Skip Weldon pinned Miss Carol Keatley of Emory University. Brother Roy Squires is back after a quarter at Mercer.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, February 18, 1966 — No. 12

Dr. Huie Stresses Mind's Place In The Christian Faith of Today

By CHARLES EAGLES

In his three main addresses of Religion-in-Life Week, Dr. Wade Huie's aim was to "scratch beneath the surface" to the heart of the issues. He attempted to stimulate his audience to new thoughts and to a better understanding of the issues. This was in keeping with the overall theme of "Christian Faith and the Mind of Today."

The topic of his first message was "Questioning our Questions." This set the stage for his other talks entitled "Bound to Be Free,," and "What We DO Know Counts."

In "Questioning Our Questions," Dr. Huie pointed out that our questions in the field of religion should be mature, and of significant importance. Before asking our questions, however, we should be ready to become personally, not just academically, involved with the answers we receive.

His scripture reference in his initial address was the eleventh chapter of Mark. This is the story of the confrontation of Christ and the priests after Christ had driven the money-changers from the temple. The chief priests questioned Christ's authority for his action. Christ, "the Great Questioner," responded with a question that the priests could not answer without involving themselves ethically. Questions about the Christian faith can be healthy, but commitment to Christ is always involved in arriving at the full answers.

Under the topic "Bound to be Free," Dr. Huie asked, "what does it mean to be free?" Is freedom the release from all responsibilty and license to live by whim and impulse? Dr. Huie maintained that these are not examples of Christian freedom. Christian freedom is freedom to be human, not sub-human or super-human.

Christ said, "you shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free" (John 8:32). The truth is Christ Himself, and only as we are bound to Him can we come to know and experience the meaning of the Christian faith. Although this seems paradoxical we must be "bound to be free."

In his final address Dr. Huie stated that "what we DO know counts." He specified three things the Christian can know in the face of many things we cannot know. The first idea was the need for the Christian and the church to go out into the world. If the present-day church is to grow, it must look outward to the external world, not concentrate on their relatively minor internal problems. Dr. Huie said that "As the Christian goes outward he can be assured that God is with him and for him. His going out is for the sake of others."

Professor Wade Huie of Columbia Theological Seminary at the Douglas House Discussion

BLUE SOCK STAFF for 1966-67 seated (left to right) Jimmy Humphries, Bill Bassham, and Alex Erwin; standing Charles Eagles, Rush Otey, Gene Sullivan, and Rob Dalton.

Carter Article In Chemical Journal

Dr. K. Nolon Carter, chairman of the Presbyterian College chemistry department, has an article in the January issue of Journal of Chemical Education about an original piece of apparatus he developed to measure the infrared spectrum of gases.

His article, entitled "Flexible Gas Cells for Infrared Spectroscopy," describes the apparatus he developed while doing research in one of the Presbyterian College laboratories. He sought a cell for the analysis of gases that would be both less expensive and more flexible than the standard type. The result is illustrated by a picture accompanying the article.

Dr. Carter has served as chairman of the Presbyterian College chemistry department since 1951. He is a regular contributor to professional journals in the field.

Richardson Hall of Science Named for Friend of College

Presbyterian College has named its new science building the Richardson Hall of Science in tribute to its friend and benefactor, H. Smith Richardson, retired chairman of the Vick Chemical Company, President Marc C. Weersing announced recently.

He said the PC board of trustees chose this name for the $850,000 structure as a means of honoring the prominent business executive who has contributed so much to Christian higher education both here and elsewhere.

The science building, just completed and in operation, is one of three new buildings erected by PC as a result of its 1962 capital funds campaign. President Weersing pointed out it was the Richardson Foundation that injected vigor into this drive with the largest grant given to the college up to that date. Its dramatic challenge helped to boost the South Carolina Synod to a record effort that produced $1,941,204 for plant and endowment additions.

The most modern accommodations in laboratory and classroom facilities are provided for the physics department on the first floor, the biology department on the second floor and the chemistry department on the third floor.

Richardson Hall is air-conditioned throughout and is serviced by stairs and an elevator. Its use as a science facility replaces Jacobs Hall, which was erected in 1915 and named in honor of founder William Plumer Jacobs. With laboratories now removed, Jacobs Hall will receive more extensive use as a classroom building and will continue to house the ROTC headquarters.

'Untried Talent' Marks '66-'67 Stocking Staff

By RUSH OTEY

New staff members for The Blue Stocking's 46th year of publication were announced today by Editor Woody Hall.

Hall stated that the new staff is full of "untried talent," with newcomers holding several key positions. To back up the inexperienced, three staff editors from the past year are returning along with Hall.

Heading the list of fledgling scribes and replacing Dave Veneklasen as Managing Editor is Charles Eagles, a sophomore. News Editor is Rush Otey, a freshman from Gainesville, Ga. Assistant News Editor is Rob Dalton. The art department will have an addition in freshman Jim Brewer, who will assist John Weigel as a cartoonist.

No stranger to Blue Stocking readers is Bill Bassham who will again serve as Sports Editor. The Greeks will again be covered by Jimmy Humphries, and Christie Patterson will return as Movie Editor. Alex Erwin is Copy Editor, and handling photography work will be Louis Hart and James Howard.

According to Hall, the position of Feature Editor has not yet been filled, and anyone interested in this position should contact him. There is also a need for reporters and more typists. Gloria Porter, Mavis Harrop, and Karen Weaver are the present typists for the Blue Stocking.

In a word, the new staff is a composite of the experienced and the inexperienced. Both the untried talent and the old hands are enthusiastic about the coming editions of The Blue Stocking.

ROTC Plans Review to Honor Ulrich

By ROB DALTON

Lt. Colonel Richard W. Ulrich, Presbyterian College's Professor of Military Science, is to be presented a military award by the Department of the Army on February 24, 2:30 p. m., in a special ceremony on Johnson Field. Ulrich will retire this month after 20 years of service.

Col. James A. Scott, Chief of the ROTC Division of the Third Army, Headquarters at Fort McPherson, Ga., will present the award, and the Presbyterian College ROTC battalion will pass-in-review in honor of the retiring PMS.

A luncheon for Col. Scott, the faculty and the administration, in honor of Lt. Col. Ulrich, will be held in the private dining room of Greenville Hall immediately preceding the ceremony.

Lt. Col. Ulrich was graduated and commissioned at The Citadel in 1941. He served in Europe in World War II, after which he returned to civilian life as a control buyer for Sears Roebuck and Co. in Atlanta. Ulrich requested active duty during the Korean War and served in Japan and Korea.

After returning to the U. S. he was stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., until he became head of the military department at Presbyterian.

Synods' Pledges Reach Two Million

Presbyterian College's development program over the past four years has produced almost $3,000,000 in capital subscriptions, of which well over two-thirds has already been paid, President Marc C. Weersing announced recently.

The report as of February 1 showed $2,963,252 subscribed paid in the amount of $2,121,784. Most of this has come from the Synod of South Carolina and resulted in three new buildings, more campus land and endowment additions.

President Weersing said collections to date include $100,000 of the anonymous challenge grant made last year. Another $50,000 of this grant will become available when PC collects $200,000 more from outstanding pledges.

As churches and individuals continue daily to pay off subscriptions on this phase of PC's long-range program, Georgia Presbyterians are preparing to launch the Phase III with a capital funds campaign in that synod this spring. Presbyterian College, in this drive, is earmarked for $1,500,000 for another men's dormitory and endowment.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr. — Editor

Jos. B. Stevens — Business Mgr.

Statement of Policy

ASSUMING THE EDITORSHIP of a newspaper places the one who assumes the post in a position which is not easily defined.

THE EDITOR'S RESPONSIBILITY is to publish the the news accurately and without prejudice. Yet, this is not all that his paper should accomplish. At certain times and in certain situations, the editor and his paper are obligated to present the news and views in such a way as to permit the student to interpret and evaluate the facts for himself.

BUT THIS DOES NOT GIVE the editor complete license to make blatant attacks against anything and everything that is contrary to what he believes is best. Without complete investigation, he is not qualified to make such an attack.

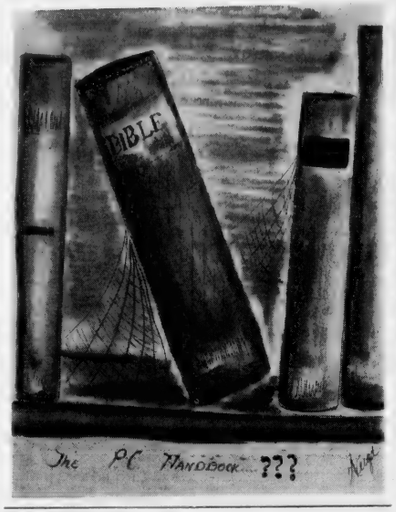
GRANTED AN EDITOR has a responsibility to expose and bring to the attention of his readers any gross abuse of the system that he considers worthy of correction.

BUT THIS RESPONSIBILITY can be carried to the extreme. And as a result The Blue Stocking intends to investigate the facts well before committing itself to any action whatsoever.

UNDER THE AUSPICES of new leadership, The Blue Stocking staff will strive to publish a paper worthy of the papers which have been published for the past 46 years. We accept the challenge issued by our predecessors and do not shirk from it.

IT IS SAID that this paper is good public relations for Presbyterian College and that the administration depends on it for such.

THE STAFF BELIEVES that this is not the primary reason for publishing the paper. It is published by and for the students of Presbyterian College, and the majority of its contents will continue to be aimed in this direction.



WE INVITE YOUR LETTERS, your guest editorials, and your constructive criticism. The staff does reserve the right to refuse publication of any guest editorial which we consider contrary to the best interests of the paper .

WE REQUIRE that your letters be signed; but upon request and with ample reason and due consideration by the staff we will withhold these names from publication. Again we reserve the right to edit these letters in the interest of good taste.

AS FOR CONSTRUCTIVE criticism we acknowledge this as a means through which the staff can improve its publication and better meet the needs of the campus.

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor	Charles Eagles
News Editor	Rush Otey
Assistant News Editor	Rob Dalton
Sports Editor	Bill Bassham
Assistant Sports Editor	Gene Sullivan
Greek Editor	Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor	Christie Patterson
Cartoonists	Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists	Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter

Letters to the Editor

Hefner and Altizer

Dear Editor:

As I sat in chapel today listening to Dr. Huie deliver his sermon, I was amazed at the irony of situation. The irony of situation of which I am speaking is the recent rejection by either the administration or a faculty committee of two speakers in great demand by the students. These men were, of course, Thomas Altizer and Hugh Hefner.

It seems that two men who are so shaking the foundations of conservatism and indifference would be welcomed and even sought to speak at a "liberal arts college" such as Presbyterian. The reasons we were given for their being turned down brings out the irony in this talk even more. Hefner was turned down for lack of education and both Hefner and Altizer were rejected because it might cause some of the more conservative "Christians" who support PC to cut off the flow of money into this institution.

Ironic, isn't it? Dr. Huie said, "Jesus got into trouble when He began to upset their way of making money." Perhaps,, if the administration is actually concerned with our getting a liberal education, they would like to see us have these speakers. However, as Dr. Huie so aptly put it, though not referring to this particular problem, "The question is how to cut off the apron strings without cuting off the pocket book."

As professed followers of "The Great Questioner," I believe we should be allowed our questions and have an opportunity to hear the views of people who are enjoying the limelight of controversy in their fields. While we may not agree with Hefner or Altizer, we should be given the opportunity to hear them if only to more firmly deny their views.

Sincerely,
G. Randall Grant

A Living Sacrifice?

Dear Editor:

I must humbly acknowledge the editorial "Blue Key Speaks Out."

In my first semester at this fine institution I made less than a 1.00 grade point ratio. Therefore, I must have been "wasting my time," and I also must have been "detrimental to my school and to my fellow students."

I apologize for this and submit my worthless self to be placed in the school incinerator as a sacrifice to the great G.P.R. god.

Sam McGirt

Student Praises Work on RE Week

Dear Editor:

Religious Emphasis Week has come and gone with a lack of student support in some instances. Some students took little, if any, notice of the week.

The SCA Cabinet spent many months in planning the programs and discussions. Especially to be noted were the discussions which were held in the individual dormitories. These informal discussions allowed those students who participated to ask more personal questions. This discussion period also gave the student a chance to hear the views of his friends.

Thanks again go to SCA for fostering this plan of dorm discussions. As a result, I believe that this was one of the most successful RE Weeks that has ever been held on the Presbyterian College campus.

Yours very truly,
An interested participant

Campus Movie Schedule

Sponsored by the Student Council, the following movies will be shown at 7:00 in Bell Auditorium on the days stated:

March 2—"The Victors."
March 9—"The Cardinal."
April 13 — "Lover Come Back."
April 20—"Advice and Consent."
April 27—"The Best of Enemies."

The Greeks

JIMMY HUMPHRIES
GREEK EDITOR

The Interfraternity Council is in the process of rewriting the IFC Constitution. The present rules concerning fall rush will probably be altered. One possibility is to extend the length of rush to the beginning of second semester due to next year's pre-Christmas exam schedule and the scholastic requirements for pledging. There are hopes of bringing the fraternity average back up to its usual position above the all-men's scholastic average.

Plans for IFC Weekend, to be held on May 7, are being made. IFC Weekend will be intended for the benefit of fraternity men only. Saturday night the IFC plans to sponsor a combined party for all six fraternities with a national recording band.

The Kappa Alpha Order is to be congratulated on its decision to purchase a thirty-dollar heater which produces one BTU of heat. Pledge brother Alex Batton is lavaliered to Miss Nancy Stump of Winthrop College. She is the daughter of Professor Alex Stump, Chairman of the PC Biology Department.

Brother Wade Stewart of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity was recently pinned to Miss Sue Smith of the University of South Carolina. She is a member of Chi Omega Sorority. Brothers of the Week are Brother Wade Stewart and Brother Richard "Crash" Smart. The Pi Kappa Alpha Club is to be thanked for supporting the IFC in fines.

Brother Richard Galloway of the Theta Chi Fraternity was recently pinned to Miss Suzanne Sewell of Rock Hill. She attends Winthrop College. Congratulations to Brother Mike Luke who pinned Miss Jo Nowell of Clinton Hall.

The Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity plans a "Little Brother-Big Brother" party this Saturday night at their fraternity suite featuring "The Youngmen" from Gray Court.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity has asked that it be announced that due to recent misfortunes their social functions (which are limited) are all closed. There is a record party in the Sigma Nu house this Saturday night.

The pledges of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity held an informal drop-in Saturday night after the PC-Elon basketball game. Pi Kappa Phi's new pledges are Bill McBee, Don Taylor, Richard Cash, and Rick Stall. Brother Andy Barnett was recently pinned to Miss Martha Todd of Erskine. Russ McAllister is lavaliered to Miss Laura Bennitt; Al Hudgins is lavaliered to Miss Dona Thompson; and Steve Banakis is lavaliered to Miss Jean Barnes. Brother of the Week is Pet Collins.

Will the Spring Be Brighter?

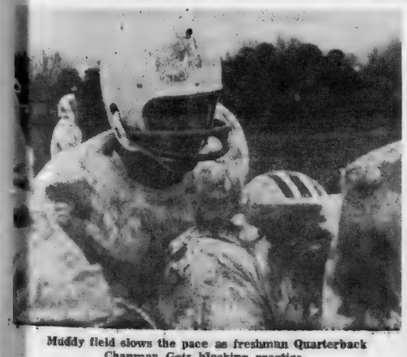
By BILL BASSHAM

Presbyterian's sports' hopes move from season to season as the year progresses. Football has come and gone with a 5-5 record resulting. At one time it looked like we would have an 0-10 record while at another time it may have been 8-2. A season which began with disaster ended with disaster, but in between there was some football played which made the whole state sit up and take notice. None of the state's sportswriters thought we could beat teams the likes of Furman or Wofford, but they were beaten.

Basketball came in with high hopes, but these hopes were not to hold true. It would serve little purpose to discuss what happened. The team has come on like few expected they would. Sure they have had their ups and downs and will have a losing season, but they have played some good basketball in winning as well as losing.

So now we turn to the spring sports. Baseball comes up first of the four spring sports. Last year's squad posted an 0-8 record in 1965. This year sees thirteen lettermen returning to the diamond. Art Musselman will replace Billy Tiller as head coach. Although a strong corps of hitters will be returning, only two pitchers are coming back. This was what hurt the baseballers last year.

Track hopes for this year are even poorer. Last year's track team was without a win. Two bright spots are returnees Richard Reed and Doug Allen. Allen and Reed were the backbone of last year's cindermen. Coach Joe Nixon is looking for an improved team, but some help from freshmen will be essential.



Tennis was at one time the sport at PC but has declined in the last few years. Coach Bill Shakespeare faces a rough schedule with some key holes to plug. PC will be a state contender this year with the top player in the state in Bob Harris. Tennis hopes were dimmed this year when two netmen who were counted on to be in the top four did not make it back to school this semester.

Perhaps PC's brightest hopes this spring will be in golf. Only one letterman was lost by graduation, and two freshmen have shown promise along with an upperclassman who is out for the team for the first time. Coach Jerry Wells in his first year as coach will be shooting for the state championship.

PC's hopes will be brighter if freshmen come through. The purpose of this column is to try to stir up some enthusiasm for the spring sports early in the year. All who played high school sports please consider going out this spring to help out the Blue Hose. If you don't feel capable of playing, at least go to the game and support the Hose. Let's all get behind our boys in hopes of a successful spring sportswise.

Conference Standings

	CONFERENCE W	L	PCT	ALL GAMES W	L	PCT
High Point	14	2	.875	16	4	.800
W. Carolina	10	4	.714	17	6	.739
Guilford	11	6	.647	15	6	.714
Appalachian	9	7	.563	13	9	.591
Lenoir Rhyne	10	8	.556	12	13	.490
Pfeiffer	8	8	.500	12	11	.522
Elon	7	8	.467	12	9	.571
Catawba	7	10	.412	9	11	.450
Presbyterian	3	8	.273	7	15	.318
Atlantic Christian	3	12	.200	8	17	.320
Newberry	2	11	.154	8	15	.348

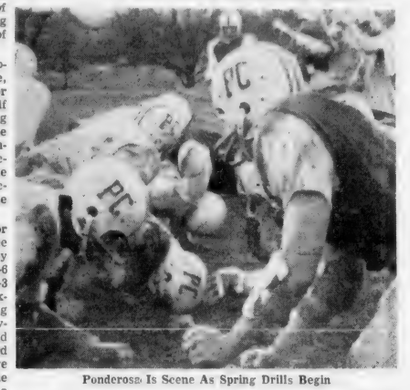
Muddy field slows the pace as freshman Quarterback Chapman Gets blocking practice.

57-51 Loss to The Rival Indians Closes Varsity Basketball Season

By MIKE SIMMONS

The hoop men of Presbyterian College wound up their 1965-66 season with a narrow 57-41 loss at the hands of the Indians of Newberry College, after having almost pulled the game out of the fire.

This game capped a disappointing season for the Hose, but they did show some hope or optimism over the latter half of the season. After dropping nine of their first 11 starts, the Hose went on a four-game winning streak enroute to a 5-7 record over the second half of the season and a 7-16 overall record. They finished 3-9 in the rough Carolinas Conference.



One of the major reasons for optimism is the return of three starters next season. The only men the Hose will lose are 6-6 center Doug Allen, and 6-3 guard-forward Jimmy Bankhead. This means that leading scorer 6-2 Ken Martin, top average rebounder and second leading scorer 6-1 Richard Quillen, and playmaker Steve Stine will all be back for the 1966-67 campaign. Quillen set a school record with 24 rebounds against Piedmont.

In addition to these are several substitutes who logged substantial palying time for the Hose. Six-four forward-center Richard Reed saw action in 19 games, and forwards Doug McLeod and John Lown gained valuable playing time. Also, the expected return of 6-6 center Jim Kiser to top form should bolster the Hose's scoring and rebounding punch. Kiser was out of the last 14 games of the season because of a finger injury.

The reason for the Hose's surge during the last part of the season can be traced largely to the play of the whole team. The early part of the season saw the loss of Quillen and Kiser, and Reed and Bankhead joined the squad late due to football. Allen moved in at the pivot position and carried the bulk of the rebounding load during Quillen's absence. During this time the majority of the scoring load fell on Martin. Bankhead's arrival alleviated this condition somewhat, and Quillen's return greatly strengthened both the scoring and rebounding for the Hose. Stine found his place and added more long-range scoring potential as well as a constant threat with his offensive and defensive hustle.

Martin led all scorers for PC with 370 points in 23 games for a 16.0 average. Quillen advanced into second place late in the season with a 14.7 average. Bankhead's 13.3 points per game gave the Hose three men averaging in double figures.

Allen pulled down more rebounds than anyone else on the squad with 202 for an average of 8.7 per game, but Quillen had the highest game average with 175 rebounds in 18 games for a 9.7 rebounds per game. Martin, a surprisingly strong rebounder for a guard, hauled in 92 errant shots to take third in the rebounding category.

Ponderosa Is Scene As Spring Drills Begin

IM Tournament Set

Intramural directors Benny Crabtree and Bill Crowley have announced that there will definitely be an intercollegiate basketball tournament at the conclusion of the regular intramural season. Teams that have already accepted are Newberry and Erskine, and Furman most likely will accept. Wofford declined the invitation.

The games will be played by members of the intramural all-stars of each school. PC will select its squad after completion of the regular season here.

IM League Play Ends; PiKA (1), KA's Champs

By GENE SULLIVAN

The PiKA's look as though they will sweep the intramural trophy for basketball again this year. They have posted a perfect 7-0 season behind the fine shooting of Don Blanchard, who averages 18 points a game. Mike Donovan is perhaps the best back court man in the league and Sandy Lynn has the height to pull down the rebounds. Freshmen Cleve Dobbins and Jim Allred average around 10 points per contest and make the PiKA's a big threat from outside.

Kappa Alpha seems certain to go all the way to the finals because of their fine-scoring forward Joe Gettys, whose 23.2 average leads the intramural scoring race. Gus Forbes has the needed outside shot and playmaking ability and is the highest scoring guard in the league with 15 points a contest. The loss of Tim Yancey could hamper them; but teamwork and additional help from Sjoholm, Johnson, and Roberts could place them in top spot.

Led by the clutch shooting of Buddy Guy and Grady Marshall, the Alpha Sigma Phi's ripped the once-beaten Sigma Nu's 51-46. The Alpha Sig's are now second in the league behind the KA's. If Bobby Byard, John Greer, and Jimmy Page hold their own, the Sig's could be tough. Guy, Marshall, and Byard all average in double figures.

The Crushers are literally that, and with outside gunning from Morris and Elliott coupled with Al Calloway's and Billy Love's dynamic defensive work, the Crushers could bruise their way into a leading role.

At the beginning of the year the Sigma Nu's seemed to be the team to beat. With Frank Markette's hot scoring and Ray Crim, David Bordner, Dan O'Connell, Mack Story and others back from last year's team, it seems reasonable that they could go to the top. They have lost two, but during the tournament they could show the teamwork and poise they have lacked all year.

The Sinkers lost their two big men, Glen Riddle and John McGill, at the semester mark, and their 5-0 record toppled to 5-3. Their hopes in the playoffs lie in the ability of James Powell and Neil Lindsay.

The Theta Chi's, following the pattern of the Sinkers, lost David Wellborn and Gene Bowie and can't seem to find the scoring punch they need to remain a contender. Ed Dorn, Doug Catoe, and Gene Robbins do most of the work for the team.

A few more games must be played before the final team in the tournament will be decided. The possibilities are the PiKA's second team and the Pushers. The PiKA's have a good scoring punch in James Smith and Mel Davis. Bruce Lawrence is an excellent ball handler, and Reed Bolick can pull down the rebounds. The Pushers rely on Gene Sullivan and E. G. Lassiter, who are in double figures, and the playmaking of Robert Hope to keep them in contention. Al Wilson and Jerry Jackson have come along fast and on a good night can be strong.

With most of the intramural season over, it seems certain that Joe Gettys has wrapped up the scoring honors with a 23.2 average. Don Blanchard, a previous leader, has dropped to an 18.0 point performance and game. Frank Markette of the Sigma Nu's, a 20-point man from last year, has fallen to 16 a contest. Two newcomers, both sophomores, are in the top five scorers this year. They are Gene Sullivan and Gus Forbes with 15-point averages.

Other top scorers in intramurals with better than 10 points a game this year are Buddy Guy, Bob Byard, and Grady Marshall of the Alpha Sigs, Hart Cobb of the Sigma Nu's, Tim Yancey of the KA's, Gene Robbins of Theta Chi, and Mel Davis of the PiKA second team. Ben Crabtree and Coach Nixon led the faculty, and E. G. Lassiter of the Pushers, and Ronnie Morris and Jimmy Elliott of the Crushers led their team.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr. — Editor

Jos. B. Stevens — Business Mgr.

Statement of Policy

ASSUMING THE EDITORSHIP of a newspaper places the one who assumes the post in a position which is not easily defined.

THE EDITOR'S RESPONSIBILITY is to publish the the news accurately and without prejudice. Yet, this is not all that his paper should accomplish. At certain times and in certain situations, the editor and his paper are obligated to present the news and views in such a way as to permit the student to interpret and evaluate the facts for himself.

BUT THIS DOES NOT GIVE the editor complete license to make blatant attacks against anything and everything that is contrary to what he believes is best. Without complete investigation, he is not qualified to make such an attack.

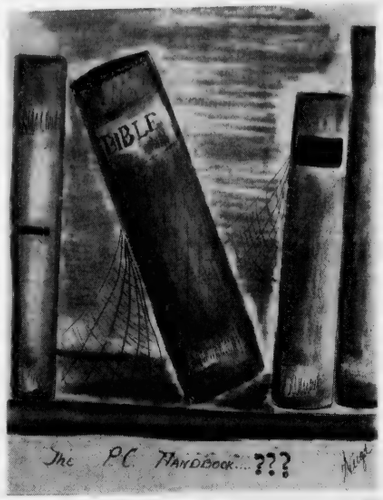
GRANTED AN EDITOR has a responsibility to expose and bring to the attention of his readers any gross abuse of the system that he considers worthy of correction.

BUT THIS RESPONSIBILITY can be carried to the extreme. And as a result The Blue Stocking intends to investigate the facts well before committing itself to any action whatsoever.

UNDER THE AUSPICES of new leadership, The Blue Stocking staff will strive to publish a paper worthy of the papers which have been published for the past 46 years. We accept the challenge issued by our predecessors and do not shirk from it.

IT IS SAID that this paper is good public relations for Presbyterian College and that the administration depends on it for such.

THE STAFF BELIEVES that this is not the primary reason for publishing the paper. It is published by and for the students of Presbyterian College, and the malority of its contents will continue to be aimed in this direction.



WE INVITE YOUR LETTERS, your guest editorials, and your constructive criticism. The staff does reserve the right to refuse publication of any guest editorial which we consider contrary to the best interests of the paper .

WE REQUIRE that your letters be signed; but upon request and with ample reason and due consideration by the staff we will withhold these names from publication. Again we reserve the right to edit these letters in the interest of good taste.

AS FOR CONSTRUCTIVE criticism we acknowledge this as a means through which the staff can improve its publication and better meet the needs of the campus.

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter

Letters to the Editor

Hefner and Altizer

Dear Editor:

As I sat in chapel today listening to Dr. Huie deliver his sermon, I was amazed at the irony of situation. The irony of situation of which I am speaking is the recent rejection by either the administration or a faculty committee of two speakers in great demand by the students. These men were, of course, Thomas Altizer and Hugh Hefner.

It seems that two men who are so shaking the foundations of conservatism and indifference would be welcomed and even sought to speak at a "liberal arts college" such as Presbyterian. The reasons we were given for their being turned down brings out the irony in this talk even more. Hefner was turned down for lack of education and both Hefner and Altizer were rejected because it might cause some of the more conservative "Christians" who support PC to cut off the flow of money into this institution.

Ironic, isn't it? Dr. Huie said, "Jesus got into trouble when He began to upset their way of making money." Perhaps,, if the administration is actually concerned with our getting a liberal education, they would like to see us have these speakers. However, as Dr. Huie so aptly put it, though not referring to this particular problem, "The question is how to cut off the apron strings without cuting off the pocket book."

As professed followers of "The Great Questioner," I believe we should be allowed our questions and have an opportunity to hear the views of people who are enjoying the limelight of controversy in their fields. While we may not agree with Hefner or Altizer, we should be given the opportunity to hear them if only to more firmly deny their views.

Sincerely,
G. Randall Grant

A Living Sacrifice?

Dear Editor:

I must humbly acknowledge the editorial "Blue Key Speaks Out."

In my first semester at this fine institution I made less than a 1.00 grade point ratio. Therefore, I must have been "wasting my time," and I also must have been "detrimental to my school and to my fellow students."

I apologize for this and submit my worthless self to be placed in the school incinerator as a sacrifice to the great G.P.R. god.

Sam McGirt

Student Praises Work on RE Week

Dear Editor:

Religious Emphasis Week has come and gone with a lack of student support in some instances. Some students took little, if any, notice of the week.

The SCA Cabinet spent many months in planning the programs and discussions. Especially to be noted were the discussions which were held in the individual dormitories. These informal discussions allowed those students who participated to ask more personal questions. This discussion period also gave the student a chance to hear the views of his friends.

Thanks again go to SCA for fostering this plan of dorm discussions. As a result, I believe that this was one of the most successful RE Weeks that has ever been held on the Presbyterian College campus.

Yours very truly,
An interested participant

Campus Movie Schedule

Sponsored by the Student Council, the following movies will be shown at 7:00 in Bell Auditorium on the days stated:

March 2—"The Victors."
March 9—"The Cardinal."
April 13 — "Lover Come Back."
April 20—"Advice and Consent."
April 27—"The Best of Enemies."

The Greeks

JIMMY HUMPHRIES
GREEK EDITOR

The Interfraternity Council is in the process of rewriting the IFC Constitution. The present rules concerning fall rush will probably be altered. One possibility is to extend the length of rush to the beginning of second semester due to next year's pre-Christmas exam schedule and the scholastic requirements for pledging. There are hopes of bringing the fraternity average back up to its usual position above the all-men's scholastic average.

Plans for IFC Weekend, to be held on May 7, are being made. IFC Weekend will be intended for the benefit of fraternity men only. Saturday night the IFC plans to sponsor a combined party for all six fraternities with a national recording band.

The Kappa Alpha Order is to be congratulated on its decision to purchase a thirty-dollar heater which produces one BTU of heat. Pledge brother Alex Batton is lavaliered to Miss Nancy Stump of Winthrop College. She is the daughter of Professor Alex Stump, Chairman of the PC Biology Department.

Brother Wade Stewart of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity was recently pinned to Miss Sue Smith of the University of South Carolina. She is a member of Chi Omega Sorority. Brothers of the Week are Brother Wade Stewart and Brother Richard "Crash" Smart. The Pi Kappa Alpha Club is to be thanked for supporting the IFC in fines.

Brother Richard Galloway of the Theta Chi Fraternity was recently pinned to Miss Suzanne Sewell of Rock Hill. She attends Winthrop College. Congratulations to Brother Mike Luke who pinned Miss Jo Nowell of Clinton Hall.

The Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity plans a "Little Brother-Big Brother" party this Saturday night at their fraternity suite featuring "The Youngmen" from Gray Court.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity has asked that it be announced that due to recent misfortunes their social functions (which are limited) are all closed. There is a record party in the Sigma Nu house this Saturday night.

The pledges of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity held an informal drop-in Saturday night after the PC-Elon basketball game. Pi Kappa Phi's new pledges are Bill McBee, Don Taylor, Richard Cash, and Rick Stall. Brother Andy Barnett was recently pinned to Miss Martha Todd of Erskine. Russ McAllister is lavaliered to Miss Laura Bennitt; Al Hudgins is lavaliered to Miss Dona Thompson; and Steve Banakis is lavaliered to Miss Jean Barnes. Brother of the Week is Pet Collins.

Will the Spring Be Brighter?

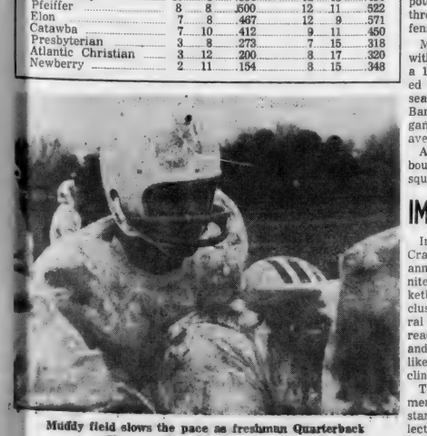
By BILL BASSHAM

Presbyterian's sports' hopes move from season to season as the year progresses. Football has come and gone with a 5-5 record resulting. At one time it looked like we would have an 0-10 record while at another time it may have been 8-2. A season which began with disaster ended with disaster, but in between there was some football played which made the whole state sit up and take notice. None of the state's sportswriters thought we could beat teams the likes of Furman or Wofford, but they were beaten.

Basketball came in with high hopes, but these hopes were not to hold true. It would serve little purpose to discuss what happened. The team has come on like few expected they would. Sure they have had their ups and downs and will have a losing season, but they have played some good basketball in winning as well as losing.

So now we turn to the spring sports. Baseball comes up first of the four spring sports. Last year's squad posted an 0-8 record in 1965. This year sees thirteen lettermen returning to the diamond. Art Musselman will replace Billy Tiller as head coach. Although a strong corps of hitters will be returning, only two pitchers are coming back. This was what hurt the baseballers last year.

Track hopes for this year are even poorer. Last year's track team was without a win. Two bright spots are returnees Richard Reed and Doug Allen. Allen and Reed were the backbone of last year's cindermen. Coach Joe Nixon is looking for an improved team, but some help from freshmen will be essential.



Tennis was at one time the sport at PC but has declined in the last few years. Coach Bill Shakespeare faces a rough schedule with some key holes to plug. PC will be a state contender this year with the top player in the state in Bob Harris. Tennis hopes were dimmed this year when two netmen who were counted on to be in the top four did not make it back to school this semester.

Perhaps PC's brightest hopes this spring will be in golf. Only one letterman was lost by graduation, and two freshmen have shown promise along with an upperclassman who is out for the team for the first time. Coach Jerry Wells in his first year as coach will be shooting for the state championship.

PC's hopes will be brighter if freshmen come through. The purpose of this column is to try to stir up some enthusiasm for the spring sports early in the year. All who played high school sports please consider going out this spring to help out the Blue Hose. If you don't feel capable of playing, at least go to the game and support the Hose. Let's all get behind our boys in hopes of a successful spring sportswise.

Conference Standings

	CONFERENCE			ALL GAMES
	W	L	PCT	W	L	PCT
High Point	14	2	.875	16	4	.800
W. Carolina	10	4	.714	17	6	.739
Guilford	11	6	.647	15	6	.714
Appalachian	9	7	.563	13	9	.591
Lenoir Rhyne	10	8	.556	12	13	.490
Pfeiffer	8	8	.500	12	11	.522
Elon	7	8	.467	12	9	.571
Catawba	7	10	.412	9	11	.450
Presbyterian	3	8	.273	7	15	.318
Atlantic Christian	3	12	.200	8	17	.320
Newberry	2	11	.154	8	15	.348

Muddy field slows the pace as freshman Quarterback Chapman Gets blocking practice.

57-51 Loss to The Rival Indians Closes Varsity Basketball Season

By MIKE SIMMONS

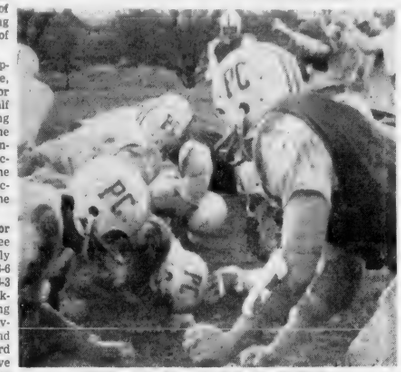
The hoop men of Presbyterian College wound up their 1965-66 season with a narrow 57-41 loss at the hands of the Indians of Newberry College, after having almost pulled the game out of the fire.

This game capped a disappointing season for the Hose, but they did show some hope or optimism over the latter half of the season. After dropping nine of their first 11 starts, the Hose went on a four-game winning streak enroute to a 5-7 record over the second half of the season and a 7-16 overall record. They finished 3-9 in the rough Carolinas Conference.

One of the major reasons for optimism is the return of three starters next season. The only men the Hose will lose are 6-6 center Doug Allen, and 6-3 guard-forward Jimmy Bankhead. This means that leading scorer 6-2 Ken Martin, top average rebounder and second leading scorer 6-1 Richard Quillen, and playmaker Steve Stine will all be back for the 1966-67 campaign. Quillen set a school record with 24 rebounds against Piedmont.

In addition to these are several substitutes who logged substantial palying time for the Hose. Six-four forward-center Richard Reed saw action in 19 games, and forwards Doug McLeod and John Lown gained valuable playing time. Also, the expected return of 6-8 center Jim Kiser to top form should bolster the Hose's scoring and rebounding punch. Kiser was out of the last 14 games of the season because of a finger injury.

The reason for the Hose's surge during the last part of the season can be traced largely to the play of the whole team. The early part of the season saw the loss of Quillen and Kiser, and Reed and Bankhead joined the squad late due to football. Allen moved in at the pivot position and carried the bulk of the rebounding load during Quillen's absence. During this time the majority of the scoring load fell on Martin. Bankhead's arrival alleviated this condition somewhat, and Quillen's return greatly strengthened both the scoring and rebounding for the Hose. Stine found his place and added more long-range scoring potential as well as a constant threat with his offensive and defensive hustle.



Martin led all scorers for PC with 370 points in 23 games for a 16.0 average. Quillen advanced into second place late in the season with a 14.7 average. Bankhead's 13.3 points per game gave the Hose three men averaging in double figures.

Allen pulled down more rebounds than anyone else on the squad with 202 for an average of 8.7 per game, but Quillen had the highest game average with 175 rebounds in 18 games for a 9.7 rebounds per game. Martin, a surprisingly strong rebounder for a guard, hauled in 92 errant shots to take third in the rebounding category.

IM Tournament Set

Intramural directors Benny Crabtree and Bill Crowley have announced that there will definitely be an intercollegiate basketball tournament at the conclusion of the regular intramural season. Teams that have already accepted are Newberry and Erskine, and Furman most likely will accept. Wofford declined the invitation.

The games will be played by members of the intramural all-stars of each school. PC will select its squad after completion of the regular season here.

Ponderosa Is Scene As Spring Drills Begin

IM League Play Ends; PiKA (1), KA's Champs

By GENE SULLIVAN

The PiKA's look as though they will sweep the intramural trophy for basketball again this year. They have posted a perfect 7-0 season behind the fine shooting of Don Blanchard, who averages 18 points a game. Mike Donovan is perhaps the best back court man in the league and Sandy Lynn has the height to pull down the rebounds. Freshmen Cleve Dobbins and Jim Allred average around 10 points per contest and make the PiKA's a big threat from outside.

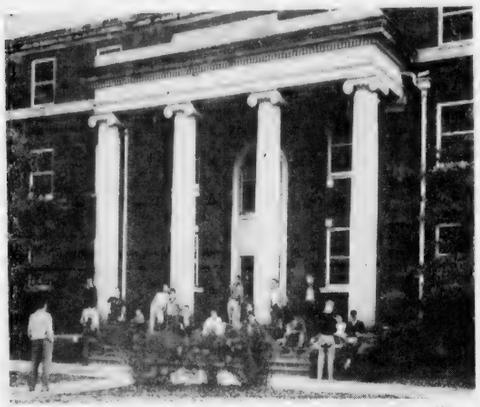
Kappa Alpha seems certain to go all the way to the finals because of their fine-scoring forward Joe Gettys, whose 23.2 average leads the intramural scoring race. Gus Forbes has the needed outside shot and playmaking ability and is the highest scoring guard in the league with 15 points a contest. The loss of Tim Yancey could hamper them; but teamwork and additional help from Sjoholm, Johnson, and Roberts could place them in top spot.

Led by the clutch shooting of Buddy Guy and Grady Marshall, the Alpha Sigma Phi's ripped the once-beaten Sigma Nu's 51-46. The Alpha Sig's are now second in the league behind the KA's. If Bobby Byard, John Greer, and Jimmy Page hold their own, the Sig's could be tough. Guy, Marshall, and Byard all average in double figures.

The Crushers are literally that, and with outside gunning from Morris and Elliott coupled with Al Calloway's and Billy Love's dynamic defensive work, the Crushers could bruise their way into a leading role.

At the beginning of the year the Sigma Nu's seemed to be the team to beat. With Frank Markette's hot scoring and Ray Crim, David Bordner, Dan O'Connell, Mack Story and others back from last year's team, it seems reasonable that they could go to the top. They have lost two, but during the tournament they could show the teamwork and poise they have lacked all year.

The Sinkers lost their two big men, Glen Riddle and John McGill, at the semester mark, and their 5-0 record toppled to 5-3. Their hopes in the playoffs lie in the ability of James Powell and Neil Lindsay.



The Theta Chi's, following the pattern of the Sinkers, lost David Wellborn and Gene Bowie and can't seem to find the scoring punch they need to remain a contender. Ed Dorn, Doug Catoe, and Gene Robbins do most of the work for the team.

A few more games must be played before the final team in the tournament will be decided. The possibilities are the PiKA's second team and the Pushers. The PiKA's have a good scoring punch in James Smith and Mel Davis. Bruce Lawrence is an excellent ball handler, and Reed Bolick can pull down the rebounds. The Pushers rely on Gene Sullivan and E. G. Lassiter, who are in double figures, and the playmaking of Robert Hope to keep them in contention. Al Wilson and Jerry Jackson have come along fast and on a good night can be strong.

With most of the intramural season over, it seems certain that Joe Gettys has wrapped up the scoring honors with a 23.2 average. Don Blanchard, a previous leader, has dropped to an 18.0 point performance and game. Frank Markette of the Sigma Nu's, a 20-point man from last year, has fallen to 16 a contest. Two newcomers, both sophomores, are in the top five scorers this year. They are Gene Sullivan and Gus Forbes with 15-point averages.

Other top scorers in intramurals with better than 10 points a game this year are Buddy Guy, Bob Byard, and Grady Marshall of the Alpha Sigs, Hart Cobb of the Sigma Nu's, Tim Yancey of the KA's, Gene Robbins of Theta Chi, and Mel Davis of the PiKA second team. Ben Crabtree and Coach Nixon led the faculty, and E. G. Lassiter of the Pushers, and Ronnie Morris and Jimmy Elliott of the Crushers led their team.

And This Is Progress . . .

THE PAST—The above picture is reprinted from the 1948 PaC SaC. Notice the trees and shrubbery. Do they add to the beauty of the building?

THE PRESENT—The above picture was made yesterday. Although the interior of the dorm is considered by some to be more modern after the renovation of 1964, it was at the sacrifice of the trees and shrubbery.

Campus News Briefs

Senior Invitations

Senior Class President Buddy Guy announced that graduation invitations will be on sale from February 15 through March 8. Members of the graduating class may order them any week night. All seniors are urged to purchase invitations during this time.

Trial

In its second session in four days, the PC Honor Court met Monday to hear a case involving a breach of the honor code. After several hours of deliberation the accused was acquitted of the charge.

Student Ads

The Business Manager of The Blue Stocking is accepting ads from students. For sixty cents per column inch, a student may run an ad in the paper. The business staff will process all ads for proper wording.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment:

Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., Feb. 21.

Rose's Stores, Inc., Feb. 23.

First National Bank, Feb. 24.

J. B. White and Co., Augusta, Ga., Feb. 25.

Chapel

Monday — Student Asembly: Recognition of students by Dr. Gettys.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, The Rev. J. W. Stonebreaker, First Presbyterian Church, Cartersville, Ga.

Friday—Convocation: Dr. David L. Smiley, Professor of History, Wake Forest College. Topic: "Romance and Realism in the Contemporary South." Sponsored by the Historia Club.

PHOTO CREDITS

On page one and Smythe by Hart. Sports on page 3 and REW on page 4 by Howard.

President Announces Historia Chapel Plans

Neill Lindsay, president of PC's Historia Club, announces that that organization has several programs of campus-wide interest planned for the week of March 21-25. "A Choice I Made," a 50-minute Peace Corps film telling of how many Americans have come to serve in various ways in 45 countries, wil be shown in chapel Monday, March 21.

Dr. David L. Smiley, the noted Wake Forest historian, will speak to the monthly meeting of Historia at 8:00 p. m. the following Thursday. "History and the Liberal Education" will be Dr. Smiley's topic for chapel Friday, March 25.

Lindsay stated that the Historia Club's purpose as put forth in its constitution is "to promote interest in the study of history through a study of outstanding historians, through visiting historical sites, and through informative speeches by faculty, students, and guest speakers . . . (and) to encourage association with other organizations interested in history."

THE REV. TOM HORTON led the Sigma Nu's in a "bull" session during RE Week. Other fraternities held similar discussion groups.

BROADWAY Theatre

TODAY, FRI., SAT.
THE HALLELUJAH TRAIL
Burt Lancaster, Lee Remick
Jim Hutton, Pamela Tiffin

MON., TUES., WED.
THE GLORY GUYS
Tom Tryon, Harve Presnell, Senta Berger

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds · Watches · Silver · Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, February 25, 1966 No. 13

Thackston Releases Admission Figures

Statistics released this week by Col. Thackston indicate that PC is no exception to the colleges across the nation that are faced with an abundance of applications for the 1966-67 academic year.

Col. Thackston stated that, as of a few days ago, the Admissions Office had received 606 paid applications compared with 506 at this time last year.

Admissions standards are also higher than those of previous years. Of the 606 paid applications to date 92 men and 34 women have been accepted, compared with 335 accepted of the 506 applications received at this time last year. Students accepted for the fall semester had an average grade point ratio of 3.10 for three-and-a-half years of high school. SAT scores averaged approximately 1100 for the combined Math and Verbal sections.

PC's rapid growth is also illustrated by other statistics. During the admissions cycle of 1965-66, 450 inquiries were received from interested students. This figure has already been surpassed during the current admissions cycle. Col. Thackston noted that many high school juniors have already begun their effort for college admission. Over 300 initial inquiries have already been received for the semester beginning in August of 1967.

Tennis is Dead
See
Sports Page

Photo by Hart

Dr. Smiley of Wake Forest College speaks to Historia Club.

New South Challenged To Become Realistic

In his address before the student body of Presbyterian College this morning, Dr. David L. Smiley, Professor of History at Wake Forest College, challenged Southerners to be realistic instead of idealistic in their view of the past and the future.

"There is fast-disappearing among us the idea that the South is a separate and distinct region with characteristics all its own."

In actuality the South has no geographic boundary, no unity of climate and no unity of economy. Smiley pointed out that the South is changing in many ways. Agrarianism is disappearing as industrial progress is made, one-party politics seems to be on the way out, and segregation is falling before the Supreme Court and the racial movements.

Nevertheless many outsiders, especially those from other parts of our country, still view the South in one of two ways: as a backward land of brutality, filth, and ignorance or a land of "magnolia blossoms, white-columned mansions, and Negroes singing spirituals all day."

The northern newspaper and television media are partially to blame for these ideas, but Dr. Smiley pointed out that "We ourselves perpetuate this. People refuse to recognize the effects of TVA, atomic energy sites, . . ."

A preference for the unrealistic and the romantic blinds Southerners to the great changes that are taking place in the contemporary South.

In the past 80 years the South

See SMILEY P. 4, Col. 3

Dedication of Clinton Hall Marred by Absent Speaker

by JOHNNY ONDESPOT

Clinton Hall was officially christened last Wednesday night. Although a city-wide power failure unfortunately occurred immediately before the services were to begin, the administration decided to go ahead and hold the dedication by flashlight and candle-power.

A sleet-soaked crowd of approximately 300 PC males stood outside the dorm and listened to addresses by several dignitaries. Lt. John Daniluk (USA Retired) spoke on "Closing the Doors to Complete Coeducation." Henry Lovett, Student Body President, gave a brief but powerful oration entitled "Walk on Through the Wind, Walk on Through the Rain." Head Proctor Dan Taylor was scheduled to speak but because of the power failure Taylor was delegated to operating a large flashlight.

Apparently the Guest of Honor, Mr. James "Cotton" Panness of the Playtex Corporation, failed to show up for the ceremonies. Many PC students failed to receive this message and continually asked for Mr. Panness to make an appearance.

It was evident that many PC coeds are concerned with keeping their new dormitory clean. At least one coed was observed standing in the doorways to keep any trash from blowing in as the doors opened and closed.

It was also evident that our coeds have very high tastes in the way of clothing and cosmetics. Several were heard to remark, "We like fur, man." Others expressed their liking for Whooford, an expensive new brand of deodorant.

The surprisingly large turnout despite weather conditions shows that all PC students are not as apathetic as many believe. One male student commented, "I really had a wonderful time, but the ceremonies would have been much better if Mr. Pannees could have made it."

After the ceremonies, students returned to their dorms and prepared for quarter exams by candlelight.

Forty-Four on Dean's List; January Grads Number Eight

By ROB DALTON

Forty-four Presbyterian College students have been named to the Dean's List released by the college registrar, Mrs. Roslyn Martin.

To be named to the Dean's list, a student who entered after June, 1965, must have a 3.2 grade point ratio for the preceding semester. Students who entered after June, 1965, must have a 3.3 GPR to qualify. Mrs. Martin reminded students that "only upperclassmen who had a 3.3 or above last semester are entitled to unlimited cuts."

Robert Calhoun Epps, Carole Hughes Johnston, Amelia Nichols, and Danny Knox Wyatt had perfect 4.00 averages. Epps, an economics major, and Miss Nichols, a mathematics major, are seniors. Mrs. Johnston, a sophomore, is majoring in psychology. Mr. Wyatt was the only freshman to make all A's.

Other members of the student body named to the list were Gordon Stewart Adam, Mary Ann Barton, James Alison Bell, David Pinckney Berry, Jr., William Hammond Bowman, III, William Harold Branham, Vicki Ann Barton, James Allison Bell, Bush, Lewis Judson Caldwell, Henry Hart Cobb, Jr., David Guilwym Davies, Jr., Carlos Julio Emanuel, and Paula Evans.

Also, Joseph Miller Gettys, Jr., Susan Helen Gilbert, Joseph Patrick Goldsmith, George Randall Grant, George Franklin Lattimer, III, Neill Alexander Lindsay, III, Robert Dewese Lynn, Jr., and Gwyn Gordon McCutchen. Dan Lucien McLemore, Donald Thomas McNeill, John Spencer Mebane, Wilbur Rush Otey, III, Henry Bryan Parks, and Larry Andrew Platt.

Others named were James Herbert Powell, Edward John Robeson, IV, William Henry Scott, III, Henry McCord Smith, Michael Willis Smith, Robert Emmett Staton, George Aiken Taylor, Jr., Morrow Bradford Thompson, Frances Carol Tumlinson, Samuel Calvin Waters, Hugh Weldon Wilson, Jr., Thomas Alexander Whitaker,

See DEAN'S LIST P. 4, Col. 2

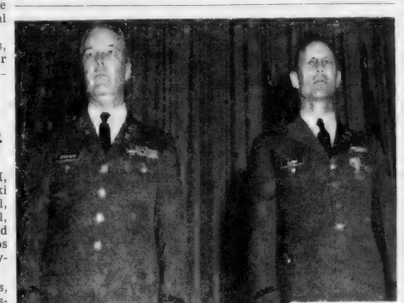


Photo by Yarborough

Gen. Huffaker presented Col. Ulrich the Army Commendation

Ulrich Receives Award On Eve of Retirement

On February 24, Lt. Colonel Richard W. Ulrich was presented the Service Commendation Medal by the Department of the Army. Ulrich ends twenty years in the service and four and one-half years as Professor of Military Science at Presbyterian College on February 28, 1966.

The award stated that "Colonel Ulrich consistently performed his duties in an exceptional manner, demonstrating outstanding leadership, initiative and leadership ability. During his tenure he made infinite contributions to improve the quantity and the quality of cadet enrollment, officer production and overall efficiency of the Re-

See ULRICH P. 4, Col. 3

'Speed-Up' Comes to SC

This summer the South Carolina Council on Human Relations, with funds being sought from the office of Economic Opportunity and the United States Office of Education, will sponsor SPEED-UP, a student program for ecenomic educational development. This ten week program will utilize 150 to 200 students from South Carolina colleges to work in poverty areas throughout the state.

The SPEED-UP volunteers will live and work in South Carolina poverty communities in teams of aproximately ten students. Each team will have a director. Students will be working with the people in the poverty community in such programs as tutorials, recreation, college preparation, adult education, remedial reading,, cultural enrichment, and health.

Students who are selected to participate in the program will report for a one-week training period on June 5. The full work week will begin on June 13, and continue for all studnet volunteers until August 13. This would be a week prior to the opening of those colleges beginning early. Other students will be expected to continue work through August 27.

"We are anxious to have students apply who are not only mature, enthusiastic, and imaginative, but also those who care deeply for South Carolina and its future," said William F. Roberts, a University of South Carolina senior who is chairman of the South Carolina Student Council on Human Relations, also one of the sponsors of SPEEDUP.

The students will be paid for participating in the program. Work-Study students will receive $1.25 for a fortyhour week while other students will receive a direct stipend of $250 for their participation.

On Monday, February 28, SPEED-UP staff members will be on the Presbyterian College campus to explain the program in detail to students. All interested students are urged to attend the meeting at 7:00 p. m. at Douglas 208. Locally, students may contact either Dr. Burnside or Mr. James Murchison. Students may also write to SPEED-UP, 1330 Laurel Street, Columbia, South Carolina 29201, for additional information and applications.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr.
Editor

Jos. B. Stevens
Business Mgr.

The Best Procedure

THE SUBJECT OF REQUIRED CHAPEL and of the chapel programs is nothing new to the Presbyterian College campus. But recently, within the last month or so, many students have been led by a few opinion-leaders to believe that the administration is trying to shield or protect us from the harsh world of reality by not permitting certain individuals to speak on this campus.

AS PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE STUDENTS, we are under an obligation to act and do certain things in a prescribed manner. Although many of us did not take notice of the fact at the time, the commitment became official when we signed the matriculation pledge upon registration.

USING SPECIFIC CHANNELS to accomplish purposes does not necessarily mean that one must plow through a great deal of red tape; but if certain practices are abided, it is probable that those in charge will give more heed than if these channels were bypassed.

THIS DOES NOT MEAN that one is prohibited from voicing his opinions or making his appeals directly to the administration. At times this may even be the best procedure, especially in matters which concern the individual personally and his student life here at Presbyterian.

BUT WHEN ISSUES ARISE that affect the campus collectively, this is another story. A single individual and his opinion may carry little weight in deciding what is best for the college as a whole unless he is the spokesman for an established organization on campus.

THE ISSUE AT HAND is the alleged censoring of our chapel and assembly programs. Certain students have circulated petitions in an attempt to obtain sufficient support to warrant bringing prominent speakers to this campus.

THE BLUE STOCKING does not condemn the efforts of these students, but it does criticize the method whereby the students hoped to accomplish their purpose.

WHILE NO AUTHORITY should have the right to deprive anyone or any organization of the right to petition for action on any matter, upon the receipt of these petitions the administration was in no position to be able to determine how representative student support was presented. Granted there was sufficient data to determine the amount of student support.

THE BLUE STOCKING believes that if these desires or proposals had been communicated through the Student Government Association, or for that matter the Student Christian Association, the fraternities or other established organizations on campus, that they would have recieved, not necessarily more consideration, but consideraiton of a different quality.

THESE ORGANIZATIONS, and particularly the Student Council, are the connecting links between the administration and the student body. Through them our praises, desires, gripes and grievances are made known.

THE ADMINISTRATION RELIES on these organizations to provide these services, and it logically follows that if the student body would use them as they were intended to be used, the administration would naturally lend a more sympathetic ear.

W. W. H.

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter

What Really Happened . . .

by LARRY PRESTON
Blue Stocking Associate Editor

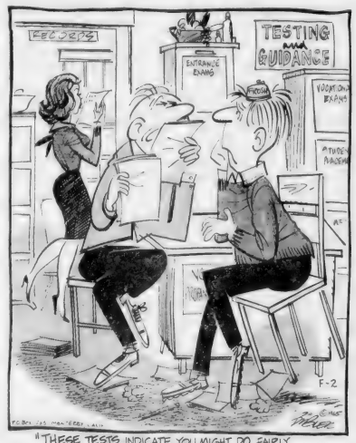
It was test week at a small secluded college in a small town deep in the South. Tensions were high in anticipation of the coming weekend when the ardure of studying would be put aside.

Curiously enough, this small college had just recently been made coeducational to a relatively large degree, and the upperclassmen who had matriculated at this institution of higher learning for some years had not become accustomed to the presence of such interesting "wildlife" on the campus. In fact, most of the young men, especially the juniors and seniors, seemed to shy away when approached by one of the new additions to the student body.

In the past the campus had usually been deserted on the weekends, since most of the young men had directed their attentions toward other colleges and universities in the area whose student bodies were predominantly female. Most of the young men had plans at one of the women's colleges, some few miles away, and the campus would once again be left void of human habitation except for the abandoned coeds, who kept asking themselves, "What am I doing in college anyway, getting an education or looking for a husband?"

Wednesday night of the past week, most of the male students were either in their rooms studying or down at the library, in hopes of getting some studying done there. However, at the library that Wednesday night there was something out of the ordinary. A strange atmosphere prevailed because now it seemed that the library was quiet, and the men students had no trouble directing their attentions toward their studies instead of being bothered by some female parading herself up and down the aisles on the pretense of looking for some book. It was reported by one male student that one night while sutdying at the library he was approached by a coed who asked him if he might help her find a book she had to read for an English course called The Memoirs of Casanova.

At approximately 9 p. m. of that same evening, without warning and seeming as though it were planned, all the lights in the entire town went out. Immediately fear struck the hearts of the men, because there were NO coeds present at any of the old familiar places around the campus. The one thought in the minds of the boys was that something was up. Or more appropriately, as Patrick Henry of Old Virginia put it, "They smell a rat."



The President of the Student Body, a young man of notable acclaim who was known for his quick action in matters of concern, saw the need for some unity on the part of the men in the event that the coeds staged a raid of one of the dormitories. Curriers were sent to all male dorms informing the inhabitants to meet in five minutes in the center of the campus in a building where classes were held. It was reasoned that this three-story building would offer the best protcetion for an ensuing attack.

Five minutes later in front of the designated building, all the male students met with candles and flashlights, the building had four possible avenues of approach—North ,South, East, and West—and it was conceived that attack would most likely come from the East, the direction of the domen's dorm. The men organized themselves into twelve platoons of twenty men each, one at each entrance to the building, and four in reserve, ready to go to the assistance of the brave men stationed at the entrances. Two platoons stationed themselves in second-flor windows with soft-drink bottles and anything else they could throw in defense. The remaining two units were given the mission of aidmen, who would care for any casualites in the event that any of the insurgents broke through the barrier of defense.

Atop the building was placed a lookout with a battery-powered searchlight, and one man was stationed at the telephone to call a nearby college if more troops were needed. The defense seemed impregnable; yet it was commonly known that the coeds would be organized and well-drilled.

All was in readiness, and then the cry came out from the lookout on to po fthe building: "Enemy sighted to the East." Up from behind the old dining hall, now nused as a gymnasium for industrious young coeds, came the horde of attackers. They were led by Virtuous Val, a coed with shoulders the size of a fireplace mantel. Behind her were twenty young ladies clad in shoulder pads and helmets that they had tricked the manager of the football team out of under pretense of organizing a powder-puff football team. He being an honest young man thought nothing of it. On the flanks of the ensuing party were

See REALLY P. 4, Col. 1

"THESE TESTS INDICATE YOU MIGHT DO FAIRLY WELL AS A PROBATIONARY STUDENT."

Letters to the Editor

Faculty Gives Position

Dear Editor:

The petition requesting the extension of an invitation to Mr. Hugh Hefner, editor and publisher of the Playboy Magazine, to speak in chapel was referred to our committee by the college president. The committee discussed at length the petition with all implications for freedom of speech, moral improvement of the students, the effect of such an invitation upon the standing of our college in the eyes of the type of students we desire to attract, the effect of such for relations with our supporting synods. It is the decision of he committee that the undesirable results of extending such an invitation would outweigh the desirable consequences. The decision was not unanimous.

It will be of interest to you to know that the whole program of the type of speaker that should be invited to the College is under careful study here, as in many other colleges of the nation. We are thankful that it has not become necesssary for us to have any kind of a "speaker ban law" and we hope none will be forthcoming. As you can well see, it is no easy task to decide which ones of possible speakers can do the most for the students of the College. Your faculty committee wishes to avoid the stupidity of an extreme libertarianism as well as the prison of over - cautious restrictions in keeping within the purpose of the college.

Let me assure you that it is the desir of the committee to keep abreast of the wishes of the students as it selects lecturers and artists for the college. We hope you will continue to keep us informed of those speakers you believe will benefi the college as well as your reasons for how it will be so benefitted. We promise careful consideration.

Cordially,
David R. Moorefield,
Chairman Lectures and Entertainment Committee

Movie Review

'That Darn Cat'

by CHRISTIE PATTERSON

The story is about a night foraging feline of the Siamese family named D. C.—short for Darn Cat—that belongs to the Randall family, or specifically to Patti (Hayley Mills a)nd Ingrid (Dorothy Provine).

D. C. picks up the only clue to a bank robbery when a kidnapped lady teller (Grayson Hall) slips her watch around his neck. The F. B. I. gets into the act and tries their darndest to track the darn cat.

D. C. has some other ideas raiding garbage cans, swiping a neighbor's duck, taking in a movie at the local drive-in, and disappearing under fences. It's a panic every time the slipper Siamese lifts a paw.

The Cycle Comes to An End

It is ironic that a school which once did not want big-time tennis reverted to wanting the same in a period of thirty years. John Penland, Sports Editor of the State newspaper, recalls when the step-up in tennis hit the campus while he was Sports Editor of the Blue Stocking.

In 1936 PC president Dr. F. P. Jacobs devised a program to build modern tennis courts, organize clinics, hire a topflight coach, and give scholarships to give the school national prestige in tennis. At that time, the students bitterly protested the emphasis, particularly the football players. Some athletes feared the program would make PC a "Tennis Tech" with the gridiron boys being the scapegoat.

By BILL BASSHAM

Through the work of the paper it was pointed out that PC could never reach national prominence in football, basketball, or baseball. National attention could only be gained through tennis. And gain national prestige it did.

The era of PC rule was a long haul which reached its peak during the 1950's. During this reign the Blue Hose netmen won 21 state titles and produced a Davis Cup player. In this period Coach Jim Leighton's teams were so powerful that he often palyed only the fifth through the eleventh men while the top four practiced among themselves.

It became commonplace for the Hose to win the state tennis crown. The other schools finally had an invitational division added to the state tournament. PC was excluded from paritcipation in this tournament in order to allow the other teams a chance to win.

PC first came into the national limelight in 1954 when they defeated a powerful North Carolina team and then upset Duke twice. In 1956 the Hose had their most successful season with an 18-3 mark. During this season the powers of the Southeast, along with Duke and North Carolina, were defeated. The only losses came to National Champion Miami.

Then in 1957 PC pulled its biggest upset with a 5-4 win over Miami which stopped their 72-game winning streak. Miami came back to defeat the Hose twice that season, but PC had finally reached the zenith it had been aiming for. In 1958 Miami was beaten twice by PC to rank the Blue Hose among the national powers.

Then in 1960 the trustees decided PC was spending too much on its athletic program. It was decided to keep all sports and tennis was to be de-emphasized to cut expenses. The 1961 season was Coach Leighton's last year as head coach and the beginning of the end.

Gorden Warden stayed at PC for four seasons and did an impressive job under the circumstances. The final blow came when PC entered the Carolinas Conference and was limited to only two spring sports scholarships. His teams posted a 60-22 record.

Now PC has a new coach in Jim Shakspeare. The situation is not bright, but Coach Shakespeare is very optimistic for the season. PC will never return to being a national power and there is little sense in arguing over the decision to join the conference. These arguments are old and have been run into the ground. We want to wish Coach Shakespeare and his netmen the best of luck in the coming season.

On the eve of PC's thirtieth anniversary of tennis it seems ironic that a cycle has been completed. We began with nothing thirty yars ago and became a national power. We were once one of the best tennis schools in the nation. Now the cycle is over and we are back where we began.

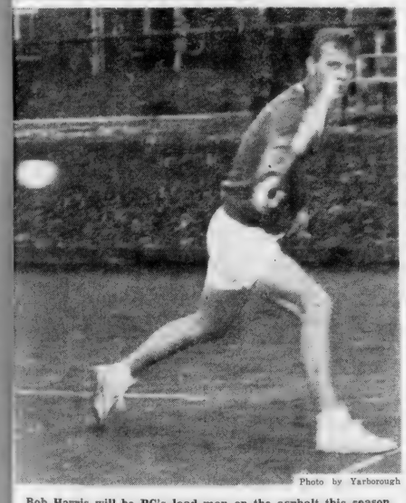

Photo by Yarborough

Bob Harris will be PC's lead man on the asphalt this season

Prospects Good for '66 Grid Season Only Five Lost Through Graduation

By JACK KENNEDY

Prospects for the 1966 PC football season look much brighter than a year ago. Experienced players are returning at every position. This will make the Blue Hose a definite conference contender in their second season in the Carolinas Conference.

Spring practice began in February this year because of the conflict of so many football players also participating in spring sports. Bad weather has constantly hindered the practice sessions. A scrimmage with Wofford had to be cancelled this week because of snow.

PC lost only five men from last year's squad. Although all were very important to the team's record, Coach Gault feels the men coming up can adequately take over for them. The Blue Hose have eight starters returning from the offensive team and nine from the defensive team.

Gault feels he will have an unusually strong line and a tested backfield. Gault said on the line, "I felt our line was unusually strong for its size and experience. We should be stronger in our interior line than in the past."

Mickey Hampshire will return at center, giving the Blue Hose size and experience. Returning starters at guard include Eddie Walker and Jack McCaskill. The tackle chores will be handled by Tommy Campbell and John Monk. This core gives PC a big line with the starters from last year.

The defensive line will be as strong with Allan Harris, Sam Lyons, and Jim Helms returning. These boys are all tested from last year and can be depended on to carry the load. They are some of the most aggressive linemen in the state.

Ends will be one of the strongest posiions on the team. James Smith, last year's leading receiver, will return at one offensive end with Richard Reed at the other. Reed and Smith combined for 23 receptions and 323 yards. Joe Lawson and Smith will probably handle the defense with help from Richard Munn.

The line-backing chores will be handled by Bob Warren and either Bob Murray or Hampshire.

The defensive backfield has been changing all week with a combination of experienced players and young boys trying it out. Some of the people playing back are Robert Hackle, Dan Eckstein, Jim Johnson, Randy Kenworthy, Eddie Dorn, and Pat Stogner.

The offensive backfield may be the strongest part of the team. Two-year all-stater Sam Williams should return for his best year. He gained 523 yards last year. Larry Yonce will back up Williams. In the halfback positions will be Jim Johnson and Dan Eckstein, who gained 152 and 343 yards respectively. Hackle and Stogner will be backing them up. This year we will have an experienced quarterback returning in Bill Kirtland who passed for 903 yards last year. Paul Fergusan, Mike Donovan, and Charles Chapman add depth to the position.

IM Play Moves Into Tourney; Eight Teams Vie for Crown

By GENE SULLIVAN

Intramural play moves into the tournament stage with eight teams competing. The PiKA's and KA's each posted perfect 8-0 seasons. The Crushers and Alpha Sigs went 7-1 and were followed by the Sigma Nu's with a 6-2 record. The Pushers and Sinkers have identical 5-3 records, and the Theta Chi's posted a 4-4 slate.

A double elimination tournament will be held beginning February 28 and continuing for two weeks until the winner is determined. The PiKA's seem certain to be gunning for top spot with the KA's as a close second. The Crushers could muscle their way to the front. The Alpha Sig's and Sigma Nu's seem certain to be contenders. The Pushers, the Sinkers, and the Theta Chi's will have to be rated dark horses.

Following the tourney an all-star team will be chosen consisting of ten men who will vie for honors in an all-star tournament between Furman, Newberry, and Erskine. Intramural director Ben Crabtree said details would be released for the next issue of The Blue Stocking.

BROADWAY Theatre
FEBRUARY 24-MARCH 2
"THAT DARN CAT"

Conference Tourney Begins; Indians Outshoot Quakers

By MIKE SIMONS

The Carolinas Conference basketball tournament got underway Thursday at Lexington, N. C., with the Catawba Indians defeating the Quakers of Guilford College, 75-67, in first round action. Guilford entered the tourney as the third-seeded team, behind High Point and Western Carolina.

The Carolinas Conference championship was formerly decided by regular season play, until the conference switched to a tournament affair in 1941. After much changing of sites, the post-season affair finally found its home in Lexington, where, under the backing of the local YMCA, it has proven to be most successful.

Even though High Point earned the top-seeded position, this is little assurance for High Point fans, because the seedings have not been a reliable guide in the past. Since the tourney began, the top-seeded team has won only six times. Lenoir Rhyne heads the list of tournament winners, with four conference champs . Oddly enough, LR has won the tourney three times in the top-seeded position, or exactly half the times the top team has taken he crown.

Last year, for instance, top-seeded High Point lost to sixth-seeded Elon in the tournament finals. This is a prime example of the superb team balance in the Carolinas Conference.

A certain amount of enthusiasm is generated by the fact that only eight teams out of an 11-team league can participate in the tournament. This year the three teams that were left out in the cold were Presbyterian, Atlantic Christian, and Newberry.

The tournament will run through February 26, with the finals to be played on Saturday night.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Campus News Briefs

Gilbert Joins Staff As Feature Editor

Susan Gilbert, a rising senior from Blakely, Ga., has been named Feature Editor for The Blue Stocking. On campus she is president of the Women's Dorm Council and a Dean's List pre-med major.

Sock Editor Woody Hall, who announced Miss Gilbert's appointment, stated ,"She is a capable, hard-working person and is well experienced in the field of feaure writing. We believe she will prove to be a definite asset to the paper staff."

Chapel Schedule

Monday—Student Convocation, College Debate Team.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, The Rev. Zeb C. Williams, The Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, Clinton.

Friday—To be announced.

REALLY

forty girls, each of whom was capable of scaling he walls with no trouble at all.

So on they came, and when they reached the East entrance Val cried, "Either give up, or we're coming in after ya."

"Never!" came the reply from inside the building, and the men inside put their shoulders to the doors to brace for the attack.

A shadow of anger came across Val's face, and as her nostrils widened, one could see where her nose had been broken the year before when she tried out for the football team. She lowered her head, pawed a few times at the ground with her feet, and charged the East entrance with her twenty reserves right behind her.

As she hit the door, six boys were hurled against the wall, two of them being knocked unconscious (a lucky thing for them). The door split in half as though a karate expert had hit it, and the coeds poured into the building like bees swarming over honey.

It is to painful for me to describe the battle that raged within he building, but it was reported that many men were missing some rather essential items of clothing, and that several were sent to the hospital with multiple bruises, cuts, and abrasions.

What is amazing is the fact that even though the men outnumbered the women five to one, the coeds did not suffer a casualty except for one young lady who was hit on the head with a soft-drink bottle.

Circulaton Manager

Joe Stevens, business manager of The Blue Stocking, announced that the position of circulation manager has not yet been filled. Any interested student should contact The Blue Stocking.

PaC SaC Nominations

Tom Leland, editor of the 1966 PaC SaC, announced today that nominations for editor and business manager of the 1967 PaC SaC must be turned in to him by Tuesday, March 1.

Texaco Grant

Texaco, Inc., has awarded Presbyterian College a $1,500 grant as a part of the company's 1966 aid-to-education program.

President Marc C. Weersing, in making the announcement February 18, said this gift represents the third such grant made to PC by Texaco in the past three years. All have been for unrestricted use.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment:

M. Lowenstein and Sons, March 1.

Lockhart Mills (branch of Deering-Milliken), March 2.

Civil Service Day, March 4.

Participants in Civil Service Day are the Civil Service Commission, the Bureau of Public Roads, Headquarters Fort Jackson, the Internal Revenue Service, The National Park Service, the Social Security Administration, the Veterans Administration Hospital, and the Weather Bureau.

DEAN'S LIST

and Neill Alford Wilson, Jr.

Eight Presbyterian College students completed work on their degrees during the first semester of the curent session, Registrar Rosiyn Martin announced February 18.

The group will be officially awarded degrees, along with other gradauating seniors, at PC's regular commencement exercises next May 29. These eight are:

Bachelor of Arts—Charles Ernest Ellisor of Jacksonville, Fla.; Ronald Othel Thompson of Charleston; and James Richard Wilkinson, Jr., of Atlanta.

Bachelor of Science in Business Administration — John Andrew Kuhne of Greenville; Benjamin Robinson Pickens, Jr., of Spartanburg; George Aiken Taylor, Jr., of Asheville, N. C.; Albert Joe Upsal of Merritt Island, Fla.; and David Lee Welborn of Easley.

Photo by Howard

UNHAMPERED by the darkness Robert Love, Will Scott and Charlie Campbell prepare for quarter quizzes on Thursday. Study by candlelight became popular Wednesday night when the PC campus was darkened by a three-hour power failure.

Two Bands Featured At Military Ball

Military Ball Weekend, one of the social highlights of the semester is scheduled for March 4, from 8-12 in Greenville Hall.

An innovation of this year's ball will be the performance of two bands. Del and the Delihearts and the Fort Jackson Army Dance Band will alternate in providing music.

This year's guest of honor will be Col. Felton H. Moore. Col. Moore is currently serving with the Southwestern Signal School at Fort Gordon, Ga.

According to Al Todd, Captain of the Scabbard and Blade, dress for cadets wil be Class A Greens with straight-collar, white shirt and long black tie. All dates should wear either formals or cocktail dresses. Non-military students attending the ball should wear dark coats and ties.

Door prizes of five steak dinners for two at The Wrangler, and a $20 gift certificate from Alexander's of Laurens will be awarded.

ULRICH

serve Officer Training Corps. His resourcefulnes, enthusiasm and organizational ability contributed materially to enhancing the Military Science Department and Army ROTC Program. He was particularly effective in coordinating and supervising the instructor staff to insure the optimism in classroom and other military training presentations.

"Continually fostering good public relations, he strove for improvements in every phase of academic and Army activities, thereby strengthening the close bond between the military and academic departments of the college. The manner in which duties reflects great credit upon himself and is in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service."

After his retirement from the Army, Colonel Ulrich plans to move to Columbus, Georgia, where he will work in the insurance business.

Colonel Robert Huffaker of the ROTC Division of Third Army made the presentation before the PC cadets and many friends of Colonel Ulrich.

SMILEY

has made great economic strides. To continue this progress we must persuade many of our talented and educated labor force to reappraise their possible positions in the South of the future. Because of natural resources and available manpower industry is attracted to the South.

Dr. Smiley emphasized that the "Negro is a Southerner. In the past white Southerners have been wiling to share their poverty but not their prosperiy with the Negro. This selfishness preserves order but prevents changes which would benefit all."

His final point was that the South can keep its memories and cherish them, but the South must also look to the future and the inevitable change that is destined to occur. "We must make our section of the country a place fit for our memories."

The Hitoria Club of PC sponsored Dr. Smiley's appearance in chapel. The club was also privileged to hear Dr. Smiley speak Thursday night at their meeting.

The Greeks

JIMMY HUMPHRIES
GREEK EDITOR

Since, up to date, there are no campus discriminatory worries for fraternities who have such clauses in their charters, here is a Collegiate Press Service report from Boulder, Colorado, issued February 15:

The Boulder Sigma Chi chapter has been on probation since May, 1965, when the regents voted 4-2 that the national membership policy of the fraternity was discriminatory.

Prior to that the chapter had declared its independence from the national on membership matters. The regents, however, ruled that this was of no significance because the Stanford University chapter had declared its independence on membership policy and had stated its intention to pledge a Negro, but was suspended from the national last April for alleged violatoin of ritual.

The national fraternity requires that no chapter pledge or initiate any member "who for any reason is likely to be considered as personally unacceptable as a brother by any chapter or any brother anywhere."

At the same time, it was learned from a source close to the university that several members of the regents were apparently willing to compromise with Sigma Chi.

The national fraternity is charging that the Colorado regents violated the U. S. Constitution when they suspended the Boulder chapter of Sigma Chi for alleged discriminatory practices.

Reliable sources said that a compromise in the case might come along the lines of an "off-campus" agreement.

Sources said any compromise would likely come in the form of a "consent decree"—an order granted at the request of all parties that the litigation be dropped. The compromise, these sources said, most likely would be the agreement on the part of the regents ot drop Sigma Chi from the probation list if the fraternity went off-campus. Denver was generally cool to seeking off-campus status.

Reaction of the fraternity alumni officers who met in and compromising the suit along those lines. Many expresed grave doubts as to how well the fraternity would be able to operate without the use of university facilities.

Currently the fraternity uses university office space through the Interfraternity Council, obtains student names for rush and grade averages of members and prospective members, and participates in intramural activities.

Worries were also voiced about running the fraternity without the use of the university name and without space in the yearbook.

The university's resolution requires that fraternities and sororities at Colorado not accept the directives of their national organizations in regard to membership. It also requires that the university withdraw or withhold recognition of any student organization that practices discrimination.

Greek Activities

The Theta Chi fraternity had a "successful" Pledge Party last weekend, and plans are now being completed for the coming Military Ball Weekend, March 4-6. Congratulations are extended to Brother Gene Robbins on his recent pinning of Miss Linda Kissard of Winthroo College. The Theta Chi's are proud of their Oxen basketball team which just finished a "perfect season." Brother Rusty Nelson led their "amazing surge" against the PiKA's in the final game of the season. The Oxen record was 0-8.

The Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity is finishing up plans for Military Ball Weekend. The El Rocco's will play at the Mary Musgrove Hotel the Saturday night of the weekend. Brothers of the Week are Ronald Matson and Jim Stanford. Brother Steve Knoche was elected as inter-Fraternity Council Representative.

Brother Neill McKay of the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity was presented an extra-large pantie girdle for his birthday by the pledge class. He's a cute one for it. The Pi Kapp's are making plans for their annual Rose Ball. Brother of the Week is Brother Jack B. Avery.

Larry Yonce and Mackey Singleton are Brothers of the Week for the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Plans are underway for a party Saturday night of Military Ball Weekend, which the pledges will take as their party for the brothers. Brother Larry Yonce, who's got a good thing going, is lavalliered to Miss Nina Sheppard of the University of South Carolina. Brother Bruce Lawrence is the PiKA IFC representative.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity is having "The Dynamic Showmen" for Military Ball Weekend at the Lakeside Country Club. Their club is pulling itself back together again.

The Kappa Alpha Order is making plans for a juke box party probably to be held in Barnes' Barn outside Clinton Saturday afternoon and night of Military Ball Weekend. Brother Jim Humphries was elected KA Intefraternity Council Irepresentative for the coming year.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 4, 1966 — No. 14

Army Chief, Harold K. Johnson, Will Speak at Commencement

BY ROB DALTON

Chief of Staff of the United States Army, General Harold Keith Johnson, will speak at Presbyterian College's commencement exercises on Sunday, May 29.

The 53-year-old soldier is a West Point graduate and a veteran of two Asian wars. The native North Dakotian is the youngest Chief of Staff to be appointed since MacArthur.

During World War II he was a Prisoner of War among the Japanese for three years and narrowly escaped death in a POW camp in the Philippines. Johnson survived the Bataan march, an ordeal in which 8,150 others died.

After the war there was no demand for pre-war trained officers, and Johnson was even turned down as an ROTC instructor at several universities. Rather than giving up, he went back to school at Fort Leavenworth's Command and General Staff College and was graduated in 1947. Gen. Johnson also holds diplomas from the Armed Forces Staff College and the National War College.

Combat duty in the Korean War brought him four decorations and the rank of Brigadier General which he received in 1960. Earlier in 1957 he had been named Chief of Staff of American troops in Germany. His proficiency at this post brought him the position of Chief of Staff of NATO's Central Army in Europe.

Moving to the Pentagon in 1963, he was named Deputy Chief of Staff of Military Operations. As Deputy Chief he helped the development of the new basic training program which the Korean War had proved was sorely needed. Such innovations as trainfire and individual training phases were

SEE JOHNSON Page 4, Col. 3

GENERAL HAROLD KEITH JOHNSON

35 Will Undergo Summer Exercises At Ft. Bragg, N. C.

This summer 35 PC men will be taking their basic training at Ft. Bragg, N. C. All members of the Advanced ROTC program are required to take a six-week training course during the summer of their junior or senior year. Summer Camp this year is June 18 through July 29.

Seniors who will take part are William Campbell, William Crowley, Ruddy Deas, Tim Grey, Robert McElhiney, Larry Platt, and Woody McGinn.

Juniors participating will be Chester Armistead, John Askew, James Bruce, Charles Campbell, Richard Carpenter, Joseph Cash, Richard Corley, Michael Donovan, and Allan Harris. James Helms, Robert Herlong, Fred Holcombe, Bruce Lawrence, Brown Johnson, and Kenneth Lewis.

Also, Max Milligan, Daniel Montgomery, Evan Pamplin, Howard Protinsky, Earlie Rash, and James Ritchie. William Scott, Richard Smart, Roy Squires, and Robert Warren.

ROTC scholarship students who will attend are David Bordner and Grady Marshall, both juniors.

Lovett Unveils Plans For GDI Organization

Special to The Blue Stocking
BY RUSH OTEY

The recent proposal by the Student Council of forming an organization of independent students on campus has been the object of much discussion among PC students. In a recent interview the Blue Stocking studied this proposal with Henry Lovett, Student Body President. The interview is reprinted below with the hope that students may gain a better concept of the intentions of the Student Council concerning this issue, and may more rationally decide whether or not there is a place on our campus for such an organization.

Otey: Would you begin by defining the term "independent?"

Lovett: As related to the proposed organization, this term refers to all non-fraternity boarding students, day students, and all coeds.

Otey: In your opinion, what is the need for such an organization on the PC campus?

Lovett: Approximately 50-60 percent of the students attending PC are not affiliated with fraternities. Because the fraternities are the hub of social activities on campus, these non-fraternity students are often left with nothing to do or without a place to go on weekends, especially dance weekends. Therefore, we feel that an organization of these people might eliminate this problem to some extent.

However, this social factor is not the primary interest of the Student Council at this time, although it is a motivating factor. We feel that this organization would promote an interest in another aspect of the school. It would enable more people to actively participate in campus life. Many students who have never had the chance to work in an organized student group would be given the chance to do so. Those with leadership ability would be given the opportunity to organize social events, programs,

SEE LOVETT Page 1, Col. 1

English Department

Major Requirements Made More Flexible

The English department announced several changes in the requirements for an English major and in the courses to be offered by the department in the future. Previously, the requirements for a major in English were:

English 201-202 English Literature Survey.

English 203-204 World Literature Survey.

English 311-312 American Literature Survey.

English 350 Shakespeare.

English 382 Advanced Grammar and History of the Language.

History 363-384 English History, a three-hour course in philosophy, and six additional hours of English.

Under the new requirements all English majors must take the following courses:

Either English 201-202 or 203-204.

English 311 the first semester of American Literature Survey.

English 350 and 382.

Fifteen additional hours of English and six hours of history in addition to the general education requirement.

Mr. Prater stated that these changes were made "to provide greater flexibility in planning a student's work." He said that these changes would strengthen a major in English for those who will use an English major in other ways than graduate study in English.

English 363 (The American Novel) will be dropped, and a study of the American novel to 1900 will be included in American Literature Survey, 311-312. In place of English 363, a new course will be added entitled The Modern British and American Novel. This addition will require English 361 (The English Novel) to be restricted to the novels of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

The name of English 319 (Milton) will be changed to Milton and his Age and will include a study of Donne and other seventeenth century metaphysical poets.

These changes were approved by the faculty committee on curriculum and by the Academic Advisory Committee.

S and B Will Present Military Ball; Dance Tonight Features Two Bands

BY RUSH OTEY

Tonight will mark the beginning of the PC spring dance weekend cycle. Military Ball will be held from 8-12 P. M. in Greenville Hall, and most of the fraternities will hold record parties afterwards.

Door prizes of five steak dinners for two at The Wrangler and a $20 gift certificate from Alexander's of Laurens will be awarded.

According to Pat Brown, IFC President, the Administration has asked that all fraternity rooms be closed from 7:30-11:30 Friday night.

Saturday will also be a big day for fraternity men as every fraternity on campus has a social event planned. The Pi Kapps and KA's plan to have record parties in their respective fraternity suites.

Alpha Sigma Phi will have a closed party at the Mary Musgrove Hotel with the El Roccos furnishing the music. The Sigma Nu's will hold their party at the Lakeside Country Club with the Dynamic Showman as entertainment.

The American Legion Hut in Clinton will be the scene of the Theta Chi party. Charlie Miller and His Band will be rocking out for the Chi's. The PiKA's will convene at the VPI Club in Newberry with The Bohemes providing the music.

DALE AND THE DELHEARTS will appear tonight at the Military Ball in Greenville Hall beginning at 8:00 p.m.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr. — Editor

Jos. B. Stevens — Business Mgr.

The Need for 14 (b)

The Democratic Party in its platform for the Presidential Election of 1964 promised the repeal of Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section allows the states to pass Right to Work laws which outlaw compulsory union shop labor contracts. It allows each state to decide whether labor-management contracts within its borders can require workers to join or pay dues to a union as a condition of employment. Only 19 states of the Union have Right to Work laws, and most of them are in the South.

The repeal of 14 (b) would retard the industrial development of the South. The South is presently caught up in an industrial boom; and industry, having been coerced by labor unions in the other sections of the country, is moving south. The climate conditions of our region, the will of our people to work, and the fact that we still do have Right to Work laws are the factors which induce the coming of industry to the South.

As industry increases here in the South, it necessarily decreases elsewhere in the country because the South is just not getting "new business," but is also getting old business which is re-settling in the South.

The union bosses are unable to do much about our resources and climate, but they hope to stop some of the industry from leaving their area by getting Section 14 (b) repealed. Should this happen, we might soon find our workers clamoring for guaranteed wages, guaranteed hours, etc., and they would not be willing to give their best work and their best loyalty to their jobs.

Labor organized because it was mistreated, but organized labor today is like any other entity—power begets power, and great power can be, and most often is, abused.

The truth is that labor relations are generally better in Right to Work states . Wage gains have been relatively higher in states having the laws than in those which do not. So why should an individual be requred to join a union in order to make a living?

People have usually joined a union because it was to their benefit to do so, and it seems only right that a union which has nothing to offer its members should go out of existence.

The citizens of the United States have endorsed the retention of 14 (b), as three nationwide polls and congressional mail testify. The Senators, as the elected representatives of the people, have reflected the views of the electorate in defeating the attempt to repeal (14) b.

W. W. H.

Tribute to a PMS

This past Monday, February 28, Lt. Col. Richard W. Ulrich retired from the United States Army, thus ending a 20-year career in the armed sevices. For the last four and one-half years or one-fifth of his entire enlistment, Col. Ulrich has served as Professor of Military Science here at Presbyterian College.

The Military Department usually has a high rate of turnover in its staff. Thus it is not uncommon for men to leave the department and for others to replace them every few years.

However, it is not every day that a man who leaves the department completes a 20-year career in the army. It is with due respect that The Blue Stocking extends to Col. Ulrich and his family the best of luck in the future.

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardee.

Must Catastrophe Be Inevitable?

BY SUSAN GILBERT
Blue Stocking Feature Editor

With final examinations still far enough in the future to be viewed objectively by the people involved, the academic merry-go-round of last minute quizzes the week before exams should be given careful consideration. A recent ACP release indicated that the dilemma is a common one among collegians.

Just prior to fall quarter final week, the following letter was sent to members of the Utah State University administration, reports the "Student Life."

"We the undersigned, would like to respectfully propose the following University policy change. We propose that it become policy of Utah State University not to allow any tests during the five days of classes before the first day of final examinations.

"Some students we know have as many as two examinations this Friday and then two finals next Monday. It will be impractical for these students to conduct a serious review of all material in any class. Their intense review over the weekend will hardly enable them to perform competitively at their best levels. In addition, material reviewed so rapidly won't be retained as long or as well.

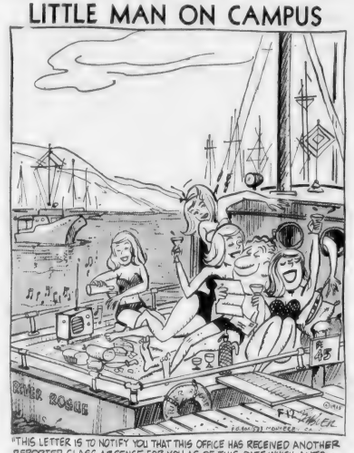
"This change, although perhaps new at this institution, is practiced at several others . . ."

The problem of exams following so closely on the heels of fourth-quarter quizzes has been one of great concern not only at Utah State but here at Presbyterian College as well. The arguments have gone back and forth, but no solution half-way satisfactory either to students or to faculty has been reached to any appreciable extent.

Some professors assert that well-prepared students should have no worries when exam time comes, or quiz time either, for that matter. Others maintain that that last round of quizzes is absolutely necessary and furthermore, that they should be scheduled as late in the semester as possible. Otherwise there would be some material on which the student is unquizzed.

Some quite calmly theorize that, having covered the fourth quarter material thoroughly for the quis, the student should be at least a fourth of the way through studying for the exam. Then there are a few diehards who seem to ignore the situation completely, apparently hoping that it will go away.

Most students can see that the professors' reasons are logical, but logical thinking does nothing to ease the well-known sensation of pure panic. No student, regardless of how much he has or has not studied throughout the semester, can approach those last two weeks of the semester with anything less than a vague awareness of impending doom. Self-confidence is not inherent in the mind and heart of an undergraduate at such a time, and the student feels compelled to spend considerable time preparing for the catastrophe.



An exam should be, and sometimes is, a comprehensive survey of the course as a whole. To prepare for it, the student needs time to coordinate the material into a meaningful system that will make sense to him and contribute to his education. He also needs a mind that is well-rested and alert, not the overworked, half-conscious reflex center which is too often the result of that last bombardment in the question and answer game.

The problem seems to have no solution that would be satisfactory to both parties involved. Utah's proposal treads on the toes of the faculty, and PC's predicament, though apparently somewhat satisfactory to the faculty, is establishing a trend toward severe mental problems among the students.

A feasible compromise would be for each professor at least to consider making the fourth-quarter quiz optional. In this way, the decision would be left up to the student as to whether or not the last quiz would be worth a try, time-wise or grade-wise. Several professors have tried it, and their students as a whole are somewhat better satisfied with the results.

The time for thinking over the situation is not May 13, when the pressure is already building up, but now, while professors and students are still on friendly terms with one another.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Letter to Editor

Where Is Our School Spirit?

Dear Editor,

The subject of this letter is of primary interest to any and all PC'uns that are connected in any way with PC athletics. The subject—STUDENT BODY PARTICIPATION. When I say student body participation, I do not mean that every student should go out for one of our intercollegiate teams because some of us are not blessed with the talents and ability that are necessary to play the highly specialized sports of today. Although we cannot all play sports, it does not take any extra talent or training to be a good and loyal supporter of the small percentage of students who actually participate in the playing of the various sports.

I will use the basketball games as an example but do not think that this only applies to basketball. I use basketball because I was associated with that team through a very demanding twenty-three game schedule of which ten games were played right here in our own Leroy Springs Gymnasium. There were more games scheduled at home this year than in the past few years because we wanted the advantage of playing before a PC partisan crowd which does not happen very often. Even though we were playing at home quite often, the PC partisan crowd did not appear and except for the familiar confines of the gym, our players thought we were on the road once again.

I do not have any figures to back up my next statement, but from appearances, percentage wise the faculty and coeds turned out better than the men students. This, men, could be termed a disgrace!!

Now for the arguments for why you were unable to attend. First, we had to study for quizzes. Granted, our primary objective here, as we are so often reminded, is to get an education. Did aynone have any tests scheduded for the two weeks beginning on Monday, January 31? No, because that was the week right after registration. Was the gym full for our last three home games during which time there were no hour quizzts? No!! Why? The reason, if there is one, remains to be seen.

Enough said for basketball and now just a few words about our spring sports.

PC will probably have the best team in the state in golf this year, and chances are good for being best in the state in tennis. Baseball and track do not look quite so promising, but with a little luck they could both have the best records in quite a number of years.

Neither track nor baseball takes a great deal of time or special advanced training. So if you are interested in participating let's go out for one of the teams and help get the spring sports back on the road to success. If you are not going to play a sport then let's turn out 100 per cent, faculty and students (male and female), for all the home events and show these boys that we are really behind them.

Thank you,
Ray Priestino

Blue What?

BY BILL BASSHAM

What in the world is a Blue Hose? Why doesn't PC have an animal mascot like most schools?

It seems like wherever I go people ask these questions when PC comes into the conversation. The question is by no means ridiculous. After all, how many schools in the nation are called the Blue Hose? If nothing else, the name is distinctive.

But why don't we have a mascot like other schools? Wofford has its Terrier, Carolina its Gamecock, Newberry its Indian, Citadel its Bull Dog, Clemson its Tiger, and Furman its Paladin.

Former sports editor of the Blue Stocking, Glen Browder, supplied two theories. The first is that the name comes from England. The Presbyterians of Oliver Cromwell's time wore blue stockings with their knee pants. History later records a Blue Stocking Parliament after the Presbyterians came to power. So it may be that Presbyterians and Blue Stockings go along together.

The theory which is a bit more believable comes from before World War I. At this time Coach Walter Johnson directed the fortunes of PC football. His teams were very distinctive if for no other reason than because they wore bright blue stockings with their uniforms. From this the sports writers dubbed them the Blue Hose. Since there was no formal nickname, it stuck.

It is unfortunate that there is no romantic story behind the name Blue Hose. The fact is that it is just a plain name from a very unromantic source.

Another interesting fact is that these are just theories. No one knows a whole lot about the source of the name. Most of the people around school know a little bit thus it is pieced together.

From the nickname Blue Hose has stemmed several other names such as Blue Socks, Blue Stockings, Hose, Blue, and Blue Sox. Blue Hose finally took prominence in the 1950's. Unfortunately these names are as much a "Plain-Jane" as is Blue Hose.

After all how can someone get fired up cheering for a Blue Hose. In 1961 head cheerleader Guy Hancock tried to stir up some enthusiasm in a football game with Furman's Paladins.

Furman has a policy of having a cheerleader ride their white horse around the track after every score. Hancock in protest rode an old bicycle around the track after every PC score.

It would seem to this writer that it would be an improvement if we had a displayable mascot. And I don't mean a cross between an old yellow sock and a green sock. A mascot of some sort would be an effective catalyst to stimulate spirit at PC sporting events.

For instance there is probably no bigger rivalry in the nation than the Army-Navy game. It seems that traditionally along with the rivalry goes the pride of the Army mule and the Navy goat. This is well evidenced in that the number one objective of both service academies each year is to steal the other's mascot. This is just one example. In all great rivalries pride of the school's mascot plays a prominent part. Who should want to boast of stealing a navy blue Gold Cup?

This column would like to ask the opinion of its readers on this subject. Are you satisfied with being known as a Blue Hose?

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

PiKA's, KA's Survive Two Rounds; Blanchard and Gettys Pace Scoring

BY GENE SULLIVAN

The heavily favored PiKA's and KA's still remain the favorites for the intramural tournament. The PiKA's seem invincible with the shooting of Don Blanchard and the excellent play-making of Buzzard Donovan. They edged the Crushers 43-41 as a great really led by Ronnie Morris and Jimmy Elliott fell a couple of points short. Later in the week it was again Blanchard, Donovan and combo that humbled the Pushers 48-35.

The hot shooting KA's, paced by Joe Gettys' 28 points, defeated the Sigma Nu's 47-41. Robin Williams and Hart Cobb led the Nu's with 15 and 14 points respectively. All was not bleak for the Sigma Nu's however, because they cut the Sinkers 57-30 behind Markette and O'Connell to remain a contender. Then the KA's dispatched the Alpha Sig's behind Gettys and Forbes 62-40. Buddy Guy led the Sigs, followed by Grady Marshall and Bob Byard.

The Alpha Sigs ripped the Sinkers 46-34.

The hapless Theta Chi's were walloped by the Pushers 72-44 and then by the Crushers 44-18. The only light spot for the Chi's was Gene Robbins who led the team both nights.

With two losses the Sinkers and the Theta Chi's are both out of the race and the tourney. The KA's and the PiKA's are 2-0, the Crushers, Pushers, Alpha Sig's, and Sigma Nu's are 1-1 and could go either way. Next week's action will pit the remaining teams with the top two competing Thursday for the trophy.

Photo by Howard

PiKA'S ECKSTEIN drives through the circle for two in action against the Crushers.

Panthers Win Tourney; Freshman Named MVP

BY MIKE SIMONS

The Carolinas Conference basketball tournament ended Saturday night with the High Point Panthers handing the Appalachian Mountaineers a 59-55 licking.

After the game the area newsmen voted for the Carolinas Conference all-tournament basketball team. High Point's Gene Littles, who scored 15 points in the championship game, led the balloting with 39 votes. Henry Logan of Western Carolina followed with 37 votes. Scoring was based on three points for the first team and two for the second team.

Littles, a freshman, was named the most valuable tournament player and Logan won the award as the conference's most valuable player for the season. Logan, a 6-0 sopohmore, finished second behind Catwaba's Dwight Durante in scoring with a 29.5 point average.

Durante set a regular season Carolinas Conference scoring record with a 57-point performance and also set a conference tournament record with 42 points against Guilford in opening round competition.

Oddly enough, after Durante had set the record in the first game, Littles broke the old record of 38 set by Lenoir Rhyne's Raeford Wells. Littles hit for 40 points in leading High Point to an 89-75 victory over Elon. Littles might have broken the tournament record for the most points if he had not fouled out with over nine minutes left to play in the championship game. As it turned out Littles scored 36 points in three games, only four points shy of the record.

The first unit all-tournament team was as follows:

Player	School
Gene Littles	High Point
Henry Logan	N. C. C.
Dwight Durante	Catawba
James Nilcox	Appalachian
Tory Gray	Appalachian

March Sports Spotlight

Month	Sport	Opponent	Place
March 11	Golf		Wofford, Clinton
March 14	Baseball	Catawba,	Salisbury, N. C.
March 14	Golf		Erskine, Clinton
March 16	Baseball	Guilford,	Greensboro, N. C.
March 17	Baseball	Guilford,	Greensboro, N. C.
March 17	Tennis	South Carolina,	Clinton
March 19	Tennis		Clemson, Clinton
March 21	Baseball		Erskine, Due West
March 22	Tennis		Amherst, Clinton
March 22	Golf	South Carolina,	Clinton
March 23	Baseball	Lenoir Rhyne,	Clinton
March 25	Baseball		High Point, Clinton
March 28	Tennis	Georgia Tech,	Atlanta, Ga.
March 29	Tennis	Indiana,	Atlanta, Ga.
March 30	Tennis	Indiana,	Atlanta, Ga.

Photo by Yarborough

JIMMY BANKHEAD

Bankhead Is All-Star

It was announced this week that Jimmy Bankhead from Chester was named to the Senior All-Star Team of the Carolinas Conference. Bankhead was one of 15 seniors nominated by the coaches and sportswriters.

The all-star team will play an all-star team from the "big four" of North Carolina composed of North Carolina, Duke, North Carolina State, and Wake Forest. The game will be held March 15 in High Point, N. C., as a benefit for the High Point JC's.

Tom Quinn, head coach of High Point College and coach-of-the-year in the Carolinas Conference, will coach the team. The Carolinas Conference has won four out the seven games which have been played.

Bankhead, a 6-3 forward, averaged 13.3 points per game for the Blue Hose this year and was the fourth leading rebounder for the team.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Photo by Howard

SPEED-UP REPRESENTATIVE—Hayes Mizell spoke to interested students Tuesday evening on the Office of Economic Opportunity's summer program.

LOVETT Cont. from P 1, Col. 1

and service projects. The organization could be a very helpful group during campus-wide service projects, such as the PC-Jaycee Empty Stocking Drive held this past Christmas.

In short, this organization could give more people a chance to actively participate in campus life on the various social levels, clubs, intramural activities, and be an aid in organizing service projects.

Otey: How would this organization be governed?

Lovett: Many people seem to think this organization would be a branch of the Student Council. This is a misunderstanding. The organization would be governed by its members as any other campus organization, and would not be subordinate to the Student Council.

As we presently see it, the governing body could consist of a 10-member Board of Governors, with a Chairman, two Vice-chairmen, and perhaps a Treasurer. One vice-chairman could possibly be in charge of programs; the other could be head of the entertainment committee. However, no definite plans have been made on this phase.

Otey: To have any dynamic social or service program, an organization must be financed. How is this to be done?

Lovett: Let me begin by saying that the success or failure of this organization depends entirely upon student interest and enthusiasm. Membership would, of course, be on a voluntary basis. We feel that unless approximately two-thirds to three-fourths of the independents participate, the organization would probably not be worthwhile and its purposes would fall through.

Our present thinking is that dues would be set at $5.00 per semesctter. If say, 300 independents participated, the amount of funds would be more than adequate for a strong, well-rounded program.

Otey: What does the Administration think of this idea?

Lovett: In the past the Administration has been concerned with giving the independent students a place to go and something worthwhile in which to participate. However, this is the first real attempt to actually organize the non-fraternity students.

Otey: You have mentioned the service and social phases of this group—both of which are the stated purposes of most fraternities. How would this group differ from a fraternity?

Lovett: Perhaps there would be none except the following: (1) the number of students involved; (2) this group would include coeds; (3) dues would not be as high; (4) there would be no national affiliation: (5) membership would be open.

Otey: Do you feel that most of the students will go along with this idea?

Lovett: Of course that remains to be seen. I do believe that there is perhaps a lack of enthusiasm on the part of many students at the present time.

In discussing this idea with various students and student groups, we have found several misconceptions held by many students. I would like to try to clarify some of these here.

First of all, we are not trying to "buck" the fraternity system. The purposes of this organization have been stated previously in this interview. We believe that there is a definite need for this organization, as I have also tried to point out.

Other students believe that we're trying to start a political faction that could control campus elections held every spring. Again, this is not our purpose. I'd be a fool to deny that this could not possibly happen. It could very well be a strong political force if enough students became involved. However, I would hope that the main concerns of this orginazition would not be political, but rather social or service.

Looking on the positive side of things, if competition did arise between this group and other groups on campus, this competition could be beneficial. For instance it would perhaps lessen the tendency of students to be apathetic about campus affairs and cause them to re-evaluate the role their particular organizations should play in these affairs.

Otey: When do you propose that this organization will be initiated?

Lovett: Much more thought and discussion will be needed before positive steps are taken one way or the other. This issue will be discussed at the next open chapel program. In the meantime we welcome comments or constructive criticism from any students.

Otey: So do we.

Lovett: As I have already stated, whether this organization becomes a reality, and whether it would survive if brought into being, depends entirely upon student enthusiasm and support. The wiseness of the student body as a whole will be the main factor in the acceptance or rejection of this organization. We hope all students will give this matter a lot of thought and will consider both sides of the question at hand.

Otey: Thank you.

Lovett: You're welcome.

Campus News Briefs

Military Absence Rules Announced

PaC-SaC Nominees Due In Two Weeks

Tom Leland, editor of the 1966 PaC SaC, announced that nominations for editor and business manager of the 1967 PaC SaC must be turned in by Tuesday, March 15.

Nominees must be rising seniors with at least a "C" average and not more than one "F" for the preceding semester.

Annual Givings

A record goal of $100,000 has been established for Presbyterian College's 1966 Anuual Giving program, Alumni and Public Relations Director Ben Hay Hammet announced today.

He said this objective compares to the $93,273 produced last year, when the program recorded an all-time high that exceeded its goal and showed a 20 percent increase over 1964.

The ambitious $100,000 target for 1966 was established by the board of directors of the Presbyterian College Alumni Association. This group directs the Alumni Giving program, which gains support from PC alumni and from friends and non-alumni parents of students.

Annual Giving helps to underwrite the current operations budget at Presbyterian College, with special emphasis on scholarship aid to worthy students and faculty salary increases. The $100,000 goal this year seeks $70,000 for academic purposes and $30,000 for the Walter Johnson Club, alumni athletic organization.

'Othello'

On March 8 and 9 the Echo Theater in Laurens will present "Othello." The features will start at 3:15 and 8:00 p. m. each day. Student tickets will be $1.00; adults will be $1.50.

The English department encourages all students to take advantage of this opportunity. If the students support this movie, it is hoped that more such films will be shown.

JOHNSON Cont. from P 1, Col. 2

added to the revised basic course.

Johnson also implemented changes in the method of instruction. Time magazine in the Dec. 10, 1965, issue shows the extent of Johnson's changes in building the new army. "Time" states that Johnson urges the "drill sergeant to be a blend of father-confessor and den mother to his men."

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara chose Johnson, rather than a four-star general, for the post he now holds as Chief of Staff.

The administration of Presbyterian College went through the Congressional Delegation of South Carolina in order to bring General Johnson to the college as commencement speaker. Senators Strom Thurmond and Donald Russell were particularly influential in this endeavor.

Chapel Schedule

Monday — Student Devotional, Evins Goodwin, Freshman Presbyterian College.

Wednesday—To be announced.

Friday — Chapel Worship Service, The Reverend Leighton Ford, an Associate in the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

'The Cardinal'

"The Cardinal", one of the most unusual pictures produced in recent years, succeeds in retaining the flavor and much of the plot of the celebrated novel. It also attempts to deal with some contemporary problems confronting mankind. "The Cardinal" is a provocative motion picture for men of all faiths as well as men of no faith. One is appalled by questions of mixed marriage, religious vocation, infringing upon personal freedom by the totalitarian Nazi state, and the infringing of civil rights by many forces in our own country.

Math Help Sessions

The Mathematics Department has announced that help sessions for students in Mathematics 103, 201, and 208 are now being conducted. Senior mathematics majors, Amelia Nichols and Charles Fountain, hold the problem sessions in Room 101, Neville Hall from 2:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons. On Tuesday and Friday the sessions last until 5:30. Jimmy Bankhead conducts a problem session in Room 101, Neville Hall, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 8:00.

It was stressed that these are help sessions, not teaching or instruction sessions.

In order to avoid any question or confusion regarding absences from drill, the Military Department has announced the following absence policy: When a doctor or the infirmary nurse tells a cadet to report to doctor with physical limitations, he must report and be utilized by the Military Department.

When a doctor or the infirmary excuses a cadet from drill it is the responsibility of the cadet to clear the absence with the Absence Committee. All cadets who are not present at drill formation will be reported absent.

Mr. Cannon, chairman of the Absence Committee, stated that this is the policy to be held by the Absence Committee in all actions pertaining to drill absences.

Placement Schedule

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment:

The Prudential Insurance Company of America, March 7

Henderson, Lindsay and Mitchaels, Inc., Management Consultants from Greenvile, March 8

Riegel Textile Corporation, March 10.

Clearwater Finishing Plant March 11.

FRAMUS 12-STRING GUITAR FOR SALE
See Cliff Sheffield

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

BROADWAY Theatre
TODAY, MARCH 3-4-5
"THE RARE BREED"
James Stewart, Maureen O'Hara
MARCH 7-8-9-10
"WHERE THE SPIES ARE"
David Niven

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Persbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March, 11, 1966 — No. 15

Organizing An Independent Group Could Prove To Be Uphill Battle

Since only 40 per cent of the PC student body participated in this week's Blue Stocking opinion poll, there may be some question as to whether a compendium of the poll's results is meaningful. However, perhaps the statistics below are an indication of general student interest in the proposal of organizing independents.

As could be expected, opposition to the independent organization runs high among fraternity men. Of the 119 Greeks who responded to the poll, 65 had no use at all for the organization. One commented, "The organization of independents would be the first step in doing away with fraternities. Only social clubs would be formed." Another felt that the organization would be a political force but could not succeed socially.

Fraternity men seem as intent in defeating this proposal as independents are in supporting it, as only 122 independents participated in the poll and 77 stated that they would support the proposed organization.

Because only 27 co-eds filled in the questionaire, it is difficult to perceive the true sentiments of the co-eds as a whole concerning this issue. Of the co-eds responding, 20 felt that there is a need for the organization, and 21 said that they would support it. However, 17 of the 27 felt that co-eds should not be included in the organization. The Blue Stocking fails to see the correlation between these figures.

One co-ed said that the organization would defeat the purpose of being independent, if it were a social organization. She went on to say that she would support the organization if it were political in nature.

Independent men seemed to be lukewarm in their support of the organization. Seventy-one per cent of those answering felt a need for the organization, but only 59 per cent of those answering would support the organization if it came into being.

The conclusion may be drawn from the above statistics that if the independents are to have an organization, they must muster more support from within their own ranks. Since 63 per cent of the coeds, 65 per cent of the fraternity men, and 31 per cent of the independents that answer-

See GROUP, p. 4, col. 1

Wednesday Poll Results

BY RUSH OTEY

Wednesday of this week The Blue Stocking took a campus poll to determine the amount of student interest in an interview with Henry Lovett concerning the possibility of organizing non-fraternity PC students, with 247 students responding by answering the questionnaire.

Fraternity men, as a whole, were against the formation of such an organization. Fifty-five per cent believed that there is no need for organizing the independents and that such an organization would defeat the purpose of being independent. Sixty-three per cent of the Greeks favored the exclusion of co-eds from such an organization, if it came into being.

Co-eds were very enthusiastic about the proposal as 81 per cent of those answering favored the formation of the organization and stated that they would support it if it should be formed. However, only 22 per cent believed that co-eds should be included in the organization.

Non-fraternity men were also in favor of the Lovett proposal. Seventy-one per cent favored the formation of the organization while 59 per cent would support it.

On the whole, the students approved of the $5.00 dues per semester suggested by Lovett in the interview. Sixty per cent of the fraternity men considered this to be a reasonable figure, as did 67 per cent of the co-eds and 76 per cent of the non-fraternity men.

Board Adopts Budget; Honors Notable Alumni

Assembled in a two-day session on campus beginning Monday of this week, the Board of Trustees of Presbyterian College authorized a proposed budget of $1,770,00 for the operation of the college for the 1966-67 school year.

They designated these two outstanding alumni to receive honorary degrees at the commencement exercises on May 29: Ross Templeton of Charlotte, senior vice-president of Field Enterprises Educational Corporation, doctor of humanities; and Emmet R. Blake, curator of birds for the Chicago Museum of Natural History, doctor of science. Templeton is a member of the PC class of 1924; Blake, of the class of 1928.

Board members re-elected Robert M. Vance of Clinton as chairman to serve again for the coming year. Dr. Eugene T. Wilson of Atlanta was re-elected vice-chairman; and Hugh S. Jacobs of Clinton, secretary.

The board concluded its business by electing to lifetime membership T. Frank Watkins of Anderson and John F. McLeod of Chesterfield, both of whom will retire from the board this year after 15 years of devoted service.

Informed sources indicated that the Board of Trustees gave their final approval to a new men's dormitory. This four-story facility will be located across South Adair Street from Spencer Hall and will house 250 students.

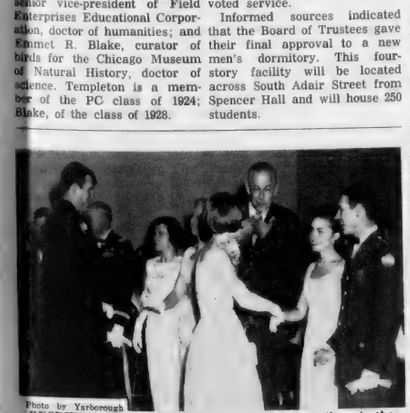

Photo by Yarborough

RECEIVING LINE AT MILITARY BALL—Among those in the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Weersing, Miss Mary Ann Arnette, and Al Todd, commander of Scabbard and Blade. The Military Ball this year was acclaimed one of the best ever held at Presbyterian College.

Photo by Howard

PC DEBATE CLUB members Hank Parks, Jerry Mebane, John Guest, and Merrie Stancill were presented to the Student Body in chapel recently.

Surprising Success Marks Debate Team's First Match

BY MERRIE STANCIL
Blue Stocking Associate Editor

The PC Debate Club, the newest campus organization, enters its second month with a major conference already behind it. For the first time in PC's history, it competed in the Southeastern Conference held annually at Lenoir Rhyne. PC's representatives at Lenoir Rhyne were Hank Parks (aff.), Jerry Mebane (aff.), John Guest (neg.), and Merrie Stancill (neg.).

The conference this year took place on March 3, 4 and 5. Debate competition was made up of 21 teams from as far north as Roanoke, Va., and south into Georgia.

Dr. Zillmer, the club's sponsor and coach, expressed pleasure and encouragement with the team's showing. Both the affirmative and negative sides won two out of six matches. Although this didn't place them in first postion, it did put them a respectable distance from last.

No more conferences are planned for this semester. The possibility of setting up one or two debates with another school is being looked into, however. If this can be arranged it will provide the club members with much needed experience.

The addition of debate to the fine arts program marks a major step by PC in becoming a truly liberal arts college.

Dr. Zillmer hopes that even greater interest will be shown in this, as well as in other phases of college life both in and out of the classroom. New members are always welcome and notices of meetings will continue to be posted for those who are interested in joining or merely listening.

Guest Editorial
See
Page Two

Frampton Concert Tonight Sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi

BY DAN ROBERTS

Tonight, Belk Auditorium will be the scene of one of the most publicized events ever to come to the Presbyterian College campus. Mac Frampton, a senior at Erskine College, will present a popular concert for the students of PC and for the people of the Clinton area beginning at 8:00 p. m.

Frampton, a music and French major, has been quite active in the state, having presented highly praised concerts at Winthrop College and in Sumter. He has won the Key Club International Talent Competition held in Los Angeles in 1962 and also the 1965 South Carolina Exchange Club Talent Contest where the judges said that they had "never seen so much talent wrapped up into one person at so young an age."

As in all Frampton concerts, the PC one will begin with the theme from Monde Conde "More." Next is a full section devoted to Hollywood with the theme from Exodus, Charade and others.

Following these numbers, Mac will bring out his trio of brass and drums and use them in a series of numbers such as "Girl from Ipanema," "A Taste of Honey," and "Down Town."

Just before a short intermission the program will turn to the great music of yesterday and after the pause will blast into the great songs of today with "Goldfinger," "Unchained Melody," and "Ebb Tide."

The Music of the Masters will be the next area covered, followed by a spotlight on Broadway. A request period will follow, and Frampton will close the concert with his "River Melody."

Admision is $1.00, and all are welcome. The pledges of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity are sponsoring the event.

Math Department Features Lecturer

Dr. James Wesson of Vanderbilt University will visit on this campus Monday and Tuesday, March 14-15, under the sponsorship of the mathematics Department. Dr. Wesson is here under the auspices of the Mathematical Association of America as a consultant to discuss the mathematics program with faculty and students alike.

He will give three lectures during his stay here at the following hours: Monday, 4:30 p. m., Linear Algebra; Tuesday, 9:00 a. m., Analytics and Calculus; Tuesday, 2:30 p. m., General Lecture to all interested students and faculty.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr.
Editor

Jos. B. Stevens
Business Mgr.

Experience Needed

RECENTLY THE HONOR SYSTEM has come under attack from various members of the student body. Students acquire supposedly secret information and facts about cases brought before the Student Council and form their own opinions based on prejudices and personal feelings. This happens in any case brought before the court in the United States. Some people are going to be happy while some will be bitter.

THERE IS ONE MAJOR DIFFERENCE in the court system of the United States and that of the Student Council. While some people may feel differently about decisions of our courts, they do not claim that our law system will break down because of actions that differ with public opinion. Some PC students whose opinions differ with decisions of the Student Council feel that the honor system is breaking down. In order for the honor system to be effective it must be supported by every student individually and as a member of the student body. Without this cooperation the honor system will eventually crumble.

THE STUDENT BODY elects the members of the Student Council and should back their actions, whether the students agree with them or not. Personal opinion should in no way hinder the effectiveness of the honor system.

THERE IS ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT in the present Student Council trial system, however. As it now stands, there are three senior, three junior, two sophomore, and two freshmen members. In Student Council trials one senior acts as prosecutor and the president as presiding officer. Neither of these people has a vote. This leaves eight voting members, of whom one is a senior, three are juniors, two are sophomores, and two are freshmen.

THERE SEEMS TO BE A NEED for more voting seniors and juniors on the Student Council. The addition of one more senior and one more junior voting member would place more emphasis on the element of experience which has a necessary part in such serious matters as trials. The verdict of a trial depends heavily on the difference between experience and inexperience.

D. S. V.

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor	Charles Eagles
Copy Editor	Alex Erwin
News Editor	Rush Otey
Sports Editor	Bill Bassham
Feature Editor	Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor	Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor	Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor	Gene Sullivan
Movie Editor	Christie Patterson
Cartoonists	Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists	Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardie.
Copy Staff	Jack Murphy, Rob Dalton

Movie Review

A Critical of Movie Version of 'Othello'

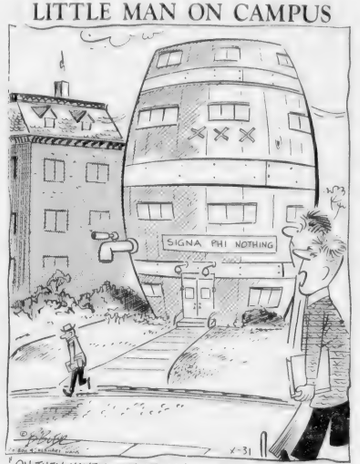
BY GEORGE DEMPSEY

Othello, as played by the versatile actor Lawrence Olivier left a little something to be desired. The portrayal of the Black Moor, "the slave of passion," is at best difficult, for it involves a great psychological turn of character, and in a comparatively short length of time.

In the beginning Othello is distinguished by a public image of self-control, dignity, and decision. By the end of the movie, with the subtle manipulations of the scheming Iago, the Moor is turned into a monster of sexual rage and jealousy. There is little doubt that Oliver did his utmost in one of Shakespeare's most complex roles.

The dominant charcrteristic in the entire production was of course Frank Finlay as the satanic Iago, a figure without conscience or remorse. Through the evil machinations of Iago such as the placing of the handkerchief of Desdemona's marriage infidelity in the tormented mind of the tragic protagonist Othello goes on to murder his wife probably the only completely virtuous character in the movie.

Finlay's portrayal of the Machiavellian Iago is perfectly masterful. Iago disguises his evil intentions perfectly, and his cool calculating that enables him to arouse in Othello the fatal suspicion of his wife.



Shakespeare underlines the theme that Iago particularly enjoys destroying people through their good qualities. Not only does Iago destroy Desdemona but it is also his maniacal hatred that accounts for this discrediting of Michael Cassio, Othello's "honorable lieutenant."

Realistic Desdemona, played by Maggie Smith, was a beautiful portrayal of one of Shakespeare's most memorable women. Her innocence is in sharp contrast with the destructive hatred of Iago.

The only thing that alienated this reviewer was the fact that the "gentle Desdemona" was fat. Somehow this ruined the image of her I received in reading the Shakespeare text. To me this is just as inconceivable as to say, a fat Ophelia in Hamlet.

All in all, however, I was favorably impressed with the successful blend of theater and film, and it provided for me, at any rate, three hours of pleasant viewing. We need more of these productions on the community level.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"OH, THEY HAVE A LOT OF FUN ALL RIGHT, BUT THEY HAVE A RATHER SHABBY REPUTATION."

Guest Editorial

The 'New Left' and the PC Faculty

(Editor's note: The following editorial does not necessarily reflect the views of the editor or the staff of The Blue Stocking).

BY JIM MURCHISON

There is a spectre haunting Presbyterian College—the spectre of liberalism.

Recently there has been a strong surge of leftist activity on college and university campuses throughout the nation. This activity has taken many forms: free speech movements, civil rights movements, and most recently, a movement to reassess our policy in Vietnam. Those movements have resulted in teach-ins, sit-ins, stand-ins, petitions, debates, editorials, marches and draft card burnings—all of which have made the nation aware of the presence and opinions of the "New Left."

The new revolution began around 1954 when the Supreme Court, in Brown vs. Education of Topeka, held that "separate-but-equal schools are inherently unequal." At this time there arose a new fight for individual human rights for both white and Negro. This has been referred to by one professor as "Reconstruction II Under Johnson II."

The new wave of liberalism has arrived on the PC campus. The wave has been strong enough to cause a "shaking of the foundations" not only at PC, but throughout the town of Clinton. Oddly enough this wave of liberalism has not been led by PC students, but instead by members of the PC faculty.

One of the most progressive moves that I have seen since becoming a PC student occurred when a faculty committee, with only one member dissenting, voted to extend an invitation to the controversial figure Thomas J. J. Altizer to address the student body. Unfortunately, the invitation was refused by a college president who evidently feels that courses in economics should have preference over courses in philosophy and religion. Perhaps Dr. Weersing should recall the Bible verse, "Thou shalt love the Lord your God with all your mind."

It is interesting to note that while a large segment of students and professors throughout the country are questioning our U. S. policy in Vietnam, a PC professor receives an award in Chapel for his service while in the Army. Shortly thereafter, Christmas cards are sent to our soldiers in Vietnam, "from the students of Presbyterian College." Next, it is announced in Chapel that there might be a blood drive for U. S. forces in Vietnam. To top it all, there came the announcement last week that our commencement speaker will be none other than the U. S. Army Chief of Staff.

Is this all by mere chance? Could it be a plot on the part of the administration to keep our thinking away from the influence of such people as Senators Fullbright, Church, and Morse; Professors Morgenthau of Chicago, Kennan of Princeton, Williams of Wisconsin, and Lynd of Yale; columnists such as Walter Lippmann, just to name a few? With an administration dominated by ministers and military men, it is easy to see how such might be the case.

A group of our more liberal professors were successful in a recent attempt to get a voice in the local organization of the Democratic Party. This might possibly cause a more progressive attitude of that previously conservative-oriented group.

Webster defines a liberal as one "Not narrow or contracted in mind; broad-minded, not bound by orthodox tenets or established forms in political or religious philosophy; independent in opinion." This definition is not characteristic of PC students, nor of PC administration. However, it is becoming more and more descriptive of our faculty. Thank God for our faculty.

Photo by Howard

PiKA'S USE HANDS-UP defense against KA's in championship game Thursday.

Photo by Howard

KA JOHN McNEILL hauls in a rebound over the head of PiKA Sandy Lynn, "human rebounding machine."

PiKA's Down KA's 42-25 in Final, Capture Fourth Consecutive Crown

BY GENE SULLIVAN

The PiKA's clinched their fourth consecutive intramural basketball crown by defeating the last contender, the KA's, twice. Don Blanchard, Mike Donovan, and Dan Ekstein led the PiKA's in the first contest with torrid outside shooting while holding Joe Gettys to a mere 11 points. In the second meeting Gettys was again stopped, and the PiKA wrecking crew totally demolished the KA's 42-25. Both teams, however, should be ready to square off again next year because neither team plays a senior.

In third place are the Sigma Nu's, who beat the Pushers 38-36 in overtime. the Nu's were led by Frank Markette with 21 points. The Nu's then made their bid for second place by testing the KA's for a third time this season. The KA's didn't falter, and took home a 44-40 victory. Forbes connected for 16 points and Tommy Lovett had 14. Frank Markette again paced the Nu's with 14 points.

The surprise team, the Pushers, a largely independent group, shocked everyone by pulling an upset win over the favored Crushers 55-38. The Pushers relied on E. G. Lassiter, Robert Hope, and Al Wilson, all freshmen, to engineer the victory. All these were strong against the Sigma Nu's but lost in overtime, dropping them to fourth.

The Alpha Sigs have counted heavily on Buddy Guy, Grady Marshall, and Bobby Byrd this season, but couldn't get all they needed to beat the Sigma Nu's. The Nu's won it 37-34 behind the shooting of Cobb, Williams, and Markette.

Ronnie Morris and Jimmy Elliott were instrumental in the Crusher's plans this year as they paced them all season. The Crushers were contenders even after losing to the PiKA's 43-41, because of their rebounding ability and the shooting of Morris and Elliott.

Intramural director Benny Crabtree said an all-star team would be selected next week. Each team will have five votes —one may be cast for a player on their team and four votes for other players in the same league. Five players will be taken from each league to compose the ten-man squad.

Next Friday the All-Stars feature Erskine on the home court. Action begins promptly at 8:00 p. m.

Game Monday Opens '66 Baseball Season

The PC baseball team will kick off its 1966 season with Catawba in Salisbury, N .C., Monday afternoon. The Blue Hose face a tough 25-game schedule including four doubleheaders. Seventeen of the games will be against Carolinas Conference opponents.

Coach Art Musselman will be at the helm of the Blue Hose for the first time. The team will have several returning lettermen but is weak in the pitching department.

Returning starters from last year are Scooter Holcombe, Wade Stewart, Rick Corley, and Mike Thurston. These, along with six other lettermen, will form a strong-hitting nucleus. Several freshmen are being looked toward to help out the Blue Hose.

The Blue Hose have been hampered this spring with the weather which has limited most practices to the gym. However, Coach Musselman is very optimistic about the season.

Blue Stocks Shoot Well In Two Meets

The PC rifle team has come along very fast this year. The Blue Stocks finished fourth in the Western Carolinas Conference match at Wofford on February 18. Only ten points separated the second, third, and fourth teams. Freshman Fred Lockwood was the high point shooter for PC with a 283 out of a possible 300.

The Blue Stocks won a tri-team match among PC, Davidson, and Wofford. PC scored 1282 out of a possible 1500. Lockwood again paced PC with a 274.

The state match will be held March 12 at Furman. PC, Wofford, Furman, Clemson, Davidson, and The Citadel will compete. Coach Larry Creel is looking for the Blue Stocks to place high in the finishings.

Besides Lockwood, who is averaging 283 for the season, two other freshmen, Dan Wyatt and Bob Gaw, have shown promise. The rest of the squad is rounded out by upperclassmen Evan Pamplin, John Askew, and Terry Dye.

Bill Bassham

Christian Athletes

"I have had two gratifying experiences in my life." These were the words of Alabama's All-American quarterback Steve Sloan, who was addressing over 20,000 people at the Billy Graham Crusade in Greenville.

The first experience for Sloan came in his sophomore year at Alabama. At this time he was an obscure third-string quarterback playing beneath the limelight of super-star Joe Namath. Namath had been suspended from the team for disciplinary reasons.

BILL

Alabama was playing "Ole Miss" in the Sugar Bowl. Bear Bryant surprised all of the Tide's followers by picking Sloan. Sloan answered the call by guiding Alabama to a 12-7 upset win.

Sloan's second experience was hearing Dr. Graham in Tuscaloosa. Driving to Montgomery after the service, Sloan said he was so inspired that he sang all the way back. He felt that Dr. Graham had influenced his life more than any other single factor.

Sloan had not always been a Christian. He was an all-stater on state champion football and basketball teams in Cleveland, Tenn. As a result Sloan was asked to attend a Fellowship of Christian Athletes Conference the summer after his junior year.

At first the idea sounded like a real drag to him. Then he was told that such professional athletes as Bill Glass, Bill Wade, and Bob Pettit were attending. As Sloan put it, "I accepted because I was interested in the fellowship and athletes, but I didn't care about the Christian part."

Sloan changed during that conference due to a talk by All-Pro defensive end Bill Glass of the Cleveland Browns. Glass asked the athletes that if the game of life was over today, would they have won or lost? It was this experience that brought Sloan to Christianity. Since then Steve Sloan has become one of the most prominent figures in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Sloan, along with Ed King, formed an FCA chapter at Alabama. The movement is spreading all over the United States. Sloan recently received a letter from Clemson concerning the formation of a chapter there.

This is not an attempt to make PC an extension of Bob Jones University, but the question of an active FCA chapter at PC certainly merits consideration.

Golf Outlook Good; Sale, Kellam Are 1-2

BY MIKE SIMONS

Optimism pervails over Presbyterian College's golf prospects for the 1965-66 season, according to Coach Gerry Wells. Wells, in his inaugural season as golf mentor at PC, inherited four men from last year's squad, which posted a 12-4 record, and defeated state champion Wofford two out of three times.

Returning for their final season with the Hose are Bill Kellam, last season's top stroker, and Larry Preston. Junior Bruce Lawrence and sophomore David Sale are the other two returnees, giving Wells a solid nucleus of match-tested linksmen.

Two freshmen, Steve Albright and Ashton Blount, have been impressive to date and figure to play an important role in PC golf fortunes for the coming campaign. Upperclassmen Tim Yancey and Alan Parsons are also key men in PC's hopes for a successful season.

Coach Wells lamented the fact that adverse weather conditions were severely handicapping practice sessions, but he took some solace in the fact that PC will play its first four matches at Lakeside Country Club, PC's home course. He noted that the Hose have always been a good home course club and expressed the hope that this would carry them through until they had a chance to find their touch.

At the present time, Sale and Kellam are running one-two in competition. and Wells noted that these boys were both consistent in their scores. He commented that the lower men would have to trim their scores if PC is to enjoy a successful campaign, and he felt that they could do it if the weather permitted them to practice sufficiently.

This year the Hose will have a "B' team for the first time, according to Wells. This second team arrangement will enable the six men who are not playing on the varsity to gain valuable match experience. The "B" squad will face other "B" teams and junior college teams.

PC's encounter with Erskine this year will take on more than just the usual aspect of the Little Four rivalry. The Fleet's golf coach, Mac Wells, is the brother of PC's golf coach, Gerald Wells.

Photo by Howard

SALE muses over today's match with Wofford.

THE GREEKS...

Military Weekend Recap

JIMMY HUMPHRIES

The Theta Chi Fraternity congratulates the Scabbard and Blade on the great success of their Military Ball. For the Theta Chi Saturday night party Charlie Miller and his band provided music. Big Brother Mike Luke (Lord of the Flies) is engaged to Miss Jo Nowell formerly of PC. Russ Tatum is the new Theta Chi IFC Representative.

The Brothers of the Kappa Alpha Order have pledged four freshmen: John Head of Atlanta, Ga., John Dargan of Spartanburg, Al Wilson of Darlington, and Eddie Miller of Rome, Ga. The KA Old South Ball will be held March 18-20 in Augusta, Ga.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity had as their band for the past Military Ball Weekend the Dynamic Showmen, who were one of their better bands of the year. The Sigma Nu White Star Weekend has been planned for April 22 and 23. The Dynamic Showmen will play both Friday night and Saturday night. Saturday afternoon the fraternity is moving to Echo Valley in Cleveland, S. C. Brother Bill Crowley has pinned Miss Cynthia Boyles of Winthrop College. The Sigma Nu's took third place in the basketball tournament under the coaching wisdom of Gordon Adam. A steak and beans supper will be held at The Wrangler this coming Tuesday night.

From the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity Brother Dave Veneklasen has pinned Miss Mary Jane Jacobs of Coker College, and Brother Brooks Styles has pinned Miss Ellen McCulloch of Queens College. Brothers of the Week are Brothers Erik Johnson, Dave Veneklasen, and Brooks Styles.

New officers for the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity are: Pres.—Jim Johnson; Vice-Pres.—Donald Blanchard; Sec.—Dan Montgomery; Treas.—Bruce Lawrence; Sergeant-at-Arms — Jim Helms; and Chaplain — Mike Donovan. Brothers of the Week are Richard Smart, James (Pelican) Smith, and Jim Helms. It is rumored that Brother Wade Stewart is planning to get married.

The Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity is planning a drop-in after the Mac Frampton concert in their fraternity suite Friday night. Brother Bill Jackson has pinned Miss Sally Staggers of PC. Brother Orren McKay has pinned Miss Pat Cowden, a ZTA of High Point College, and Pledge Brother Terrell Owen has lavaliered Miss Tina Madden of Anderson College. Brother of the Week is Bill Jackson. Brother Rooster Collins received the antler award for this week; he was nominated by his date from Converse College. New officers for the Pi Kapp's are: Pres.—Tom McPhail; Treas.—John Askew; Sec.—John Morrison; Hist. —Andy Barnett; Warden—Pete Collins; Chaplain—Bob Hodgkin.

GROUP, cont. from p. 1, col. 3

ed the poll felt that the co-eds should not be included, we may assume that the co-eds will more than likely not be included in the organization.

Of the 95 non-fraternity men participating in the poll, only 56 stated that they would support the organization. This would fall short of the minimum needed to make the organization a worthwhile endeavor according to Henry Lovett. He ended the interview by re-emphasizing that "whether this organization becomes a reality . . . depends entirely upon student enthusiasm and support." If statistics tell the truth, it appears that the battle for the establishment of a successful independent organization will be uphill.

Campus News Briefs

Chapel Schedule

Monday — Student Convocation, sponsored by the Christian Vocation Club. Presentation by a Roman Catholic Priest.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, Dr. Lewis S. Hay, Presbyterian College, "Is God Really Dead?"

Friday — Convocation, sponsored by the Young Republican's Club, Senator Strom Thurmond.

Choir Trip

The Presbyterian College Choir will travel to Savannah and North Augusta this weekend to present two concerts. The choir will sing during the morning worship service at the First Presbyterian Church of Savannah.

Dr. Weersing is scheduled to preach at the Fairview Presbyterian Church of North Augusta; the choir will perform at the evening service.

The choir will leave the campus Saturday at 1:00 p. m. to return Sunday night after the evening service.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment:

South Carolina National Bank, March 15.

B. C. Moore and Sons, Inc., March 16.

Trust Company of Georgia, March 17.

Aetna Casualty and Surety Company, March 18.

Pass this quiz and Eastern will fly you to Florida or 79 other places for half fare.

Any 12 year-old can pass it.

1. I am 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 years old. (Circle one.)
2. I would like to spend $3 for an Identification Card entitling me to fly at half fare when a seat is available on Eastern Airlines Coach flights to 96 destinations. ☐ True ☐ False
3. My name is (PLEASE PRINT) _____
4. My home address is (STREET) _____ (CITY) _____ (STATE) _____ (ZIP CODE) _____
5. I was born on (MONTH) _____ (DAY) _____ (YEAR) _____
6. To prove the answer to Question 5, I will submit a photo-copy of my: ☐ Birth certificate ☐ Driver's license ☐ Draft card ☐ Other (PLEASE EXPLAIN) _____
7. I am a male / female. (Cross out one.)
8. I am a student at (SCHOOL NAME) _____
9. My residence address there is (STREET) _____ (CITY) _____ (STATE) _____ (ZIP CODE) _____
10. Eastern Airlines should mail my ID Card to: ☐ Home address ☐ School address

I attest that all answers above are true.

(SIGNATURE) _____

Now, mail the quiz, proof of age and a $3 check or money order (payable to Eastern Airlines) to: Eastern Airlines, Inc., Dept. 350, Ten Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020. Or take same to any of our ticket offices.

If you're 12 through 21 and qualify, you'll soon get your ID card. It entitles you to an Eastern Coach seat at half fare, on a space-available basis. Except on April 7 and certain days during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, you can fly to any of Eastern's destinations within the continental U.S. Including Florida.

EASTERN NUMBER ONE TO THE SUN

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

See Coach Shakespeare for Tennis Equipment

BROADWAY Cinema
MARCH 11-16
Walt Disney's
"THE UGLY DACHSHUND"

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 25, 1966 — No. 16

Photo by Yarborough

Presbyterian College Choir Leaves April 1st For Tour of D. C. Area

The Presbyterian College Choir under the direction of Mr. Charles T. Gaines will begin its spring tour through Virginia, West Virginia, and Washington, D. C., with a performance in Lynchburg, Va., Friday, April 1.

The program of religious music is based on the Christian Calendar, and the choir will present selections appropriate to the seasons of Advent-Christmas-Epiphany, Lent, Easter, and Pentecost-Trinity. Included in the program are "O Magum Mysterium," "I Wonder As I Wander," "King Jesus Is A-Listening," "Prayer to Jesus," "Salvation Is Created," "Give Thanks Unto the Lord," and others.

The tour will continue as follows:

April 2, p. m.—Martinsburg, W. Va.
April 3, p. m.—Tuscora, W. Va.
April 3, p. m.—Martinsburg, W. Va.
April 4, p. m.—Washington, D. C.
April 5, p. m.—Norfolk, Va.
April 3, a. m.—Tuscora, W. Va.
April 7, p. m.—Central Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C.

Members of the choir are: Karen Bremer, Ann Fadeley, Lois Keil, Betty Jo Large, Livey Lattimore, Tana Page, Gloria Porter, Anne Rooney, Becky Stevens, Cissy Talbert, Gaye Theus, Beck Truesdell, Nancy Alexander, Helyn Asbury, Connie Bush, Katrina Compton, Helen Moore, Angie Reyes, Pat Riddle, and Ellen Stewart.

Also, Sam Hobson, Sam Lipsey, Russ McAllister, Dickie Query, Walter Shepard, Ken Terrell, Danny Brown, Ray Combs, Floyd Harper, Tim Helgeson, Jim Murchison, Rick Patrick, Hunter Ramseur, Earlie Rash, David Templeton, and Richard Waters.

Second Run-Off Fails To Elect SCA President

BY RUSH OTEY

In the second run-off election for SCA President which was held today, no candidate received a majority of votes cast. The totals were as follows: Baker Bedsole, of Columbus, Ga., 96; Miks McGehee, of Marianna, Fla., 170; and Monk Milligan, of Atlanta, Ga., 131.

Student Council President Henry Lovett said that the date for a third run-off election has not been agreed upon. Students will be informed of the date when they return from spring holidays.

Assisting the new SCA President will be: Johnny McCallum of Jackson, Miss., as Vice-President; Johnny Walther of Virginia Beach, Va., as Treasurer; and Dianne Adams of Simpsonville, S. C., as Secretary.

Wednesday's voting gave no majority of votes cast to any of the Presidential candidates. Max (Monk) Milligan, III, polled 185 votes, followed by Mike McGehee with 156, Earlie Rash with 17, and Rufus Roland with 12 write-in votes.

A run-off was held Thursday between Milligan and McGehee, but again no majority of votes for either candidate. McGehee polled 142 votes, compared with 116 for Milligan. Roland's die-hard supporters refused to admit defeat and cast 77 votes for him. The Student Council announced Thursday afternoon that only write-in votes for candidates with qualifications so stated in the Student Body Constitution would be counted in today's election.

McCallum Walther and Adams won their positions by polling a majority of the 370 votes cast in Wednesday's election. McCallum defeated Dan Montgomery by receiving 219 votes. Walther received 259 votes for Treasurer and defeated Mavis Harrop. Diane Adams polled 243 votes in the race for Secretary, winning over Kit Caldwell.

Student Council Makes Proposals

The Student Council has submitted two proposals to the faculty and the administration for their consideration.

The council recommended in a proposal addressed to the faculty that members of the student body be allowed to serve on two faculty committees: the Religious Activities Committee and the Student Activities Committee. The faculty would determine the number of students to serve on each committee. The Student Council would appoint these students, subject to the approval of the faculty committee involved. These students would attend all committee meetings and would serve in a non-voting capacity.

In a second proposal addressed to Col. Thackston, Dean of Students, the council requested "that students of Presbyterian College who are married and whose mate does not attend school here be given an extra student athletic card bearing the name of his marriage partner."

To date, there has been no notification of the acceptance or rejection of the proposal regarding students on faculty committees. However, action has been taken on the second proposal and provision will be made for it in next year's Knapsack.

KKK Visit Launches Campus Discussion

An organized campus bull session, led by John Weigel with invited guest Dr. Burnside of the History Department, discussed the objectives and views of the Ku Klux Klan. The talk-over was spurred by a visit of the Klan to Clinton last Saturday.

Dr. Burnside gave a short history of the Klan, pointing out its negative outlook. Also, he explained that the groups of people which the Klansmen opposed depended upon the region of the Country. In the North, Greeks, Jews, and Catholics were the chosen group, but in the South the Negroes received the Klan's wrath.

The Fiery Cross, the KKK newspaper, and pamphlets on the organization were viewed noting the Klan's ideals were good on paper but like Communism, could they work in reality?

Donation Drive Set For Monday, April 25

Presbyterian College will sponsor a blood donation drive Monday, April 25, from 10:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. This drive is in response to a desire, made known by the student body to the administration last December, to contribute blood in support of the U. S. commitment in Viet Nam.

The PC quota is set at 100 pints. Dillard Boland Jewelers will present a trophy to the group or organization which donates the most blood.

In a meeting this past Tuesday, March 22, two representatives of the American Red Cross outlined a possible procedure for obtaining this blood. Anyone between the ages of 18 and 59 is eligible to donate blood. However, anyone between the ages of 18 and 21 must secure his parent's or guardian's consent before making a donation.

The need for whole blood at the present time is quite pressing. Aside from the fact that one out of 80 persons needs a transfusion every year or one pint is needed every ten minutes, the war in Viet Nam is creating a need for even more blood.

It was advised that those students who are under 21 secure a registration blank and complete it during the upcoming spring holidays.

Strom Thurmond

'Freedom Must Be Kept At All Cost'

J. Strom Thurmond, the senior U. S. Senator from South Carolina, in his address to the Presbyterian College student body Friday, March 18, stressed the fact that the "states created the union and gave Washington its power." He defined himself as a conservative in the sense that being a conservative is the same as "believing in the Constitution." Thurmond emphasized that this belief does not omit progress, but it provides for progress only at the "appropriate government level."

"Freedom, next to God, is our most precious word." This freedom, according to Thurmond, is being destroyed by our federal government as it spreads its influence into areas in which it is not directly specified by the Constitution to take action. Thurmond stated that "a powerful bureaucracy brings tyranny" and that the American government should follow the Constitution, which can be amended if the need so arises.

The Viet Nam war is, according to Thurmond, another "Communist step toward world domination." Peace to the Communists, he asserted, is "when they have taken over the world."

Thurmond listed three alternatives or courses which might be taken in the U. S. prosecution of the Viet Nam war—withdrawal, escalation of the war in response to Vietnamese tactics, or the use of U. S. air and sea power to the fullest.

Thurmond favors the last proposal, that of using our air and sea power. He feels that there is public support for action of this type. As for the possibility of bringing Red China into the conflict, Thurmond asserted that a military build-up is more likely to cause this. "Even if Red China did come in, we have the power to destroy her," said the Senator.

The consequences of withdrawal would be, Thurmond believes, the downfall of all of Southeast Asia to Communism; taken to its extreme conclusion, SEE THURMOND P. 4, Col. 2

Photo by Howard

Senator Thurmond: "Freedom, next to God, is our most precious word."

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

WM. W. HALL, JR. Editor — CHARLES EAGLES Mng. Editor — JOS. B. STEPHENS Bus. Mgr.

Blue Stocking Discusses 'New Left'

Although The Blue Stocking welcomes the submissions of letters and guest editorials, it does believe itself to be under an obligation to voice its opinion on or to answer such letters or guest editorials published by it which are not necessarily in agreement with the views of the editor or his staff.

Such an editorial was the guest editorial of the March 11 issue entitled "The 'New Left' and the PC Faculty."

The Blue Stocking admits that within the past few weeks or even months there has been a surge of leftist or liberal activity on the campuses of schools and colleges across our nation.

But as to the statement that a "large segment" of our population is involved in these movements which question, among other things the U. S. commitment in Viet Nam and other government policies, The Blue Stocking contends that as large or even a larger segment of our population favors our war policy in Viet Nam. An examination of such events as "Affirmation Viet Nam" day held in Atlanta lends its support here.

These radicals or liberals, as they were referred to in the guest editorial, seem to be under the impression that they are the only ones with legitimate enough gripes to protest or agitate for reform or change. But one must consider the counterpart of this group—those protesting against the steady "diet of liberalism" which has been fed them during the last few weeks and months. Again "Affirmation Viet Nam" serves as an example of the latter group's movements and demonstrations .

One subject of controversy which was discussed in the guest editorial was the procedure involved in securing certain nationally-known spakers for our required chapels. The speakers referred to seem to be in the "limelight" of publicity today. Of particular note is the refusal of the college to formally extend an invitation to one Thomas J. J. Altizer, author of the contemporary version of the "God Is Dead" philosophy.

It must be admitted by all that not every gimmick is worthy of a "drop-everything-and-follow me" attitude. Any theory or belief must undergo a testing period in an effort to discoved any fallacies which it might contain.

Not everyone is in agreement or is actually able to understand or even put into words what Altizer is saying. The Blue Stocking cites two publications in support of this fact: The Georgia State College Signal states in an editorial of its February 17 issue that "Altizer's theories are inconsistent." The Atlanta Constitution of about the same date notes a similar fallacy.

The Blue Stocking has made investigation and has learned that whatever the reasons were for the refusal to extend an invitation they were not economic, i.e. relating to the fear of losing support for the school. We also consider the criticizing of the President of Presbyterian College in this editorial in bad taste.

The Blue Stocking does not profess to be an authority on theology, but it can see possible justification in the refusal to extend an invitation to Altizer for the abovecited reason of inconsistency and other fallacies which theologians have expressed. A doctrine must be refined and tested before it is submitted to the public as general knowledge. Not every unorthodox opinion is worthy of "academic recognition." In other words, it was not in the best interests of the school to issue an invitation.

To our way of thinking, any time when it is not an honor to have the Army Chief of Staff speak on the Presbyterian College campus, then we need to re-examine our standards and our patriotism.

The standing ovation which the student body gave U. S. Senator Strom Thurmond in chapel last Friday was spontaneous and was not necessarily aimed at the man himself, but at the office which he holds. There are 100 senators, and South Carolina claims only two. It was an honor to hear Thurmond speak, just as it will be an honor to hear General Johnson speak.

In the conclusion of the guest editorial, a definition of "liberal" was expressed. Webster defines the word rather broadly, but the editorial restricted this definition to a follower of the "New Left." "Liberal" includes a variety, not just those who voice any new or controversial opinions.

Strictly Conservative

This poem dose not necessarily reflect the views of the editor.

On an oak tree near a spring,
A flock of bluebirds nest and sing.
In all the time they've roosted there,
A single tune has filled the air.

A goldfinch, once, who'd perched to rest,
Decided there to build his nest.
When first he sang his different note,
Bluebird claws wrapped 'round his throat

They guard their tree both night and day,
And drive the other birds away.
All those who sing in other key
Must ne'er go near the bluebird tree.

Name withheld upon request.

Supporting Staff

News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardie.
Copy Staff ..... Jack Murphy, Rob Dalton

Letters Policy

The Blue Stocking welcomes letters to the editor from any of its readers, either in support of or differing with its policies. Letters should be typewritten, double-spaced, and should not exceed 250 words.

The letters should be in The Blue Stocking room in Douglas House by 8:00 p. m. on Wednesday.

The Blue Stocking reserves the right to edit all letters printed.

BROADWAY Theatre
MARCH 25-26
"THE HEROES OF TELEMARK"
Kirk Douglas, Richard Harris

Letter to the Editor

Hay and 'Death of God'

Dear Editor:

The sermon by Dr. Hay on Wednesday had to be the best ever given by anybody at this institution. The clearness with which he explained Thomas Altizer's concept "Death of God" was excellent and very interesting.

The interest of the topic and the speaker was evident in the fact that several people from Clinton were present, so many in fact that they caused some of the faculty to spill over into the students' sections.

Many students as well as myself had heard of the "God Is Dead" idea but really did not know how to feel about it since we did not understand it. Dr. Hay's sermon should have cleared all thinking on this matter. In the light of the explanation, the "God Is Dead" theory is not so bad after all, is it? Most of us find that we have believed this all along.

As long as I have been a member of this institution, Dr. Hay has spoken in chapel only one or two times a year. Why? Is it because someone wants to protect all those souls who are not fortunate enough to attend his classes, or is it because someone is worried that the people around here will stop giving money to the school, which they have generously supported?

In the search for interesting speakers in the theological field who are not afraid to say what they believe, here is one on our own campus! I for one would like to see more chapel services by this professor. After all, it is only a few, a very few speakers who cause an impact great enough to start PC students talking about him and what he says, and how many chapel speakers do you know of that cause such comments from students as "Dr. Hay is going to speak in chapel today, I'm going to make sure I don't miss this one"? Not too many.

Yours Very Truly,
Buddy Guy

The New, New Testament

BY RICHARD STONE
The Collegiate Press Service

Ted Sorensen, the late President Kennedy's aide and now political biographer, wrote in his final chapter of Kennedy": "Even though he was himself almost a legendary figure in life, Kennedy was a constant critic of the myth, and it would be an ironic twist of fate if his martyrdom should now make a myth of a mortal man."

But what with the secular religion that has grown tenaciously around his memory (one makes the pilgrimage to Arlington, buys graven images, and reads books of the Apocrypha, like "A Day in the Life of President Kennedy") it is hard to see how Sorensen's book, or Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln's "My Twelve Years With John F. Kennedy," or Arthur Schlesinger's "A Thousand Days," or Pierre Salinger's forthcoming work will shoo away the faithful.

No doubt these memoirs will be read in the same devotional spirit as the way in which one who prefer the myth to the man, reads the Gospels. And for those I have rendered passages from three of the Gospels to make your spiritual reading easier.

ACCORDING TO ST. LINCOLN

Patrick of Kilkenny begat Patrick of Boston; and Patrick J. begat Joseph of Hyannis; and Joseph begat Jack, who is called Kennedy and he was the second-born. And Jack went down into Deceia, which is upon the Potomac, in the borders of Marylandia and Virginia.

And Jack, walking by the river of Deceia, saw two brethren, Ted called Sorensen, and Eveleyn called Lincoln, casting stones into the sea.

And he said unto them, Follow me, and I will make you servants of mine office.

And they straightway left their stones, and followed him; for they were unemployed.

From that time Jack went about all Deceia, voting in its Capitol, and sitting upon its councils, and porkbarreling its bills.

When, behold, his fame was told throughout the land, that is to say: he was a young and exceeding handsome man. But he was possessed by a great lonelliness.

And Jack spake unto himself and saith, Whence cometh this affliction: and forthwith cast it out saying, The damsel Jacqueline shall appear before me; and he telephoned her and saith Wouldst thou take in a double-feature?

And it came to pass that Jacqueline was betrothed unto Jack, him which was called Tribune, and he took her to wife.

ACCORDING TO ST. SORENSEN

Now in the fourteenth year of his office, and being full with ambition, Jack went forth into the wilderness; and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about.

And he campaigned in their cities, being desirous of all and preaching the Row called B, which men shall know by the sign of the donkey.

But the devil came unto Jack in the guise of a hairy man, which is called Nixon, and tempted him; Jack wrestled with the Devil for forty days and forty nights; and cried unto him.

Begone, thou Nixon, for it is said, Thou shalt not tempt me.

And when the Devil had ended all the temptation, Jack returned in his power into the city of Deceia; and the multitude fell at his knees crying, Hail to the Chief.

For they had delivered unto him great and wonderous gifts, that is to say, early returns from Ohio and Connecticut.

And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power to advise and to deliberate.

Now the names of the twelve apostles are these: the first, Rusk, who is called Dean, and McNamara of Ford; Stewart and Ribicoff whose given name was Abe; Luther and C. Douglas; Orville and J. Edward; Arthur and Adlai the wise; Lyndon and Bobby the brother.

ACCORDING TO ST. SCHLESINGER

In those days the multitude being full of confusion, there arose a wrath against the isle of Cubana; and soldiers walked Cubana, for in thine iniquity the land crying, Woe unto thee, shalt thou be torn asunder.

And the warriors came unto Jack and said, Lo, for we shall rise up and crush the Devil, as a dog doeth his fleas for it is written.

And Jack saith, No, for I have wrestled with the Devil

SEE TESTAMENT P. 1, Col. 1

Bill Bassham

CC Eligibility Rule

In the past year there have arisen some problems with the Carolinas Conference eligibility rule and some PC athletes. At the request of Presbyterian College Athletic Director Cally Gault I am going to explain this rule.

The eligibility rule comes from Article VIII, Section of the Conference rules book. It states:

BILL

"Any person is eligible to participate in intercollegiate athletics in this conference who is a regular student of the institution which he represents with an entrance qualification of 15 units or its equivalent; and shall have passed nine semester hours of regular college work during the last two semesters he was in college and 24 semester hours of regular college work during the last two semesters he was in college, provided such 24 semester hours shall have been obtained within a period of not more than 12 calendar months.

"Freshmen students must have passed 12 hours in their first term of attendance, and it shall be understood that the total of 24 hours is an average of 12 hours earned during the two immediately preceding semesters and does not stipulate the number of hours that need be earned in either term, other than the regular nine-hour rule.

"Summer school shall count as regular work up to one semester hour's credit per week. A college student may obtain credit in any regular recognized summer school."

I hope that this clears up any misunderstanding, so we won't lose any more athletes when it can be avoided.

Tennis Courtesy

Coach Jim Shakespeare also asked for me to remind students about tennis courtesy while watching matches. No one cares for an inconsiderate crowd of spectators. Ask the boys who took part in the state match last year.

The crowd is only supposed to applaud when one of our boys makes a good shot, not when a visiting player makes a bad play. At no times should a visiting team be laughed or jeered at. The spectators should be quiet during the matches.

Let's show visiting teams some of the courtesy which we would like to receive when away from Clinton. This will be especially important during the state tournament to be played here April 11 and 12.

Congratulations to Coach Joe Nixon and his cinderman for bringing PC its first track victory in quite some time. It surely felt good to win for a change.

Student Support

The spring sports are in full swing now with golf, tennis, and track all winning. The baseball team has been playing well against rough opponents. So let's all get out and support PC on these pretty spring afternoons.

Netmen Face Tough Spring Slate; Little Four G-Men Meet Big Ten

BY MIKE SIMONS

The Blue Hose netters have been highly successful thus far this season, compiling a 3-1 season's record. Their only loss was a surprisingly close setback at the hands of defending state champions Clemson, 5-4. This match was highlighted by the return battle between PC's Bob Harris and Clemson's Rulfi Rahim, a Davis Cupper from Pakistan. These two men met for the state singles' championship last year with Harris emerging as the victor. Harris emerged victorious again this time, taking a spine-tingling 6-2, 5-7, 6-4 verdict after having been down 3-0 in the third and decisive set.

Pete Collins, who has moved up from the number three position he played last season, is showing that he can also play the second position quite adequately.

After a few early setbacks, number three man Larry Connelly has come on strong to capture two straight matches, while teaming with Harris in the number one doubles spot. Harris and Connelly have yet to lose in doubles this season.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the young tennis season has been the outstanding play of Robbie Hibbits. Displaying a blazing service, Hibbits has won three of four matches as the number four netter for the Hose.

Doug Haynie is holding down the number five singles position and has been experiencing slight difficulty, but he should improve rapidly as the season progresses.

Hart Cobb gives the Hose a steady number six man, and should get tougher as he plays in more matches over the long season.

The Hose will find considerably rougher sledding during their spring tour; and may find winning more difficult. They lead off the formidable holiday schedule with an encounter against Walter Johnson and Georgia Tech squad, which should be highly ranked in the national ratings this season.

The Hose then travel to Athens for a rough bout with the University of Georgia netters, headed by steady-playing Henry Fidding.

They then journey back to Atlanta to take on a strong University of Indiana squad, whose number one man, Dave Power, is ranked 28th nationally in men's singles. The Indiana netter finished second in the Big Ten last season.

The Hose wind up their spring tour in Gainesville, Fla., with a match with University of Florida netmen. Immediately after the holidays, the Blue Hose play host for two matches with Ivy League power Harvard.

While the Hose netters are on tour, the highly successful PC golf team will be practicing up for several rough matches after the break. The Hose linksmen are still undefeated and untied in three starts.

After an impressive victory in the season's opener against defending state champion Wofford, the Hose golfers have added two more wins.

The next match for the Blue Hose linksmen comes tomorrow when the Little Four meets head-on with the Big Ten, when Big Ten power Illinois journeys to Clinton. Following this match, the Hose travel to Athens to take on SEC power Georgia.

The Blue Hose have two more three-team matches before going to Hampton on April 15 to begin their quest for the highly-coveted state crown. Many observers feel that this is the year of the Hose, and the Blues stand a good chance of bringing the championship trophy with them to Clinton when they return from the state meet.

Photo by Hart

ROBBIE HIBBITS scoops up the ball for the Blue Rackets against Amherst College.

Batmen Have Yet To Enter Win Column

PC's baseball team will have two more chances to break into the winning column this week with games against High Point and Pheiffer. Thus far in the season the Blue Hose are 0-5.

The problem for the baseball team has been poor hitting and weak pitching. In the two losses this week to Erskine and Lenoir Rhyne, PC pitching gave up 22 runs while scoring only four.

The Blue Hose have been led by the hitting of senior outfielder Jimmy Elliott. Steady-hitting Wade Stewart and freshman Dan Eckstein round out the outfield.

The infield features four freshmen. First base has been recently taken over by Rad Free. The double play combination is made up of Tommy Lovett and Charles Chapman. Robert Hackle is holding down third base.

Mike Thurston has been handling the catching chores with George Lindsay, Paul Ferguson, and Sammy Pruett doing the pitching. Returning pitcher Rick Corley has been bothered by a sore arm.

One bright spot for the Blue Hose has been the managing of Randall "Flowers" Caldwell.

Thinclads Take Appalachian 86-50; Allen, Eckstein Win Three Events

The PC track team, led by Doug Allen and Dan Eckstein, won its first meet in more than two years with an 86-50 win over Appalachian. PC captured 12 of 16 first places to run away with the meet.

Allen had a first in the shot put and high jump and a second in the javelin. Eckstein had firsts in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and ran a leg in the winning 440 yard relay.

Shot—Allen (PC), 41'6½"; High Jump—Allen (PC), 5'10"; Broad Jump—Austin (A), 20'1⅛"; Javelin—Lamerux (A), 167'5½"; Pole Vault—Louis (A), 12'3"; Discus—Meeker (PC), 120'3⅜"; 440 Relay—PC, :45.5; Mile—Manley (PC), 4:54.8; 440—Mc-Waters (PC), 16.8; 880—Chalen (PC), 2:04.6; 220—Eckstein (PC), :23.5; 330 Intermediate Hurdles—Mayhew (A), :41.4; Two Mile—Ellis (PC), 19:36.1; Mile Relay—(PC), 3:34.5.

Photo by Hart

MIKE MEEKER hurls the Discus as PC's trackmen trounce Appalachian State Mountaineers.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

The Greeks

JIMMY HUMPHRIES
GREEK EDITOR

The Sigma Nu Fraternity initiated eleven new men into their brotherhood Tuesday night: Don O'Connell, Gilmer Nix, John Walther, Steve Albright, Glen Barlow, Bill Buckheit, Jim Cassady, Hart Cobb, Carl Conant, Jule Hedden, John Lown. Gordon Adam is pinned to Miss Shirley Ester of Joanna.

The Theta Chi Fraternity elected the following men as new officers: Baker Bedsole, President; Jerry Mebane, Vice-President; Gordan Wilson, Secretary; Richard Galloway, Treasurer; Jim Murchison, Marshall; and John Weigel, Chaplain. The Theta Chi's plan five straight party weekends starting after Spring holidays.

The Kappa Alpha Order had its annual Old South Ball in Augusta, Ga., this past weekend. Friday night the Sharecropper Shindig was held, Saturday afternoon Secession Ceremony and the Mint Julep Party, Saturday night the Old South Ball, and Sunday morning the Bermuda Party. Mr. Kenneth Baker from PC was there and in fine style. Rick Rhame and Mike Smith led the Secessions from the Union with fine speeches during the Secession Ceremony. The bands throughout the weekend were the Delacardos, the Sabers, and the Rivieras.

The Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity has pledged Don Adams from Union. Jim Bruce is lavaliered to Miss Anne McGregor of Winthrop College. There will be a beach party at the home of Mike McGehee in Panama City during the Spring Holidays.

From the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, Charlie Roland is lavaliered to Miss Ann Boykin of Columbia College.

The Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity has initiated two men into their brotherhood: Tommy Barnett and David Templeton. Brothers of the Week are Andy Barnett and Tommy McPhail.

TESTAMENT cont. from Page 2

and he abideth in California; and as for the dog, him which is called Checkers, he abideth with him.

But the soldiers were sorely vexed and said unto Jack, Behold, for we have devised a plan.

And Jack harkened unto them; for he was not a soldier.

An it came to pass that an army was raised, and the army went forth and was defeated; and men named it the Bay of Swine.

And the multitude when they heard these things, they were cut to the heart and unto Jack they gnashed their teeth and made a wrathful cry.

For the soldiers had lent false council, and they betrayed him.

For the soldiers had lent false hardness of their hearts: and chied in a loud voice, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?

And Jacqueline took him down and wrapped him in her arms; and he wept.

THURMOND cont. from Page 1

it would mean an eventual expansion of Communism possibly as far as Hawaii, provided that Communism will spread in the future as it has been spreading for the last 20 years.

Regarding domestic affairs, Thurmond heartily endorsed the retention of Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the states to pass right-to-work laws outlawing the compulsory union shop. "Why should a man join a union in order to work?"

Thurmond, in conclusion, stated that equality of opportunity before the law is good, but equality of people is not practical. On these grounds he criticized the Poverty Program of the Democratic Administration stating that taking from the rich and giving to the poor has made a few teenagers richer than college professors.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

Campus News Briefs

Student Loans May Be Stopped

Nearly eighty Presbyterian College students receive financial aid under the National Student Defense Loan Program. Funds for this activity have not been included in the Budget now before Congress. The program, therefore, is expected to end on June 31, 1966.

To take the place of the National Defense Loan Program, an interest-free bank loan program has been proposed. This program would provide interest-free loans for any student in good standing whose family income is less than $15,000. No other economic requirements are to be considered in granting these loans. All such loans would be handled by a bank with a government guarantee for the repayment of these loans.

If the proposed program is not approved, G. Edward Campbell said that the college would have some funds available to help the affected students.

Summer School

The office of Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, Academic Dean, has announced the dates for the 1966 session of Summer School. The first session will begin on May 30 and last until July 8, and the second session lasts from July 8 through August 16. Brochures on courses offered and other information will be available within the next two or three weeks.

Jim Bell

Jim Bell, a PC Junior majoring chemistry, has received an appointment as a Summer Trainee at Oak Ridge Laboratories in Oak Ridge, Tenn. Bell will work for ten weeks in the Analytical Chemistry Division. He received his appointment by competing with other science majors throughout the South.

Math Meeting

Members of the PC mathematics staff and several students will attend the annual meeting of the Southeastern Section of the Mathematical Association of America at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., Friday and Saturday, March 25-26.

The two-day meeting will feature two invited lecturers as well as numerous papers to be presented by men from schools over the Southeast.

Those professors attending will be Mr. Cannon, Mr. Mann, and Dr. Maddox. Amelia Nichols, Jim Bankhead, Paula Evans and Charles Fountain, all math majors at PC, will also attend.

Stay Off The Grass!

Mr. Campbell issued the following statement:

We are going to try and improve the looks of our campus. This will involve establishing grass in areas that do not have grass now, and also improving the grass in other areas. It is a slow and gradual process at best. It is discouraging to Mr. Beaty and his crew to have the students walk on the grass when frequently a sidewalk would be just as easy to use.

Any suggestions that you could give us on this matter of stimulating campus pride would be appreciated. We spend considerable funds picking up trash that could be put into receptacles that are furnished. All of us are careless in this matter. Your help will be appreciated. Thank you kindly.

Chapel Schedule

Monday—Student Body Meeting.

Wednesday—Convocation, Mr. Ulrico Schettini.

Friday—Good Friday Service, The Rev. Richard L. Morgan, Presbyterian College.

Carter and Stump

Dr. K. Nolon Carter and Dr. Alex Stump of the PC Chemistry and Biology Departments are currently serving on the Undergraduate Education Advisory Panel of the National Science Foundation. The panel, which met in February in Atlanta, is concerned with making recommendations as to grants being awarded to various colleges and universities for the betterment of their respective science departments.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

See Coach Shakespeare for Tennis Equipment

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

Need Stationery? See Jack Murphy For Personalized, Fraternity and All Type Writing Paper

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C. ,Friday, April 8, 1966 No. 17

ULRICHO SCHETTINI explains as he works on his mural in Douglas House Lobby. The artist came to Presbyterian not only to paint but to explain his work and methods to the students. Photos by Hart

Lecturing Artist

Schettini Paints Mural for Campus

Internationally known muralist Ulrico Schettini visited the Presbyterian College campus throughout this week, lecturing on his art form and executing a mural that will remain in the possession of the college.

On this past Wednesday, he gave a public lecture, illustrated by color slides, on the subject "Aspects of Rome through the Centuries, from Prints and Photographs."

Schettini appeared at PC as the 1966 Newton G. Hardie Memorial Lecturer while on a ten-week tour of campuses in all parts of the United States. An Italian in his early 30's, he abandoned legal studies at 16 to dedicate himself completely to his art. He studied in Paris under a French Government Scholarship in 1957, a year later returned to Rome under the first Roberto Fasola Scholarship and then took up residence in London as the best environment of his work.

The young artist began a new series of 100 drawings called "Letters for an Ideal Alphabet" in 1958, and his progress toward recognition was accelerated by three group shows in Italy. Since then, he has shown in galleries at London and Newcastle, Paris, and at the Contemporary Art Society in Sydney, Australia. He has shown for the first time in America in the exhibition "Trends in Watercolor Today" at Brokiyn Museum. In addition to these showings, he has executed commissions in fresco, tempera, and encaustic for several public and private buildings.

In addition to hearing Schettini lecture, Presbyterian College students had the opportunity to follow his work process as he executed the special mural for PC. The artist also held an informal conversation on the composition of images and the theory of ornamental colors in Richardson Science Hall.

Council Submits Rules; Non-Greeks Organize

By RUSH OTEY

The Student Council is currently working in several areas concerning all PC students.

The Student Body Constitution has undergone a complete revision and is currently in the hands of the School Administrative Staff for discussion, reproof, and consideration. Student Body President Lovett stated, "The Student Council is working diligently to get the new Constitution into effect before the upcoming Student Council elections so that these elections may be governed by the new set of election rules. We hope that the Constitution will be in its final form by the end of this month."

The drive for an organization of independents on campus is still in full swing. In a meeting of independents held before the holidays, approximately 100 independents indicated they were interested in such an organization.

A committee of seven members headed by Paul Ferguson was elected to consider the aims and purposes of the organization. Recommendations of this committee will be presented to all independent students at a later date. The Student Council hopes that some type of organization will be instituted by the end of this school year in order that a foundation may be laid for the 1966-67 academic year.

A Student Council Committee headed by Bill Bucheit is considering a school-wide project to raise funds for the furnishing of the Douglas House meeting room. The Student Council is presently planning to give $75 toward this endeavor and hopes that funds from the school-wide project will at least equal this amount.

There will be three more campus movies this semester. Because of the high cost of living, admission will be increased to 35c per person. Upcoming features will be "Lover Come Back", in color on April 13; "Advice and Consent" in black and White on April 20; and a movie to be announced on April 28.

Constitution By-law Voids SCA Election

After two futile run-off elections, the 1966-67 SCA President may be elected next week.

According to Student Body President Lovett, nominees Monk Milligan and Mike McGehee have withdrawn from the election. The SCA Cabinet will meet at the beginning of next week to nominate a new slate of candidates. The new nominees will run in another election to be held next week at a date yet undecided.

The Student Council has passed a by-law since the recent run-offs stating that write-in votes will not be counted in any future run-off elections. This does not exclude write-in votes during general elections. In the event that any candidate does not receive a majority of votes cast in a general election, the two candidates with the greatest number of votes will compete in a run-off election. Only votes for those two candidates will be considered valid during a run-off. All other votes will be disqualified.

Annual ROTC Inspection Brings Praise To Military

The annual ROTC Federal Inspection was held April 6 and 7, and resulted in praise for all phases of the ROTC program at PC. The inspection team was headed by Colonel Robert F. Bayard from Headquarters, XVIII Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Military Science I, II, III, and IV classes were observed by the inspection team on Wednesday, April 6, and Military Science II classes were subject to inspection on Thursday.

The inspecting officers attended a briefing led by Battalion Commander Roy Wright on Wednesday afternoon. Subjects included in the briefing were the history of the cadet corps, number of cadets in the ROTC program, training received by cadets, and the various awards and decorations which are presented each year. Following the briefing the Military Department's facilities, supplies, and administration were inspected.

Thursday afternoon there was the annual in-ranks inspection. Cadets were inspected on general appearance, inspection, and appearance, precision, and alertness. Squads and platoons were required to perform their various maneuvers.

The inspection was followed by a formal review held on Johnson Field, thus completing the ordeal for PC cadets.

'66 Frosh Indicate Rising PC Standards

Progress in the upgrading of admissions standards at Presbyterian College is evidenced by the College Board scores of entering classes. A comparison of mean scores over the past four years is listed below. Also included are the averages for the incoming 1966 freshman group, now completed with students with $100 deposits.

	1963	1964	1965	1966
Verbal:	452	466	480	523
Math	490	505	505	555

In view of the recent move toward full coeducation, a more detailed view of entering class averages for 1965 and 1966 shows:

Men	1965	1966
Verbal:	478	509
Math:	515	559
Women
Verbal	488	554
Math	474	544

Sports Feature
Page Four

Weldon Will Head '67 PaC SaC; Run-off Needed for Business Mgr.

By ROB DALTON

Hugh (Skip) Weldon was elected without opposition as the Editor of the PC yearbook, The PaC SaC. Weldon will succeed Tom Leland who headed the publication this year.

In the race for Business Manager Roy Squires and Morrow Thompson topped Rick Carpenter for places on the run-off ballot. The run-off is necessary since none of the candidates received a majority of the votes cast. Thompson recieved 100 votes, Squires polled 83 and Carpenter took 60.

The run-off candidates for Business Manager are both rising seniors. Squires is a KA from Macon, and Thompson, a Van Wyck native, is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. Editor Weldon is a junior from Columbia and belongs to Kappa Alpha Order.

The run-off election for Business Manager will be held at the same time as the general election for the SCA president. Student Council President Henry Lovett remarked that the exact date for the election had not yet been set.

This year only 38% of the student body voted in the PaC SaC election compared to the 50% that voted last year.

SKIP WELDON, newly elected PaC SaC Editor, receives the office keys from outgoing Editor Tom Leland. Photo by Hart

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr.
Editor

Jos. B. Stevens
Business Mgr.

Limited Parking Now Even More Restricted

Presbyterian College students must have noticed the addition of new or revised regulations regarding campus automobile parking facilities.

One side of the parking area between the Douglas House and Bailey Hall has been restricted to faculty parking exclusively. Upon their return to school after the spring holidays, students found that the entire parking area immediately to the rear of Neville Hall has also been restricted to the "faculty and staff" exclusively. These regulations are depriving students of the use of the limited parking space which is available on the campus at the present time.

The dormitory parking facilities available at the present time are fast becoming insufficient to accommodate the number of registered cars on campus, much less the cars which day students drive to class. Trying to find a parking place in one of these areas anytime between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 1:00 p. m. on weekdays will testify to this fact. Specific instances or examples might include the Smyth, Laurens, or Bailey parking areas.

Not only are those parking facilities that are available limited, but their physical condition itself leaves much to be desired. The ruts and holes in these areas have been known to help tear up a tire or loosen a shock absorber.

Compulsory School

In 1955 the South Carolina state legislature repealed its Compulsory Education law thus making it, along with Mississippi, one of the only two states in the union which do not have such laws.

Attempts have been made within the past two years to reinstate the Compulsory Attendance law, but due to the efforts of such old standards as Speaker of the House, Sol Blatt of Barnwell County, these efforts have been largely in vain.

A few weeks ago Mr. Blatt again intervened in another attempt to block this type of legislation. This time he appealed to the emotions of the members of the House. One issue which he always resorted to is that with compulsory attendance naturally comes desegregation of the school system. Barnwell County has a sizable Negro population.

Some legislators remarked that if the law were passed Barnwell County would certainly be exempt. But one exemption leads to another, and a law which allows exemptions loses its effectiveness. As a result, the law was passed, and 14 counties were excluded.

There is a definite need for a compulsory school law. South Carolina is near the bottom of the rank in many of its educational programs. Something needs to be done to raise the state education standards. A step in the right direction would be the passage of a Compulsory Attendance law to help alleviate the school drop-out problem.

It hurts a state and its people when those in power thwart efforts to help the state because of their own selfish interests and beliefs. A compulsory school attendance law is essential in order that education standards might be raised, and Scuth Carolinians might look to a more prosperous tomorrow.

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Assistant Copy Editors ..... Jack Murphy, Jim Brewer, Rob Dalton
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardie.
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Real People

In August, at the meeting hall
The people held a costume ball
Each wore a mask upon his face
And clothed himself in colored lace.

They stood in groups of three or four
And tapped their feet upon the floor,
And crossed their arms and blinked their eyes,
And from their mouths came practiced lies.

When the sticky, heated air
Demanded more than he could bear,
One of them slipped his black mask down
And bared his face from chin to crown.

And when they saw his naked face,
They seized and dragged him from the place,
And turned and barred the heavy door,
And shook their heads and crossed the floor.

—Don McNair

Dipsy-Doodle Test

To Check Your Observations

By Frank Cooper, Robert Elrod, and Kent Mitchell

(Editor's Note: The following article is rperinted from the March 20, 1964, issue of The Blue Stocking with certain variations made.)

This test has been prepared by several members of the student body to test the genius of PC students. To avoid wild guessing you should remember that all wrong answers count 45 points off. All right answers count ½ point. There is a score range of -900 to a possible plus 8. Anything below 0 is failing. One, some, or all of the suggested answers to a question could be correct.

1. In order to study the immediate effects of inflation, one should consult:
The PC Canteen
The American Economy, by Harris.
The Communist Manifesto

2. Where would you rather pay $1,800 to go to school?
Yale
Harvard
Presbyterian

3. How can you get a quart of milk a day?
Own a cow
Work on a dairy
Eat in the dining hall

4. Where would you rather take your parents to eat?
Stork Club
Waldorf Astoria
Greenville Dining Hall

5. Your best possible alternative in case of a fire on third floor Neville:
Jump
Pray
Parachute
Leap to burning wooden fire escape one story below.

6. When is the best time to pick up your package from the post office?
9:01 to 9:106754 MWF
6:00 to 6:1 TTS
Sunday 11:00 to 12:00

7. What is the best time of day to get sick?
7:00
7:15
Don't

8. What would you rather do?
Study in Bailey
Go blind

9. Which of the following vegetables would you rather have for the next five days?
Rice and corn
Corn and rice
French fries
Mashed potatoes

10. What would you rather do while working for the maintenance department?
Win a checker game
Take a nap
Read a newspaper
Watch "Day in Court" on TV

11. Where are your chances the greatest for waiting in line for a shower?
Second floor Laurens
Laurens second floor
All of the above

12. Which of the following lawn tools could be used in back of Neville?
Ax
Broom
Lawn mower
Drainage system
Seed sower

13. Vetville can be improved by
Dynamite
Tearing it down and building slums
Consulting Johnson's poverty plan.

14. Where is the most logical place to find a polar bear in mid-winter?
North Pole
Siberia
Calvert House
South Pole

15. What is the best transportation from Belk to Bailey during monsoon season?
Flippers
Surf board
Ark
Waders
Snorkle

Movie Review

Those Magnificent Men

"Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," is a film tribute in the form of a comedy valentine, to those daring men the world over who, at the beginnnig of the century, took to the air in the first outlandish flying machines.

The antique aircraft re-created for the film bear little resemblance to present day conceptions of what early airplane design looked like, since that has strongly been influenced by the airplanes flown during the World War I era.

For the large cast of "Those Magnificent Men", 20th Century Fox recruited an imposing roster of internationally famous actors. Miss Irina Denrich portrays six different women, most distinct from one another in character despite the fact that they look alike. Stuart Whitman competes for fame and fortune in the 1910 London to Calais air race as a flamboyant American barnstormer.

Although it is true that "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" is a comedy, it is also true that almost every incident is based on an actual occurrence that took place during the early days of flying. The story, told to insure the maximum amount of fun and entertainment, is nevertheless, most careful not to lessen respect for the pioneers of aviation.

'Lover Come Back' Next Campus Flick

The scene is Madison Avenue where Doris Day and Rock Hudson are accountant executives for rival agencies. When Hudson lands a plush account by using Edie Adams and her "Bunny Girls," Doris Day reports him to his boss Tony Randall. To keep Miss Adams from incriminating him, Hudson makes her the "VIP" in a series of fictitious TV commercials. The plan explodes when Randall mistakenly orders the commercials run. They are a whooping success and Hudson is forced to invent a real product to satisfy the demand. VIP is born—candy mints with the wallop of triple martinis.

William P. Jacobs

One Man's Dream Becomes a Reality

BY KATHI WILLIAMS
Blue Stocking Feature Writer

A ten year old fatherless boy, Willie Anderson, who once heard Dr. William P. Jacobs speak, reached in his pocket and handed Dr. Jacobs 50 cents and told him to "take it and build the home for children." This was the first gift in support of a movement which resulted in the establishment and organization of Thornwell in 1875.

This institution was the ideal and vision of Dr. William P. Jacobs, who prayerfully labored and spent himself in its erection for nearly half a century.

Dr. Jacobs was the founder of both Presbyterian College and Thornwell Orphanage, serving as prsident of both institutions. He served Thornwell as president and father for 43 years until his death in 1917.

The purpose of Thornwell is to provide care and training for dependent children who do not have sufficient means of support without regard for denominations, location, or locality. It is owned, operated and maintained by the Synods of South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida and is controlled by a Board of Trustees elected by these three synods.

As a theological student Dr. Jacobs was a great admirer of his outstanding teacher, Dr. James Henley Thornwell of Columbia Seminary. Because of this friendship and his love for Dr. Thornwell, he decided to name the institution Thornwell Orphanage.

The first building was erected and occupied on October 1, 1875. There were eight children who entered that first day. Within a short time it became evident that another home was needed. A second building, Faith Cottage, was opened in 1880.

Today, the campus buildings and equipment, have a value exceeding two and one-half million dollars. Through wills and direct gifts, an endowment of over one and one-half million dollars has been establishd. A new church, with an educational building and a chapel, is now under construction.

In the very beginning Thornwell adopted the cottage system, i. e., homes presided over by competent Christian women who serve in the same capacity as a mother in a normal average home. Thornwell has more than 20 such cottages, and each houses from 16 to 20 children.

Full-time care is provided for approximately 350 children each year. They are divided into groups and serve in various work departments such as printing, electricity, wood shop, farming, daiying, poultry, hospital, kitchen, office, and dining hall.

Thornwell has a kindergarten, a grammar school, and a high school and holds membership in the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges. A great many of the children attend colleges and universities.

A constant stream of men and women graduates of Thornwell have gone into the school rooms of our various institutions as teachers.

The nursing profession recruits a number of girls from the ranks of Thornwell graduates. A graduate of Thornwell was Superintendnt of Nurses at Grady Hospital in Atlanta, Ga., for 25 years.

Thornwell has graduated more than 35 ministers. One graduate was a professor in the University of Tennessee Medical College, and another is now head of the Department of Zoology at the University of California.

Thornwell was founded and has continued throughout the years for the good of the child.

This home stands as evidence that there are thousands upon thousands of people who believe a child is God's greatest creation and that on him hangs the future of the world.

Thornwell strives to develop each child to his full potential—and sends him forth to serve God and man.

THE ENTRANCE SIGN to Thornwell Orphanage, Presbyterian Home and School for Children, states that the orphanage was founded in 1875.

THE MARY SHANE GRAMMAR SCHOOL WING of the Thornwell school buildings was erected by Miss Ida Shane of Atlanta, Ga.

BERKELE COTTAGE is a home for small boys between the ages of eight and fifteen. It was named in memory of Miss Mamie Berkele's mother of Atlanta, Ga.

FAIRCHILD COTTAGE serves as a home for young girls between the ages of six and eleven years. The Fairchild family is one of many generous friends that have made possible the steady growth and enlargement of the orphanage.

TOM HARTNESS HALL is used as residence home for senior boys. It was built through the generosity and good will of Mrs. T. P. Hartness of Spartanburg.

—Photos by Hart

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr.
Editor

Jos. B. Stevens
Business Mgr.

Limited Parking Now Even More Restricted

Presbyterian College students must have noticed the addition of new or revised regulations regarding campus automobile parking facilities.

One side of the parking area between the Douglas House and Bailey Hall has been restricted to faculty parking exclusively. Upon their return to school after the spring holidays, students found that the entire parking area immediately to the rear of Neville Hall has also been restricted to the "faculty and staff" exclusively. These regulations are depriving students of the use of the limited parking space which is available on the campus at the present time.

The dormitory parking facilities available at the present time are fast becoming insufficient to accommodate the number of registered cars on campus, much less the cars which day students drive to class. Trying to find a parking place in one of these areas anytime between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 1:00 p. m. on weekdays will testify to this fact. Specific instances or examples might include the Smyth, Laurens, or Bailey parking areas.

Not only are those parking facilities that are available limited, but their physical condition itself leaves much to be desired. The ruts and holes in these areas have been known to help tear up a tire or loosen a shock absorber.

Compulsory School

In 1955 the South Carolina state legislature repealed its Compulsory Education law thus making it, along with Mississippi, one of the only two states in the union which do not have such laws.

Attempts have been made within the past two years to reinstate the Compulsory Attendance law, but due to the efforts of such old standards as Speaker of the House, Sol Blatt of Barnwell County, these efforts have been largely in vain.

A few weeks ago Mr. Blatt again intervened in another attempt to block this type of legislation. This time he appealed to the emotions of the members of the House. One issue which he always resorted to is that with compulsory attendance naturally comes desegregation of the school system. Barnwell County has a sizable Negro population.

Some legislators remarked that if the law were passed Barnwell County would certainly be exempt. But one exemption leads to another, and a law which allows exemptions loses its effectiveness. As a result, the law was passed, and 14 counties were excluded.

There is a definite need for a compulsory school law. South Carolina is near the bottom of the rank in many of its educational programs. Something needs to be done to raise the state education standards. A step in the right direction would be the passage of a Compulsory Attendance law to help alleviate the school drop-out problem.

It hurts a state and its people when those in power thwart efforts to help the state because of their own selfish interests and beliefs. A compulsory school attendance law is essential in order that education standards might be raised, and South Carolinians might look to a more prosperous tomorrow.

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Assistant Copy Editors ..... Jack Murphy, Jim Brewer, Rob Dalton
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardie.
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NOW A FEW QUESTIONS MR FARNSWORTH AND WELL SEE IF YOU QUALIFY FOR ONE OF OUR STUDENT LOANS."

Real People

In August, at the meeting ha
The people held a costume ba
Each wore a mask upon his fa
And clothed himself in colore lace.
They stood in groups of three o four
And tapped their feet upon th
floor,
And crossed their arms and blinked their eyes,
And from their mouths came practiced lies.
When the sticky, heated air
Demanded more than he cou
bear,
One of them slipped his blac mask down
And bared his face from chin t crown.
And when they saw his nake
face,
They seized and dragged him
from the place,
And turned and barred the heavy door,
And shook their heads and crossed the floor.

—Don McKa

Dipsy-Doodle Test

To Check Your Observations

By Frank Cooper, Robert Elrod, and Kent Mitchell

(Editor's Note: The following article is rperinted from the March 20, 1964, issue of The Blue Stocking with certain variations made.)

This test has been prepared by several members of the student body to test the genius of PC students. To avoid wild guessing you should remember that all wrong answers count 45 points off. All right answers count ½ point. There is a score range of -900 to a possible plus 8. Anything below 0 is failing. One, some, or all of the suggested answers to a question could be correct.

1. In order to study the immediate effects of inflation, one should consult:
The PC Canteen
The American Economy, by Harris.
The Communist Manifesto

2. Where would you rather pay $1,800 to go to school?
Yale
Harvard
Presbyterian

3. How can you get a quart of milk a day?
Own a cow
Work on a dairy
Eat in the dining hall

4. Where would you rather take your parents to eat?
Stork Club
Waldorf Astoria
Greenville Dining Hall

5. Your best possible alternative in case of a fire on third floor Neville:
Jump
Pray
Parachute
Leap to burning wooden fire escape one story below.

6. When is the best time to pick up your package from the post office?
9:01 to 9:106754 MWF
6:00 to 6:1 TTS
Sunday 11:00 to 12:00

7. What is the best time of day to get sick?
7:00
7:15
Don't

8. What would you rather do?
Study in Bailey
Go blind

9. Which of the following vegetables would you rather have for the next five days?
Rice and corn
Corn and rice
French fries
Mashed potatoes

10. What would you rather do while working for the maintenance department?
Win a checker game
Take a nap
Read a newspaper
Watch "Day in Court" on TV

11. Where are your chances the greatest for waiting in line for a shower?
Second floor Laurens
Laurens second floor
All of the above

12. Which of the following lawn tools could be used in back of Neville?
Ax
Broom
Lawn mower
Drainage system
Seed sower

13. Vetville can be improved by
Dynamite
Tearing it down and building slums
Consulting Johnson's poverty plan.

14. Where is the most logical place to find a polar bear in mid-winter?
North Pole
Siberia
Calvert House
South Pole

15. What is the best transportation from Belk to Bailey during monsoon season?
Flippers
Surf board
Ark
Waders
Snorkle

Movie Review

Those Magnificent Men

"Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," is a film tribute in the form of a comedy valentine, to those daring men the world over who, at the beginnnig of the century, took to the air in the first outlandish flying machines.

The antique aircraft re-created for the film bear little resemblance to present day conceptions of what early airplane design looked like, since that has strongly been influenced by the airplanes flown during the World War I era.

For the large cast of "Those Magnificent Men", 20th Century Fox recruited an imposing roster of internationally famous actors. Miss Irina Denrich portrays six different women, most distinct from one another in character despite the fact that they look alike. Stuart Whitman competes for fame and fortune in the 1910 London to Calais air race as a flambouyant American barnstormer.

Although it is true that "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" is a comedy, it is also true that almost every incident is based on an actual occurrence that took place during the early days of flying. The story, told to insure the maximum amount of fun and entertainment, is nevertheless, most careful not to lessen respect for the pioneers of aviation.

'Lover Come Back' Next Campus Flick

The scene is Madison Avenue where Doris Day and Rock Hudson are accountant executives for rival agencies. When Hudson lands a plush account by using Edie Adams and her "Bunny Girls," Doris Day reports him to his boss Tony Randall. To keep Miss Adams from incriminating him, Hudson makes her the "VIP" in a series of fictitious TV commercials. The plan explodes when Randall mistakenly orders the commercials run. They are a whooping success and Hudson is forced to invent a real product to satisfy the demand. VIP is born—candy mints with the wallop of triple martinis.

William P. Jacobs

One Man's Dream Becomes a Reality

BY KATHI WILLIAMS
Blue Stocking Feature Writer

A ten year old fatheriess boy, Willie Anderson, who once heard Dr. William P. Jacobs speak, reached in his pocket and handed Dr. Jacobs 50 cents and told him to "take it and build the home for children." This was the first gift in support of a movement which resulted in the establishment and organization of Thornwell in 1875.

This institution was the ideal and vision of Dr. William P. Jacobs, who prayerfully labored and spent himself in its erection for nearly half a century.

Dr. Jacobs was the founder of both Presbyterian College and Thornwell Orphanage, serving as prsident of both institutions. He served Thornwell as president and father for 43 years until his death in 1917.

The purpose of Thornwell is to provide care and training for dependent children who do not have sufficient means of support without regard for denominations, location, or locality. It is owned, operated and maintained by the Synods of South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida and is controlled by a Board of Trustees elected by these three synods.

As a theological student Dr. Jacobs was a great admirer of his outstanding teacher, Dr. James Henley Thornwell of Columbia Seminary. Because of this friendship and his love for Dr. Thornwell, he decided to name the institution Thornwell Orphanage.

The first building was erected and occupied on October 1, 1875. There were eight children who entered that first day. Within a short time it became evident that another home was needed. A second building, Faith Cottage, was opened in 1880.

Today, the campus buildings and equipment, have a value exceeding two and one-half million dollars. Through wills and direct gifts, an endowment of over one and one-half million dollars has been establish. A new church, with an educational building and a chapel, is now under construction.

In the very beginning Thornwell adopted the cottage system, i. e., homes presided over by competent Christian women who serve in the same capacity as a mother in a normal average home. Thornwell has more than 20 such cottages, and each houses from 16 to 20 children.

Full-time care is provided for approximately 350 children each year. They are divided into groups and serve in various work departments such as printing, electricity, wood shop, farming, daiying, poultry, hospital, kitchen, office, and dining hall.

Thornwell has a kindergarten, a grammar school, and a high school and holds membership in the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges. A great many of the children attend colleges and universities.

A constant stream of men and women graduates of Thornwell have gone into the school rooms of our various institutions as teachers.

The nursing profession recruits a number of girls from the ranks of Thornwell graduates. A graduate of Thornwell was Superintendnt of Nurses at Grady Hospital in Atlanta, Ga., for 25 years.

Thornwell has graduated more than 35 ministers. One graduate was a professor in the University of Tennessee Medical College, and another is now head of the Department of Zoology at the University of California.

Thornwell was founded and has continued throughout the years for the good of the child. This home stands as evidence that there are thousands upon thousands of people who believe a child is God's greatest creation and that on him hangs the future of the world.

Thornwell strives to develop each child to his full potential—and sends him forth to serve God and man.

THE ENTRANCE SIGN to Thornwell Orphanage, Presbyterian Home and School for Children, states that the orphanage was founded in 1875.

THE MARY SHANE GRAMMAR SCHOOL WING of the Thornwell school buildings was erected by Miss Ida Shane of Atlanta, Ga.

BERKELE COTTAGE is a home for small boys between the ages of eight and fifteen. It was named in memory of Miss Mamie Berkele's mother of Atlanta, Ga.

FAIRCHILD COTTAGE serves as a home for young girls between the ages of six and eleven years. The Fairchild family is one of many generous friends that have made possible the steady growth and enlargement of the orphanage.

TOM HARTNESS HALL is used as residence home for senior boys. It was built through the generosity and good will of Mrs. T. P. Hartness of Spartanburg.

—Photos by Hart

The Sun of Obscenity

(ACP)—Prof. B. S. Straitlace condemned the sun recently for having obscene influence on students and asked that the Board of Regents ban it from the Iowa State University campus in Ames.

In an editorial, the Iowa State Daily told about that proposal, which resulted from what Straitlace called "distressing actions by students" because of the sunny, spring-like weather. He complained that only half of his students appeared for classes. He teaches a 300-level course on "the true meaning of the Bill of Rights."

The editorial continued:

Straitlace said the sun caused students to leave classes and encouraged "lewd, lustful, lascivious and romantic thoughts and actions.." He said he toured the campus during the afternoon and found a "shocking" number of students who seemed to be acting in a "strange and unusual manner." When pressed for details, Straitlace would say only that he felt there was a "very close relationship caused by the influence of the sun."

"If the sun is not obscene, then the law has no meaning," he continued. He pointed out that the sun caused coeds to appear on campus "in scantier attire." "We have only to recall the scandalous Skin Hill incident to realize the dangers of the sun," he said.

The sun is widely available at other locations around Ames, but Straitlace asked the ban only for the campus.

He was not concerned with the practicality of his proposal, but defended the principle.

Straitlace has said before he is aware of the bohemian influences of the sun, (as evidenced by increased guitar-playing), even though it has at times been found to be intellectually stimulating.

He is especially concerned with the sun's universality. "Only a minority of students are affected by obscene books," he said, "but look at the tragic numbers affected by the sun."

Straitlace said he is drawing up a proposal for the ban for submission to the Iowa State Board of Regents at its April meeting.

Newberry Features Chad Mitchell Trio

The Chad Mitchell Trio will be featured in a concert at Newberry College on Saturday night, April 16, at 8:00 p. m. The concert will be in McLean Gymnasium on the Newberry Campus.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or by writing Dance Committee, Newberry College, Newberry. Price of the tickets is three dollars per person.

The Chad Mitchell Trio holds a unique position on the folk music scene. They are excellent musicians, as well as engaging performers. Their repertoire includes both popular folk songs and songs of commentary on social issues.

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 3,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

FOCUS (A guide: Where and how?)

The Christian Science Monitor
1 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115
Please enter a Monitor subscription for the name below.
I am enclosing $..... (U. S. funds) for the period checked. ☐ 1 year $12 ☐ 9 months $9 ☐ 6 months $6
Name.....
Street..... Apt./Rm. #.....
City..... State..... Zip.....
☐ College student..... Year of graduation.....
☐ Faculty member
P-CN-65

The Thrill of the Masters

BY BILL BASSHAM
Special to The Blue Stocking

When one walks onto the Augusta National Golf Course, he can sense its excitement and the greatness. This is the week for the Masters.

The Masters is to golf what the Kentucky Derby is to horse racing, the Rose Bowl is to football, or the World Series is to baseball. It has to be the greatest of all the tournamnts. To wear the green blazer on Sunday means as much as the winner's check to many golf hopefuls.

The last few years it has seemed like the Masters has been a tournament among the "big three" of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, and Gary Player. One of these three has won the tournament for seven out of eight years. Palmer won in 1958, 1960, 1962, and 1964. Nicklaus was victorious in 1963 and 1965. Player won his only Masters in 1961.

Only five golfers average less than a 73 at Augusta, and Palmer, Nicklaus, and Player are three of them averaging 71.48, 71.54, and 71.79, respectively. The "big three" surely do play Augusta as if they own it.

One hundred and four hopefuls teed off in Thursday's first round. Each one was hopeful of winning the green blazer, symbolic of the champion, in this the 1966 edition of the Masters.

The "big three" definitely have to be the favorite as usual. Doug Sanders, fresh from a win in the Greensboro Open and two other tournaments this spring, has to be a strong contender. Gay Brewer, Bruce Devlin, and Billy Casper could all be strong contenders.

Two young Carolinians, Raymond Floyd of Fayetteville, N. C., and Randy Glover of Florence, will be making their first appearances in Augusta. Both of these young boys have been consistently in the top ten this year and could be big surprises. Glover will be the touring pro for the new Country Club of South Carolina which will enable him to pick up pointers from Grant Bennett, who first taught him how to play.

Perhaps the greatest part of the Masters is its color. I think they ought to award a prize to the best-dressed golfer at the tournament because many of these pros go to great care and expense in their dress.

Doug Sanders was wearing yellow patent leather golf shoes. Ray Floyd was a big standout in his patch madras pants. Banion shirts, alpaca sweaters, and flashy color combinations were predominant on all of the pros. I don't think these fellows could dress if the were didn't have the colors of red, yellow, or blue.

One young amateur looked extremely impressive during practice. He is Bunky Henry from Valdosta, Ga., who does all the placekicking for Georgia Tech. Wednesday afternoon Bunky drew a crowd of about 100 people to watch him practice his driving. Henry recently challenge "Fat" Jack for distance if Wednesday afternoon was any indication of his performance capabilities.

Bunky won the crowd's favor by driving a couple of balls over the bushes at the end of the fairway.

The crowds this year, as always, are tremendous at the Masters. The tournament has been sold out since the end of March. Nearly every green has a large throng of people stationed around it plus those people following certain players. "Arnie's army" numbered in the thousands, even in the practice rounds. About the only thing a person sees by following Palmer is the king himself with the crowd following him. It is almost impossible to see any golf.

Everyone has their favorite for the Masters. This year this writer has to go along with the idol Arnold Palmer. It is an even-numbered year, which means that it's Arnie's turn to make the charge.

Whatever the outcome, it will be all over by Sunday afternoon. For the golfers it will mean joy for some and heartbreak for others and a general feeling of "wait until next year." For the hundreds of thousands of fans it will be the end of the greatest spectacle in golf and the hope that we can be in Augusta for the Masters next year.

Golfers Bow to Bulldogs In First Loss of Season

By MIKE SIMONS

The strong Blue Hose golf team has two more tri-team matches before journeying to Hampton to participate in the State Golf Tournament there April 15-16.

At the present the Hose linksmen's only loss came at the hands of a powerful University of Georgia club, as Georgia defeated the Hose 25½-1½. One particularly bright spot in the match was the outstanding performances turned in by freshmen Steve Albright and Ashton Blount. Albright won one of the Hose's points while he and Blount teamed up for the other one-half point.

David Sale was low man for the Hose with a 75 on the par 72 Athens Country Club course. Georgia's Al Tyre took overall medalist honors with a one-under par 71, Tommy Barnes, ordinarily the number one linksman for the Georgia team, did not participate in the match because he was practicing for the Masters Golf Tournament to be held in Augusta, Ga.

The Hose have been one of only three teams to defeat defending state champion Wofford, who now sports 13-3 credentials.

The Hose are currently 4-1, with ten more matches and two tournaments scheduled. They have a return bout with Wofford in Spartanburg on May 10, and they journey to Columbia April 20 for a match with South Carolina, whom they edged 17-10 previously at Lakeside Country Club in Laurens. Both of these matches will really test the mettle of the Hose's linksmen since both of these schools boast powerful golf teams.

The future for the Hose linksmen seems bright since both Albright and Blount have three years of eligibility left while David Sale and Alan Parsons are only sophomores. However, the Hose will definitely feel the loss next season of Bill Kellam and Larry Preston, but the returning squad members should form the nucleus of another strong team next year.

BILL KELLAM

Crocker Elected Club President

Claude Crocker of Clinton is the new president of the Walter Johnson Club, Presbyterian College alumni athletic organization.

He was elected by club members to succeed Ross Templeton of Charlotte, who has headed the group for the past six years. Templeton was named president emeritus.

Crocker, a 1950 graduate of PC, serves as employee and public relations director for Clinton Mills. He has a broad background of experience in athletics and interest in the Johnson Club. Before entering PC, he attended the University of North Carolina on an athletic scholarship and played football, basketball and baseball there. His pitching ability caught the eye of Branch Rickey's youth movement of the Brooklyn National League Club and he played with Brooklyn and the organization for five years. Later, in 1949-50, Crocker coached basketball and baseball for one season each at Presbyterian while completing requirements for his degree.

As a leader in civic affairs Claude Crocker is the current president of the Clinton Chamber of Commerce and past campaign chairman of the Community Chest.

Tom Addison, Clinton business executive, serves as vice-president of the Johnson Club for 1966. Cally Gault, PC athletic director, is secretary-treasurer and Al Brice of Greenwood, assistant secretary.

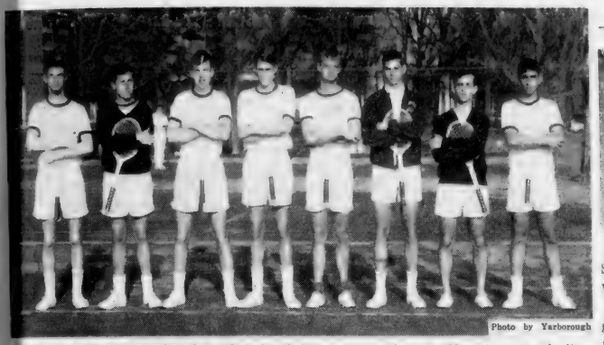

Photo by Yarborough

THE 1966 TENNIS SQUAD of Presbyterian College ready to face Davidson tomorrow in its final match before the South Carolina Intercollegiate Tournament on Tuesday. Members from left to right are Cliff Sheffield, Doug Haynie, Larry Connelly, Robbie Hibbitts, Bob Harris, Pete Collins, Hart Cobb, and Jim Cassady.

S. C. Net Tourney Opens Monday With PC Team Seeking 22nd Win

Six teams will compete for the South Carolina Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament beginning Monday at PC. Those teams trying for the title will be PC, Furman, Clemson, South Carolina, The Citadel Erskine, and Wofford.

Defending state champion Citadel will be trying to make it three in a row. The Tigers defeated their closest competition, PC, by a score of 5-4 in early season play. They have not played South Carolina.

Leading the charge for Clemson is number one singles man Zulfi Rahim. Rahim from Pakistan lost to PC's Bob Harris last year and in the match this year.

Tom Long is perhaps the best number two man in the state this year. He teams with Rahim for Clemson's strong number one doubles team.

Sammy Smithyman and Dirkran Ornekian as the number three and four singles men for the Tigers. Perry Reynolds and David Wilkins round out the top six. Smithyman and Wilkins make up the number two doubles team while Reynolds and Dave Sibert play number three. The experience of the Tigers make them strong favorites for the tournament.

PC will be shooting for an unprecedented twenty - second state championship. Blue Hose netmen have not managed a win since 1960. Clemson edged PC by one point last year.

Bob Harris leads PC's hopes into the Tournament. Bob is the defending number one singles champion and should repeat this year. Pete Collins has moved up a notch to play number two. Collins is capable of winning in this position. Larry Connelly has moved up two places to number three and has been improving steadily.

Sophomore Robbie Hibbits and Doug Haynie have played well this year at four and five respectively, considering their lack of experience. Freshman Hart Cobb has played exceptionally well at the number six spot.

The doubles teams of Harris and Connelly, Collins and Haynie, and Hibbitts and Cobb have worked well together. It was the doubles wins which gave PC their 5-4 win over Harvard this week.

South Carolina may be the dark horse of the tournament. The Gamecocks have won eight straight matches after an opening loss to PC 8-1.

The Citadel lost their top four men by graduation and are not given much of a chance. The Bulldogs will be led by Sophomore Billy Shields of Clinton.

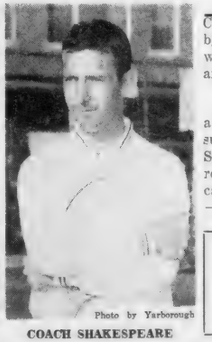

Photo by Yarborough

COACH SHAKESPEARE

'66 Grid Slate Announced; Blue Hose Play Six at Home

Six home games, the largest number in at least two decades, highlight Presbyterian College's 1966 football schedule announced today by Athletic Director Cally Gault.

The schedule Gault makes as athletic director he must contend with as head fooball coach, and he has presented himself with a rugged ten-game slate next fall. Seven are against strengthening Carolinas Conference opposition, and the other three against traditional rivals Wofford, Davidson and Frederick.

The Blue Hose will open at home against Frederick on September 17 and will close the campaign on Johnson Field on November 24 in the annual Thanksgiving Bronze Derby contest against Newberry. Homecoming has been designated for October 15, with Davidson as the opponent.

Here's the complete 1966 football schedule:

Sept. 17—Frederick at Clinton; Sept. 24—Lenoir Rhyne at Clinton; Oct. 1—Wofford at Spartanburg; Oct. 8—Elon at Elon, N. C.; Oct. 15—Davidson at Clinton; Oct. 22—Guilford at Guilford, N. C.; Oct. 29—Catawba at Salisbury, N. C.; Nov. 5—Appalachian at Clinton; Nov. 19—Western Carolina at Clinton; Nov. 24—Newerry at Clinton.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Intramurals Begin Spring Sports Play

BY GENE SULLIVAN

The intramural spring sports action buds into reality next week with the advent of volleyball, softball, and horseshoes. Director Benny Crabtree said that much enthusiasm was shown in all these sports last year. This season's volleyball will most likely be played inside the gymnasium. The softball diamond will be located on the "Ponderosa" and the horseshoes area has not yet been cleared.

In the All-Stars' only appearance in post-season play in the intercollegiate intramural tournament, the Erskine Fleet pulled out a harrowing 48-45 win. The Hose were led by Joe Gettys with 21 points. One consolation lies in the fact that ten of the Hose have at least one more year of eligibility left.

As the intramural year draws to an end, the Sigma Nu's and the PiKA's are having a closely contested race for the first place trophy. The spring schedule will decide the winner.

Bill Bassham

The World's Largest Cocktail Party

BILL

The best way to describe the Carolina Cup is the way Sports Illustrated describes it. In a recent issue the Cup was called "the world's largest outdoor cocktail party."

I arrived at the Cup early so I could see everyone and get set up before the races started. Don't laugh, I did see a race. That is more than I can say for the majority of the 27,000 people there.

The poor frustrated police were nice nough to guide all the sober people into the race track, but their work had just begun. The hard part is carrying the 20,000 drunks out after the race is over. Seriously, they are to be commended on the fine job they do in protecting everyone.

Since this is an election year, the Cup turnd into a giant back-slapping "good to see you" party. For the first time in many a year in South Carolina, there were even two sets of candidates to do the back-slapping.

In many aspects the Cup is a giant reunion. I don't think it is possible to go through the whole ordeal without seeing someone that you haven't seen since way back then. It is hard to find a particular person in the crowd, but if you wander long enough you're sure to run into enough friends that it won't matter anyway.

I know the poultry population of the world must decrease by a third before the cup. Never in my life have I seen so much fried chicken and deviled eggs in one place. After everyone stuffed themselves with the food, they were ready to sit back and enjoy the afternoon.

The only people I feel sorry for at the Cup are the riders and the horses. Their training, which is different from everyone else's at this sport spectacular, is not fully appreciated. I am sure some people were astounded to see some obviously drunk fool riding around the course on a horse, of all things. Some old mules turned loose without riders would serve the same purpose.

The promoters of this year's Cup were even nice enough to arrange to have an expensive car burn up to add a little color to the event. I'm sure many people missed the excitement of this event due to another act going on at the same time in the center of the infield in a little green house. I went over to take in the show, but due to the long lines I could never get in.

The running of the Carolina Cup itself was very exciting. After trailing for the whole race, Taneha took the lead going over the last jump and won by about a length. The man next to me kept yelling for some horse which either has an unpronounceable name or the fellow for some strange reason was tongue-tied. Anyway, the poor nag finished so far behind that I thought he was the pace horse for the next race. I later discovered that there wasn't a next race.

The Cup certainly proves that the people of South Carolina are hungry for horse racing. I discovered this by noticing that an hour and a half after the last race was over, there were still thousands of people hanging around in hopes that there was going to be another.

About this time one of the jockeys (he must have been a jockey because he had a uniform on) came up and assured us that there weren't going to be any more races. So very dejectedly, we traveled back to Columbia on roads that were much more crooked than the ones we came on. We did have one thought to comfort us though —There will be another Carolina Cup next year.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

Campus News Briefs

Hall, Bassham Will Attend SCPA

The Blue Stocking will be represented at the South Carolina Collegiate Press Association Convention next weekend by Editor Woody Hall and Sports Editor Bill Bassham.

The two-day event will be held at the Ocean Forest Hotel in Myrtle Beach. Among the highlights of the convention will be an address by Bob Talbert, columnist for The State.

Placement

There will be no more placement interviews this semester. With the semester over halfway completed, no more employment representatives are scheduled to come to the campus.

Letters Policy

The editors of The Blue Stocking welcome letters in support of or differing from its policies. Letters should be typewritten and double-spaced, and should not exceed 250 words.

Letters should be in the Blue Stocking room, Douglas House 227, not later than 7:30 p. m on Wednesday before publication. All letters must be signed.

The editors reserve the right to edit all letters in the interest of good taste.

31 Courses Offered For Summer School

Thirty-one courses in nine departments will be offered during PC's 1966 summer school scheduled for May 30-August 16, Dean Joseph M. Gettys has announced.

The first term is set for May 30-June 8; the second, for July 8-August 16. A maximum of 12 hours' credit (two additional for laboratory science) is available for both terms of six hours for either one of two terms.

Chapel Schedule

Monday — Student program led by John Weigel.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, The Rev. Alfred Bixler, First Presbyterian Church, Clinton.

Friday—Mr. Arthur N. Morris, Manufacturer, Baltimore Md.

My Neighbors

"How should I know why—my older brother always whistles..."

BROADWAY Theatre
TODAY, APRIL 13
THOSE MAGNIFICENT MEN IN THEIR FLYING MACHINES
Satrring Sarah Miles, Robert Morley, Stuart Whitman, and Red Skelton

See Coach Shakespeare for Tennis Equipment

See Jack Murphy for "Globestate" Personal Stationery

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1121

SOPHOMORE MEN:

Want to be a leader and double your chances for success in life? You can, by earning both a degree and an Army officer's commission at the same time . . . even though you may not have taken ROTC training in your first two years!

Through a new program, you can be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant after taking two years of Army ROTC training while you complete your studies for a college degree. You can qualify for this program by attending a special six-week summer training camp after your sophomore year and then completing the ROTC Advanced Course in your junior and senior years of college.

Here's what ROTC training and an officer's commission will do for you:

- It will qualify you to fulfill your military obligation as an officer.
- You will learn to organize, motivate, and lead others.
- You will develop leadership qualities that many college men miss—self-discipline, physical stamina, poise, bearing, the acceptance of responsibility and other qualities that contribute to success in either a civilian or military career.
- You will receive $40 per month during your junior and senior years, plus pay and mileage for summer training.

The training and experience you will receive through Army ROTC will pay off for the rest of your life. A decision to take advantage of this new program could be one of the most important you will ever make.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this new important opportunity.

For complete information on the new Two-Year Army ROTC Program see the Professor of Military Science on campus.

ARMY ROTC

IF YOU ARE GOOD ENOUGH TO BE A LEADER, DON'T SETTLE FOR LESS!

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 15, 1966 No. 18

Scott Is Delegate To UNC Meeting

Presbyterian College senior Will Scott has been chosen to attend the Carolina Symposium and take part in the Seminar at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Scott, who will be PC's first representative to the Symposium, is a history major from Mt. Pleasant. He will be a guest on the UNC campus for four days beginning Sunday.

The Symposium which dates back to 1927 will have for its theme this year "Mind, Man, Myth." It will examine the structure, substance, and effects of myth, and its role in shaping the thought and values of societies and individuals.

The Seminar, an integral part of the Symposium, is composed of a very limited number of students from several colleges and universities who are selected on the basis of application. They are given the opportunity to meet speakers personally and exchange ideas with them in small, informal discussion groups, thereby enabling them to explore the topic in depth.

Prominent men who have accepted an invitation to take part in the Symposium thus far are: Dan Alan Richardson, English theologian; Dr. Daniel Boorstin, American Historian and social commentator; and Dr. Walter Kaufmann, philosophical historian and translator.

Robert Hamilton Dedicates Piano

Pianist Robert Hamilton, one of the brightest young stars of the international concert stage, performed at Presbyterian College Monday night in a program which also served to dedicate the college's new Steinway concert piano.

The program was sponsored by the PC music department under the chairmanship of Professor Charles T. Gaines.

Hamilton just last month won the International Piano Competition Festival in Montevideo, Uruguay. He is to represent the United States at Russia's Third Tschaikowsky International Competition in June, will play in New York's Town Hall next fall and has major orchestral appearances scheduled for Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and Chautauqua, N. Y.

His concert at Presbyterian College included these selections: "Organ Prelude in G Minor" by Johann S. Bach-Siloti; "Sonata quasi una Fantasia, Op. 27, No. 2" by Ludwig van Beethoven; "Ballad No. 4 in F. Minor" by Frederic Chopin; "Roumanian Folk Dances" by Bela Bartok; "Sonatine" by Maurice Ravel; and "Sonata No. 4 in C Minor, Op. 29" by Serge Prokofieff.

Hamilton has been winning the increasing acclaim of audiences and critics both here and abroad since his graduation from the Indiana University School of Music in 1959. He is praised especially for his instrumental technique and musical instinct combined with taste and imagniation.

THE HONORABLE TRAN VAN DINH

Former Ambassador Will Speak on Viet War

The Honorable Tran Van Dinh, chief Washington correspondent for The Saigon (Viet- Nam) Post and the former Acting Ambassador of Viet Nam to the United States, will speak in Chapel Monday on "The War in Viet Nam."

Tran Van Dinh is a professional journalist and diplomat with a unique firsthand knowledge of the potential political turmoils that have led to American commitments in Southeast Asia.

Mr. Van Dinh bringh to his audience an exceptional view of the true situation in Viet Nam, Laos, Thailand and the other nations which comprise the vital ricebowl of Asia. His penetrating knowledge of Asian affairs, gained as a scholar, author, soldier, revolutionist, journalist and diplomat enables his listeners not only to fully understand what is hapening in Asia, but why it is happening. Mr. van Dinh pieces together the jigsaw puzzle of Asian economics, military maneuverings, strive for self-determination, education, foreign commitments and interventions, natural resuorces and food supplies into a concise, understandable whole.

A noted author, Mr. Van Dinh has just completed a book on American-Vietnamese relations which will be published in June.

Few observers of contemporary Asia have the depth of knowledge Mr. Van Dinh has acquired in his studies and personal experience. Born in the Imperial city of Hue, he is the son of a noted Vietnamese scholar who taught him Chinese literature and ideograms. He was educated at Quoc Hoc College and Hanoi University and considers himself, besides a journalist and diplomat, a poet and artist. An accomplished linguist, Mr. Van Dinh speaks fluent English, French, Thai, Lao and writes Japanese and Chinese.

In 1942, at the age of 19, Mr. Van Dinh joined the Japarilla resistance against Japanese occupation forces. After the defeat of Japan in World War II the underground forces moved against French troops to free the country once and for all from foreign domination.

During 1945 Mr. van Dinh was a staff officer with the Vienamese Liberation Army. From 1945 to 1947 he was a Brigadier General and Chief of Staff — Laos, Viet Liberation Armies in Vientiane (Laos). He became a journalist in 1848, eventually joining the staff of the English-language newspaper Liberty, in Bangkok, Thailand.

In 1951 he became Press Attache for the Vietnamese embassy in Bangkok and quickly

SEE VAN DINH Col. 3, Page 4

First SCA Sex Week Slated For April 18-22

Sex, a much talked about topic on the PC campus, will come under close scrutiny this coming week, April 18-22, during Sex Education Week. Sponsored by the Student Christian Association, the week will feature discussions and talks on the subject from three different points of view—that of a medical doctor, a minister, and a psychiatrist.

In describing the plans for this event, Jim Stanford, president of the SCA, noted that programs of this type are rapidly finding a place on college campuses. He went on to say, "Today, with the growing sense of individual freedom that the college student is experiencing there must likewise be a growing sense of responsibility, not only for oneself, but toward others.

"Today we make light of the subjects of sex and love. Perhaps this is just our defense mechanism against a lack of proper knowledge and understanding. This week presents an opportunity for us all to question and talk among ourselves seriously and honestly."

The week will begin with dorm discussions on Monday night, led by medical doctors. There will be separate group discussions—one for the co-eds and three for the male students. The girls' discussion will be at Clinton Hall. The boys' will be held in Bailey, Spencer, and Smyth.

William T. Hendrix, M. D., and Wardlaw Harmond, M. D., will be leading these discussions. Dr. Hendrix has participated in this type of program previously at other colleges and schools.

The Reverend Dana Waters, III, minister of the Lake City Presbyterian Church, will be speaking in chapel on Wednesday.

The week will be concluded Friday in chapel with a talk by Dr. M. F. Bergstedt. Dr. Bergstedt is a psychiatrist at the South Carolina State Hospital in Columbia.

"This is the first program of this type that we have had on campus in a long while," Stanford concluded. "We only hope that it will prove of interest and value to the student body. However, contrary to popular rumors that are spreading on campus, there is no 'workshop' scheduled during Sex Education Week."

SCA and PaC SaC Election Results

BULLETIN: The SCA President for the coming year is Mike McGehee. Mike polled 294 votes to 143 for Baker Bedsole in the run-off election today.

Elected Business Manager for the PaC SaC in Wednesday's voting was Roy Squires of Macon, Ga. Squires defeated Morrow Thompson by a vote of 115 to 102 and will assist newly elected Editor Skip Weldon with next year's annual.

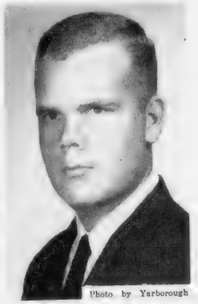

Photo by Yarborough

MIKE McGEHEE

Concert Features Josh White, Jr.

Josh White, Jr., will be featured in concert Saturday afternoon, April 23, of Greek Weekend sponsored by the Student Entertainment Committee.

Josh Jr. began his career at the age of four, and 19 years have elapsed to find him one of the most popular entertainers in his field. In 1961, the time came when Josh, Jr.'s talent demanded that he be presented in his own right, first as a club performer and then as a concert artist. Since that time, he has been acclaimed in night clubs, folk music rooms, and concert halls across North America and Europe. He has been seen at the Village Gate and the Bitter End in New York, The Troubadour in Los Angeles, The Shadows in Washington, The Bunkhouse in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, and the world-famous Playboy Club in Chicago.

JOSH WHITE, JR.

White has sung in concert at Carnegie Hall and Town Hall in New York, Orchestra Hall in Chicago, Jordan Hall in Boston and at more than three hundred colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. Josh, Jr., has also appeared in clubs and in concert throughout Europe and has recently returned from an extensive tour of England and the Scandinavian Countries.

Josh White, Jr.'s ability to entertain is not limited to his musical work. An extremely versatile performer, he has played dramatic roles in five Broadway shows, most recently, "Only In America", and "The Long Dream." Television audiences will recall his dramatic and variety appearances on such network programs as "Hootenanny", "Ben Jarod", "The Armstrong Circle Theatre", "The Mike Douglas Show", "The Today Show", "The Steve Allen Show", and "The Mike Wallace Show." European viewers have seen his work on both BBC and Granada Networks as well as the Scandinavian Television Network. In Canada, he has ap-

SEE JOSH Col. 3, Page 4

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr. — Editor

Jos. B. Stevens — Business Mgr.

Reading Days

ACP—We support the Senate resolution calling for a two-day period prior to exams, said the Furman University Paladin, Greenville, South Carolina.

Schools such as Princeton, Harvard and Brown have extensive "reading days", in some cases as long as two weeks, and don't appear to be harmed by them. The main administrative argument against such a practice is that "students don't use it." Everyone doesn't read his history parallel either, but do professors stop assigning it? No. They make sure it is there for those students who are disciplined and conscientious enough to use it.

It if turns out there are students who think they can take off for a pre-exam vacation and still perform well on exams, let them go. Let us decide what we will do with our time. If we make mistakes, at least they will be on our own.

Why Condemn Those Who Take Advantage?

The Blue Stocking heartily endorses the idea of "reading days" before final examinations.

These days have been set aside in the past on a few occasions, and the Blue Stocking, while it knows that there is no accurate way of determining the exact amount of benefit these days proved to be to those students who made use of them, it does feel that those who made use of them should not be deprived of these days simply because possibly a few poeple may have squandered them away.

According to the administration a final examination is supposed to cover a course in its entirety; it should be designed to make the student examine the course as a whole until he is able to see its continuity and cohesiveness. There is no way in the world for a student to be able to do this unless he is given a few days or even hours in which to collect his thoughts.

The Hollow Society

I'm tired, tired of puppets instead of people.
Of crewcuts and tweed coats, of pipes and Picasso buttons,
Of people who drop soliloquies carefully labeled intelligence.
I'm tired of cynics who call themselves realists,
Of people bored because they're afraid to care.
I'm tired of people who have to be entertained,
Of girls proud of knowing the score and snickering about it.
I'm tired of people with nothing better to do than glue their days together with alcohol.
I'm tired of people embarrassed at honesty, at love, at knowledge.
I'm tired, yes . . . very tired.
—By a girl student at
Arizona State University

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Assistant Copy Editors ..... Jack Murphy, Jim Brewer, Rob Dalton
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardie.

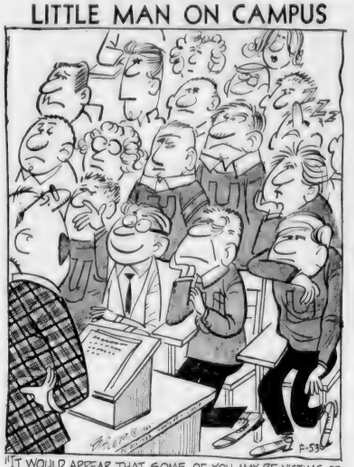
Letter to the Editor

School Spirit Questioned

To the Editor:

Why does one involved with an institution of learning always get the same trite pitch, "Let's go out and support the team"?

Our recent Chapel discussion of the subject seemed to indicate that if some people had enough ambition to engage in competitive sports, then the rest of us physical rejects ought to at last be spectators at the various sports events and cheer our men to victory.



I respectfully submit that if one wishes to further his physical education, then that is his prerogative, but he does not need to expect a great many others to watch his exploits and cheer him on to greater heights.

It occurs to me that if I was so truly involved with game he would not notice was watching him.

"I imagine, however, that glory-seeking adherents "school spirit" will continue wave their bloody flag and treat others to do likewise.

Sincerely,
John Bartlett

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"IT WOULD APPEAR THAT SOME OF YOU MAY BE VICTIMS OF THAT WIDESPREAD RUMOR THAT I TEACH A SNAP COURSE."

'Advise and Conse Is Next Campus Mov

This powerful film is most fascinating story, show the workings of the Fed Government, since the cla "Mr Smith Goes to Was ton."

The basic premise is the s as "Mr. Smith"—that the sonalities involved in the enment will determine smoothly and in what direc the government will run.

On "Advise and Consent" private lives of the governm officials are examined as their influence on the deci to appoint one James Leffl well as secretary of State.

The movie was directed Otto Preminger and stars He ry Fonda, Charles Laughto Walter Pidgeon, and Burge Meredith.

"Advise and Consent" will shown in Belk Auditorium th coming Wednesday night, Ap 20, beginning at 7:30. Admi sion is 35 cents for students a faculty.

Letter to the Editor

Independents' Support Requested

To the Editor:

For the past few months there has been a great deal of talk about an organization of independent students on the Presbyterian College campus, but very little action has been taken. The steering committee, appointed at a meeting of independent students before spring holidays, has gotten underway with plans for this organization.

It has been proposed that this organization serve as a social organization for the independent students, giving them an opportunity to participate more fully in campus life. It becomes very difficult for an independent student, male or female, to find a place to go for relaxation or to take a date on the campus.

The committee has suggested the possibility of furnishing a lounge with television, a juke box and an area for dancing, ping pong, and pool tables, card tables, and a snack bar. There is unused space in the old Judd Building which could be converted for this use. These facilities would be open to all students, independent or otherwise, and would provide a much-needed place to relax and enjoy the company of our fellow students, many of whom we have no chance to get to know outside the classroom. It would also be a place to entertain guests on the campus.

The committee has suggested that the organization of independent students plan parties and other activities on dance weekends, as well as times when there is little else happening on the campus. If all of the independent students would support this organization wholeheartedly and agree to pay the determined dues, it would not be impossible for PC to have concerts with such big name artists as the Supremes or the Chad Mitchell Trio. Maybe soon the students from other colleges in the area would be coming to PC for a concert, instead of vice-versa.

It should be understood that the committee does not feel that this organization should be political, although it may well be the largest unit on campus and certainly could make its voice heard.

It is also not intended to be a "fraternity" of sorts. It will be an open organization, and all independent men, coeds and day students would become a part of it simply by paying their dues.

The committee is at work formulating a constitution for the organization, which would include such specifications as dues, officers, functions, and purpose. This constitution will be presented at a meeting of all independent students within the next few weeks, at which time opportunity will be given for changes, discussion, and amendments. Your suggestions will be welcomed. Once this organization is approved, the organization can become a reality.

There are innumerable things which an organization of independent students can do to improve our life at PC. We can put PC on the map, but for this we need the support and assistance of all the independent students on this campus.

The fraternities have been very generous in allowing the independents to attend so many of their functions, and if all the independent students will cooperate and give of their time and effort, the Organization of Independent Students may soon be able to return this favor.

Sincerely,
Steering Committee for Independent Organization
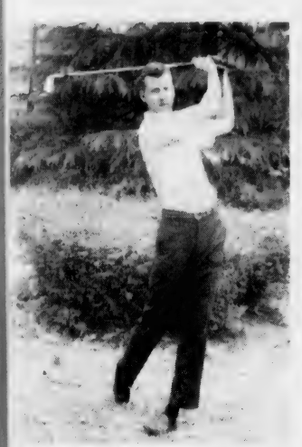
Paul Ferguson, Walt Shepard, Danny Wyatt, Sam King, Sarah Stribling, Nina Woody, Larry McLaughlin.



BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
April15-16
OBEY FU MANCHU... OR EVERY LIVING THING WILL DIE!

MONDAY and TUESDAY
April 18 and 19
MOMENT TO MOMENT
Jean Seberg, Honor Black-Man, Sean Garrison.

STARTS WEDNESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
ELVIS PRESLEY in
FRANKIE and JOHNNY

LARRY PRESTON

Photo by Hart

ASHTON BLOUNT

State Golf Tourney Opens Today; PC Squad Enters With 6-1 Record

BY MIKE SIMONS

The South Carolina Intercollegiate Golf Tournament, being played today and tomorrow at Hampton, brings to a climax the 1966 Blue Hose golf season.

Many observers feel that the Hose have a good chance to take top honors in the state meet this year. To date the Hose have a 6-1 record and have defeated other South Carolina schools all of the five times they have played them. Their last win came over Wofford, The Citadel, and College of Charleston at Hampton yesterday in an important tune-up match for the state match.

One thing that has impressed observers about the Hose squad has been the excellent balance of its members. Against Augusta College, for instance, number one man David Sale had a 71, but number six man Steve Albright followed closely with a one-over-par round of 73, including an eagle on the par-five eight berth.

After the state tournament the Hose golfers face South Carolina, and then journey to Atlanta for an important interstate battle with Georgia Tech. After three more dual matches and two tri-team affairs, the Hose will test their golfing skills against the cream of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) teams at Boone, N. C., on May 16-17. The Hose also stand a good chance to show up extremely well in this tournament, as well as in the state match.

Clemson Wins Tennis Title

PC's hopes for an unprecedented 22nd state tennis title were ruined as the Blue Hose netters fell to Clemson 26-19. PC was tied with the Tigers 18-18 at the end of the first day but was completely devastated in the finals.

Clemson and PC faced each other in each of the finals but Pete Collins playing a number two singles managed the only PC win. Collins beat Tom Long 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The biggest upset of the day was Zulf Rahim's defeat of defending state champion Bob Harris in the number one singles.

Robbie Hibbits won the first set in the number three singles with Dirkran Ornekian 4-6 but then lost 6-0, 6-2. The Tigers won at five and six rather easily. Perry Reynolds defeated Doug Haynie 6-2, 6-1, and David Wilkins defeated Hart Cobb 6-3, 6-2.

Sam Smithyman beat Larry Connelly 6-2, in the first set but had to rally in the second set to win 10-8 in the number three singles.

The doubles were much closer but the Tigers swept all three to defeat PC 8-1. In an earlier season match Clemson defeated Presbyterian 5-4.

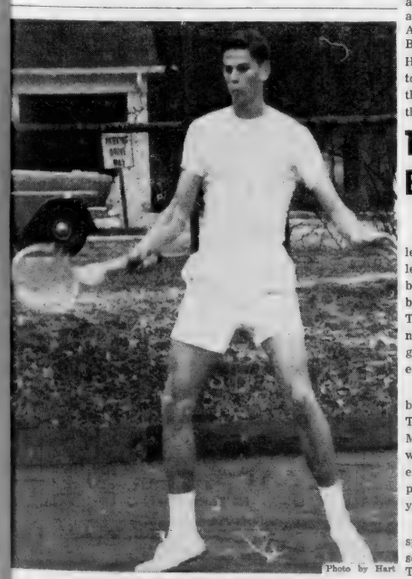


Photo by Hart

PETE COLLINS

Two More Sports Begin Next Week

BY GENE SULLIVAN

Intramural director Bill Crowley has announced that the volleyball courts will be available beginning next week. Games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays only. Monday's, Wednesdays and Fridays will be the game days for softball, with two events daily.

The spirited and speedy Presbyterian College Intramural Track Meet will be held early in May this year. Several records were shattered at last year's event, and even more are expected to be broken by this year's field of competition.

Badminton is back as a spring sport, as is horseshoes, with the season beginning this week. There will be no tennis this year.

Bill Bassham

Track Program Praised

BILL

Ironically this column of a year ago discussed the dire situation of our track team. This year has proved quite a reverse situation from this time last year. At that time the Blue Hose had not won a meet and in fact had lost very badly. This year PC has won both of its meets so far.

Coach Joe Nixon has done an outstanding job in rebuilding our track program. One measure that has proved a help has been the recruiting of football and basketball players who can play spring sports also. This is evident in looking at not only our track team but also the baseball team.

Coach Nixon has also been instrumental in beginning a program which gives the boys some "know how" rather than forcing them to work on their own. This has been evident in the running events this year.

PC completely ran away from Appalachian in the first meet of the year 86-50. The most impressive win came Thursday afternoon when PC edged Wofford for the first time in three years 70-66. A win in anything over Wofford always is very gratifying.

The Blue Hose have proved to be especially tough in the running events. In the Appalachian meet the trackmen captured a first in every running event except the intermediate hurdles. The field events are not as strong as the running ones but hard work has enabled these boys to hold their own.

Doug Allen takes part in the high jump, shot put, and the javelin and has been in the top three in each meet. Richard Reed has been high jumping and running both hurdles. Reed also got a third place in the pole vault against Wofford. Other field men who have proved to be an asset are Mike Meeker in the discus, Robert Hope in the pole vault, and Al Todd in the broad jump.

A strong core of sprinters highlight the running events. Dan Eckstein has proved to be a top man in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes while dividing his time with baseball. The 440 relay composed of Eckstein, Bobby McNair, Ed Dorn, and Jim Sullenburger have yet to lose in the two meets.

The distance running has been anchored by Carlton Manley in the mile, Butch McWaters in the 440, James Challen in the 880, Ellis Jenkins in the two mile, and several others who are too numeruos to mention.

The trackmen have their third meet of the season this Tuedsay with Mars Hill at Mars Hill. Then next weekend comes the important Davidson Relays. If the Blue Hose can return from these victorious, it could prove to be the beginnnig of a new era for PC spring sports.

The heartiest congratulations go out not only to Coach Nixon, but to the trackmen and all those students who have supported them.

Baseballers Are Winless

Presbyterian's baseball team is winless in its first twelve games this season. The latest loss was a 13-11 slugfest with Belmont Abbey. In two games with Belmont Abbey the Blue Hose scored 21 runs but still lost both games.

Coach Art Musselman blames the losses on inexperience. PC is starting six freshmen, two sophomores, and only one senior. This experience has hurt in the fact that the players at times make situation mistakes.

Another thing which hurt the Blue Hose has been the fact that PC began its first game with only one day practice. Due to the number of games being played and the weather, Coach Musselman has not been able to have enough practice to iron out the rough spots.

Coach Muusselman said, "a lot of credit should be given to those boys who have stuck with the team throughout the season."

Coach Musselman feels very optimistic about the rest of the season and especially for next year. One person who will be missed next year is the team's leading hitter, Jimmy Elliott.

The Blue Hose have thirteen games left this seassn They have two games with Citadel this weekend. Coach Musselman is confident that the Blue Hose will win a few this year which will be a big help after losing so many.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr.
Editor

Jos. B. Stevens
Business Mgr.

Reading Days

ACP—We support the Senate resolution calling for a two-day period prior to exams, said the Furman University Paladin, Greenville, South Carolina.

Schools such as Princeton, Harvard and Brown have extensive "reading days", in some cases as long as two weeks, and don't appear to be harmed by them. The main administrative argument against such a practice is that "students don't use it." Everyone doesn't read his history parallel either, but do professors stop assigning it? No. They make sure it is there for those students who are disciplined and conscientious enough to use it.

It if turns out there are students who think they can take off for a pre-exam vacation and still perform well on exams, let them go. Let us decide what we will do with our time. If we make mistakes, at least they will be on our own.

Why Condemn Those Who Take Advantage?

The Blue Stocking heartily endorses the idea of "reading days" before final examinations.

These days have been set aside in the past on a few occasions, and the Blue Stocking, while it knows that there is no accurate way of determining the exact amount of benefit these days proved to be to those students who made use of them, it does feel that those who made use of them should not be deprived of these days simply because possibly a few poeple may have squandered them away.

According to the administration a final examination is supposed to cover a course in its entirety; it should be designed to make the student examine the course as a whole until he is able to see its continuity and cohesiveness. There is no way in the world for a student to be able to do this unless he is given a few days or even hours in which to collect his thoughts.

The Hollow Society

I'm tired, tired of puppets instead of people.
Of crewcuts and tweed coats, of pipes and Picasso buttons,
Of people who drop soliloquies carefully labeled intelligence.
I'm tired of cynics who call themselves realists,
Of people bored because they're afraid to care.
I'm tired of people who have to be entertained,
Of girls proud of knowing the score and snickering about it.
I'm tired of people with nothing better to do than glue their days together with alcohol.
I'm tired of people embarrassed at honesty, at love, at knowledge.
I'm tired, yes . . . very tired.
—By a girl student at

Arizona State University

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Assistant Copy Editors ..... Jack Murphy, Jim Brewer, Rob Dalton
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Rob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardie.

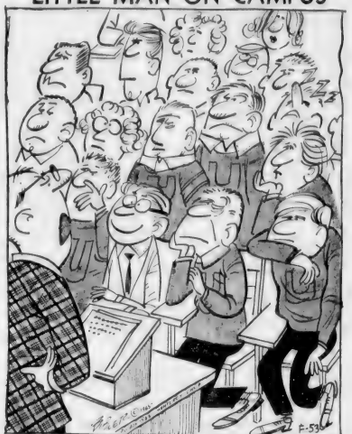
Letter to the Editor

School Spirit Questioned

To the Editor:

Why does one involved with an institution of learning always get the same trite pitch, "Let's go out and support the team"?

Our recent Chapel discussion of the subject seemed to indicate that if some people had enough ambition to engage in competitive sports, then the rest of us physical rejects ought to at last be spectators at the various sports events and cheer our men to victory.



I respectfully submit that if one wishes to further his physical education, then that is his prerogative, but he does not need to expect a great many others to watch his exploits and cheer him on to greater heights.

It occurs to me that if was so truly involved with game he would not notice was watching him.

"I imagine, however, the glory-seeking adherents "school spirit" will continue wave their bloody flag and treat others to do likewise.

Sincerely,
John Bartlett

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"IT WOULD APPEAR THAT SOME OF YOU MAY BE VICTIMS OF THAT WIDESPREAD RUMOR THAT I TEACH A SNAP COURSE."

'Advise and Conse Is Next Campus Mov

This powerful film is most fascinating story, show the workings of the Fede Government, since the cla "Mr Smith Goes to Washi ton."

The basic premise is the sa as "Mr. Smith"—that the p sonalities involved in the g enment will determine h smoothly and in what direct the government will run.

On "Advise and Consent" t private lives of the governme officials are examined as their influence on the decisi to appoint one James Leffle well as secretary of State.

The movie was directed Otto Preminger and stars Hen ry Fonda, Charles Laughto Walter Pidgeon, and Burge Meredith.

"Advise and Consent" will b shown in Belk Auditorium th coming Wednesday night, Apr 20, beginning at 7:30. Admi sion is 35 cents for students an faculty.

Letter to the Editor

Independents' Support Requested

To the Editor:

For the past few months there has been a great deal of talk about an organization of independent students on the Presbyterian College campus, but very little action has been taken. The steering committee, appointed at a meeting of independent students before spring holidays, has gotten underway with plans for this organization.

It has been proposed that this organization serve as a social organization for the independent students, giving them an opportunity to participate more fully in campus life. It becomes very difficult for an independent student, male or female, to find a place to go for relaxation or to take a date on the campus.

The committee has suggested the possibility of furnishing a lounge with television, a juke box and an area for dancing, ping pong, and pool tables, card tables, and a snack bar. There is unused space in the old Judd Building which could be converted for this use. These facilities would be open to all students, independent or otherwise, and would provide a much-needed place to relax and enjoy the company of our fellow students, many of whom we have no chance to get to know outside the classroom. It would also be a place to entertain guests on the campus.

The committee has suggested that the organization of independent students plan parties and other activities on dance weekends, as well as times when there is little else happening on the campus. If all of the independent students would support this organization wholeheartedly and agree to pay the determined dues, it would not be impossible for PC to have concerts with such big name artists as the Supremes or the Chad Mitchell Trio. Maybe soon the students from other colleges in the area would be coming to PC for a concert, instead of vice-versa.

It should be understood that the committee does not feel that this organization should be political, although it may well be the largest unit on campus and certainly could make its voice heard.

It is also not intended to be a "fraternity" of sorts. It will be an open organization, and all independent men, coeds and day students would become a part of it simply by paying their dues.

The committee is at work formulating a constitution for the organizaion, which would include such specifications as dues, officers, functions, and purpose. This constitution will be presented at a meeting of all independent students within the next few weeks, at which time opportunity will be given for changes, discussion, and amendments. Your suggestions will be welcomed. Once this organization is approved, the organization can become a reality.

There are innumerable things which an organization of independent students can do to improve our life at PC. We can put PC on the map, but for this we need the support and assistance of all the independent students on this campus.

The fraternities have been very generous in allowing the independents to attend so many of their functions, and if all the independent students will cooperate and give of their time and effort, the Organization of Independent Students may soon be able to return this favor.

Sincerely,
Steering Committee for Independent Organization

Paul Ferguson, Walt Shepard, Danny Wyatt, Sam King, Sarah Stribling, Nina Woody, Larry McLaughlin.

BROADWAY
Cinema

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
April15-16
OBEY FU MANCHU... OR EVERY LIVING THING WILL DIE!
SEVEN ARTS PRODUCTIONS presents SAX ROHMER'S
THE FACE OF FU MANCHU
TECHNICOLOR® TECHNISCOPE®

MONDAY and TUESDAY
April 18 and 19
MOMENT TO MOMENT
Jean Seberg, Honor Black-Man, Sean Garrison.

STARTS WEDNESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
ELVIS PRESLEY in
FRANKIE and JOHNNY

LARRY PRESTON

Photo by Hart

ASHTON BLOUNT

State Golf Tourney Opens Today; PC Squad Enters With 6-1 Record

BY MIKE SIMONS

The South Carolina Intercollegiate Golf Tournament, being played today and tomorrow at Hampton, brings to a climax the 1966 Blue Hose golf season.

Many observers feel that the Hose have a good chance to take top honors in the state meet this year. To date the Hose have a 6-1 record and have defeated other South Carolina schools all of the five times they have played them. Their last win came over Wofford, The Citadel, and College of Charleston at Hampton yesterday in an important tune-up match for the state match.

One thing that has impressed observers about the Hose squad has been the excellent balance of its members. Against Augusta College, for instance, number one man David Sale had a 71, but number six man Steve Albright followed closely with a one-over-par round of 73, including an eagle on the par-five eight berth.

After the state tournament the Hose golfers face South Carolina, and then journey to Atlanta for an important interstate battle with Georgia Tech. After three more dual matches and two tri-team affairs, the Hose will test their golfing skills against the cream of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) teams at Boone, N. C., on May 16-17. The Hose also stand a good chance to show up extremely well in this tournament, as well as in the state match.

Clemson Wins Tennis Title

PC's hopes for an unprecedented 22nd state tennis title were ruined as the Blue Hose netters fell to Clemson 26-19. PC was tied with the Tigers 18-18 at the end of the first day but was completely devastated in the finals.

Clemson and PC faced each other in each of the finals but Pete Collins playing a number two singles managed the only PC win. Collins beat Tom Long 6-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The biggest upset of the day was Zulf Rahim's defeat of defending state champion Bob Harris in the number one singles.

Robbie Hibbits won the first set in the number three singles with Dirkran Ornekian 4-6 but then lost 6-0, 6-2. The Tigers won at five and six rather easily. Perry Reynolds defeated Doug Haynie 6-2, 6-1, and David Wilkins defeated Hart Cobb 6-3, 6-2.

Sam Smithyman beat Larry Connelly 6-2, in the first set but had to rally in the second set to win 10-8 in the number three singles.

The doubles were much closer but the Tigers swept all three to defeat PC 8-1. In an earlier season match Clemson defeated Presbyterian 5-4.

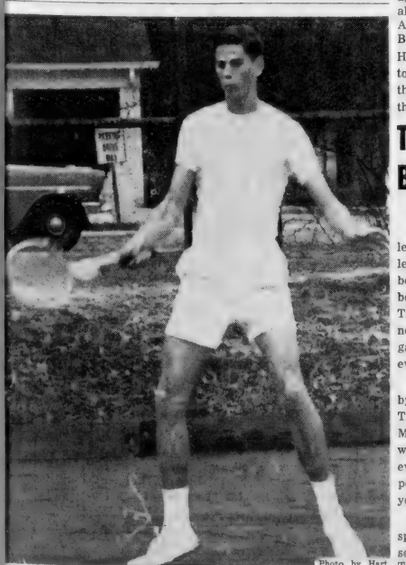

Photo by Hart

PETE COLLINS

Two More Sports Begin Next Week

BY GENE SULLIVAN

Intramural director Bill Crowley has announced that the volleyball courts will be available beginning next week. Games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays only. Monday's, Wednesdays and Fridays will be the game days for softball, with two events daily.

The spirited and speedy Presbyterian College Intramural Track Meet will be held early in May this year. Several records were shattered at last year's event, and even more are expected to be broken by this year's field of competition.

Badminton is back as a spring sport, as is horseshoes, with the season beginning this week. There will be no tennis this year.

Bill Bassham

Track Program Praised

BILL

Ironically this column of a year ago discussed the dire situation of our track team. This year has proved quite a reverse situation from this time last year. At that time the Blue Hose had not won a meet and in fact had lost very badly. This year PC has won both of its meets so far.

Coach Joe Nixon has done an outstanding job in rebuilding our track program. One measure that has proved a help has been the recruiting of football and basketball players who can play spring sports also. This is evident in looking at not only our track team but also the baseball team.

Coach Nixon has also been instrumental in beginning a program which gives the boys some "know how" rather than forcing them to work on their own. This has been evident in the running events this year.

PC completely ran away from Appalachian in the first meet of the year 86-50. The most impressive win came Thursday afternoon when PC edged Wofford for the first time in three years 70-66. A win in anything over Wofford always is very gratifying.

The Blue Hose have proved to be especially tough in the running events. In the Appalachian meet the trackmen captured a first in every running event except the intermediate hurdles. The field events are not as strong as the running ones but hard work has enabled these boys to hold their own.

Doug Allen takes part in the high jump, shot put, and the javelin and has been in the top three in each meet. Richard Reed has been high jumping and running both hurdles. Reed also got a third place in the pole vault against Wofford. Other field men who have proved to be an asset are Mike Meeker in the discus, Robert Hope in the pole vault, and Al Todd in the broad jump.

A strong core of sprinters highlight the running events. Dan Eckstein has proved to be a top man in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes while dividing his time with baseball. The 440 relay composed of Eckstein. Bobby McNair, Ed Dorn, and Jim Sullenburger have yet to lose in the two meets.

The distance running has been anchored by Carlton Manley in the mile, Butch McWaters in the 440, James Challen in the 880, Ellis Jenkins in the two mile, and several others who are too numeruos to mention.

The trackmen have their third meet of the season this Tuesday with Mars Hill at Mars Hill. Then next weekend comes the important Davidson Relays. If the Blue Hose can return from these victorious, it could prove to be the beginnnig of a new era for PC spring sports.

The heartiest congratulations go out not only to Coach Nixon, but to the trackmen and all those students who have supported them.

Baseballers Are Winless

Presbyterian's baseball team is winless in its first twelve games this season. The latest loss was a 13-11 slugfest with Belmont Abbey. In two games with Belmont Abbey the Blue Hose scored 21 runs but still lost both games.

Coach Art Musselman blames the losses on inexperience. PC is starting six freshmen, two sophomores, and only one senior. This experience has hurt in the fact that the players at times make situation mistakes.

Another thing which hurt the Blue Hose has been the fact that PC began its first game with only one day practice. Due to the number of games being played and the weather, Coach Musselman has not been able to have enough practice to iron out the rough spots.

Coach Muusselman said, "a lot of credit should be given to those boys who have stuck with the team throughout the season."

Coach Musselman feels very optimistic about the rest of the season and especially for next year. One person who will be missed next year is the team's leading hitter, Jimmy Elliott.

The Blue Hose have thirteen games left this seassn They have two games with Citadel this weekend. Coach Musselman is confident that the Blue Hose will win a few this year which will be a big help after losing so many.

The Greeks

JIMMY HUMPHRIES
GREEK EDITOR

The Interfraternity Council has discussed within itself and with its faculty advisors—Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Martin, Mr. Baker, and Mr. Halsall—the proposed rush rules for next year. Rush will start October 22, and Pledge Day will be December 1, since Christmas Dance Weekend will probably be December 2-3. Closed Smokers will be held during the week of November 14-22.

Consequnetly, there will be no rushing of freshmen by upperclassmen from the start of school in late August through October 21. Upperclassmen will not associate with freshmen at all during this period of time, and hopefully "dirty" rushing will be eliminated.

There will be a new grade stipulation of probably 1.76 for freshmen mid-semester averages. This figure was calculated by Mr. Taylor Martin to eliminate the requirement of three C's, because in the past a man could have two A's and the rest D's and have a better grade point ratio than a man who could pledge with three C's and the rest F's. The new system, we feel, is fairer to every individual concerned.

The Sigma Nu White Star Weekend is coming up next weekend. They are having the "Dobbs" from Spartanburg to play Friday and Saturday nights. Their new officers will be elected Monday. Their Best Brother and Best Pledge of the year were chosen and will be announced at White Star. It is announced that all their furniture has been rebuilt.

The Brothers and Pledges of Theta Chi Fraternity will travel to Delta Beta Chapter at the University of Georgia this weekend for their annual Rebel Reunion. Entertainment for the weekend ahead is provided by the "Johnny Clark Combo',, better known as "Doug Clark and the Hot Nuts." Congratulations to new brothers Frank Lee, George Latimer, Mike LeFever, and Bill Scott.

There will be a record party in the fraternity suite of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity Saturday night to celebrate the presentation of a new stereo set to the fraternity by the pledge class. Brother of the Week is Tom Barnett. Their weekly antler award goes to Brother Tommy McPhail of Honea Path.

The Alpha Sigma Phi's frolicked in the sand at Panama City during the Spring Break. Woods McGinn is the Brother of the Week. Brother Grady Marshall has lavaliered Miss Angie Reyes of PC from Miami, Fla. Jerry Holland of Atlanta has been newly pledged.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity wishes it announced that they are back in full swing on the campus. Now the IFC will be back into full swing again too with proposed contributions to its treasury from the PiKA's. Their Brother of the Week is Wade Stewart, and Pledge of the Week is Charlie Chapman.

The Kappa Alpha Order has initiated into its Brotherhood six pledges. They are Brothers: Mack Binion of Mobile, Ala; Bill Warnock of Atlanta, Ga.; Dan Hartley of Mt. Pleasant; Alex Batton of Fort Gibson, Miss.; Doug Haynie of Roanoke, Va.; and Bo Bowman of Wytheville, Va.

All men are urged to remember the blood drive that is coming up the Monday following Greek Weekend, and are urged to give. Please remember to have the yellow slip signed by your parents if you are under the age of 21. If by that time you have failed to have your slip signed and wish to give blood, please see you Interfraternity Council representative.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Campus News Briefs

Cadet Corps Rated Outstanding

The Presbyterian College ROTC Battalion was rated "outstanding' by the third U. S. Army inspection team. Col. Robert F. Byard of Fort Bragg, N. C., singling out the Drum and Bugle Corps and the Color Guard, stated that the battalion was the best unit of its type that he had inspected since the team had begun its inspection tour of the South.

The entire staff of the military department was well pleasd with the inspection. Major Robert H. Howe said the inspection was the most thorough one the unit had received in recent years and commended the entire Cadet Corps on its performance.

VAN DINH

earned himself a reputation as a top newpsaperman and reliable news source. Mr. Van Dinh remained in this post until 1956 when he was named Alternate Secretary General, Colombo Plan General Meeting held in Saigon in 1957. That same year he was named Vietnamese Consul General and Minister Plenipotentiary to Burma, holding this post until 1960. During these years he was also an observer at the United Nations (1958), observer at the SEATO meetings in New Zealand (1959), and went on observation and study tours in Latin America, Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Israel.

In 1960 Mr. Van Dinh became a cabinet officer in the Vietnamese government, holding the portfolio of Director General of Information of the Republic of Viet Nam. In 1961 he joined the Vietnamese mission in the United Nations and later that same year was named Counselor in his nation's embassy in Washington, D. C.

Appointed Charge-d'Affaires in 1963 he served as acting Vietnamese ambassador to the United States after the resignation of Tran Van Chong, father of Madame Nhu.

JOSH

peared on CBS's "Let's Sing Out", and "The Pierre Berton Show."

In addition to his ever-incrasing number of solo appearances, Josh White, Jr., has been presented in concert with such outstanding attractions as the Henry Mancini Orchestra, The Glenn Miller Band, as well as many of the country's leading concert groups. His ability to be programmed in concert with others, be they big band, folk, rock and roll, comedy or jazz is a tribute to his versatility. Evidence of Josh Jr.'s entertainment value is indicated by the 1965 Billboard Poll of Colleges and Universities which placed him as the eleventh most popular campus attraction in his field.

Although in recent years his style has increasingly differed from that of his father, Josh Jr. is quick to admit his debt for the techniques that were developed during his years of apprenticeship. From time to time, their busy individual schedules meet and then, to the delight of audiences, they are heard together in concert.

"I'm On My Way", Josh White, Jr.'s first solo album, has been recently released by Mercury Records and presents the many moods of this versatile young artist. Members of the Columbia Record Club found it to be the alternate selection for January and is still available through the club.

Chapel Schedule

Monday — Convocation, The Hon. Tran Van Dinh, Chief Washington Correspondent—The Saigon (Viet Nam) Post, Former Acting Ambassador of Viet Nam to the United States.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, The Rev. Dana Waters, III, Lake City Presbyterian Church, Lake City.

Friday—Program on Sex Education sponsored by the SCA. Dr. M. F. Bergstedt, Psychiatrist, South Carolina State Mental Hospital, Columbia.

Draft Exam

Dr. Claude Cooler, Director of Guidance, announces that the Selective Service College Qualification Test will be administered on May 14, May 21, and June 3, 1966, in Richaddson Hall of Science to registrants who plan to request occupational deferments as college students. The test scores of registrants will provide the local boards with evidence of their aptitude for continued college work.

To be eligible, the applicant (1) must be a Selective Service registrant who intends to request occupational deferment as a college student, and (2) must not previously have taken the test.

All eligible registrants who wish to take the test should apply immediately. Information and application cards may be obtained from the Guidance Center. Applications for the test must be postmarked no later than Saturday, April 23, 1966.

Cadet Orientation

Approximately 40 MSII's and MSIII's, along with those MS IV's who have not attended summer camp, left this morning at 5:30 for a two-day orientation and briefing program at Ft. Jackson.

Each cadet will be assigned to a training brigade and will then be given the opportunity to observe the training of recruits. The cadets will also fire M14 rifles on the training range at Ft. Jackson.

Cadets will view a skydiving exhibition and a modern weapons display. They will also see a Basic Training Graduation Parade.

Swimming Pool

The present swimming hours are Tuesday and Thursday from 3:00-5:00 p. m. These will be increased at a later date.

Staff and faculty children using the swimming pool are requested to show athletic cards to the life guard in charge until they can be recognized as college-connected. Guests will be admitted by notification of the athletic office in advance of their visit. Names of guests are to be given to the athletic office.

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 3,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR
FOCUS

The Christian Science Monitor
1 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115
Please enter a Monitor subscription for the name below.
I am enclosing $_____ (U. S. funds) for the period checked. ☐ 1 year $12 ☐ 9 months $9 ☐ 6 months $6
Name_____
Street_____ Apt./Rm. #_____
City_____ State_____ Zip_____
☐ College student_____ Year of graduation_____
☐ Faculty member
F-CN-61

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 22, 1966 No. 19

Photo by Howard

JIM BANKHEAD explains Greek Weekend plans to Jimmy Humphries, Blue Stocking Greek Editor.

Name Talent Will Be on Campus As Greeks Stage Annual Weekend

BY JIMMY HUMPHRIES
Greek Editor

This weekend marks the annual Greek Weekend at Presbyterian College. The six Greek fraternities on campus have parties in and around Clinton.

Jim Bankhead, Chairman of the Student Entertainment Committee, has arranged to have two different events on campus featuring two big names. Friday night in Judd Hall Betty Everett and the Constellations will entertain from 8:00 until 12:00. There is no admission charge for this dance.

Saturday afternoon from 4:00 until 5:30 in Belk Auditorium Josh White, Jr., will entertain in concert form. There is a charge of one dollar to non-PC affiliated persons. The public is welcome. All students, faculty, and administration are invited to these events. Fraternity houses will be closed during the Greek Weekend school functions.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity is having a record party at Brother Caily Gault's lot at Lake Greenwood Saturday night. Their Brother of the Week is Brother Bill Monroe of Laurel Hill, N. C. An old car has been pulled on campus near Doyle Infirmary. The cost of a swing at it with a sledge hammer is 25c, and the money will be used to buy a bus for the Boys' Farm in Newberry. Everybody is urged to help out in this effort.

The Kappa Alpha Order is having a closed party Saturday night from 8:00-12:00, with the Monarchs at the Legion Hut in Clinton.

The Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity is having its annual Hawaiian Holiday Saturday night, with the Youngsmen in their fraternity suite. The party is closed except by special invitation. Brother Grady Marshall has pinned Miss Angela Reyes of Miami, Fla., and Brother Skip Matson has pinned Miss Sherry Connell of Alexandria, Va. Both young ladies are PC students. Brother of the Week is Brother Tom Grey.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity is having its annual White Star Weekend. Friday night at the Laurens Country Club they are having a closed party from 8:00-12:00 with the Monarchs. Saturday afternoon and night they move to Echo Valley. They are having the "Fabulous Five" Saturday night.

The Sigma Nu's have elected officers for the coming year: Commander, Frank Marquette; Lt. Commander, Bob Herlong; Recorder, Ray Crim; Treasurer, Andy Cooper; Chaplain, Ed Gregory; Rush Chairman, Bob Staton; House Manager, Dan O'Connell; Reporter, Robbie Hibbitts; IFC Representative, George Lindsay; Historian, Joe Stevens; Social Chairman, Bill Buchheit; Scholastic Chairman, Jule Hedden; Intramural Chairman, Webb Watters; Sentinel, Art Sammons; Alumni Contact, Eddy Bolton.

The Theta Chi's had a successful weekend at the University of Georgia at their annual "Rebel Reunion." Nineteen Brothers and Pledges attended, and their Beta Psi Chapter captured for the fifth straight year the "many-man miles" trophy awarded for the greatest distance traveled by a delegation They are having a party Saturday night in their fraternity suite.

See Photo Feature Page Three

Student Council Election Calendar

for expressing candidacy by for expressing cnadidacy by signing roster on Student Council Office door. Roster will be closed at 12 midnight.

Monday, April 25 — Primary election. Polls will be open from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Voters can only vote for members of their own classes. A ballot will be printed containing the names of all candidates who signed the roster, but write-in votes may also be cast. Members of the respective classes will vote for three Senior Representatives, three Junior Representatives, and two Sophomore Representatives. Members of the present Senior Class will not vote in this election, as its purpose is to give members of the other classes the opportunity to nominate candidates. The five rising seniors, five rising juniors, and four rising sophomores receiving the most votes will be declared official candidates for Student Council Representatives.

Tuesday, April 26 — Campus-wide runoff for candidates nominated in Monday's primary. No write-in votes will be counted. Any candidate receiving a majority of votes cast will be declared a winner. The top three candidates for Senior Representative will be the candidates for Student Body President.

Wednesday, April 27—Second runoff election if needed to decide who will fill the remaining Council positions. Wednesday night in Belk Auditorium speeches will be given by the three candidates for Student Body President.

Friday, April 29—Election for Student Body President. Candidate receiving most votes will be declared President, candidate receiving second greatest number of votes will be Vice-President, remaining candidate will be Senior Representative.

Monday, May 2—Installation of newly elected Student Council. Four members of this Council will be chosen to attend the SUSGA Convention in Jacksonville on May 5, 6, and 7.

S. C. Selective Board Tells Status of Draft Deferment

Dr. Claude H. Cooler, director of Guidance at Presbyterian College, telephoned the State Director of Selective Service in Columbia this past week in response to student interest in the upcoming draft deferment test.

Col. W. D. Redd, Jr., Deputy Director, said that taking the test is left to the student's option, but he did encourage everyone to take the test in order that their local draft boards might help them take advantage of deferment practices.

There are four factors which are considered in granting deferments. These are: (1) test scores, (2) class standing or grades, (3) whether the student is a full-time student, and (4) whether the student is doing satisfactory work.

Col. Red did emphasize, however, that if the student were on the borderline, it would be advisable to take the test for addtional insurance against being drafted.

The deadline for registering for the test is tomorrow, April 23. Information and registration blanks are available in the Guidance Office of Douglas House.

Academy of Science Meets Friday at PC

The 39th annual meeting of the South Carolina Academy of Science will be held at Presbyterian College this Friday and Saturday, with some 200 persons to be in attendance.

Richardson Hall of Science, PC's new $850,000 facility, will serve as headquarters for the two-day session. Registration is scheduled to begin there at 2 p. m. Friday, and the meeting will extend through Saturday afternoon.

A symposium on pollution is the featured subject for the general session program on Friday night in Greenville Hall, following the banquet at 7:00 p. m. Daniel O. Adams of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company will serve as moderator, and the speakers will be: Dr. George F. Meenaghan of Clemson University, "A Current Status of Federal Pollution Laws"; Dr. Milton W. Davis, Jr., of the University of South Carolina, "Theory and Application of Zeta Potential for Coagulation of Solids in Waste Water"; and Dr. F. Christppher Alley, also of Clemson, "Secondary Air Pollutants and Meteorology."

A total of 68 papers will be presented by the academy members at the various section meetings on Friday afternoon and throughout Saturday. There also will be a business meeting of the South Carolina Psychological Association on Saturday afternoon and a meeting to seek the reestablishment of the philosophy section.

Blood for Viet Nam
10:30 a. m.-4:00 p. m.
Douglas House
Monday, April 25, 1966

Rev. Dana Waters

The Church's View on Sex

"The very fact that Presbyterian College is having a Sex Education Week indicates that some people are questioning the propriety of sex," stated the Rev. Dana Waters of the Lake City Presbyterian Church, Lake City, in his talk in chapel Wednesday on the attitude of the church toward sex.

Rev. Waters believes that society is living in a "changing moral environment," and that today the unwed mother is an "unfortunate girl who has made a mistake" and not the "scarlet" woman.

The social stigma or disapproval still exists, however, as a television poll has revealed in its survey of 15,000 people. Rev. Waters explained the above conflicting statements in this way, "Today there is a more open rejection of old standards, not an entire disregard for them."

The American people have inherited two entirely opposite attitudes toward sex—one affirmative and the other negative. They have, according to Rev. Waters, either made it a dirty word (a wifely duty) or have glorified it as very romantic.

The American nation has also

See SEX Page 6, Col. 1

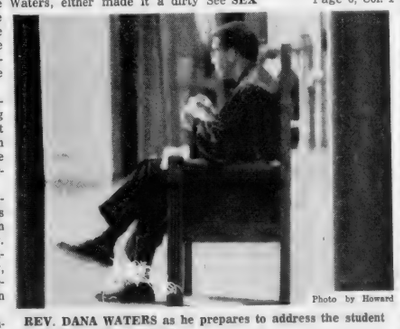

Photo by Howard

REV. DANA WATERS as he prepares to address the student body Wednesday in chapel.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

WM. W. HALL, JR. Editor — CHARLES EAGLES Mng. Editor — JOS. B. STEPHENS Bus. Mgr.

Improvements for Book Store Cited

While Presbyterian College improves its physical facilities, we must not lose sight of what the primary objective of this institution should be: Education. Accompanying the expansion of the facilities should be an improvement and an upgrading of the academic climate.

At the present time the greatest improvement to the academic life would be an enlarged and enriched college book store. Any successful college book store must be of sufficient size and at the center of activity on the campus.

The first major step to improve the book store, therefore, should be its relocation in a place that is larger and more accessible to the entire college community. Such a place is the television room in Douglas House. The television now occupying this space could be placed in the basement of Douglas House if the pool tables were placed in Judd Building with the other recreational equipment. The basement is of adequate size to accommodate the usual small number of television viewers, and there is unused space in the rear of Judd that the pool tables could occupy.

The relocation of the book store in the present television room would make it easier for students to stop and browse in the store. Browsing is necessary because books are usually purchased on impulse, not after lengthy consideration.

This new location of the book store would more than double its floor space and, therefore, make a second improvement possible. Books other than required texts could be handled in this additional space. Comprised of the latest inexpensive non-fiction books in all major fields and carefully chosen representatives of fiction, this wider selection would enable the students and faculty to keep more up to date with the literature in their fields.

Many publishers carry a series of paperback books that cover most all fields. Examples are the Harper Torch Book Series and the Scribner Library Series. The Modern Library Series is a collection of inexpensive hardback books. All of these could be easily carried in the book store.

The college library is now unable to supply the college with many of the modern works in non-fiction as well as fiction. The expanded book store would not necessarily compete with the library, but would tend to complement the library's activities.

Books of the study guide type that are of good quality should be carried by the book store.

In order to handle an expanded book store, it would be necessary to employ a full-time manager. The manager would be assisted by students so that the book store could be open every day for longer hours.

The above proposals, if put into effect, would put the Presbyterian College book store on a par with those of many larger colleges and universities.

C. W. E.

The Indisputable Prayer

What insanity burlesques its birth as the coming of age:
The map of time?
The hour glass widow mates and consumes her mate with equal love,
The cleavages of the egg, the pulsating fetus, and now
The kicking babe.
The Harlot labors heavily under the climbing sun,
Her breasts sag under the new weight.
More blood there is to fill the gluttonous one
Which her womb can no more enclose.
In the dying sun rose up the monger and soon did lay his seed,
And now reaps the sickle the fruits wrought of his carnal greed.
Thus the weak inherit the earth as pigs chew the cob and Taste no corn.
While all men look for tomorrow and readily forget today
Which is the culmination of the past and the indisputable reason to pray.

Name Withheld Upon Request

Officials Answer Proposal

Several weeks ago the Student Council presented to the Administration in the interest of the student body a proposal for student participation on two of the faculty committees.

These committees, the Religious Activities Committee and the Student Activities Committee, play a very prominent and integral part in each student's life and tenureship at the college, committees on which students should certainly have some influence.

President Weersing in a letter to the President of the Student Government Association expressed the opinion of the administration, "The administrative officers do feel there is merit in your suggesiton, since it seeks to take advantage of any sound ideas the student body may wish to present.

"Our conviction is, however, that this purpose can best be served by having student leaders available to appear before any of the faculty committees upon committee request to express views that may be helpful in rendering decisions. Some committees already are following this practice.

"We will urge all committee chairmen call upon students whenever matters are being considered that will benefit from thoughtful student opinion."

In a closed interview with President Weersing, Student Body President Henry Lovett expressed disagreement with the Administration's viewpoint. Lovett stated later to the paper that several concerned students will seek to evaluate the problem and present their opinions in the next edition of The Blue Stocking. Two questions stand utmost in these students' minds at this point:

1) Is it asking too much for students to sit in on the two faculty committees, which vitally involve the student body?

2) Should not the Faculty have a voice in this decision?

When asked the names of the "concerned students" involved, Lovett replied that at least three beside himself would take part: Jim Stanford, Sam Waters, and David Davies.

He said, "This is an aspect of student interest which should cause questions from the campus population. I hope that the students and faculty will read what these students have to say next week."

Burton Portrays Spy In Espionage Movie

In a startling departure from the current game of escapist, fantasyland spy films, "The Spy Who Came In the Cold" is a hard-hitting and intricately woven account of a duel between British and East German intelligence officers.

Helplessly caught in the machinations of the efficient espionage system is Leamas (Richard Burton), a cynical, seedy, and at times a sordid character—a spy whose activities are no better, no worse, than those of his opposites in the other camp.

In short, Burton's agent is man, not superman. His spy, on the way down through no fault of his own, is brought "in from the cold"—a phrase from the language of the world of espionage meaning "relegated to a dead job."

He then is sent on a special assignment, only to be sacrificed to protect an East German double agent.

BLUE STOCKING POLL

The Blue Stocking will conduct a sample poll next week. The editors would appreciate student cooperation in this endeavor.

Letter to the Editor

Roberts Replies to Bartlett

To the Editor:

Perhaps it is a step out of line for a freshman to take a position such as this in a letter to the editor, especially along this line, but in view of the fact that the controversy involves another freshman, I distressingly present a letter of disagreement.

The main area of concern is the letter in the April 15 edition of The Blue Stocking in which the writer questions the call for team support and indeed, whether he realizes it or not, the very concept of school spirit.

Presbyterian College has been in the past and even now is renowned for her thundering support of her athletic teams. It seems as though from time immemorial this school has had spirit, in the truest essense of the word, running through its "veins."

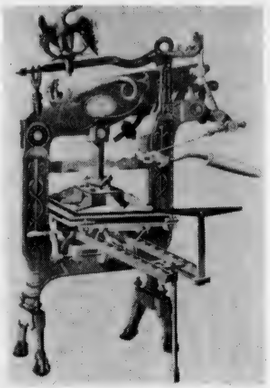
Personally, I can truly say that some of the most thrilling times of my life have been, in the last seven months, seeing this student body back their teams to the hilt.

If the reader will carefully examine the facts, he will find that only a very small number of scholarships are allowed by the Conference in fall and winter sports and next to none in spring sports. So, it seems that there is something else involved in this matter of "bashing your head in five days a week."

It could also be safely said that very few get at the idea of sports with the desire that others should "watch his exploits and cheer him on to greater heights" — how ridiculous can you get!

This school has done a great deal for many of its students, and I venture to say that many of us would not be here at all were it not for the very character of the institution itself. This is probably the reason that there is so much spirit—the students love this school and all that it means, and brother it shows!

While I would be the first to grant the writer the right to his opinion (certainly no one could possibly deny him that), it must be said that those who disparagingly criticize these men who are working for PC and those who support them reveal an obvious lack of taste and maturity.



When we, in efforts to attain maturity, lose sight of the values in this life, we then become nothing more than a reactionary, a stage of immaturity. The so-called "trite pitch," "let's go out and support the team," must must be applied and amplified to sports and then on to all phases of campus life such as the Choir, dramas, etc.

Now, to the pseudo-sophisticate the above must seem like a plate of split cliches, a heaping spoonful of Fourth-of-July-Community Picnic, three scoops of sentimentality, topped by a big "garnet and blue" cherry. If so, tough stuff. I take great pleasure and pride in this school's "corniness" and, in support of PC, submit this letter of disagreement.

Sincerely,
Daniel M. Roberts, Jr.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 22, 1966 — No. 19

The Blue Stocking first rolled off the press in 1920 under the direction of Carl M. McMurray, now pastor of the Marion (N. C.) Presbyterian Church.

The paper was printed for 20 years before any major change took place in its make-up. On February 5, 1940, the last issue of the paper was printed using the original style and make-up, featuring an Old English nameplate.

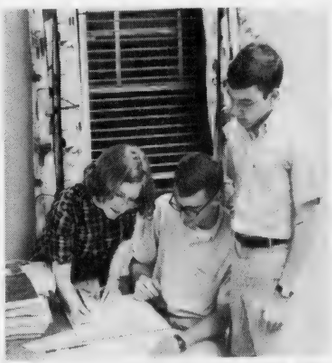
Under the leadership of Tucker Irvin, the paper acquired a new look. The paper again underwent no drastic change until 1965 when Bob Allison and Walter Wells reinstated the Old English nameplate.

In 1941, Editor Charles MacDonald won the first All-American rating for The Blue Stocking. The second semseter, MacDonald's paper won an even higher rating, All-American Pacemaker, as one of the ten best collegiate papers in the nation.

Ben Hay Hammet, now public relations director for PC, followed with two All-American ratings in 1942, with one semester's publication honored as All-American Pacemaker among the seven best collegiate papers in the nation.

Since 1942, The Blue Stocking has been named All-American 11 times, the most recent being in 1959 under the editorship of Evin Varner.

The Blue Stocking is published weekly by the student body of Presbyterian College, with the assistance of the Chronicle Publishing Co. of Clinton, S. C.



BOB DALTON interviews Jim Stanford for SCA plans.

MAVIS HARROP AND GLORIA PORTER, typists, transfer the reporters' notes to type.

BUSINESS MGR. JOE STEVENS AND EDITOR WOODY HALL discuss possibilities for new advertising.

SUSAN GILBERT, CHARLES EAGLES, AND RUSH O'EY design front-page layout.

JERRY, ASSISTED BY EAGLES AND SAM WATERS, transfers hand-design layout to printer's type.

AFTER PROOF-READING, JACK MURPHY shows Lang one final mistake before Cat begins the final run on the press.

STUDENTS scramble for the first editions to hit the dining hall.

FINAL EDITION RELEASED, the entire staff rushes to interview Charlie.

God Died Today in Georgia

BY ANTHONY TOWNE
Special to The New York Times

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 9—God, creator of the universe, principal diety of the world's Jews, ultimate reality of Christians, and most eminent of all divinities, died late yesterday during major surgery undertaken to correct a massive diminishing influence. His exact age is not known, but close friends estimate that is greatly exceeded that of all other extant beings.

The cause of death could not be immediately determined, but the deity's surgeon, Thomas J. J. Altizer, 38, of Emory University in Atlanta, indicated possible cardiac insufficiency. Assisting Dr. Altizer in the unsuccessful surgery were Dr. Paul van Buren of Temple University, Philadelphia; Dr. William Hamilton of Colgate-Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., and Dr. Gabriel Vahanian of Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y.

Word of the death, long rumored, was officially disclosed to reporters at five minutes before midnight after a full day of mounting anxiety and the comings and goings of ecclesiastical dignitaries.

TEXAN "UPSET"

In Johnson City, Tex., President Johnson was described by aides as "profoundly upset." He at once directed that all flags should be at half-staff until after the funeral. The First Lady and two Presidential daughters, Luci and Lynda, were understood to have wept openly. Both houses of Congress met in Washington at noon today and promptly adjourned after passing a joint resolution expressing "grief and great respect for the departed spiritual leader." Senator Wayne Morse, Democrat of Oregon, objected on the grounds that the resolution violated the principle of separation of church and state, but he was overruled by Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, who remarked that "this is not a time for partisan politics."

Plans for the deity's funeral are incomplete. Reliable sources suggested that extensive negotiations may be necessary in order to select a church for the services and an appropriate liturgy. Dr. Wilhelm Pauck, theologian of Union Seminary in New York City, proposed this morning that it would be "fitting and seemly" to inter the remains in the ultimate ground of all being. Funerals for divinities, common in ancient times, have been exceedingly rare in recent centuries.

Reaction from the world's great and from the man in the street was uniformly incredulous. "At least he's out of his misery," commented one housewife in an Elmira supermarket. "I can't believe it," said the Right Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York. In Paris, President de Gaulle in a 30-second appearance on national television, proclaimed "God is dead! Long live the republic! Long live France!" News of the death was indicated in a one-sentence statement, without comment, on the third page of Izvsetia, official organ of the Soviet Government. The passing of God has not been disclosed to the 800 million Chinese who live behind the bamboo curtain.

"DAMN SHAME"

Public reaction in this country was perhaps summed up by an elderly retired street car conductor in Passaic, N. J., who said: "I never met him, of course. Never saw him. But from what I heard I guess he was a real nice fellow. Tops." From Independence, Mo., former President Harry S. Truman, who received the news in his Kansas City barber shop, said: "I'm always sorry to hear somebody is dead. It's a damn shame." In Gettysburg, Pa., former President Dwight D. Eisenhower released through a military aide the following statement: "Mrs. Eisenhower joins me in heartfelt sympathy to the family and many friends of the late God. He was, I always felt, a force for moral good in the universe. Those of us who were privileged to know him admired the probity of his character, the breadth of his compassion, the depth of his intellect. Generous almost to a fault, his many acts of kindness to America will never be forgotten. It is a very great loss indeed. He will be missed."

IMPOSTER?

From Basel, Switzerland, came word that Dr. Karl Barth, venerable Protestant theologian, informed of the death of God, declared: "I don't know who died in Atlanta, but whoever he was he's an imposter."

Dr. Altizer, God's surgeon, in an exclusive interview with The Times, stated this morning that the death was not unexpected." "He had been ailing for some time," Dr. Altizer said, "and lived much longer than most of us thought possible." He noted that the death of God had, in fact, been prematurely announced in the last century by the famed German surgeon Nietsche. Nietsche, who was insane the last ten years of his life, may have confused "certain symptoms of morbity in the aged patient with actual death, a mistake any busy surgeon will occasionallly make." Dr. Altizer suggested, "God was an excellent patient, compliant, cheerful, alert. Every comfort modern science could provide was made available to him. He did not suffer—he just, as it were, slipped out of our grasp."

Taken from Motive, February, 1966, Magazine of Methodist Student Movement, Copyright 1966, Board of Education of Methodist Church.

Photo by Hart

INSPECTION ARMS! Bill Bassham comes to Inspection Arms as an Inspecting Officer walks through the ranks. The PC Cadet Corps received an "outstanding" rating during its recent inspection.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Financiel Campaign Begins in Georgia

The largest fund-raising campaign ever planned by Georgia Presbyterians is about to begin, with Presbyetrian College designated as one of the principal objectives.

The drive is to benefit six agencies supported by the Synod. Of the four-million-dollar goal which has been set, PC has been designated to receive $1.5 million. The greater part of this amount will be used for Georgia Hall, the proposed men's dormitory which will house approximately 250 students.

Approximately $200,000 will be used to pay for renovating decrepit Neville Hall, and another $400,000 will go into PC's endowment fund.

President Weersing has emphasized that these are emergency needs of the college as it endeavors to fulfill its responsibility to the mounting number of its students.

The drive will be continued with some phase in effect through 1967.

Frosh Face First Greek Fraternity Frolic and Fun

BY AL K. HALL and I. F. SEAY

Spring comes in the midst of blooms, baby booms, hour quizzes, afternoon fizzes, sports, and snorts. In the midst of spring comes Greek Weekend, the mythical two days when Bacchus reigns supreme, when life is but a dream.

Phineas is a fraternity pledge. He was a big deal in high school and had a part in the church play once. He is about six feet tall and is a "sharp" dresser.

When Phineas came to PC, he was sort of hesitant about joining in the social life, for he had heard of the wild parties where boys drank beer and did nasty things with their girls and everything. But after all, he wanted to be liked and to be part of campus life, so he rushed his father's fraternity and received a bid.

The first semester of his education was a loser. Phineas tried to drink, but he always came down with an upset stomach afterwards. He tried to date, but most girls were finicky about a boy named Phineas. Anyway, he thought, he needed to study.

But now, things are different with Phineas. It is Greek Weekend; and Phineas is a full-fledged Greek, or rather he soon will be if he makes his 2.0, if his parents decide to let him become a Brother, if he finds the money from somewhere, and if the fraternity Brothers decide to let him become a Brother. He would have made it if it weren't for Moose. Moose hates Phineas. Moose is a Brother.

Phineas has a date for tonight. Just this past Wednesday night he called a girl he had met on the bus two years before.

Phineas will have a good time this weekend. There will be parties until and through the wee-wee hours! After the parties, who knows what will happen! Phineas will probably take his date in and then go back to his room and go to sleep—that is, if Moose doesn't steal Phineas date before the party is over.

Altogether, Phineas and his phraternity brothers will have a weekend to remember. All too quickly it will be over. The girl will leave. Only the clean-up party will remain. In the middle of a Sunday afternoon, Greek Weekend will come to an end But the Greeks will carry on until spring returns again next year.

Summer Courses Announced

Dean Joseph M. Gettys has announced that 31 courses in nine departments will be offered during PC's 1966 summer school, scheduled for May 30-August 16.

The first term is set for May 30-July 8; the second, for July 8-August 16. A maximum number of 12 semester hours' credit (two additional for labroatory science) is available for both terms or six hours for either one of the two terms.

The courses to be taught at PC during the 1966 summer session include:

Bible—Old Testament Survey (first term), Acts and Teachings of the Apostles (first term), Christian Doctrine (if necessary, first term), Life and Philosophy of Christ (second term), The Christian Life (second term).

Biology — General Biology (both terms).

Economics—Principles of Economics (both terms), Advertising and Merchandising (first term), Marketing (second term).

Education—Methods of Teaching (first term), Educational Tests and Measurements (second term).

English—Survey of English Literature (both terms), English composition (first term), Introduction to Literary Types (second term).

History — Ancient Civilization (first term), A Survey of European Civilization (both terms). South Carolina History (second term).

Mathematics—College Mathematics of Finance (last time to offer, first term), Introduction to Sets, Relations, and Functions (second term), Analytic Geometry and Calculus I (second term).

Psychology — Introduction to Psychology (both terms).

Spanish—Elementary Spanish (both terms), Intermediate Spanish (both terms).

Summer school classes meet every day of the week, Monday through Friday, for the entire 11 weeks. There are two classes each day—one from 8:00 a. m. to 9:50 a. m., and another from 10:30 a. m. to 12:20 p. m.

Interested persons are urged to contact the Director of Summer School for further information.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

Hose Plagued With Pitching Woes; Hitting Gives Cause for Optimism

BY MIKE SIMONS

After the first 17 games of the season have been played, Coach Art Musselman and his Hose diamond men are still searching for that elusive spectre of victory, which so far has remained just beyond their reach.

Pitching seems to be the weakest point of the Hose's attack. George Lindsay is definitely the workhorse of the Blue's mound corps, having appeared in nine games of the season.

Besides Lindsay, the pitching staff consists mainly of Skipper Horne and Paul Ferguson, but several others have seen relief action, including Rad Free, Bobby Byard, Woody Daniel, Shell Dula, and Robert Hackle. Star left fielder Jimmy Eilliott even started one game against Belmont Abbey.

The hitting to date gives some cause for optimism for the Blue. They have two men above the .300 mark and still two more over the .440 mark. Byard is currently leading in the batting average with a lusty .454 average, with 10 hits in 22 times at bat. Byard also leads in doubles with three for the season, and is second in round-tripping with two. Dula is not too far behind Byard, hitting a healthy .417, having garnered five hits in 12 official trips to the plate.

Elliott has been the main slugger for the Hose, leading the team in home runs and triples, with three apiece. Elliott has shown himself to be a consistent hitter as well as a slugger compiling a very respectable .395 mark. He has collected 15 hits in 38 times at bat, both season highs for the Blue. Besides being a key stickman, Elliott has been a reliable glove man at his left field position.

Larry Bullis is the other man inside the select .300 circle, as he has connected with the horsehide five times in 16 official trips to the plate for a .312 mark.

In the pilfered bases department one finds speedy Dan Eckstein leading the club. Eckstein has a total of nine thefts to his credit including three in one game against The Citadel.

Coach Musselman has lost two of his starters this season in the persons of shortstop Tommy Lovett and right fielder Wade Stewart, and several others have been hobbled by injuries. Rookie third baseman Robin Williams is currently out with a sprained ankle for approximately another week.

Dula was out for a few games after he cut his wrist on the railing running around the ball park stands while chasing a foul ball.

Even though the Hose have yet to win, they still are full of optimism and feel that they can win a few games before the season's close. Musselman is still experimenting with his lineup in hopes of finding a winning combination.

The Presbyterian baseball diamond is not yet completed, and the Hose have had to play all their home games at the Clinton Cavaliers' field.

Netmen Beat Wake In Tennis

The Hose netters return home today from a three-day road trip to the North where they tangled with Wake Forest, Duke, and North Carolina.

After whitewashing the Wake Forest team 9-0, the Hose team then lost a close bout with the Blue Devils of Duke, 5-4, and then were completely demolished by the North Carolina Tarheels 9-0. The Hose's record now stands at 9-8 with six matches remaining.

The Blue Hose now seem assured of a winning season, since two of their scheduled matches are with The Citadel, which has proven to be rather weak this season. The first of the matches is tomorrow in Clinton. The Hose will also be favored over the Furman netters when they meet here on April 28. This match was originally scheduled for April 7 but was postponed because of the death of one of the past presidents of the University.

The powerful University of Georgia netters invade the Hose's domain Tuesday and should win handily, as they shellacked the Hose previously in Athens 9-0. Although number one and two men Bob Harris and Pete Collins lost, both are capable of pulling off a big upset in their singles' matches. Collins won his first set but then lost two straight sets and the match.

The Hose play host to East Carolina on April 27, and then on May 7 East Tennessee comes to Clinton. The Hose should dispose of these two teams, but the possibility of an upset always remains.

Next season the Hose will play primarily a Carolinas Conference schedule, and they should fare well in conference play. PC defeated defending champion Appalachian 9-0. However, the Hose have not played enough conference opponents this season to qualify for the tournament.

Allen, Reed Lead Track Team's Win

By GENE SULLIVAN

The Presbyterian tracksters took their third consecutive win of the season by swamping Mars Hill 125-21.

Ellis Jenkins, James Challen, Johnny McCallum, and Jimmy Bankhead had their usual good day. Richard Reed scored 17 points in several events. Doug Allen was high for the team with 18 points as he high-jumped in the vicinity of six feet.

Robert Hope looked exceptionally good as he pole-vaulted 12 feet for the first time this year. The Hose won every event except the shot-put. The relay team looked strong and able. Presbyterian had previously beaten Wofford and Appalachian.

This weekend the Blue Hose have a real challenge as they sprint in the Davidson relays against East Tennessee State University, Wofford, Mars Hill, and all eight Carolinas Conference teams. The Hose were winless last year but came on strong this season due to Freshman Robert Hope in the pole-vault, Carlton Manley in the mile, Dan Eckstein in the sprints, as well as Jim Sullenberger, Bob McNair, and Dowl Thompson. Mike Meeker also added freshman strength to the team.

Renewed efforts by Upperclassmen Reed, McWaters, Challen, Jenkins, Bankhead, Allen, McCallum, and Milligan have forged the Presbyterian tracksters into a winning group who have raced to three quick wins with school records falling everywhere.

Photo by Hart

ELLIS JENKINS

Bill Bassham

More Praise: This Time, Golf

BILL

For the second week in a row I have one of the spring sports to praise. It feels real good to see PC excel in its spring sports as it has done this year.

Last weekend the golf team defeated defending champion Wofford 19-17 in a sudden death play-off to win the South Carolina Intercollegiate Golf Championship. It was the first time in the history of the tournament that there had been a sudden death play-off.

PC led after the first day's action by three strokes with a score of 287. Wofford and South Carolina trailed the Blue Hose with scores of 290.

The Terriers rallied on Saturday to tie PC at 588 after 36 holes. South Carolina finished a close third only two strokes behind. On the first hole of the play-off the Blue Hose golfers had three pars and a bogey. Wofford's Stroman had a bogey, and Don Taylor double-bogeyed to give PC the win.

Stroman won the individual honors with a 140 after a blistering 66 on the first day. Vic Hannon finished second by four strokes. Hannon apparently had won the title until he took a nine on the seventeenth hole in the final round. Bill Kellam of PC and Billy Stork of South Carolina finished in a tie for third place.

Kellam led the PC golfers with a 145 followed closely by David Sale and Ashton Blount with scores of 146 and 147 respectively. Larry Preston with a 150, Steve Albright with a 156, and Bunky Hanks with a 166 rounded out the top six.

Bruce Lawrence, Rick Sioholm, Dan O'Connell, and Alan Parsons also competed in the tournament as independent players. Lawrence and Sjoholn made very good showings in the independent bracket.

The other teams competing in the tournament finished in order of the Citadel, Erskine, Clemson, and the Baptist College of Charleston.

The Blue Hose linksmen now stand 7-1 on the season with eight matches left. The big event is the NAIA tournament in the middle of May in Boone, N. C.

This column joins the entire student body in congratulating Coach Gerry Wells and the whole team and gives them our thanks for getting us a state championship this spring.

Intramurals Begin Volleyball Matches

Activities in spring intramurals are budding forth like the season. The PiKA's lead the race with 330 total points and a strong softball team that could repeat this year as a winner.

If the PiKA's can win in softball, the Sigma Nu's will really have a hard time. The Nu's have 327 points and are hot on the trail. They too have an excellent softball team and possibly could take the trophy home. Both Sigma Nu softball teams won big games this week.

Volleyball has soared to the favorite spring sport with all matches on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Sigma Nu's and the PiKA's are co-favorites, and each team picked up a big win this past week. The KA's and several independent teams are also doing well.

A once seldom - practiced event, horseshoes, has also come onto the forefront of activities. Many enthusiasts are participating, and no results are in.

Student Intramural Director Bill Crowley has announced that the track meet will be held the first week in May. Badminton will also begin at that time. There will be no tennis this year.

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, APRIL 22-23
ELVIS PRESLEY in
FRANKIE and JOHNNY
With Donna Douglas
MON. - TUES. - WED. APRIL 25-27
THE SPY WHO CAME IN FROM THE COLD
Richard Burton, Claire Bloom

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Campus News Briefs

Senator M. L. Parker Will Talk at Wofford

South Carolina State Senator Marshall J. Parker will speak at Wofford College Thursday, April 28, at 7:30 p. m. in the college auditorium. Senator Parker's speech is sponsored by the Wofford Young Republicans and is open to the public.

Parker is seeking a seat in the U. S. Senate on the GOP ticket. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a Marine veteran.

Chapel Schedule

Monday — Student Convocation. Dr. W. McLeod Frampton, Jr., sponsored by the FIC.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, The Rev. P. D. McGeachy, III, First Presbyterian Church, Gainesville, Ga.

Friday—Convocation, Awards Day, Dr. Joseph Stukes, Chairman of the History Department, Lander College.

Block P Election

Junior James Smith, a starting end for the Blue Hose, was elected president of the Block P Club in voting this week. Smith of Sylvania, Ga., succeeds senior Don McNeill.

Also elected were Sam Lyons, vice-president, and Monk Milligan, secretary-treasurer. The club, which strives to create greater interest in athletics, is open only to students who have earned a varsity letter in a sport at PC.

Wardlaw Harmond led similar meetings for the female students.

These meetings drew good attendance, and some very frank and interesting questions were considered during the Question-and-Answer period which followed each meeting.

Dr. F. M. Bergstedt, a psychiartist at the South Carolina State Hospital in Columbia, concluded the week with his address in chapel this morning.

Karen Bremer

Miss Karen Bremer, a soprano presently enrolled in the Presbyterian College Department of Music, will present a voice recital Thursday, April, 28, 1966, in Belk Auditorium beginning at 8 p. m.

She will sing selections from the works of Schultz, Handel, Schubert, Puccini, Rachmaninoff, and Copeland.

SEX Cont. from Page 1

commercialized sex. "Prostitution is in disrepute, but advertising and pornography are taking advantage of sex in efforts to promote products and other commercial underatikng," continued Rev. Waters. Americans have also technicalized sex (consider the sex manuals) and given it such familiarity that " it is now trite."

In understanding the true nature of sex, man must view it as having been created by God. Rev. Waters emphasized this point, using the second chapter of Genesis. Man was created in the image of God and was placed in the Garden of Eden. God saw that man was lonely and incomplete; as a result, God created animals, but they were not an adequate answer to man's loneliness.

God created woman from man; and after living in loneliness for so long a period of time, man found that which made him complete. Children came later and were a blessing for sex and marriage, not justification for these.

This is why sex is religious in character, according to Rev. Waters. Sex was created by God, and God created people. "The way one lives sexually is in response to how he views himself as an image of God." Rev. Waters concluded his remarks by stating that "Sex is an act through which man shows God how he can use his life to the fullest."

DISCUSSION GROUPS

The first Sex Education Week on the Presbyterian College campus featured discussion groups this past Monday night. Dr. William Hendrix led discussions and answered questions for the male students, and Dr.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

THE MEN'S SHOP
PC HEADQUARTERS IN LAURENS
On The Square Laurens

Need Stationery?
See
Jack Murphy
For Personalized, Fraternity
And All
Stationery Needs
10% Discount This Week Only

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

McINTOSH'S
SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students
for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

DO YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE A LEADER?*

*If you do, don't settle for less.

If you will complete your first two years of college this spring and have not had ROTC training, you now have a special opportunity to earn an Army officer's commission in the next two years. You can qualify to fulfill your military obligation as an officer while you study for a college degree in a field of your choice.

Through a new two-year Army ROTC program you will receive leadership training and experience that will be valuable assets for the rest of your life, in either a military or a civilian career. You will receive an allowance of $40 each month during your Junior and Senior years. If you desire, you may request postponement of your military service while you complete your studies for a graduate degree.

Most large business and industrial firms prefer the college graduate who has been trained and commissioned as an officer—who has the ability to organize, motivate and lead others—and who has had experience in accepting responsibilities beyond his years.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this important opportunity.

For complete information on the new two-year Army ROTC program see the Professor of Military Science on campus.

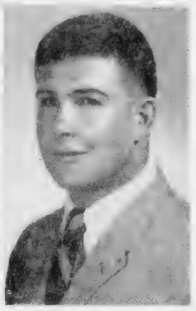
ARMY ROTC

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLIV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 29, 1966 | No. 20

Reyes, Gilbert Next Year's OWS

Last Monday night, the Organization of Women Students elected officers for the 1966-1967 school year. Angie Reyes was elected Chairman of the Women's Judicial Council for the coming year. Elected for a second term as Presdient of the Women's Council was Susan Gilbert.



Others elected to the Women's Council were: Mavis Harrop, Vice-President; Carol Allen, Secretary; and Barbara Anderson, Treasurer. Representing their classes are Diane Adams, Senior Representative; Mary Anne Arnett, Junior Representative; Nancy Alexander, Anna Bozeman, and Melinda Martin, Sophomore Representatives. Jill Clark is the Day Student Representative.

The Women's Council was installed by Student Body Vice-Presdient Rusty Nelson last night at a non-compulsory meeting of the OWS.

The Organization of Women Students is a branch of student government whose purpose is to coordinate the campus and dormitory life of the women students. The Women's Council functions in legislative and executive capacities and serves as a link between the Dean of Women and the women students.

The Women's Council enforces dormitory rules and under the new SGA Constitution will be represented by some of its Junior and Senior members on the Honor Council. It will also try cases involving conduct violations by women students. The other six members of the Women's Judicial Board will include two Seniors, two Juniors, one Sophomore, and one Freshman and will be appointed next week by the Women's Council.

Bob Warren Elected President In Student Council Race Today

BOB WARREN

BOB HERLONG

CHRISTIE PATTERSON

BY RUSH OTEY

Bob Warren, a rising senior from Allendale, was elected 1966-67 Student Body President today by a margin of 12 votes.

Warren polled 252 vtoes out of 51 cast, compared with 240 for Bob Herlong and 16 for Christie Patterson. Herlong will serve as Vice-President of the Student Body next year with Patterson as Chairman of the Honor Council.

Eighty-one per cent of the Student Body went to the polls today. In Tuesday's initial voting 60 per cent cast their ballots.

David Berry, Bob Wyrick, and Andy Cooper were elected Junior Representatives on the Student Council on Tuesday. Berry will serve as Secretary-Treasurer of the Council as a result of his capturing the greatest number of votes for Junior Representative.

Also elected Tuesday were John Greer and Rush Otey as Sophomore Representatives.

The new slate of Student Council members will be installed Monday, May 2, during the chapel exercises.

Bob Warren remarked, "Now that the election is Council is going to work together for the betterment of conditions at PC. We have a largely inexpereinced but qualified Council, and I am enthusiastic about what we can accomplish

See RESULTS, Page 6, Col. 5

Students Receive Non-Voting Roll In Univ. of Oregon Faculty Senate

EUGENE, ORE. (CPS)—The Faculty Senate at the University of Oregon has voted to allow two student representatives to attend its meetings and speak if they wish.

The move, which has long been sought by the Associated Students of the University of Oregon, came on a 119-45 vote after several hours debate and a number of amendments to the original motion.

ASUO had requested that two representatives be allowed to attend meetings and they be allowed to speak if a majority of faculty agreed. One of the amendments liberalized the motion to allow the students to speak just by being recognized by the chairman of the faculty.

The much-amended motion gave the two student representatives all of the rights of members of the senate—except for voting power.

The two representatives will be the ASUO president, or the vice-president in his absence, and a second student appointed by the president of the university on the nomination of the ASUO president.

One faculty member presented what was designated as a substitute motion that would have made the number of student representatives on the faculty equal to the number of ASUO senators and would have given each a vote.

The motion was ruled "not germane' by the chairman when it was presented, and this ruling was upheld by a vote of the sen-

See STUDENTS, Page 6, Col. 1

Dr. Fraser Will Retire This Year; Plans Europe, Middle East Tour

BY ROB DALTON

Dr. T. Layton Fraser, Professor of Bible for 19 years at PC, plans to retire from teaching at the end of this year. Dr. Fraser is the author of four books, conducts night Bible classes and serves as a supply pastor in addition to his professorship here.

"The Christian Life" is Fraser's most recently published book in his series for college Bible study. Two previous works—"A Survey of the Old Testmaent" and "The Life and Philosophy of Christ" — have sold more than 10,000 copies and are used in over 100 colleges including PC.

"With Saviour and Friend," a workbook for conferences and vacation Bible schools, has been translated into Spanish in Mexico. He developed these works over the past 15 years as a supplement to his classroom teaching.

Next year Dr. Fraser plans to take color films and slides of Europe and the Middle East. One film will picture the gospels from the fall of man through the redemption. Also in his plans are a series of short films and slides for use in teaching. The scripts for the films will be in several languages and dialects for use in the mission fields.

Assisting Dr. Fraser with this project will be his missionary son-in-law, David Ross, who will be home on furlough. Tentatively the films are scheduled for release in English during the fall of 1967.

He also plans to retire from his night Bible classes which he teaches without pay. He has conducted these classes for Clinton residents for the last 10 years. He will continue to serve as pastor of the Owings Presbyterian Church in Owings as he has since 1947.

Dr. Fraser has served pastorates in Georgia, New York, North Carolina, and New Jersey, as well as teaching for a year at Presbyterian Junior College before joining the faculty here. He received his BA from Davidson, his Master of Systematic Theology from the Biblical Seminary in New York, and his ThD from Union Seminary in Richmond.

DR. T. LAYTON FRASER

See Letters To The Editor Page 3

Awards Program Recognizes Outstanding PC Students

Dr. Joseph Stukes, Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences and Professor of History at Lander College, spoke at the Annual Awards Day this morning in chapel. Dr. Stukes is the Dean-elect of Erskine College and will assume the Deanship on July 1 of this year.

Vairous awards and honors were given to members of the student body.

The Kappa Alpha Athletic Award was presented by Christie Patterson to Jimmy Bankhead. The American Legion Award was also presented to Bankhead.

Buddy Guy was the recipient of the annual award of the Christian Vocations Club.

The Chemical Rubber Company sponsored awards in two feilds. The certificate for Physics went to Joe Dunlap. Danny Wyatt received the Chemistry certificate.

Tom Whitaker received the Tau Phi Pi's annual award in science. The Neill G. Whitelaw Scholarship was awarded to Grover Ford.

The Oeland English Award was given to Jerry Mebane, and Miss Vicki Brown received the James M. Oeland Science Award. Jim Bush was awarded the Oeland History Award.

Sam Waters received the Frank Dudley Award.

Dr. Gettys presented Who's Who Certificates to the following seniors: David Davies, Buddy Guy, Jim Johnson, Tom Leland, Henry Lovett, Miss Amelia Nichols, Phil Olmert, Jim Stanford, Dan Taylor, and Sam Waters.

Sophomore Academic Honor Society Certificates were presented by Dr. Burnside to the following: David Berry, Cecil Brown, Jim Bush, Mrs. Bruce Johnston, John Jones, Sandy Lynn, Jerry Mebane, James Powell, Joseph Singleton, Mac Smith, and Miss Carol Tumlinson.

Dr. Keihn presented Sigma Kappa Alpha Certificates to Jim Johnson, Miss Amelia Nichols, and Tom Whitaker.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Wm. W. Hall, Jr.
Editor

Jos. B. Stevens
Business Mgr.

Absentee Vote Passes; Left to Students Now

Last week the South Carolina State House of Representatives passed an absentee ballot bill. This effort was due in large measure to the lobbying efforts of college students who were in convention for the South Carolina Student Legislature in Columbia at the time.

The passage of this bill means that those students who are qualified will finally be able to vote in elections in which academic pursuits would have probably otherwise prevented them from doing so.

One of the main objections which has been voiced against passing an absentee ballot bill is that college students would not be interested enough to take advantage of such a system of voting to warrant the outlay of money which would be required to operate such a system.

Some of the state legislators evidently feel that the apathy and general lack of interest which qualified voters show toward elections throughout the state will carry over to the young people who are now enrolled in the colleges and universities of the state.

The Blue Stocking believes that this line of thinking is incorrect. It believes that those students who are now able to vote will see this right not only as a privilege but as a duty or obligation.

Unfortunately, statistics have shown in the past that college students have often abused their privilege of franchise in that they have not always voted when they had the opportunity.

Voting is the best way for citizens to control and better government. Voting is one way for an individual to assert himself and to make his influence felt in political circles.

The Blue Stocking challenges all students who will be affected by the new absentee voting bill to accept the newly acquired convenience as a mandate to vote in all political elections.

Only if college students do participate in elections will the qualms and arguments against extending the franchise in this manner voiced by the arch opponents of this measure be silenced once and for all.

A Good Cigar Is Like . . .

Professor Kenneth Baker of the Economics and Business Administration gives a good cigar with a hard examination. He has been doing this since 1936 or over a period of 30 years.

It is a custom he started upon his arrival at Presbyterian College. He states that during an examination a good cigar is as much comfort to a man as a good cry is to a woman.

Sly with a twinkle in his eyes he quotes Kipling—"A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

Supporting Staff

Managing Editor ..... Charles Eagles
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Jimmy Humphries
Assistant News Editor ..... Bob Dalton
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Assistant Copy Editors ..... Jack Murphy, Jim Brewer, Rob Dalton
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Typists ..... Karen Weaver, Mavis Harrop, Gloria Porter, Sandie Hardie.

Letter to the Editor

Shepard Appeals to Fraternity Men

To the Editor:

This could be taken as another note of complaint for the chapel programs to which we have been subjected. To distinguish this note from all of the others, I would like to say that this is a frantic appeal — not an idle gripe.

The chapel program to which I am reacting is the program of April 25, 1966, in which a Rev. Frampton, backed by the presidents of our national fraternities on campus, made a vigorous (now don't get me wrong . . . I respect the guy as a good speaker) speech informing the student body of the important role of the fraternities.

I am an independent; I am not a co-ed griping about the behavior of any certain group of male students(and I hasten to include the independents—there are nasty little boys in every group). I do not advocate doing away with fraternities; nor do I advocate staying an independent—that is up to the individual. If I may take some liberties with the King's Language, I can be a little more to the point—however coarse it may sound.

Without beating around the bush, I direct this letter to you fraternity men. You guys, or the IFC, or somebody made me sit through one of the lousiest chapels yet! Regardless of whose fault it was, let me say what made it so lousy. The speech was good, but what was the point? Was the speaker defending fraternities because someone's going to get rid of them? Was it a sales talk? I know that you don't have trouble pledging.

Suppose we take the speech as a little heart-to-heart talk to the fraternity men with emphasis on the fact that the fraternity is a great thing, but at the same time, the members must be proud of and responsible to their great traditions. Why weren't the independnets excused so that we could get our mail early? I listened to the speaker, did you? Were you guys embarrassed? Did you note some of the glaring discrepancies between what was said and some of the Greek action around here?

The speaker even cited quotes from older fraternity members who (as if we were ignorant of the fact that occasionally one runs into a great and respectable man who was once a college fraternity man) were successful and famous men of God. There are a lot of good guys in fraternities, but at the same time, you're letting some guys give the organizations some black eyes . . . and it's not always the pledge that misbehaves.

I am an independent and a critic on your back. Yeah, even the independents drink too many "cokes, pepsis, or whatever. Why can't we get together and either do away with this drinking rule, or (and everyone panics) enforce and obey it? That would take care of the black eye that the whole school wears. The speaker said that "whenever one drinks too many . . ., they're going to laugh you (the fraternity men) off!" How about that? You guys are in a tough spot, regardless of how well you mould the social manners, or how high you raise the academic standards; and all the blood in all the veins of every fraternity man alive won't help you.

To be frank, I don't give a hang about the "ghosts of the past coming up to point the fingers of condemnation" at you for your shortcomings. "The fraternity has no future unless it fulfills its responsibility." You can bet your life on that, and you also can expect to be laughed into oblivion if you fail in meeting the challenge. I won't be able to laugh with them though. It's a bad situation. I have friends in fraternities who take the stuff seriously. For their sakes, and for the sake of the school, please take this seriously. Watch your mistakes; everyone is watching your mistakes, not your successes. Help the few but embarrassing punks to grow up.

At times, even in chapel, you get the feeling that PC in her early days really made some men. That's what is embarrassing for the fraternity and the independent alike.

Sincerely,
Walt Shepard

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I'D SAY HE SHOULD MAKE AN EXCELLENT COLLEGE INSTRUCTOR PREXY. THE FILE ON HIM STATES HE DOESN'T PLAN LECTURES— USES UNORTHODOX TEACHING METHODS & IS UNABLE TO COMMUNICATE."

'No Exit' Slated May 5, 6

The Presbyterian College Drama Department will present "No Exit," a play by Jean-Paul Sartre, the evenings of May 5 and 6 in Belk Auditoruim. There is no admission charge and the performance begins at 8:15. A discussion period will follow the performance.

The cast in order of appearance will be: Garcin portrayed by Dr. Skinner, Valet portrayed by John Wingfield, Inez portrayed by Vicki Brown, and Estelle portrayed by Beck Truesdale.

Sets will be designed by the stagecraft class (Drama 205). Members who will help are Kit Caldwell, John Jones, Bob McElhiney, Barbara Rabb, and Carol Tumlison.

Eaves Costumes of New York designed the costumes for this version of "No Exit."

Special permission to give the performance was obtained from Echtins Nagel-Paris.

Assessed as one of Sartre's best plays, "No Exit" has been outstanding theatre fare for theatre goers in Western Europe and America for the past decade. It is produced here under the direction of Dr. Lawrence Zilmer.

Cary Grant Stars In Chase, Gun, Battle

BY CHRISTIE PATTERSON
Movie Editor

"North by Northwest," all-time great movie thriller starring Cary Grant, Eva Marie Saint, and James Mason and the most exciting Alfred Hitchcock suspense-drama ever made, has now been brought back.

The fantastic climax of "North by Northwest" alone makes this a picture which movigoers will want to see more than once.

It was filmed at the national monument in South Dakota, with Cary Grant fighting for his life in a chase-and-gun battle that takes place against the stone-carved faces of Presidents Lincoln, Washington, Jefferson, and Theodore Roosevelt. There has never been anything like it in a motion picture before or after.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY, APRIL 29

Starring Marshall Thompson

SATURDAY, APRIL 30
Beach Party
Bob Cummings, Dorothy Malone Frankie Avalon, Annette Funicello.

MONDAY and TUESDAY
May 2 and 3
North By Northwest
Cary Grant, Eva Marie Saint. James Mason

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"THE SCREENING COMMITTEE DID A LOUSY JOB SELECTING A TEXT—WHY THERE ARE PARTS OF THIS BOOK WRITTEN SO CLEARLY THAT EVEN I UNDERSTOOD IT WITH TH' FIRST READING."

Special Spring Funnies

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"— AND SOMETIMES MY LECTURES MAY CARRY YOU A MINUTE OR TWO PAST THE NOON HOUR."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"YES, I KNOW I'M GIVING TH' SAME FINAL THAT I GAVE LAST TERM — BUT THIS TIME I CHANGED TH' ANSWERS!"

Student Council Proposal

Davies, Waters, Stanford, Lovett Reply to Decision of Officials

David Davies

To the Editor:

I feel the recent decision handed down by the administrative officers concerning the Student Council's proposal for students to sit in a non-voting capacity on two faculty committees, the Religious Activities Commitee and the Student Activities Committee, completely overlooks the purpose of the suggestion.

The reason given for rejecting the proposal was that the committees would always consult student leaders when it is felt that these sudents will be able to enlighten them on matters which "are being considered that will benefit from thoughtful student opinion." The point is that I thought these committees were organized to aid the students in their quest for knowledge, and it was the students who were supposed to benefit from their existence. If it is not the purpose, fine, let's continue to maintain the status quo.

However, it is the purpose of these two committees is to be beneficial to the students, as the names lead one to assume then would not the logical conclusion be to have the opinions and advice of those they concern available for consutation? This method of having students appointed by the President of the Student Body to sit in a non-voting capacity on these two faculty committees which directly affect the student body would not only save time, but solve the problem of always having to locate student leaders. Also, this suggestion would serve to shorten the gap between the faculty and students on matters which are important to both groups. Thus, if this proposal is put into action it would aid the effectiveness of the committee's ultimate goal: to offer a broader education to the students.

Sincerely,
David Davies

Sam Waters

To the Editor:

Last weekend the administration pulled another stunt. This one is of special significance, however, because it profoundly alters the attitudes and morale of the students and faculty toward the administration and the college.

The stunt, a common occurrence for many years by our (I should say "the") administrators, has this time been used in the Student Council proposal for student voice on certain of the faculty committees.

Since there are no binding guidelines to be used in presenting a proposal to the faculty for approval, my argument is of necessity based on principles which free societies have all considered of the highest moral value and importance.

My challenge then is to a violation of honesty and fair play by the administration. The student handbook prescribes "that all conduct of the students comes under the jurisdiction of the faculty," not the administration.

It also states on page 31 that any proposed changes in the constitution "must have the approval of the faculty before final submission to the student body." Again it is the faculty involved and not the administration. Thus one must agree that the faculty and not the administration should have the final authority. This is an absolute and undeniable truth.

Finally it states that the "Dean of Students is the channel of communication between

See WATERS, Page 6, Col. 2

Henry Lovett

To the Editor:

In regard to last week's article concerning the Student Council proposal that was turned down by the administrative staff, I gave at that time my expressed disagreement with this decision. If you will remember, the proposal given by the Student Council would have permitted students to serve on the Student Activities and Religious Committees of the Faculty in a "non-voting" but "voice" capacity.

I have very definite ideas about this particular proposal. One of these is the simple yet very legitimate argument about the merit in having students serving in this capacity. To me, this is an area in which students can offer valuable aid to their college. Here a student can present a point of view that reflects the opinions of the student body.

Serving in this capacity, these students would be given an insight into the workings of the faculty. I think that when a student is given the opportunity to converse informally with the "educated sect" on campus it tends to broaden his outlook on matters and give him the unusual opportunity of seeing these people in a distinctly human capacity.

Another point I think shoud be considered is the fact that students are at times being called on by certain committees. This, however, is not the case in very many areas. Students were not consulted in the curriculum study. Students very seldom are consulted by the Academic Advisory Committees. Even the faculty committees which directly concern students — the Student Activities, the Religious Activites, the Fraternity, the Lectures and Entertainment, and even the Discipline Committees— have rarely called on students in an advisory or consultant capacity.

My point is that when these committees meet to make a decision in which a student's view would be beneficial, they tend to disregard the student's opinion for expediency purposes. I cannot blame them, but if a student knew of a meeting and were authorized to attend as a regular member, this problem could be eliminated, and along with it the misunderstandings that may arise. This I think to be basic to my argument.

Sincerely,
Henry B. Lovett,
President of the Student Body

Jim Stanford

Dear Editor,

With regards to the article in last week's paper on the "administration's" decision that students should not be allowed to serve in a non-voting capacity on the two faculty committees, the Student Activities and the Religious Activities, I again raise the question: "Is it asking too much to be considered a part of that which vitally concerns us?"

I have just finished my term as Student Christian Association President, a term that was made none the easier because of the relations between faculty, administration, and students. While President I attended several meetings with other student leaders of the nine independent colleges in South Carolina. Essentially we all have the problem of interrelationships on our campuses. This situation was well expressed by one student who said, "The faculty, administration, and student body are all afraid of one another. The faculty is afraid the administration and students will get together; the administration is afraid the faculty and students will get together; and the student body feels that the faculty and administration should get together." This quite sufficiently expresses the situation on our campus.

No reason was given for the decision as it stands. If the student body had asked for voting capacity on the committee, I could understand, perhaps, the "administration's"

See STANFORD, Page 6, Col. 4

Second Semester Exam Schedule

Friday, May 20	9:00-12:00	TTS 12:00
	2:00- 5:00	MWF 1:30
Saturday, May 21	9:00-12:00	TTS 11:00
	2:00- 5:00	MWF 12:00
Monday, May 23	9:00-12:00	TTS 10:00
	2:00- 5:00	MWF 11:00
Tuesday, May 24		Foreign Languages
Wednesday, May 25	9:00-12:00	TTS 9:00
	2:00- 5:00	MWF 9:00
Thursday, May 26	9:00-12:00	TTS 8:00
	2:00- 5:00	MWF 8:00
Friday, May 27	9:00-12:00	Fine Arts

LANGUAGE SCHEDULE

French	2:00- 5:00	Richardson 116
German	9:00-12:00	Richardson 207
Spanish	9:00-12:00	Richardson 116

JIM STANFORD, DAVID DAVIES, HENRY LOVETT, AND SAM WATERS discuss their letters which appear on this page

Photo by Howard

Wednesday's Poll

Concerned Students Answe A Very Difficult Questionair

According to Fred Flye of Wilmington, N. C., student chairman of the campus chapter of the National Pidaverous Society (?), Wednesday night's poll was a great success. Flye commented, "Wednesday night's poll was a great success."

Results of the poll show that many PC students are dissatisfied with the name of the college. All proposals were submitted to the faculty for discusion. Several have been rejected.

The name "Sam Houston Institute of Technology" has been rejected because it is uncertain as to whether Sam Houston was ever in South Carolina. It has furthermore been disclosed that Clemson College has been considering this name for a long time and has requested to have first option on the name because of the more technological training it offers.

One student suggested that PC change its name to "Harvard" so that it might receive m money from its alumni a friends. However, Wofford C lege has already submitte proposal to use this nam These people in Spartanbu feel that their extra incu could be well put to use in b building their track team.

Many persons disliked name "Blue Hose" also. M of these felt that this name too risque for a Chrsitian c lege. One person suggested t PC teams be called the "T ers" or "Bulldogs."

Mr. Flye stated that tabu tions on the other questio in the poll have not yet be completed. He concluded h remarks by saying, "The hig ly intelligent answers given b most students show that the a erage PC student is concern with campus conditions. T highly intelligent questions p ed by The Blue Stocking sho that it is quite concerned w campus conditions. What m could one ask?"

Blood Drive Is Success

On Monday, April 25, forty per cent of the PC student body participated in the Red Cross blood drive for our soldiers in Viet Nam. A total of 249 students and faculty members gave a total of 204 pints of blood.

Tom Leland, student coordinator for the drive, pointed out that thirty-nine per cent of the women students participated compared to seventeen per cent of the men students.

Alpha Sigma Phi won a t phy from Dillard Boland, J eler, for having the high participants of any group.

The officials of the Red Cr bloodmobile stated, "T Presbyterian blood drive w the most successful of any h for college students in So Carloina. We are deeply gra ful for your unselfish desire serve your country and y fellow man."

PAT STOGNER prepares to give blood during Monday's Vie Nam Blood Drive which was hailed as a success.

Photo by Hat

Bill Bassham

Our School Spirit: Two Extreme Views

What is it that makes an athlete? With all the controversy over school spirit that has been going aroung campus lately it might be profitable to probe into this question.

One view of athletics is that expressed by Ray Priestino. According to Ray everyone in the student body should support athletics in one of two ways. If an individual is good enough to compete in intercollegiate athletics, he should by all means be on one of our six teams. The other view is to support all your athletic teams if you are not participating in them.

BILL

Another view is that voiced by John Bartlett in a letter to the edittor. Bartlett believes that an athelete is out for a sport "to further his physical education" or that an athlete is out there to have others "watch his exploits and cheer him on to greater heights."

To Priestino I would say that his views are a bit idealistic. Admitted it would be a tremendous accomplishment to have 100 per cent support at athletic events, but it just doesn't happen that way. One will not find a campus without a group which takes the attitude of "I couldn't care less if we win or lose." Unfortunately as it may be, this group is not going to change. Just be thankful that it is a small minority.

There are going to be some who care about the teams but will have to study. The argument to this is that a person can spare a few hours a week if the athletes are going to make the sacrifices which they do. That person is here at this institution to get out of it exactly what he wants to. If he or she feels that studying is more important than the support of a particular event, then it is surely that person's right to do so. And no one who feels indifferently has the right to say that individual is wrong.

In reply to Bartlett, I think his ideas are a bit on the other extreme to those of Priestino. Don't get me wrong, as I am not saying that either of these gentlemen are wrong, but am merely expressing my own viewpoint. I can't believe that PC athletes are participating in sports to get glory from a newspaper or from fellow students.

People like Wade Stewart, Don McNeill, Jimmy Bankhead, Doug Allen, Billy Love, Bob Harris, Pete Collins, Bill Kellam, Larry Preston, Al Todd, Butch McWaters, or Jimmy Elliott are not merely "glory hogs."

These are some of the boys who led PC's fortunes this year but won't be back next fall. To this group this column says thank you for a job well done.

The whole subject of how bad the spirit around here has been run completely into the ground. The football games this year saw the PC stands constantly filled with many latecoming students having to sit on the visitors' side. I can't be convinced that school spirit was missing at such games at Wofford or Furman for instance.

Admitted, participation was not perfect at the basketball games, but it did pick up in the second half of the season. Those who did attend the games gave them their full support even though it was often in a losing cause.

The spring sports have had a good bit of support. Tennis and track have had large crowds at all their home functions. The baseball team has probably had the least support, but the fact is that many of the students who do not attend the games would atetnd if the team played on the campus.

There are certain factors which especially help school spirit but seldom receive credit. The rat system instills a PC spirit into the freshman as soon as he walks onto the campus. This system has come under criticism by many who would like to see it done away with. In my opinion this would be an injustice to the freshmen as well as the student body because it is usually these rats who put the fire into the lackadaisical upperclassmen.

The school spirit is not perfect but pounding the subject into the ground will not help it. Compared to some schools that I have seen, the spirit at PC is not that bad. Enough said!

ROBERT HOPE clears the bar for the track team in recent meet held in Clinton.

Photo by Howard

Thinclads Place Fourth Saturday at Davidson

BY GENE SULLIVAN

The Presbyterian College track team showed their speed and fine track ability by placing fourth in the Davidson Relays this past Saturday. The Blue Hose finished second in the 440 relay and the mile relay. Robert Hope placed fourth in the pole vault, and the 880 relay men captured third place in their event.

The Presbyterian team copped a total of 24 points, only one point behind East Carolina. East Tennessee State University won its second relay crown. They were followed by High Point, East Carolina, then PC. Eighteen teams competed in the meet.

In a hotly contested dual meet with arch rival Wofford, the Hose again outsprinted the Terriers and walked off with the honors, 81-63. James Challen set a new school record in the 880; and the Blue Hose swept all places in the 100, 220, and 440 sprints.

In the 330 intermediate hurdles, Dowl Thompson outdid Wofford superstar Mac Lemons. Doug Allen did the same in the high jump. Freshman Robert Hope and sophomore Richard Reed finished one-two in the pole vault.

Ellis Jenkins posted his fastest time of the year in the two-mile run as he literally ran away from all contenders. The mile relay team composed of Bankhead, Challen, McWaters, and McCallum; and the 440 relay with Sullenberger, McNair, Eckstein, and Johnson again showed their class and outraced all Wofford challengers.

Things were not all rosy for the Hose. At the midway point of the meet the Hose were behind 22 points but rallied in the sprints and running events to trounce the Terriers.

This Friday the team journeys to Catawba for a triangular meet with Catawba and Guilford as they go after their first Carolinas Conference regular season title.

The improvement in the distance running this year is due to the renewed efforts, hard work, and the addition of Benny Crabtree as assistant coach. The Hose compete in the conference meet in two weeks.

Photo by Howard

COACH NIXON

Golf Team Travels To Florida Tourney

The State Intercollegiate Golf Champions of PC will compete with top teams from all over the Suoth in the Southern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament in Fort Myers, Fla., this coming Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The Hose earned the right to represent the state of South Carolina by winning the state meet at Hampton. This tournament is one of the biggest tourneys of the year with such prominent teams entered as the University of Houston, the nation's biggest name golf school, and seven Florida schools, including the University of Florida, University of Miami, and Florida State University.

Blue Hose Beat Newberry, End 29-Game Losing Streak

BY MIKE SIMONS

After dropping 17 straight baseball games this season the Blue Hose finally won by defeating the Newberry Indians behind the seven-hit pitching of George Lindsay. In winning, the Hose also broke a 29-game losing streak extending over a three-year span.

Bobby Byard's two-run homer in the bottom half of the first inning was all the hitting support Lindsay needed as he handcuffed the Indian hitters. Newberry picked up their lone run in the seventh inning on a walk, single, and double, but Lindsay managed to pitch his way out of further trouble. He struck out two and walked four batters in going the entire nine inning distance. Lindsay's record now stands at 1-6.

Dan Eckstein led off the first with a single, but was forced out at second by Tommy Lovett on a fielder's choice. Byard followed with his climatic blow over the fence in right center, his third four-bagger of the year, tying him with the homer lead.

Newberry almost tied or won the game in the top of the ninth, as they had two men on and two out. The next batter then drove a ball to deep center where Eckstein made a tremendous running catch to give the victory to the Hose.

Wednesday afternoon Erskine defeated the Blue Hose 5-2 in a five-inning rain-shortened game.

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

FOR SALE
By owner, Professor R. C. Wilson, 1966 Azalea Mobile Home. 9 months old, 54x12 ft., 2 bedroom. Early American style, fully equipped and furnished. Call 833-3480.

See
Coach Shakespeare
for Tennis Equipment

Campus News Briefs

Council Makes Proposal

During the first of April the Student Council submitted to Mr. G. Edward Campbell, Business Manager of Presbyterian College, a proposal that students be able to have their guests eat in Greenville Dining Hall free of charge on dance weekends on the condition that the dining hall management be notified three days in advance.

Included in the proposal were statistics showing that an approximate total of $2,469.85 per week is spent by students for meals which they do not receive. This total averages out to $4.55 per student per week out of the 540 boarding students registered at PC.

Under the proposed system a list of the students' names would be posted and checked as the student and his guest passed through the serving line.

To date the Student Council has not been notified of any action taken by the administration regarding the proposal.

Chapel Schedule

Monday—Installation of Student body officers by the Student Council. Blue Key "Tapping" ceremony.

Wednesday — Chapel Worship Service, The Reverend Howard Gordon, Richburg.

Friday — Administrative business to be conducted by Dr. Gettys, Academic Dean.

Choir Trip

The Presbyterian College Choir will travel to Cheraw and Bennettsville this weekend for two concerts. After spending Saturday night in Cheraw, the choir will sing at the morning worship service and then travel to Bennettsville and perform at the evening service.

Summer Class Change

Mr. Cunningham of the Presbyterian College Economics Department has announced that a course on Advertising and Merchandising will possibly be offered at 1:00 p. m., during the first term.

This change has been proposed in order that several students who have expressed a desire to take Mathematics of Finance might do so and not have a conflict with Advertising and Merchandising.

Interested students are asked to see Mr. Cunningham.

Christian Vocations Club Election

The Christian Vocations Club has elected officers for next year. They are: Earlie Rash, president; Maxine Fell, secretary; Ray Combs, treasurer, Tim Helgeson, chaplain; and Johnny McCallum, representative to the SCA.

TB X-Ray

Mrs. Agnes Teague of the TB Association of Laurens has announced that the Mobile X-ray unit will be in Clinton on the following dates: May 19, 10:00 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.; May 20, same time as May 19, and May 23, 1:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m.

The unit will be parked on the corner of Pitts and North Broad Streets immediately next to McBride's Office Supply Co.

All students are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to have a chest X-ray.

STUDENTS Cont. from Page 1

ate when it was challenged.

This meeting marked the first time that Faculty Senate meetings at Oregon have been opened on a regular basis and if the members of the senate have their way, the meetings may be open to everybody.

Leaders of the faculty have discussed a motion to open the senate with University President Arthur S. Fleming, and the motion was formally presented at the last meeting. It would open the senate meetings to all who wish to attend for a three-year trial period.

A final vote is expected at the May meeting.

The same representation may be due the students at the University of California at Irving if a new set of by-laws for the Irving Academic Senate is approved by the Academic Senate for the University of California's statewide system.

WATERS Cont. from Page 3

the faculty and Student Council." On this last regulation the administration has taken undue license, twisting and stretching it beyond all legitimate bounds.

The proposal in question, addressed specifically to the faculty in keeping with the constitution, was channelled through the Dean of Students as provided for also in the constitution. However, it was in fact not channeled at all by the administrators. Those officials took a proposal addressed to and to be decided by only the faculty and in their usual paternalistic approach made the decision themselves. They strangled it and threw it out. They violated the rights of the faculty, the legislative branch of the college. And then they sought to cool the blistering air with euphemy which they thought would probably end the whole affair. This is wrong; it can be viewed as cheating with the determination to cheat.

And now I pose the question: Why was the proposal, constructive in nature with already a goodly amount of faculty support, blocked from the completion of its leglislative itinerary? Why did our administrators jump the established customs and procedures in channeling the proposal to its proper place? This father-knows-best attitude must be replaced with recognition of the students' as well as the faculty's capacity for maturity in judgment.

It is a moral question; it deserves a moral answer.

With concern,
Sam C. Waters

THE GREEKS...

A Response to Shepard

JIMMY HUMPHRIES

On reading through a letter to the editor in this edition of The Blue Stocking, I would like to comment on some points of disturbance.

The IFC - sponsored chapel program of Monday, April 25, was, in fact, held in defense of the fraternities on this campus. As anyone can see, the fraternities all over the United States are in trouble concerning discrimination. They are in trouble with their universiites and colleges because of social functions, segregation from the student body, "fraternity exclusiveness," as Davidson College calls it, and discriminatory clauses in their charters from their Nationals.

The fraternity committees of different colleges and universities all over the country are urging that radical changes be made to limit the sphere of fraternities. The fraternities at Davidson are fast becoming supper clubs. Most prominent of proposals made is that campus-wide social committees be set up to plan and carry out all major social functions for the student body. This plan would all but eliminate the fraternity system.

The administration at PC has been good to fraternities, and plans for the future even include a fraternity row. But fraternities here have been criticized for the fall rush program. It has been said that freshman rush activity has hurt freshman grade averages. Two semesters ago, the fraternity men's grade point ratio was lower, for the first time, than the all-men's average. As a matter of interest, the reason the IFC changed the rush period for next semester is due to the PC faculty's concern over the rush program hurting the freshman grades; there will be no rush next semester until after mid-semester exams.

As far as the fraternity men are concerned, it is not bad to have a prominent man appear on campus to express interest, concern, and gratitude for what fraternities promote and stand for. A fraternity, like any other type of activity, means a lot to those men on campus who attempt to make something of it in their spare time.

A fraternity is an investment, a job, and a pastime with social activities and worthwhile service projects. These were some of the points which the Interfraternity Council wanted the student body and faculty to hear, because often it is easier to understand and be interested in that which has been clearly pointed out—in this case regarding aspects of fraternities.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The Red Cross Blood Drive here Monday brought good participation from the fraternities in general on campus. Percentages were tallied on individual fraternity participation: the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity won a trophy for the highest percentage participation of any group on campus—fraternity or independent—with a 91% participation. The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity was next with 86%, the Kappa Alpha Order next with 66.4%; then the Pi Kappa Phi's, the Theta Chi's, and the Sigma Nu's.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity holds its annual Roman Holiday this weekend. Friday night they have a closed party with a band from Johnston at the Legion Hut. Saturday afternoon and evening the Dardenelles plya at Lake Murray from 2:00 to 6:00 p. m. and from 8:00-12:00. Brothers of the week are Allan Harris who was elected to the First Team PiKA All-American Football Team, and Buddy Protinsky who will marry Miss Ruth Ann Brown of St. Petersburg, Fla., this weekend.

The brothers of the Theta Chi Fraternity have electde Brother Rusty Nelson the most outstanding senior in the fraternity because of his chapter and campus activities. Brother Bill Adams has been elected the member who has contributed most to the welfare of the fraternity. Brother John Weigel has pinned Miss Kit Caldwell of PC. Bo Elebash has been given the pledge award for the most hours spent in front of the television set.

From the Sigma Nu Fraternity: Brother David Borden pinned Miss Pat Stewart from Atlanta, Ga., and Brother Ed Buchheit pinned Miss Susan Alexander of Spartanburg Junior College. Phil Ward has lavalied Miss Tommie Anne Johnson of Coker College; she is from Hartsville.

From the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity: New Brothers are Rush Otey, Jimmy Page, Richard Hay, John Greer, Jim Brewer, Dan Crisp, Dick Query, Hunter Ramseur, and Bobby Byard. Brother Larry Platt has recently become engaged to Miss Anne Addison of Winthrop College and Joanie Brother Dave Veneklasen has been named manager of the softball team. Pledge Jack Murphy has been named captain of the volleyball team.

STANFORD Cont. from Page 3

decision, but all we asked for was non-voting representation. Then again, this was asked for, not for all faculty committees, for there are many that students don't have any business on, but for only those committees which are directly concerned with the students and student life.

We were not seeking to "gang up" on the administration. We were not seeking power beyond our present means. We were not seeking positions that are solely the faculty's right. We were seeking only to establish a better relationship with the faculty and administration, one in which we could all grow in understanding of each other and express to each other the views of those we represent.

Is that asking too much?

Jim Stanford
Sincerely,

RESULTS Cont. from Page

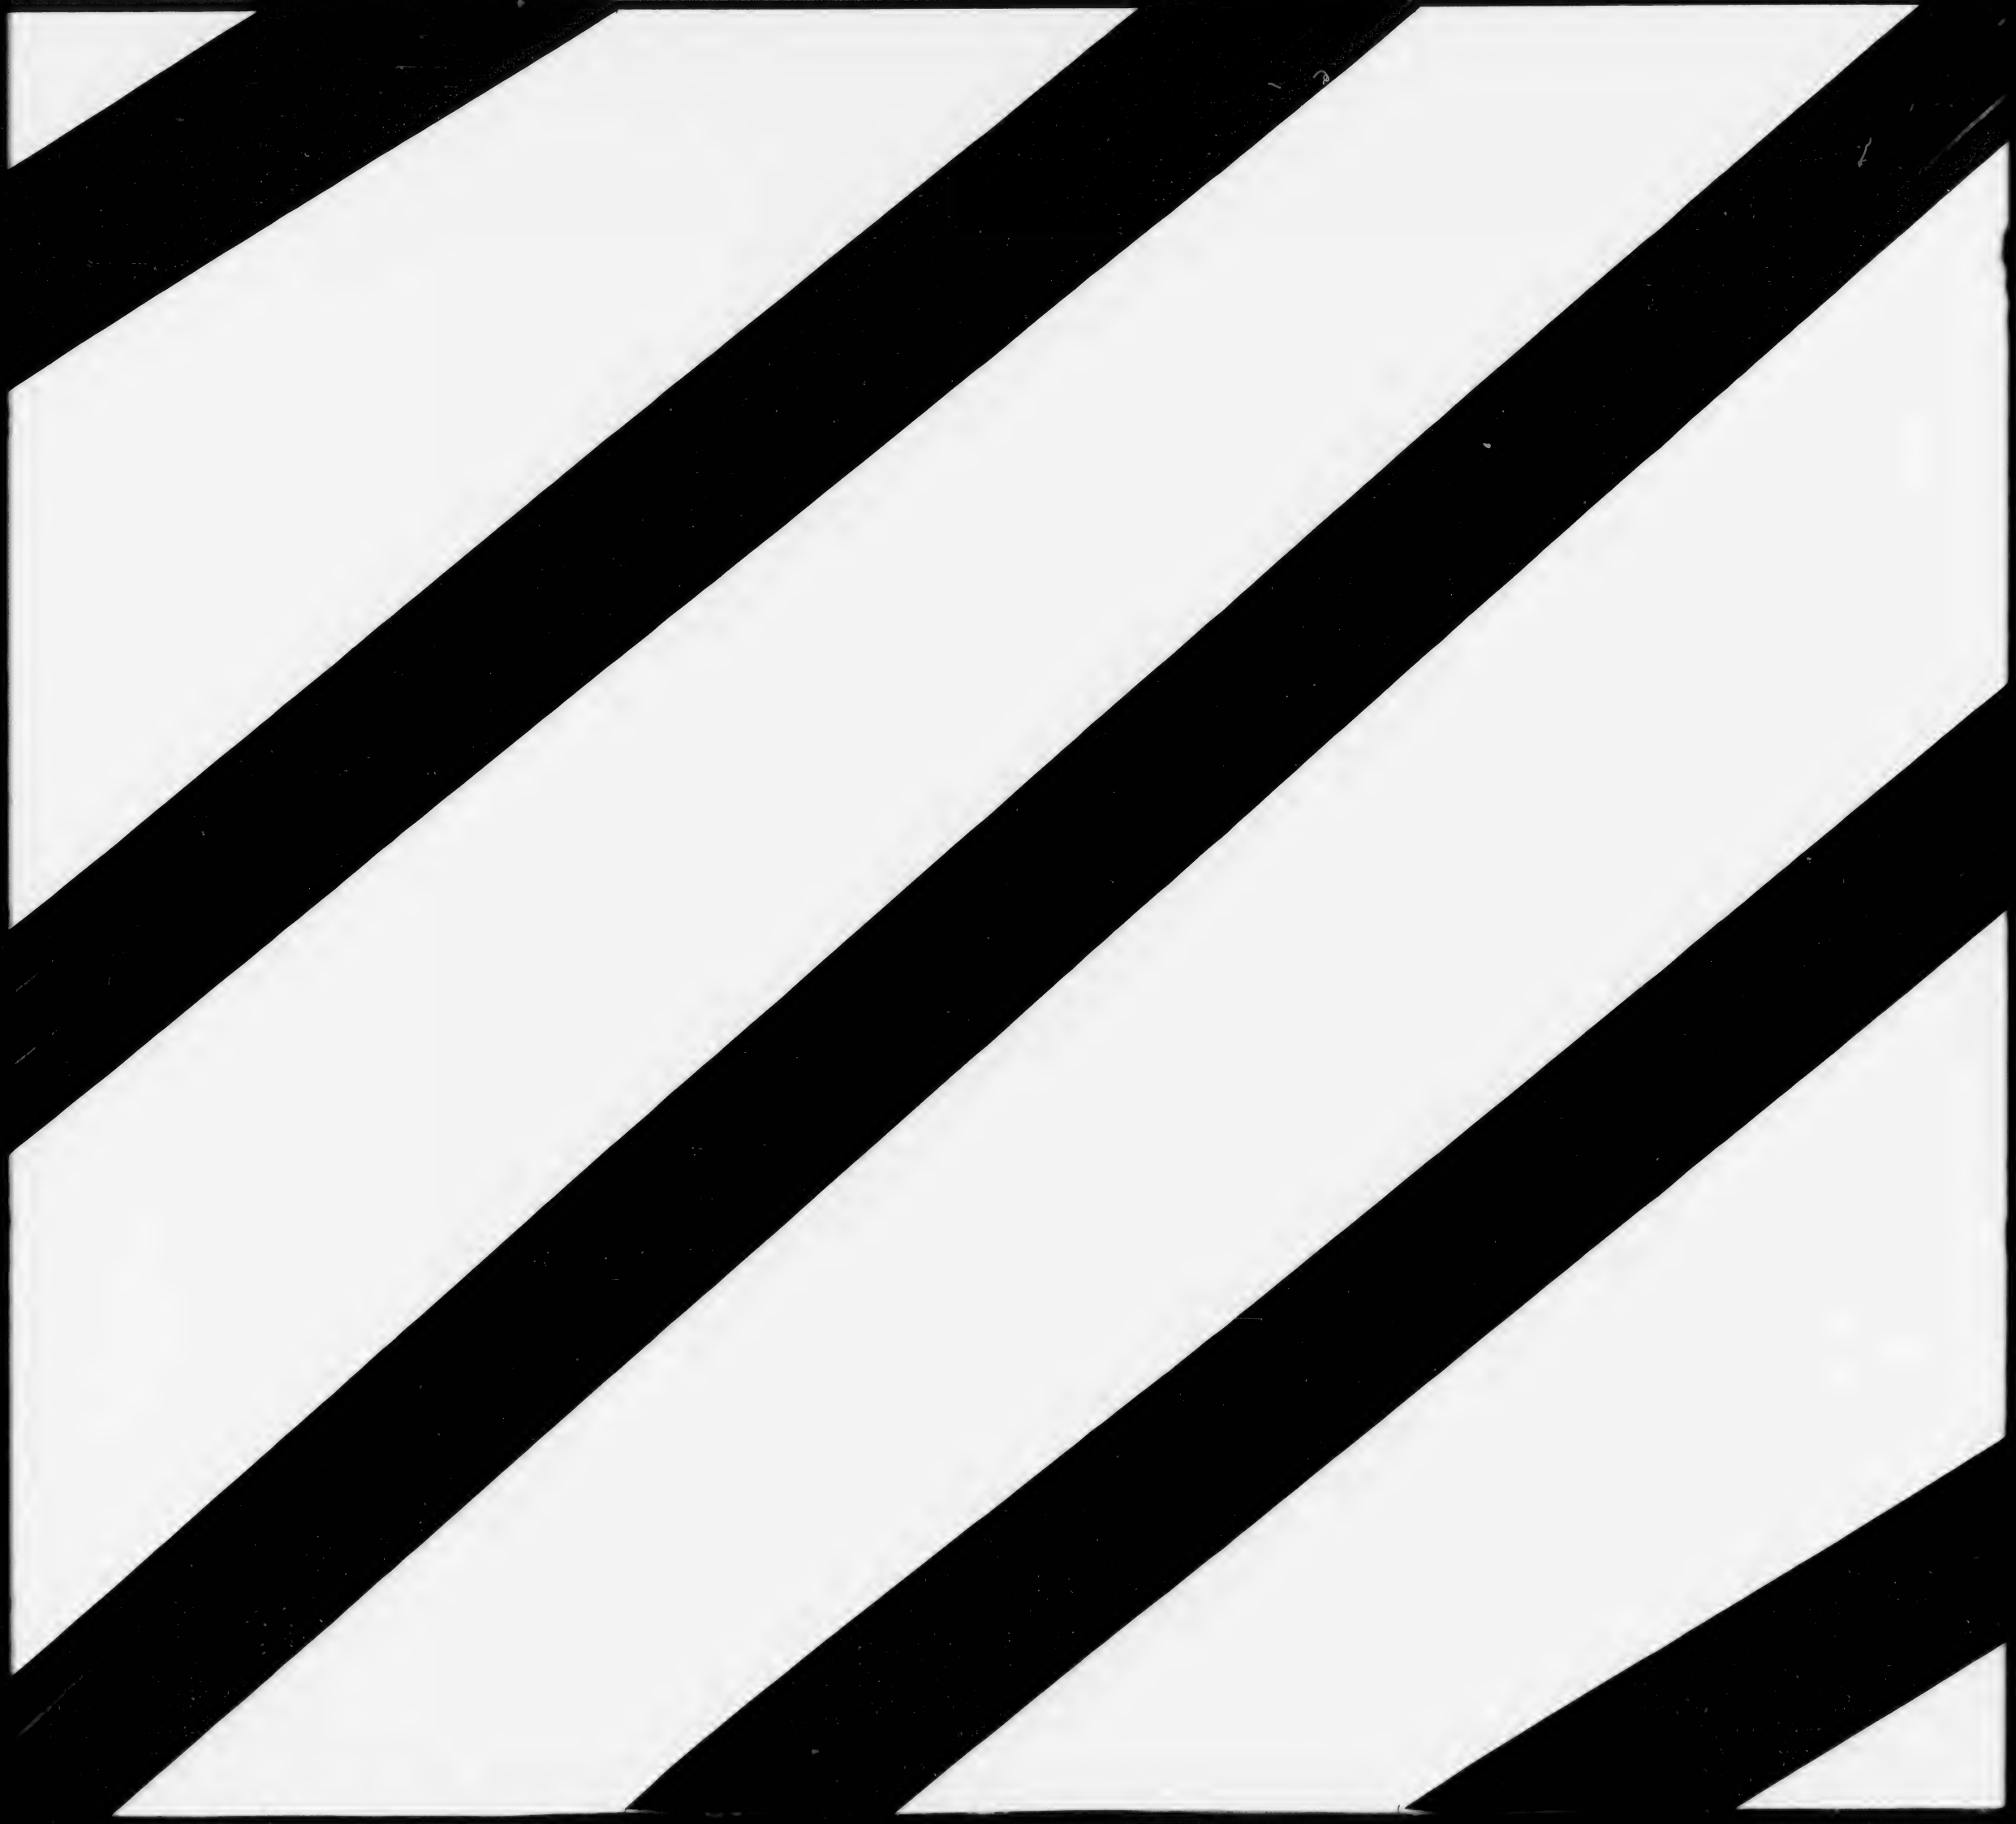
this next year.

"My goals for more freedom and responsibility will have a definite influence on each individual student. By stressing a platform of responsibility, I hope to convince the faculty and administration that students of Presbyterian College are capable of serious thought on the issues confronting them.

"My aim is to make the constructive ideas of students and faculty a reality through the combined efforts of the administration, faculty, and students.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies



McINTOSH'S SHOE SHOP
Catering to PC Students for 47 Years
203 Musgrove St.

Yarborough Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

#
34

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, September 2, 1966 | No. 1

RAY COMBS, book store manager, is kept busy by freshmen during early rush for textbooks.

Student Book Store Is Enlarged; Will Rank As Largest In The State

The Presbyterian College Book Store, now in its new location, is just what the students ordered. Many new lines of paperbacks, as well as textbooks are now on display. P. C. now can boast the largest book store in South Carolina.

This year, the Bookstore is managed by Ray Combs and assisted by Bill McFaddin and Adele Nowell.

A host of summer school students chipped in on the moving operation which began in the middle of July and ended before the fall semester opened. Shelves were cut, painted and moved upstairs and the "wall" went up. Six new shelves were manufactured by the maintenance shop.

An entire line of paperbacks, from such publishers as Harper and Row, Littlefield - Adams, Penguin, Monarch, Barnes and Nobles, Viking and many others were combined into the largest bookstore in the state, title-wise. Along with subject paperbacks, current issue books, such as the inside story of the Playboy Club, Vietnam, Negro revolutions, politics and current best selling novels are present.

In the way of course commentaries, The College Outline Series has been ordered along with many other textbook study guides.

The Student Entertainment Committee, as well as other student organizations, is financed directly by the bookstore proceeds. Many students claim that the prices have been jacked up, but they are all manufacturers' suggested retail prices. Textbooks have not been forgotten in the rising prices all over the country.

Bookstore hours will be from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. each day except Saturday and Sunday.

Forty-Eight on Dean's List For Last Spring Semester

Forty-eight Presbyterian College students are included on the Dean's List for the second semester of the 1965-66 session, Registrar Roslyn Martin announced today.

She said these four young scholars topped the group with All-A averages for that period: Mrs. Carole Hughes Johnston of Duncan; Henry Bryan Parks of Greenville; Morrow Bradford Thompson of Van Wyck; and Danny Knox Wyatt of Huntsville, Ala.

Other students cited for academic excellence include:

Amelia Nichols and Richard A. Rhame, both of Clinton; Cecil Y. Brown and John C. Jones, both of Laurens; James R. Galloway and Charles E. Hayes, both of Rock Hill; Gordon S. Adam, Jr., of Bloomfield, Ky.; George V. Atkinson of Glen Ridge, N. J.; Louis E. Bradley of Williston; Vicki Ann Brown of Sumter; James E. Bush of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Jerry H. Buttrum of La Grange, Ga.; Kathryn C. Caldwell of Augusta; Lewis J. Caldwell of Covington Ga.; James T. Darby, Jr., of Summerton; Joseph W. Dunlap, Jr., of Knoxville.

Thomas C. Edwards of Union; Carlos J. Emanuel of Ecuador, South America; Paula Evans of Ludowici, Ga.; Donald S. Flowers of Bradenton, Fla.; Susan H. Gilbert of Blakely, Ga.; J. Patrick Goldsmith of Lancaster; Charles W. Jackson of McCormick; James H. Johnson of Georgiana, Ala.; Michael G. LeFever of Lancaster, Pa.; Neill A. Lindsay, III, of Fayetteville, N. C.; Gwyn G. McCutchen of Waycross, Ga.; Michael L. McGehee of Marianna, Fla.; Samuel H. McGirt of Maxton, N. C.; Dan L. McLemore of Surrency, Ga.; Donald T. McNeill of Thomson, Ga.; John S. Mebane of Dunwoody, Ga.

Barbara E. Rabb of Fountain Inn; Edward J. Robeson, IV, of Greenwood; William H. Scott, III, of West Point, Ga.; Henry M. Smith of Marietta, Ga.; James H. Smith of Covington,

See DEAN'S LIST, p. 4, col. 3

Eight New Professors Have Joined PC Faculty For 1966-67 Session

Eight new professors have joined the Presbyterian College faculty for the 1966-67 session. Also, two members of the faculty have returned after leaves of absence.

Dr. George M. McGuire has joined the faculty as an associate professor of education. After earning his BA degree from Hampden-Sidney College and his masters degree from Montclair State College, Dr. McGuire did his doctoral work in curriculum and instruction at Duke.

Lt. Col. Benjamin Ivey joined the faculty during the summer as Professor of Military Science and Tactics (See page 1, col. 3 for details)

Frederick W. Harrison has been added to the faculty as an assistant professor of biology. Mr. Harrison is working toward his Ph. D. at the University of South Carolina, where he has held graduate assistantships for several years.

The economics and business department has a new assistant professor of economics. J. Michael Marr, a 1963 P. C. graduate, has done work toward his doctorate in economics at Clemson. While at P. C. Marr was an outstanding football player.

Bob Waters, former star with the P. C. football team and quarterback with the San Francisco "Forty-Niners", has joined the P. C. coaching staff. He will serve as assistant coach and will direct the college intramural program.

Miss Mary Anne Pennington, who comes to Presbyterian College from the Richmond Professional Institute where she has just received her master of fine arts degree, is the new instructor in the newly established Department of Fine Arts.

Dr. W. Fred Chapman, Jr., has returned to Presbyterian College after a year of teaching and research at Clemson University and has resumed his place as chairman of the economics and business department.

Paul E. Campbell has also returned to the P. C. faculty after a year of working toward his Ph. D. in mathematics at Clemson University.

"Death of God" Topic At HRC Symposium

On Thursday night, August 25, the Human Relations Club of P. C. sponsored a symposium on "The Death of God Theologians." The program, held in Richardson Hall, was the second in a series of Semester Debates —following the very successful debate on Viet Nam policy last semester.

Three speakers presented the views of the three most outstanding proponents of the "God is Dead" theology. The first speaker was Dr. Lewis Hay of P. C. who presented the views of Thomas J. J. Altizer.

Professor John C. Cooper, head of the philosophy department of Newberry College, and a fellow graduate student of Altizer's at the University of Chicago, talked on the views of William Hamilton.

Professor J. Daniel Brown, the third speaker, enlightened the audience on Professor Van Buren's views. Professor Brown teaches philosophy and religion at Converse College.

Dr. Ronald Burnside, an advisor to the Human Relations Club, introduced the speakers and served as moderator for the symposium.

Because of the large student and faculty attendance, the Semester Debate series will be continued next semester. Anyone wishing to join the Human Relations Club or to suggest a topic for next semester's program is asked to see Dr. Burnside or Jim Murchison.

Ex-Pro Joins PC Coaching Staff

(See Page 3)

Viet Nam Veteran Returns to Alma Mater As Head of Military Science Department

By MIKE GOWER

Taking charge of the ROTC program this year as PMS is Lt. Col. Ben F. Ivey, Jr.

In WWII, he served in the Atlantic and Pacific Theatres; in the Korean Police Action, he served with the 24th Division. Now the seventeen-year veteran comes ot us from the Advisory Group Command in Viet Nam. Although he has never been a PMS, he was an instructor in the Infantry School for three years.

As the new PMS, he plans to institute a field day exercise each semester. It will be a day devoted to encourage group competition and to recgonizing the achievements of the cadets. Also the new system of awarding special merits for exceptional achievement has been added to recognize outstanding cadets. The 340 men in the ROTC program this year may expect more than just the regular drill, for Col. Ivey feels that the basic function of the program is to develop leaders for both civilian and military service in conjunction with the other departments of the school.

LT. COL. BENJAMIN IVEY

The thirty-eight year old Colonel is a P. C. graduate with a major in history. His home town is Florence. He and his wife, the daughter of Col. Wysor, have two children. Together they attend the First Presbyterian Church in Clinton. He feels strongly for the traditions that surround this school if they help to develop one's character, and if they provide the basis for ideals being carried on.

CADET OFFICERS

Taking over command of the P. C. Battalion is Grady Marshall. His Executive Officer will be Jim Ritchie. Other members of the Battalion staff are: S1 Buddy Protinski; S2, Earlie Rash; S3, Roy Squires; and S4, Charlie Campbell. Randy Gram is head of the Drum and Bugle Corps, while Grover Ford is leader of the Wysor Rifles.

Company commanders are David Bordner, Bob Warren, Monk Milligan, Sam Lyons, and Evan Pamplin.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Mng. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor — Jos. B. Stevens, Business Mgr.

State Treasurer Race

The "new" race for the State Treasurer of South Carolina is now being disputed in state political circles.

The Republican Party originally did not plan to run any candidate against the Democrat incumbent Jeff Bates. Mr. Bates had held the office for over twenty years, and the Republicans realized that any candidate of their own would have a difficult time making a good showing against Bates.

Less than a month ago Mr. Bates died, and the Republicans were presented with a golden opportunity to run a man for the office. They chose W. W. Wannamaker, Jr., only to discover that they would have difficulty in getting his name on the ballot.

South Carolina election laws require that the names of prospective candidates be submitted at least seven months before the date of the election. This means that in order for Mr. Wannamaker to be eligible to run, his name should have been submitted as a candidate in the latter part of April.

The Republican candidate qualifies as a candidate in every other respect. He and his supporters are certain that they will be able to obtain the necessary petitions of signatures by the 60-day deadline. Yet some high-ranking Democrats in South Carolina politics are blocking the way for this candidate's name to be placed on the ballot. These men are even claiming that the Republicans clamoring for recognition of their candidate are the very ones who voted for the legislation stating the seven-month deadline when it was passed several years ago.

The Republican Party claims that this legislation is infringing on its right to run a candidate for office, and The Blue Stocking is inclined to agree with it. South Carolina is one of a minority of states that has such restrictive legislation. Most states do have deadlines for registration of candidates, but the excessive one adhered to in this state is in need of revision.

Support the Book Store

As most of you noticed on your return to school this semester, Presbyterian College now has a new and greatly enlarged bookstore. Eventually, the new facility will be the largest bookstore in the state, title-wise.

The Blue Stocking would like to commend the administration on its improvement of the bookstore facilities, and would urge the student body to support the bookstore and its operations.

Supporting Staff

News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Richard Smart
Assistant News Editor ..... Ray Combs
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Typists ..... Carolyn Colby, Mavis Harrop

The Mighty Throng Is Put Down

By RUSH OTEY

The Mighty Throng rejoices:

"Hallelujah! See what we have done! We have freed you from tradition. We have saved you from humiliation. We have prevented thousands of traumatic experiences. We have raised the moral integrity of your society. We have done it, we ourselves. Hallelujah!"

The voices of The Saved cry out:

"Why?"

The Mighty Throng explains:

"You have failed to keep your integrity. You have failed to initiate responsibility where responsibility was needed. Your laws have failed because they were not enforced. Many of you became crude; and things not becoming to any man, things below the dignity of any human, were being forced upon the Younger Ones. What would this have led to had we not acted when we did? Several of the Younger Ones have fled already; things were completely out of hand."

The voices of The Saved cry out:

"You have gone beyond traditions of many years. You have gone beyond our laws because some of you felt a need to act, a need to save us before we destroyed ourselves. We have failed at times to initiate responsibility. At times we did abuse our freedom. But have you no respect for our laws, our government, out ability to solve problems? Are you yourselves perfect? Have you never failed in what you set out to do? Must we be required to be infallible always in order to preserve our rights?"

The Mighty Throng explains:

"Your laws here are not absolute. We are not bound by them."

The voices of The Saved cry out:

"But can't they be considered? Can you not talk with us—even reprimand us—before you act so drastically?"

The Mighty Throng explains:

"There wasn't time. You had failed your laws anyway when you failed to keep order."

The voices of The Saved cry out:

"Paternalism!"

The shouts continued between the two groups. Away from it all stood Goeff. His bags were packed. He was ready to leave this place, and he thought to himself: "Where one comes to grow up . . . to learn to be an individual . . . Where one can be himself without fear . . . 'Congratulations, Goeff, you made 1300 on the College Boards. We're sure you'll continue this academic achievement in college' . . . 'What kind of a name is that, boy?' . . . 'Squat, Goeffie-boy' . . . $1800 a year . . . leave me alone, I have to study. I want to learn. Let me go free. I can't take it . . . There will be a new beginning, away from all this."

The Mighty Throng explains:

"You have failed to exercise responsibility. Your failure has caused shame and emotional stress to some. This will hurt our reputation."

The voices of The Saved cry out:

"You didn't give us a chance. You didn't talk with us. Your actions were uncalled for. You let a minority that failed to be responsible influence you so that you have taken away the rights and privileges of the majority. You have failed in your responsibility towards us. You have gone beyond the limits of your power."

Away from it all stood Hugo, the head of them all. He had made his decision. He must now speak. Slowly he made his way through the crowd. His arms spread above them, asking for quiet. The eyes of The Mighty Throng were all upon him. The Saved knew that he was the last hope for a return of their system of law and government. All were silent when he began:

"The announcement I am about to make has rather far-reaching implications. It will be read twice, after which I will ask you to leave in an orderly manner, refraining from any discussion at this time. The first reading is as follows: 'As a part of my job, it is . . .'"

The Mighty Throng rejoices:

"What job? Hallelujah! See what we have done! We have freed you from tradition. A new song is in the air, a new day has come. Hallelujah! Hallelujah! Hallelujah!

BROADWAY

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
September 2-3
The Glass Bottom Boat
Doris Day, Rod Taylor Arthur Godfrey

MON.-WED., SEPT 5-7
Born Free
Virginia McNemma and Bill, Trauers

Act May Set Precedent

To the Editor:

The reasoning, the manner, and the conclusion of the recent faculty meeting can, in my mind, be termed as little more than an absurdity. It amazes me that responsible men could sit still, much less participate in an action which was built on personal assumptions, hearsay, and perjudice.

Further, I find it hard to believe that no formal investigation was undertaken to validate the various claims against the Rat System and those pressed against the student body officers. The entire procedure appears to have been hastily erected on a sandy foundation.

I do not assume to know all the facts behind the action, but those I am aware of are unbelievable. For example, I cannot fathom the logic behind the charge of irresponsible action when a report was filed to the faculty by a freshman concerning some infraction. This infraction was then related to proper student officials but without the names of the offenders. A shot in the dark can't be made responsible.

There are other examples in which faculty members observe things that appear to be infractions but an investigation prove to be something else entirely. Assumptions have little place in securing the truth or in forming sound judgments.

If all the faculty is trying to do is to free our academic community of all alien encumbrances, then it must find another way to accomplish this. Their present course has proven most inadequate. It has simply punctured the existing consistution under the pretext of a breach of the student-faculty contract. This contract is valid only as long as the student system keeps order. Thus, under the guise of chaos, the faculty moved. However, the legality of their move is indeed questionable.

Therefore, it is my desire to see some concrete evidence to the system. There is reason to back the charges slated against doubt that any such action will occur; however, there is room for hope and this appears to be the only course to be followed by a now disenfranchised student government. This is not an extreme but a reality—a reality born out of a pseudo attempt to liberalize and emancipate the student.

Yet the real danger lies in the precedent that has been set. The various student institutions can never feel secure as long as the faculty holds the power to enact or exterminate any system with little reservation for concrete evidence and less for student representations.

Yours truly,
Richard Smart

Three Factors Of Winning

BILL

The P. C. football team began the 1966 campaign with the brightest future of any football squad in recent P. C. history. But what does it take to make up a winnng season? Is it merely the football team themselves? Or is it the coaches that make a winning team? Does the student body have anything to do with a winning team in their support of the sport?

It seems to me that a portion of all these are needed to produce a winner. P. C. needs and wants this winner! We have a very fine coaching staff led by Cally Gault. Billy Tiller and Joe Nixon have already proved to be capable. The addition of Bobby Waters gives the Blue Hose a backfield coach with professional experience.

The football team has 39 returning lettermen along with 16 freshmen to give the Blue Hose the depth they have needed in recent years. There will be experienced players at every position. The prospects are very good for a big season. For the first time since I've been here the Blue Hose will have six home games. This could be a big advantage since P. C. has won nine straight home games

The last facet is the school spirit. In the last two years the spirit at the football games has been excellent. This year the team will need the backing of the student body as never before. A good team can be better with a lot of spirit. This was evidenced in the Wofford and Furman games last season.

The team can pick up spirit from the student body. In the past the freshmen have had a deep school spirit instilled in them by the Freshman Control Board during rat season. It is questionable if this year's freshmen will have that spirit since the faculty's action to suspend rat season.

That will leave the upperclasmen a big responsibility to take the initiative at the football games. The students will just have to hope that the freshmen can follow suit and get into the swing of things.

In the past the fraternities have played a big part in getting the spirit going at the games. The idea of having a fraternity help cheer at each home game has proved invaluable. Each fraternity will be able to have a game of its own this year.

The Walter Johnson Club has come up with the idea of getting us a mascot. This would help spirit and also develop pride in the Blue Hose.

So we have all the ingredients of a good season. The football team and the coaches are ready. Are we as a student body ready to back them?

Tiller Made Associate Director In Shift in Athletic Department

The promotion of Billy Tiller to associate athletic director as part of the realignment of duties in the Presbyterian College football operation was announced today by Athletic Director Cally Gault.

Gault said Tiller, in his new capacity, will work more closely with ticket sales, the Walter Johnson Club and will be in charge of purchasing equipment. He will continue with the duties of football line coach and as chief recruiter with primary responsibilities in South Carolina. A 1955 graduate of P. C., Tiller joined the staff in 1962.

Art Musselman, meanwhile, is being relieved of his football duties to concentrate on his responsibilities as head coach of basketball and baseball. He also will handle intramurals in the fall and help in the coordination of stadium management and football program sales. Musselman, a former Citadel basketball great, has been at P. C. since 1963.

Joe Nixon, former Blue Hose player and 1963 graduate who joined the staff in 1965, will continue his duties as end coach and head track coach. He has also been assigned the supervision of the training room and will share with Bob Waters the major scouting burden and recruiting in Georgia and Florida.

Bob Waters, Presbyterian's 1960 Tangerine Bowl star and former professional San Francisco 'Forty-Niner quarterback, arrived new to the P. C. staff this month. His primary football assignment will be with the quarterbacks and as pass offense coach; he also will serve as director of the student body intramural program.

Cally Gault pointed out that these four assistants have an additional responsibility as instructors in the physical education department. He said plans are being developed to increase the number of physical education courses offered within the department, as a means of providing better preparation for those students who will enter the coaching field.

Forbes Announces Intramural Plans

By TOM CAIN

For the sports enthusiasts at P. C. who do not participate in intercollegiate athletics, the 1966-67 intramural sports program will offer participation in twelve sports.

During the fall program concentration will be on football, with one swimming meet and a week-long bridge tournament scheduled for the near future. In football a ten-team league will be in operation, with each fraternity allowed one team. Rosters for these teams must be posted by Monday afternoon.

Each football team will play nine games, with an all-star team being selected to play the league champion. Also scheduled for the fall is a "powder puff" game during halftime at one of the varsity games.

Heading this year's program will be student coordinator Gus Forbes and faculty coordinators Bob Waters and Art Musselman. Their main purpose will be the encouragement of intramural participation among all, thus insuring a more efficient program.

LINEMEN PRACTICE BLOCKING during pre-season workout. The Blue Hose open the season Against Frederick Sept. 17.

Sixteen Frosh Bolster Squad of Veteran Men

By TONY DENDY

The outlook for the football Blue Hose has been brightened this year by the addition of a promising group of freshmen. Sixteen freshmen are included on the roster. These boys, all from South Carolina and neighboring states, bring with them quite an impressive list of honors and will probably be counted on to back up the seasoned veterans.

Head Coach Cally Gault says that it is still too early to tell much about these boys, but he adds that some will probably be playing a lot of football if they can live up to their potential.

Heading the list of athletes are ends Tommy Johnson and John Stanford. Johnson at 6'1", 180 lbs., is from Clinton. He was All State and second string high school All American. Stanford, from Decatur, Ga., stands an even 6' and weighs 195 lbs.

The prospective tackles: Billy Cox, who at 6'3", 185 lbs. played his high school bal lat Woodruff where his team was state "AA" champs; Carey Fussell, 6'2", 185 lbs., from Hazelhurst, Ga.; Ed Pauling, 6', 220 lbs., from Batesburg; and Raymond Smith at 5'11", 224 lbs., from Miami, Fla., where his high school was National champions.

At guard: Jimmy Hamrick, Jack Barnes, Peter Mallory, and Bobby Saine. Hamrick, at 5'11", played his football at Gaffney, where he received All State, Shrine Bowl and All South honors. Saine, from Athens, Ga., stands 6' and weighs 195 lbs. He was All State for Georgia. Barnes, at 5'11", 206 lbs., is from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Mallory is 5'11", 187 lbs., from LaGrange, Ga., where he won All Area and All Region honors. The halfbacks are Phil Bradner, a 5'11", 165 lb. speedster from Jacksonville, Fla.; Danny Fry, who at 5'6", 165 lbs., won All Atlanta honors, and Stan Kemp at 5'8", 168 lbs. is from Jonesboro, Ga., where he was honorable mention All State.

At fullback are Don Cermeno, 5'10", 175 lbs, from Miami, Fla,; and Ronnie Jordan, 5'9", 172 lbs., from Atlanta, where he won All Atlanta and All State honors.

The addition of these first year men has brought the number of varsity players to 57.

Former Pro Player

Bob Waters Joins Coaching Staff

By GENE SULLIVAN

Football prospects continue to look excellent for the Blue Hose for the 1966 season. Former Tangerine Bowl star, Bob Waters, joined the Hose staff as an assistant coach, primarily concerned with pass offense and backfield defense. Waters will also direct the college intramural program and serve as physical education instructor.

While at P. C., Waters starred for three years as quarterback and climaxed his college playing career by leading the Hose to the Tangerine Bowl and a 9-1 season. As a student he compiled an excellent academic record while holding positions of student body president and ROTC battalion executive officer. Upon graduation, he immediately joined the San Francisco 49'ers and was a pioneer of the shotgun offense.

Waters is a native of Sylvania, Ga.; he completed his masters degree this summer. He is married and has two children.

Most football fans remember him for his two-play touchdown which upset the world champion Baltimore Colts in 1960. Those two pays were his first two offensive plays in the pros.

In a Wednesday interview Waters said, "We will run the same basic pattern this year as last but put more emphasis on passing from a pro style formation. Our running game will be from the 'I' formation which makes better use of our versatility and speed." Coach Waters expressed high hopes for the '66 edition of the Blue Hose.

COACH BOB WATERS

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Campus News Briefs

Enrollment Reaches Limit of 650

Presbyterian College has launched its 87th session with a full capacity enrollment of 650 students, the college registrar's office announced today.

Of this total, 522 are men and 128 are women as P. C. enters its second year of full coeducation. There are 460 resident men and 116 women.

Presbyterian is in its first full week of classes this week after launching its 1966-67 year on a new calendar designed to complete the first semester before Christmas. Starting three weeks earlier than usual, the college will observe the regular Thanksgiving holidays (Nov. 23-28) and will end the fall semester on December 17. When students return to school after this vacation period on January 8, they will immediately register for the second semester.

Choir

According to Charles Gaines, head of the Music Department, the Presbyterian College Choir is looking forward to another fruitful year.

Added to the 23 returning members of the choir are 29 new members which provide for a larger and more well-balanced choir. Mr. Gaines is more than pleased about the big turn-out this year.

The first choir trip will be on the week-end of October 29 and 30 to Anderson. The choir will provide music for chapel services on Wednesday.

New officers for the choir will be elected within the next few weeks.

Chapel

Monday: Dr. Neil Truesdale: "South Carolina Constitutional Amendment on the Dispensing of Liquor."

Wednesday: Rev. E. B. Keisler of St. John's Lutheran Church, Clinton.

Friday: Bob Warren, Student Body President.

P. C. Rating

Presbyterian College is ranked among the top 25 private institutions in the South and Southwest by a national rating organization, it was announced today.

P. C. stands 23rd in the group headed by Rice, Duke, and Vanderbilt as chosen by "The College Rater" of Allentown, Pa. It is the only college in South Carolina included in this select listing.

In seeking to designate the leading American colleges and universities, the rating service set up a number of criteria which included: admissions standards, proportion of students entering graduate school, student-faculty ratio, library collections, proportion of faculty with doctorates.

PaC SaC Appointments

Skip Weldon, editor of this year's PaC SaC, announced several staff appointments this week. Mac Smith was named Associate Editor. Bob Staton was appointed Fraternity Editor; Grady Marshall, Military Editor; Sarah Stribling, Faculty Editor; Bryson Rousey, Senior Class Editor; David Wyatt, Class Editor; Bill Bassham, Sports Editor; Evan Pamplin, Captions Editor; and John Weigel, Art Editor.

PHOTO CREDITS

Photo page 1—top, Howard. Page 1—bottom, Hood. Page 3, Hood.

DEAN'S LIST, cont. from p. 1

Va.; Martha A. Smith of Greer; Robert E. Staton of Emporia, Va.; Daniel M. Taylor, Jr., of Atlanta; Frances C. Tumlinson of Ocala, Fla.; Samuel C. Waters of Lugoff; and Thomas A. Whitaker of Florence.

THE STUDENT ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE will be featuring Bob Collins and the Fabulous Five at the first annual Freshmen Mixer. The Mixer will be held on September 10 at Greenville Hall from eight until twelve. Everyone is invited.

The Greeks

This past week the IFC met and clarified the rules for prerush season. Eating with a freshman or taking a freshman anywhere except on trips to his home town is prohibited. Accepting a ride from or giving a ride to a freshman is also illegal. It is also illegal for an upperclassman to enter a freshman's room unless also quartered there. This includes prohibition against visiting an upperclassman who is rooming with a freshman.

No freshman is allowed to enter a fraternity suite before official rush begins, and all unnecessary contact with freshmen is to be avoided.

The IFC also said that it reserved the power to prosecute any violation not covered by the above rules which it deemed necessary.

The first offense carries a fine of $25.00. The second offense carries a fine of $25.00 or more plus possible closure of the fraternity suite.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

From the PiKA's Jim Johnson is married to the former Miss Rose Ann McCrary of Clinton. Allan "Butterbean" Harris has pinned Miss Kathy Rogers of Mullins. Don Blanchard and Sandy Lynn attended the national convention last week held in St. Louis, Missouri. Brothers of the Week are Jim Johnson and Allan Harris.

The Sigma Nu's will hold the Second Annual Smudge Contest next Wednesday from 7:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. at the fraternity house. Frank Markette is married to the former Miss Ann Collins of Atlanta, and Art and Cheryl Sammons have a new baby. Improvements to the house include a new wall along the street and a swinging door on the patio (thanks to Brother Sammons). Tony Benson is the Sigma Nu advisor.

The Theta Chi's are moving into their newly renovated suite in Neville Hall and have purchased new furniture and a color TV. Brothers Baker Bedsole and Bill Scott are attending the national convention at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, Canada. Brother Starling Ray has pinned Miss Billie Carol Still of Asheville, and Brother Richard Galloway is engaged to Miss Suzanne Sowell of Winthrop College.

The Pi Kapp's have pledged Duane Armisted. Enough money has been collected to buy a bus for Boys' Farm in Newberry. Brother John Askew is engaged to Miss Bobbie Garrison of Georgia State College, and David Templeton is lavaliered to Miss Beth Lindsay of P. C. New officers are as follows: Archon, Andy Barnett; Secretary, David Templeton; Treasurer, Dan Roberts; Historian, Bill Monroe; Warden, Tommy Barnett; Chaplain, Tom McPhail; and IFC Representative, Jack Avery.

Brother Will Scott is married to the former Miss Donna Hurt of Mt. Pleasant. Brother Jim Bruce is pinned to Miss Anne McGregor of Anderson. Jimmy Page has lavaliered Miss Judy Owings of Winthrop, and Richard Hay has lavaliered Miss Anne Lackey of the College of Charleston. Brother of the Week is Will Scott.

The Alpha Sig's held a stag supper Thursday night at the Ponderosa Restaurant.

Two KA's have been married. Jim Humphries is married to the former Miss Mary Emma Fowler of Marietta, Ga., and Rick Rhame is married to the former Miss Rita Chandler of Columbia. Brother Christie Patterson attended the National Leadership School in Memphis, Tennessee. Brother Roy Wright is serving as administrative assistant for the KA's.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1025

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, September 9, 1966 | No. 2

Officials Approve Student Budget; Total Outlay Amounts to $18,591

By RUSH OTEY

Reed T. Bolick, Treasurer of the Student Council, has announced the final approval of a massive, all-encompassing Student Government Association Budget of $18,591 for the 1966-67 school year. The budget, submitted by the Student Council after studying requests for funds made by the various campus organizations, was given final approval by the Office of the Business Manager on Wednesday afternoon.

A large portion of the proposed budget for student avtivities, $5,750 for the Student Entertainment Committee, was to be voted on today. This figure included $3,000 to be obtained by the $2.50 per semester entertainment assessment instituted by a campus-wide referendum last spring. Student Government officers speculated that there will be no assesments this semester, but that each student will probably be asssesed $2.50 at the beginning of next semester to provide big-name entertainment on campus. It was hoped by the Student Couucil that the Entertainment Committee would therefore be allotted a total of $5,250, with the gap being left by no assessments this semester to be filled by a $1,000 stipend from the college.

The original budget of $26,221.50 submitted by the Student Council passed with only one major deletion by the Business Manager—that of $1,800 for salaries for the Student Body President, SCA President, Pac SaC Editor, Blue Stocking Editor and Intramural Chairman. The Administration did not grant a salary of any kind to the Student Body President or the SCA President on the grounds that a salary for these positions would diminish the honor of the positions, and that it felt the majority of the student body would disapprove of such action. The sums of $300 per year for PaC SaC Editor and $450 for Blue Stocking Editor were not approved. Pay for these positions remained at the present levels of $12 per issue for the Blue Stocking Editor and $250 yearly for PaC SaC Editor. The requested pay of $300 for Intramural Chairman was approved.

Student publications will consume a large per cent of the 1966-67 budget. An estimated $12,000 for the publication of the PaC SaC was approved. The See BUDGET, P. 4, Col. 5.

SEC Sponsors Mixer

Another entertainment season gets underway Saturday night in Greenville Hall with a Freshman Mixer. All students and their dates are invited to the dance which will last from eight until twelve. Bob Collins and the Fabulous Five will furnish the music. Dress will be coat-and-tie for men and casual for ladies.

According to Larry Yonce, Chairman of the Student Entertainment Committee, Barbara Lewis has already been booked for Homecoming, and name groups such as The Tams and The Shirelles are being considered for future events.

The SEC is also planning more and better campus movies to be shown throughout the semester.

Other members of the committee are Baker Bedsole, Sarah Stribling, Kirk Peavy, Shep Marsh, Don Matthews, Dan O'Connell, and Hank Parks.

Sigma Nu Smudge Party Looked For Beautiful Lips

Sigma Nu Fraternity opened the year with its Second Annual Smudge Contest last Wednesday night at the Sigma Nu House.

The freshmen coeds and transfer students arrived at the house around 7:30 where they were most cordially greeted at the porch by a number of the brothers.

Each girl was then asked to fill out a questionnaire listing everything from her name and height to her favorite pasttime. On the back of each card the girls were asked to put their "smudge."

Jules Hedden and Phil Ward are to be commended for the tremendous job they did of pinning on the name tags.

When all the young ladies had arrived and had been escorted to the patio for refreshments, the music changed from mood music to party music.

Was the Second Annual Smudge Contest a success? Who knows, last year's contest made the headlines in the state papers, and one article appeared in a Puerto Rico newspaper.

What did it accomplish? Essentially the contest was a prerush idea with its main purpose —to sell Sigma Nu to the coeds.

The only remaining task is for the panel of judges to select the young lady with the loveliest lips and award her with a dozen red roses.

Biology Professor Builds 'Sow's Ear'

By KAREN WEAVER
Blue Stocking Feature Staff

When Dr. Alexander Stump's youngest daughter Allison asked him for a bass guitar, she could hardly have known the results of her request. For her father replied that she could not have a guitar, but that he would make her a violin.

Dr. Stump had little musical experience, but was a practiced carpenter who enjoyed puttering around his workshop in his spare time. He used a picture of a bass violin in a book for his pattern, and salvaged some plywood crates used for shipping air conditioners. He laid out his pattern by his own measurements, and began work during semester break last February. As he became more engrossed in his project, he improved his construction methods until he was painstakingly laboring over his instrument in every spare moment.

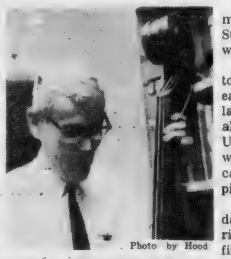

Photo by Hood

DR. ALEXANDER STUMP

The result, now near completion, is a baritone, or more correctly, a three-quarter bass violin. A similar instrument can be purchased for between $200 and $300.

Mr. Carl Freeman, an avid musician, encouraged Dr. Stump and aided in finishing the wood.

Dr. Stump doesn't know how to play what he calls his "sow's ear," and when Allison saw the large size of the violin, she lost all interest in trying to play it. Undaunted, her father is toying with the violin, and feels that it can at least be a conversation piece.

Dr. Stump has three other daughters, one of whom is married. Allison is beginning her first year of high school here in Clinton.

Photo by Howard

FRESHMEN WILL LONG REMEMBER the first official night of Rat Season. Tomorow the two-week ordeal ends for another year. During the future, freshmen will probably reflect upon Rat Season with laughter. The grim looks on the faces of these freshmen, however, reflect anything but laughter.

SCA Cabinet Named; New Plans Discussed

The first meeting of the Senior SCA Cabinet was held last Monday night. Plans were laid for RE Week to be held February 15-17. The represenatitives were requested to begin looking for freshmen interested in being on the Freshman Cabinet.

ORIENTATION WEEK

Orientation Week, which was a major project of the SCA, was reviewed at the first meeting. This year's orientation week featured a special week-end or orientation sponsored by the SCA separate from the administrations' usual orientation for freshmen.

Dr. Virginia Smith Hardie, Director of Counseling and Guidance at Clemson University, spoke to the freshmen on Saturday night. On Sunday afternoon Dr. Claude H. Cooler spoke to the freshmen. A Sunday morning worship service was held in Belk Auditorium for the freshmen by Dr. Lewis Hay. A reception at the President's home Sunday night brought the week-end to a close.

SENIOR CABINET

The executive cabinet also selected the Senior SCA Cabinet at its first meeting. The Senior Cabinet is smaller this year in order to increase the organization's effectiveness. The following students represent their dorms on the SCA Senior Cabinet:

Jim Suilenberger, Mell Davis, Joe Dunlap, Gary Leonard, Dan Roberts, Terry Dye, Don Flowers, John Lewis, and Steve Stine.

Dan Montgomery, Bo Bowman, John Weigel, Ray Combs, Jim Murchison, Andy Cooper, Tommy Lovett, John Lown, Pat Stogner, Maxine Fell, Sarah Stribling, Mavis Harrop, Melinda Martin, Doodle Dingle, and SueAnna Newsome.

CALENDAR AND KNAPSACK

Two other SCA projects completed recently are the fall semester activities calendar and the Knapsack. Benton Lutz was in charge of the calendar. The Knapsack was edited by Charles Eagles.

FUTURE PLANS

Mike McGehee president, urged all students to keep their representatives on the Cabinet informed of their needs and interests. McGehee said that "the SCA is constantly in search of new projects and ideas to meet the needs and interests of the student body. It is not only the responsibility of the Cabinets but for each of you to help meet the challenge and make your SCA Cabinet members aware of this challenge."

Neville Renovation Will Reach $300,000

Presbyterian College is completing a major renovation of its landmark building, Neville Hall, whose dome dominates the campus at the head of the west plaza.

The price tag, according to Business Manager G. Edward Campbell, will hit $300,000 for the extensive remodeling job. He said the college architects estimate the finished product will be a $900,000 structure which preserves all of the important details of the traditional building.

Classroom space in this main classroom building will be increased by one-third, faculty offices and modern language laboratory facilities added, and the over-all usable space increased from 30,000 square feet to 38,000 square feet.

Work on Neville began in June, 1965, was suspended during the regular school year to permit use of the building, and was resumed this past summer for final completion. Efforts now center on the first floor, where the wooden floors are being completely refinished, and central air-conditioning is being installed. Renovation of the exterior will leave intact the dome of Neville Hall, trademark of P. C. since the structure was first erected in 1907.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

WM. W. HALL, JR. Editor | CHARLES EAGLES Mng. Editor | JOS. B. STEPHENS Bus. Mgr.

PC And The Idea of Rat Season

The two-week Rat Season which will end Saturday (tomorrow) has brought forth a great deal of comment from the student body, faculty, and friends of the college.

The faculty's suspension of Rat Season for a short while aroused many students and some faculty members and rallied them under the belief that the power of the Student Council to govern over and keep order in the system had been usurped.

However, another important issue is at stake. The future of Rat Season as an institution and tradition on this campus now hangs in the balance. The Student Activities Committee of the faculty and the Student Council are now studying and investigating the weaknesses and good points of the system, and their conclusions will have much influence on whether or not the tradition will be carried on in future years.

Those who oppose Rat Season have said that the program detracts from the purpose(s) for which one enrolls in a college or university, i. e., to obtain an education (and all that that entails), and that some of the acts which freshmen have been required to do are not becoming to the manner in which college freshmen should conduct themselves.

The purposes of making freshmen "gin," wear "rat" signs, and do "dying cockroaches" are not intended as a deliberate humiliation of the freshmen. Those outward expresions of Rat Season should also not be used as a basis on which to judge the entire program. There is more, much more, to Rat Season.

Rat Season is not intended to detract from education. One of its stated purposes, in fact, is to encourage the freshman to remain within the sanctity of his dormitory room, where he is less likely to be bothered with the running of errands and/or the performing of other tasks for upperclassmen.

In the final analysis, one fact remains. Rats can be made to cheer, attend meetings, and appear enthusiastic; freshmen cannot. The Blue Stocking does not wish to force anyone to go against his will. It seems only logical that the freshman who has undergone the "ordeal" and its emphasis on enthusiasm and participation will be more inclined to retain those characteristics, and from all indications this participation and enthusiasm are also part of obtaining an education.

W. W. H.

Husband Hunting Better For Uneducated Women

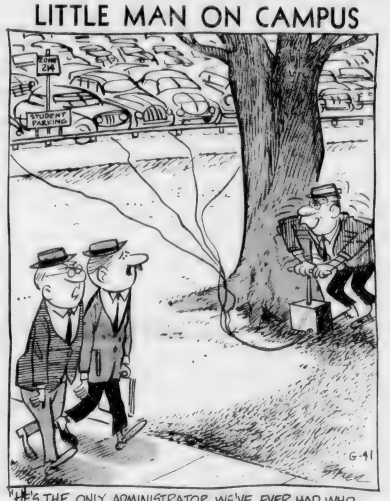
(ACP)—There's a widespread belief on college campuses that many women students are in college for one reason—to find a husband.

But according to a study made by Paul C. Glick, author of "American Families," marriage-minded coeds are in the wrong place.

The State Press, Arizona State University, reporting on Glick's study, said his statistics show that although the chances of marriage for the college-educated female are better than they were in 1940, chances are still better for the woman with only a high school education.

The older a man is when he marries, the study indicates, the greater age difference between bride and groom.

Since the male usually marries a younger female, he has a wide market while in college. Since a woman usually marries up in age, her market grows smaller.



As a rule, men marry women of the same or lower level of education. In the woman's case, the situation is reversed. Also, the higher the education level, the greater the improtance of men having higher levels of education than women.

These findings together lead to this conclusion: extended education and increased age place a woman in a mariage market in which the number of available older males with as much or more education is limited.

Because the man can marry down in age and education, the educated woman faces increas-

See HUSBANDS, P. 4, Col. 4

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"HE'S THE ONLY ADMINISTRATOR WE'VE EVER HAD WHO HAS FULLY UNDERSTOOD OUR PARKING PROBLEM."

The Greeks

By RICHARD SMART

At this week's IFC meeting the hat was passed containing the annual "smoker" dates. Taking first place, for the third consecutive year, were the PiKA's. They are followed in order by the Alpha Sigs, Theta Chi's, Sigma Nu's, KA's, and PiKapp's. The initial "smoker" will be held on November 14, which is the second Monday before Thanksgiving.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The "Order" enjoyed a rather placid week which consisted of a patch job on the shelter top and a re-run of a film taken at last year's climactic "Old South" gathering. The only moving event came as the "Pearl of Atlanta" joined the Columbia Jet Set at a debutante ball this past week-end in Columbia.

As for the Snakes there can be little doubt that the house was jumping, as the now annual "Smudge Party" took place. Doing the honors was Brother Glenn Barlow, who displayed his unique Clinton Hall technique to measure the "smacky mouth" ability of the freshman coeds. Also, Brother Howdy Letzring joined the Young Marrieds this semester as he and the former Miss Dorton of St. Petersburg, Fla., exchanged vows.

The PiKA's were well represented by Bruce Lawrence this week-end at the state-wide "trellis" climbing contest held in Columbia. With every fiber in his magnificent frame trembling, he launched himself into another world and finished a yet undetermined last. The loss was incredible. The Brothers-of-the-Week include Charles Rowland, Charles Weston, and Jim Allred. Coach Joe Nixon is serving as Alumnus Counselor.

The Alpha Sigs have been making some repairs and improvements to their suite. If this persists even Violet won't recognize her old haunts. Special thanks go to Jim Bruce who was seen Wednesday afternoon planting grass and watering the lawn. Plans are now being made for an informal party the week-end of September 17. Brother-of-the-Week is Alex Burgin.

The Theta Chi's will be moving back into their newly remodeled "pent house." Brother Jim Murchison has pinned Miss Dawn Hamilton of UNC at Greensboro, N. C. Brother Baker Bedsole is engaged to Miss JoAnna Easterling of Columbus, Ga.

The Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity went through an undisturbed week with little innovation, with the possible exception of Brother Tommy McPhail who has firmly established himself at Clinton Hall. Brother-of-the-Week is Andy Barnett.

ADDITIONS

Beginning with this issue of The Blue Stocking, two new additions have been made to the regular format and staff. Managing Editor Charles Eagles will contribute a column periodically, and Richard Smart has been appointed Greek Editor, filling the vacancy left by Jimmy Humphries.

Thoughtful Questions on Rat Season

By CHARLES EAGLES

During the past weeks much has been said for and against the PC tradition of rat season. The legality of the faculty's action should no longer be the issue. The issue is rat season itself.

At the present time the Student Activities Committee of the faculty and the Student Council are studying the rat program in depth. The entire student body and the faculty and the administration would do well to study this tradition too.

The time has come to question the very basis of the tradition itself. Our questions should be objective; our answers should also be objective. The answers will either point out weaknesses in the rat program or will reinforce our belief in the present policy and procedure.

The fact that questions are asked does not mean that the questioner is positive or negative in attitude toward the subject, merely that the questioner is trying to put the issue in proper prospective.

One of the first questions that should be asked is: What is the purpose of rat season? The most prevalent answers to this question are that it helps everyone learn the freshmen's names, it helps the freshmen get a feeling of a class, it tends to help the freshmen develop good study habits because they stay in their rooms to keep from doing errands for upperclassmen, it helps the freshmen rid themselves of "high school sophistication," and it generally helps acclimate the freshmen to college life.

Are these the proper goals of rat season? If they are, are they achieved under the present system? Can the system be improved or can a better system be devised to meet these goals?

If these goals are being fulfilled under the present system, are the methods used to meet the goals the most appropriate? What good or harm does it do for the freshmen to gin, to do dying cockroaches, to run around the plaza, to shine shoes, to carry extra trays in the dining hall, to wear rat signs and hats, and to do other menial things for upperclassmen?

For that matter, what makes upperclassmen want the freshmen to do these things? Do upperclassmen have the interest of the freshmen in mind and are they sincerely trying to help the freshmen when they make them participate in these activities? Why is it that a lone upperclassman rarely gins a lone freshman when no one is around?

There are some members of the faculty, administration, and student body that believe rat season should be abolished. If such action were taken, could the goals of a rat program be achieved outside of a rat program? Almost all people on this

See THOUGHTS, P. 4, Col. 3.

Supporting Staff

News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Alex Erwin
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Richard Smart
Assistant News Editor ..... Ray Combs
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Typists ..... Carolyn Colby, Mavis Harrop

MIKE DONAVAN Hurls The Pig Skin.

BOB MURRAY Booms One Down The Gridiron.

Photos by Hood

Blue Hose To Use Pro-Style Attack With Primary Emphasis On Passing

By MIKE SIMMONS

A fast, pro-type offense, designed to explode for points, promises to provide an exciting show for Presbyterian College football fans this year.

Coach Cally Gault has his new assistant Bob Waters introducing much of the profesional setup Waters learned as a quarterback with the San Francisco 'Forty-Niners. Around the basic patterns of what Gault terms his varied-T offense have been added an I-formation, more use of swing men in the backfield, and greater attention to the pass route of receivers.

Passing will be the big PC weapon. It's built around sophomore quarterback Bill Kirtland of Miami, who last season as a freshman in varsity play picked up 903 yards via the air with 67 completions in 133 attempts. Finding someone to back up Kirtland is the problem. Paul Ferguson of Columbus, Ga., did it last year, but he may be supplanted by Olin Grant of Chester.

The offensive backfield poses a double-barrelled threat this season with a fine running attack to supplement the aerials. The ground game is led by All-South Carolina Fullback Sam Williams of Monroeville, Ala. Three lettermen halfbacks to share the load are Co-Captain Jim Johnson of Georgiana, Ala., speedster Dan Eckstein of Atlanta, and Bob Hackle of Winnsboro.

Behind these, the candidates need more developing. At fullback, freshman Ronnie Jordan of Atlanta, may be called on for second-unit duty, although Randy Kenworthy of North Augusta and Larry Yonce of Johnston have veteran priority. Best of the halfbacks after Johnson, Eckstein and Hackle in practice have been Gene Robbins of Denmark, Bob Wyrick of Texarkana, Tex., Pat Stogner of Lancaster, and freshman Phil Bradner of Thomasville, Ga.

The defensive backfield is the quesion-mark area that has Coach Gault most concerned. Graduation dealt a mean blow here and left it low in experience and depth. This means that all-round players Johnson, Eckstein, and Hackle may have to go both ways. On the other hand, Grant has earned two letters in the defensive backfield and constant work has brought freshmen Jordan and Bradner along fast. And Stogner and Robbins will help. Only game action coming up September 17 against Frederick here will provide the answer.

Gloomy Outlook For Tennis Due to Graduation Losses

By TONY DENDY

Faced with the loss of top men Bob Harris and Pete Collins, the PC tennis team must look forward to a rather gloomy year of rebuilding.

Coach Jim Shakespeare, back from a summer job as teaching pro in Buckhill Falls, Pa., said that the outlook was dim, and the only way the Blue Hose could hope to win the state championship would be to upset both Clemson and South Carolina. PC is again facing some of the best teams in the nation. Shakespeare further said that he would not be too disappointed if the team broke even and finished third in the state.

This team will be lacking in power, but the bottom four men are experienced players. Doug Haynie, Larry Connelly, Robbie Hibbits, and Hart Cobb have all returned from last year's squad. Howdy Letzring has also returned after a year of absence. Since the team is not lacking in experience, the big question that remains is whether or not any of the players can adequately fill the vacancies left by Harris and Collins.

The only bright note would have to come with the addition of Juan and Jaime Amaya from Colombia, South America.

First Powderpuff Derby Is Scheduled For Halftime

By KAREN WEAVER
Blue Stocking Feature Staff Writer

Those students and faculty members who enjoy a good football game but who are tired of watching the same old Blue Hose teams perform at PC games year after year will be exposed to a refreshing experience this fall—the first women's football team.

Dating experience at Presbyterian has made the girls excellent dodgers and runners, and they will need little instruction in defensive strategy. Headed by coaches Don Blanchard, David Jamison, Grady Marshall, Richard Crozier, and Bill McFadden, the girls are eager to begin their season. Football expert Bill Crowley will be consulted for advice about strategy.

The two teams, the Garnet and the Blue, will compete only against each other; male students' teams are requested not to challenge them.

Gus Forbes, Intramural Director, expects to obtain jerseys for the ladies to wear. It is hoped that these will dispel some of the inevitable confusion on the girls' part.

The most serious difficulty encountered thus far has been obtaining footballs to practice with. The next problem will be squeezing onto the athletic field in the afternoon for practice. Luckily, the coeds won't require much practice.

Men students are enthusiastically inquiring for positions as cheerleaders. Ishmo McLaughlin will head a squad we can all be proud of. Boys with previous experience (?) are encouraged to try out. The boys would plan half-time activities if they were optimistic enough to expect the girls to last more than one quarter.

The NFL has already expressed deep interest in several of our players. This interest has unfortunately not been of a professional nature thus far.

The only game of the season will hopefully be played at the half-time of one of the Blue Hoses's first home games. A mirthful crowd is anticipated.

Women students plan to participate on a more serious level in intramural basketball, swimming, volleyball, baseball, and tennis.

IM Football Begins; Rule Changes Made

By GENE SULLIVAN

Intramrual football booms into reality Friday afternoon with approximately nine teams expected to field squads. All six fraternities have put out a team, and three large intramural rosters have been turned in.

Rule changes were necessary this year to keep the program exciting and safe. First downs now measure 15 yards instead of the previous 20. After a bad snap from center to the backfield, the ball is dead on its incidence with the ground; however, fumbled kick-offs and punts are to be loose balls. This year all team members except guards are eligible for a pass. The offensive team must place five men on the line. Teams will consist of nine men only; no cleats or spikes will be allowed this season. Three time-outs will be permitted each half. Quarters will be 12 minutes long. Stiff-arming and down-field blocking will not be permitted.

These rule changes came about due to the number of injuries sustained in the past and in the greater interest of safety.

Plans are currently underway for the ping pong and pool tournaments. Tennis will be held under the direction of Coach Shakespeare. A swimming meet will be held later this month.

Johnson, Smith, Monk Lead Hose

Every good football team needs good captains to provide that team with the necessary leadership. This year the Blue Hose are endowed with three excellent leaders.

Jim Johnson of Georgiana, Ala., will serve as one of the captains this year. Jim is a two-way starter at halfback who has earned three letters in football and is a track letterman. Johnson, although hampered by labs, has been impressive in practice thus far.

BILL

Johnson is also very active in student life. This year he will be serving as chairman of the new Honor Council and president of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Jim is a member of the Sophomore Academic Society, Sigma Kappa Alpha academic fraternity, and Blue Key honor fraternity.

James Smith of Sylvania, Ga., will serve as another captain. Smith is a three-year letterman at end for the Blue Hose. James was the leading PC receiver last year and will play mostly offense this year as the Blue Hose use the two-platoon system.

Smith will serve as president of the Block P Club this year as well as a member of the Freshman Control Board. James is also a very active member of the Student Christian Association.

John Monk will round out the captains for this year. Monk is a three-year letterman from Atlanta, Ga. John is a rugged tackle who will devote most of his talents on the defensive team. He was named to the second defensive All-State football team.

Monk is a long-standing member of the Marriage and Family Relations Club and will feature the team mascot with his two-and-a-half year old son, Chip.

Congratulations are in order to these men. These are three who can provide the capable leadership needed to carry on the fine qualities of those who have gone before them.

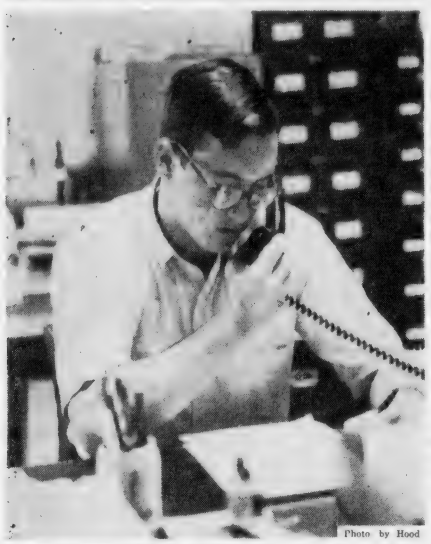

Photo by Hood

MIKE SIMONS AND BILL BASSHAM (not pictured) have been named as Assistant Directors of Sports Publicity in the Alumni and Public Relations Office. Bassham has served as Sports Editor for The Blue Stocking for the past three semesters and is presently in the same position. Simons is a regular contributor to the student newspaper as a sports writer. In their new capacity, Bassham and Simons will compile sports statistics, send out publicity releases and cover sports events for the wire services and area newspapers.

Bush and Rouquie Awarded ROTC Full Tuition Grants

Jim Bush and Gabe Rouquie are among 400 college students who have been selected to receive Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarships this year.

Bush, a junior from St. Petersburg, Fla., has received a two-year scholarship. Rouquie, a freshman from Spartanburg, has been awarded a four-year scholarship. Each scholarship will pay for tuition, textbooks, and fees and will provide the recipients with an allowance of $50 a month for the duration of their award.

Bush was nominated by the Professor of Military Science and PC officials on the basis of his academic and extra-curricular record, performance during the first two years of ROTC, and scores on the ROTC qualification test. Interviews by Army officials and faculty members were held with him to determine that he was highly motivated toward a career in the Army. Similar criteria were used as a basis for awarding a scholarship to Rouquie.

The Army ROTC program provides approximately 85% of the new officers entering the Army each year. This is approximately twenty times the number of officers commissioned at West Point each year.

Student Staff Places Filled

Senior Jack McCaskill of Orlando, Fla., this year heads up the list of proctors who are in charge of PC's male residence halls.

McCaskill's staff consists of 16 juniors and seniors who are in charge of the dorms. In Bailey are Brownie Johnson and Monk Milligan. Jim Bell and Ed Gregory are proctors in Laurens Dorm.

Those in charge of Smyth Dormitory are Bob Herlong, David Berry, Bob Staton, Mac Smith, Bob Wyrick are assigned to and Skip Weldon.

Neill McKay, Steve Wiser, and Mac Smith are assigned to Spen-Spencer Hall, and Ray Cain is in Adair House.

Roy Squires is proctor for the temporary quarters in the Mary Musgrove Hotel.

Andy Cooper is in charge of Calvert House, and Rick Carprater is in Vetville.

Douglas House is proctored by Jerry Mebane, Randy Grant, and Bryson Rousey. Mike McGehee is study hall proctor for Neville Hall.

Christie Patterson and Dan Hartley will run the mail room, and David Wyatt is car checker. Ray Combs is in charge of the newly reorganized book store.

Appointments to the various positions were made by Dean of Students, Col. A. J. Thackston, Jr.

Campus News Briefs

New Cheerleaders Begin Practice

By RAY COMBS

The 1966 cheerleading squad contains a host of talent that is shaping up into one of the best squads ever at Presbyterian College. Sandi Pitchford is the present captain, with Helen Moore, Nan Smith (Red), Bonnie Dietz, Marsha Montgomery, Jack Howard, Danny Wyatt, Ray Combs, and as alternate, Judy Simpson, composing the rest of the squad.

Each night for the past few weeks the cheerleaders have been practicing in Judd in preparation for the first game with Frederick College of Virginia.

On September 15, the cheerleaders plan a bonfire on the Ponderosa and will be burning numerous Frederick Collegiates in effigy. Everyone is urged to attend, for it will be the only type of pep rally held prior to the first game.

HRC Plans

The Human Relations Club of PC announces forthcoming speakers for September. Dr. Marc Weersing will speak on a topic related to PC's administrative policy. This program will be held in Richardson Hall on Thursday, September 15.

Mr. Robert Scoggin, Grand Dragon of the Realm of South Carolina of the United Klans of America, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, will speak at 7:30 p. m. in Belk Auditoruim on Thursday, September 29.

The Human Relations Club invites all students, faculty, and administrative personnel to these programs.

Chapel

Monday: Professor Ann Pennington, Religious Art.

Wednesday: Dr. William B. Ward, Eastminster Presbyterian Church, Columbia.

Friday: State Senator Bradley Morrah, "The Principles of the Democratic Plaform."

Pep Band

The PC Pep Band held its first rehearsal last Tuesday night and those players present were happy with the results. Anyone else who is interested in playing in the Pep Band should come to the next rehearsal which will be Tuesday, September 13, at 7:00 p. m. in Belk 301. The Pep Band particularly needs trombones, baritones, and a bass player (they have the bass). If your instrument is not on campus, let Mr. Gaines know, and he will try to get one for you.

Swimming Hours

The pool will be open for recreational swimming from 3:00 to 5:00 on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons.

1. Faculty and staff children should show their athletic cards to the lifeguard until she gets to know them.

2. Guests must be registered with the athletic department prior to swimming. One guest per faculty child. Phone 833-0705.

THOUGHTS, Cont. from P. 2

campus believe that the rat signs are the best method for learning the freshmen's names.

But, if there was not a rat season, could the freshmen develop the proper study habits by learning from the upperclassmen's example, would the upperclassmen help the freshmen rid themselves of their "high school sophistication," and could the freshmen become acclimated to campus life as early?

These are questions that should be asked by friends and foes of rat season in the coming weeks. As students we should be able to defend our position with clear and mature reasons.

HUSBANDS, Cont. from P. 2.

ed competition by younger and less educated women for the available unmarried men.

The unmarried man with a high level of education is in the best position for mate selection. The woman with the same age and education, however, is very limited in her choice.

The study also revealed that in three-fourths of all marriages, the bride is younger than the groom. The bride is older than the groom in only one-seventh of all marriages.

All these figures seem to indicate that a woman is more likely to receive a Mrs. degree upon graduation from high school than upon graduation from college.

BUDGET, Cont. from P. 1.

Blue Stocking was allotted $3,325, and the SCA was given $600 for Knapsack expenses.

The SCA is allotted $1,155 under the new budget, with the majority of this to be spent for Religious Emphasis Week.

The next greatest sum was the Student Council share of $891. Most of this will be spent for Student Government workshops and conferences.

The Organizations of Women Students will spend $250, and the Cheerleaders have $240 in their grasp for uniforms, transportation, and decorations.

The Human Relations Club's request for $200 was approved, and Tau Phi Pi Science Club will round out the budget with its $20. allocation.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
SEPTEMBER 9-10
BANG! BANG! YOU'RE DEAD!
Tony Randall, Senta Berger, Herbert Lom, Wilfrid Hyde-White, Terry Thomas

MONDAY and TUESDAY
SEPTEMBER 12-13
ASSAULT ON A QUEEN
Frank Sinatra, Virna Lisi

STARTS WED., SEPT. 14
THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING

Yarborough Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Town-N-Country Barber Shop
Just Past The Wrangler
OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY
Open Till 9:00 P. M.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 8,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.

The Christian Science Monitor
1 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115
Please enter a Monitor subscription for the name below.
I am enclosing $_____ (U.S. funds) for the period checked. ☐ 1 year $12 ☐ 9 months $9 ☐ 6 months $6
Name_____
Street_____ Apt./Rm. #_____
City_____ State_____ Zip_____
☐ College student_____ Year of graduation_____
☐ Faculty member
P-CN-41

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, September 16, 1966 — No. 3

Photo by Howard

PC CHEERLEADERS, starting at extreme right and reading clockwise: Sandi Pitchford, Marsha Montgomery, Nan Smith, Helen Moore, Ray Combs, Danny Wyatt, Bonnie Dietz, and Judy Simpson, and Jack Howard, who was absent when the picture was taken, have started to instill football spirit into the student Body by having their first pep rally. The rally featured the PC Pep Band with Bob McBee and Vicki Brown setting the rhythm with their drums.

PC Will Entertain 1500 Students During Fourth Annual Youth Day

Some 1,500 young people of South Carolina and Georgia will visit the Presbyterian College campus this Saturday for the fourth annual Presbyterian Youth Day. They will be guests of PC for this special program which includes tours of the campus, a student program of entertainment, dinner in the college dining hall, and the Blue Hose football opener against Frederick.

The occasion is scheduled to begin with registration Saturday at 3 p. m., followed immediately by campus tours conducted by members of Blue Key leadership fraternity. Blue Key will also have responsibility for the 4:15 p. m. program in Belk Auditorium.

Bob Herlong of Manning, Blue Key president, will preside over this program designed to give the visiting young people a glimpse of campus life. PC President Marc C. Weersing and Student Body President Bob Warren of Allendale, also will speak to the group at this time. A color movie of PC student activity will be shown, and several singing groups will perform. Entertainment for the program wil be provided by the Singleton brothers, Joey and Macky. The Four Foks, a singing group composed of Sherwood McKay, Judy Simpson, Nancy Morgan, and Bob Thrower, will perform. Beth Lindsay will sing to the accompaniment of David Templeton on the piano. Robin Williams and Don Dillard will sing and play guitars. Piano music will be furnished by Dan Roberts. Hank Parks will play his guitar.

The remaining slate of Youth Day events calls for dinner in Greenville Dining Hall, starting at 5:30 p. m., and the footbal game pitting Presbyterian against Frederick at 8 p. m. on Johnson Field.

Advanced reservations indicate that Presbyterian young people from every section of South Carolina will be in attendance. They will come from all presbyteries of both synods, representing 100 South Carolina churches and 20 Georgia churches.

ASP's Lead PC Fraternities With 2.49 Grade Point Ratio

By ALEX ERWIN

Alpha Sigma Phi, with an over-all grade point ratio of 2.49, led PC's farternities and topped the all-men's average by 0.21 of a quality point last semester, the Registar, Mrs. Roslyn Martin, announced this week.

The average for fraternity men was a 2.24 ratio while the average for all undergraduates was 2.28. The non-fraternity average was 2.32 for last semester.

Alpha Sigma Phi with a 2.49 and Theta Chi with a 2.40 were above the all-men's or all-students average of 2.28 while Sigma Nu and Kappa Alpha were tied with the all-students average with a 2.28.

Pi Kappa Alpha with a 2.17 and Pi Kappa Phi with a 1.81 didn't quite make the cut and slipped below the all-students average.

Entrance Tests Dates Announced

For students considering graduate study, the remaining months of this semester and the first few months of next semester signal the time to take entrance examinations required by most professional and graduate schools.

Mr. Neal Prater, chairman of the faculty committee on graduate studies, urges students who are thinking about graduate work to consult the department head of their major field and discuss arranging for the various tests.

Testing centers are set up throughout the nation, and the tests should generally be taken fairly early for reports to reach graduate schools early enough for consideration.

Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants to most graduate schools in the U. S., will be given October 29 at Clemson, the University of South Carolina, Furman, and Wofford. The closing date for registration is October 14. Also, the G. R. E. will be given at USC on December 17, and the deadline for this registration is November 29.

Next semester, on January 21, the G. R. E. will be given at Clemson, USC, Erskine, Furman, and Wofford; on February 25, at USC. The closing dates for registration are January 3 and February 7, respectively.

In the spring, the G. R. E. will be given on April 22 at Clemson, USC, Furman, and Wofford; on July 8, at Clemson and USC. The final dates for registration are April 4 and June 30, respectively.

Stables, Allison Start Scholarships

Scholarship funds totaling approximately $25,000 have been given to Presbyterian College recently for grants that will assist worthy young men and women in furthering their education here, President Marc C. Weersing announced today.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Stables of Spartanburg have established a $20,000 fund for those students who show special promise in the fields of music and academic pursuits and who have need for financial aid. As part of the invested endowment, the fund will provide annual income for this purpose.

The program is designated the Glenn and Mary Stables Scholarship Fund. Mr. Stables has been an officer of the Spartanburg First Presbyterian Church for many years, and Mrs. Stables is active in this work.

Underscoring their interest in young people, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barnwell Allison of Lancaster are establishing a grant fund that will be known as the James Barnwell Allison and Mary Blair Allison Scholarship. An initial gift has just been made and subsequent gifts are planned to perpetuate this scholarship to assist students studying for the ministry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Allison are active in the work of the Lancaster First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Weersing

'Leadership is Key to Democracy'

By KIT CALDWELL

Dr. Marc Weersing spoke on "Democracy Not Dictatorship" to a group of students and faculty members Thursday night. A concept of democracy as being governed with the consent of the governed was applied to administrative policy and campus life at PC.

According to Dr. Weersing, leadership is the key to democracy. Leadership is dependent on a person's education, his ability to persuade, conciliate, and be patient with other people. He quoted Eisenhower who said, "You don't lead by hitting people over the head. Any fool can do that." Weersing stresses the importance of patiently guiding people in human relations.

The floor was opened for questions. A wide range of areas of campus life were discussed. The future of fraternities on this campus was questioned. Dr. Weersing said, "As long as they serve a real function, they will be there." Dr. Keihn expressed a doubt that fraternities serve a useful function on such a small campus. Dr. Weersing mentioned several functions of fraternities. He felt the academic help that weaker students receive from fraternity brothers is of great importance. Several students defended the role of fraternities in such areas as intramurals, community projects, and close friendships.

The Drinking Rule was debated, but the real isue was skirted. Students and faculty members were interested in knowing why a rule that is not enforced is retained. Dr. Weersing did express the opinion that education and drinking do not mix.

One student inquired as to the policy followed by the Admissions office in handling Negro applicants. Dr. Weersing explained that neither the charter nor the by-laws exclude applicants for racial reasons. However, one student who worked in the business office for the greater part of a semester, pointed out that she was instructed to send catalogues and application blanks to white high school students but to send only catalogues to Negro students. This would hopefully discourage Negroes from applying by making it more difficult to obtain an application blank. Dr. Weersing was surprised by this information and seemed not to know of the practice.

Photo by Howard

DR. MARC WEERSING

Dr. Weersing explained that the college is owned by the Synods of Georgia and South Carolina. The Synods elect a Board of Trustees that dictates the school's policy within the confines of the charter and the by-laws. The Chief Administrative Officer or President is elected by the Board of Trustees. Dr. Weersing said that he sometimes wonders if a chief administrative officer is nothing more than a necessary evil.

Dr. Weersing was concerned with promoting a better understanding between students, faculty, and administration. He feels that one must know what is important to those he heads.

The Blue Socking Seeks Editor For '67

Applications for the position of editor and business manager of the 1967-68 Blue Stocking are now open for consideration by the paper's editorial board.

Interested candidates may contact either Woody Hall, editor, or Charles Eagles, assistant editor. Applications for the offices of editor and business manager must be submitted before Thanksgiving holidays begin.

The candidates will be nominated by the board for election by the student body the first full week of classes of the second semester.

The qualifications for these offices are as follows: maintenance of at least "C" average (2.00) with not more than one "F" for the preceding semester and a record free from both honor violations and suspensions of a disciplinary nature from Presbyterian College.

The present editor Woody Hall noted, "The position of editor is one of the most important on campus because it is the voice of the students. It is unfortunate that little interest has been shown in the past, and it would be in the best interest of the student body if the students were to show more concern."

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Ass't. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor — E. Alexander Erwin, III, Mng. Editor

Uniform Grading Scale Makes Life Less Hectic

The Blue Stocking would like to heartily endorse the Student Council's proposed recommendation for a uniform grading system for all departments.

From learning about the personal experinces of its staff, The Blue Stocking can appreciate the position or dilemma of those individuals who have had the misfortune of receiving the same numerical grade in two different courses and yet the letter grades have not been the same.

The discrepancy in grading systems makes the academic side of life for the student a little more hectic. In order to obtain a certain grade in one course, he must put forth a different amount of effort than he would have to exert in order to obtain that same grade in another course.

Not only is the student not exactly sure of what is expected of him, but he must also explain these grades to the folks at home.

Within the coming weeks this issue is destined to be discussed at length. Probably, as the Student Council article indicates, a compromise will have to be reached.

The time is right and the issue is one that has been controversial for several years. Action should be and evidently will be taken within the near future.

Encouragement, Praise Due Two Organizations

The Blue Stocking has learned that several students on campus, among them John Gaw and Don McNair, have revived the idea of publishing a literary journal containing stories, essays, and poems by PC students. Such a publication would be a real addition to the intellectual life of the college. The Blue Stocking hopes to hear more on this.

The Blue Stocking would also like to commend the Human Relations Club on its efforts to bring well-known men to the campus to present talks. Of everyone's interest probably is the forthcoming visit of Mr. Robert Scoggin, Grand Dragon of the Realm of South Carolina of the United Klans of America, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, on September 29.

Supporting Staff

Business Manager ..... Joe Stevens
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Tony Dendy
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Richard Smart
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Assistant News Editor ..... Ray Combs
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Assistant Feature Editor ..... Karen Weaver
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Carolyn Colby, Mavis Harrop

MOVIE REVIEW

Marco The Magnificent

By CHRISTIE PATTERSON

"Marco the Magnificent" is an adventure drama and spectacle film, unfolding in eye-filling scenes of the exploits of the handsome and courageous young Venetian, Marco Polo, on his journey from Venice to China in the 13th century.

Filmed on an epic scale on location in Egypt, Yugoslavia, and Afghanistan with additional scenes photographed in the Orient, "Marco the Magnificent" is the story of Marco Polo who travels to the courts of Kublai Khan on a mission to acquaint the people of the court with the philosophy of peace. The trip, made in November 1271, became one of the most fantistic journeys in the history of mankind.

Marco Polo is to experience thousands of adventures; one of the most thunderous is the climax which ends with a battle in which the new invention, gunpowder, is used for the first time.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Do You Know Sammy Simpleton?

by KAREN WEAVER
Blue Stocking Assistant
Feature Editor

One of the oustanding new students at Presbyterian this year is a freshman named Sammy Simpleton from Simpsonville, South Carolina. Sammy was observed to be a remarkable individual when he arrived on campus with a set of matched luggage—two brown paper shopping bags. The boys were further convinced of his good breeding when they noticed that all the words on his tattoo were spelled correctly.

When this reporter interviewed Sammy, he admitted that he was of unusual intellect. "I am a Roads Scholar," he asserted. "When I tried to get into college, they said, 'Hit the road.'"

Reliable sources indicate that Sammy had a unique upbringing. His mother was reluctant to hire a baby-sitter who might be a bad influence on her son. Instead, she locked Sammy under the kitchen sink with the Drano and empty beer bottles every week when she went to the Fuller Brush Company to have her hair fixed. Thus he was protected from some of the coarser sides of life to which so many children are carelessly exposed.

Sammy's mother carefully followed Dr. Spock's instructions on raising children. She always made Sammy eat all his food and drink his milk, even on one occasion when a rather large frog hopped from his pocket and into his glass. Sammy describes what he calls "Cream of a Frog" is a rather "rare" delight.

During high school, Sammy's extreme thinness gave him an advantage in sports. He participated in track as the javelin, until his uncle, "Wide" Clyde, and his aunt, "Large" Marge, expressed such intense embarrassment that Sammy withdrew from sports.

He showed great promise in drama and his large feet, thin body, and wiry shock of hair won him numerous parts in class plays as a potted palm. He was once cited "Scenery of the Year" by the town newspaper.

Sammy modestly insists that he has never been interested in social affairs. "When I go to a formal dance," he explains, "I can never decide whether to wear my red socks or my green ones." When he called a girl on the phone, however, his parents always locked themselves in the kitchen, where at least the syrup had passed the Pure Food and Drug Inspection.

Sammy was responsible for giving beer-can manufacturers the idea for pull-top cans when they once saw him pulling the tops off the old-fashioned kind.

Sammy has worked for several summers riding shotgun on a garbage truck. He admits that this sort of thing is right down his line.

When asked how he happened to apply to Presbyterian College, Sammy relates that he once came to Clinton to hear a politician who happened to be speaking in Greenville at the time. While here, Sammy could find nothing to do but enroll in the College.

He arrived on campus a few days late this fall because of a slow recovery from recent brain surgery. They tried to put one in.

On arrival, Sammy was given several aptitude tests in his major field — science. When asked what "physics" is, he replied, "Well, you take 'em for constipation." He was later asked to reconsider his choice of major and is now in the psychology department. This interests him greatly, and he reports that next year he hopes to take a course in psychology.

The boys who know Sammy best seem crazy about him. One roommate, however, complains that Sammy sometimes uses too much caution in dealing with unfamiliar situations. For instance, he doesn't put used razor blades in the slot in the bathroom cabinet because he doesn't want to fill up the basement with them.

The boys report that Sammy has quite individual ideas on many subjects. He eats breakfast by candlelight "for atmosphere," sun-bathes only at night, "because the roof is cooler and less crowded then," and has painted his room madras.

When answering a recent poll on birth control, he was reportedly heard to reply that he favored it unless it is retroactive. "I wouldn't want to be undone," he stated.

Due to his affluent background, Sammy is somewhat careless about money and often borrows from his roommates, who confess that they hide their money under the soap so he won't find it.

After spending several hours talking with Sammy, our reporter is forming quite an attachment for him. It fits right over his mouth.

Letter Policy

The Blue Stocking welcomes letters to the editor from any of its readers, either in support of or differing with its policies. Letters should be typewritten, double-spaced, and should not exceed 250 words.

The letters should be in The Blue Sotcking room in Douglas House by 8:00 p. m. on Wednesday.

The Blue Stocking reserves the right to edit all letters printed.

Student Council Reports

The Student Council is currently working on a recommendation to the Administration concerning the possibility of a uniform grading scale for all departments. Student Body opinion will play a great part in the final recomendation. A referendum will probably be held on this issue in the near future.

The main advantage of a uniform grading system is very simple. Such a system would eliminate much confusion and despair among students. A letter grade in one course would be the same numerically as that letter grade in another course. There would be no doubt in a student's mind as to what is expected of him for a certain grade. For example, a confused freshman taking English, military, Spanish, Bible, math, and biology could possibly be faced with four different grading scales for the six courses under the present system.

It is likely that a change in the system would result in a compromise somewhere between the military department's 94 for an "A" and the chemistry department's 90 for an "A," to cite two examples with malice intended toward neither.

BILL

Carolinas Conference Shows Improvements

The Carolinas Conference championship race should be quite exciting this year. Nearly every team seems to be improved over last year (at least on paper) which saw a hotly contested battle between Lenoir Rhyne, Catawba, and Guilford.

Lenoir Rhyne had a perfect 6-0 slate against conference opponents and has 23 lettermen returning. The Bears are led by a veteran backfield of George Miles, Jack Huss, Wayne Bell, and Sam Holcombe. Holcombe the tailback in their single wing offense passed and ran for 580 yards last season. Bell is the man to watch however. Last year the junior accounted for 1115 yards and scored 10 touchdowns.

Tackles Ed Joyner and Earl Lingafeldt will lead the Bears' line which held opponents to less than 200 yards total offense per game.

Guilford had a 5-2 conference mark last year and hopes to be as good this year. The Quakers are led offensively by quarterback Bubba Brockwell and halfback Henry McKay. They formed a deadly aerial combination last year and will keep the pass-minded offense going this year. The defense is led by linebacker Dean Johnson.

Western Carolina also had a 5-2 record last year thanks to a stout defense and a potent passing attack. This year the Catamounts hope to bolster their offense with a better running attack. Passing will still be the mainstay however with all-conference quarterback Jim Williams returning along with his favorite targets Leroy Holden and Roger Cox. The defense will return intact with the exception of the safety.

Catawba sported a 3-3 slate last year and will be trying to fill graduation losses in the line to go with a veteran backfield. The man to watch will be quarterback John Scott who made Little All-American last year. Scott had 1715 yards total offense last year and accounted for twelve touchdown passes. He will be backed up by halfbacks Ike Hill and Tim Morgan.

Appalachian was also 3-3 last season but is looking for bigger and better things this year. The Mountaineers had a surprising record last year for a freshman dominated squad. The quarterback job will be shared by Donnie Ferrel and Pat Murphy. The brunt of the load will be carried by halfbacks Bill Bobo and Jack Roten. The line is made up mostly of sophomores and juniors but will be experienced.

PC will be in the thick of things this year after a 1-4 record last year. The Blue Hose hopes rest on the running of Sam Williams and the passing of Bill Kirtland. This coupled with possibly the best line in the conference bolster the Hose's chances. The defense, led by Bob Warren, Jim Sullenberger, Sam Lyons, Tommy Campbell, John Monk, Joe Lawson, and Richard Munn, will be very stingy with any yardage.

An offensive line made up of James Smith, Richard Reed, Jim Helms, Eddie Walker, Allen Harris, Jack McCaskill, and Mickey Hampshire, will be opening the holes for a good set of backs.

Newberry had an up and down season last year with a 3-4 record. The Indians will rely on the passong of Benji Kirkland and the rushing of George Taylor. The defense wil be a question mark due to graduation.

Elon had a poor 0-7 record and will be trying to rebuild. They are led by quarterback H. L. Robinson and ends Pete Jarvis and Mike Ray. A number of returning linemen may make the difference for the Fighting Christians.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

OFFENSIVE LINEMEN L-R are Smith, McCaskill, Harris, Walker, Hampshire, Lawson, Helms

New Offense Will Oppose Lions; Speedy Line Will Be Defensive Key

By MIKE SIMONS

A revamped offense and a light, but rugged defense hold the key to a successful season as Head Coach Cally Gault unveils his 1966-67 edition of the Presbyterian College Blue Hose here Saturday night against Frederick College.

On offense PC will be running a varied-T with an added I-formation, a system introduced by former professional quarterback and now assistant PC coach, Bob Waters.

The offense will be led by Bill Kirtland, who threw for 903 yards last season. He will be aided by Olin Grant. At fullback will be All-Stater Sam Williams, with freshman Ronnie Jordan, the big surprise in practice this fall, running second. Dan Eckstein, the Hose's fastest man, and Co-captain Jim Johnson will start at halfbacks, with Bob Hackle, Gene Robbins, Pat Stogner, and Bob Wyrick all slated for reserve action.

Last season Frederick ran a wing-T, but Gault has no idea of what they will run this season, as the Lions change offenses often. One thing that is almost certain is that whatever the Fredrick offense runs, the Hose defense can rise to the occasion.

The defense, and especially the line, has been the subject of much praise from the coaches this year. The line, relatively light as college lines go, hopes to compensate for this relative lack of size with greater agility and speed. The line only averages 201 pounds per man, with the largest man, Tommy Campbell, weighing 240 pounds.

At the ends are Co-captain James Smith (198 pounds) and Richard Munn (190 pounds). Sam Lyons (210 pounds), and Campbell man the tackle posts, while Second Team All-stater John Monk, (197 pounds) holds down the middle guard position. At linebacker are Bob Warren (185 pounds) and speedy Jim Sullenberger (190 pounds). Joe Lawson, Charlie Reid, Allan Harris, Shell Dula, and Dowl Thompson provide reserve strength at these spots.

In the secondary one finds Eckstein and Johnson at safety, while Hackle and Jordan seem to have the corners nailed down.

The offensive line is manned by Smith, who will play as close to 60 minutes a game as possible, and Joe Lawson (209 pounds) at the ends. Richard Reed has established himself as a sure-footed receiver and should see plenty of action at end. Thompson will also see action at offensive end.

At tackle is Jim Helms (215 ponds) and Eddie Walker (215 pounds) with Campbell and Lyons helping out on occasion. Jack McCaskill (196 pounds) and Allan Harris (197 pounds) are at guard, while Bob Murray (200 pounds) and Monk can lend assisaance there, if needed.

Center is a sore spot, however, as veteran Mickey Hampshire (215 pounds) is a doubtful starter due to a knee enjury. Bobby Byard (196 pounds) and McCaskill will have to fill in if Hampshire is unable to play.

In the past, PC-Frederick games have been colorful, with the Hose holding a 3-0 edge in the series rivalry. Last season the Blue downed the Lions 37-14, amassing 367 yards total offense. This season, although the Hose are solid favorites, the tide could possibly turn the other way. Greatly improved over last season's 3-7 mark, the Lions plan on riding on the talented arm of Jim Cruthoff and the running of Skip Bonchard to their most successful season in recent years.

The line will be anchored by Co-captains Ned Garber and Jim Matusik, both rugged linemen who head up a much-improved forward wall.

One big thing going for the Hose is the fact that they have a 9-game winning streak at home having lost their last home game over two and one-half years ago. The Hose would like to get of to a winning start aind keep their home victory streak intact.

THE VETERAN BACKFIELD, reading from left to right, top to bottom, Kirtland, Williams, Eckstein, and Johnson.

Frosh Roundballers In Initial Practice

By TOM CAIN

Although football will be the highlighted sport among PC students the next three months, the varsity basketball team has already started practice for the 1966-67 season. Five of these boys are freshmen on scholarship who might help the Blue Hose on the court this winter.

Three of these freshmen are from Kentucy, which experts call the best state for high school basketball in the country. They are: Woody Carter, a 6'1" guard, from Price, Kentucky; Howard Higgins, a 5'11' guard, from Saylersville, Kentucky; and Beecher Hale, a 6'3" forward, from Prestorsburg, Kentucky.

From Spartanburg,comes forward-guard George Dickerson, a fine outside shooter. Bobby Quillen, brother of letterman Richard Quillen, is the fifth freshman, and hails from Kingsport, Tennessee.

Bandits Lead In IM Play; ASP's, SN's Also Unbeaten

By GENE SULLIVAN

The independent Bandits banged out two big wins in football to lead the 10-team league with a 2-0 slate. The Bandits scored on three pass plays, two to halfback Dave Cottingham and one to Charlie Breedlove. Cottingham also intercepted two passes and linebacker Larry "Ishmo" McLaughlin picked off one to pace the defensive efforts as the Bandits crushed the Crushers 20-0. Later in the week, Charlie Breedlove was the man of the hour in a spectacular 68-yard touchdown on a pass by Van Atkinson, late in the third quarter. The defense then held the strong Pi Kapps, and the Bandits walked of with a 6-0 victory.

The KA's had a mediocre week as they edged the Theta Chi's 18-12. Joe Gettys, Gus Forbes, and Brownie Johnson led the KA's offensive effort and Jack Coward anchored the defense. Cecil McClary and George Lattimer scored the Theta Chi tallies.

In the Thursday afternoon tilt the slightly favored Sigma Nu's trounced the hapless KA's 25-0. The KA's failed to get a sustained drive doing due largely to the efforts of Glenn Barlow, Mac Story, Andy Cooper, and new defensive sensation, Brad Ray. Dave Bordner and Hart Cobb each placed 6 points on the board, and Carl Conant got open on two long ones to crush all KA hopes.

In other action, the surprisingly strong Alpha Sigs trounced the Calvert House nine, 27-0. The Sigs' outstanding performance came via Brooks Styles and Rick Corley.

Two games were rained out and will be played next week.

Campus News Briefs

Cannon Assists in Text Revision

William S. Cannon, associate professor of mathematics at Presbyterian College, is again assisting Dr. John T. Moore in the preparation of a mathematics textbook that will be used at the junior and senior level of college work.

The new publication is scheduled to appear next summer as an addition to the five books of mathematics already written by Dr. Moore. Cannon helped last winter in the revision of his popular "Elements of Abstract Algebra" published by the McMillan Company, and also assisted in an earlier textbook for freshman mathematics.

Dr. Moore is presently on leave-of-absence from the faculty of the University of Florida to teach at the University of Western Ontario in his native Canada. One of his books has been translated into two foreign languages, and another has gone into four printings.

Professor Cannon has been on the Presbyterian College faculty since 1957. He first became associated with Dr. Moore while studying under him at Florida for the master of science degree.

Life Saving

Monday, September 19, at 7:00 p. m. there will be a meeting in the gym classroom for anyone interested in taking Senior Life Saving. Time, days, and other important matters will be discussed.

The class is open to students, faculty, staff, and their families.

Paper Rests

With this issue of The Blue Stocking the presses will cease to roll uutil September 30. The quarter exams and other academic pursuits disrupt the usual continuity of events to render an earlier publication impossible.

Chapel

Monday, September 19 — To be announced.

Wednesday, September 21— Dr. Gettys.

Friday, September 23 — Film on the dangers of political extremism.

Week of September 26-30:

Monday, September 26 — Wofford Blue Key.

Wednesday, September 28— Rev. John Hadley, Westminster Church, Greenville.

Friday, September 30 — Col. Ben Ivey, PMS., "Vietnam."

Dr. Clinton Baker

Dr. Clinton A. Baker, Associate Professor of Marketing and Director of the Masters of Business Administration program at the University of South Carolina, will be on the PC campus September 20 to talk to those students enrolled in the Seminar in Economics and Business Administration. He will talk on the graduate program in economics and business administration that are offered at the university.

Dr. Baker will also make himself available for consultation with those students who are not necessarily Business or Economics majors but who are interested in this type of graduate program which is offered at the university. Those students are requested to contact Mr. Cunningham of the Economics Department in order that an appointment might be arranged.

Dr. Baker obtained his B. S. degree in Commerce at the University of Louisville. After completing work on his M. B. A. degree at Indiana University in 1957, he went on to obtain his D. B. A. degree there in 1961.

Photo by Hood

ADELE -NOWELL, Miss Smudge of 1966-67, receives a winning kiss from Bob Herlong. This is the second year that the Sigma Nu's have sponsored the event, and it was hailed as a huge success. Approximately 40 coeds participated.

Blue Stock Promotions

Promotions within The Blue Stocking's top level management were announced by Editor Woody Hall in a statement to the newspaper staff Monday night.

Charles Eagles of Florence and formerly Managing Editor was promoted to Assistant Editor. Alex Erwin of Laurinburg, N. C., was named Managing Editor. Tony Dendy of Greenville was appointed Copy Editor. Also, Feature Editor Susan Gilbert announced that Karen Weaver of Decatur, Ga., has been named Assistant Feature Editor.

Hall also stated that six new people have joined the staff this year. Tom Cain and Mike Gower, both of whom are from Decatur, Ga., have been named to the Sports and News staffs respectively. Dickie Query, Jim Loyd, and Jerry Mebane have also expressed a desire to help with the weekly publication this year. Richard Smart of Greenville, who actually began work last week, was formally acknowledged as the new Greek Editor.

In his statement to the staff, Hall explained that "these promotions and appointments are well deserved and are made with complete confidence that these people have the potential to do an admirable job for the paper."

Chain Scholarships

The Chain Scholarship Foundation is curently awarding scholarships of up to $1,000 to enable needy students to complete their college educations.

If you are a senior in need of funds; if you plan to seek employment upon graduation rather than undertake a post-graduate curriculum; if your grades are of degree candidate status; and if, when you are able, you will help CHAIN support future needy students—YOU MAY BE ELIGIBLE.

The Chain Scholarship program has been in existence for four years, and is available in over three hundred colleges. Its approach to the scholarship program is unique in two major concepts: faith in the average man; and faith in his integrity to assume a moral, rather than a legal obligation, and thus become a vital link in a chain reaction which can grow to pass along an endless continuum of help from those who were once in similar circumstances.

To apply for a Chain Scholarship, obtain an application from the college Financial Aid officer or write directly to:

The Chain Scholarship Foundation,
P. O. Box 203,
Armonk, New York, 10504.

Town-N-Country
Barber Shop
Just Past The Wrangler
OPEN ALL DAY
WEDNESDAY
Open Till 9:00 P. M.

The Greeks

By RICHARD SMART

All fraternities have big plans for the coming weekend. Most of them will enjoy freshly remodeled rooms with freshly painted walls, rhythmless floors, and air conditioning. All these changes in Greek quarters makes one wonder, especially after leading a Spartan existence for so many years.

Another novelty will be a new "drinking law," which is a little opaque. The week-end should really be a blast.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The Brothers and Pledges of Pi Kappa Phi are proud to announce that they anticipate "great things" due to recent innovations in their Neville suite. It should be a great year for the boys. Also, Bill Harmon, a sophomore, was added to the pledge class and Rick Stall was installed as Historian. Brothers of the Week are John Morrison, Tommy McPhail, and John Askew.

The Alpha Sigs slammed it to the Calvert House boys 27-0—war is hell. Also, ground was broken for sprigs of ivy along the wall. The Sigs had the highest scholastic G. P. R. among fraternities on campus. There will be open house above Judd after the game. Brother of the Week is Mike McGehee.

The Thetas wish to announce that even though they suffered a recent setback, they have great hopes for a most successful year on the gridiron. They are loaded to the gills with such capable talent as Doug ("soda-box arm") Catoe, Mike ("no holds barred"), Luke, and Deacon Bedsole—all Christendom is with you boy. Also, the Thetas are proud to announce that they will hold their first party of the new year this week-end after the football game. Things are looking up.

The "Snakes" have chosen their new sweetheart, Frank's wife. Miss Susan Alexander has has been selected as homecoming representative, and Jack Touchberry was pledged. Brother Stewart Johnson has been made Assistant Adviser. Open house will be held after the football game this week-end.

The PiKA's have planned a party after the football game this week-end. Brother Bolick was made Assistant Treasurer. Also, Cleve Dobbins found last week-end hard going due to a lay-off at Charlie's Lunch and Drink. Brothers of the Week are Bob Warren and Richard Smart.

The "Order" enjoyed an uneventful week.

WANTED BY RECORD CLUB OF AMERICA CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE TO EARN OVER $100 IN SHORT TIME

Write for information to: Mr. Ed Benovy, College Bureau Manager, Record Club of America, 1285 Princess Street, York, Pennsylvania 17405.

BROADWAY Theatre
September 16-17
FRIDAY-SATURDAY
IT'S A PLOT! ...to make the world die laughing!!
THE MIRISCH CORPORATION Presents
"THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING, THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING"
A NORMAN JEWISON PRODUCTION
COLOR BY DELUXE PANAVISION
RELEASED THRU UNITED ARTISTS
MONDAY-WEDNESDAY
Marco The Magnificent
Horst Bucholz, Gregorie Aslan, Robert Hossen, Elsa Martinelli, Akim Tamiroff, Omar Sharif, and Orson Welles

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

PC BOOK STORE HAS IN STOCK
MONARCH NOTES — PC TEXTS CONDENSED
BANTAM — From Religion to Secular Novels
HARPER ROW — OUTSIDE READING
— PLUS —
BARNES AND NOBLES OUTLINE SERIES
SIGNET — LITTLEFIED — MENTOR
POCKETBOOK
— ALSO —
MANY RELIGIOUS BEST SELLERS

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, September 30, 1966 | No. 4

BLUE KEY INDUCTEES are, reading left to right, top to bottom, Gettys, Hall, Milligan, Marshall, Montgomery; bottom row, Thompson, Protinsky, Emanuel, Mr. King, and Johnson.

Blue Key Honors Ten In Yearly Fall Tapping

The Presbyterian College chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity tapped ten new members — nine students and one faculty member—in its annual fall ceremony last Friday in chapel.

The new men, chosen on the basis of leadership, character, and scholarship, are Dan Montgomery, Monk Milligan, Brownie Johnson, Joe Gettys, Woody Hall, Morrow Thompson, Carlos Emanuel, Buddy Protinsky, Grady Marshall, and Mr. S. A. King.

Mr. King, Assistant Professor of English at PC, was given an honorary membership in the fraternity.

Dan Montgomery, a Greenville native, is on the SCA and this year is secretary of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is also a member of Tau Phi Pi.

Monk Milligan, from Atlanta, Ga., is secretary-treasurer of the Block P Club. He is a member of the SCA and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Milligan also plays football and runs track.

Brownie Johnson, a native of Rome, Ga., is a member of Scabbard and Blade and vice-president of the Kappa Alpha Order.

Joe Gettys, a native of Clinton, is a pre-med major and an officer of the Kappa Alpha Order.

Woody Hall, of York, is this year's editor of The Blue Stocking, the official weekly newspaper of the students of Presbyterian College. Hall is also an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Morrow Thompson, from Van Wyck, is currently serving as a member of the Honor Council. Thompson is also an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Carlos Emanuel, a native of Equador, and now living in Whitmire, is vice-president of the Business-Economics Association. Emanuel is this year's recipient of the P. S. Bailey Scholarship presented to the senior majoring in business or economics having the highest scholastic average.

Buddy Protinsky, of St. Pe-

See BLUE KEY, Page 6, Col. 3.

Robert Scoggin

Grand Dragon of S. C. Realm of KKK Featured Speaker of HRC Meeting

By ALEX ERWIN

PC was addressed last night by Robert Scoggin and three other members of the United Klan of America Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

The Klan was founded in 1865 and disbanded in 1870. In 1961 it was finally recognized as the United Klan of America. Scoggin asserted that the Klan does not hate any people; its main objective is fighting communism. Scoggin stated "communism is what we are fighting mostly." He also remarked that the NAACP and other Negro organizations are not led by Gentiles or members of the Negro race. The Klan's main objective is, according to Scoggin, to fight communism at home—in America.

According to Scoggin, "the poverty program of the Democratic Administration is one of the most damnable things that has ever happened." The Job Corps and Peace Corps are only added expenses to the government and added tax dollars for the American citizen, stated the Grand Dragon. He also stated that the Anti-Poverty program of the Democratic Administration is simply a vote-getting procedure.

Scogin stated that if and when the conspiracy destroys the Bible belt, it will take over the whole country. The Grand Dragon also pointed out that the National Council of Churches is part of an overall conspiracy to undermine America.

Scoggin emphasizes that even though the Democratic Administration supports the civil rights bill, some of its more prominent backers send their children to all-white schools outside the heavily Negro populated City of Washington.

The Klansman revealed an interesting point concerning blood types of various races.

In 1951 the National Red Cross met and ruled that blood should not be labeled according to races. In 1958 the Supreme Court handed down a similar decision. The whole conspiracy, according to Scoggin, is concerned with the mixing of bloods. Scoggin stated that the Klan would be happy to supply any member of the white race with blood since 90% of the Negroes have blood that contains sleeping sickness, a disease which will infect the white man.

When Scogin was confronted with a question pertaining to the supremacy of races, he stated that the Negro's brain at birth was 12 to 20 ounces lighter than that of a white child's.

It was revealed that South

see KKK, Page 6, Col. 5.

SEE RAT SEASON Photo Feature PAGE 3

Bryant and Vass Win Posts; Officers' Primary Monday

By MIKE GOWER

The freshman class, in this week and next week, will have made or will be making its choice of leaders and representatives for the student government, SCA, and class officer posts.

This year, the freshmen had Bill Bryant, Rusty Chapman, Terry Clyburn, Pat Hunter, Tommy Johnson, Ferdie Jourdan, John Shackleford, Forrest Smith, Rod Spilman, and Lilibet Vass running for the two student government posts. The run-off was on Sept. 28, with Bill Bryant, from Quincy, Fla.; Ferdie Jourdan, from Chester; Forrest Smith, from North Augusta; and Lilibet Vass, from Greenville, Tenn., winning posts on the ticket. With seventy per cent of the class voting in the primary, Bryant led with 62 votes, then Vass, Jourdan, and Smith polling 45, 41, and 27 votes, respectively. The final winners are Billy Bryant and Lilibet Vass tied with 76 votes apiece.

The SCA Freshman Cabinet was tentatively chosen Sept. 29. From the Cabinet, a President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer will be elected.

Nomination and election of class officers for President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer, will be held the first week in October. Interested persons should sign the roster on the second floor of Douglas House before twelve o'clock midnight Sept. 30. The primary will be held Monday, Oct. 3.

PC Players Will Present Two Plays On October 12-13

Casts have been selected and rehearsals are well underway for two one-act plays to be presented by the PC Players Oct. 12 and 13. Idea for a Play, a British import by Richmond Tydeman, is a comic morality laced through with irony. In this play Lilibet Vass plays the part of lost Humanity, while Sam Hobson and Joe Dundon, in the roles of Religion and Science, try to persuade Humanity to follow them.

Virtue and Vice, played by Karen Bremer and Beck Truesdell, respectively, also battle for the soul of man, with some surprising results. Two other characters who have an important say in the outcome are Education, played by Rick Stall, and Atom Bomb, played by Jocelle Alverson. Tim Hegleson, is the "Producer" of the play.

The second play, The Oaks of Mamre, is a prize-winning drama by James Pendelton that searchingly analyzes and reinterprets the Abraham and Isaac story in modern terms. Rod Spilman portrays Abraham and Vicki Brown is Sarah. Abraham's two servants are Danny Wyatt and Randy Ferebee, while Rick Morgan portrays Isaac.

The plays will be presented in Belk Auditorium. Both plays will be performed both nights with a short intermission between them.

British Educator, Writer Will Address Students

Mrs. Kay Baxter, distinguished British educator, writer and churchwoman, will speak on the theatre and theology at Presbyterian College next Monday and Tuesday as a Danforth Visiting Lecturer.

She is scheduled to speak four dimes, and the public is cordially invited to attend. Her subjects are: "Contemporary Theatre and Religious Communication" at 10 a. m. Monday in Belk Auditorium; "Fear and Its Brood in Contemporary Plays" at 7 p. m. Monday in the auditorium of Richardson Science Hall; and Tuesday at 10 a. m., "Grace or Gorgon? The Image of Woman in the Contemporary Theatre," and that night at 7, "The Soliloquy in Modern Drama," both in Richardson Hall auditorium.

MRS. KAY BAXTER

Mrs. Baxter combined marriage with teaching and lecturing before the war, transferred to free lance and Fleet Street journalism and refugee work during the war. In 1945, she was invited by the Woman's Colleges of Cambridge to become University appointments officer with responsibility for counseling and placement of all women undergraduates, research graduates and alumnae. She retired from this office last year to accept part-time consultancy work at the University of Sussex.

Her plays include "Gerald of Wales," commissioned by the Arts Council for St. David's Cathedral, and "Your Trumpets, Angels," commissioned for the Festival of Britain in 1952. She is the author of "Contemporary Theatre and Christian Faith" and is a regular contributor to various periodicals.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Ass't. Editor | Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor | E. Alexander Erwin, III, Mng. Editor

Apathetic Attitude Will Not Get Results

It has become quite apparent on this campus that the student body is slowly, but surely, developing a somewhat indifferent atttiude toward what happens on the campus.

This is evidenced in both the social and academic aspects of campus life. Perhaps the most visible, or should The Blue Stocking say audible, sign of this general feeling of apathy is the lack of cheering and enthusiasm which is marking all of PC's home athletic contests. One may try to place the blame on the type of cheers used, but one should remember that the cheerleaders in the position they occupy are representative of the college and as such must conform to certain prescribed standards of good taste.

Another striking example is the lack of participation which has been shown in student body elections, polls, and referendums in the past. Very rarely has over 65 percent of the student body participated, and a more common percentage has been around 50 percent. However, there is recent evidence that this trend is being challenged. Earlier this week over 70 percent of the freshman class voted in the primary elections for Student Council representatives, and a similar number voted in the election held Wednesday.

The Blue Stocking has also not been called upon to publish many letters to the editor, and this in itself is not a healthy situation. It must be emphasized that The Blue Stocking is not physically able to initiate action on every condition or situation which is not handled in the most efficient manner. Also, The Blue Stocking presents only one point-of-view, and it is commonly accepted that group action lends to more constructive solutions.

There is no use in trying to deny the fact that academic standards at PC have been raised. Every student on campus has been exposed to this new pressure, and yet some students have evidently not changed their ways. It appears that these students have taken an apathetic attitude toward academics, and the fact remains that there is hardly any way to graduate while remaining indifferent toward studying.

One needs to get himself really involved in the institution in which he is enrolled in order to maximize the returns from his monetary investment in a college education. He needs to care about what is happening—to realize that what happens on this campus affects him just as much as it does the other guy. Getting an education requires that one exert his best in order to obtain the most. This applies to both academics and social life. Without interest, there can be no real progres or advancement in one's education both socially and academically.

Supporting Staff

Business Manager ..... Joe Stevens
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Tony Dendy
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Richard Smart
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Assistant News Editor ..... Ray Combs
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Assistant Feature Editor ..... Karen Weaver
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Carolyn Colby, Mavis Harrop

A Woman's Reaction to Military

By KIT CALDWELL
Blue Stocking Feature Staff

"The Liberal Arts Program at Presbyterian College is aimed at the broad scope of man's intellect: to develop the capacity of understanding, the inquiring mind and strength of character necessary for leadership." Our catalog makes this statement, and our professors echo this proclamation in chapel. But how many unimagined challenges are left undiscovered by undergraduates?

We are afloat in a sea of knowledge, free to acquaint ourselves with any of the seas's many islands. And we tread water. We gasp for a "C" and close our eyes to the adventure.

Required courses are hell. Military Science is a requirement loathed and cursed by PC men. Its weekly "leadership laboratory periods" (drills) are the worst kind of nuisance. Is there nothing to be gained from these courses other than a commision as a second licutenant if one perseveres for four years instead of two. I have no answer for you men. As a woman, I am only capable of speaking from a woman's point-of-view.

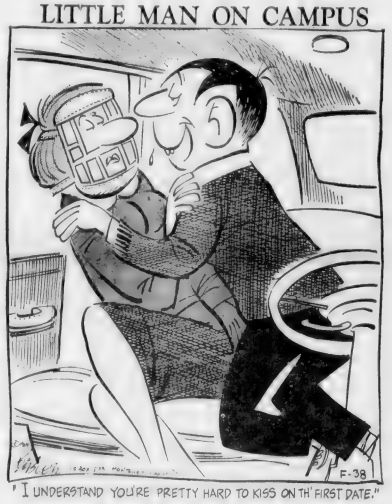
Military Science 201 is a course in American Military History, required of sophomores, except veterans, students with prior ROTC training, and students not physically qualified. Women are allowed to take the course for no credit hours and no "qp's." This is so stipulated because women are classified with aliens and undesirables (I have yet to decide if it is more insulting to be considered alien or undesirable).

Perhaps as a woman student who has elected to take this course in Military History, I can better see its value. The Principles of War (Objective, Offensive, Simplicity, Unity of Command, Mass, Economy of Force, Maneuver, Surprise, and Security) are successfully employed by women every day to break down a man's resistance. If you don't believe me just ask an honest girl.

This is, to my way of thinking, the least important advantage to be gained from a knowledge of military history. These true advantages are ignored by men students because of the stigma of requirement. Leadership is presented to ROTC students in the examples of our country's outstanding military leaders. There is even an advanced course in the art of leadership. These examples are ignored. Where is leadership on this campus? It certainly is not bountiful. We do not even accept the responsibility for our own action. Ask Bob Warren about his "clean-up capers" late on Saturday nights. It seems that students are too apathetic about their school and even their own fraternity to properly dispose of "original "containers." Is irresponsibility leadership?

If not leadership, why not follow-ship? This is also a course objective of Military Science. Are we reasonable enough or humble enough to accept the advice of professors and administrators who would like to spare us from the heartbreak of some of their own experiences? No, we laugh and we mock, and we close our ears and our minds.

Pride is another slighted area of student life. Oddly enough it's not the students' pride that is slighted, but the students who slight pride. Pride in PC is deficient; pride in America is absent. A military history course, such as the one offered here, is designed to generate pride in America and in her ideals. But we slump down and sleep.



This disease of apathy is not localized in this area, it is eating at the very heart of America. This country is plagued by draft-dread. Oriental countries have to turn away men who are willing and able to defend their country while we lower our standards to include more men as eligible for the draft.

Making and insuring peace is a fine art. The professional soldier is a surgeon for peace—dedicated to the removal of the cancer of aggresion. These men have our lives in their hands. I hope they did not sleep through Officers' Training School!

Drill is Mickey Mouse! Anything is ridiculous until we recognize a need for it. Our men in Viet Nam learned life-saving instincts by drilling and "playing war" before they were shipped. I wonder if they think drill is Mickey Mouse.

We have a multitude of opportunities before us—just in our Military Science Department. We can recapture our childhood pride in "Old Glory." We can be Americans in the fullest, richest sense of the word imaginable. Let's stow our pride and give our Betters the opportunity they want to better us.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I UNDERSTAND YOU'RE PRETTY HARD TO KISS ON TH' FIRST DATE."

Letter to the Editor

Uniform Grading

To the Editor,

The Student Council is pushing a regimented grading system wherein all professors would use the same grading scale. As it now stands, almost every department is using a different system of grading students, and even some professors within the departments have their own.

Some of the major questions is the easiest professor?" and "What course is the easiest?", etc. Although these questions are not from the majority of the students, they are still present, and there is no doubt that they enter minds.

One of the reasons stated in the last issue of The Blue Stocking was that everyone could study the same subject the same amount of time. This is too idealistic. It would be great if everyone could put forth the same amount of effort for each subject, but what is to keep the professors from varying the difficulty of a test or course? How can a freshman know what is expected of him if none of the teachers make out their tests on the same level of difficulty? Some courses are naturally more difficult than others, and this cannot be denied.

If the grading in Military was ten per points per letter grade, who would really have any initiative to study? Not that Military is crip, but granted, it is one of the easiest courses on campus, especially because of the system of using the same quizzes for each class.

It must also be agreed that many of the professors grade on a comparative curve. A set grading system would completely destroy this and cause some resentment from the faculty.

A freshman is going to have trouble in his first semester, regardies of the grading system. A uniform grading system would not let him know what was expected of him, and never could.

We have a good thing going and so does everyone in college in the U. S. Let's not lose a small curve that could mean the difference of an "F" or "D."

Sincerely,
Ray Combs

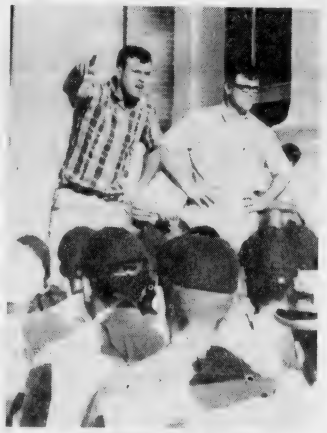
BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY, SEPT 30
"COUNTRY BOY"
With Randy Boone, Sheb Wooley, Paul Brinegar.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1
Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in
"PARDNERS"

STARTS MONDAY, OCT. 3
"WALK, DON'T RUN"
Cary Grant, Samantha Eggar, and Jim Hutton

SEVEN Rows Across . . . PACK
Together . . . EVEN Across The Back



The Pucker

SOME Volunteer . . . SOME Have To Be Told

BARLOW And HARRIS . . .
They Were In Charge

CAREFULLY Study Handbook
. . . LISTEN Intently At Court

Would You Ever Want To Meet A Nicer Guy?

LONG Shadows Of The Night Control

The freshman rat season represents an integral and vital part of the total influence that Presbyterian College brings to bear on an individual. As important, if not more important, than the orientation value of rat season is its value of tradition. It is a colorful and distinct part of the life of every student. If its end result is not the dampening of the rebel instinct of former high school seniors, it at least ends as a curiously enjoyable experience during the concluding days for freshmen and upperclassmen.

Civil Service Exam Will Be Given For Government Jobs This Summer

The Civil Service Commission today announced a nationwide competitive Office and Science Assistant Examination for many of the temporary jobs in the Federal departments and agencies that will be filled in the summer of 1967. The examination includes a written test for jobs at grades GS-1 through 4, with salaries ranging from $69 to $92 per week.

For similar jobs during the summer of 1966—the first year a competitive test was given—more than 105,000 applicants competed.

The test for jobs in the summer of 1967 will be given on three different test dates at more than 1,000 cities and towns across the country.

Candidates wishing to take the test on November 26 of this year must file applications by October 21; those wishing to compete on January 7, 1967, must file by December 9, 1966; and candidates for the February 4, 1967, examination must file by January 9, 1967.

All interested citizens will be given equal opportunity to compete.

Those interested in Federal employment in 1967 should obtain a copy of Civil Service Commission Announcement No. [illegible] Office and Science Assistant Examination for 1967." A pamphlet, "Summer Jobs in Federal Agencies," providing detailed information on the kinds of jobs that will be available and further guidance for applicants, will be distributed [illegible] The announcement and the pamphlet will be available at college placement offices, boards of civil service examiners, offices of the Civil Service Commision, and civil service information points in some post offices.

Applicants may use the tear-out form which is a part of the announcement leaflet or ask for Civil Service Form 5000-AB to make application to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, 1900 E Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., 20415.

Candidates may select any one of the three test dates and may choose a city where the [illegible] examiners will notify each applicant of the exact time and place. The test measures clerical [illegible] reasoning, reading comprehension, abstract reasoning, and table and chart interpretation. The time required to take the written test is about [illegible]

Applicants who pass the written test will be instructed that they may file job applications with interagency boards of civil service examiners in areas where they wish to work, and with the Washington, D. C., Interagency Board if they also wish to be considered for jobs in the Washington metropolitan area. The procedure followed last year, under which eligibles applied directly to the Federal agencies of their choice, will not be followed in 1967.

The names of qualified candidates will be placed on rosters according to scores earned on the test.

The Office and Science Assistant Examination does not cover employment under the President's Youth Opportunity Campaign for disadvantaged youths, and it will not be used to fill the following positions:

The so-called blue-collar jobs, specialized positions above grade GS-4, and certain other positions in the Departments of the Interior and Agriculture Temporary summer jobs in post offices are also excluded. A separate nationwide examination, also including a written test, will be announced in January, 1967, for summer postal jobs as Seasonal Assistants.

TIME OUT at the first Powderpuff Derby gives the Red Team a chance to get their wind and catch up on some badly needed primping and facial improvements.

'John Not Jesus' Is Slogan As Beatles Replace Christ

By MEREDITH EIKER
The Collegiate Press Service

The period of public mourning over the death of God seems to have passed; a big thing in religious symbols is now a Yellow Submarine, the Holy Trinity has become a quartet, and the Alleluia Chorus requires an electric guitar.

Needless to say this is the Year of our Lord—1966, B. C.—B. C. being, of course, Beatle Century. The western world is hearing the first cries of worship this week: "John not Jesus." And as is true of most dieties, the popularity of the current idols is suddenly dubious.

Obviously when John Lennon —the Beatle sitting highest on Mount Olympus — announced some weeks ago that "the Beatles are more popular than Jesus," he undoubtedly thought that he was merely stating fact. It seems, however, that at that point he had initiated a cult.

Long worshipped but never officially sanctified, the Beatles began somewhat unobtrusively in a place called the Cavern in Liverpool, England. The whole set-up was not much unlike the manger scene where Christ made his first appearance 2,000 years before. People came and kind of stared—both at the infant Christ and at the singers.

Other similarities cannot be easily overlooked either. Both Christ and the Beatles were fated for destinies with the stars, both performed miracles (the Beatles being able to turn docile, apathetic, teenage girls into screaming beasts), both experienced surging popularity and large followings only to find themselves eventually called blasphemers.

Both Christ and the Beatles knew they were doomed . . . rock and roll and religion are fickle. The Beatles have been waiting for "their downfall" for several months now. Both have witnessed angry mobs. It may not be long before fanatics are throwing rocks at the Beatles instead of kisses.

Significantly, the Beatles even have a gospel of their own. Twentieth century communication has enabled the singers to reach thousands without the aid of loaves and fishes. Their words are immorality incribed on discs . . . Lyrics such as those of Nowhere Man and Eleanor Rigby are as didatical and thought-provoking as the sermons of Christ.

And why shouldn't the Beatles become the successors to Christ? They're alive, enthusiastic, current, and palatable. Besides it's just as easy to say "John, Paul, George and Ringo" as it is to say "Father, Son and Holy Ghost."

$355,000 From Three Grants Boost Ga. Campaign Total

An anonymous challenge grant of $300,000 -- with $200,000 of it designated for Presbyterian College—gives a strong send-off to the Georgia Synod campaign which is seeking $4 million for PC, Thornwell Orphanage and five other church agencies.

This chalenge grant included, the initial campaign progress announced today currently stands at $444,586.

The $300,000 incentive grant is dependent upon the successful completion of the campaign, which will extend into next year. PC is to receive two-thirds of this amount as part of the college's $1½ million specified share of the total campaign goal.

Meanwhile, two Atlanta foundations have also announced gifts to Presbyterian College. The John and Mary Franklin Foundation is presenting $50,000 to underwrite the cost of the main physics laboratory in the newly completed Richardson Science Hall. And the Tull Foundation adds $5,000 for unrestricted use.

Franklin Foundation trustees designated their contribution in honor of the foundation co-founders, Mrs. Mary Franklin and the late John Franklin, Atlanta business and church leader. The Tull Foundation bears the name of the late J. M. Tull, Southern industrial leader and founder of the J. M. Tull Metal and Supply Company.

Every litter bit hurts YOU

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL

Bandits, PiKA's Lead IM Football

By GENE SULLIVAN

The high-flying Bandits added another feather in their hats by knocking off the pre-season favorite Sigma Nu's 13-6. Robert Hope got the Bandits on the scoreboard with a 15-yard touchdown in the second quarter. Later in the quarter Bill Crowley snagged a long pass to put the Sigma Nu's back in the game. But the Bandits were not to be denied, they moved down to the ten-yard line, then completed a pass to Robert Hope on the one for a first down. David Cottingham scored on the next play, then added the extra point. Defensive efforts of Charlie Breedlove, the rushing interior line, and Larry Bullis' long booming punts pushed the Nu's back time and again.

Later in the week the Nu's regained their form and outlasted a determined Pi Kapp team 12-6. The Pi Kapp's scored first on Don Taylor's fine running, but soon Bill Crowley got the equalizer and it was 6-6 late in the third quarter. Then Art Simmons crashed across from the one early in the fourth quarter to provide the margin of victory. The PiKA's along with the Bandits remain as undefeated contenders for the crown. They crushed the Alpha Sig's 20-0 on two spectaculer touchdown passes to Reed Bolick. Buddy Protinsky led the offense-minded PiKA's at quarterback and Ted Chalgren and the Singletons added defensive backfield problems for the Sig's. The PiKA's took their second victory of the season against the Theta Chi's 6-0. The game was a defensive battle with each team punting back and forth until Don Blanchard snagged a Theta pass and ran 25 yadds for the score.

The Theta Chi's, however, were not to be denied some victory as they broke up their archrival Pi Kapps, 12-8.

Early in the first quarter defensive lineman Neil McKay broke through the Theta line and threw the quarterback for a safety. In the second period the Chi's bounced back and went ahead on Cato's score 6-2. But the Pi Kapps had other plans and stormed back early in the second half to stun the Theta Chi's 8-6. Doug Cato then took off on a long pass pattern and scored on a 40-yard pass with 21 seconds remaining in the game to give it back to the Theta Chi's.

After winning their first game easily, the Alpha Sig's had trouble with the Pi Kappa Alpha's; then Vetville rallied to edge them 13-6. This game found a new passing combination of Billy Beaty to John McNeil which proved too much for the Sig secondary.

Vetville had previously trounced the Chargers 20-6, climaxed by Moubry Beaty's 90-yard touchdown by pass interception.

The Chargers then asserted

See FOOTBALL, Page 6, Col. 5.

Photos by Hood

KA FORWARD WALL features Patterson, Coulon, and Johnson. They beat Calvert House 13-6 in latest game.

BILL

Winning Is Redefined

Football is indeed a strange game! According to the statistics we beat Lenoir Rhyne last Saturday. Yet when the final gun sounded the score was 24-6 in favor of the Bears.

It is indeed a shame to see a team play their hearts out, as the Blue Hose did, and still lose. One thing is sure though and that is that the whole student body is proud of the fine performance put on by our boys. The whole footbal team has nothing to be ashamed of for the way they played.

Let's compare the statistics. PC had 16 first downs to Lenoir Rhyne's 9. The Bears out-rushed us by a margin of 95 yards to 80. LR is known for a brutal ground gaining game and is very seldom held under 100 yards rushing. Wayne Bell, their Little All-American fullback, gained only 59 yards in 27 carries which is one of the lowest totals of his career.

In the passing department the Blue Hose amassed 177 yards to the Bears' 47. This gave us the advantage in total yardage 257 to 141. The story of the defeat lies in three lost fumbles and two pass interceptions.

Bill Kirtland put on one of the finest shows ever seen on Johnson Field. Bill threw only six times in the first half and completed two. The second half proved to be a different story as LR was unable to stop the aerial attack put on by Bill. He completed 18 of 31 passes for the lone PC score.

For the evening Bill threw 38 times and completed 20 for 177 yards. This set two new school records for number of passes thrown and completed.

On the receiving end of Bill's aerials were seven different receivers. Special mention should go to two. Richard Reed caught seven passes for 70 yards, while Dan Eckstein had five receptions for 42 yards.

The offensive line deserves a little praise for its job of protecting Kirtland. People like Jack McCaskill, Bobby Byard, Allan Harris, Jim Helms, and Eddie Walker were consistent all night.

Perhaps the group that deserves the most praise is the defensive unit. Time and again LR was stopped by boys like Jim Sullenberger, Bob Warren, Tommy Campbell, John Monk, and Sam Lyons. It was one of the finest defensive jobs these boys have ever turned out.

But enough of looking back. One game certainly doesn't make a season. We have a team this week that I'm sure we would all rather beat than any other team.

Wofford will be one of our big tests. They have a big line led by Don Williams, Danny Suit, and Ron McGrady. Warren Whitaker is one of the best quarterbacks that we'll face all year. He is backed up by Ted Phelps and Billy Ellis' running and the receiving of Paul Infinger.

A victory over the Terriers will get us back on the road. We have one of the best teams in the state. If they play like they are capable, there is no doubt in my mind as to who will walk off that field with a win Saturday night. Let's all go to Spartanburg this week-end and show Wofford that last year's win was no fluke, but that we are actually better!

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

VOTE TOM CAIN
PRESIDENT
FRESHMAN CLASS
(Paid Political Advertisement)

Blue Hose Journey to Spartanburg For Clash With Archrival Wofford

By MIKE SIMONS

A predicted passing exhibition between two record-breaking quarterbacks highlights Saturday night's game against Wofford in Spartanburg.

PC quarterback Bill Kirtland set two school records last week against Lenoir Rhyne one for most passes completed, with 20, and the other for most passes attempted, with 37.

Wofford quarterback, Warren Whittaker, also set two records in the Terriers' clash with Frederick last week. Whittaker passed for 233 yards, and amassed over 300 yards total offense, another record for Wofford players.

Frank Madigan, whose Frederick Lions have played both PC and Wofford, rates Wofford a three-touchdown favorite over the Hose but PC figures to do considerably better than that. Last season an inspired PC team defeated a heavily favored Wofford team by a 12-7 score and Wofford will certainly be out for revenge this year.

Wofford and PC both showed a proneness to lose the ball by mistakes in last week's action. PC gave up the pigskin five times on fumbles and intercepctions, while Wofford was surrendereing the ball seven times on miscues.

Besides Whittaker, Wofford boasts two other powerful runners in Ted Phelps and Billy Ellis. The Wofford offense has been averaging 195 yards rushing and 161 yards via the air in two games.

PC's quarterback, Bill Kirtland, has hit on 33 out of 58 passes this season for 284 yards and three TD's. His leading receivers to date have been Richard Reed, who has caught 12 passes for 128 yards, and James Smith, who has caught eight passes for 70 yards.

Sam Williams leads all the runners with 58 yards in 25 carries for a 3.4 yard average. Dan Eckstein has 52 yards in 20 carries for a 2.6 yard average.

The punting situation, which figured to be a problem after the graduation of Tommy Elliott, has been a pleasant surprise for the Hose. Reed has been handling the punting chores, and has averaged 37.7 yards on 9 punts.

Although Wofford's Whittaker is considered a tremendous threat both running and passing, he will be thoroughly tested by the PC line.

Lenoir Rhyne's powerful ground attack could pick up only 95 yards, and Little All-American Wayne Bell was held to 59 yards in 27 carries. Lenior Rhyne could pick up only 47 yards on 7 completions out of 14 attempts.

One of the chief reasons for this has been the play of Bob Warren and Jim Sullenberger at linebacker, and John Monk and Tommy Campbell at guard and tackle, respectively. Gene Robbins has looked especially impressive in the Hose secondary.

Kirtland will have no easy task himself as the Bears have a rugged defense which held Frederick's Skip Bouchard to minimum yardage rushing and only 5 for 23 in the air.

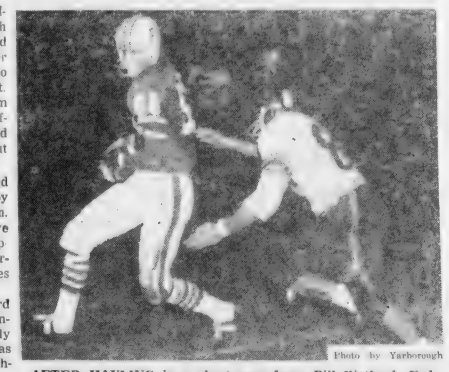

Photo by Yarborough

AFTER HAULING in a short pass from Bill Kirtland, End Richard Reed tries to out-maneuver a Lenoir Rhyne defender.

TEAM
PC	Opponent
36	First Downs 19
265	Rushing Yardage 247
290	Passing Yardage 99
34-60	Passes 12-31
2	Passes Intercepted By 3
9 for 37.7	Punts 12 for 37.2
3	Fumbles Lost 2
85	Yards Penalized 99
555	Total Yardage 346

TOP INDIVIDUAL PERFORMANCE

PLAYER	RUSHING CARRIES	YDS.	AVG.
Williams	25	85	3.4
Eckstein	20	52	2.6
Johnson	12	42	3.5
McNair	8	22	2.8
Robbins	8	25	3.1

PASSING

PLAYER	PASSES ATT.	PASSES COM.	YARDS
Kirtland	58	33	284

PASS RECEIVING

PLAYER	PASSES CAUGHT	YDS. GAINED
Reed	12	128
Smith	8	70
Eckstein	6	38
McNair	3	33

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Blue Stocks Face Clemson Here Today in Second Match

The Presbyterian College Rifle Team has its first home match today with Clemson University at Leroy Springs gymnasium. The team is made up of one senior, four sophomores, and seven freshmen. Evan Pamplin is serving as the captain this year.

In their first match this year the Blue Stocks were edged by Wofford by a score of 1255 to 1243. The leading shooters in that match were Fred Lockwood with a score of 267 out of a possible 300; Danny Wyatt with 255; and Robert Gaw with 254.

The rifle team has their heaviest schedule in recent years facing them. However, they have their best squad returning in the last three years.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Campus News Briefs

PiKA's Will Sponsor Open House

The brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity wish to announce plans for an open house to be held on the evening of October 5. The affair will begin with a faculty drop-in from 7:00 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. followed by a drop-in for the coeds from 8:30 p. m. until 10:30 p. m. Refreshments will be served during these hours.

The purpose of the drop-ins is to better acquaint the faculty and coeds with the brothers and pledges of Mu chapter and to show them the newly remodeled fraternity suite.

On the following Thursday, the fraternity room will be open during the day for any upperclassmen who wish to drop by.

Campus Movies Begin In Belk Tonight

Showing September 30 at seven o'clock in Belk Auditorium will be the first campus film of the year, "A Tale of Two Cities." This new version of the Dickens classic stars Dirk Bogarde, Dorothy Tutin, Cecil Parker, and Stephen Murry.

"From Here To Eternity" is the next movie on schedule.

Showing in Belk on October 7, this Academy Award winner stars Bert Lancaster, Montgomery Clift, Frank Sinatra, Donna Reed, Deborah Kerr, and Ernest Borgnine. This film tells the story of Robert E. Lee Prewitt, played by Montgomery Clift. Prewitt transfers to an infantry unit because his first bugler post has been given to another man without merit. Refusing to box for his commanding officer's team, Prewitt gets "the treatment." As the plot unfolds, tension mounts, erupting with explosive force as the Japanese attack Pear Harbor.

Chapel

Monday, October 3 — Mrs. Kay Baxter. She will also talk at 7:00 p. m. in Richardson Auditorium.

Tuesday, October 4 — Mrs. Kay Baxter will speak in Richardson Auditorium at 10:00 a. m. and again at 7:00 p. m.

Friday, October 7 — Human Relations Club—Jim Murchison, President.

Choir Officers

The Presbyterian College Choir has elected its officers for the 1966-67 season. President will be Richard Waters; Vice-President and Librarian, Sam Hobson; Secretary, Ann Rooney; and Robe Chairmen, Ken Terrell and Ellen Stewart.

Trustees Will Meet

The Presbyterian College Board of Trustess will hold its annual fall meeting on campus next Monday and Tuesday, President Marc C. Weersing announced today.

He said board members will arrive in Clinton late Monday afternoon for committee meetings that night and will meet in full session the next morning to complete the business of this session.

Robert M. Vance, Clinton banker-industrialist, will preside over the meeting as board chairman. Administrative officers of the college will present reports to the committees and the full board. A dinner with wives in Greenville Dining Hall is scheduled for Monday evening, at which time the PC color movie, "Beyond Tradition," will be shown.

Club Sponsors Movie

Earlie Rash, president of the Christian Vocations Club, has announced that his organization wil sponsor a film, "The Magician," to be presented in the old chemistry lecture room, second floor of Jacobs Building, on Wednesday night, October 5, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

A modern allegory dealing with forces of evil in man, the film centers around a "magician" represented by a military officer who interests a group of boys in a deserted shooting gallery and teaches them how to shoot. At first, the boys shoot merely for fun; then they begin to enjoy their powers of destruction.

Following the presentation, a panel made up of Mr. Ingle, Dr. Moorefield, and Col. Ivey, will discuss the psychological and moral implications of training a person to kill.

All interested students and faculty members and their families are urged to attend.

Photo by Hood

STANDING SILHOUETTED against the bonfire, Ray Combs leads student body in an early season pep rally.

BLUE KEY, Cont. from Page 1.

tersburg, Fla., is a member of Scabbard and Blade and a Dean's List Sociology major. He is also a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Grady Marshall, from Hapeville, Ga., is this year's Battalion Commander and a member of Scabbard and Blade. Marshall is also a recipient of the ROTC scholarship and an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

1966 SPRING TAPPING

Six men were tapped into Blue Key at the end of last semester, but The Blue Stocking had ceased publication when they were tapped.

The six men who were tapped are Bob Herlong, Mike McGehee, Will Scott, Christie Patterson, Bob Warren, and Jim Johnson.

Bob Herlong, a Sigma Nu from Manning, is vice-president of the Student Council. At the end of last semester he was elected president of the Blue Key chapter here on campus.

Mike McGehee, from Marianna, Fla., is this year's president of the SCA. He also serves as vice-president of Blue Key and is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Will Scott, of Mt. Pleasant, is a history major and a member of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity. He now serves as secretary-treasurer of Blue Key.

Christie Patterson, a native of Valdosta, Ga., is president of the Kappa Alpha Order and the senior class representative on the Student Council.

Bob Warren, of Allendale, is president of the Student Council and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Warren is also a member of the football team.

Jim Johnson, of Georgiana, Ala., is chairman of the Honor Council and president of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Johnson is also a co-captain of the football team, and has been named to Who's Who.

Visit
LOU'S SHOPPE
Complete Line of Junior and Missie Dresses for All Occasions
207 North Broad St.
833-2472

The Greeks

By SMART VIA LYNN

With no further home football games until Homecoming, most of the fraternities have begun plans for the first big dance week-end of the semester. The fraternity parties will be held Friday night to begin the week-end. Most of the fraternities are planning alumni drop-ins immediately following the game. The fraternity parties will be open to all freshmen.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Phi made a banner for the Lenoir-Rhyne game! The banner said, "Hose 'em Blue" and was placed below the scoreboard. After the Wofford game this week, Zeta Chapter of Wofford will be joined by Beta Chapter for a post-game warm-up. Brother Tom McPhail is pinned to Miss SueAnna Newsome. Charlie Campbell is Brother-of-the-Week.

Alpha Sigma Phi's Jim Bruce and Jimmy Page will attend a conference in Columbia this weekend of the Southeastern Alpha Sigma Phi chapters. Time permitting, fraternity business will be discussed. New brothers are Don Adams and Jerry Holland, and the newest pledge is Allan Callaway. Brother-of-the-Week is Grady Marshall, who is engaged to Miss Angie Reyes of PC.

The Wofford-PC chapters of Sigma Nu will have a joint party after the game. Pledges who will be initiated into the brotherhood Monday include John Benson, Mike Reeves, Robin Williams, Woody Daniels, Bill Mills, and Richard Crozier. New pledges are Jack Touchberry and Skip Horne. Robby Hibbits is getting his tennis game back into shape after his date with the "Swede" this past week-end.

Last week was a very busy week for the Theta Chi's. Doug Catoe and George "Lightning" Latimer led the Theta Chi's to their first football win of the season over the Pi Kapp's 14-8. All work in the new fraternity suite was finished last week, and the new furniture was moved in. Thanks to Brothers Frank Lee, Baker Bedsole, and Richard Galloway for the excellent job done on the new TV stand and improvements to the new bar area. The Theta Chi suite resounded with the blood-curdling cry of Rolando-the-Hun as he descended upon them with unparalleled barbarism. The zenith of the purge came as Luke-the-Limp came face-to-face with the newly waxed tile.

The PiKA's won two football games last week, but lost the services of veteran defensive lineman "Tricky" Smart who broke hs arm while fighting over half-time refreshments. "Mad" Rad the "Bad' was on the loose this week-end. Further details on his exploits may be obtained from Tim Yancey or the water cooler in Laurens Dormitory. Brother Charles Rowland is Brother-of-the-Week for his construction work last week-end.

From the Kappa Alpha Order, Brother Roy Squires is engaged to Miss Carol Pittman of Macon, Ga. The MVD award goes to John McNeill. The Beta Pi chapter will attend a party given by Delta chapter before the Wofford football game.

John C Floyd

Mr. John C. Floyd, Account Executive with Merill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, and Smith, Inc., stock brokers, will be on campus Tuesday afetrnoon, October 4, to talk to those students enrolled in the Seminar in Economics and Business Administration on the position of account executive and the preparation required for such an occupation.

Mr. Floyd will also be available for consultation with students, other than busines and economics majors, who are interested in this profession. Interested students are asked to contact Mr. Cunningham in order that arrangements might be made for them to attend the seminar.

KKK, Cont. from Page 1.

Carolina is sheltering three communist training centers located in Charleston, Columbia, and John's Island.

The Meredith March and the Birmingham bombings were planned conspiracies in order to get sympathy for the civil rights cause, stated the Grand Dragon.

Scoggin remarked that the Klan saved white civilization in America 10 years ago and today the Klan is the fastest growing organization in the U. S.

FOOTBALL, Cont. from Page 3.

their own power and James Challen's pass-catching ability to edge the Calvert House 20-13. Buddy Ferguson and Tyler Mauldin were ofensive and defensive standouts for the losers.

The KA's edged Calvert House 13-6 in their latest outing. Brownie Johnson, Joe Gettys, and Gus Forbes were instrumental in the offensive rallies, and "Pearl" Jernigan and Christie Patterson constantly harassed the running and passing game of the losers.

BOOK STORE HAS IN STOCK

Monarch Study Guides, keyed to your test in Sociology, Child Psychology, Biology, World History, Economics, Accounting, Diplomatic History, American History, The Odyssey, The Fairie Queen, Divine Comedy, Milton, Lord Jim, The Iliad, 1984, Huckleberry Finn, Old Testament, and many plays by Shakespeare, all ranging from $1.00 to $2.25.

PLUS—Millhands and Preachers, $2.45; The Courage To Be, $1.45; Moses, $1.45; Attack Upon Christendom, $1.95; The Secular City, $1.45; Situation Ethics, $1.95; Ethics of Paul, $2.25; Dynamics of Faith, $ .95.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, October 7, 1966 — No. 5

Alumni Gifts Rank Among Top Ten

Alumni giving to Presbyterian College again this year ranks within the top ten nationally in two areas among small coeducational colleges, according to the 1966 report just published by the American Alumni Council.

The report listed PC seventh in the total number of alumni donors during the latest AAC statistical year, with 1,489 contributing to all phases of the college program. In the category of total funds given during this period, Presbyterian College alumni stood ninth on the basis of $158,919 given to the school.

The American Alumni Council's report covered 1,278 institutions.

President Marc C. Weersing, in acknowledging the generous response of alumni, said he was especially pleased with the recognition in view of the fact that other colleges listed within the top ten had much larger groups of alumni than PC's 3,200. He pointed out that Presbyterian also ranked in the top ten in both categories last year. The overall alumni program here is headed by Ben Hay Hammet, director of alumni and public relations.

Alumni gifts to Presbyterian College have been a mounting source of support over the past several years, both to the Annual Giving program and to capital improvements. Last year, for example, the Annual Giving effort set a new record of $93,273 contributed toward helping to underwrite scholarship aid, faculty salary increases, and other current operating expenses.

The Annual Giving goal of 1966 has been extended to another new mark of $100,000. Strenuous efforts are now underway to achieve it.

Ullmann Will Perform Monday; Homecoming Dance Next Friday

A piano recital of music composed by Ludwig von Beethoven will be presented at Presbyterian College next Monday morning by concert pianist Theodore Ullmann.

He is scheduled to appear at 10 a. m. in Belk Auditorium, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Ullmann has been well-received in two earlier performances given at Presbyterian College. His most recent performance was last fall, when he presented the music of Frederic Chopin. He is now again in world concert tour under the cultural exchange program of the Music Foundation Artists Bureau.

The program will be given in two parts. The first part, entitled "Sonata Pathetique," will include Grave, Allegro; Adagio cantabile; and a Rondo. The second part, entitled "Sonata Appassionata," will consist of Allegro assai; adante con moto; and Allegro ma non troppe.

Theodore Ullamn is the winner of more than a score of competitive awards in music, including the $50,000 Smith Johnson Award for superior music performance. A former faculty member of Birritz American University in France and of the Juilliard School of Music, he has given piano recitals in countries located on every continent and in each of the 50 states. He is especially popular with college audiences.

His wide range of study includes the Sorbonne in France, Conservatoire of Paris and the Juilliard School of Music ,and the earning of a doctoral degree in music.

DR. THEODORE ULLMANN

Joy will reign on the PC campus next Friday and Saturday, October 14 and 15, as Homecoming will begin the annual series of dance weekends.

According to Larry Yonce, chairman of the Student Entertainment Committee, activities will begin on Friday in Greenville Hall with a dance featuring the nationally known Barbara Lewis. The dance will last from 7:45-12:00 with dress being coat and tie for men and casual for ladies. At 7:45 Friday night in Greenville Hall, candidates for Homecoming Queen will be presented to the student body. Fraternity quarters will be open after the dance.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 the Blue Hose will face the Davidson Wildcats in their annual grudge match. Homecoming Queen will be crowned during half-time ceremonies.

All fraternities are planning to have parties Saturday night, October 15. Steve Knoche, IFC President, stated that all parties Friday and Saturday will be open to all freshmen and transfer students.

Every organization on campus wishing to enter a candidate for Homecoming Queen is requested to submit the name to Larry Yonce by Tuesday night in order that a formal invitation might be extended to the candidate from the Student Entertainment Committee. Pictures of the candidates must be turned in to Woody Hall by Wednesday night in order to be published in The Blue Stocking.

Pictures will be displayed in the Douglas House lobby and also in the next edition of The Blue Stocking. A campus-wide election will determine the Queen. Polls will be open in Douglas House lobby on Saturday morning. Candidates must be present Friday night for their presentation at the dance, Saturday morning for a reception in their honor at the Weersing home, and Saturday afternoon at the game.

Dr. Gettys has announced that there will be no classes on Saturday.

Frosh Elect Class Officers; Eighty-Seven Per Cent Vote

By MIKE GOWER

The Freshman Class, after having chosen its run-off candidates on October 3, elected Laine Ligon from Pacolet, for its president; Don Gillespie, from Macon, Ga., for its vice-president; and George Dickerson, from Spartanburg, for its secretary-treasurer; those defeated in the run-off were Tom Cain, from Decatur, Ga.; Bill Beaty, from Rock Hill; and Peggy Ellison from Greenville.

The others that were running for the various offices were as follows: Gabe Rouquie, Steve Lehman, and Tommy Johnson for the presidency; Ed Macomber, Jody Fowler, Jack Barnes, and Bobby Saine for the vice-presidency; and Adele Nowell, Clift Goodwin, Bob Gustafson, and Buddy Williams for the secretary-treasurer's post.

The run-of races were fairly close, with nearly 87 per cent of the Freshman Class voting. The votes ran 78 to 70, 77 to 70, and 96 to 52 for the various respective posts of president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer. These percentages show an increase over the previous elections.

Photo by Yarborough

THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL FOR VALOR was presented posthumously to the wife of Sergeant Franklin D. Gambrell of Greenwood on September 29, 1966, for the soldier's heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force. Lt. Col. Benjamin F. Ivey, Jr., PMS of Presbyterian College, made the presentation to honor the hero.

SCA Announces Freshman Cabinet

Mike McGehee, president of the SCA, has announced the Freshman SCA Cabinet for the 1966-67 academic year. Ferdie Jourdan was elected president of the freshman cabinet at a special meeting last night. Tom Cain will serve as vice-president, and Nell Nichols as secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the cabinet are Mary Beth McBath, Judy Simpson, Jane Cousins, Mary Morrell, Lena Strickland, Dianne Mayo, Deborah Brown, and Sharon Morehead.

Also Bob Thrower, Dan Frye, Johnny Stanford, Howard Higgins, Bill Beaty, Ray McDonald, John Taylor, Mike Gower, Ronnie Jordan, and Phil Bradner.

John Oswalt, Jodie Fowler, Phil Acker, Ronnie Colvin, Bobby Quillen, Jim Gills, Duncan McFayden, Leland Bomar, Jim

See SCA, Page 4, Col. 3.

Ingle, Ivey, Moorefield View Morals of Killing

The Christian Vocations Club sponsored a discussion on the psychological effects of killing last Thursday night. Participating in the dialogue were Lt. Col. Benjamin F. Ivey, Professor of Military Science; Mr. H. Larry Ingle, Assistant Professor of History; and Dr. David R. Moorefield, Professor of Philosophy. The Moderator was Dr. Richard L. Morgan.

The allergorical movie entitled "The Magician" was shown and used as a springboard for the discussion.

Each of the participants followed the movie with opening remarks of five minutes each. Ivey started by saying that killing and war seemed to be the solution to the world's problems throughout history, but war should be a last resort only. He asserted that "there will be killing until man learns to control himself."

Emphasizing that killing is "not a sport or fun in the army," Ivey said that the army teaches an art: killing without emotion and hate, but for a cause. He admitted that "if killing is a sin, I will see many in hell."

Dr. Moorefield then offered an interpretation of the film. He believed that the film said there is a "military mind that gets enamored with promoting war — it sacrifices all to this principle of war."

In saying that the film did not condem war, Dr. Moorefield emphasized that we should look at all aspects of war before judging it right or wrong. War, according to Dr. Moorefield, is the "price we must pay for living in an imperfect world," but people should hope for a time when war is not necessary.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Ingle said that the film challenged "one of the basic assumptions of man from time immemorium." It challenged the belief that one only follows orders and that personal moral responsibility ends when the enemy is defined. He said that he also was challenging this assumption, and that "this is a a dangerous move." Ingle pointed out, however, that Eichmann was convicted of the mass murder of six million Jews even though he was only following orders.

After these opening remarks, questions were asked by the audience. To one question, Mr. Ingle stated that the Nuremburg war trials established the principle that "when an individual

See DISCUSSION, P. 4, Col. 3.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Ass't. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor — E. Alexander Erwin, III, Mng. Editor

Student Council Has Lost Effect

As a sequel to last week's editorial on apathy, The Blue Stocking would like to investigate this phenomenon in another aspect of campus life.

The Student Council can no longer actually be certain of its purpose as a campus organization. Previously, the Council has been responsible for the conducting of honor trials and procedures, but the new Student Council Constitution has delegated this authority to the Honor Council, which is separate from the Student Council.

The Blue Stocking would venture to say that the faculty or administration themselves could accomplish or fulfill the functions of the Student Council, as they now stand, with a similar degree of efficiency.

To a certain extent the Student Council has been relieved of its function as the intermediary between the administration or faculty and the student body. Why has the Student Council been reduced to such a meager position? For instance, the proposed Rat Season rules endorsed by the Student Council were rejected by the faculty and administration. The Student Council suggested a time limt of three and one-half weeks, but the Knapsack stated as a directive from the faculty and administration that the time limit would be fourteen days. Its cessation was done entirely through the faculty, and the Student Council was not even consulted.

The Blue Stocking suggests that some of this lessening of influence is a result partly of official administrative action, partly because of lack of interest or progressive action on the part of Council members, and partly because of an interaction of both.

Last year the Student Council proposed the establishment of an organization of independents, but nothing or very little concrete has come of this. Also two weeks ago the Student Council announced in The Blue Stocking that it would probably conduct a referendum on the possibility of a uniform grading scale. Nothing has come of this either.

Through investigation, The Blue Stocking has also learned that the Student Council has established a committee to investigate and report on the possibilities for better study conditions and more strictly enforced quiet periods. The report is to be made to the administration for final decision.

Another committee was formed in early September to report on the possibility of the cafeteria opening at 11:30 a. m. on Thursdays. This committee was later broadened to include a study of the dining hall conditions in general. As of this date, The Blue Stocking has learned of no action taken on either of these proposals. In fact, the second committee has yet to even meet.

The Blue Stocking suggests that much of this apathetic attitude toward action is a result of a lack of support from the student body. How can the student body render support or constructive criticism if it does not even know what is being considered? The Blue Stocking would like to suggest that if the minutes of the Student Council were readily and regularly published the student body would then know what was happening and would have a chance to lend its ssupport, either pro or con, to any proposals it so desired.

The Blue Stocking believes that a major reason behind the apparent diminution of the influence of the Student Council is that there are very few, if any, except Council members (and even some of them are not active participators) who know what the Student Council is proposing. Therefore, the Student Council cannot hope to petition for reform effectively, and is not this the primary function of the Student Council?

W. W. H.

Supporting Staff

Business Manager ..... Joe Stevens
News Editor ..... Rush Otey
Copy Editor ..... Tony Dendy
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Feature Editor ..... Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor ..... Richard Smart
Movie Editor ..... Christie Patterson
Assistant News Editor ..... Ray Combs
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Gene Sullivan
Assistant Feature Editor ..... Karen Weaver
Circulation Manager ..... Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists ..... Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists ..... Carolyn Colby, Mavis Harrop

TV Replaces Birth Control Pills

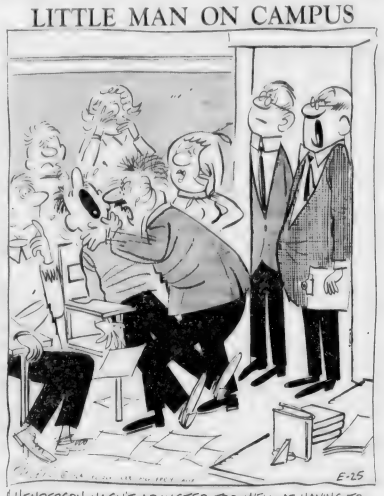
By WALLACE IMMEN
The Collegiate Press Service

A recent story in the New York Times gave an explanation for an unusually large increase in births in New York hospitals this month. It is now nine months since the great Northeast power blackout.

"The lights went out and people were left to interact with each other," was the conclusion of sociologist Paul Siegel. "They didn't have access to the major source of amusement, the television, and it is reasonable to assume a lot of sex life went on."

Perhaps this sociologist has discovered the solution to the birth control controversy. A simple, effective means fo holding down increasing population throughout the world has been found.

The pill is obsolete, just keep that television on all night. As long as the power doesn't fail, the problem of overpopulation can be solved with a good dose of Johnny Carson.



Certainly it would be easier to introduce such a control in underdeveloped nations than drugs or calendar watching.

The United Nations should begin immediately on a total program of TV installation, which will not only introduce real culture to the world's people, but will force electrification of all rural villages and educate a brave new generation of viewers in the wonders of "the tube."

Within 20 years, worldwide television will be so firmly entrenched that the birth rate will decline to the crisis point. At that time someone will have developed another system for maintaining the human race.

Hail to our Ford.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"HENDERSON HASN'T ADJUSTED TOO WELL AT HAVING TO TEACH FOUR SECTIONS OF REMEDIAL ENGLISH."

Student Council Reports

By BOB WARREN

In most civilized societies, a general unspoken code of conduct exists in order to preserve certain rights of the individual. This set of rules is known in our society as basic good manners which are usually understood between people, even from different areas of our country. The PC campus, however, has shown itself to be an exception in exhibiting common decency during the past few weeks.

Certain individuals evidently feel that they are privileged and therefore have certain rights which are denied the student body as a whole. The tragic thing about these actions is that they draw unfavorable opinions from faculty members and administrative personnel with whom the Student Council has to work in order to bring about better conditions on campus. These faculty and administrative people receive bad impressions of a minority of the students, and these impressions influence their vote whenever a motion concerning students is brought before them.

Recent cases of professors' desks being damaged by students supposedly studying in classrooms have brought adverse criticism upon the whole student body. This lack of responsibility makes it extremely difficult for the Student Council to request and get classrooms for night study.

Another area of concern on campus is the dining hall where for too many incidents of crude conduct have occurred. When a student or a professor cannot maintain his place in line because of some twenty other students breaking in front of him all of us should carefully examine our manners. If these incidents continue, the Student Council will be forced to pass some kind of controlling measures to regulate something as trifling as the lunch line. What make some students feel that they have the right to do whatever benefits themselves regardless of the effect that these actions have on others?

If students feel frustrated and think that something must be done to correct certain faults on campus, namely the lunch line, See COUNCIL, Page 4, Col. 3.

Letter to the Editor

Riddle Riddles Editor

Dear Editor,

Campus apathy is a subject well worth study here. However, one may well question where this apathy is centered and where it has been most recently reflected on our campus. Consider, if you will, the following facts that were obviously not reviewed before your most recent attempt at being an editor:

69% of the Student Body participated in the S. G. A. nomination election of 1965.

80% of the Student Body participated in the S. G. A. election for President in 1965.

78% of the Freshman Class voted in the 1965 Freshman Class election.

70% of the Student Body cast their ballots in the S. C. A. election of 1965.

64% of the Student Body voted in the final election for President of the S. C. A. in 1966.

60% of the Student Body participated in the S. G. A. nominating election in April, 1966.

81% of the Student Body voted in the S. G. A. election for president in April, 1966.

Come now, is this "Very rarely . . . over 65% of the Student Body participated, and a more common percentage has been around 50%."? Where is apathy evidenced here?

It was also stated that the "lack of cheering and enthusiasm which is marking all of PC's home athletic contests" was a reflection of "this general feeling of apathy." Consider Coach Gault's most recent statement on PC's spirit at the football games in the Walter Johnson Club Football letter of September 26, 1966: "The old PC spirit was there—on the field, in the stands, with the cheerleaders. It was there all right—and you could feel it. You could be proud of it. Few left the stands when the cause was lost." Again, where is the apathy?

Perhaps there is need for a careful study and definition of the meaning of apathy before any constructive criticism can be made. I dare you.

Sincerely,
Bill Riddle

Council Member Corrects Combs

To the Editor:

I am writing in reply to the letter by Mr. Ray Combs which was published in the September 30 issue of The Blue Stocking.

Mr. Combs began by stating that "The Student Council is pushing a regimented grading system wherein all professors would use the same grading scale." Mr. Combs, the Student Council is not pushing any grading scale of any kind. The Faculty asked the Student Council to discuss this matter with the students and to make a recommendation to a faculty committee after student opinion had been voiced. If Mr. Combs had read the Student Council report on page 2 of the September 16 Blue Stocking, he would have found that the Student Council plans to hold a campus-wide referendum on this issue and to make its recommendation to the faculty according to the majority opinion of the students.

It seems to me that Mr. Combs was in disagreement with the Blue Stocking editorial of September 16 and not the Student Council Report, for it was the Blue Stocking which came out in favor of the uniform grading scale and not the Student Council.

Sincerely,
Rush Otey

BILL

Student Seating In Stadium

There is a problem on campus that has been evolving for the past three years that I have been here. I think this problem has come to a head this year. That problem is the seating of the students at home football games.

The student body is crowded into a section between the 30-yard line and the goal line. This is a section which is pushed to hold the student body itself, let alone dates. If one gets to the field shortly before game-time, he finds himself and his date sitting on the other side of the field. He may get himself and the girl squeezed into a place for two people which is already occupied by another fraternity brother and his date.

I know the majority of the seats on our side of the field have to go to the town people who support the Blue Hose financially. But the students who have to pay $1800 a year to come here deserve more than to be packed into a small section at the far end of the field.

It seems that something could be worked out through the student government and the athletic department which would be more beneficial to all. At some of the schools nearby, this problem has been solved by moving the student body section to the opposite side of the field. There is plenty of room on that side except for certain games, and something could be worked out in these cases.

The student body would not take up the whole side, but it seems to me that they could be allowed a section from the 35-yard line to the other 35. It would be much nicer to be able to see the game in a seat with enough room to be comfortable.

This might also help the problem of apathy in the cheering. It is a little hard to cheer when you are sitting on the other side of the field or halfway down the stands from the other students. I am not fully convinced that there is a problem with the school spirit. It has seemed pretty good at the three games thus far this season.

The only way to get this problem remedied is to tell your student government representative about it and let them handle it. After all that is what we have them for. I hope something can be done for this before the end of this season.

Hose To Face Fighting Christians; Hope To Return to Winning Track

By MIKE SIMONS

The Presbyterian College Blue Hose attempts to get back on the winning track Saturday night as they journey to Burlington, N. C., to take on the Fighting Christians of Elon College. The Hose will be going for their first Carolinas Conference victory of the season, as they now stand 0-1 in comference play.

After winning their first game, the Hose have dropped two straight bitterly contested batties, one to Lenoir Rhyne and the other to Wofford. PC is a one-touchdown favorite to win and thus can even its record at 2-2.

Head Coach Cally Gault says, "This is probably the biggest team we will face all year, and they will be tough to move the ball against."

Elon this year is trying to regain the form which won the Carolinas Conference football crown in 1964. After a disappointing 1965 campaign under first-year mentor Gary Mattocks which saw their record dip to a single win and nine losses, Elon is rebounding this season with a host of returning lettermen. Key returnees this year are quarterback H. L. Robinson and a pair of topflight ends, Pete Davis and Mike Ray. Conspicuous in his absence this season is halfback Fred Stewart, the team's most proflific rusher during the past two seasons.

The Hose's chief concern will be moving the ball against the behemoth Elon defensive line, and the offense will face ons of its biggest challenges of the season in attempting this. Bill Kirtland is all set to go at quarterback this week, with Olni Grant standing in the wings, ready to assume command if Kirtland should falter.

The team is in good physical condition with the exception of center Mickey Hampshire, who is still out of action. End Richard Reed is still suffering from a badly-bruised elbow, but is expected to be ready for the Elon game, an ill omen for opposing secondaries. Reed has been PC's top pass receiver to date.

Last year PC defeated Elon by a 14-7 count, and in the series with Elon stands 5-2 overall.

The contest could turn out to be a defensive struggle between two defenses which have both been reluctant to yield yardage to opponents. PC will probabloy have to take to the air in order to offset the size of the Elon line, and Elon may have to do more scoring zip to the Hose at the same against the rugged defensive line of PC.

Wofford last week, the Blue Hose drove deep into enemy territory but were unable to punch the ball into the end zone.

PC has been working on good line offense during the week's practice in an attempt to add

Photo by Yarborough

PC TRI-CAPTAINS, Jim Johnson, John Monk, and James Smith lead the Hose against Elon, in looking for the second win of the year.

Linksmen Begin Practice; Sale Will Serve As Captain

By TOM CAIN

After winning the 1966 state championship, the Presbyterian golf team is off to an early start for the 1967 season. Coached by Mr. Wells, the golf team began practicing the first week in October.

"Competition for this year's team will be on monthly preliminary rounds of 54 holes," states Mr. Wells. By the first week in March, the team will be selected, with the team positions being selected according to the performance on the qualifying rounds.

The captain of this year's team is David Sale, the number two man on last year's year's championship team. Other upperclassmen returning are Alan Parsons, Ashton Blount, Steve Albright, and Tim Yancey (who will help the team after his ineligibility of last year).

Freshmen competing in the preliminary rounds are Pearce Adams, John Aiken, Terry Clyburn, and John McNeil.

CAROLINAS CONFERNECE GAMES

Team	CONFERENCE W	L	T	Pct.	OVERALL W	L	T	Pct.
Lenoir Rhyne	2	0	0	1.000	3	0	0	1.000
Newberry	2	1	0	.667	2	1	0	.667
Appalachian	2	1	0	.667	2	1	0	.667
Guilford	1	1	0	.500	2	1	0	.667
Western Carolina	1	1	0	.500	2	1	0	.667
PRESBYTERIAN	0	1	0	.000	1	2	0	.333
Catawba	0	1	0	.000	1	2	0	.333
Elon	0	2	0	.000	0	3	0	.000

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Presbyterian at Elon
Appalachian at Lenoir Rhyne
Western Carolina at Catawba
Newberry at Frederick
Guilford at Samford

PiKA's Stay Unbeaten; Bandits, Vetville Tied

By GENE SULLIVAN

The strong armed PiKA's moved into first place this week as they hatched out Vetville 25-6 and sneaked by the surprisingly tough KA's.

In the Vetville game the passing and running of Buddy Protinsky and the defensive play of the Singletons and Charlie Weston was what kept the PiKA's moving. Earlier in the week the PiKA's and KA's fought to a last minute draw until Protinsky lobbed a pass to end Reed Bolick in the final eleven seconds to provide the margin of victory, 13-6. For the KA's Eddie Miller and Gus Forbes were the big ofensive guns, and Brownie Johnson paced the defensive team.

After this disappointing loss, the KA's roared back to top the previously undefeated Bandits, 8-6. Christie Patterson caught Bandit back Vin Atkinson for a safety, then Gus Forbes ran in a touchdown and the Bandits had to play catch-up.

Lineman Gabe Rouquie picked up a Forbes fumble late in the game and raced 35 yards for the Bandit score. The KA's held on, however, and took a slim victory home.

The PiKapps started the week by taking a forfeit from the Calvert House and then scoring 5 touchdowns against the hapless Chargers only to have four called back on 5-yard penalties. The Chargers took advantage by intercepting a pass and turning it into a score in the last 58 seconds to stun the better PiKapps 12-7.

The chargers got their share of the breaks this week as they also upset the favored Theta Chi's 19-6. Ellis Jenkins, Johnny McCalum, and James Challen led the charge.

The Theta Chi's then rallied to disperse the Calvert House 22-0. Larry Geddie scored twice and Edgar Lane got a safety; then the Theta's unleashed gigantic Gene Bowie at tight end and he took in a 25-yard TD. Bowie and Luke at defensive line proved too big and strong for the hapless Calvert boys.

In the bigest game of the week the heavily favored Sigma Nu's were downed, 7-6, by the Alpha Sigs. Each team had 6 points at the end of the game, and the Alpha Sigs took the game on penetration. Leading the winning cause were Allen Callaway and Rick Corley. The loss was the second for the Sigma Nu's.

Shakespeare Will Sponsor Area Tennis Clinic Monday

By TOM CAIN

Although the varsity tennis team has been practicing for a month, Coach Shakespeare has also been concerned with other plans for the tennis program.

On Monday afternoon, October 10, any students interested in the tennis program will be able to attend a clinic form 2:00 to 3:30 p. m. If there is a large tunout for this program, other clinics will be held in the coming months.

Coach Shakespeare also wants to see any freshmen and sophomores insterested in playing intercollegiate tennis, as soon as possible. Practices and practice matches will be held for these boys in the spring. If there is sufficient participation, a JV team will be organized in the spring.

Coach Shakespeare also commented on the condition of the playing courts. 'PC has always been proud of its tennis program, but this year we are concerned with the condition of the courts. We hope the students will be responsible in this area of our program and brush the courts before and after every match.

Town-N-Country Barber Shop
Just Past The Wrangler
OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY
Open Till 9:00 P. M.

The Greeks

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity held an open house for all faculty and co-eds on Wednesday. All upperclassmen were invited to drop in Thursday night. Allan Harris is pinned to Miss Cathy Rogers from Florence. Brothers of the Week are Charles Weston and Reed Bolick. Announced plans for Homecoming include a party Saturday night from eight until one, featuring the James Gang. All freshmen and transfer students are invited to attend. The football team beat the KA's 13-6.

Pi Kappa Phi fraternity will have the Marvelles for their Homecoming party which will be held Saturday night at the Wrangler from eight until—. Jack Phillips was recently initiated into the brotherhood. Brother Andy Barnett is engaged to Miss Martha Todd of Erskine College. Neill "Minnesota" McKay is Brother of the Week. Miss Jane Chandler of Converse College has been chosen as Sweetheart.

The Kappa Alpha Order had a hamburger supper for the alumni last Monday night. Gus Forbes is engaged to Miss Cathy Mock of the U. N. C. There are also rumors about Christie Patterson dropping his pin to a mysterious Converse lady. New pledges include Robert Hope, Jack McCaskill, Bill Thatcher, and David Wyatt. The chapter is having Moses Dillard and the Dynamic Showmen at the Legion Hut on Saturday night of Homecoming. David Berry is Brother of the Week.

From the Sigma Nu fraternity, Al Todd is engaged to Miss Mary Anne Arnett of Aiken and PC. Homecoming festivities will include Little Joe Price and the Monarchs at Barnes' Barn in Laurens from eight until twelve.

The Theta Chi fraternity initiated ten new brothers. They are Ed Dorn, Edgar Lane, Skip Taylor, Rhette Anderson, Larry Geddie, Richard Waters, John Roars, Kenny Dodds, Doug Catoe, and Fred Pratt. New pledges are Terry Alexander and Rick Patrick. The Homecoming party will be at the Greenwood Shrine Club on Lake Greenwood, featuring "Elijah and the Ebonies."

Homecoming festivities for the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity will include The Instigators Five in the fraternity suite Saturday night. All freshmen and transfer students are invited to attend. Jerry Jackson of Atlanta is a new pledge. Jerry Holland is lavaliered to Miss Phillis Mixon of U. S. C. Brothers of the Week are Rick Corley and Will Scott. Pledge of the Week is Allan Callaway.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Campus News Briefs

Military Designates Six As DMS

The Presbyterian College ROTC Battalion has named six cadets as Dinstinguished Military Students. This honor is awarded to those cadets who display outstanding qualities of leadership, high moral character, noteworthy academic achievement, and exceptional aptitude for military service. Lt. Colonel Benjamin F. Ivey, Jr., Professor of Military Science at Presbyterian College, presented the awards to the following cadets: Robert W. Herlong of Manning; Grady A. Marshall of Atlanta, Ga.; Max Milligan, III, of Atlanta, Ga.; Howard O. Protinsky, Jr., of St. Petersburg, Fla.; James L. Ritchie, IV, of Clinton; and Roy V. Squires, III, of Macon, Ga.

COUNCIL, Cont. from Page 1.

why do they not come to their Student Council representative?

The Student Council has various committees which are concerned with student problems, and I urge each of you to go through us as a Council so that we can get constructive accomplishments rather than high-school monitoring laws and useless criticism!

SCA, Cont. from Page 1.

Talley, Woody Carter, and Carson Rhyne.

Billy Bryant, Rusty Chapman, Peter Mallory, Rickey Pennington, Stan Kemp, Ed Macomber, Laine Ligon, and Joe Dundon.

Advisors for this year are SueAnna Newsome, Benton Lutz, John Lown, and Melinda Martin.

The Freshman SCA Cabinet is in charge of the preparation of the Activities Calendar and of the SCA activities carried on in conjunction with Thornwell Orphanage. The most immediate event will be the sponsoring of a Halloween party for the orphanage.

DISCUSSION, Cont. from P. 1.

receives an order for a crime against humanity, he is responsible for it." As an example, Ingle used the three soldiers at Ft. Dix who refused to fight in Viet Nam because they considerred it a crime against humanity. Ingle said that they were abiding by the Nuremburg principle but were court-martialed nevertheless.

Ivey responded that the "three at Ft. Dix should have been shot." He said they showed no loyalty and their light sentence was a "gross injustice."

Moorefield emphasized, in response to a question, that the "personal ethic of Christ is not a universal ethic." He also said the psychology that man can become used to shooting and carry it over into public life is possible but not probable as the veterans of World War II and Korea show.

Throughout the discussion Ivey maintained that the "military is not made up of village idiots' and that "all great military leaders of our country have been Christian." He stressed that "our military is not without Christian principles.

Moorefield and Ivey agreed that the military is compatible to the intellectual life of PC.

All three agreed that the war in Viet Nam is more than just military. It is social, economic, and political, too.

YRC Sponsors Rogers

MR. JOSEPH ROGERS

The Young Republicans Club is sponsoring Joseph Rogers, Republican candidate for Governor of South Carolina, for chapel on Friday, October 14.

Ken Durkee will serve as president of the Young Republicans Club this year. The other officers were elected last Monday night and are as follows: Danny Wyatt, vice-president; Andy Phyrdas, treasurer; Buddy Williams, corresponding secretary; and David Hood, recording secretary.

BROADWAY
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7
The Plainsman
Don Murray, Guy Stockwell, and Abby Dalton

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8
King Kong vs Godzilla

MON.-TUES., OCT. 10-11
Waco

STARTS WED., OCT. 13
The Ten Commandments
Charlton Heston, Yul Brenner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Padgett and John Derek.

The PC Players will present two one-act plays on October 12 and 13. The first play, "Idea for a Play," is a British import by Richmond Tydeman. It is a comic morality filled with irony. "The Oaks of Mamre' is a prize-winning drama by James Pendelton, and will be presented second.

The plays will be presented in Belk Auditorium beginning at 8:00. Both plays will be performed both nights with a short intermission between them.

Members of the student body, faculty, administration, and interested persons from the community are urged to attend.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, October 10—Dr. Theodore Ullmann, Piano Concert.

Wednesday, October 12—Chaplain Thomas Stallworth, Guest Minister.

Friday, October 14—YRC presents Joseph Rogers, Republican Candidate for Governor of South Carolina.

Math Help Sessions

Mr. Bill Cannon of the Math Department, has announced the schedule for Math 103-104 help sessions.

Paula Evans will conduct help sessions on Mondays beginning at 2:30 p. m. and on Thursdays at 4:15 p. m. Kent Walker will conduct similar sessions on Tuesdays beginning at 2:00 p. m. All sessions will be held in Neville 101.

Mr. Cannon stressed that the sessions would begin promptly and would end at the request of the students.

Visit
LOU'S SHOPPE
Complete Line of Junior and Missie Dresses for All Occasions
207 North Broad St.
833-2472

Photo by Hood

KEN DURKEE, DR. JAMES L. SKINNER, HEINRICH V. BOORAEM, V, AND MR. WILLIAM J. McARTHUR give their views on the Republican candidates in the state elections.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, October 14, 1966 — No. 6

ADAMS, ALEXANDER, BARNES, VASS, SCOTT, COLE, SHEPPARD

PITTMAN, JOHNSON, STUMP, JARRETT, JONES, DINGLE, WEAVER

PC Players Give Two Plays; Academic Life Enhanced

By JIM LOYD
Feature Staff

Wednesday and Thursday nights a significant contribution was made to the academic life of the college. The Presbyterian College Players presented for the enjoyment of over 400 students two one-act plays.

The first, "Idea for a Play," by Richard Tydeman, a modern morality, saw a cast, inexperienced in stage technique, hampered by a play which called for more finesse to be truly effective because of its overt commentary. Even so, Rick Stall, as Education, brought life to the stage. Also, Karen Bremer as Virtue, Tim Helgeson as Producer, and Sam Hobson as Religion were effective at times.

The second play, "The Oaks of Mamre," by James D. Pendleton, enhanced by the set design of Miss Mary Ann Pennington, and fine lighting, was truly a dramatic experience. Rod Spilman as Abraham and Vicki Brown as Sarah were excellent in their roles. Mr. Spilman's hesitancy and Miss Brown's insistence showed great feeling character and also, the fruits of good directing from Dr. James L. Skinner.

The Players are to be congratulated for their contribution and thanked for the hours of hard work in these first, we hope, of several plays to be presented this year.

1966 Homecoming Features Dance, Reunions, Game And Coronation

Barbara Lewis' performance tonight in Greenville Dining Hall will kick off the Presbyterian College Homecoming activities for 1966. Chestes Mayfield and the Casuals will back her up.

CANDIDATES

Homecoming candidates will be presented at 7:45 p. m. The dance will last until around midnight. Dress will be coat-and-tie for men and casual for ladies. Fraternities will hold open parties after the dance.

The 14 Homecoming nominees are: Diane Adams, PC, SCA; Susan Alexander, Limestone College, Sigma Nu; Jeanne Barnes, Massey College, Pi Kappa Phi; Judy Ann Cole, Winthrop College, Theta Chi; Miriam Dingle, PC, Christian Vocations Club; Mary Jo Jarrett, Limestone College, Blue Key; Rose Ann Johnson, Clinton, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Also, Connie Jones, Mary Baldwin College, Alpha Sigma Phi; Carol Pittman, Mercer College. Business - Economics Association; Donna Scott, PC, ROTC Battalion; Nina Sheppard, University of South Carolina, Block P; Nancy Stump, Winthrop College, Kappa Alpha Order; Lillibet Vass, PC, Student Council; and Karen Weaver, PC, Student Entertainment Committee.

Pictures of the candidates will be on display in Douglas House today and tomorrow morning. The Student Body will vote for these candidates tomorrow morning between 9:30 a. m. and 12:15 p. m. While the Student Body is voting the candidates will be entertained with a reception in their honor in President Weersing's home at 10:30 a. m.

Fraternity displays must be completed by 11:00 a. m., Saturday. Prizes are $25 for first, $15 for second, and $10 for third.

ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

The Alumni Board of Directors will meet at 10:00 a. m. tomorrow in Belk Auditorium, followed by a barbecue under the oaks next to Belk for students, alumni, and friends. Mrs. Bowers has requested that the students begin eating at 11:00 a. m.

The annual PC Alumni Association program in Belk Auditorium at 1:00 p. m. will include the installation of the 1967 alumni officers and the presentation of the 1966 Alumni Gold P to Banks S. Hayes of Ridgewood, N. J. Association President Walter Gosnell of Spartanburg will preside, and PC President Weersing will make a report on the college. Albert W. Brice has been selected to receiva PC's Alumni Service Award.

A meeting of the Walter Johnson Club, alumni athletic or-

See HOMECOMING, P. 4, Col. 3.

Miss Pennington

Art Courses Are 'Awareness Courses'

By NINA WOODY

During registration and in the week following, the campus motto at PC was: "Hey, man—why don't you take art? Have you seen that new faculty member?" Even faculty advisers displayed an inveterate propensity to place any student deemed unable to cope with the so-called "higher echelons" of academia into an art course. "Sure, baby, it will be crip."

Sure. In a recent conversation with Miss Mary Ann Pennington (she's that new faculty member, for the uninitiated) several very informative and pertinent points were brought out relating to the purpose of a Fine Arts Department at PC, the values of art courses for non-art majors, and the more obvious development necessary for establishing the newest department on our campus.

According to Miss Pennington, art has a much more important purpose in a college curriculum than we tend to realize. Art is not a vocation as such, but is rather a basic instinct for all of us, even if we feel we are not artistically talented or creative. Too few of us are aware of ourselves or of man in general. It is a means of understanding the world and ourselves, and it can be a most relaxing and pleasurable experience.

Miss Pennington stated htat one cannot have a liberal education without taking a look at the fine arts any more than one can be educated without some knowledge in the sciences and mathematics. Therefore, a liberal arts college such as PC is the place to have a Fine Arts Department.

Looking toward the future of the Fine Arts Department, Miss Pennington expressed the necessity of developing a specific art history area in the department, due to the value of this area has for those students majoring in history, which is the third most popular major at PC. She also stresed that art appreciation courses would always be taught because of their necessity in meeting education requirements, but more importantly because of their unparalleled significance as "awareness courses."

She said there is a great need to establish strong, if small, studio courses in painting, drawing, and sculpture, with possible later additions of specific courses in graphics, ceramics, crafts, and the like. Art education courses should also be established.

In summary, Presbyterian College is a more well-rounded institution due to the serious interest of the administrators and faculty members in this vital area of our liberal arts education. And, baby, it isn't crip.

Draft Test Applications Must Be In By Oct. 21

Applications for the November 18 and 19, 1966, administrations of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service board for an Application Card and a Bulletin of Information for the test.

Following instructions in the Bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAMINING SECTION, Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 988, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Applications for the test must be postmarked no later than midnight, October 21, 1966.

According to the Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. By registering early, he stands the best chance of being assigned to the test center he has chosen. Because of the possibility that he may be assigned to either of the testing dates, it is very important that he list a center and center number for each date on which he will be available.

The Greeks

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity held an open house for all faculty and coeeds on Wednesday. All upperclassmen were invited to drop in Thursday night. Allan Harris is pinned to Miss Cathy Rogers from Florence. Brothers of the Week are Charles Weston and Reed Bolick. Announced plans for Homecoming include a party Saturday night from eight until one, featuring the James Gang. All freshmen and transfer students are invited to attend. The football team beat the KA's 13-6.

Pi Kappa Phi fraternity will have the Marvelles for their Homecoming party which will be held Saturday night at the Wrangler from eight until—. Jack Phillips was recently initiated into the brotherhood. Brother Andy Barnett is engaged to Miss Martha Todd of Erskine College. Neill "Minnesota" McKay is Brother of the Week. Miss Jane Chandler of Converse College has been chosen as Sweetheart.

The Kappa Alpha Order had a hamburger supper for the alumni last Monday night. Gus Forbes is engaged to Miss Cathy Mock of the U. N. C. There are also rumors about Christie Patterson dropping his pin to a mysterious Converse lady. New pledges include Robert Hope, Jack McCaskill, Bill Thatcher, and David Wyatt. The chapter is having Moses Dillard and the Dynamic Showmen at the Legion Hut on Saturday night of Homecoming. David Berry is Brother of the Week.

From the Sigma Nu fraternity, Al Todd is engaged to Miss Mary Anne Arnett of Aiken and PC. Homecoming festivities will include Little Joe Price and the Monarchs at Barnes' Barn in Laurens from eight until twelve.

The Theta Chi fraternity initiated ten new brothers. They are Ed Dorn, Edgar Lane, Skip Taylor, Rhette Anderson, Larry Geddie, Richard Waters, John Roars, Kenny Dodds, Doug Catoe, and Fred Pratt. New pledges are Terry Alexander and Rick Patrick. The Homecoming party will be at the Greenwood Shrine Club on Lake Greenwood, featuring "Elijah and the Ebonies."

Homecoming festivities for the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity will include The Instigators Five in the fraternity suite Saturday night. All freshmen and transfer students are invited to attend. Jerry Jackson of Atlanta is a new pledge. Jerry Holland is lavaliered to Miss Phillis Mixon of U. S. C. Brothers of the Week are Rick Corley and Will Scott. Pledge of the Week is Allan Callaway.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Campus News Briefs

Military Designates Six As DMS

The Presbyterian College ROTC Battalion has named six cadets as Dinstinguished Military Students. This nonor is awarded to those cadets who display outstanding qualities of leadership, high moral character, noteworthy academic achievement, and exceptional aptitude for military service. Lt. Colonel Benjamin F. Ivey, Jr., Professor of Military Science at Presbyterian College, presented the awards to the following cadets: Robert W. Herlong of Manning; Grady A. Marshall of Atlanta, Ga.; Max Milligan, III, of Atlanta, Ga.; Howard O. Protinsky, Jr., of St. Petersburg, Fla.; James L. Ritchie, IV, of Clinton; and Roy V. Squires, III, of Macon, Ga.

COUNCIL, Cont. from Page 1.

why do they not come to their Student Council representative?

The Student Council has various committees which are concerned with student problems, and I urge each of you to go through us as a Council so that we can get constructive accomplishments rather than high-school monitoring laws and useless criticism!

SCA, Cont. from Page 1.

Talley, Woody Carter, and Carson Rhyne.

Billy Bryant, Rusty Chapman, Peter Mallory, Rickey Pennington, Stan Kemp, Ed Macomber, Laine Ligon, and Joe Dundon.

Advisors for this year are SueAnna Newsome, Benton Lutz, John Lown, and Melinda Martin.

The Freshman SCA Cabinet is in charge of the preparation of the Activities Calendar and of the SCA activities carried on in conjunction with Thornwell Orphanage. The most immediate event will be the sponsoring of a Halloween party for the orphanage.

DISCUSSION, Cont. from P. 1.

receives an order for a crime against humanity, he is responsible for it." As an example, Ingle used the three soldiers at Ft. Dix who refused to fight in Viet Nam because they considerred it a crime against humanity. Ingle said that they were abiding by the Nuremburg principle but were court-martialed nevertheless.

Ivey responded that the "three at Ft. Dix should have been shot." He said they showed no loyalty and their light sentence was a "gross injustice."

Moorefield emphasized, in response to a question, that the "personal ethic of Christ is not a universal ethic." He also said the psychology that man can become used to shooting and carry it over into public life is possible but not probable as the veterans of World War II and Korea show.

Throughout the discussion Ivey maintained that the "military is not made up of village idiots' and that "all great military leaders of our country have been Christian." He stressed that "our military is not without Christian principles.

Moorefield and Ivey agreed that the military is compatible to the intellectual life of PC.

All three agreed that the war in Viet Nam is more than just military. It is social, economic, and political, too.

YRC Sponsors Rogers

MR. JOSEPH ROGERS

The Young Republicans Club is sponsoring Joseph Rogers, Republican candidate for Governor of South Carolina, for chapel on Friday, October 14.

Ken Durkee will serve as president of the Young Republicans Club this year. The other officers were elected last Monday night and are as follows: Danny Wyatt, vice-president; Andy Phyrdas, treasurer; Buddy Williams, corresponding secretary; and David Hood, recording secretary.

BROADWAY
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7
The Plainsman
Don Murray, Guy Stockwell, and Abby Dalton
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8
King Kong vs Godzilla
MON.-TUES., OCT. 10-11
Waco
STARTS WED., OCT. 13
The Ten Commandments
Charlton Heston, Yul Brenner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Padgett and John Derek.

The PC Players will present two one-act plays on October 12 and 13. The first play, "Idea for a Play," is a British import by Richmond Tydeman. It is a comic morality filled with irony. "The Oaks of Mamre' is a prize-winning drama by James Pendelton, and will be presented second.

The plays will be presented in Belk Auditorium beginning at 8:00. Both plays will be performed both nights with a short intermission between them.

Members of the student body, faculty, administration, and interested persons from the community are urged to attend.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, October 10—Dr. Theodore Ullmann, Piano Concert.

Wednesday, October 12—Chaplain Thomas Stallworth, Guest Minister.

Friday, October 14—YRC presents Joseph Rogers, Republican Candidate for Governor of South Carolina.

Math Help Sessions

Mr. Bill Cannon of the Math Department, has announced the schedule for Math 103-104 help sessions.

Paula Evans will conduct help sessions on Mondays beginning at 2:30 p. m. and on Thursdays at 4:15 p. m. Kent Walker will conduct similar sessions on Tuesdays beginning at 2:00 p. m. All sessions will be held in Neville 101.

Mr. Cannon stressed that the sessions would begin promptly and would end at the request of the students.

Visit
LOU'S SHOPPE
Complete Line of Junior and Missie Dresses for All Occasions
207 North Broad St.
833-2472

Photo by Hood

KEN DURKEE, DR. JAMES I. SKINNER, HEINRICH V. BOORAEM, V, AND MR. WILLIAM J. McARTHUR give their views on the Republican candidates in the state elections.

The Blue Stocking
Vol. XLV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, October 14, 1966 No. 6

ADAMS, ALEXANDER, BARNES, VASS, SCOTT, COLE, SHEPPARD
PITTMAN, JOHNSON, STUMP, JARRETT, JONES, DINGLE, WEAVER

PC Players Give Two Plays; Academic Life Enhanced

By JIM LOYD
Feature Staff

Wednesday and Thursday nights a significant contribution was made to the academic life of the college. The Presbyterian College Players presented for the enjoyment of over 400 students two one-act plays.

The first, "Idea for a Play," by Richard Tydeman, a modern morality, saw a cast, inexperienced in stage technique, hampered by a play which called for more finesse to be truly effective because of its overt commentary. Even so, Rick Stall, as Education, brought life to the stage. Also, Karen Bremer as Virtue, Tim Helgeson as Producer, and Sam Hobson as Religion were effective at times.

The second play, "The Oaks of Mamre," by James D. Pendleton, enhanced by the set design of Miss Mary Ann Pennington, and fine lighting, was truly a dramatic experience. Rod Spilman as Abraham and Vicki Brown as Sarah were excellent in their roles. Mr. Spilman's hesitancy and Miss Brown's insistence showed great feeling character and also, the fruits of good directing from Dr. James L. Skinner.

The Players are to be congratulated for their contribution and thanked for the hours of hard work in these first, we hope, of several plays to be presented this year.

1966 Homecoming Features Dance, Reunions, Game And Coronation

Barbara Lewis' performance tonight in Greenville Dining Hall will kick off the Presbyterian College Homecoming activities for 1966. Chestes Mayfield and the Casuals will back her up.

CANDIDATES

Homecoming candidates will be presented at 7:45 p. m. The dance will last until around midnight. Dress will be coat-and-tie for men and casual for ladies. Fraternities will hold open parties after the dance.

The 14 Homecoming nominees are: Diane Adams, PC, SCA; Susan Alexander, Limestone College, Sigma Nu; Jeanne Barnes, Massey College, Pi Kappa Phi; Judy Ann Cole, Winthrop College, Theta Chi; Miriam Dingle, PC, Christian Vocations Club; Mary Jo Jarrett, Limestone College, Blue Key; Rose Ann Johnson, Clinton. Pi Kappa Alpha.

Also, Connie Jones, Mary Baldwin College, Alpha Sigma Phi; Carol Pittman, Mercer College. Business - Economics Association; Donna Scott, PC, ROTC Battalion; Nina Sheppard, University of South Carolina, Block P; Nancy Stump, Winthrop College, Kappa Alpha Order; Lillibet Vass, PC, Student Council; and Karen Weaver, PC, Student Entertainment Committee.

Pictures of the candidates will be on display in Douglas House today and tomorrow morning. The Student Body will vote for these candidates tomorrow morning between 9:30 a. m. and 12:15 p. m. While the Student Body is voting the candidates will be entertained with a reception in their honor in President Weersing's home at 10:30 a. m.

Fraternity displays must be completed by 11:00 a. m., Saturday. Prizes are $25 for first, $15 for second, and $10 for third.

ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

The Alumni Board of Directors will meet at 10:00 a. m. tomorrow in Belk Auditorium, followed by a barbecue under the oaks next to Belk for students, alumni, and friends. Mrs. Bowers has requested that the students begin eating at 11:00 a. m.

The annual PC Alumni Association program in Belk Auditorium at 1:00 p. m. will include the installation of the 1967 alumni officers and the presentation of the 1966 Alumni Gold P to Banks S. Hayes of Ridgewood, N. J. Association President Walter Gosnell of Spartanburg will preside, and PC President Weersing will make a report on the college. Albert W. Brice has been selected to receive PC's Alumni Service Award.

A meeting of the Walter Johnson Club, alumni athletic or-

See HOMECOMING, P. 4, Col. 3.

Miss Pennington

Art Courses Are 'Awareness Courses'

By NINA WOODY

During registration and in the week following, the campus motto at PC was: "Hey, man—why don't you take art? Have you seen that new faculty member?" Even faculty advisers displayed an inveterate propensity to place any student deemed unable to cope with the so-called "higher echelons" of academia into an art course. "Sure, baby, it will be crip."

Sure. In a recent conversation with Miss Mary Ann Pennington (she's that new faculty member, for the uninitiated) several very informative and pertinent points were brought out relating to the purpose of a Fine Arts Department at PC, the values of art courses for non-art majors, and the more obvious development necessary for establishing the newest department on our campus.

According to Miss Pennington, art has a much more important purpose in a college curriculum than we tend to realize. Art is not a vocation as such, but is rather a basic instinct for all of us, even if we feel we are not artistically talented or creative. Too few of us are aware of ourselves or of man in general. It is a means of understanding the world and ourselves, and it can be a most relaxing and pleasurable experience.

Miss Pennington stated htat one cannot have a liberal education without taking a look at the fine arts any more than one can be educated without some knowledge in the sciences and mathematics. Therefore, a liberal arts college such as PC is the place to have a Fine Arts Department.

Looking toward the future of the Fine Arts Department, Miss Pennington expressed the necessity of developing a specific art history area in the department, due to the value of this area has for those students majoring in history, which is the third most popular major at PC. She also stresed that art appreciation courses would always be taught because of their necessity in meeting education requirements, but more importantly because of their unparalleled significance as "awareness courses."

She said there is a great need to establish strong, if small, studio courses in painting, drawing, and sculpture, with possible later additions of specific courses in graphics, ceramics, crafts, and the like. Art education courses should also be established.

In summary, Presbyterian College is a more well-rounded institution due to the serious interest of the administrators and faculty members in this vital area of our liberal arts education. And, baby, it isn't crip.

Draft Test Applications Must Be In By Oct. 21

Applications for the November 18 and 19, 1966, administrations of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service board for an Application Card and a Bulletin of Information for the test.

Following instructions in the Bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAMINING SECTION, Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 988, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Applications for the test must be postmarked no later than midnight, October 21, 1966.

According to the Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. By registering early, he stands the best chance of being assigned to the test center he has chosen. Because of the possibility that he may be assigned to either of the testing dates, it is very important that he list a center and center number for each date on which he will be available.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C., 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Ass't. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor — E. Alexander Erwin, III, Mng. Editor

Mid-Semester Exams After Homecoming

The following quote is an excerpt from an editorial written by Bob Phifer in the November 2, 1963, issue of The Blue Stocking:

'The Blue Stocking would like to do its part in helping to hang either the faculty, the administration, perhaps some student committee, or the athletic department. We say either for we only want to have the guilty party hanged, and we don't know who's guilty.

"But someone is guilty of almost gross inconsideration and unthoughtfulness in making out this year's schedule. Mid-semester exams are the week after Homecoming Week-end. And we protest utterly."

It has been almost three years since the above statement was made, and the conflict is still with us.

Through investigation, The Blue Stocking has learned the procedure by which the date is selected for Homecoming, and it seems that the crux of the problem is here.

From the outset, since Homecoming is a home game, allowance must be made for two other important home games—Youth Day and Parents' Day. These must be two games which do not attract too large a following in order that guests might be accommodated. The Alumni Association, with the help of an Alumni Office, then must choose a date for Homecoming from the remaining home games, excluding the every-other-year Thanksgiving tilt with Newberry, of course.

Dr. Gettys, Academic Dean, is in charge of the scheduling of mid-semester exams. Mid-semester exams, as the name implies, should fall half-way through the semester; and they are scheduled with his fact in mind.

One argument against the possible re-scheduling of mid-semester exams is that if a student is keeping abreast of his studies he should need no extra time or rest period before beginning a series of tests. But some students are carrying such a load of academic subjects and are involved in a number of extra-curicular activities that someone has to direct that extra time is needed.

The fact is that after a week-end, such as Homecoming, the environment on the campus is just not conducive to studying. In other words a person just does not feel like studying, both physically and mentally. A perusal of phychology books will lend a support to the fact that fatigue works against learning.

It seems that the real problem rests on a matter of poor coordination between the Alumni Association and Alumni Office on the one hand, and the Academic Dean's office on the other.

In interviews with both of these organizations this past week The Blue Stocking learned that both of these offices are willing to cooperate and improve their coordination. All that is left now is for this coordination to take place.

Supporting Staff

Business Manager	Joe Stevens
News Editor	Rush Otey
Copy Editor	Tony Dendy
Sports Editor	Bill Bassham
Feature Editor	Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor	Richard Smart
Movie Editor	Christie Patterson
Assistant News Editor	Ray Combs
Assistant Sports Editor	Gene Sullivan
Assistant Feature Editor	Karen Weaver
Circulation Manager	Robert Gualteri
Cartoonists	Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Typists	Carolyn Colby, Mavis Harrop

November Deed Uncovered

By JIM LOYD

It would be nice, indeed, to have a quote from the College Catalogue to begin, then to let the mighty pen speed forth on the page to make a bombastic protest on some phase of current Presbyterian College life, such as some heinous sin which the Administration has committed; some terror in the faculty's judgment; some ridiculous treatment of students by irate citizens of Clinton; poor campus living conditions; the food in the dining hall; required chapel; "sin, sex, and Sunday school"; lack of attendance at intellectually stimulating lectures by intellectually stimulating lecturers; required ROTC for freshmen and sophomores; lack of "school spirit" at athletic contests; increased requirements for graduation; non-standardized grading scales; current political issues; "Is God Dead?"; the "cut" system; dating rules for co-eds; the apathy of the student body; Saturday classes; and an endless string of other topics.

Let me here take a few words to caution the reader not to become discouraged with what he has read thus far. This is not a protest against protest, rather it is itself a protest of the greatest magnitude and which might have far-reaching influence on the lives of everyone on the campus, or for that matter everyone even remotely connected with the college. Please, as the reader, do yourself the favor of continuing.

And now, to the matter. It was this author's good fortune to overhear, quite by accident, of course, and even unknown to the parties involved, of a deed which will take place at the first good opportunity (November being hinted at by the above-mentioned parties).

This deed will have the support of a small faction of Bible-carrying, ranting, teeth-gnashing pedants intent on making our small community a better place in which to live. They will gather together on the night preceding the first full moon of the month of November in a nearby open field. Here, I heard, at twelve o'clock they will draw a mystical symbol on the ground, step into it en masse, and conjure up a suitable angel to aid them in their appointed task. They will all cut the second finger of their right hands, hold them aloft, and let the blood fall into the circle. Then they will join hands with the cut fingers sticking up, move out of the circle, and leave the field. Then, they will move toward the deed. I must confess that I don't know much more about the deed than what I overheard, and I haven't done much research to find out the exact nature of the deed, but it must surely be an evil one.

Now is the time to end student apathy! Now is the time for student committees to study the problem, for debates between student and faculty to determine what action to take, for The Blue Stocking to publish flaming editorials. Now is the time to put the minor problems I listed earlier into the background. Anyway, these other problems are insignificant when compared to this horrid November deed.

Let's investigate the November deed!

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"THESE TESTS INDICATE YOU SHOULD BE VERY SUCCESSFUL AS A MOTHER AND HOMEMAKER."

Dear Mary, Dear John

'Frankly, I Don't Love You Anymore'

Wednesday, Oct. 12

Dear Mary,

I don't mean to upset you, but you'd better sit down. I've been doing a lot of thinking this week, and it just won't work. I hope that you will realize from the first that I'm not trying to hurt you, but that I'm doing this because I think it will be better for both of us this way.

Mary, to be perfectly frank, I don't love you any more. I am asking that you send back the ring. I feel that we are no longer compatable, and that there is no use for us to go on.

There have been many indications that have made me realize this, but the crowning blow was at the Freshman Mixer over here when you spilled that damned drink all over yourself. I was so embarrassed! All my fraternity brothers are still giving me a rough time about it.

I know you can't help it if you are clumsy, because I know your parents; but if you get so flustered at a dance that you can't control yourself, just think how things would be if we ever had children.

And so, Mary, I really can't explain how I feel, but I really don't see any use in trying. Because you are so sweet and understanding I know you won't be hurt, but will see that I'm doing this for both of us.

I'm really sorry this happened at Homecoming, but you know what we've always said about being honest with each other. If you would like for me to get you another date, I will be glad to, because I want to do anything I can to make you happy.

I want you to know that the past seven years have been the happiest of my life because of you. I will never forget all the wonderful times we've had, and, Mary, I would like to leave you with this little poem which expresses my sincerest wishes for your future:

May you always walk in sunshine,
May your wildest dreams come true,
May you find someone to love you.

Sincerely,
Johnny.

Dear John,

I don't mean to upset you, but you'd better sit down.

I feel sort of funny writing this so late, but I feel I must be honest with you and trust you to understand how I feel. I want you to know how much our relationship has meant to me. I'll never forget the good times we have shared; but John, to be perfectly frank, I don't love you anymore.

Several incidents this year have convinced me that we were not made for each other. For instance, at the freshman dance where you spilled that full drink all over my brand new dress! That was embarrassing to me! I hadn't realized the full extent of your clumsiness, although the time you closed my hand in the car door was an indication. It was bad enough having to dance all night in a smelly soaking dress, but the stain never came out. To make matters worse, you stepped all over my feet while we were dancing, and my feet are not exceptionally large! And your pointed nose left a dent in my cheek.

I'm sure I know you well enough to know that you will take my criticism without being offended, and that you are too sweet and wonderful a person to lose any of your love for me because of it.

Our seven years together have meant more to me than I can ever tell you. I will gladly send back your ring (unless you want me to have it put on my charm bracelet) and the baby picture of you in the bathtub. Please call on me if you ever need me; you know that I would do anything for you. I can fix you up with my roommate this weekend if you like. She has a great personality.

Keep your chin up and please write as soon as you get this letter.

Sincerely,
Mary

CAROLINAS CONFERENCE STANDINGS

	CONFERENCE				OVERALL
Lenoir Rhyne	3	0	0	1.000	4	0	0	1.000
Newberry	2	1	0	.667	3	1	0	.667
Appalachian	2	2	0	.500	2	2	0	.500
PRESBYTERIAN	1	1	0	.500	2	2	0	.500
Guilford	1	1	0	.500	2	2	0	.500
Catawba	1	1	0	.500	2	2	0	.500
W. Carolina	1	2	0	.333	2	2	0	.500
Elon	0	3	0	.000	0	4	0	.000

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS

PRESBYTERIAN 21	ELON 0
Lenoir Rhyne—28	Appalachian 7
Catawba—24	Western Carolina 7
Newberry 38	Frederick 0
Sanford	Guilford 7

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

DAVIDSON AT PRESBYTERIANN
Wofford at Newberry
Appalachian at Catawba
Guilford at Lenoir Rhyne
Emory and Henry at Western Carolina

PiKA-SIGMA NU TILT Ended In A Penetration Play-off: Action Such As Chalgren's Pass Defense Was Common.

PiKA's Retain IM Lead In Win Over Sigma Nu's

By GENE SULLIVAN

The fast, hard-hitting PiKA's retained their lead on first place this week as they successfully fought off a determined Sigma Nu bid for a slim 7-6 margin. Victory came in a penetration play-off after each team had tied, 6-6, at the end of the game. End Reed Bolick came up with a clutch fourth-down catch to spark the Pika comeback. The determined Sigma Nu's score came on a plunge by Art Sammons late in the game.

Earlier in the week the Sigma Nu's had penetration problems, this time with the Alpha Sigs. Again the Nu's played well enough to win, but the Al Calloway pass to Rick Corley proved their undoing.

The Theta Chi's were on the rebound and caught the sleeping Alpha Sigs 20-19 in a wild scoring duel as Cecil McClary and Gene Bowie lowered the boom on the Sigs.

The Independent Bandits got back in the win column by trouncing the Theta Chi's 26-0 as the Bandit defense picked off eight passes and returned two for touchdowns. Mr. Stallworth, Charlie Breedlove, and the "Bull" Larry Bullis all had two interceptions.

Kappa Alpha Order trounced Vetville 18-8 on the catches of Eddie Miller, Joe Gettys, and Brownie Johnson. The KA's found the answer to their quarterback troubles in David Berry as he ran for one and passed for two touchdowns.

The Calvert House got in the win column by downing the Pi Kapps 35-32. Don Taylor scored three and Minnesota took one in for the losers; but they couldn't match the Calvert House bombs.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Hose Meet Davidson Tomorrow In Annual Battle of Presbyterians

By MIKE SIMONS

The "Dirty Thirty" of Davidson invade Johnson Field tomorrow to meet the Presbyterian College Blue Hose in the Homecoming game for PC.

Dubbed the "Dirty Thirty" because they have only 30 men on the squad, the Wildcats have nevertheless managed to field a creditable team in their second year under Coach Homer Smith. [illegible] but the Hose have [illegible] and [illegible] to pull off an upset, coming into the game fresh from a 21-6 victory over Elon. PC now stands 2-2 overall, while the Wildcats are 1-2.

[illegible] on the rebound after [illegible] loping at the hands of a powerful East Carolina squad last weekend. Last year Davidson opened their season with a 35-0 rout of the Hose, but this was before the Blue had Bill Kirtland to call the signals. This season [illegible] at the helm, last year's [illegible] could have [illegible] twist.

[illegible] Hose running attack really got going with 227 yards gained on the ground. Dan Eckstein has been the streak for the Hose, with Sam Williams and Jim Johnson being the "bread-and-butter" men.

Although the 40-7 score ran up against Davidson last week indicates a complete rout, the Wildcats played surprisingly well for such a score. Quarterback Jimmy Poole, working from a multiple-T formation, completed 30 passes out of 50 attempts for 291 yards, all school records.

Conceding on the outside [illegible] the game, Davidson's Smith said, "We're pretty well beaten up physically, but the [illegible] attitude of our squad remains up for this game, and we're in [illegible] to work pretty good physical shape. The [illegible] back on the right track.

PC's head coach, Cully Gault, [illegible] but this to [illegible]

Bill Kirtland

Inexperienced Soccer Team Defeated By Clemson, 3-2

[illegible] Trailing for 87 minutes, a favored Clemson team scored a goal in the last three minutes to defeat a determined Presbyterian team, 3-2.

Losing 2-1 in the fourth quarter, Clemson substituted their starting 11 players with the [illegible] defeated Georgia Tech and Bel[illegible] the 90-minute game, while Clemson used 25 took advantage of a tired PC men. The PC team had had one squad, and scored two goals in [illegible] organized practice before the [illegible] match, while the Clemson team [illegible] weekly for five weeks.

PC's first goal was scored by [illegible] match is against the same Juan Amaya in the first quarter. After a halftime tie of 1-1, Juan Amaya scored the sec[illegible] at PC.

BILL

Bassham Praises School Spirit

[illegible] I am not trying to tear this group down, but do wish that they would not be so original and would stick to the more familiar.

[illegible] best spirit ever exhibited at this school.

[illegible] who deserves all the praise this column can give. Colonel Ben Ivey and Dr. Fred Chapman [illegible] students which is truly something to behold. It is seldom that a faculty member gets praise in the paper but to these gentlemen, I [illegible] body.

The signs however interpreted by some people are a real sign of spirit. This spirit has to be held through the whole season and not fade with Sunday morning's headaches.

[illegible] mark in my mind is PC's "chorus line" cheerleaders. I hope all the basses and tenors sit in the appropriate part of the cheering sections. Whatever happened to the old yells that everyone knows?

I realize that these people work long and hard, but the spirit could definitely be increased if the cheerleaders would stick to cheers that the student body knows so [illegible] job in the spirit buildup. This group also deserves thanks.

The football team, led by captains [illegible] James Smith, have the team in high spirits and are out to "take the Cats." Coach Billy [illegible] the-cuff remarks at the bonfire.

The pep band under the direction of Bobby McBee has added much to the pep rallies this year.

The odds-makers say that we are 15-point underdogs to Davidson, but the forecasters do not deal with the intangibles such as spirit. It is rather hard to attempt to measure school spirit, but if it could be measured it would be at a high ebb for the [illegible] with the spirit that has been evident all [illegible]

Beat Hell out of Davidson!

Campus News Briefs

Pressau's Music Articles Published

Two articles on church music by Rev. Jack Pressau, associate professor of psychology and religion at Presbyterian College, have appeared in recent issue of religious publications.

His article on "Music in Worship" has been published in The Pulpit, while anothetr entitled "Worship and Hymn Comprehension," was carried in The Hymn. In these he drew upon his broad interest in church music, including the leadership of a presbytery workshop and the subject of his doctoral dissertation.

Dr. Pressau joined the PC faculty last September after receivng his PhD from the University of Pittsburgh. He earned his BS in music education from Indiana State Teachers College and also is a graduate of Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminary and the Presbyterian School of Christian Education.

Vocational Guidance Week Is Oct. 23-29

The National Vocational Guidance Association is sponsoring for the first time National Vocational Guidance Week during the week of October 23-29, 1966.

The theme for this observance is "Reach for Tomorrow —Through Vocational Guidance." The theme highlights the importance of having aspirations toward which one can grow. It suggests that choosing a career is an important decising, worthy of thought and planning for realization tomorrow.

The students enrolled in Psychology 401, Principles of Guidance, taught by Mrs. Robert Johnson at PC, are planning several activities in an effort to inform more people in Laurens County as to the potentials of the available guidance services. The group has the following activities under consideration:

(1) Contacting the mayors of Clinton and Laurens to request that they proclaim the week of October 23-29 National Vocational Guidance Week.

(2) Posters placed in public places.

(3) Spot announcements on radio stations.

(4) Vignettes on the radio.

(5) Publicity in Laurens, Clinton, and Greenville newspapers.

Dr. Claude H. Cooler, Chairman of the Department of Psychology and Director of Guidance at PC, is serving as chairman of the week for Laurens County.

BROADWAY Theatre
MON.-TUES.-WED.
OCTOBER 17-19
"What Did You Do In The War, Daddy?"

Visit
LOU'S SHOPPE
Complete Line of Junior and Missie Dresses for All Occasions
207 North Broad St.
833-2472

Student Council Reports

By BOB WARREN

Since we do not have an effect any more, I hesitate to write anything this week: however, I feel that students need to know more explicitly how ineffective the Student Council is.

One of the "ineffective" committes that deserves special praise is the Student Entertainment Committee headed by Larry Yonce. Big name entertainment has finally arrived at PC with the appearance of Barbara Lewis tonight, and the committee is leargely responsible for this event. Preparation for a successful Homecoming has been accomplished by the committee with the help and work of the Sophomore Class officers. Campus movies are also the responsibility of this same committee, which is a part of the Student Government Association and which is chosen by the Student Council.

Unfortunately, the Student Council cannot please everyone all of the time, but we are willing to try. If you are in agreement with the editor of the newspaper, and think that the Council is not effective, then it is your responsibility to inform your class representatives of your ideas to improve the effectiveness of the Student Council.

Paper Flakes Out

With this issue of The Blue Stocking the presses will cease to roll until October 28. The mid-semester exams and other academic pursuits disrupt the usual continuity of events to render an earlier publication impossible.

Student Employment

Any student who is interested in part-time employment in such areas as the dining hall or other types of student employment is requested to contact the Student Employment Office, headed by Mr. Daniluk and located in the Administration Building. Information is also available regarding jobs in the surrounding community.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, October 17—Mr. H. H. Chapman: "Redistricting the State." Mr. Chapman is the author of the Congressional District Reapportionment legislation which was enacted at the last legislative session.

Wednesday, October 19—Rev. Hugh Eichelberger, guest minister.

Friday, October 21—Bob Warren and Student Council.

Photos by Hood

ROD SPILMAN AND VICKI BROWN Had Lead Roles In "The Oaks of Mamre." Presented Wednesday And Thursday Of This Week.

Movie Review

"The Spiral Road" will be shown on Friday, October 21, in Richardson Science Hall at 7:00 p. m. It stars Rock Hudson, Burl Ives, Gene Rowland, and Geoffrey Keen.

This adventure shows the moral and spiritual regeneration of a young doctor who learns in the depths of the East Indian jungles that faith, compassion, and love of one's fellow man can motivate a life of service.

Hudson goes to Dutch Guinea to study tropical medicine under the tutelage of the legendary Dr. Jansen, played by Burl Ives. Hudson encounters leper colonies and a personal conflict with the forces of voodoo in the dark jungle.

The Greeks

By RICHARD SMART

As the fraternities prepare for the coming weekend, their ranks are filled with anticipation and enthusiasm for both campus and fraternity activities. Without this contribution, and the feeling it lends to the campus, PC would be as New Orleans without Mardi Gras. Yet there always remains a certain element which views the fraternity system as a past mistake and a present evil. This view usually grows out of a pseudo-intellectualism which attempts to shed all traces of any group or groups which might tend to indulge "excessively" in the extra-curricular activities. This was recently exemplified by an excerpt from Valerais, Indiana, which stated that, as a key to eliminating the trivial and anti-intellectual character of fraternities' activities.

The presidents of the social fraternities are working for a complete split in their nationals by the end of this semester. Doubts were expressed that their chapters served any positive purpose on campus. The validity of this statement, however, depends on one's definition of a positive purpose.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The Snakes have recently acquired four new tables and five new lamps, by way of Gramps. Their homecoming representative is Miss Susan Alexander, alleged Miss America of 1966. Her escort will be the illustrious Willy Buckwheat. The parties for Homecoming will be held Friday and Saturday nights—Friday at the house between 12 and 2. Saturday's festivities will be highlighted by the music of Little Joe Price and the Monarchs, at Barnes' Barn. Directions will be posted on the campus bulletin boards. Chuck Sharman of Decatur, Georgia, has recently joined the fold.

The Theta Chi's issue a cordial invitation to all freshmen and transfer students to attend their drop-in after Homecoming game, and their party Saturday night at the Greenwood Shrine Club on Lake Greenwood. Entertainment Saturday night will be provided by "Elijah and the Ebonies." Maps will be posted in the goes to Brother George Latimer. The Theta's Homecoming spondining hall and fraternity suite. The Brown Helmet Award sor is Miss Judy Cole of Winthrop College.

Brothers and pledges of the Order would like to extend an invitation to all freshmen and transfer students to attend their party at the Legion Hut on Saturday night from eight until twelve. Moses Dillard and the Dynamic Showmen will provide the entertainment. Brother Roy Squires, with his able-bodied committee, has just completed a patch job on the shed for Homecoming. This weekend is most eventful for Brother Christie Patterson. It is the first time in Christie's college career that he does not have a blind date. The chapter would like to thank Brother John Gaw for his excellent Homecoming display. Joe Gettys is "yo yo" of the week. New blood has been added to the "Order" with the recent induction of Happy Jack McCaskill, David Wyatt, Bob Hope, and Onion Thatcher.

Pi Kappa Phi's announce their festivities for the coming weekend which will be highlighted by the Marvelles. The action will occur from 8:30 to 12:00 within the confines of their fraternity suite. Brother Tom Barnett is lavaliered to Miss Connie Wesson. David Templeton gets Brother-of-the-Week due to the honor of portraying the fighting Blue Hose. The boys have further alleged that the "Pi Kapp Raiders" are on the prowl. It should really be on!

Alpha Sigma Phi, in preparation for Homecoming, has installed a new bar. Cokes will be served. Their weekend will be kicked off Friday night with a party from twelve until two. Saturday afternoon they will hold a drop-in after the game, followed up by a party from eight until twelve featuring the "Instigators Five." Miss Connie Jones, of Mary Baldwin, will do the honors for the Alpha Sigs. Recently pinned is Brother Morrow Thompson to Willie Davis of Los Angeles, California.

The PiKA's will enjoy the entertainment provided by the James Gang from 8 until 12 at the Mary Musgrove Saturday night. The intramural squad added another notch to a yet undefeated season as they defeated the Sigma Nu's Thursday. Don Blanchard was recently pinned to another Winthrop contribution. Brother Donovan recently led an anti-chapel demonstration, the success of which is yet undetermined. He received a reprimand from the "Judicial" Council. We wish to express our regrets to Mr. Charles Chapman on the recent demise of his father. Homecoming sponsor will be Mrs. Rose Ann Johnson, escorted by Dan Montgomery. Brothers of the Week are Reed Bolick and Otto Protinsky for their contributions in the recent game.

HOMECOMING

ganization, will follow immediately after the Alumni Association program. President Claude Crocker of Clinton, will preside.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 the Blue Hose fill face the Davidson Wildcats in their annual grudge match. Homecoming Queen will be crowned during half-time ceremonies, and the awards for the best fraternity displays will also be given.

POST-GAME ACTIVITIES

Homecoming week-end for the alumni will be concluded by open house in the Greenville Dining Hall beginning at 5:00 p. m. Fraternity suites will also be open for guests. All fraternities are planning to have open parties Saturday night.

1959 FIAT FOR A DOLLAR!
RED AND WHITE — RADIO AND HEATER
Drawing Wednesday, Oct. 26, 3:00 P. M., at MASON'S GULF, Intersection of Highways 56 and 72.
TICKETS ON SALE FOR $1.00
See Allan Callaway, Rick Corley, or Eddie Madden

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday October 28, 1966 | No. 7

THIS ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of Georgia Hall was presented by Six Associates, Inc., of Asheville.

Georgia Hall

Federal Loan Helps Build Residence Hall

Presbyterian College is preparing to take bids on its proposed new men's dormitory, Georgia Hall, after receiving authorization for a $1 million housing loan from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Earlier this week, President Marc C. Weersing said that official word had recently been received that $1,020,000 is being reserved for PC under the government's program of assistance to higher education. Dr. Weersing added:

"The board of trustees last year authorized the college to make application for a Federal loan for our proposed new men's residence hall. In view of the approval now received for reservation of funds, we are moving ahead to take bids on November 8. When the bids are in hand, the trustee committee on finance and budget, and physical development will make further study and recommendations."

President Weersing pointed out there is the possibility that construction could get underway thereafter, with a view toward having the building ready for use next August.

The name Georgia Hall designates this structure as one major objective of the campaign now underway among Georgia Presbyterians to accumulate additional funds.

FACILITIES

The new dormitory will be "T-shaped" and will be located on the west plaza across Adair Street from Spencer Dormitory. The four-floored building will house 250 students. This will enable almost all men students to live on campus.

Located centrally on the campus, the dormitory will be close to Neville, the future library-classroom building, and Leroy Springs Gymnasium. It will be halfway between Belk Auditorium and Greenville Dining Hall.

The entire building will be centrally air-conditioned and heated. Two men will occupy each room. The rooms will be in two-room suites connected by baths. There will be one elevator primarily for use to the fourth floor.

Each of the four floors will have a lounge equipped with a television. There will be a recreation area in the attic and also on the first floor. The basement will contain a self-service laundromat for the use of the student body. Vending machines and a mail room will be located on the first floor. These facilities will relieve the strain on Douglas House.

Hershey Defends Use of Grades In Evaluating Students for Draft

By DAVID SHERIFF
The Collegiate Press Service

Washington (CPS)—For many students this will be the last term. As the war in Viet Nam broadens, and few doubt that it will, an increasing number of former students are going to be toting rifles.

Already the I-A men are in short supply. Seventy thousand men between the ages of 26 and 34 were tapped for their physicals at the end of September. Even if calls stay at their present level, which is ten times the draft rate of the winter of 1965, all those 26 to 34 found qualified will probably be inducted, according to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of the Selective Service System.

But the pickings are slim, and Hershey expects that over two-thirds of the age 26 to 34 men will not pass their physicals. The one-and-one-half million college students now deferred constitute the next large group of men.

Just how much stiffer is it going to get? That all depends on how much further the war escalates, Hershey said in a recent interview.

Coming to the November elections, many of the official predictions on Viet Nam are optimistic. During the last year, however, the count of U. S. military personnel has increased from 2,686,000 to 3,184,000. Defense Department officials have added that the build-up will continue at that rate unless there is a change in the war.

Two years ago the I-A manpower pool was large, calls were reduced, and the Selective Service was looking for excuses to defer students, according to Hershey. Now local boards are harder pressed, and they are carefully evaluating individual performance — drafting those who fail to make Selective Service grades.

Part-time students are no longer deferred, and many State Boards have been requiring students to carry a full schedule to be defined as "full time." Previously, students were often allowed to carry three-quarters of a normal year's load and were still considered full time. Now boards are asking their 2-S registrants to complete one-fourth of a four-year program each year.

While Selective Service policy has not considered a student's choice of major or field in reviewing his deferment, Hershey indicated that this may not always be the case.

The judgment of individuals on the local level is often quite independent, he said, and "if the need gets tighter . . . the public understands much better what you do with an engineer than with a liberal arts" major.

Students who have taken a year out of school, for any reason, have had trouble getting their deferments back since last fall. Class rankings became available to the local boards

See DRAFT, Page 4, Col. 3.

Professor Crane of Duke Will Talk Monday on India

Professor Robert I. Crane of the Department of History of Duke University, will speak on Monday, October 31, at 10:00 a. m. in Belk Auditorium. The subject of his address will be "Problems of India Since Independence."

Professor Crane was born in Delhi, India. He received the A.B. degree from Duke University, the M.A. from American University, and the Ph.D. from Yale University. He has held teaching positions at the University of Chicago, the University of Michigan, and since 1961 has been Professor of History at Duke University.

In 1962 he was a visiting professor at the University of Calcutta. He has served as Secretary and as a member of the Board of Directors of the Association for Asian Studies.

At present he holds the following positions: Chairman, Joint Committee on Asian Studies, American Council of Learned Societies and Social Science Research Council: Executive Committee, American Institute of Indian Studies; Advisory Board, Dictionary of Indian Nationalist Biographies Project; Editor, Journal of Asian Studies. He has also published numerous articles and books on the subject of India.

Following his address, Professor Crane will meet with students, faculty, and interested persons for further discussion.

N.A.A.C.P. General Counsel Will Speak Monday Night

The PC Human Relations Club is sponsoring a speech by Negro lawyer, Matthew J. Perry, on Monday night, October 31, at 7:30 p. m. in Richardson Hall. Mr. Perry, the South Carolina General Counsel of the N. A. A. C. P., is noted throughout the South as an outsanding speaker and leader in civil rights.

Mr. Perry wil speak on the subject of the Negro in civil rights movements in South Carolina.

The South Carolina Republican Party has accused Mr. Perry and former Governor Ernest F. (Fritz) Hollings with making a "deal" for the Negro vote in the forthcoming general election to be held on November 8.

Following Mr. Perry's speech, the floor will be open, as usual, for any questions concerning politics, civil rights, or any other issues.

Mr. Perry will represent a somewhat different point of view than the Human Relations Club's last speaker, KKK Grand Dragon, Robert Scoggin, represented.

The HRC welcomes all students, faculty, and administrative personnel to his program and other programs to be held in the future.

Photo by Hood

THE TUG OF WAR, a featured event in the ROTC Field Day, pits brains and rhythm against weight and muscle, with the smaller agile team usually winning.

Teachers' Exam Schedule Released

The Naional Teachers' Exam Schedule for this year has been received by Dr. McGuire, Associate Professor of Education. Dates of these exams are: January 7, 1967; March 18, 1967; July 1, 1967; and October 7, 1967. Respective deadlines are: December 9, 1966; February 17, 1967; June 2, 1967; and September 8, 1967.

The exams will be administered all over the state, with all schedules open to all candidates without restrictions. For the special Bulletin of Information and the Registration Form for South Carolina candidates see Dr. McGuire.

Campus News Briefs

Pressau's Music Articles Published

Two articles on church music by Rev. Jack Pressau, associate professor of psychology and religion at Presbyterian College, have apeared in recent issus of religious publications.

His article on "Music in Worship" has been published in The Pulpit, while anothetr entitled "Worship and Hymn Comprehension," was carried in The Hymn. In these he drew upon his broad interest in church music, including the leadership of a presbytery workshop and the subject of his doctoral dissertation.

Dr. Pressau joined the PC faculty last September after receivng his PhD from the University of Pittsburgh. He earned his BS in music education from Indiana State Teachers College and also is a graduate of Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminary and the Presbyterian School of Christian Education.

Vocational Guidance Week Is Oct. 23-29

The National Vocational Guidance Association is sponsoring for the first time National Vocational Guidance Week during the week of October 23-29, 1966.

The theme for this observance is "Reach for Tomorrow —Through Vocational Guidance." The theme highlights the importance of having aspirations toward which one can grow. It suggests that choosing a career is an important decising, worthy of thought and planning for realization tomorrow.

The students enrolled in Psychology 401, Principles of Guidance, taught by Mrs. Robert Johnson at PC, are planning several activities in an effort to inform more people in Laurens County as to the potentials of the available guidance services. The group has the following activities under consideration:

(1) Contacting the mayors of Clinton and Laurens to request that they proclaim the week of October 23-29 National Vocational Guidance Week.

(2) Posters placed in public places.

(3) Spot announcements on radio stations.

(4) Vignettes on the radio.

(5) Publicity in Laurens, Clinton, and Greenville newspapers.

Dr. Claude H. Cooler, Chairman of the Department of Psychology and Director of Guidance at PC, is serving as chairman of the week for Laurens County.

Student Council Reports

By BOB WARREN

Since we do not have an effect any more, I hesitate to write anything this week; however, I feel that students need to know more explicitly how ineffective the Student Council is.

One of the "ineffective" committes that deserves special praise is the Student Entertainment Committee headed by Larry Yonce. Big name entertainment has finally arrived at PC with the appearance of Barbara Lewis tonight, and the committee is leargely responsible for this event. Preparation for a successful Homecoming has been accomplished by the committee with the help and work of the Sophomore Class officers. Campus movies are also the responsibility of this same committee, which is a part of the Student Government Association and which is chosen by the Student Council.

Unfortunately, the Student Council cannot please everyone all of the time, but we are willing to try. If you are in agreement with the editor of the newspaper, and think that the Council is not effective, then it is your responsibility to inform your class representatives of your ideas to improve the effectiveness of the Student Council.

Paper Flakes Out

With this issue of The Blue Stocking the presses will cease to roll until October 28. The mid-semester exams and other academic pursuits disrupt the usual continuity of events to render an earlier publication impossible.

Student Employment

Any student who is interested in part-time employment in such areas as the dining hall or other types of student employment is requested to contact the Student Employment Office, headed by Mr. Daniluk and located in the Administration Building. Information is also available regarding jobs in the surrounding community.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, October 17—Mr. H. H. Chapman: "Redistricting the State." Mr. Chapman is the author of the Congressional District Reapportionment legislation which was enacted at the last legislative session.

Wednesday, October 19—Rev. Hugh Eichelberger, guest minister.

Friday, October 21—Bob Warren and Student Council.

Photos by Hood

ROD SPILMAN AND VICKI BROWN Had Lead Roles In "The Oaks of Mamre," Presented Wednesday And Thursday Of This Week.

Movie Review

"The Spiral Road" will be shown on Friday, October 21, in Richardson Science Hall at 7:00 p. m. It stars Rock Hudson, Burl Ives, Gene Rowland, and Geoffrey Keen.

This adventure shows the moral and spiritual regeneration of a young doctor who learns in the depths of the East Indian jungles that faith, compassion, and love of one's fellow man can motivate a life of service.

Hudson goes to Dutch Guinea to study tropical medicine under the tutelage of the legendary Dr. Jansen, played by Burl Ives. Hudson encounters leper colonies and a personal conflict with the forces of voodoo in the dark jungle.

HOMECOMING

ganization, will follow immediately after the Alumni Association program. President Claude Crocker of Clinton, will preside.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 the Blue Hose fill face the Davidson Wildcats in their annual grudge match. Homecoming Queen will be crowned during half-time ceremonies, and the awards for the best fraternity displays will also be given.

POST-GAME ACTIVITIES

Homecoming week-end for the alumni will be concluded by open house in the Greenville Dining Hall beginning at 5:00 p. m. Fraternity suites will also be open for guests. All fraternities are planning to have open parties Saturday night.

BROADWAY Theatre

MON.-TUES.-WED.
OCTOBER 17-19
"What Did You Do In The War, Daddy?"

Visit
LOU'S SHOPPE
Complete Line of Junior and Missie Dresses for All Occasions
207 North Broad St.
833-2472

The Greeks

By RICHARD SMART

As the fraternities prepare for the coming weekend, their ranks are filled with anticipation and enthusiasm for both campus and fraternity activities. Without this contribution, and the feeling it lends to the campus, PC would be as New Orleans without Mardi Gras. Yet there always remains a certain element which views the fraternity system as a past mistake and a present evil. This view usually grows out of a pseudo-intellectualism which attempts to shed all traces of any group or groups which might tend to indulge "excessively" in the extra-curricular activities. This was recently exemplified by an excerpt from Valerais, Indiana, which stated that, as a key to eliminating the trivial and anti-intellectual character of fraternities' activities.

The presidents of the social fraternities are working for a complete split in their nationals by the end of this semester. Doubts were expressed that their chapters served any positive purpose on campus. The validity of this statement, however, depends on one's definition of a positive purpose.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The Snakes have recently acquired four new tables and five new lamps, by way of Gramps. Their homecoming representative is Miss Susan Alexander, alleged Miss America of 1966. Her escort will be the illustrious Willy Buckwheat. The parties for Homecoming will be held Friday and Saturday nights—Friday at the house between 12 and 2. Saturday's festivities will be highlighted by the music of Little Joe Price and the Monarchs, at Barnes' Barn. Directions will be posted on the campus bulletin boards. Chuck Sharman of Decatur, Georgia, has recently joined the fold.

The Theta Chi's issue a cordial invitation to all freshmen and transfer students to attend their drop-in after Homecoming game, and their party Saturday night at the Greenwood Shrine Club on Lake Greenwood. Entertainment Saturday night will be provided by "Elijah and the Ebonies." Maps will be posted in the goes to Brother George Latimer. The Theta's Homecoming spondining hall and fraternity suite. The Brown Helmet Award sor is Miss Judy Cole of Winthrop College.

Brothers and pledges of the Order would like to extend an invitation to all freshmen and transfer students to attend their party at the Legion Hut on Saturday night from eight until twelve. Moses Dillard and the Dynamic Showmen will provide the entertainment. Brother Roy Squires, with his able-bodied committee, has just completed a patch job on the shed for Homecoming. This weekend is most eventful for Brother Christie Patterson. It is the first time in Christie's college career that he does not have a blind date. The chapter would like to thank Brother John Gaw for his excellent Homecoming display. Joe Gettys is "yo yo" of the week. New blood has been added to the "Order" with the recent induction of Happy Jack McCaskill, David Wyatt, Bob Hope, and Onion Thatcher.

Pi Kappa Phi's announce their festivities for the coming weekend which will be highlighted by the Marvelles. The action will occur from 8:30 to 12:00 within the confines of their fraternity suite. Brother Tom Barnett is lavaliered to Miss Connie Wesson. David Templeton gets Brother-of-the-Week due to the honor of portraying the fighting Blue Hose. The boys have further alleged that the "Pi Kapp Raiders" are on the prowl. It should really be on!

Alpha Sigma Phi, in preparation for Homecoming, has installed a new bar. Cokes will be served. Their weekend will be kicked off Friday night with a party from twelve until two. Saturday afternoon they will hold a drop-in after the game, followed up by a party from eight until twelve featuring the "Instigators Five." Miss Connie Jones, of Mary Baldwin, will do the honors for the Alpha Sigs. Recently pinned is Brother Morrow Thompson to Willie Davis of Los Angeles, California.

The PiKA's will enjoy the entertainment provided by the James Gang from 8 until 12 at the Mary Musgrove Saturday night, The intramural squad added another notch to a yet undefeated season as they defeated the Sigma Nu's Thursday. Don Blanchard was recently pinned to another Winthrop contribution. Brother Donovan recently led an anti-chapel demonstration, the success of which is yet undetermined. He received a reprimand from the "Judicial" Council. We wish to express our regrets to Mr. Charles Chapman on the recent demise of his father. Homecoming sponsor will be Mrs. Rose Ann Johnson, escorted by Dan Montgomery. Brothers of the Week are Reed Bolick and Otto Protinsky for their contributions in the recent game.

1959 FIAT FOR A DOLLAR!
RED AND WHITE — RADIO AND HEATER
Drawing Wednesday, Oct. 26, 3:00 P. M., at MASON'S GULF, Intersection of Highways 56 and 72.
TICKETS ON SALE FOR $1.00
See Allan Callaway, Rick Corley, or Eddie Madden

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday October 28, 1966 | No. 7

THIS ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of Georgia Hall was presented by Six Associates, Inc., of Asheville.

Georgia Hall

Federal Loan Helps Build Residence Hall

Presbyterian College is preparing to take bids on its proposed new men's dormitory, Georgia Hall, after receiving authorization for a $1 million housing loan from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Earlier this week, President Marc C. Weersing said that official word had recently been received that $1,020,000 is being reserved for PC under the government's program of assistance to higher education. Dr. Weersing added:

"The board of trustees last year authorized the college to make application for a Federal loan for our proposed new men's residence hall. In view of the approval now received for reservation of funds, we are moving ahead to take bids on November 8. When the bids are in hand, the trustee committee on finance and budget, and physical development will make further study and recommendations."

President Weersing pointed out there is the possibility that construction could get underway thereafter, with a view toward having the building ready for use next August.

The name Georgia Hall designates this structure as one major objective of the campaign now underway among Georgia Presbyterians to accumulate additional funds.

FACILITIES

The new dormitory will be "T-shaped" and will be located on the west plaza across Adair Street from Spencer Dormitory. The four-floored building will house 250 students. This will enable almost all men students to live on campus.

Located centrally on the campus, the dormitory will be close to Neville, the future library-classroom building, and Leroy Springs Gymnasium. It will be halfway between Belk Auditorium and Greenville Dining Hall.

The entire building will be centrally air-conditioned and heated. Two men will occupy each room. The rooms will be in two-room suites connected by baths. There will be one elevator primarily for use to the fourth floor.

Each of the four floors will have a lounge equipped with a television. There will be a recreation area in the attic and also on the first floor. The basement will contain a self-service laundromat for the use of the student body. Vending machines and a mail room will be located on the first floor. These facilities will relieve the strain on Douglas House.

Hershey Defends Use of Grades In Evaluating Students for Draft

By DAVID SHERIFF
The Collegiate Press Service

Washington (CPS)—For many students this will be the last term. As the war in Viet Nam broadens, and few doubt that it will, an increasing number of former students are going to be toting rifles.

Already the I-A men are in short supply. Seventy thousand men between the ages of 26 and 34 were tapped for their physicals at the end of September. Even if calls stay at their present level, which is ten times the draft rate of the winter of 1965, all those 26 to 34 found qualified will probably be inducted, according to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of the Selective Service System.

But the pickings are slim, and Hershey expects that over two-thirds of the age 26 to 34 men will not pass their physicals. The one-and-one-half million college students now deferred constitute the next large group of men.

Just how much stiffer is it going to get? That all depends on how much further the war escalates, Hershey said in a recent interview.

Coming to the November elections, many of the official predictions on Viet Nam are optimistic. During the last year, however, the count of U. S. military personnel has increased from 2,686,000 to 3,184,000. Defense Department officials have added that the build-up will continue at that rate unless there is a change in the war.

Two years ago the I-A manpower pool was large, calls were reduced, and the Selective Service was looking for excuses to defer students, according to Hershey. Now local boards are harder pressed, and they are carefully evaluating individual performance — drafting those who fail to make Selective Service grades.

Part-time students are no longer deferred, and many State Boards have been requiring students to carry a full schedule to be defined as "full time." Previously, students were often allowed to carry three-quarters of a normal year's load and were still considered full time. Now boards are asking their 2-S registrants to complete one-fourth of a four-year program each year.

While Selective Service policy has not considered a student's choice of major or field in reviewing his deferment, Hershey indicated that this may not always be the case.

The judgment of individuals on the local level is often quite independent, he said, and "if the need gets tighter . . . the public understands much better what you do with an engineer than with a liberal arts" major.

Students who have taken a year out of school, for any reason, have had trouble getting their deferments back since last fall. Class rankings became available to the local boards

See DRAFT, Page 4, Col. 3.

Professor Crane of Duke Will Talk Monday on India

Professor Robert I. Crane of the Department of History of Duke University, will speak on Monday, October 31, at 10:00 a. m. in Belk Auditorium. The subject of his address will be "Problems of India Since Independence."

Professor Crane was born in Delhi, India. He received the A.B. degree from Duke University, the M.A. from American University, and the Ph.D. from Yale University. He has held teaching positions at the University of Chicago, the University of Michigan, and since 1961 has been Professor of History at Duke University.

In 1962 he was a visiting professor at the University of Calcutta. He has served as Secretary and as a member of the Board of Directors of the Association for Asian Studies.

At present he holds the following positions: Chairman, Joint Committee on Asian Studies, American Council of Learned Societies and Social Science Research Council; Executive Committee, American Institute of Indian Studies; Advisory Board, Dictionary of Indian Nationalist Biographies Project; Editor, Journal of Asian Studies. He has also published numerous articles and books on the subject of India.

Following his address, Professor Crane will meet with students, faculty, and interested persons for further discussion.

N.A.A.C.P. General Counsel Will Speak Monday Night

The PC Human Relations Club is sponsoring a speech by Negro lawyer, Matthew J. Perry, on Monday night, October 31, at 7:30 p. m. in Richardson Hall. Mr. Perry, the South Carolina General Counsel of the N. A. A. C. P., is noted throughout the South as an outsanding speaker and leader in civil rights.

Mr. Perry wil speak on the subject of the Negro in civil rights movements in South Carolina.

The South Carolina Republican Party has accused Mr. Perry and former Governor Ernest F. (Fritz) Hollings with making a "deal" for the Negro vote in the forthcoming general election to be held on November 8.

Following Mr. Perry's speech, the floor will be open, as usual, for any questions concerning politics, civil rights, or any other issues.

Mr. Perry will represent a somewhat different point of view than the Human Relations Club's last speaker, KKK Grand Dragon, Robert Scoggin, represented.

The HRC welcomes all students, faculty, and administrative personnel to his program and other programs to be held in the future.

Photo by Hood

THE TUG OF WAR, a featured event in the ROTC Field Day, pits brains and rhythm against weight and muscle, with the smaller agile team usually winning.

Teachers' Exam Schedule Released

The Naional Teachers' Exam Schedule for this year has been received by Dr. McGuire, Associate Professor of Education. Dates of these exams are: January 7, 1967; March 18, 1967; July 1, 1967; and October 7, 1967. Respective deadlines are: December 9, 1966; February 17, 1967; June 2, 1967; and September 8, 1967.

The exams will be administered all over the state, with all schedules open to all candidates without restrictions. For the special Bulletin of Information and the Registration Form for South Carolina candidates see Dr. McGuire.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Ass't. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor — E. Alexander Erwin, III, Mng. Editor

Conference of Hope

The dominant news for days has been the conference at Manila, which adjourned earlier this week. It was attended by representatives from all of the countries participating in the war in Vietnam.

Leaders stressed that no spectacular results could be expected; President Johnson himself said it would be a summit conference of hope and dared not call it a peace conference. However, it is quite evident that the affected nations want peace or else the conference would not have been called.

Some said the Manila Conference or Asian Conference would be a conference of high power, but low expectations. One delegate emphasized that it would be a conference concerning peace but that no miracles could be expected. Another said that a plan of war, if there could be no peace, would be laid out. The New Zealand delegate said that there could be no real peace conference until the other side were at the conference table also.

The United States expects to have a force of 400,000 in Vietnam shortly. Practically all of this number are young men, and a number of Presbyterian College alumni are among them. Wishing that the world was at peace will not make it so; because if it would, the conflict would soon be resolved.

However, the world must not accept peace at just any price. The aggressors must be stopped, and it is trusted and hoped that some means short of all-out war can be found to achieve this.

As it was expected and forecast, most of the action or progress which came out of the conference was on the line of communiques and statements of policy. However, The Blue Stocking does not view the situation as does the Washington columnist Jeane Dixon. A recent statement of hers is as follows: "There will be peace negotiations but they will be on Russia's terms, not our terms, and when Russia is ready, not when we are. It is going to get worse in Vietnam before it gets better."

The Blue Stocking believes that the conference is the starting point of a new and determined U. S. peace drive, backed by our participating allies. The statements issued by the conference will testify to this fact. Only time will tell the story, but it does appear that the U. S. and its allies have begun a drive to find peace and have thus responded to the wishes of their citizenry.

W. W. H.

History of College Greeks

By JERRY MEBANE
Blue Stocking Feature Staff

The college fraternity system of the United States was founded in the same year as the nation itself. In that year, it had become customary for students of the college of William and Mary to meet in the Apollo Room of the Raleigh Tavern in Williamsburg, Va., to discuss affairs of the day.

On December 5, 1776, five close friends remained at the tavern after the others had left, and there they founded Phi Beta Kappa, the first secret Greek letter society. The members adopted a secret motto, a grip, and a ritual. Three stars on the insignia of the fraternity symbolized fraternity, morality, and literature.

Members of Phi Beta Kappa often met to discuss problems of literary, philosophical, and political sginificance. Expansion began, and chapters were established at Yale, Harvard, and Dartmouth. By 1831 Phi Beta Kappa had become an honorary organization to which members were elected on the basis of scholarship and other qualities.

In the years 1812 through 1824, several local fraternities were established at Union College, Yale, and Princeton, but none of these organizations is still in existence.

The oldest national social fraternity recognized today is the Kappa Alpha Society, founded at Union College in 1825. In 1827 both Delta Phi and Sigma Phi fraternities were begun at Union. These three groups became known as the "Union Triad."

In 1831 Sigma Phi established a chapter at Hamilton College, and Alpha Delta Phi was soon founded as a competitor. Everywhere a new chapter was established, new fraternities sprang up in competition, and the fraternity movement spread widely and rapidly. Today there are over 60 national fraternities, with a total of over 3500 chapters.

These early fratenties were mainly literary societies. They became popular because they contributed to aspects of the students' social and intellectual life which the schools themselves could not provide for. As colleges and universities began to plan activities which provided for all areas of intellectual life, fraternities came to be more closely associated with social life.

Social fraternities encourage their members to take part in all aspects of student life, and they take pride in the achievements of individual members as well as those of the group as a whole. As a result, fraternity men often enjoy taking part in activities they otherwise might not have become interested in.

Originally, fraternties consisted of independent chapters loosely bound together by common principles and a common name. Today they are effectively organized on a national, and sometimes an international level, many of them with central offices and full-time staffs. Legislative bodies meet annually or biennially, consisting of active members and alumni from each chatper.

In addition, each fraternity sends representatives to the National Interfraternity Conference, established in 1909. Its purpose is to promote cooperation between the various fraternities and between the fraternities and colleges and universities.

The American college fraternity system has grown steadily for more than a century, because fraternities serve a definite purpose on college campuses. They seek to supplement intellectual learning with the social experience which the college itself cannot provide, and they help to produce well-rounded men.

Movie Review

The Ugly American

Showing in Richardson Science Hall tonight, Friday, October 28, at 7:00 will be The Ugly American. In Eastman color, this suspenseful film stars Marlon Brando as a new ambassador to Sarkhan. The film attacks the problem of Southeast Asia from a realistic and frightening viewpoint, leaving the audience with a feeling of surprise mingled with cold fear at the outcome.

On November 4, Diamond Head will be shown, starring Charlton Heston, Yvette Mimieux, George Chakiris, and James Darren. Set in the Hawaii of James Michener, this gripping story shows Charlton Heston as a dour and powerful landowner on Kauai who has lost his wife and child in a huge tidal wave. Yvette Mimieux, his younger sister, is in love with a pure Hawaiian, against her brother's wishes. George Chakiris, a physician, saves her from following her fiancee's untimely death. The picture is well worth seeing just for the scenery.

Letter to the Editor

Chapel Needs Revision

To the Editor:

Monday, October 24, six hundred PC students sloshed through the rain and muck to our tri-weekly required chapel. We took our places and waited for one of our typically illustrious speakers . . . maybe it would be the independent candidate for councilman of the First District in Podunk County and we surely do not want to be ignorant of his position on local URBAN RENEWAL even though half of us do not live in South Carolina, and three-fourths are not old enough to vote. Well, back to the point—we waited but no speaker materialized.

Eventually, Dr. Moorefield appeared, made a few announcements, and we proceeded to follow a form of worship closely akin to our Wednesday period of "withdrawal into the Realm of God." About 17 minutes later we were dismissed.

My question is: "Why were we even there?" Granted, Dr. Moorefield has an extremely taxing job as Dean of Chapel and has done as well as possible with such limited resources. It is no fault of his we were there Monday or any other times unnecessarily.

Consider the man-hours lost. Six hundred students is 600 hours! Even though we were not there the full hour, what good are the few remaining minutes after we have fought our way through the onslaught of pushing worshipers out of the auditorium into the mail-room and finally reach our secluded garrets in Smyth?

What is the thorn that pricks the administration's side when it contemplates a free-cut in chapel? If there is no evident reason for an assembly other than to read responsively and muddle two hymns, why waste the hour?

The basic problem is that three chapels a week is one too many. It is impossible for a college in Clinton, S. C., to procure enough worthwhile speakers to fill three programs a week. If this is agreed upon, what is the value of the other ineffectual speaker? His time should not be wasted, and he should not have to undergo the humiliation and criticism of 600 snoring students.

Is there some rule in the Handbook of Procedures for the Typical Small Christian College that says to win friends and gain money three chapels are a must. If so, the book has not been heeded by several of our "inferior" Presbyterian schools —Davidson, Trinity University, and St. Andrews. In doing away with one assembly a week, we could maintain our religious service and use the other for students' programs, an enlightening speaker, or student entertainment.

If the necessity of chapel is a matter of announcements as some claim, I suggest that, given the initiative we are boasted as having, a locked, glassed bulletin board could be placed in the dining hall and Neville containing only authorized memorandums.

I also propose that a committee of students and faculty be organized to study our chapel programs in general. Our "religious" chapel is merely that—a stagnant pattern of outward religious actions. Let us hear some outspoken people in modern theology . . . not just the preachers who proclaim each Wednesday "Jesus Saves!" I guarantee that if we cannot hear controversial personages at PC, the students will go elsewhere to have their intellects challenged.

Sincerely,
Tim Helgeson

Student Council Minutes Published

(With this issue of The Blue Stocking, the Student Council will begin publishing the minutes of its weekly meetings. —Editor.)

The Student Council held its weekly meeting Wednesday night, October 19. Those absent from the meeting were Senior Representatives Bruce Lawrence and Christie Patterson.

After the call to order, committee reports were given. Andy Cooper, Chairman of the Dining Hall Committee, reported that Mrs. Bowers, cafeteria dietician, felt it was not feasible to open the cafeteria earlier for lunch except possibly on Thursdays. This is due to a shortage of funds available for student help in the cafeteria. Also it will not be possible to serve free meals to students' dates on dance week-ends, again due to the cafeteria's limited budget. Authority over all cafeteria business is invested in the business office which is headed by Mr. Ed Campbell.

Freshman representative Bill Bryant, chairman of the committee studying the idea of an absentee ballot for campus elections, stated that he had written Washington and Lee University for information on this matter but had not received a reply.

In an effort to alleviate the problem of housing dates on dance week-ends, Rush Otey wrote Davidsor College to secure facts on their system of male students vacating a dorm to provide rooming facilities for visiting dates. Davidson's acknowledgement of this letter stated that a full report was being compiled and would be sent promptly.

Having studied the problem of student study habits, the Council sent a letter to Dr. Gettys on this matter which included suggestions and recommendations.

David Berry's motion to commit the idea of having a reading day prior to semester exams was passed unanimously by the Council. This action was provoked by Tony Dendy's letter to the Council concerning this matter. John Greer was appointed chairman of this committee consisting of David Berry and Bruce Lawrence.

Next followed a motion by Rush Otey that the Council's activities be reported in more detail to the Student Body by use of The Blue Stocking. After some delay the motion passed unanimously.

President Warren and Reed Bolick, Treasurer, gave reports of comments from Col. Thackston and Mr. Ed Campbell admonishing the Council for its failure to censure certain obscene signs prevalent during the week preceding Homecoming. In defense of the Council, Vice-President Herlong recalled the lengthy debates of the previous meeting. The Council, in that meeting, had decided to delegate such authority to the proctors, feeling that this method of censorshop would prove more direct and efficient.

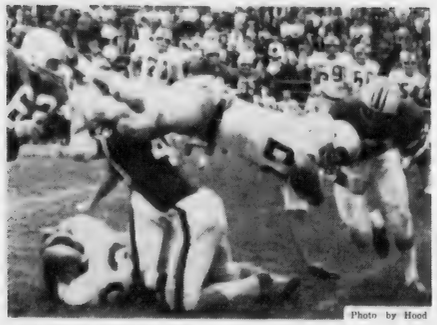

Photo by Hood

ECKSTEIN STOPS KEITH, Davidson Fullback, as Saine and Warren come in to apply the crusher.

PC Invades Catawba; Try To Unload Shotgun

By MIKE SIMONS

Presbyterian College will attempt to move closer to the Carolinas Conference lead as it journeys to Salisbury, N. C., to take on the Catawba Indians of Coach Harvey Stratton.

Now in a tie for second with a 2-1 conference record, the Hose could move a step closer to league-leading Lenoir Rhyne.

PC is fresh from a 23-16 "upset" victory over Guilford and is rated a slight edge in this game. PC and Catawba last met in 1961, when the Hose came out on the top side of a 37-0 score. The overall series record stands at 12 wins for PC, five for Catawba, and two ties.

After experimenting with a variety of offenses without much success, the Indians finally settled on a shotgun formation, and have been rough to handle when they run their offense. They already have an established quarterback in John Scott, who last season took All-State, All-Conference, and Little All-American honors, as well as being named most valuable back in the conference.

During practice throughout the week the Hose have been stressing pass defense and seem to be coming on strong in the defensive secondary. Two-way man Dan Eckstein has been the sparkplug of the secondary and is ably assisted by Jim Johnson, Ronnie Jordan, Bob Hackle, and Gene Robbins.

PC's ground game turned in an outstanding performance last week against Guilford, as both Eckstein and Johnson gained over 100 yards rushing.

Like PC, Catawba also has a comparatively light line, but compensates for this with greater speed and agility. Standouts in PC's offensive line have been Eddie Walker, Bobby Byard, and Charlie Reid.

No new injuries have been reported by Coach Cally Gault; but Jim Sullenberger, Allan Harris, Joe Lawson, and Jim Helms are all hampered by injuries.

Do Big Scores Show Anything?

It seems to me that the pressure for winning a national championship in football has gotten completely out of hand. Last week the nation's top five teams—Notre Dame, Michigan State, UCLA, Alabama, and Southern Cal—completely routed their opponents.

Instead of letting the second and third strings play after the first team built up a sizable lead, the first teams were left in to run up the score in hopes of better national recognition.

BILL

Notre Dame defeated a previously unbeaten Oklahoma team 38 to 0. Michigan State, to keep pace, defeated Purdue 41 to 20. Could it be that Michigan State was trying to improve on Notre Dame's 26-14 win over the Boilermakers?

UCLA had a rougher time with California than the other teams, but won 28-15. The Bruins have scored over 24 points in everyone of their games. Is there any sense in beating a team as bad as UCLA beat Pittsburg (57-14)?

Alabama completely routed Vanderbilt 42-6 although the second unit ran up a lot of the Crimson Tide points.

Southern Cal certainly tried to run up the score on Clemson whom they beat 30 to 0. The Trojans had a three-touchdown lead at half-time but tried to run it up in the second half. Could they have been trying to beat the Tigers worse than Alabama did (26 to 0)?

Notre Dame, for instance, was the number two team in the nation until Michigan State had a hard time defeating Michigan (20-6). The Irish beat North Carolina 32 to 0 that same week and roared into first place.

The ratings should be on the quality of a team's play against its opponents according to the schedule rather than which team can run up the biggest score.

I'm not saying these teams should not be in their specific rank in the nation but that the pressure to stay there or to move up has taken part of the game away.

The fans do not enjoy watching a rout as much as a good hard-hitting game with a closer score. Sure, teams are going to be six or seven touchdowns better than some opponents, but they do not have to see if they can be ten touchdowns better.

Last year, for the first time, the national champion was picked after the bowl games. Due to the top three teams losing and Alabama winning, the Crimson Tide won their second consecutive title. This year they are out for an unprecedented third title in a row.

Many of the nation's pressmen are not voting for the Tide for that one reason. The news media in California was quick to point out that Southern Cal defeated Clemson worse than Alabama did.

Where does the fault lie? Perhaps it is with the press and news media. National attention means more money for the athletic programs.

The showdown may come in the last two weeks of the season when Michigan State meets Notre Dame on November 19, while Southern Cal will host UCLA. A week later, on the 26th, Notre Dame will play Southern Cal.

Then a team will have to get its ranking through a win over a tough opponent rather than by who runs up the biggest score.

What is the answer to the whole problem? Perhaps it is more inter-sectional games. Alabama is often criticized for this. The Tide plays only southern teams, and one cannot see how their strength is with a team from another part of the country until the bowl games. This is one reason for voting after the bowls.

Where will it all end? The only way to see is to wait until after New Year's Day. Maybe the question can be settled then.

Lockwood Leads Riflemen

By TOM CAIN

Under the direction of Sgt. Leonard Creel and Sgt. Maj. Jowers, PC's rifle team has won one match and lost three in intercollegiate competition this year.

The opponents for the Blue Hose thus far have been Wofford twice, Clemson in a single meet, and a three-team meet with Clemson and Furman. In the three-team meet Presbyterian placed second, ahead of Furman and behind a heavily favored Clemson team.

The leading members of this year's team have been upperclassmen Fred Lockwood, Bob Gaw, Danny Wyatt, John Askew, and Evan Pamplin, and freshman Jim Beard. The leading scorer for PC this year has been Fred Lockwood, who shot 273 out of a possible 300 points during one meet.

The rifle team practices from 2:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M. five days a week, shooting from the prone, the kneeling, and the standing positions.

Five Teams Still Eligible To Cap CC Football Championship Race

The Carolinas Conference race has stiffened with five teams still eligible to win the championship. Lenoir Rhyne (4-1) leads the race with victories over PC, Newberry, Appalachian, and Western Carolina. Their loss came at the hands of Guilford 21-20.

PC (2-1) jumped into contention with a 23-16 upset of Guilford last week. The Blue Hose lost to Lenoir Rhyne while defeating Elon.

Newberry (2-1) has proved to be a surprise this year and is tied with PC. The Indians had early season wins over Appalachian and Catawba, losing to Lenoir Rhyne.

Guilford's (2-2) hopes dimmed last week with the loss to PC. Besides the upset over Lenoir Rhyne, the Quakers have defeated Elon, while losing to Catawba.

Catawba (2-2) also suffered a setback last week as Elon upset them 39-26 for the Christians' first win. The Indians lost to Newberry, but got wins over Guilford and Appalachian.

Trailing the pack are Appalachian (2-3), Western Carolina (1-3), and Elon (1-3).

The teams have not fared too well outside the conference as they have won six, lost nine, and tied one.

Lenoir Rhyne has the best offensive show as the Bears average 26.0 points per game. Their defense has also proved supreme as it is allowing opponets only 11.0 points per game.

The poorest offense has been displayed by Elon, who averages only 12.0 points per game. Western Carolina's defense has been hit the hardest as opponents are averaging 20.0 points per game.

CC Standings

Team	Conference W	L	T	Pct.	Overall W	L	T	Pct.
Lenoir Rhyne	4	1	0	.800	5	1	0	.833
PRESBYTERIAN	2	1	0	.667	3	3	0	.500
Newberry	2	1	0	.667	3	3	0	.500
Guilford	2	2	0	.500	3	3	0	.500
Catawba	2	2	0	.500	3	3	0	.500
Appalachian	2	3	0	.400	2	3	1	.400
W. Carolina	1	3	0	.250	2	4	0	.333
Elon	1	3	0	.250	1	5	0	.167

Last Week's Results

PRESBYTERIAN—23 ... GUILFORD—16
Lenoir Rhyne—25 ... W. Carolina—7
Elon—39 ... Catawba—26
Furman—29 ... Newberry—6
Appalachian—14 ... Carson-Newman—14

This Week's Schedule

PRESBYTERIAN ... at CATAWBA
Elon ... at Western Carolina
Guilford ... at Newberry
Carson-Newman ... at Lenoir Rhyne
Wofford ... at Appalachian

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street — Clinton, S. C.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

Campus News Briefs

Young Democrats Club Organized

The campus of Presbyterian College is to become, in the near future, a scene of intellectual conflict between the newly formed Young Democrats and the previously organized Young Republicans Club.

Some reasons cited for the forming of a Democratic party on campus are:

(1) To stimulate interest in the institution of government, its organization, its operation, and its representatives.

(2) To give diverse opinions on issues specifically opposed to the opposite political party.

(3) To provide interesting and worthwhile speakers.

(4) To provide an organization through which students may work for the Democratic Party if they so desire.

In compliance with rules set up by the college the Young Democrats have selected as their advisor Professor Larry Ingle.

There will be a meeting on Tuesday night, November 1, for the benefit of those who were not able to attend Thursday's meeting.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, October 31—Professor Robert I. Crane, "Problems of India Since Independence."

Wednesday, November 2 — Rev. John A. Haley, Westminster Presbyterian Church, Greenville.

Friday, November 4—To be announced.

Buddy Guy Nominated

Second Lieutenant Earl P. Guy, III, a June, 1966, graduate of Presbyterian College, has been nominated by Presbyterian College for the Hughes Trophy Award. This trophy, presented by the Hughes Aircraft Company is awarded in December of each year to the previous year's most outstanding commissioned graduate of the Senior Division, ROTC. Final selection of the recipient will be made by the Department of he Army, with presentation being made by the Secretary of the Army, in his office.

The criterion for this award includes outstanding military grades, outstanding academic grades and demonstrated qualities of leadership, discipline, courtesy, personality, and character.

Party for Thornwell

The Freshman SCA Cabinet will sponsor a Halloween party for approximately 20 Thornwell children between the ages of eight and eleven years. The party will begin at 2:00 p. m. and will end around 5:00 p. m.

Activities will include games, refreshments, and group singing.

Choir Trip

The Presbyterian College Choir will present two performances this week-end. Sunday morning they will sing at the First Presbyterian Church of Spartanburg and Sunday night they will perform at the First Presbyterian Church of Anderson.

The Choir will leave by bus from Belk Auditorium at 8:30 a. m., Sunday, and will return to Clinton late that night.

Hartford Grant

Presbyterian College has received $1,020 in 1966 under Aetna Life and Casualty's matching grant program of aid to higher education.

A check for $510, representing Aetna's matching contribution for gifts made this year by employees, agents and their spouses, went to the college this week.

The Presbyterian grant is part of a record $131,000 received by 354 schools under Aetna Life & Casualty's program this year.

Dr. Weersing

Dr. Marc C. Weersing, president of Presbyterian College, has been named chairman of the Policy Board for the Governor's Statewide Vocational Rehabilitation Planning Program.

Thirteen other civic, educational, busines and professional leaders from around the state also will serve on the board.

The Policy Board, appointed by Gov. Robert E. McNair, will establish the general nature, depth and scope of the statewide study aimed at broadening or improving rehabilitation services to the state's mentally or physically handicapped.

The two-year study, made possible by a Vocational Rehabilitation Administration grant, is being administered by the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation through a planning staff.

It will enlist the aid of numerous organizations and individuals.

Purpose of the study is to determine ways and means of making services available to the growing number of disabled citizens who could again be productive.

Photo by Hood

GOV. ROBERT McNAIR crowns Miss Susan Alexander of Limestone College as Homecoming Queen of 1966.

DRAFT Cont. from Page 1. this summer, as did the results of the College Qualification Test administered in the spring.

Eighty-one percent of the almost 800,000 registrants taking the examination at that time made passing scores of 70 or better. A new series of tests has been scheduled for November 18 and 19.

Opposition to the draft has been exhibited in challenges to the qualification tests. Several schools have held referenda on whether to permit the test to be held in their facilities.

In one of the latest votes, students and faculty at the Buffalo campus of the State University of New York swung two to one in favor of holding the tests, stressing the convenience of having the operation on campus.

Three midwestern universities are holding general referenda on the Selective Service November 16. Students at the University of Minnesota, the University of Michigan, and Wayne State University will indicate both whether they think their schools should cooperate with the draft by releasing rankings and grades and how they feel about conscription in general.

Refusing to cooperate with the Selective Service, several institutions have recently announced that they will discontinue the practice of ranking students by grade, including Antioch College, Haverford College, Wayne State University, and the City College of New York.

General Hershey defends the use of grades and ranks in evaluating students for the draft. In response to criticism that the prospect of being drafted for low grades puts students under undue pressure and induces them to take easier courses, Hershey replied that the Selective Service did not invent the standards.

"The colleges are the people that . . . used examinations and standing in class" to determine how many students they would not flunk out, Hershey said. "We just went out and found a yardstick that was there.

"When the colleges get so they use grades any more," he added, "then whatever they're using, we'll try to use."

BROADWAY Theatre

FRI.-SAT., OCT. 28-29

The Outlaws Is Coming!

Adam West, Nancy Kovak

MON.-TUE., OCT. 31-NOV. 2

The Liquidator

Rod Taylor, Trevor Howad, Jill St. John

The Greeks

The Alpha Sigs report that Allan Callaway is presently residing in new quarters: 320, East Wing, Self Memorial Hosital, Greenwood. (Convenient knee ailment). Brothers of the Week are Steve Knoche, Morrow Thompson, and Sam Lyons. Jim Bruce is going spelunking this week-end. (That's all, folks—not much happening this week.)

The Sigma Nu's wish to announce that they have contributed another campus romance. Brother Eddie Bolton is pinned to Miss Vivian Rogers of Charleston. Congratulations can be extended at Clinton Hall. The Snakes will have their rush party this Friday night, October 28, from 7:30-11:30 at the Holiday Inn in Rock Hill. The entertainment will be provided by the Villagers from Union. There is a rumor out that brother Brad Ray was seen in chapel Wednesday.

The Pi Kapps have initiated into the brotherhood on October 9 Jim Barnhardt and Steve Banakas. Isham Jehu McLaughlin, III, was pledged last Tuesday night. Brother of the Week is IFC Representative Jack Avery. Brother Dan Roberts had a "real live date" last weekend. The couple drew attention at a hayride. The Pi Kappa Phi's will welcome freshmen in the fraternity suite Friday and Saturday nights at 8:00. Jim Barnhardt is engaged to Miss Dottie McDougle of Charlotte.

The PiKA's went into a frenzy this week with the arrival of the inspecting field secretary. Tommy Campbell became a pledge with his initiation last Thursday night. Mike Donovan was named brother of the week for his chivalrous act of protecting "virgin ears" last week-end. Also nominated were Bob Warren and Cleve Dobbins. The PiKA's defeated a game Pi Kapp team Thursday under slippery playing conditions. Freshmen are invited to visit the suite any time. Tube hawking is fun.

The Theta Chi's are planning their Rush Party for November 12. It will be held in Rock Hill featuring the Sabres from Charlotte. Brother Rusty Tatum wins the gold compass for the Pathfinder's Award for his performance Homecoming weekend. Brother Tatum also has the nickname of the week: H. S. Harry Tatum.

The Kappa Alpha Order initiated ten new members into the brotherhood Thursday night. The new brothers are: Bill Bassham of Columbia; John Dargan of Spartanburg; Stoney Felder of Union; Tommy Gower of Greenville; Bud McNeese of Macon, Ga.; Eddie Miller of Rome, Ga.; Richard Reed of Columbus, Ga.; Jim Roberts of Manning; Butch Tuck of Athens, Ga.; and Al Wilson of Darlington. Two brothers have gotten lavaliered—Dave Berry to Miss Barbara Nance of Converse, and Richard Reed to Miss Cissie Talbert of PC. It is rumored that Brownie Johnson has been keeping an outpost near Thornwell Orphanage on Saturday nights. Shep Marsh is "Gourd of the Week."

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

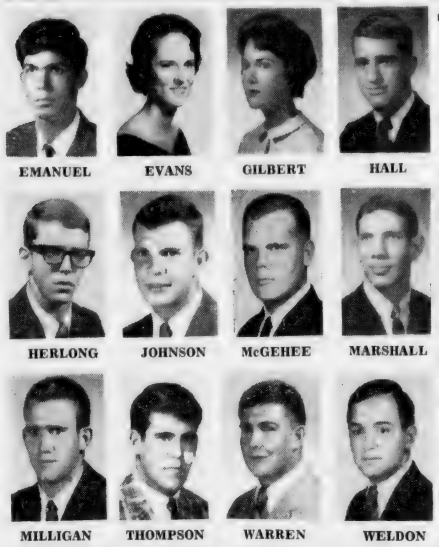
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE Cleaners

. . . and . . .

Laundry



Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists

Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria

Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday November 4, 1966 — No. 8

EMANUEL — EVANS — GILBERT — HALL

HERLONG — JOHNSON — McGEHEE — MARSHALL

MILLIGAN — THOMPSON — WARREN — WELDON

Twelve PC Seniors Listed in Who's Who

Twelve Presbyterian College seniors have been given the highest honor which an undergraduate of PC can receive—being listed in the 1966-67 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Students selected were Carlos J. Emanuel, Paula Evans, Susan H. Gilbert, William W. Hall, Jr., Robert W. Herlong, James H. Johnson, Michael L. McGehee, Grady A. Marshall, Max Milligan, III, Morrow B. Thompson, Robert W. Warren, and Hugh W. Weldon, Jr.

Recipients are determined on the basis of character, scholarship, and leadership in extra-curricular activities and potential for future usefulness in the business world and society.

Carlos Emanuel, a native of Ecuador now living in Whitmire, is an economics major. Emanuel is this year's recipient of the P. S. Bailey Scholarship and is vice-president of the Business - Economics Association. Emanuel is also captain of the soccer team.

Paula Evans, a math major, is from Ludowici, Ga. She is a Founder's Scholar, a member of the Women's Council, and a former chairman of the Women's Judicial Board.

Susan Gilbert, a biology major, is a Founder's Scholar and serves as president of the Women's Council. Miss Gilbert is from Blakely, Ga.

Woody Hall, an economics major, is a native of York and is the present editor of The Blue Stocking. Hall is also an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Bob Herlong, a Sigma Nu from Manning, is vice-president of the Student Council and president of Blue Key. Herlong is a history major.

Jim Johnson, a pre-med major from Georgiana, Ala., is chairman of the Honor Council and president of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is also co-captain of the football team.

History major Mike McGehee is a native of Marianna, Fla., and is the president of the SCA. McGehee is also vice-president of Blue Key and a member of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Grady Marshall, a biology major from Hapeville, Ga., is this year's ROTC Battalion Commander and a member of Scabbard and Blade. Marshall is also a recipient of the ROTC scholarship and an officer in Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Monk Milligan is an English major from Atlanta Ga. He is secretary-treasurer of the Block P Club. He is a member of the Senior SCA Cabinet and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Milligan also plays football and runs track.

Morrow Thompson, of Van Wyck, is a biology major. He is currently serving as a member of the Honor Council and is also an officer of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

English major Bob Warren, of Allendale, is president of the Student Council and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Warren is also a member of the football team.

Skip Weldon, a sociology major from Columbia, is this year's editor of the PaC Sac and a member of the Kappa Alpha Order.

U. S. Army Will Award 1,000 Scholarships; Deadline for Applications Is January 15th

Headquarters, Third US Army, Fort McPherson, Ga.— At least 1,000 additional ROTC Scholarships will be awarded by the Army to outstanding high school graduates and to selected college students who have completed two years of Army ROTC training beginning the 1967-68 school year.

Applications for the scholarships can be made beginning on December 1, 1966, and the application packets must be completed and returned with a postmark not later than January 15, 1967.

Detailed information and application forms on the four-year scholarship program may be obtained from the commanding general of any of the five armies in the United States or from major United States Army overseas commands in which the applicant resides. Students applying for the two-year awards should contact the Professor of Military Science at their present college or university.

Students winning an Army ROTC Scholarship may attend any of the 247 colleges and universities offering the four-year Army ROTC program. After graduating from college and successfully completing his Army ROTC studies, the scolarship student is required to accept a Regular Army or Reserve commission, whichever is offered, as a Second Lieutenant and to serve at least four years on active duty with the Army.

To be eligible for a scholarship an applicant must be a male United States citizen who meets the prescribed physical standards. Applicants for the four-year awards must not have reached their 21st birthday by June 30, 1967, and they must be 17 by October 1, 1967. Two-year award applicants must be under 23 years of age on June 30, 1967, and must be cadets in good standing in the second year of ROTC training.

Residents of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee should apply to the Commanding General, Third U. S. Army, Attention—AJAAG-R, Fort McPherson, Ga. 30330.

Approximately 2,000 students are now attending colleges and universities on Army ROTC Scholarships which began during the 1965-66 and 1966-67 school years.

Authorized by the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964, the scholarships provide financial assistance to students interested in obtaining a regular officers commission through the Army ROTC program.

Each award pays for the student's tuition, textbooks and laboratory fees and provides $50 per month subsistence allowance for the duration of the scholarship, except for a six-week summer camp during which the student is paid $151.95 per month.

Additional Army ROTC Scholarships are authorized by the ROTC Vitalization Act each year until a maximum of 5,500 are in effect by the school year 1970-71.

PC Will Hold Annual Parents' Day Saturday

The milestone tenth anniversary of Presbyterian College Parents' Day is expected to attract almost 1,000 visitors to the campus for the 1966 occasion tomorrow.

Advanced reservations indicate that a record attendance may established for the PC event, which ranks among the oldest Parents' Day programs in the state. Previous highs of 900 were hit last year and in 1964.

The day's schedule will begin with 2:00 p. m. registration, followed by campus tours conducted by the Blue Key national leadership fraternity. Students will bid their parents an official welcome in a special Belk Auditorium program presided over by Bob Herlong of Manning, president of Blue Key. This 3:00 p. m. attraction will feature talks by President Marc C. Weersing and Student Body President Bob Warren of Allendale, musical selections by three student groups and by the PC choir, and the showing of Presbyterian College's new color film entitled "Beyond Tradition."

Students to participate in entertainment include: Robin Williams of Myrtle Beach, Don Dillard of Abbeville, Angie Reyes of Montreat, N. C., Beth Lindsay of Greenville, David Templeton of Clinton, and Dan Roberts of Orangeburg. The choir is conducted by Charles T. Gaines, assistant professor of music.

After a 4:00 p. m. reception in Neville Hall, the parents will be guests for supper in Greenville Dining Hall and then will be entertained at separate funtions by the six social fraternities and the coeds. The activities will close with the Presbyterian-Appalachian football game under the lights of Johnson Field at 8:00 p. m.

Matthew Perry

NAACP General Counsel Spoke Monday On Civil Rights Movement in South Carolina

By ALEX ERWIN
Managing Editor

Matthew Perry, a Columbia attorney and legal representative for the NAACP, spoke in Richardson Hall last Monday night on the Negro in the Civil Rights Movement in South Carolina.

Perry said that he would speak first on the National basis and then focus on the South Carolina scene. He said that the civil rights movement began before the civil war—probably with the underground railroad. The Dred Scott case of 1854 was the first documented court case involving a Negro slave. The Supreme Court ruled that since Scott was not a citizen, he had no rights.

Perry continued in his discussion and included the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments in his discourse. Perry said that the first civil rights law was passed in 1875 but was later revoked. The Civil Rights Law of 1964 is similar to the original of 1875, stated Perry.

The "equal doctrine" or "separate but equal facilities" was established in 1896 since most people regarded the newly freed people with some degree of dismay, Perry revealed.

The NAACP got its origin from the Old Negro Movement in the beginning of this century and has represented the interests of the Negroes although it is better known for its legal attacks in the courts, the Columbia lawyer stated.

The NAACP, according to Perry, attempted in the Brown vs. Mississippi case and in Chamberlain vs. Florida, with their lawyer to base their case

See NAACP, Page 4, Col. 3.

Photos by Hood

"I had to resort to degrees of genius . . ."

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles Ass't. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr. Editor — F. Alexander Erwin, III Mng. Editor

Open Meetings

Student Body and Student Council President Bob Warren announced to the Student Council in its weekly meeting Wednesday afternoon that he would declare an open Student Council meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 in the first floor lecture room of Richardson Hall.

This meeting is not being declared open in order to subject Council members to possible ridicule; rather, Warren hopes that a trial period of open Student Council meetings will enhance the effectiveness of the Student Council as the Student Body will have an opportunity to learn what actions the Council is proposing and thus will be able to lend verbal, if not other, support.

The Blue Stocking, in an editorial some weeks ago, suggested that one possible cause for the diminuition in the Council's influence might be that a good majority of the Student Body were unaware of proposed plans and thus were in no position to offer support.

The Blue Stocking suggested that one way of counteracting this ignorance would be the regular publication of the minutes of Student Council meetings, and this has come to pass.

The Blue Stocking suggests, in conjunction with Warren, possible reasons for and advantages to be gained from open Student Council meetings: (1) Matters that come before the Council pertain directly to the Student Body so why shouldn't they be informed of what is taking place and thus be given the opportunity to participate in policy-making, only if in an observing capacity. Students will have the facts so later they can lobby with their respective representatives.

(2) Since the members of the Council are elected by the students, the latter deserve to observe how efficiently they perform.

(3) The Council members themselves may be able to benefit from such open meetings. There will be a two-way communication flow, and opinions from many students will be given the chance to influence actions by these students making known their desires to their respective Council members, who in turn participate as representatives of the Student Body in policy making.

There may be some people among the Council members who will oppose open meetings, but The Blue Stocking, along with President Warren, agree that open meetings are one very effective way of informing the Student Body of what is happpening in the Student Council. Minutes sometimes delete certain seemingly insignificant but possibly very important facts of a meeting, and with open meetings this screening can be eliminated.

There is one condition by which the Student Body must abide if any benefit is to be derived—the Student Body must refrain from any and all heckling in order that effective discussion and debate might be carried on.

'Mah Fellow Americans'

By ROBERT EWEGEN
The Collegiate Press Service
(As presented by Little Boy Johnson, President of the United States and grandson of a former President whom we all know and love. The address was delivered at the dedication of the American military cemetery, "Gettysburg East," outside of Saigon in the year 2052.)

Mah fellow Americans:

Foah score and seven yeahs ago, my grandfather brought forth upon this continent of Asia a new political concept, conceived in expediency and dedicated to the proposition that we are better dead than red.

Now we are engaged in a Great Society (oops, I mean a Great Civil War), and for that matter have been engaged in that Great Civil War four score and seven years now, testing whether that concept of a permanent American military presence in Asia or any concept so ill-conceived and so ineptly executed, can long endure.

We are met on a great battlefield of that war, a battlefield where General Ky was overthrown by General Hee, where General Hee was overthrown by General Me, where General Me was overthrown by General Wee, where General Wee was overthrown by General Gee, and so forth through the 56 different coups that finally culminated last spring in General Flea's government, which we are now convinced is in a position to bring to this nation the political stability that is so necessary if we are to begin to effectively roll back the aggression from the north.

Excuse me folks, I just received an urgent note. (Oh no, not again.) Hrrumph. What I meant was the 57 coups which finally culminated in General She's coup three minutes ago which we are finally convinced is in a position to at last offer this nation the political stability that is . . .

Hrrumph. Be that as it may. We have come to dedicate this battlefield as a fitting memorial to the light to moderate losses that our forces have sustained over the past 87 years so that my grandfather and his successors could test the theory that the way to bring Hanoi to the peace table was to escalate further.

It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this, and anyone who thinks otherwise is a nervous nellie and probably a traitor besides and simply helping to prolong the war.

The world will long note and long remember what we did here, probably because we will still be doing it, but the world will probably never understand WHY we did it.

And frankly, I'm fed up with that kind of idiotic questioning emanating from the capitals of the world over the last nine decades! I DON'T CARE WHY WE ARE HERE! THE POINT IS WE ARE HERE AND IT'S TOO LATE TO PULL OUT NOW! WE ARE GOING TO STAY HERE! WE ARE GOING TO ESCALATE! THIS UNPATRIOTIC PRACTICE OF DEFERRING GRANDFATHERS HAS TO STOP SO THAT WE CAN BUILD UP OUR TROOP COMMITMENT TO 68,000 MEN. ONLY THEN WILL WE HAVE AN ADEQUATE STRENGTH RATIO OF 48 TO 1 NECESSARY TO PUT DOWN THIS INSURRECTION.

And as long as I am President, mah fellow Americans, I promise you this: we shall not withdraw, I promise that this nation, under me, shall have a new birth of conformity (boy, will we shut up those peaceniks) and that government of concensus, by manipulation for the sake of saving face shall not perish from the earth, although admittedly the population might.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"ON THE OTHER HAND IT'S GOOD TO HAVE A STUDENT LIKE ARTHAL — HE COMPLETES THE OTHER END OF MY CLASS CURVE!"

Student Council Reports

Plans have been finalized for the preparation of the South Carolina State Student Legislature, and PC's delegation is working on bills which will be presented at the Fall Legislative Session.

David Berry, who will be in the Student House is delegation chairman, Mac Smith and Carlos Emanuel are PC's senators, Reed Bolick and Rush Otey will be the other two representatives, and Don Matthews will participate as an alternate who will be a liaison between the Senate and House when he is not debating bills in the House. Bob Warren will be the seventh member of the delegation and will preside over the Senate in the capacity of Lt. Governor.

Committee meetings which will feature questioning sessions with a number of important people in the state answering various questions about different bills should have a profound effect on the quality of the bills passed and signed by Governor Dan Yarborough from Furman. If any of you have an opportunity to go to the State House on Friday or Saturday, December 2 or 3, you can observe college students from schools around the state debating current issues in the state. The Student Council is enthusiastic about the forthcoming session and expects to represent you well.

Letter to the Editor

Coalition Or Collision

To the Editor:

A Republican representative was present at a recent meeting of the Young Democrats Club to present plans for a cooperative mock-election on campus and election-eve drop-in.

Before he could present his business, he was expelled from the meeting on the basis of a motion introduced by Bob Warren stating that all persons not affiliated with the Democratic Party or adhering to that party's principles not be allowed to attend any meetings.

This meeting which was advertised as open to all interested persons suddenly took on the character of a closed meeting for a select few.

The major purpose behind the two-party system on campus is to present the candidates and beliefs of the major parties in order to supply the students with a well-rounded political view.

We, the Young Republicans, believe that political organizations on campus should work together in harmony for the mutual benefit of the students by providing them with issues on which they can base an intelligent choice of party and candidate.

Has the Young Democrats Club been organized to inform the student body or merely to antagonize the established Young Republican Club?

Sincerely,
THE YOUNG
REPUBLICAN CLUB

Student Council Minutes Published

The Student Council held meetings on October 27 and November 2. Absent from one of the two meetings were David Berry, Andy Cooper, Bruce Lawrence, and Christie Patterson.

President Warren announced that beginning Wednesday, November 9, Student Council meetings will be held in Richardson Hall and will be open to all members of the Student Body for observation. This policy is on a trial basis.

Council members were asked to help with campus tours on Parents' Day by Vice-President Herlong. A motion by Herlong passed wherein all proposed by-laws to the Student Council Constitution will be tabled for at least one week before final discussion and voting by the Council.

Andy Cooper, chairman of the Dining Hall Committee, was to meet with Mr. Ed Campbell of the Business Office on November 3 to discuss dining hall affairs.

Billy Bryant submitted the report of his committee on absentee ballots for campus elections. The report was submitted in the form of a by-law and was tabled for discussion at the next meeting.

John Greer reported that his committee on the possibility of having a reading day before semester exams was in the process of writing area colleges for more information on this program.

The Council voted unanimously against the idea submitted by faculty members whereby an upperclassman failing to achieve a 2.00 GPR during a semester would be restricted to the freshman cut system during the following semester.

Secretary Berry read a letter from Dr. Gettys concerning new regulations regarding chapel absences and tardies. Berry moved to form a committee to study each of Dr. Gettys' eight

See MINUTES, Page 4, Col. 3.

BILL

Miscarriage of Justice

The incident which took place at the University of South Carolina this past week points out a gross miscarriage of justice by the Atlantic Coast Conference Rules Committee.

The siuation stems from a basketball player named Mike Grosso. Grosso failed to make the required 800 on his College Board test to allow him to be given an athletic scholarship at a school. So Grosso came to Carolina on his own with his family financing his way.

Grosso led the Carolina freshman basketball team to a real good season last year with an ability that hinted that Coach Frank McGuire might have some All-American material. About this time Duke began to protest the right for Grosso to play because of the College Board scores. Duke even went so far as to hint that they would not play the Gamecocks this year if Grosso were allowed to play.

At a meeting this summer it was decided that Grosso would be allowed to play as long as he kept his grades up. Then from some unknown pressure, a rule was passed which said that no one could compete in ACC athletics who had not made the 800 score, and the rule was made retroactive.

At a meeting in a Raleigh, N. C., motel this past weekend, it was decided that Grosso would not be allowed to play basketball for Carolina. Petitions began to circulate in Columbia for Carolina to drop out of the ACC . McGuire and university president Thomas F. Jones immediately repudiated these tries.

McGuire stated that the case was not closed and would be taken up at the ACC meeting to be held in December. If the boy is going to school legally, it seems to me that an attempt to bar him from playing ball is a poor attempt to run the conference by some of the old faithfuls.

This is just an example of the problems occuring in the business of college basketball which is actually hurting the game.

Another problem facing the ACC is the idea of having the representative team which goes to the NCAA tournament chosen by a conference tournament. There has been some talk going around that the team who wins the conference would play the team who wins the tournament if it isn't the same team.

This is the only way for the conference to be properly represented at the NCAA. This was well evidenced two years in a row in the Southern Conference when Davidson was eliminated and the team that went to the NCAA was quickly defeated with little trouble.

The only answer is for the ACC to take a good look at itself and to make the proper revisions.

IM Football Standings

TEAM	W	L	PCT.
Bandits	6	1	.857
PiKA	6	1	.857
Alpha Sigs	4	3	.571
Theta Chi	4	4	.500
Kappa Alpha	3	3	.500
Chargers	3	3	.500
Calvert House	2	3	.400
Sigma Nu	2	3	.400
Vetville	2	4	.333
Pi Kapps	1	6	.143

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

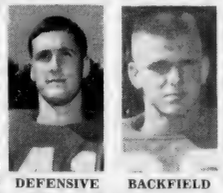
DEFENSIVE LINE consists of Thompson, Sullenberger, Lyons, Warren, Campbell, Monk, Munn.

Blue Hose Can Even Season Record With Victory Over Mountaineers

By MIKE SIMONS

Presbyterian College attempts to even up its record tomorrow night when the Appalachian Mountaineers invade Johnson Field for a Carolinas Conference clash. Saturday has been designated as Parents' Day, and the ball game will climax a day of activities for the parents.

PC, now 2-2 in the conference and 3-4 overall, is trying to prove the "experts" wrong who picked the Hose for last in the conference, and have a good chance to do it.



All three of the Blue's remaining games are at home and are conference affairs. If they finish the season undefeated, the Hose could wind up 5-2 in the CC.

Appalachian stands 3-3-1 overall and 2-3 in the conference. Last week the Mountaineers polished off Wofford 14-12, but the Terriers were without the services of ace-runner Don Phelps.

Last week PC's end James Smith and quarterback Bill Kirtland both set school records. Smith gained 116 yards against Catawba with 9 pass receptions, breaking the old record of 115 yards set by Joe Kirven in 1951. Smith needs two passes and eight yards to tie Kirven's record for number of receptions and yards receiving. He now has 30 receptions for 392 yards.

Kirtland has 81 pass completions, breaking Leighton Grantham's record of 76 completions set in 1964.

DEFENSIVE BACKFIELD consists of Eckstein, Johnson, Hackle, and Jordan.

Appalachian features a balanced attack, led by quarterback Pat Murphy who has 683 yards passing this season. The running attack is centered around Jackie Roten, who is averaging 4.8 yards per carry. Roten is expected to be back in action against PC, after missing some games due to an injury.

PC's line-up is about the same as before, except for Smith, who suffered a bad Charley horse in his leg against Catawba and is a doubtful starter.

Head Coach Cally Gault said he expected another close game with the Mountaineers like 1964's contest, which PC won 23-21 with a last minute field goal. Last year the Hose fell 26-10 at Boone.

Appalachian is rated a six points favorite in some quarters, but the game could more accurately be described as a toss-up, with a slight edge towards the Hose due to the home-town crowd.

Soccer Team Falls To Clemson

By TOM CAIN

Taking advantage of teamwork and experience, the Clemson Tigers struggled to a 3-1 victory over Presbyterian in a soccer match on October 31 at the loser's field.

Trailing 1-0 for 50 minutes of the game, the underdog Blue Hose repeatedly swarmed the Tiger goalie with shots that barely missed being scores. The PC defense was as determined as the offense, however, for it continually stopped Clemson scoring opportunities.

With five minutes remaining in the game, John Amaya scored PC's only goal on a straight-in shot 20 yards from the Tiger goal. This goal by the Blue Hose only seemed to make Clemson try harder, for the Tigers quickly scored two goals in the last four minutes to put the game away from the reach of the determined Blue Hose.

Offensive stars for PC were Eddie Miller, Carlos Emanuel, and Jim Amaya. The rugged defense was led by goalie Jim Bush, John Amaya, and Mackey and Joey Singleton.

Presbyterian now has a soccer record of no wins and two losses, while Clemson is still undefeated.

CC Standings

Team	Conference W	L	T	Pct.	Overall W	L	T	Pct.
Lenoir Rhyne	4	1	0	.800	5	2	0	.714
Newberry	2	1	1	.667	3	3	1	.500
Catawba	3	2	0	.600	4	3	0	.571
PRESBYTERIAN	2	2	0	.500	3	4	0	.429
Guilford	2	2	1	.500	3	3	1	.500
Appaplachian	2	3	0	.400	3	3	1	.500
W. Carolina	2	3	0	.400	3	4	0	.429
Elon	1	4	0	.250	1	6	0	.143

Last Week's Results

CATAWBA—21 ... PRESBYTERIAN—14
Newberry—7 ... Guilford—7
Lenoir Rhyne—14 ... Carson-Newman—28
Western Carolina—34 ... Elon—0
Appalachian—14 ... Wofford—12

This Week's Schedule

APPALACHIAN ... at PRESBYTERIAN
Newberry ... at Elon
Wofford ... at Catawba
Lenoir Rhyne ... at Elon
Western Carolina ... at Mars Hill
C. W. Post ... at Guilford

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .

Where you'll find all fashions for men

NORTH BROAD STREET

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Campus News Briefs

Col. Ivey Receives Merit Citation

Lt. Col. Benjamni F. Ivey, Jr., has been awarded the Legion of Merit citation at the direction of the President of the United States for "distinguishing himself by exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services during the period October, 1965, to August, 1966, while serving as Section Adviser, Ba Xuyen Sector, Republic of Vietnam."

In the citation Col. Ivey was credited with the establishment of "complete rapport with his counterparts" and then promptly recomending "actions to improve the situation and intensify the counterinsurgency effort."

Board of Visitors Ends Two-Day Meet

The Presbyterian College board of visitors held its seventh annual meeting on campus Thursday and Friday of this week.

Dr. Lawrence I. Stall, executive secretary of the General Council, Presbyterian Church, U. S., addressed the group of visitors and their wives Thursday evening in the PC dining hall on the subject "Stewardship and Christian Higher Ethics." Today at a luncheon Dr. William L. Pressley, president of Atlanta's Westminster Schools, spoke on "Modern Trends in Education."

The Presbyterian College Board of Visitors is composed of 66 prominent individuals who serve in an advisory capacity in helping to interpret the college to the public, promote the long-range objectives, and make recommendations for the general betterment of the program.

Young Democrats Club

The Young Democrats held a meeting to elect officers and discuss plans for their constitution on Tuesday night of this week.

Officers elected are: Don Matthews, president; Jim Roberts, vice-president; Don McNair, secretary; and Bryson Rousey, treasurer.

The Young Democrats plan to meet bi-monthly. Meetings will be on Tuesday nights at 8:15. All interested persons should contact one of the officers or the other members.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, November 7 — University of California film entitled "Conversations About China," unconfirmed.

Wednesday, November 9 — Rev. Charles Parris, Ebenezer Presbyterian Church, Rock Hill.

Friday, November 11—Armistice Day program, Colonel Ivey.

Mock Election

BULLETIN

In the mock election held today, the Democratic Party won the elections for governor, lieutenant governor, and treasurer in South Carolina. McNair, West, and Patterson won the respective races.

The Republicans swept all of the other races which included both U. S. Senators of South Carolina, the governors of Georgia, California and Florida. Republicans also won the Superintendent of Education race and the Massachusetts Senator race.

No Movie Nov. 11

Karen Weaver has announced that there will be no movie in Richardson Hall next Friday night, November 11.

The movie being shown tonight is Diamond Head. The presentation begins at 7:00 p. m.

MINUTES, Cont. from Page 2.

proposals. The committee consists of Reed Bolick (chairman), Lilibet Vass, and Christie Patterson.

Discussion was conducted on Tim Helgeson's letter in the October 28 Blue Stocking. The letter concerned the purpose and validity of having three chapel meetings a week. A committee of Rush Otey (chairman), Bruce Lawrence, and Billy Bryant was appointed to study the entire program of chapels, with the proposals made in Helgeson's letter to be specifically discussed and investigated.

NAACP, Cont. from Page 1.

on confession extorted by fear or intimidation which could not be used against them. The NAACP has struggled to win the Negro the right to vote. In 1942 a court decision was handed down in Texas stating that states could not deny a major portion of the population the vote, Perry stated.

Again Perry mentioned that the NAACP is better known for its legal accomplishments, having a Washington Bureau which is a very effective lobbyist. Through the efforts of the bureau the 1964 Civil Rights Bill was passed.

Perry expounded briefly on the views of the day, stating that some people view the changes as overdue while others feel that perhaps things are moving a little too fast. The latter, who believe things are progressing too fast, would like to go back to the days of Dred Scott, Perry stated.

The NAACP, stated Perry, has disassociated itself with the term "Black Power" and maintains that in order to best achieve the goal, all persons who seek the same goals should work together.

When Perry was asked his views on civil disobedience, he said that what the young Negroes did in their demonstrations and sit-ins caused him "to resort to degrees of genius to defend them."

Perry stated when asked of the war that the NAACP is concerned with civil rights and not foreign relations.

The Civil Rights movement, stated Perry, has strengthened the American image and moved nearer to the "American dream."

McGuire and Chapman Attend Conference

On October 27, the Eighth Annual Governors' Conference on Education was held in Columbia. Delegates from PC were Dr. George McGuire, Chairman of the Education Department, and Dr. Fred Chapman, Chairman of the Economics Department.

Sponsored by the South Carolina Association of School Boards, Inc., this year's conference had the theme "Educational Leadership Through Coordination and Cooperation."

The morning session was addressed by Dr. Wendell H. Pierce, Educational Director of the Education Association.

After a luncheon in the Wade Hampton Ballroom, the group was addressed by Governor McNair about various aspects of education which are being studied and improved in South Carolina.

After the Governor's address, the delegates met in groups to discuss problems of education in the state and formulate suggestions to be presented to the spring legislature.

T. Jackson Lowe, Conference Coordinator and Executive Director of the South Carolina Association of School Bards, has been invited by seven additional states to organize similar conferences for them. The South Carolina Conference studies educational advances in other states and seeks to utilize them in improving South Carolina's system.

BROADWAY

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4
A Big Hand For The Little Lady
Henry Fonda, Joanne Woodward, Jason Robards

SATURADY (ONE DAY)
Hercules In The Haunted World
Reg Park and Christopher Lee

MON.- WED., NOV. 7-9
YUL BRYNNER in Return of The Seven
With Robert Fuller

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

Yarborough Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

The Greeks

By CHARLES ROWLAND

The Theta Chi's welcome all parents this weekend and especially extend a cordial invitation to freshmen and their parents to attend drop-ins before and after the game Saturday night. Coffee and cookies will be served. Several brothers have been seen at Winthrop lately. Don't worry, boys, you'll get a chance to show them off at the Rush party November 12. The Georgia Road-Runner has returned again.

The PiKA's have elected Pat Stogner to the office of Historian, and Sandy Lynn is the new pledge-master. The offices were vacated by Charlie Rowland, who has become public relations man with the soldiers in Vietnam. Brothers of the Week are Charles Rowland, Pat Stogner, Sandy Lynn, Alan Harris, and Johnny Glover. There's a story out that Glover plans to run the "100" in the next Olympic Games. All freshmen and their parents are invited to a drop-in this weekend.

The Pi Kapps report that Dan Roberts is Pledge of the year ('65-'66) for his exceptional service. The honor of brother of the week goes to Tommy Barnett who is Warden. After the Parents' Day game, the fraternity will welcome parents, alumni, and freshmen at an informal drop-in at the fraternity suite. The agenda includes a clean-up before the weekend events. (?) (Stall wrote this, not me.)

The KA'S are inviting all freshmen and their parents to a drop-in before and after the football game. The Order is making plans for a rush party on November 12 in Columbia. Joe Gettys and Christie Patterson were on hand at Converse for Mrs. Wallace Brewster's lecture on love and marriage. Mac Smith, Tommy Greer, and Jack McCaskill are happy to welcome Jack Coward to the Kissing Parlors at Clinton Hall. Mac Smith gets the M. V. D. award this week.

The Alpha Sig's cordially invite all freshmen and parents to drop-ins before and after the ball game. Brother Steve Knoche is engaged to Miss Linda Laird of Mt. Pleasant. Tuesday, the ASP's beat the KA's in a highly-matched football game. The Alpha Sig's won because they lost less yardage than the KA's did. Brother of the Week is Steve Knoche.

The Sigma Nu's tell us that their rush party at the Holiday Inn in Rock Hill last weekend was a success. Brother George Lindsay is pinned to Miss Mary Belle Davis of Clinton, who is now at Winthrop. October 24 was the first anniversary of Art and Cheryl Sammons. The fraternity invites all freshmen and parents to drop-ins before and after the game Saturday. There will be favors for the parents of the fraternity members.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

50% Stock Turnover
—The Kinsey Report —Playboy's Best
—Radical Theology and The Death of God
—The Art of Loving —Flying Saucers
—Serious Business
— Plus —
Best Sellers as indicated in Time Magazine. Some of the best novels ever written. We have more books than ever.
COME IN AND BROWSE
COLLEGE BOOK STORE IN DOUGLAS HOUSE

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, November 18, 1966 | No. 9

Photo by Hood

LENA STRICKLAND ponders over some of the products of PC's first art show.

Douglas House Hosts All-Student Art Show

By TIM HELGESON
Blue Stocking Feature Staff

Douglas House lobby was host to Presbyterian College's first entirely student art show. The show opened November 11, and the art work will be featured until November 23.

The drawings and collages are the work of Ansley Scoville, Tom Baumgardner, Anna Bozeman, Paul Ferguson, Sam Williams, and Mrs. Carol Hay, all students in Miss Pennington's studio art classes.

Miss Pennington emphasized that this is a typical show of students new at drawing. It reveals how much can be done in only a few weks.

The work is concerned with figure studies, still lifes, and collages in an attempt to reach an understanding of basic artistic forms.

Miss Pennington remarked that the students already show, through this series of studies in jesture, contour, and linear drawing, a remarkable adeptness in the understanding of these basic art forms.

She emphasized that work at this point is primarily a learning process. It is now on the level of personal interpretation; as the students advance it will evolve into an intensely personal expression of ideas and attitudes.

Miss Pennington concluded that the show is to be highly commended for what it is meant to be. It shows how far these students have developed, and it gives the student body a chance to see what is going on in PC's new art department.

Miss Pennington has assured us that there will be several more exhibitions next semester.

Famous Pantomime Artist Will Perform November 30

David Miles, internationally known pantomime artist, will present "Concert in Mime and Monologue" Wednesday, November 30, in Belk Auditorium beginning at 8:15 p. m.

DAVID MILES, assuming the characterization of Granny in "How to Visit a Sick Friend," from the current production of "Concert in Mime and Monologue."

In presenting "Concert in Mime and Monologue" within the sanctuary of the church, Mr. Miles brings back the Middle Ages concept of worshiping God with hands as well as hearts and minds through pantomimic action, tapping the spontaneous artistic ability in everyone who participates.

Pantomime, a difficult and nearly lost form, has enjoyed a revival during the past few years, and requires the concentrated use of the audience's imagination to complete the storytelling.

Drawing upon his observations of people from all walks of life, Mr. Miles recreates such character sketches as "The Wind and the Woman," "Noah's Ark," " A Flower in All Seasons," "Samson and Delilah," "The Matron," and "David and Goliath" from his vast repertoire.

The appearance of Mr. Miles has been made possible through the efforts of the Miles National Repertory Company and the PC Faculty Lecture Committee.

Vietnam War

Conger Gives Insight On Living Conditions

(The following excerpt is from a letter written by First Lieutenant Paul S. Conger, Jr., who is stationed in Leng Binh, South Vietnam. Conger was a member of the class of 1965. This constitutes the first of a tentative series of articles by Conger on the war being waged there. Conger has selected living conditions of U. S. personnel for the subject of his first installment.—Editor.)

. . . I'm sorry I haven't answered your letter sooner, but it arrived right in the middle of 36 sleepless hours. I was in the midst of a project that had to be finished. My job is order of battle. Target and Special Projects Section, a full-time intelligence job, believe me.

The Vietnam war is a relatively new war. Only since 1965 has the U. S. begun pouring personnel into the country. Needless to say, living quarters and conditions are of primary importance.

LIVING QUARTERS

In some cases where units could operate out of small cities and towns, local villas, hotels, and the like, were leased by the U. S. Government for troop quarters.

The field units live mainly in tents lined around the outside with sandbags and trenches. As base camps become more permanent, wooden or metal buildings are built with concrete floors.

Electricity is provided by diesel or gas-powered generators. The only running water is for showers, and only cold showers at that.

Each man is issued a mosquito bar and either a cot and air mattress or a steel bunk and regular mattress. I have one of the latter, fortunately.

My own quarters consist of two metal wall lockers, the bunk, a small four-drawer chest, a wooden footlocker, and a couple of native mats on the floor. Fortunately, I live in a tent with a mosquito liner and wooden floor.

FOOD

Food is the next item. Most troops eat in army or other service mess halls. The combat units get priority on such items as steak, ice cream, and other succulent items. The rest of us eat fairly well, and we get steak and ice cream a few times each month.

Other fresh meats such as veal, chicken, and roast beef are the usual fare. Sometimes it's all canned meat when the ships in Saigon cannot get unloaded fast enough. Local fresh vegetables are used, but they have to be soaked in a solution because the Vietnamese, like many Orientals, fertilize with human waste.

You can be assured of ptomaine poison if you eat in a local cafe. The Orient is disease-ridden and as filthy as you can imagine. Eating out is one luxury you do not indulge in.

WEATHER

The weather here is warm to hot all year round. It is divided in South Vietnam into the Southeast and Northwest Monsoon Seasons. In the Southeast phase the prevailing winds are from the southeast naturally and vice versa.

In the area around Saigon where I am located, we have frequent rains from April through November while the northern portion of the country has a dry season. In November the reverse is true.

The Vietnamese speak of spring summer, fall, and winter; but spring is the transition period from Northwest to Southeast Monsoon, and fall is the reverse change. Summer equates with wet while winter means dryness — a strange world indeed.

WORK AND WORSHIP

Work schedule usually runs from 7 a. m.-5 p. m., seven days a week. Chapel services are avaliable at random hours, and you have the opportunity to worship on Sunday if you choose to do so. Many men attend

See CONGER, Page 4, Col.

Roberson Company

Low Bid for Dorm Is $1,151,238; Trustee Committees Decide Soon

A low bid of $1,151,238 on mitted November 8 by the Rob- Presbyterian College's proposed erson Construction Company of new men's dormitory was sub- Columbia.

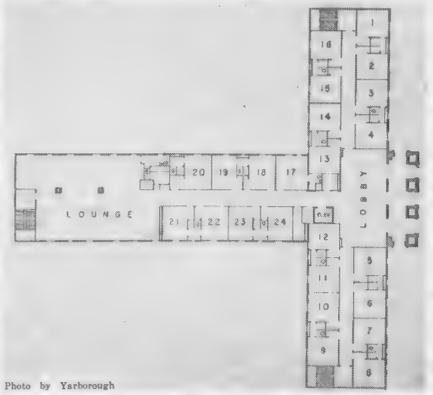

Photo by Yarborough

THE PROPOSED PLANS for the ground floor of Georgia Hall include a spacious lounge and a visitor's lobby.

It was one of nine bids considered and included sub-contracting proposals for the plumbing, heating, and air conditioning by Sanitary Heating and Plumbing Company of Greenville, and the electric installations by Utility Sales of Greer.

PC officials said further action on the new building now awaits a decision of the trustee finance and building committees. They will meet as soon as possible to study the bid and the suggested construction schedule before giving final authorization.

Other bids submitted, in addition to the low one by Roberson Company, were W. E. Baker, $1,172,000; Harper Builders, $1,188,846; Cecil's Construction Company, $1,195,000; Triangle Construction Company, $1,210,600; Barger Construction Company, $1,214,000; C. Y. Thomason, $1,248,652; and R. H. Elliott, $1,262,476.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Ass't. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor — E. Alexander Erwin, III, Mng. Editor

Page Two - The Blue Stocking - November 4, 1966

Class Absence Revision

The Academic Advisory Committee of the faculty has proposed a change in the present unexcused absence policy which governs the class attendance of the student body.

The Blue Stocking can see possible merit in the proposed change but with one major exception.

The proposal would place those upperclassmen with less than a cumulative G. P. R. average of 2.00 or less than 2.00 for the previous semester on freshman cuts.

However, under present school policy those people who enrolled before June, 1965, need only a minimum cumulative G. P. R. of 1.80 in order to qualify for graduation.

It seems unfair to make these individuals submit to this ruling. On the other hand, those people who enrolled after June, 1965, were fully aware that they would need a cumulative G. P. R. average of 2.00 in order to qualify for graduation.

Another fact is that with the increase in the minmum G. P. R. average has come a decrease in the number of hours needed to qualify for graduation.

As for the proposal itself, The Blue Stocking submits that the present "cut" system may have been the downfall of the marginal student. Without any or very little impetus to attend class, he has procrastinated and gotten so far behind in his academic work that it is virtually impossible for him to keep his grades up.

Whether students like to admit it or not, business concerns, graduate schools, and the like place emphasis on the college record of a potential employee or student. Grades are one very important indication of this record. All through the rest of a person's life, his college record will follow him and be used as a determinant in his evaluation by other people or groups.

This stricter regulation of absences suggests a withdrawal of restriction of liberty. But The Blue Stocking suggests that a restriction of liberty now, or perhaps it is better to say the instilling of a sense of responsibility and obligation now, will most probably result in a better controlled and ordered life in the future.

W. W. H.

Annual Bronze Derby Clash Steeped in Rich Tradition

By ROB DALTON

(The following article is reprinted from the November 19, 1965, issue of The Blue Stocking—Editor.)

The annual Bronze Derby gridiron clash on Thanksgiving Day carries 19 years of rich tradition for the two participating teams —the Presbyterian College Blue Hose and the Newberry College Indians. This year's game which is in Clinton on November 24, at 2:00 p. m., is the final game for the Blue Hose this season.

The Bronze Derby is a beaten old hat that sat on the head of a PC student some 19 years ago while he watched a Blue Hose-Indian basketball game. This game was played at Newberry in the winter of 1947. As the action on the court blazed, the stands also blazed. A Newberry student grabbed the little brown derby from the PC student's head and ran

A spirited argument resulted in which PC's present Head Coach, Cally Gault, was involved. Out of this the beaten brown derby became the symbol of athletic superiority between the two colleges.

The derby was dipped in bronze and was ceremoniously presented to the college which was victorious after each football, basketball, and baseball game.

After the first few years, the ownership of the Bronze Derby was decided by the traditional football game each Thanksgiving.

Over the years the Blue Hose have fared well against the Indians. In 51 meetings with Newberry, PC has won 32 of them, lost 15, and tied four.

Letters to the Editor

Open Council Meeting Opposed

Dear Woody,

We are writing in reply to your editorial of November 4 in which you came out in favor of open Student Council meetings. It is our purpose to show the disadvantages of such a system as we see them.

We fail to see what actual good the open meetings will do. If it is a question of letting the Student body know what the Council is proposing, then the question has already been solved by the recently begun practice of publishing minutes of meetings in The Blue Stocking. If it is a question of letting the members of the Student Body "see" what their representatives are "doing for them" (as was proclaimed by the little sign in the dining hall), then this question is invalid. The effectiveness of a Student Council member may not be determined by how well he performs in public debate. Most of the actual work of the Council is done in committees. This is where the effectiveness of your representative lies.

We also feel that there are certain matters brought before the Council which should not be made public to the entire Student Body at the time of debate, such as the approval of Honor Council members, Freshman Control Board members, or the debate over Rat Season in September. What should be made public is the final action by the Council along with the voting on the final recommendation by each representative.

We are not trying to make the Student Council an underground organization. We simply feel that open meetings serve no purpose. They may tend to stifle debate. They may cause the representatives to be judged by their constituents solely on the basis of external performance. They may cause the Council itself to become bogged down with minor points of parliamentary procedure when time could be spent more beneficially in informal discussion or debate.

We are all for increased interest in Student Government, but we feel this new policy will, if anything, hinder rather than increase the effectiveness of the Student Council. Isn't our primary purpose to serve effectively?

Sincerely,
Andy Cooper
John Greer
Bob Herlong
Rush Otey
Christie Patterson

Democrats Answer Young Republicans

Dear Sir:

We, the Young Democrats of Presbyterian College, were somewhat taken aback by the letter submittd to you by the Young Republicans Club. Upon reading their letter we noticed that it contained several inuendos and one rather obvious lie.

The Young Republicans asserted that one of their members who attended our meeting was expelled before he could present his business.

This is not true. Their representatives (there were two present), did not imply during the entire course of the meeting that they had any business to discuss, that is, until they were asked to leave. Then one of them brought up his business rather hastily. The Young Republicans say that he was not allowed to speak. However, when he requested audience, he was heard. We are sorry that the Young Republicans confused the factual part of the issue.

We agree that a harmonious attitude between the two clubs is derired, and we appreciate the Young Republicans' concern that friendly relations between these organizations be attained.

Sincerely,
The Young Democrats

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Student Council Minutes Published

NOVEMBER 16, 1966

President Warren called the meeting to order. All members were present.

Sarah Stribling, Chairman of the Women's Freshman Control Board, submitted a report on Rat Season, 1966. President Warren, on behalf of the Council, thanked her and the control board for their efforts and work.

The proposals by the committee studying chapel attendance were passed by the Council. These proposals were in aswer to previous proposals by Dr. Gettys, and were as follows:

1. To omit the detailed time element since on our campus there are varying conceptions of the correct time.

2. That students be allowed to enter the chapel service until 10:05 a. m., at which time the doors will be closed.

3. Those arriving between 10:00 a. m.-10:05 a. m. must be seated in the rear of the auditorium and it is their responsibility to give their name and chapel seat number for attendance purposes.

4. All chapel programs start promptly at 10:05 a. m. and end at 10:50 a. m.

5. Chapel Checkers should begin checking at 10:03 a. m. at the latest—to insure that attendance is taken by 10:05 a. m. There will be no interrupting the Checker once he or she has begun checking. All Checkers must be seated by 10:05 a. m. in order to avoid distractions.

6. Any person who is out of his seat in order to participate in a program must report this fact to the Head Checker or his own Checker before the chapel period.

7. In reference to suggestion No. 3 if tardiness of the students becomes excessive, a set number of tardinesses should be considered an absence.

Also Bill Bryant, Chairman of the committee studying absentee ballots, gave the proposal of that committee studying absentee ballots at PC. The proposal passed as a by-law and reads as follows:

A. When a student at Presbyterian College is unable to be present the day of any election for any reason, he may cast an absentee ballot by first, writing his name on a sheet of paper; secondly, getting one Student Council member or Honor Council member to witness this paper; thirdly, indicating his preference on the sheet; and finally, placing this (absentee ballot) in the absentee ballot box on campus.

B. A student who is leaving campus may cast an absentee ballot at any time after the candidate or candidates for the said election have been posted.

C. An absentee ballot may be placed in the absentee ballot box any time prior to one hour before the polls open for the said election.

David Berry moved that a recommendation be made to the faculty and administration to the effect that upperclassmen on academic probation be given regular upperclassmen cuts for chapel since it is non-academic attendance to which should not affect the grades of the student. Christie Patterson seconded this motion, which passed unanimously.

Also recommended, is the following concerning the dining hall:

Monday-Friday — Cafeteria be opened at 11:45 a. m.

See MINUTES, Page 4, Col. 3.

PC SENIORS ARE SMITH, JOHNSON, MONK, WARREN, HARRIS, WILLIAMS, McCASKILL, LYONS, LAWSON, HELMS, GRANT, MILLIGAN, AND YONCE.

BILL

Farewell to Seniors

It has been a long hard season for the football team with the whole ordeal drawing to a close in the next week. For most of the players, it will allow some time for a much needed rest before spring practice begins. But for some 13 seniors, it will be the last time that they will appear in a PC football uniform. These boys deserve a thank you for a job well done.

James Smith is a Co-Captain from Sylvania, Ga., who has established himself as the greatest pass-catching end in PC football history. Jim Johnson is another captain from Georgiana, Ala., who has played both ways and rendered valuable service while being hampered by labs. John Monk, the final captain, is from Atlanta, Ga., who was a second team All-South Carolina defensive lineman in 1965 and has lived up to his reputation as one of the most aggressive linemen on the team.

Bob Warren is a linebacker from Allendale. He has been a starter since his sophomore year. He has led the team in tackles this year and proved his worth as a statesman on the field. Butterbean Harris is a guard from Florence who has been a starter at one position or another for three years. He has served as captain of the specialty team with distinction.

Sam Williams is a fullback from Monroeville, Ala., who has made the All-South Carolina squad for the past two seasons. He has established himself as one of PC's all-time great ground-gainers, both on the football field and at Clinton Hall. Jack McCaskill is a guard from Orlando, Fla., who came into his own in his junior year and has been a valuable lineman ever since.

Sam Lyons, a tackle from Atlanta, has been a sore spot for opposing backs for the past three years. He has been a defensive standout all year with his aggressive play. Joe Lawson, of Union, has been a tough defensive end for PC between bad knees. He has always filled a big gap when he was well enough to play.

Jim Helms is a tackle product of Dublin, Ga., who has had his share of troubles with a knee and shoulder. When he was able to play though, the PC ball carriers could feel confident that their hole would be there. Olin "Old Man" Grant of Chester has had a long and illustrious career at PC. It's a shame that he couldn't have played when he was in his prime. Olin has been a real service to the team as both a defensive and offensive back.

Monk Milligan is a halfback from Atlanta who has earned the respect of everyone with his desire and courage. Larry Yonce of Johnston has been a fullback for the past two years who has showed hustle and desire to all his teammates.

Some of this has been in jest, but seriously the student body will miss you next year.

PC Faces Catamounts in Vital Tilt; Bronze Derby Clash Next Thursday

By MIKE SIMONS

A shot at the Carolinas Conference title hangs in the balance tomorrow and Thanksgiving Day as Presbyterian College takes on Western Carolina, and Newberry in two all-important conference games.

Currently second in the CC with a 3-2 league record, the Hose attempt to close the gap on league-leading Lenoir Rhyne, now 5-1 in the conference.

The Hose have their work cut out for them since the Catamounts have averaged 45 points a game over their last two outings. Last week they stunned favored Newberry by a 40-0 rout.

Led by All-Conference quarterback Jim Williams, the Catamounts have come on strong in recent games, due to an explosive passing attack. Williams has already broken the conference passing record, with 1932 yards through the air. Last week against Newberry he passed for 209 yards, hitting 19 out of 30.

The Hose's Bill Kirtland is in the process of rewriting Presbyterian College's record book, as he has 938 yards via the air. The record is 1,009 yards, set in 1964.

End James Smith has already broken most school pass-receiving records, and what marks he has not already broken should fall tomorrow. If he catches one pass, he will be the all-time leader for most receptions in a single season with 33. Already in the record by Smith's name are most yardage (415), most career receptions (77), and most yards in one game (116).

This is the final game of the season for Western Carolina, and they now stand 5-4 overall and 3-3 in the conference, while PC is 4-4 overall.

Due to Western Carolina's surge in recent weeks, most oddsmakers rate the Blue Hose a 15-point underdog, so the Blue Hose defense, especially the secondary, will have to be extra sharp if the Blue Hose are to emerge victorious.

PC would like nothing better than to avenge last season's 8-7 loss on a two-point conversion play.

PC has ever so slight an edge over mutal foes, the difference coming in the Appalachian game. PC defeated the Apps 21-17, while Western Carolina fell 35-32. Both teams have lost to Lenoir Rhyne and Catawba, and both have defeated Elon and Guilford.

After less than a week's rest, the Hose meet Newberry on Thanksgiving Day in the classic "Bronze Derby" Battle. Newberry is currently in possession of the Derby, having taken a 6-0 victory last year at Newberry.

The Indians lost center-linebacker Pat Merrick, who took almost every honor bestowed by the CC and NIAA last season. However, Newberry has excellent depth in their line, and this is the one bright spot for them. Coach Harvey Kirkland's son, Benji, and Ray Hesse alternate at quarterback.

Fullback George Taylor leads the Indians in rushing with a 4.8 yard average. Newberry has an off-day tomorrow, so they should be well-rested for Thursdays' conflict.

This game is also a must for PC's title hopes.

CC Standings

TEAM	Conference W	L	T	Overall W	L	T
Lenoir Rhyne	5	1	0	6	2	0
PRESBYTERIAN	3	2	0	4	4	0
Newberry	3	2	1	4	4	1
Guilford	3	2	1	4	4	1
Western Carolina	3	3	0	5	4	0
Catawba	3	3	0	4	5	0
Appalachian	2	4	0	3	5	1
Elon	1	6	0	1	8	0

Last Week's Results

PRESBYTERIAN (Idle)
Western Carolin—40 ... Newberry—0
Emory and Henry—21 ... Appalachian—0
Guilford—27 ... Catawba—23
Lenoir Rhyne—22 ... Elon—14

This Week's Schedule

WESTERN CAROLINA ... at PRESBYTERIAN
Elon ... at Frederick
Lenoir Rhyne ... at Guilford (Nov. 24)

Bandits Down PiKA's 14-0; Take IM Football Crown

By TOM CAIN

Led by an aggressive defense and the play-making of quarterback Vin Atkinson, the Bandits defeated the PiKA's 14-0 Thursday afternoon to win the intramural football championship of 1966.

With the booming punts of Larry Bullis and the defensive line keeping the PiKA's in their own territory for the first half, Atkinson was able to pass the Bandits to their first touchdown with only 30 seconds left in the first half. Atkinson passed to Larry Bullis for the touchdown and passed to David Cottingham for the extra point to give the Bandits a 7-0 lead.

In the second half the PiKA defense stiffened against the Bandit offense, but the independent's defense was even tougher on the PiKA's, as the fraternity team again stayed in their own territory. Given the ball inside the PiKA mid-field stripe, Larry "Ishmo" McLaughlin passed to Cottingham for the Bandits' second touchdown as the championship was decided.

In other games of the week, the Bandits routed the Alpha Sigs 52-0, and the PiKA's crushed Calvert House 39-0, before Thursday's championship game. Meanwhile, the Alpha Sigs won third place by defeating the Pi Kappa Phi's 20-13, and Vetville gained fourth place by trouncing Calvert House 32-20.

The Sigma Nu's beat the Theta Chi's 26-13 and won a forfeit from the Chargers, while the Theta Chi's beat Vetville 42-18. The KA's won their last game of the season from the Chargers by the score of 19-13.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

BROADWAY Theatre
FRIDAY and SATURDAY
WALT DISNEY'S
FIGHTING PRINCE
MONDAY and TUESDAY
LOST COMMAND
Anthony Quinn, Alain Delon, George Segal, Michelle Morgan, Maurice Ronet, Claudia Cardinale.
STARTS WEDNESDAY
ELVIS PRESLEY IN SPINOUT

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Campus News Briefs

Delegates Attend Trade Meeting

Presbyterian College delegates to the Third Annual South Carolina World Trade Conference held yesterday were Mr. Dixon Cunningham, Carlos Emanuel, and Robbie Hibbits.

The conference, which was sponsored by the School of Industrial Management and Textile Science of Clemson University and the South Carolina Regional Export Expansion Council, was held at the Jack Tar Poinsett Hotel in Greenville.

The conference program included talks and question-and-answer periods on a variety of topics having to do with world trade.

Drama Club

The Drama Club announces that their second semester production will be the off-Broadway musical comedy, "The Fantastiks."

The play is probably best known for the hit, "Try to Remember." Casting and production will get underway the first week of next semester.

BSU Meeting

Dr. Vernon Moore, a Greenwood obstetrician, will be the featured speaker at a dinner meeting of the Baptist Student Union Monday night at Blazer's Restaurant beginning at six.

Dr. Moore will talk on such topics as world population, premarital relations, and Christian marriage.

Movie Review

On Friday, November 18, "Suddenly Last Summer" will be shown at 7:00 p. m. in Richardson Science Hall.

This is a hair-raising tale in which Elizabeth Taylor is placed in a private mental hospital for treatment, following a traumatic experience she had while on the French Rivira. She witnessed the horrible death of her favorite cousin.

Her aunt, played by Katherine Hepburn, wants a lobotomy performed to quiet her, both figuratively and literally. Montgomery Clift, the psychiatrist, senses his patient may not be insane as her aunt pretends, and before agreeing to the operation, gives the patient an injection of truth serum.

Under the injection, Miss Taylor relates the events leading up to her cousin's death "last summer." Katherine Hepburn is exposed as the direct cause of her son's death. Unable to face the reality of her guilt, she loses her reason.

Mr. Hammet

The Presbyterian College board of visitors, inaugurating an outstanding service award for the PC faculty and staff, has selected Ben Hay Hammet to receive the first one presented.

He was cited for meritorious work at Presbyterian College as director of alumni and public relations since 1949. Under his direction, both the alumni and the publications programs have received national notice.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, Nov. 21 — Pi Kappa Phi: "How to Enjoy Chapel."

Wednesday, Nov. 23—Thanksgiving Worship Servics — Dr. Weersing.

Mrs. Johnson

Mrs. Robert Johnson, Assistant Director of Guidance at Presbyterian College, has been elected secretary of the Guidance Section of the Presbyterian Education Association of the South.

The membership of the Guidance Section of the Presbyterian Education Association of the South is composed of professional personnel of the twelve guidance centers in the southeastern states which are sponsored by the Presbyterian Church, U. S.

Board of Visitors

Malcolm P. Niven, Greenville business executive, is the new chairman of the Presbyterian College board of visitors.

Other officers of the PC advisory group are: Dave Pennington of Columbia, president of the Pennington Manufacturing Company, South Carolina vice-chairman; and Grover C. Maxwell, Sr., of Augusta, president of Maxwell Brothers Furniture Company, Georgia vice-chairman. Mrs. R. E. Ferguson, Jr., of Clinton has been reelected secretary.

Hose Travel To Kentucky; Will Start Two Freshmen

A small, fast-breaking Presbyterian College basketball team tips off its 1966-67 season tonight at Pikesville, Ky.

Although they've looked good in practice games, the Blue Hose will get their first test against Wilberford College in the opening game of the tournament beginning tonight.

PC will be led by two junior co-captains, guard Ken Martin of Estill, Ky., and forward Richard Quillen of Kingsport, Tenn. Martin was the Blue Hose leading scorere last season with a 16.0 average. Quillen, as the front-line leader, averaged 14.7 points per game last season and was the team's number two rebounder, despite missing the first five games with an injury.

Two freshmen will be in the starting lineup for the Blue Hose. Bobby Quillen, younger brother of Richard, will team with Martin to make up PC's back court. Beecher Hale of Prestonburg, Ky., is the other first-year man getting the starting nod from Musselman at forward.

Sophomore Doug MacLeod will round out the starting unit for PC. MacLeod is a 6-8 center from Hingham, Mass., who saw action as a reserve last season. He's the only tall one among the starters.

Musselman will call on two freshmen when he goes to the bench. Forward George Dickerson of Spartanburg is expected to see a lot of action for the Blue Hose. Guard Woody Carter of Price, Ky., will be the man to spell PC's back court team.

Commenting on the upcoming season, Musselman said:

"I believe that we will have a team that is going to win some ball games this year. We'll be short and inexperienced, but I think we can make up for this with speed and desire."

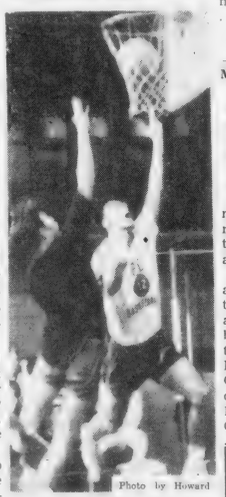

Photo by Howard

GEORE DICKERSON shows veteran poise as his drive nets two points in pre-season scrimmage.

CONGER, Cont. from Page 1.

chapel over here, more than you might imagine.

ENTERTAINMENT

That's about all I can say. When you cover eating, sleeping, and working that accounts for most of your time over here.

There are movies at night in various units, usually the latest Beach Party or Suffers' Holiday or some other movies that would be about umpteen-to-one to make the Academy Awards. Occasionally, a good one will crop up.

For those so inclined there are the usual run of bars, and cheap ones at that. The command staff would rather men not go to such places, but then men will be boys occasionally . . . .

Sincerely,
Paul

MINUTES, Cont. from Page 2.

Monday, Wednesday, Friday—Cafeteria close at 1:15 p. m.

Tuesday-Thursday — Cafeteria close at 1:30 p. m .

Saturday—Run according to present schedule.

This recommendation was made by Andy Cooper, Chairman of the Dining Hall Committee, was seconded by Bill Bryant, and passed unanimously.

Christie Patterson's motion, as seconded by Bob Herlong, to the effect that all dorms be open at specified times for visiting by both sexes, was committed to study by motion of David Berry, with second by Rush Otey. This committee consists of Bruce Lawrence, Christie Patterson, Lilibet Vass, Rush Otey, and John Greer.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy

Stationery, School Supplies

The Greeks

By RICHARD SMART

The Alpha Sig's overcame the Pi Kapp's in intramural football, a noteworthy victory. A Rush Party was held in Rock Hill at the Holiday Inn last Friday night. It was a tremendous success! Brother of the week is Hunter Ramseur. Also, the refinishing is finished on the floor. All is well on second floor Judd.

The Theta's wish to thank P. K. Harkey for the splendid coaching job. It is alleged that the Theta's enjoyed the most successful intramural season ever. Their won-loss record is not indicated due to lack of statistics in the report. However, there seems to be no lack of enthusiasm as the boys hope for an even more succesful season next year. Brother Rusty Tatum lavaliered Miss Harriett Jones of Winthrop College. In closing, the "Dog," the "Frog," and the "Hawk" had a ball!

The Pi Kapp's have distributed smoker invites. There was a Rush Party in Rock Hill at the Fiesta Club. Added to the movement was David McDonald, a sophomore from Brunswick, Ga. Brother of the week is Jack Phillips. New furniture was recently added, a most enhancing event. Pledges Don Taylor and Duane Armistead recently completed their pledge trips—the heat is now on for the boys.

The Snakes remain on the inside at the Clinton House as Miss Carol Johnson and Miss Harriet Walters recently received the pins of "Raccoon" Cassady (condolences to "Baby Dealer") and David Albright. The former relationship came after only a three-week ritual. Mr. Pease from National and Robert Elrod attended the Smoker.

The PiKA's held their smoker Monday night. There were plenty of smokes, the shrimp was good, and the ham wasn't bad at all. There will be a party in the fraternity room following the football game. Hopes have been stepped up for Charlie Chapman, due to a new new found source of stimulation in the study of French. He has suddenly proven to be a more conscientious student—at least in French. Dan got his weekly call from Phyllis last night; the remainder of the week will be pure bliss. Brothers of the week are Bob Warren Allan Harris, and Mike Donovan. Glen Beckham shows greater promise in his chosen field of academic endeavor. He has already made plans to further his study next year.

The Order had their annual rush party at Legion Lake. The entertainment was provided by The Tempests. David Berry qualified for the M. V. D. award. However, this is under protest by brother Berry who feels that brother Dunlap should share his honor, a most magnanimous tribute. Congratulations are extended to Rick Carpenter for having the fantastic luck of escorting the famed cousin of Jim Roberts. Tons of fun and the party was great.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP

CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST

West Main Street — Clinton, S. C.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY

"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"

Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts

ON THE SQUARE

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .

Where you'll find all fashions for men

NORTH BROAD STREET

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE

Cleaners

. . . and . . .

Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists

Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria

Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

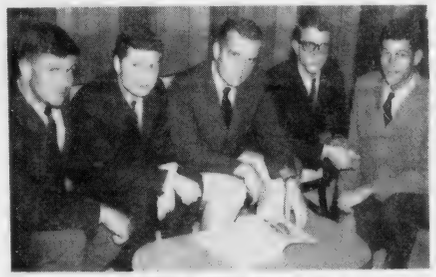
The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., December 2, 1966 — No. 10

Stocking Fund Goal Is Set At $650.00

By MIKE GOWER

On Sunday, December 4, from one to three o'clock p. m., Presbyterian College will participate in the second annual Christmas Stocking Fund drive sponsored by the Clinton Jaycees. The drive is directed by Len Caricofe, Jaycee chairman of the stocking drive, with Mike McGehee and the S. C. A. organizing the PC workers.



The campus groups will meet in Neville Hall by 1 o'clock p. m. The fraternities, Freshman S. C. A., and the Women's Council will have groups out; there are two independent groups—headed by Terry Dye and Monk Milligan and by Benton Lutz and Charles Eagles—who are to be made up of any persons not in any of the first three groups. If an independent wishes to help, he should contact one of the independent group leaders before the drive begins. There should be approximately 20 persons per group.

With approximately 200 people from the college in the drive, PC could possibly reach the goal of $650.00 quickly and go on and exceed last year's totals. Last year the goal was for $500.00 and the actual receipts were $850.00. It is hoped that this year the $1,000 mark can be reachd.

This money will go to help the needy children of Clinton have a better Christmas. Each child will get $10.00 to purchase Christmas gifts for himself and his family. In the past, the child has usually bought more for his family than for himself.

Mike McGehee, President of the S. C. A., said, "Doing this collection for these children is a worthwhile project because it is not only a benefit for other people, but also it helps improve the student body relationship with the city."

The various campus organizations will compete among themselves to see which group can have the greatest participation on a percentage basis. The winning organization will receive a trophy.

DISCUSSING CHRISTMAS FUND PLANS left to right are Bob Warren, Len Caricofe (Jaycee Chairman), Mike McGehee (PC Chairman), Bob Herlong, and John Walther.

Formal Rush Climaxed As Fifty-Six Men Pledge

KA Leads With 15, Sigma Nu Second

Formal Greek fraternity rushing was climaxed this Thursday with a total of 56 men pledging.

Kappa Alpha Order led this year, closely followed by Sigma Nu, Alpha Sigma Phi, Pi Kappa Alpha, Theta Chi, and Pi Kappa Phi.

Kappa Alpha Order led with 15 pledges. Sigma Nu pledged ten, and Alpha Sigma Phi pledged nine. Both Pi Kappa Alpha and Theta Chi pledged eight, and Pi Kappa Phi pledged six.

KAPPA ALPHA PLEDGES

Those men pledged by Kappa Alpha Order were: John Akers, Bill Beaty, Leman Bonar, Rufus Bratton, George Dickerson, Danny Fry, Robert Guess, Tommy Johnson, Bobby Johnston, Carlton Kelly, Tom Ligon, Hugh Reid, Dick Soffe, John Taylor, and Paul Wilburn.

SIGMA NU PLEDGES

Those men pledged by Sigma Nu were: Charlie Breedlove, Ted Hall, Wayne Harris, Howard Higgins, James Hufham, Steve Lehman, Peter Mallory, Mike Maynard, Bill Myers, and Holbrook Raynall.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI PLEDGES

Those men pledged by Alpha Sigma Phi were: Fil Acker, Tom Cain, Bob Cosby, Buddy Ferguson, Jody Fowler, Bob Gustafson, Duncan McFayden, Larry Sigman, and Johnny Stanford.

PI KAPPA ALPHA PLEDGES

Those men pledged by Pi Kappa Alpha were: Phil Bradner, John Denny, Shell Dula, Carey Fussell, Stan Kemp, Doug MacLeod, Ed Paulling, and Wayne Robinson.

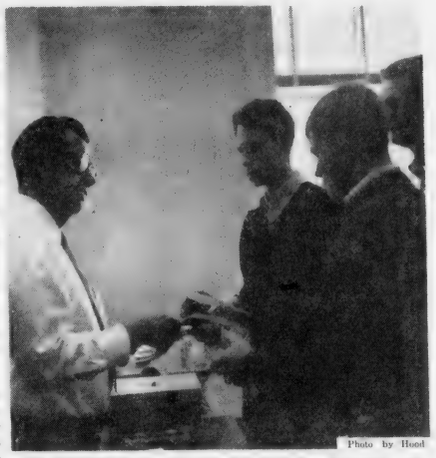


Photo by Hood

MR. MARTIN registers the bids of Jody Fowler, Fil Acker, and Sherwood McKay yesterday during pledge period.

THETA CHI PLEDGES

Those men pledged by Theta Chi were: Juan Amaya, John D. Boyles, Ronny Colvin, Ed Hinkle, Larry Eleazer, James L. Hill, Bob Thrower, and Robert A. Wilson.

PI KAPPA PHI PLEDGES

Those men pledged by Pi Kappa Phi were: Terry Clyburn, Mike Gower, Sherwood McKay, Clinton E. Massey, John Oswalt, and John Ritter.

Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs Highlight Christmas Dance Tonight

Hundreds of dates from all over the country will flock to the PC campus today and tomorrow for the Christmas Dance Weekend.

Festivities began on Thursday afternoon when many PC males dressed in traditional Christmas green to help Clinton officially open its Yuletide season with the annual Christmas parade.

The main event of the weekend for many students will be Friday night from eight until twelve in Greenville Hall when Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs will perform. Mr. Williams and his group are famous for their recordings of "Stay" and its answer, "May I?", and other nation wide best-sellers.

According to Larry Yonce, chairman of the Student Entertainment Committee, the dress for men Friday night will be coat and tie. For women cocktail dresses or semi-formals will be "preferred, but not required."

All six social fraternities are planning to have parties at various locations on Saturday night, with many having planned recreation on Saturday afternoon.

The administration has announced that classes will be held on Saturday. The library will be open until 5 p. m. Students are urged to come early and avoid the rush.

MAURICE WILLIAMS AND THE ZODIACS will be the featured performers at the Christmas Dance tonight.

College Choir Will Present Carol Service This Sunday

A Christmas Carol Service will be presented in Clinton this Sunday afternoon by the 51-voiced choir of Presbyterian College.

It is scheduled for 4:30 p. m. in Belk Auditorium, and the public is invited to attend.

Charles T. Gaines, assistant professor of music who directs the choir, has announced that most of the repertoire is sung a capella.

Sunday's service will include works by Monteverdi, Gibbons, Bach, Brahms, Berloiz, Poulenc, Holest, and carols from Germany, France, Denmark, and Poland.

Soloists in the service will be Karen Bremer of Sanford, N. C.; Nancy Morgan of Atlanta; Ga.; Beck Truesdell and Martha Jean Smith, both of Newberry; and Ken Terrell of Ware Shoals.

The audience will be invited to join in the singing of traditional carols. Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, academic dean of Presbyterian College, is to assist in the service.

Professor Gaines said an instrumental prelude will begin at 4:15 p. m. Nell Nichols of Chester and Nancy Jones of Clinton will play flute music by Handel. Fred Oliver of College Park, Ga., and James Ritchie of Clinton will present two chorale arrangements for trumpets by Bach.

Organists for the service will be Ray McDonald of Brunswick, Ga., and Steve Turner of Clinton.

Dr. Cooler Elected To Guidance Office

At the annual meeting of the South Carolina Branch of the American Personnel and Guidance Association held at the University of South Carolina on November 5. Dr. Claude H. Cooler, Chairman of the Psychology Department and Director of Guidance at Presbyterian College, was elected President-Elect of the organization.

The theme of the conference was "Reach for Tomorrow through Vocational Guidance," which was the theme selected for National Vocational Guidance Week, October 23-29, 1966. The principal topic for consideration at the conference was vocational training opportunities in South Carolina.

The American Personnel and Guidance Association comprises eight divisions.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Charles W. Eagles, Ass't. Editor — Wm. W. Hall, Jr., Editor — E. Alexander Erwin, III, Mng. Editor

A Word to the Staff, Thanks—Appreciation

This is the last edition of the Blue Stocking under the direction of the present editor.

In preparation for the end of the present publication, the present editor would like to extend thanks to all those who have made publication possible—the staff.

Largely, the members of the staff have been accorded the status of all work and little, if any, glory, and it is only fitting and proper that they be recognized and thanked for their efforts in a suitable manner. It is hoped that they will continue to support and aid the new editor and his administration.

By definition, a newspaper is charged with portraying to its readers an accurate and, as far as possible, adequate reflection of those happenings and events which make up the news of the day. This reporting should be free of bias, depicting situations as they are and not as anyone or any group would like them to be. At the same time a newspaper must try to contain itself within the boundaries of good taste, fair play, and avoidance of libel.

In an earlier statement of policy, The Blue Stocking stated that it accepted the challenge not only to report the news but, in certain cases, to initiate and to lead action toward reform through its editorial opinion and letters to the editor.

Right or wrong, The Blue Stocking has ventured to accomplish both tasks to the best of its ability, and it extends the challenge to future editors and their respective staffs.

In a lighter vein perhaps The Daily News, Newport News, Va., sums up the editor's predicament in the following poem.

The Editor

An Editor knocked at the Pearly Gates.
His face was scared and cold.
He stood before the man of fate
For admission to the fold.
What have you done, St. Peter asked,
To gain admission here?
I've been an editor, Sir, he said,
For many and many year.
The Pearly Gates swung open wide.
St. Peter touched the bell.
Come in, he said, and choose your harp.
You've had your share of hell.

Supporting Staff

Business Manager	Joe Stevens
News Editor	Rush Otey
Copy Editor	Tony Dendy
Sports Editor	Bill Bassham
Feature Editor	Susan Gilbert
Greek Editor	Richard Smart
Assistant News Editor	Ray Combs
Assistant Sports Editor	Gene Sullivan
Assistant Feature Editor	Karen Weaver
Circulation Manager	Robert Gualteri
Typists	Carolyn Colby, Mavis Harrop
Cartoonists	Jim Brewer, John Weigel
Movie Editor	Christie Patterson

Do Grades Disrupt Education?

By BERNARD FARBER
The Collegiate Press Service

One of the biggest issues at Universities is the question of the use of grades and class ranks by the Selective Service System to draft students. Among the many arguments presented against university cooperation with this system is the contention that it would disrupt the class room situation by making students afraid to do anything other than compete for life and death grades. This, it is argued, would lead many students to neglect to explore problems and concepts of interest to them, neglect to seriously question the assumptions of the teacher, but rather memorize, apple-polish, and ask are we responsible for this on the test?

Carrying this theme a bit farther, some students and faculty begin to question whether the grading system itself does not similarly disrupt the educational process. Those who do have to examine exactly what function grades fulfill.

This summer, at the US Student Press Association (USSPA) Congress at the University of Illinois, I attended a three-day seminar on "issues in higher education." On the last day, Paul Lauter, of the American Friends Service Committee, spoke of grades. "No way around it, we need them," was the outcry of a few seated around the table. Lauter's constant question was "Why?" So there's some basis for measuring achievement was the answer. "Why?" So the school, the student, and others can see how well the student is learning, was the answer. Then the question was raised, "in order to do what?"

The answer to that, of course, is that we 'need' grades in order to do many things. We need them to flunk students out of college, because we don't have adequate facilities to accommodate all who want to come. We need them for gaining admission to graduate schools. We need them, that is, for extrinsic, rather than instrinsic reasons. And every school retains grading because that criteria survives in other social institutions.

The answer to this constant objection that graduate schools and corporations won't know who to pick if the university abolishes grades was suggested by Paul Goodman in "Compulsory Mis-education:" that these institutions administer their own tests. 'Why,' he asks, 'should Harvard professors do the testing for corporations and graduate schools?'

Presently, everyone is entrapped within a system. And that includes the students. For students, Goodman believes, 'the primary duty of the university is to deprive them of their props, their dependence on extrinsic valuation and motivation.'

Last semester, one psychology instructor at Roosevelt University, Chicago, Illinois, offered to let his students plan the structure of their course, whether or not there would be a txtbook, whether it would be lecture or discussions, and whether they would break up into smaller groups. They discussed it for three class periods, and decided they wanted him to decide.

For they were afraid. Afraid of what would then happen to them on the final that the instructor was still forced to procure. Afraid of whether they would learn what they were 'responsible for.' And afraid of testing their capacity to explore questions and problems with relavance to students' lives, and even the professor said that there were certain fundamentals which he felt compelled to instill because those going on to higher courses would not otherwise be able to handle them—that is, pass them.

When asked at the USSPA seminar whether the abolition of grading and the institution of student decision-making over course structure might not mean that we don't 'cover the material we're supposed to,' Lauter said, 'So what?' Again, it is a question of covering the material we need to fit other people's needs and requirments, and not our own. There are so many things that interest the average individual that he could spend a lifetime exploring them.

In the meantime, all of us sit around and wait for our enlightened administration to suddenly perceive all this. For this, too, Lauter had an answer. Asked when and how the reforms he talked of could begin, he said, 'Why not here and now?' If the university continues to grade, continues to frighten us into stunting our curiosity, continues to be irrelevant to the burning questions that bother us, then we should no longer consider taking courses in the university, but rather go to a vocational training school. We could do our real reading during vacations, have our real discussions during our weekends or evenings, perhaps set up 'counter-courses' here at school. That choice is ours. Hell, in the final accounting, it is not other people, but only ourselves.

Madrigal Festivities Have English Origin

By KAREN WEAVER
Assistant Feature Editor

The Madrigal Singers of Presbyterian College will present a Madrigal Dinner - Concert in Greenvile Dining Hall next Tuesday night at 7:30.

An authentic English dinner, including boar's head and flaming pudding, will be served, with various courses announced by trumpet fanfare. The singers will present a program of twelve madrigals with the after-dinner coffee or tea.

The madrigal was a type of song sung in sixteenth century England by nobles who gathered in the king's courtyard to eat and entertain themselves. The songs had a pastoral or love theme and were sung in parts.

A jester was usually on hand to annoy someone and tell ribald stories. He quoted Shakespeare and other contemporary playwrights.

Sammy Hogson of Anderson designed the costumes which cost about thirty dollars each and are the result of research into dress of sixteenth century England. Sammy also designed the sets and managed the production.

The Madrigal Singers are selected from the Presbyterian College Choir on the basis of their musical ability and vocal talent and are directed by Charles T. Gaines, chairman of the music department.

The sopranos are Karen Bremer, Bonnie Dietz, Anne Rooney, and Becky Stevens. Helen Moore, Katrina Compton, Jill Clark, and Nancy Alexander sing alto.

The tenors are Russ McAllister, Ken Terrell, Sammy Hobson, and Dickie Query. The basses are Hunter Ramseur, Tim Helgeson, Ray McDonald, and Jim Murchison. Danny Brown will be the jester.

A total of 245 people from all over South Carolina and other states are expected.

BROADWAY Theatre
FRI.-SAT., DEC. 2-3
ALVAREZ KELLY
MON.-TUES., DEC. 5-6
SHEER FEAR! SHEER SHOCK!
ROCK HUDSON
JOHN FRANKENHEIMER'S SECONDS
A Paramount Picture
STARTS WEDNESDAY
WAY . . . WAY OUT

Sock Editorial Board Announces Editor, Business Mgr. Candidates

Candidates for the positions of editor and business manager of The Blue Stocking for the next two semesters were announced this week by Woody Hall, the outgoing editor.

Charles Eagles and Alex Erwin are running for editor, and Tony Dendy and Kirk Peavy are running for business manager.

Eagles is from Florence and has served as Managing Editor and Assistant Editor of The Blue Stocking. He was also the editor of this year's Knapsack.

Erwin, a Sigma Nu from Laurinburg, N. C., has served as Copy Editor and now serves as Managing Editor of The Blue Stocking.

Dendy is from Greenville and is the present Copy Editor of the paper and also does some writing for the sports' page. Peavy has also done some work for the paper in the past.

Commenting on the upcoming election which will be held the first full week of classes next semester, outgoing editor Woody Hall stated, "This is the first time in several years that there has been more than one candidate for each office. All four of the potential office-holders appear capable, and each has shown the willingness and desire to do an admirable job if so elected."

MADRIGAL SINGERS Left to Right Seated are Karen Bremer, Becky Stevens, and Jill Clark; Standing, Sam Hobson, Tim Helgeson, and Hunter Ramseur. A total of 16 Madrigal Singers will present a Madrigal Dinner-Concert Tuesday night. See feature story on page 2.

Lysergic Acid Diethlamide Offers 'Trip Worth A Thousand Words'

(ACP) — Many of the therapeutic breakthroughs that have been wrought as a result of serious, scientific experimentation with LSD have recently been brought to a halt. It is paradoxical that the very virtues of the drug are a curse to its legal existence, comments the Cormont, Marymount College, Tarrytown, New York.

Because LSD is not difficult to mix in the lab, its cost is minimal. It is not an aphrodisiac nor is it habit forming. It is definitely "camp" on the American campus scene. It's so far out it's in. Time magazine recently noted scrawled on a fence of the University of Wisconsin "Your Campus Travel Agent—One Trip is Worth a Thousand Words."

LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide) is the most potent of the three groups of "hallucinogenic" or "psychedelic" drugs. The mildest group consists of morning glory seeds, nutmeg, and marijuana. The middle group, more potent, is mescaline, psilocybin, bufotenine, and dimethytpamine.

LSD is in a class all its own. "It has 100 times the potency of psilocybin and 7,000 times that of mescaline, which itself is considerably more powerful than marjuana." In fact, it is its own best salesman. Tens of thousands of college students are using or have used it.

It is this indiscriminate use of the drug that has forced the U. S. government to legally halt its use in many cases. By this restriction those persons who could benefit from it (alcoholics, drug addicts, etc.) are now losing their precious opportunity for another chance.

"Come on, man, wanna take that trip—it doesn't cost but a two or a fiver—and the trip, man. I mean it's cool . . . like unto nothing you've ever been, heard, or seen before.

But Joe College has forgotten to mention that the trip isn't always pretty—and for some it's a one-way ride. And what about the people who really need a seat?

Students Hope To Publish First PC Literary Magazine

By DON McNAIR

Several PC students have shown interest in beginning a college literary magazine. The first edition is to be published at the end of next semester.

John Gaw is the editor and has divided the work into four sections: essays, satire, short stories, and poetry.

Group leaders have been appointed to write, collect, and organize the material in the various sections. Randy Grant is in charge of the essay division. The short story department is headed by Judy Simpson and Nancy Morgan.

Hank Parks heads the satire part of the magazine. Arline Riddle, Jane Van Sleen, and Don McNair are in charge of the poetry division.

The magazine is progressing very well due to the efforts of interested students and Dr. Skinner, the advisor. However, much material is needed. Anyone interested in contributing is urged to submit material to one of the above-mentioned people.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Psychologists Meet In Columbia Nov. 18

The annual meeting of the South Carolina Psychological Association opened at the Capital Cabana Motel, Columbia, Friday, November 18, with Dr. Ralph Tindal, USC, presiding.

"Psychology in the Sixties" was the theme of the convention speakers, introduced by Dr. Robert V. Heckel, USC, Program Chairman.

How can we perceive the world about us was the question proposed by Dr. Don Scott, Wofford College. Departing from theories of Helmholtz vintage, research presented indicated that our awareness is due to the patterns of impulses from various sense organs rather than simple direct connections between receptors and the brain.

The effect of radiation on behavior was featured by Dr. Lee J. Peacock, Universty of Georgia, Saturday morning. We hear sounds through our ears and sense light through our eyes. But through what receptors are we stimulated by rays? While present research may not give "final" answers, Dr. Peacock's researchers indicated that anosmic mice with olfactory lobes showed almost no change in behavior following exposure to radiation. In one experiment, mice which had been conditioned to choose liquid of high alcoholic content in place of water showed marked behavoral change following radiation — choosing water in the place of the alcohol.

At the business meeting, Dr. M. Kershaw Walsh, USC, reported on a proposed licensing law for psychologists in South Carolina.

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 3,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR
FOCUS U.S. goals: Where and how?

The Christian Science Monitor
1 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115
Please enter a Monitor subscription for the name below.
I am enclosing $..... (U. S. funds) for the period checked. ☐ 1 year $12 ☐ 9 months $9 ☐ 6 months $6
Name.....
Street..... Apt./Rm. #.....
City..... State..... Zip.....
☐ College student..... Year of graduation.....
☐ Faculty member
P-CN-45

The Blue Stocking

Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, December 2, 1966 — No. 10

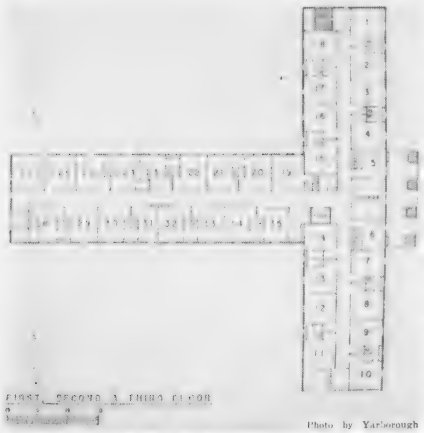

Photo by Yarborough

FLOOR PLAN for three floors of Georgia Hall as depicted by Six Associates of Asheville.

Clearing on West Plaza Begins for New Dorm

George Reid Construction Co. of Clinton began clearing space on the East Plaza Wednesday for Georgia Hall, the new men's dormitory. Several large oak trees were removed at the future site.

Plans for the new dorm have been slightly altered. Previous plans for the new dorm called for construction to be completed by August, 1967. G. E. Campbell, Business Manager of PC, announced that full occupancy is now planned for second semester of the 1967-68 academic year.

Campbell expressed the belief that an eight-month building schedule would have been too hurried and that the 12-month plan will be more workable. If the work progresses sufficiently, some students will be moved from off-campus housing into Georgia Hall during first semester next year.

Although some criticism has been raised about the site of the new dorm, Campbell stated that the location would help balance the eastern end of the West Plaza and would not make the area too crowded. He said many trees will be left around Georgia Hall to add to the appearance of the plaza.

The plans by Six Associates of Asheville, N. C., call for 33 two-man rooms arranged in two-man suites and two single rooms on the second, third, and fourth floors. Each room will have built-in desks, shelves, and dressers similar to those in Bailey Dormitory.

Ground - breaking ceremonies will take place before Christmas holidays. Actual construction will begin immediately thereafter by Roberson Construction Co. of Columbia.

Vietnam War

Conger Discusses VC War Tactics; Declares Pull - Out Is Not Answer

(The following article is another installment in a series written by First Lt. Paul S. Conger, Jr., on the war in Vietnam. Conger writes of the nature of Viet Cong tactics and the American adaption to them—Editor.)

VC TACTICS AGAINST FRANCE

In the early 1950's Ho Chi Minh was a saviour to the Vietnamese Communist as well as Nationalist. Together they fought a common hated enemy—the French.

The results of VC tactics upon the French are both historical and legendary: historical because they actually happened and yet legendary in the light of their effectiveness against such a formidable opponent as the French military establishment.

Thousands of Vietnamese worked long, hard hours to build roads through jungles that Americans would and still do consider impenetrable and untenable.

MORALE CARRIED OVER

It is understandable that such exploits and their overwhelming success against the French gave the VC a tremendous morale factor that carried over into 1963.

They were as fervent in their zeal to completely dominate the whole of Vietnam as they were at the fall of Dien Bien Phu in March, 1954.

DIFFERENT SITUATION

The situation the VC faced in 1963 was quite different for two major reasons: (1) the Nationalistic people of South Vietnam did not favor the Communists, and (2) the U. S. Army is much better trained and equipped than the French ever were.

The French army's greatest deficiency was that they would not fight unconventional warfare against an unconventional enemy.

The VC were well aware of this, and the whole episode of history called the Indochinese War was a repeat of the U. S. Colonials against the Redcoats.

There is nothing that a tank can do in a triple-canopy jungle or innundated rice paddies. We Americans are learning every day how to fight like the Communists literally. It saves lives and equipment and results in decisive victories on the side of freedom.

WAR GOING AGAINST VC

With the fantastic build-up over here, the weight of the war is going increasingly against the VC.

This is a factor that the VC will not realize. They are fanatics. I have read enemy documents that prove this.

For example, there have been some pretty big battles over here where Americans racked up a ten-to-one body count ratio. If you were to read a VC after-action report, it would tell of 3,000 U. S. soldiers KIA or WIA, ten tanks destroyed, etc.

The truth is that there were probably not any tanks involved, and maybe one chopper was shot down and more accurately perhaps 50 U. S. soldiers were killed or wounded; yet it was a glorious victory for the "Liberation of South Vietnam."

This is the way it has been for the past year, a year in which the VC have sustained losses in excess of 10,000 men.

It is frightening to think that perhaps the hard core zealots will continue to look at the war in this insane manner that I have described in the example, and the common VC front trooper will never know the difference because his thoughts and actions are completely and brutally controlled. How can anyone realize what a fanatically dedicated enemy we face over here?

WITHDRAWAL WILL NOT BRING PEACE

I cannot understand anyone who thinks that a withdrawal of U. S. forces or a lull in bombing will increase the possibilities of lasting peace.

Anyone afflicted with such a viewpoint is naive to the point of ridiculousness and the most ignorant of men.

I suggest that anyone with such feelings read "The Battle of Dien Bien Phu" by Jules Ray and have his mind receptive to the knowledge to be gained in the process.

Letter to the Editor

Fraternities Are Positive Force

To the Editor:

Recently there has been much controversy about the flagrant use of alcohol and nefarious sprees under the worship of Bacchus, but the picture has been greatly distorted. This is not to say that those who do drink to excess are not more apt to cause damage, nor that there is some manner of drinking problem, but to condemn fraternities as the initiating force behind these occurrences is not fair.

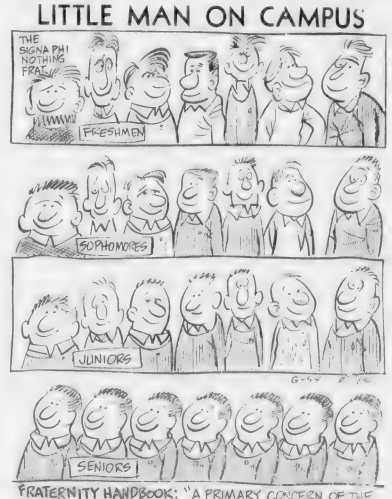
This is intended to neither condemn those who have this view, nor attempt to vindicate drinking as a necessary evil, only to present a more accurate view of fraternities and the position they take about their responsibility in this matter and in general.

All fraternities have policies concrening drinking, and these are enforced by the feeling of interest for the success of the function which they are attending, fines, or removal from the function if their actions reach extremes. This is not only to keep harmony but also to protect the fraternity image before those who may be in attendance.

There may be exceptions, but these are the exceptions, certainly not the rule. To assume that all fraternity parties become uncontrollable orgies is a fallacy which went out with spats and high-button shoes.

In its recent proposals to the undergraduate chapters, the National Inter-Fraternity Council has made suggestions in keeping with the trend of fraternities to keep public and alumni interest through the initiation of community service projects which not only benefit the fraternity but also the community. Those who are so ready to drop the axe should remember the good of fraternities.

All of the fraternities on this campus have projects at the orphanage in this area. They were the first to be called upon for the Christmas Stocking Fund, and they are the ones who provide most of the social activity which is essential to any man's complete development. Under the system at Presbytrian College, all who are truly interested in a fraternity are not barred because of the close personal ties between the students here.



To carry this further, it is a long recognized fact that fraternity men occupy many of the most influential positions in the country and in all communities. A majority of the members of Congress, professional men, and community leaders were members of a social fraternity in college. If fraternities are so corrupt, why do the above facts stand!

Keep in mind that a recent survey revealed that 75% of the chief executives of the nation's largest corporations, who attended college, were members of national Greek-letter fraternities. This is of special significance when you realize that fraternity members collectively constitute less than 20% of the total student enrollments at American colleges and universities, and the fact that all fraternity alumni constitute less than one per cent of the total United States population.

To condemn as bad an order which has existed in this country since 1776 is not to fully understand the facts. Although the mistakes which fraternities sometime make are more sensational and news-worthy, do not pass over lightly the services which they perform for their members and the communmunity. Shakespeare expressed this precept of human nature in "Julius Casear" when he stated, "The evil that men do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones."

Sincerely,
Neill W. McKay, Jr.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

BILL

Rose Bowl Is A Farce

The "so-called grandaddy bowl of them all" is supposed to be the Rose Bowl, but this year it may be the national farce. Instead of having two of the best teams in the nation, television viewers will see two second rate teams diddly-daddly around in Pasadena.

The two great teams that will compete against each other in the tournament of champions are Purdue and Southern Cal. Purdue had a fair team, but proved to be second best in the Big Ten which in this writer's opinion couldn't match up to the SEC anyway. Michigan State was denied a chance to go to the Rose Bowl this year because of an antiquated rule that says the Big Ten champion cannot go to the Rose Bowl two years in a row.

Southern Cal is a bigger farce than Purdue. The Trojans were defeated by UCLA and tied in their conference, but the officials picked Southern Cal to go to the Rose Bowl. The next week the mighty Trojans proved the worth of their selection by being "upset" by a weak Notre Dame 51 to 0. A team that gets beat 51-0 doesn't deserve to be in the Toilet Bowl, let alone the Rose Bowl.

So instead of straining your headaches on New Year's afternoon, you can save your eyes by sleeping. If you decide to watch, you'll probably see Bob Griese run and pass Southern Cal dizzy as the Boilermakers defeat the Trojans.

The Cotton Bowl will feature one of the nation's best in the Georgia Bulldogs. The Dogs will face Southern Methodist in Dallas. With George Patton stopping the running plays and Lynn Hughes directing the offense, Georgia should easily defeat SMU. Southern Methodist made it into the Cotton Bowl only after Arkansas was upset.

The Sugar Bowl will see Alabama facing Nebraska. These are the same two teams that met in the Orange Bowl last year in which the Crimson Tide came out victorious. There is no reason why Bear Bryant's boys shouldn't make a repeat of last year's performance.

Bear has to beat Nebraska if he hopes to win an unprecedented third straight national championship. You can bet that the "Bear" will have The Tide rolling!

The final major bowl pairs Georgia Tech and Florida. Tech went undefeated until they met the Dogs, but they haven't faced a Steve Spurrier this year. Tech was lucky against Clemson and Duke this year, but the Jackets are going to find that Lady Luck isn't going to be with them aganist the Gators in Miami. Florida will be victorious.

Final CC Standings

Team	Conference W	L	T	Overall W	L	T
PRESBYTERIAN	5	2	0	6	4	0
Lenoir Rhyne	5	2	0	6	3	0
Guilford	3	2	1	4	5	1
Catawba	4	3	0	5	5	0
Newberry	3	3	1	4	5	1
Western Carolina	3	4	0	5	5	0
Appalachian	3	4	0	4	5	1
Elon	1	6	0	1	9	0

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

Young, Inexperience Squad Holds Key To '66-'67 Basketball Fortunes

By MIKE SIMONS

A young, inexperienced squad holds the key for Presbyterian College basketball fortunes as the 1966-67 season begins.

Coach Art Musselman, now in his fourth year at the PC helm, will rely strongly on several freshmen to complement his returning nucleus.

Led by junior co-captains Richard Quillen and Ken Martin, at forward and guard, respectively, the Hose will attempt to compensate for the lack of experience and size by a tight, pressing defense and a hustling, good-shooting offense.

The other guard post will be manned by freshman Bobby Quillen, while freshman Beecher Hale holds down the other forward post. Center has been a sore spot for the hose, with the position being shared by sophomores Dave Hudson and Doug MacLeod.

Freshman George Dickerson, a top reserve forward, and Richard Quillen have also seen action at center this season. Sophomore Jim Kaiser has been injured all season, but should be able to get back into action soon.

Freshman Woody Carter, sophomore Johnny Walther, and senior Steve Stine are reserve guards. Stine is the only senior on the squad.

APPALACHIAN GAME
PRESBYTERIAN

	G	F	T
Carter	3	2-2	8
Hale	3	2-5	13
R. Quillen	6	5-7	17
Martin	4	1-2	9
B. Quillen	1	7-11	9
McLeod	0	0-0	0
Dickerson	4	4-4	12
Hudson	2	1-2	5
Stine	1	1-2	3
Walther	1	0-2	2

PIEDMONT GAME
PRESBYTERIAN

	G	F	T
R. Quillen	20	3-4	43
Hale	12	0-2	24
Hudson	2	0-0	4
Martin	4	3-6	11
B. Quillen	5	1-2	11
Carter	4	3-4	11
Dickerson	4	3-4	11
McLeod	1	1-2	3
Stine	3	0-0	6
Walther	0	0-0	0

In action to date, the Hose are 1-4 in tournament play and 1-1 in regular competition.

The Hose opened the regular season with a 112-78 defeat at the hands of Appalachian, then came back to run over Piedmont College 118-70.

Richard Quillen is the top scorer with a 23.9 points-per-game average.

Blue Hose footballers were urged on this season by this newly adopted embodiment of Presbyterian College athletic spirit—a Scottish kilt worn here by David Templeton of Clinton. PC is rooted in the Presbyterianism of Scotland, and this traditional garb with its knee-lnegth blue stockings presents a fitting symbol for the teams that battle on the athletic field. Presbyterian College closed its 1966 campaign last Thursday with a 28-7 victory over Newberry and a tie for the Carolinas Conference championship (with Lenoir Rhyne). The season mark of six wins and four defeats was the best PC fotball record since 1960.

Victory Over Indians Gives Blue Hose Share Of CC Title

By TOM CAIN

By defeating the Newberry Indians 28-7 on Thanksgiving Day, the Presbyterian College Blue Hose football team obtained a share of the Carolinas Conference football championship for the 1966 season.

The PC victory, coupled with a Catawba upset over Lenoir Rhyne by the score of 21-11 on the same day, enabled the Blue Hose to obtain their first conference championship or co-championship since joining the league.

PC and Lenoir Rhyne both won five games and lost two, while Catawba, who placed third by winning four and losing three, had the distinction of defeating both PC and Lenoir Rhyne.

PC's other loss was to Lenoir Rhyne by the score of 23-6, while Lenoir Rhyne was upset 21-20 by Guilford for their second loss in the conference.

Guilford finished second in the conference with a record of four wins, two losses, and one tie, while Newberry placed fourth with a record of three wins, three losses, and one tie.

Appalachian and Western Carolina tied for fifth place by winning three games and losing four, and Elon finished last after winning one game and losing six.

Reviewing the season in general, PC coach Cally Gault stated, "Sharing the crown is a tremendous compliment to the team and a very deserving reward. This group strived harder than any other group in PC's history to be a good football team."

"Striving" seems to be an appropriate word to describe the 1966 Blue Hose team, for preseason polls rated them to finish last in the Carolinas Conference race.

Would You Believe?

By TONY DENDY AND MIKE SIMONS

OFFENSE

Ends: Perkins—Alabama
Smith—PC
Tackles: Mass—Clemson
Walker—PC
Guards: Regner—N. Dame
McCaskill—PC
Center: Breland—Ga. Tech
QB: Spurrier—Florida
Backs: Farr—UCLA
Snow—Ga. Tech
Eddy—Notre Dame

SPECIALISTS

Harris—PC
Eckstein—PC
Bryant—South Carolina
Lawrence—Georgia

DEFENSE

Ends: Smith—Mich. State
Hamilton—Arkansas
Tackles: Patton—Georgia
Lyons—PC
Middle Guard: Monk—PC
LB: Naumoff—Tenn.
Clark—Army
RB: Smith—Ga. Tech
HB: Hughes—Georgia
Johnson—PC
Walchez—Nebraska

COACH OF THE YEAR

Bobby Dodd—Georgia Tech

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

Campus News Briefs

Major McKie Joins Military Staff

Major Robert H. McKie, Jr., has joined the Presbyterian College Military Science Department Staff.

Major McKie has just returned from a one-year tour in the Republic of Vietnam with the U. S. Military Advisory Command Vietnam.

McKie's arrival at PC rounds out the four-officer military staff which is headed by by Ivey and also includes Maj. Calvin R. Claypoole and Capt. Lewis A. Johnson.

Maj. McKie is a 1957 graduate of Clemson, is married and has three daughters.

Dr. B. M. Drucker

Dr. B. M. Drucker, Director of the School of Mathematics at Georgia Tech, was on the campus yesterday and today to discuss with the PC math department staff the curriculum in math offered here at PC.

Dr. Drucker's visit was sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America.

First Chapel

Dr. Gettys has announced that chapel programs for the second semester will begin on Friday, January 13, 1967, for senior male students. A special program for these seniors is being arranged.

All other students will begin chapel on Monday, January 16, 1967. Please check your seating arrangements.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, Dec. 5—To be announced.

Wednesday, Dec. 7—Bob Jones University Trombone Choir.

Friday, Dec. 9—R. O. T. C. Program.

BS Last Issue

Due to the pressures of the closing semester, this will be the last edition of The Blue Stocking until the Blue Key edition of the first or second week of next semester.

The elections for editor and business manager will be held the first full week of classes next semester.

Pool Closes

The swimming pool will be closed starting December 10, the beginning of the examination period, until sometime during the second semester. Reopening times and days will be announced later.

BJU Trombone Choir Performs Wednesday

The Bob Jones University Trombone Choir will present a concert in chapel on Wednesday, December 7.

The choir is composed of 20 members, and the program will consist of secular and sacred music, most of which will be classical. One selection for this program will be taken from Hayden's "Creation."

Clothes Forecast

(ACP) — Wool ties in stripes, checks and plaids, dark paisley, and one-quarter inch polka dots will adorn masculine necks on campus this year, according to six local haberdashers, reports the University of Oklahoma Daily.

Paisley is back from last spring but in "more subdued shades, less white and yellow and more blue, brown, green and olive," one salesman said. A silk foulard print described by one manager as "not quite paisley" also rates high.

Polka dots are back from long ago, but the flowery Mod look, back from nowhere, is apparently headed nowhere on campus; none of the merchants carries the long-hair style. The five-inch wide Mod, which one salesman said "stretches from shoulder to shoulder" is just an ugly rumor and will not find a place at OU.

The really new tie is the wool, popular in stripes, checks, and Glen plaid and in widths from two and five-eighths to three inches.

The polka dot tie, which is creating quite a stir, comes in dots of all sizes. "The smaller dots are more conservative and dressy," one salesman explained, "and the larger ones are more dressy."

As one manager puit, "A tie is a man's expression of his individuality. Tastes in color and patterns change because he wants something different all the time."

Photo by Hood

FRESHMAN CLASS FLOAT won honors at Clinton and Laurens Christmas Parades.

Every litter bit hurts

YOU

Trash? Litter? Empties? Don't heave them overboard! Carry a litterbag in your boat. Hold everything for the first trash container on shore or take it home for proper disposal. Remember—our waterways belong to all of us. Litter pollutes the waters, fouls propellers, spoils fishing fun and costs tax dollars! Every litter bit hurts . . . YOU. America's beauty is your duty. Please help

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL

Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council.

Cato's "First in Fashions"

New Shipments Received Each Week . . .

Open Your Personal Charge Account

Limit Up To $50 — Payments $2 a Week

No Waiting Period — Open Yours Now!

Free—2 Pair of Hose With Original Charge Purchase

The Greeks

By RICHARD SMART

The PiKA's have high anticipations for the coming week-end. These plans are to include a party after the school dance, between and including the fraternity room and Whitt's Inn in Newberry. The Saturday night dance will feature the Daydreams, a group of voluptuous female Negroids. It will be a closed party with bouncers (Jim Helms, Tommy Campbell, John Monk, Jim Johnson, and "Hot-O Rockie" Warren.) Brothers of the week include Kenny "B. J." Rowe, and "Buz."

Pi Kappa Phi recently took Duane Armistead within the bonds. The move came during "quiet period" Wednesday. Brother Jack Phillips received a foot injury over the holidays when he stepped into a crack in a sidewalk. Newly elected officers are Archon—Neill McKay; Treasurer—David Templeton; Secretary—Dan Roberts; Historian—Rick Stall; Warden—Tommy Barnett; Chaplain—Jim Barnhardt; and Pledge Master—John Morrison. Brother of the week is Tom Barnett, who owns a gasoline-filled hearing aid. There will be a party after the school dance, followed by a dance Saturday night.

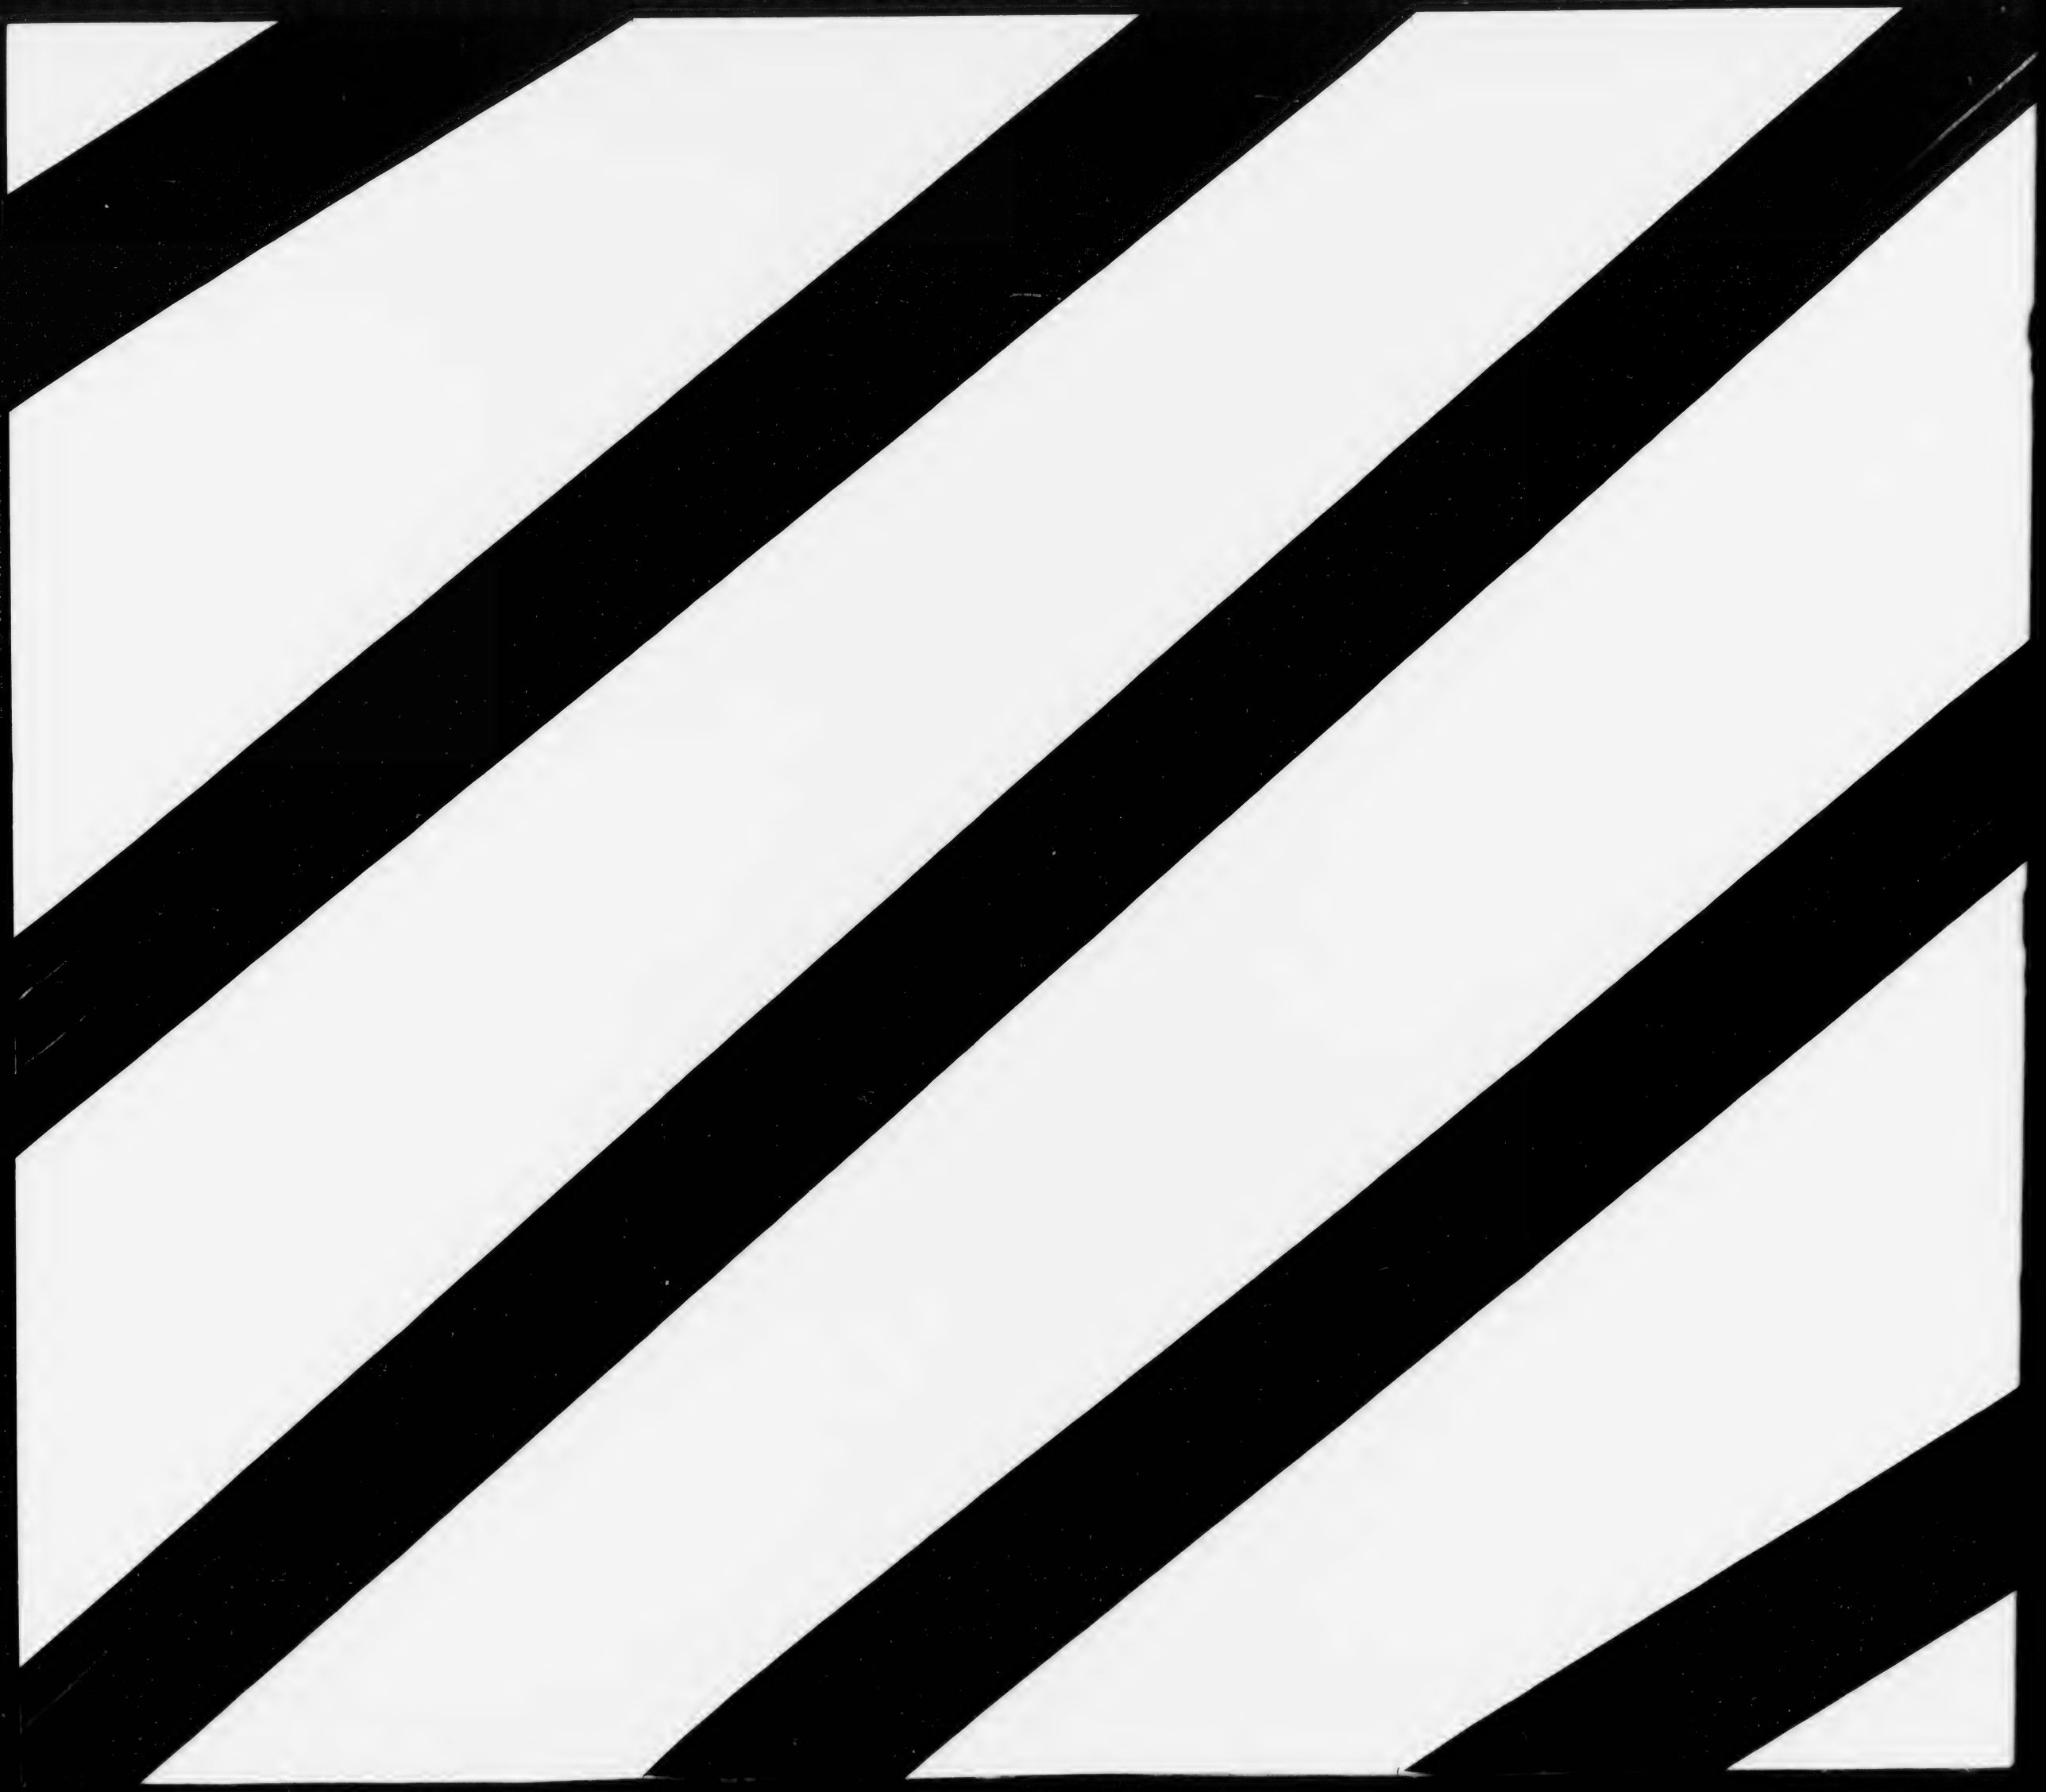
The Snakes lost another pin this week. Brother Joe Stevens pinned Miss Evelyn Sager from Converse. Howdy and Jackie Letzring are the proud parents of a baby girl, Nicole, "which will easily become the world's next sex symbol." The Nu gridders are proud to announce a winning. They overcame the Order in a grueling match 20-7. This should give them third place. The week-end will include a record party from 12:00 p. m.-2:00 a. m., Friday, and a dance Saturday at the Mary Musgrove Hotel featuring the Caravelles.

The KA's are having the Four Winds Saturday night at the House. The party is open only by invitation. The annual pledge supper was held at the Panorama. The brothers and pledges send get-well wishes to brothers Coulon and Tuck.

Christmas Dance Week-end for the Alpha Sig's will include a party in the fraternity suite after the school dance and a dance Saturday night at the Legion Hut beginning at eight and featuring the Dynamics. This party will be open only by invitation. Engaged is Jim Bruce to Miss Anne McGregor of Anderson. Brothers of the week are Woody Hall and Jim Bruce. Brother Hall receives this honor as a salute to a parting editor and a job well done. (B. S.—Staff)

The Theta news includes a new slate of officers. These officers are: President—Jim Bell; Vice-President—Jerry Mebane; Secretary—Gordon Wilson; Treasurer—Richard Galloway; Pledge Marshall—Larry Geddie; and Chaplain—John Weigel. A steak supper was held in Greenwood on pledge day for all new pledges and members graduating this semester. The Theta's plan to "blow it out" this week-end at the Greenwood Shrine Club. The entertainment will be provided by the Hounds of Fate. Brother Scott has pinned Miss Kathy Hudmon of Troy State College, and Brother Larry Geddie has pinned Miss Judy Cole of Winthrop College. The boys are on the move.

The "riddle of the week" comes from the hallowed annals of witticisms and wise sayings by "Doctor" Love. "What would one call 96 co-eds in a bath tub?"



Answer: "The Bay of Pigs."

This week proved most eventful in the Greek society in many ways. Perhaps the most noteworthy would be the advent of the GOP which made its bid to enter the realms of pledge competition. The organization held a pledge day; however, earlier than the prescribed pledge day of the Greeks. This was indeed a slick tactical move. There are no figures, as of yet, to attest their success. However, it is doubtful that they failed in attaining those persons to whom they gave bids.

THE PC BOOK STORE

NOW HAS 50 PER CENT OF THE SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS IN STOCK.

BUY THEM NOW AND AVOID THE RUSH

The Blue Stocking

1967

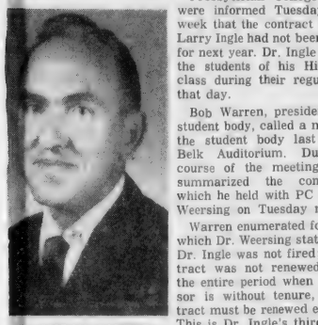
Editor ..... Charles Eagles

Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, Rush Otey

Managing Editor ..... Tony Dendy

Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham

The Blue Stocking



XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, January 20, 1967 | No. 11

earch Article
K. Nolan Carter
ears In Journal

K. Nolan Carter, chair- of the Presbyterian College istry department, had an on "The Schmidt Reaction Camphorquinone" appear- the December issue of the al of Organic Chemistry. earch on the article was d out under a Frederick G. ll grant of Research Corpo- which was awarded for the ase of chemicals and ap- is.

essor Carter's latest pub- research continues the he has been doing in the f carbon - nitrogen molecu- arrangement.

has received previous pub- n in this general field in ournal of Organic Chemis- d the Journal of the Amer- Chemical Society. Dr. Car- so served as a guest book ver for the December issue erican Scientist as an or- chemistry text reviewer.

. K. NOLAN CARTER

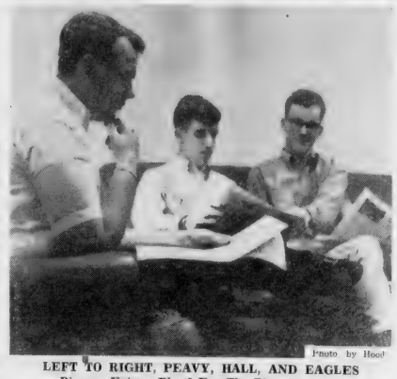


Photo by Hood

LEFT TO RIGHT, PEAVY, HALL, AND EAGLES
Discuss Future Pland For The Blue Stocking.

Eagles, Peavy Elected To Top Blue Sock Posts

By WOODY HALL

Next week PC students will find The Blue Stocking under the tenure of a new editor as Charles Eagles takes over the editorial chair.

Assuming the position vacated by Woody Hall, the new editor polled 239 votes out of a total of 381 cast Wednesday, compared with 142 for his opponent Alex Erwin.

Kirk Peavy was elected business manager of the newspaper. He received 216 votes as compared with 161 for his opponent Tony Dendy.

Mr. Eagles, an English major from Florence, has served as managing editor and assistant editor of the paper in the past. He also edited the current edition of The Knapsack.

Mr. Peavy, a junior majoring in English from Atlanta, Ga., has been associated with the paper in the past and has done work in a variety of areas. He replaces Joe Stevens as business manager.

Said outgoing editor Woody Hall: "Eagles has served as managing editor and assistant editor of the paper, and I am confident that he and his staff will publish a paper of the caliber of those published in the past. He has both the desire and the knowledge to publish a good paper. The retiring staff endorses him completely."

The Blue Stocking is published weekly, except when holidays and testing periods make it impractical for the staff to expend effort, by the Chronicle Publishing Company of Clinton. It is a member of the United States Student Press Association, the South Carolina Student Press Association, the Intercollegiate Press, the Associated Collegiate Press, and the Collegiate Press Service.

Professor's Contract Not Renewed; Warren Meets With Student Body

By WOODY HALL

Presbyterian College students were informed Tuesday of this week that the contract of Dr. H. Larry Ingle had not been renewed for next year. Dr. Ingle informed the students of his History 329 class during their regular class that day.

Bob Warren, president of the student body, called a meeting of the student body last night in Belk Auditorium. During the course of the meeting Warren summarized the conversation which he held with PC President Weersing on Tuesday morning.

Warren enumerated four points which Dr. Weersing stated. First, Dr. Ingle was not fired; his contract was not renewed. During the entire period when a professor is without tenure, his contract must be renewed each year. This is Dr. Ingle's third year at PC, and tenure requires four years present plus a contract renewal for the fifth year.

Dr. Weersing also emphasized in his conversation with Warren that Dr. Ingle was not discriminated against because of his outside activities, whether religious, political, etc.

Warren stated that Dr. Weersing said that before he made the decision, he consulted with the History Department, the Academic Dean, and the appropriate committee of the Board of Trustees. After this consultation, the opinion of the president was that Dr. Ingle's relationship within the college did not conform to the best interests of the college. The final decision in matters such as this rests with the president.

The fourth and final point made by Dr. Weersing to Warren was that pressure from the town or other groups did not cause the president to decide

See MEETING, P. 4, Col. 2.

Forty-Nine On Dean's List; Nine Achieve Perfect 4.00

By DAN MONTGOMERY

Forty-nine Presbyterian College students have been named to the Dean's List released by the college registrar, Mrs. Rosylin Martin.

The Dean's Lits consists of two groups of students. Those students who entered before June, 1965, and have a G.P.R. of 3.2 or better for the previous semester are included. For students who enrolled after June, 1965, the minimum G.P.R. is 3.3.

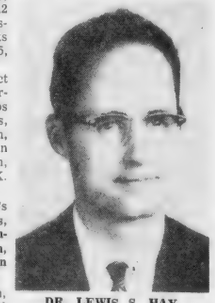
Nine students attained perfect 4.00 averages. They are Barbara Elizabeth Anderson, Carlos Julio Emanuel, Paula Evans, Mrs. Carole Hughes Johnson, Elizabeth R. Lindsay, John Spencer Mebane, Susan J. Smith, John B. Taylor, and Danny K. Wyatt.

Other members of the Dean's List are Alice Diane Adams, Mary Anne Arnett, George Vinson Atkison, Cecil Y. Brown, Vicki Ann Brown, Karen Eileen Buchholz.

Also James Edward Bush, Lewis Judson Caldwell, Donald S. Flowers, Jr., Daniel Mahaffey Fry, Jr., Joseph M. Gettys, Jr., Georges Randall Grant.

Also William Woodward Hall, Jr., Robert W. Herlong, James H. Johnson, Janet Lawson, Michael G. LeFever, Robert D. Lynn, Jr., Thomas Graves McDowall.

Also Sherwood C. McKay, Jr., Thomas B. McPhail, Max Milligan, III, Marian Elizabeth Myers, Wilbur Rush Otey, III, James H. Powell, Howard O. Protinsky, Jr.



See DEAN'S LIST, P. 4, Col. 5.

Blue Key Claims Faculty Members

The Presbyterian College Blue Key Chapter boasts a number of the college's faculty as members, either from their college days or as honorary members.

Six members of the present faculty were members of the Blue Key while they were in college.

Included in this group are Dr. Lewis S. Hay and Thomas A. Stallworth of the Bible Department, G. Edward Campbell and

DR. LEWIS S. HAY
Blue Key Advisor

Ben Hay Hammet of the administrative staff, William F. Tiller of the coaching staff, and James Shakespeare, a member of the English Department and tennis coach.

Among the honorary members are Dean A. J. Thackston, Dr. Alex Stump, Dr. Neill G. Whitelaw, Kenneth N. Baker, Neal B. Prater, Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, Dr. David R. Moorefield, John S. Glover, Dr. K. Nolan Carter, Dr. Ronald D. Burnside, and S. Allen King.

nual Edition

lue Key Presents Blue Sock

year during the period n editorships of The Blue ag, the PC chapter of the ey National Honorary Fra- takes over the publica- r one week. This enables wly elected editor to organ- staff and at the same ive the Blue Key a chance sent itself to the student year students on cam- met with some strange one of which is the infor- nitiation of the college's prominent student leaders. ill be wearing signs fore t, much in the same man- freshmen goof-offs, ex- at the signs will be in the of a key. They will be car- a week-end bag contain- m, candy, cigarettes, and egg with autographs on it. on a particular after- hese same men line up on ands and knees on the and try to win a race by an egg across the cam- th their nose.

So, if you happen to see some boys dressed up in such regalia don't get excited and think they're "all bent out of shape," for, if you will note, they are being initiated into the Blue Key National Honor Fraternity. This is a way of calling the student body's attention to the fact that they have been selected by their fellow students as outstanding.

This year the Blue Key is celebrating its thirty-fifth anniversary on the Presbyterian College campus. Blue Key was established here on March 29, 1932.

The work and purpose of the Blue Key Fraternity is not all as jocular as the initiation ceremonies may make it appear. Behind Blue Key is a serious and worthy purpose. The fraternity was established to foster leadership in various students in the colleges and universities throughout the country. Among its purposes are to promote high ideals, faith in God, intellectual achievement, and service to one's fellowmen.

The Blue Key of Presbyterian College strives for better relations between colleges with which we have inter-collegiate contact. Annually delegations are welcomed from Wofford and Newberry Colleges for a chapel program, with the intention of bettering relations before football games. PC's chapter sends a delegation to their schools for the same purpose.

The Blue Key is also active on campus as the chapter coordinates the activities on Parents' Day and Youth Day, and assists the administration with the Board of Trustees' meetings and the Board of Visitors' meetings.

The Blue Key has been active at PC since 1932. In 1931, President Marshall Brown, then Dean, along with Colonel R. E. Wysor, Jr., PMS&T, and C. W. Grafton, English professor, established an honorary fraternity on the campus called the Archons. The Archons joined another honorary society and received a charter from Blue Key in 1932.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Editor	Bob Herlong
Managing Editor	Woody Hall
News Editor	Dan Montgomery
Sports Editors	Max Milligan, Jim Johnson
Associate Editors	Bob Warren, Will Scott, Mike McGehee
Activities Editor	Joe Gettys
Greek Editor	Brownie Johnson
Movie Editor	Christie Patterson
Copy Editors	Morrow Thompson, Carlos Emanuel

Blue Key Challenges All to Contribute

Dear Charles,

May I take this opportunity to congratulate you on your newly elected position of Blue Stocking editor. I hope your efforts materialize into the same success experienced by previous editors and their staffs.

The fifteen members of the Blue Key chapter have a great deal more respect for the job of producing The Blue Stocking after this past week. This week has been one full of experience for us all and you can be sure that none of us will take The Blue Stocking for granted, as indeed, no student should! The Blue Key takes its hat off to those — past and future — who perform this task week after week.

I'd also like to take this opportunity, if I may, to present a challenge, not only to The Blue Stocking, but to the entire student body, both present and future. To meet this challenge, one must understand my presuppositions. I sincerely feel that one's four years at college are the most important, the most formative years of one's life. During these four years one chooses his life's vocation, and perhaps more important, he develops the characteristics and sets the standards that will follow him the rest of his life.

For this reason, it is feasible to assert that the type of college attended will determine the quality of the character produced.

Thus, I challenge every student to make a contribution, to make a sincere effort towards developing a better institution. One's four years at PC should represent more than a degree, more than the weekend memories, and more than a grade point ratio. Instead, every student should, in his own way, leave Presbyterian College with the satisfaction that it is a better institution than when he arrived.

To some this may seem a conceited attitude, but a PC student must not portray the "poor player that struts and frets his hour upon the stage and then is heard no more: signifying nothing."

To make this contribution one doesn't have to be president of the student body, captain of the football team, or any other so-called "student leader." The opportunity of achievement, and thus the ability to contribute, is available to each student, all that is required is the effort and the desire.

As the student grows, so grows the institution. Personalities, bodies, and minds must grow and mature. Change is inevitable, but the change must be good. And it will be good if one aspect remains constant: the spirit, character, and influence of PC.

R.W.H.

The Very Proper Gander

Copyright 1940 James Thurber. From Fables of Our Time Published by Harper & Row

Not so very long ago there was a very fine gander. He was strong and smooth and beautiful and he spent most of his time singing to his wife and children. One day somebody who saw him strutting up and down in his yard and remarked, "There is a very proper gander." An overheard this and told h band about it that night roost. "They said so about propaganda," she aways suspected that," rooster, and he went aro barnyard the next day everybody that the very f der was a dangerous bird than likely a hawk in clothing. A small brown membered a time when a distance she had seen the talking with some hawks forest. "They were up good," she said. A duck bered that the gander h told him he did not be anything. "He said to the flag, too," said the guinea hen recalled that once seen somebody who very much like the gande something that looked deal like a bomb. Finally body snatched up stic stones and descended on der's house. He was stru his front yard, singing to dren and his wife. "There everybody cried. "Haw Unbeliever! Flag-hater! thrower!" So they set up and drove him out of th try.

MORAL: Anybody who your wife thinks is going throw the government lence must be driven out country.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Contract Not Renewed

Scott Appeals To Robert Vanc

(Editor's note: The following is a copy of a letter sent to Mr. Robert M. Vance of Clinton, S. C. Mr. Vance is chairman of the Board of Trustees of Presbyterian College.)

Dear Mr. Vance.

It was announced on January 17, 1967, that Presbyterian College had, in effect, abandoned its pursuit of higher education. Tuesday, January 17, was the day on which Presbyterian College made the choice that so many colleges have made. It is quite significant that all the colleges which have made this same decision are today insignificant. These colleges, too, deny academic freedom and expression of thought. These colleges do not tolerate any criticism of accepted authority or of dogma enshrouded by the past.

January 17, 1967, is the day on which Presbyterian College announced that it would no longer defend free speech, free thought, and honest inquiry. The announcement came in the form of the dismissal of H. Larry Ingle (A. B. Wake Forest College, M. A. American University, Ph. D. University of Wisconsin) from his duties as history professor after this year.

Professor Ingle is one of the most qualified men on campus. He possesses a devotion to his subject and to his students that is second to none. His shortcoming was that he spoke out firmly for free speech, for inquiry, and for rational thought. Undoubtedly, his downfall came about because of the probing nature of his questions.

I address this letter to you, Mr. Vance, because as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Presbyterian College I know that you are not afraid of questions or of truth. After all, if our leaders are afraid of truth, then, obviously, they should not be our leaders.

Mr. Vance, you have the power to make the decision of whether Presbyterian College will become a Calvinist, Bob Jones University, or whether it will, in the Presbyterian tradition, become, like Westminster College, Trinity College, Davidson College, and Princeton University, an institution of higher learning, unafraid of the truth.

We, other concerned students and I, look to you, Mr. Vance, because we know that you cannot, as an educated man, tolerate censorship. Only you can undo the wrong done by some incompetent subordinate. To us, Mr. Vance, Professor Ingle is one of the symbols of intellectual freedom and of the liber education. You cannot all row-minded, prejudiced to subvert an institution as Presbyterian Colleg Vance, do not make us a of our Alma Mater. Allow ways to be proud to graduated from an institu higher learning. Do not ta diplomas with ignorance a sorship. Instead, let us be to say that we attended lege which was unafraid and inquiry, and one wh couraged questions, not ship.

We have made our ap you, Mr. Vance, and wa you with the choice of re acclaim. Please do not fa byterian College, Mr. Va

Deeply Concerned,
Will Scott

Movie Review

'First to Fight'

By CHRISTIE PATTERSON

Warner Brothers presents an exciting "war flick" starring Chad Everett, Marilyn Devin, and Dean Jagger in which they combine action in the South Pacific with romance in the United States during World War II. The action begins when a Marine wins the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism on Guadalcanal. He then wins a beautiful bride during a U.S. war-bond tour. Returning to Saipan, he is involved in a battle with himself as well as the Japanese. The title is derived from a line in the Marine Hymn: "First to fight for right and freedom and to keep our honor clean."

Chad Everett stars as the handsome six-foot Marine, Shanghai Jack Connell, who wins the Congressional Medal of Honor. Starring with Everett is blonde Marilyn Devin as the bride won by Everett. Dean Jagger, the receiver of an Emmy nomination for his portrayal of the high-school principal in the TV series "Mr. Novak" and an Academy Award for his role of an Air Force major in "12 O'Clock High" takes the role of Lt. Col. Baseman for the United States Army operations in Guadalcanal.

BROADWA

FRIDAY, JANUARY
"The Great Rac
Tony Curtis, Jack Le and Natalie Wood

SATURDAY, JANUAR
"The Man Calle Flintstone"

MON.-WED., JAN. 2
"The Fortune Cool
Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENT
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square

JOHNSON

1966 Football Season

MILLIGAN

All was quiet in the PC dressing room. The team ust soundly defeated a dejected Newberry team for sixth victory against four losses, the first winning n at PC in seven years, yet everyone seemed to be g for something. Then the word came through from C sports broadcaster Bill Hogan that Catawba had ted the Lenoir Rhyne Bears. Pandemonium pre- l. PC had become co-champions of the Carolinas erence in their second year in the conference.

SEASON HONORS

Along with the championship came numerous post n honors. Coach Cally Gault was selected by South lina sportwriters as the "Coach of the Year" in h Carolina for the second time in his four years as entor of the Blue Hose.

The Hose also placed a number of men on post sea- ll-star teams. Seniors John Monk and James Smith selected for first team Pi Kappa Alpha All-Ameri- n a nationwide poll. In addition Monk was awarded t team berth on the South Carolina all state defen- team as linebacker.

Another senior Sam Lyons was picked as defensive e on the Greensboro News All-Conference team. omore halfback Dan Eckstein was deemed good gh for both offensive and defensive first string on the Conference teams.

vo members of the team were named to the All-State d team, sophomore Bill Kirtland as quarterback and r Bob Warren as a linebacker.

OOL RECORDS FALL

Nine school records also fell this past season due to oin-point passing of Bill Kirtland and the fine re- ng of James Smith. Kirtland holds the records for passes completed in one game — 20. He also holds eason record of most yards passing — 1322, most total offense — 1239, and most completions in one n — 107.

End James Smtih holds the record of most yardage pass receptions in one game — 116. He holds the n records of most passes caught — 40, and most age from pass receptions — 512. He earned the ca- record for most yardage from pass receptions — 939.

TER WINNERS

Coach Cally Gault has announced that the following wars have earned Block P's for their efforts on the on this year:

e Lawson, James Smith, Richard Munn, Richard Reed, y Bankhead, Dowl Thompson, Jim Helms, Sam Lyons, Tom- ampbell, Eddie Walker, Shell Dula, Charles Reid, Allan s, Jack McCaskill, John Monk, Bob Warren, Bob Murray.

so, Jim Sullenberger, Bobby Saine, Mel Davis, Bobby By- ack Barnes, Jim Johnson, Gene Robbins, Dan Eckstein, t Hackle, Phil Bradner, Sam Williams, Ronnie Jordan, Olin and Bill Kirtland.

PREDICTION

With spring practice close at hand it remains to be who will fill the slots of many fine vacating seniors. ever, Johnson and Milligan predict that these vacan- will be filled more than adequately to produce an- winning season in '67.

IM Leagues

Blue
KA
Pushers
Bandits
Chi's
PiKapp's
SN II-Snakes
PiKA II
Wrecks
Worms
Renegades

Keen Competition In IM Basketball; PiKA's And KA's Top Contenders

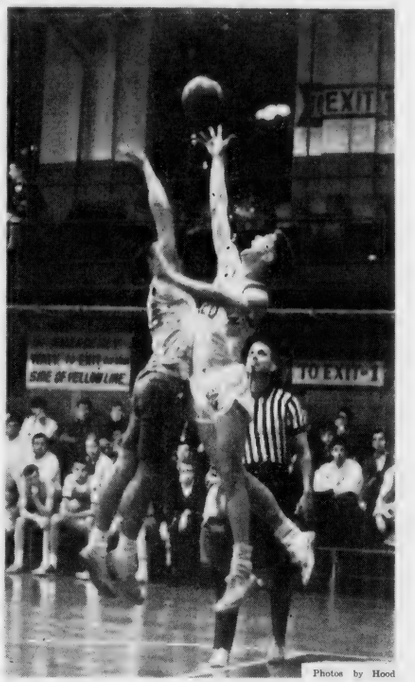
By JIM JOHNSON

The sound of leather against the hardwood fills the air as intramural basketball steps into full swing at PC this week. This year both the red and the blue leagues have ten teams each, and it appears that in both leagues keen competition will exist.

In the Blue league, the Kappa Alpha Order has a top-notch team and one which will be hard to beat. Playmakers Gettys and Forbes, along with Yancey, Beatty, and Bratton, an all - stater from Rock Hill, will give the KA team a well-balanced attack.

Two independent teams will also be strongly in the running for the best team in the league, the Pushers and the Bandits. Last year the Pushers finished in fourth place in over-all competition, the highest a non-fraternity team has finished in several years. They are led by veterans Manley, Lassiter, and Sullivan, along with a promising newcomer, Gary Leonard. The Bandits also sport a fine team led by Thurston and Atkison.

A darkhorse candidate for the blue league title is the Theta Chi team. With four returning starters and a number of new faces, they cannot by any means be counted out of the race. They will be led by pointmakers Eddie Dorn and Gene Robbins, along with freshman Ronnie Colvin.



The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity has probably the most experienced team and is a strong favorite for the title in the red league. They are led by Blanchard and Protinsky in the scoring department, aided by a nifty guard in the person of Mike Donovan. Perhaps the tallest man in the League, Sandy Lynn, at 6'5", will be reaching high on the backboards for the PiKA's as center. The PiKA team also has good bench strength.

The Sigma Nu's run a close second to the PiKA's as favorites in their league. The Nu's will send a number of veterans onto the court — "Old Man" Markette, David Bordner, and Ray Crim, along with a freshman, Howard Higgins, who will join the varsity basketball team next year after a season of ineligibility this year.

The Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity has a strong team this year, too, led by Marshall, Byard, Cain, and Page. Other teams that will not be pushovers include the Faculty team and the Crushers. The Faculty Five is strengthened by the presence of coaches Nixon and Waters along with playmaker Ronald Burnside. The return of Coach Fred Chapman after a season's absence also brightens the hopes of the faculty.

The Crushers will field such all-time greats as "Fury" Campbell, Bean Harris, and player-coach John Monk. Add to this the ball-handling ability of Eddie Walker and the results are a team which will stir up a lot of confusion, to say the least.

A number of other teams have become strengthened since last year and will be doing their best to knock off the league leaders and possibly remain in contention for the title in their respective leagues. Everything points toward a very close finish in both leagues, with probably no undefeated teams in either league.

Photos by Hood

IM BASKETBALL Was Launched Monday As Gene Sullivan Officiated At The Jump.

Erskine Defeats Blue Hose In Closing Minutes, 56-52

By MAX MILLIGAN

The PC cagers lost to Erskine Saturday night by a score of 56 to 52. Erskine hit four free throws in the final minute to pull away from a 52-52 deadlock. This leaves PC with a 3-12 record.

Co-captain Richard Quillen is the team's leading scorer and rebounder, averaging 22 points and 9.8 rebounds per game.

The team was hurt by the loss of second leading scorer, Beecher Hale, who is out for the season because of grades.

The Erskine game was the first time this year that 6'8" sophomore Jim Kiser has seen any action. He was out the first half of the season with a knee injury. He will be a big help in the future to the Blue Hose, who have been hampered by a lack of height this season.

ERSKINE GAME
PRESBYTERIAN

	G	F	T
R. Quillen	9	4-4	22
Stine	3	1-1	7
Hudson	0	1-1	1
Martin	5	2-3	12
B. Quillen	2	0-1	4
Carter	1	0-0	2
Dickerson	0	1-1	1
MacLeod	0	1-1	1
Kiser	1	0-0	2

The cagers are experiencing ten days of hard work to prepare for the conference game at home.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYMEL — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

DEAN'S LIST

Cont. From Page 1.

Also, David Bryson, David M. Sale, Donna [illegible], Clifford C. Sheffield, Jan[illegible], Neill Singleton, Joseph Singleton, Henry McCor[illegible]

Also Robert E. Staton, E. Stine, Robert A. Strozier B. Thompson, Ch[illegible] Toland, II, Marvin S[illegible] Jr., and Robert A. Wil[illegible]

Campus News Briefs

M.S. Staff Changes Offices for Semester

By BUDDY PROTINSKY

Cadet Lt. Col. Grady Marshall has retained his position as Battalion Commander while the cadet staff, company commander, and executive officer positions have been filled with new personnel. The former Battalion staff which consisted of Ritchie, Protinsky, Rash, Squires, and Campbell has been replaced with Monk Milligan, Battalion Executive Officer; Duane Armistead, S1; Rick Carpenter S2; Evin Pamplin, S3; and Sam Lyons, S4.

For the first time, the Battalion is using officers as assistant staff members. John Askew, Richard Smart, and Ken Lewis are the assistant S1, S2, and S3 respectively.

Replacing Ritchie, Bordner, Warren, Milligan, Lyons, and Pamplin at the company commander posts are Buddy Protinsky, Headquarters Company; Charlie Campbell, Alpha Company; Roy Squires, Bravo Company; Jim Ritchie, Charlie Company; and Bob Herlong, Delta Company. Echo Company will not be in existence this semester.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment: Lowenstein Textile Mills, January 23. Equitable Life Insurance Company, January 24. Trust Company of Georgia, January 25. Chemstrand Company, January 26. Weaver Mills, January 27.

Texaco Awards Grant

Another $1,500 grant has come to Presbyterian College from Texaco Inc., through the oil company's aid-to-education program.

Dr. Weersing said the unrestricted gift will be designated to help underwrite scholarship aid to qualified students in need. This represents the fourth consecutive year that Texaco has made gifts of this denomination to PC.

Stallworth Elected CC Chairman

Professor Thomas Stallworth, PC's faculty representative to the Carolinas Conference, was recently elected chairman of this organization.

Presbyterian College has been a member of the conference for two years.

Chapel Schedule

Monday: Leighton Ford — Worship Service.

Wednesday: Student Government.

Friday: General Jacob E. Smart, special assistant to the administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and former Deputy Commander of NATO Forces. "Some Observations on the European Situation."

MEETING, Cont. From P. 1.

against renewing Dr. Ingle's contract.

Warren then entertained questions from the floor, and a number were ventured. After this discussion the meeting was adjourned.

PC Expands Music Program

Presbyterian College has expanded its music program with the addition of a new instructor in the fine arts department.

Alan G. Cook joined the faculty at the start of the second semester of the 1966-67 session. His primary teaching responsibilities will be in organ, theory, and piano.

Cook comes to PC from his position as organist at the St. Petersburg (Fla.) First Presbyterian Church. A native of Ohio, he received both the bachelor of arts and bachelor of music degrees from Ohio Wesleyan University, and in 1965 earned his master of music degree from the University of Michigan. He has served as organist for churches in Birmingham, Mich., and Wooster, O., and has taught organ privately.

Dean Gettys said that expansion of the music program, now headed by Professor Charles T. Gaines, will enable Presbyterian College to meet the needs of more organ, piano, and voice students on campus and offer a broader service to Laurens County residents who are interested in private study. Additional information on private lessons may be obtained from Professor Gaines.

Color Guard Shake-Up

Lieutenant Colonel Benjamin F. Ivey, Jr., PMS, Presbyterian College has announced the organization of the ROTC Battalion Color Guard for the coming year.

Since Presbyterian College is supported by the Presbyterian Synod of South Carolina and Georgia, Colonel Ivey announced that in addition to the US Flag, the South Carolina, and the Georgia State flags have been added to the Color Guard.

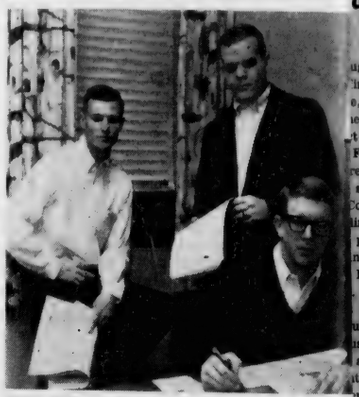
Robert E. McNair, Jr., of Columbia is the color bearer for the South Carolina State Flag. Carl A. Blount, III, Gainesville, Ga. is color bearer for the flag of that state.

The remainder of the color guard is made up of Donald R. Adams of Union; Robert L. Hackle, Jr., Winnsboro; John W. Lewis, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C.; and George R. Query of Mount Pleasant.

Pool Hours Set

Beginning January 25, the pool will be open on Wednesday and Friday afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 for recreation swimming.

Faculty and staff children should show their athletic cards to the life guard until she gets to know them. One guest is permitted per child, and they must register at the athletic office prior to coming swimming.



Now Monarch Notes On

Joseph Andrews
New Testament
Hard Times
Hamlet
Ibsen
Dryden
Vanity Fair
Wuthering Heights
Pride and Perjudice
The Rise of Silas Lapham
Tennessee Williams
Tess of The D'urbevilles
Rape of The Lock
The Red and The Black
Crime and Punishment

PC Bookstore

Cato's "First in Fashions"
New Shipments Received Each Week . . .
Open Your Personal Charge Account
Limit Up To $50 — Payments $2 a Week
No Waiting Period — Open Yours Now!
Free—2 Pair of Hose With Original Charge Purchase

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

BLUE KEY OFFICERS Left To Right Will Scott, Secr[illegible] Mike McGehee, Vice-President; And Bob Herlong, Pre[illegible] Plan This Week's Blue Stocking.

By BROWNIE JOHNSON

Steve Knoche, the Interfraternity Council President, [illegible] of town this week, so no specific information about the plans for the spring semester could be obtained. Rusty [illegible] was able to supply some tentative plans. Greek Weekend (this is the only weekend the IFC is sponsoring this spring) be held on the 10th and 11th of February.

An interfraternity dance is planned for Friday night name of the band was not available at this time. Later semester a Spring Swing Weekend will begin on Thursday and go through Saturday. Big name bands are planned for Thursday and Friday with a concert on Saturday afternoon. fraternities will be on their own Saturday night.

GREEK ACTIVITIES

The Theta Chi's have adopted a ten-year-old girl from The National Office of Theta Chi selected Beta Psi Chap one of the three out of 37 to serve on the National Schol Committee for two years. This will be the second time tha Psi has been so honored.

The KA's enjoyed their annual Wild West. Music wa plied by the Cavaliers. The brothers want to thank Evan lin for the Bar B-Q at the Legion Hut Saturday afternoon eral brothers dropped those precious jewels recently. Mike on pinned Miss Helen Gude of the University of Georgia Marsh pinned Miss Camille Smith of Auburn University. Hart pinned Miss Sandra Glenn of Columbia College. Gower pinned Miss Marilyn Gosnell of Wesleyan.

The Sigma Nu's are making final plans for their annual Hawkins Dance this Saturday. The party will be closed exce invited guests. Congratulations are in store for Bob Herlon his engagement to Miss Mary Jo Jarrett of Limestone Colleg to Bill Buckheit for his engagement to Miss Susan Alexander of Limestone. The Nu's are also making plans for their Star Ball.

The Alpha Sigs would like to congratulate Grady Marsh his marrige to the former Miss Angie Reyes of Presbyteria lege. Sam Lyons has pinned Miss Connie Jones of Mary Ba College. The following have been elected as new officers f coming semester: Brooks Styles — President, Alex Burg Vice-president, Jimmy Page — Secretary, and Dickie Que Treasurer. Brooks Styles is brother of the week.

The Pi Kappa Phi's have a new color TV. Neill McKa pinned Miss Marsha Montgomery of PC, and David Tem has pinned Miss Beth Lindsay, also of PC. Tommy McPh to be congratulated for making the Dean's List and also f amazing ball-handling ability which fascinated the fans Pi Kapp's game this week. Neill McKay is brother of the w

In preparation for the Leighton Ford Crusade, the PiKA having a quiet week-end.

The Blue Stocking

XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, January 27, 1967 — No. 12

heater Group Presents uripides' Play Medea

By JIM LOYD
Staff Writer

ugh Euripides' play Medea [illegible] irst presented in Athens, e, in 431 B.C., the passing ie has not dulled the sharp t of the play's message. Friday an adaptation of reek tragedy was presented student body of Presbyter- College and visitors from linton area.

play was presented as the nstallment of the Newton Hardie Memorial Lecture . Each year the series an outstanding lecturer ucational program to the us.

adaptation of the play was ted by the South Carolina r Company. The Company its second year of opera- nder the direction of Mr. A. Dickson, and travels ively, touring colleges and unity theaters in the South-ea is the tragic story of a n who has been forsaken son, her husband. Jason is ng to marry the daughter eon, king of Corinth, for economic and political rea- The play shows the truth old adage, "Hell hath no ike a woman scorned."

e than this, however, the hows just what can hap- a society when it gets so on itself and on its own onal preservation that it o allow for its most basic it — man.

n leads this society, Jason to lead the society, but are destroyed because they the very human Medea "in rch." Thus, Creon says to , "I cast thee forth." Me- hen decided, "By poison I slay them."

adaptation used by the Carolina Theater Company fortunately removed most essentially "Greek" char- tics of the drama, such as esence of the chorus, but ality of the presentation not be called anything rofessional."

abeth Malloch Davis, play- title role, truly dominated age as the part demands. Davis has appeared on way and is a veteran of company productions.

n, Dickson, who also pro- and directed the play, his role as Jason with facility Mr. Dickson's ements as a director and uer are vast and his act- ility ranges from the very musical comedy to more drama such as plays by speare, Strindberg, and more minor roles of Creon geus were played by Jack Ashley. Mr. Ashley is al- accomplished Shakespear- tor and plays the role of uan in the Company's pro- n of Don Juan in Hell. minor role of the Nurse was played by Winnifred Orr who is a new-comer to the Company, and who has done much dramatic work in the past.

The costumes were designed by Renthy Dickson; the scenery and lighting were handled by Alexander Productions, and the usually thankless job of stage manager was performed by Jim West.

The family of the late Dr. Newton Gary Hardie should be thanked again for allowing this excellent performance of Medea to be brought to the Presbyterian campus as the fifth program in the Hardie Memorial Lecture Series.

Laurens County Crusade for Christ Features Evangelist Leighton Ford

Presbyterian College's Belk Auditorium has been the scene this week for the Laurens County Crusade for Christ. The Crusade is being led by Leighton Ford and other members of the Billy Graham team. Enthusiastic, overflow crowds have marked the services with scores of people making their personal commitments to Christ.

The service tonight will be built around attendance by entire families. The service will begin at 7:30.

The youthful Mr. Ford ranks among the top men in the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, serving as vice-president. He is often heard on the "Hour of Decision" radio program on more than eight hundred radio stations across the country. Mr. Ford has preached on every continent in the world.

Leighton Ford's message was brought most recently to the more than one hundred and fifty thousand persons attending the three week British Columbia Crusade and the eighty-one thousand at the famous Stampede Corral in Alberta, Canada.

Married to Billy Graham's sister, Mr. Ford has been with the Evangelical team since 1955. He holds degrees from Wheaton College in Wheaton, Illinois and from Columbia Theological Seminary.

Rev. Leighton Ford

Other members of the crusade staff include a special Graham musical team of Irv Chambers as director, Homer James as soloist, and John Innes as accompanying musician. A one hundred and twenty-five voice choir made up of residents of Laurens County also contributed to the musical aspect of the crusade.

In addition to the sermons by Ford, Tuesday night Bobby Richardson spoke at the special Youth Night service. Mr. Ford has also spoken to special groups. Thursday afternoon he spoke at a luncheon for the businessmen of Laurens County. Friday afternoon he held a special service for the industrial workers of the community who work on the night shift.

Friday, 7:30 p.m. — Family Night services in Belk.

Saturday, 1:00 p.m. — Special program of gospel music in Clinton's Calvary Baptist Church for workers of the industrial communities.

7:30 p.m. — Youth Night in Belk.

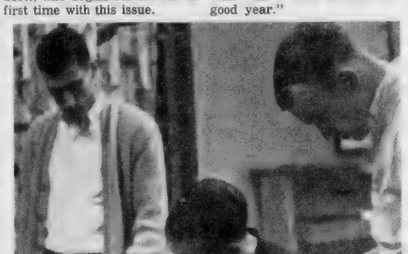
Sunday, 3:00 p.m. — Special Extra Service in Belk.

7:30 p.m. — Closing Crusade Service in Belk.

Blue Stocking Positions Announced by Editor

Editor Charles Eagles has announced several changes in The Blue Stocking staff for the coming semester.

In addition to six returning members, Eagles has announced that three new people have joined the staff as of this issue of the paper.



Returning members include Alex Erwin and Rush Otey, who will both serve as assistant editors. Tony Dendy has been named news editor.

Karen Weaver has been named as one of the feature editors. The other feature editor is Bill Scott, who begins service for the first time with this issue.

Sports readers will find Bill Bassham returning as sports editor. Jim Brewer and John Weigel return as cartoonists. Robert Gualtieri has been promoted to assistant business manager.

Other new members are Jim Roberts, who will serve as assistant news editor, and Don Flowers, the new copy editor.

Commenting on the staff, Eagles stated, "Although there are three members of the staff who are new to the paper, most of the staff has had previous experience, if not on high school papers, on related work, and the staff and I look forward to a good year."

THREE NEW STAFF members, Gualtieri, Flowers, and Scott work on next issue of Blue Sock.

So. Car. Leads

Annual Giving Program Tops Record Goal of $100,000

The Presbyterian College Annual Giving program set another new record of $113,812 in 1966, almost 20 percent more than the previous year's total, President Marc C. Weersing announced Wednesday.

In addition to topping the 1965 figure of $93,273, he said, the program also exceeded its 1966 goal of $100,000 by a wide margin. Support came from 1,493 alumni, friends and non-alumni parents of PC students.

Among the major objectives of the Annual Giving program, the Walter Johnson Club also set a new record with a sub-total of $35,362.31 for the athletic program. Other main objectives sought funds for academic scholarships, faculty salary increases and departmental improvements.

More than 31 percent of the alumni participated during the past year with 1,009 individual gifts totaling $56,670. Friends added $44,033 through 376 contributions, while 108 non-alumni parents gave $13,109. All of these represent new high dollar figures.

President Weersing pointed out that South Carolina led all other states and provided almost half of the total with $55,682 credited from 863 gifts. North Carolina came second on $20,354 from 137 gifts, and Georgia followed a close third with $18,522 from 189. The remaining support came from throughout the United States and from some alumni overseas.

Since the Alumni Giving program started receiving emphasis in 1959, Dr. Weersing said, it has produced a total of $563,417 for Presbyterian College. The program is a major source of funds toward the current operations and progress of the institution.

The program is under the direction of the Presbyterian College Alumni Association, whose 1966 operation was headed by President Walter Gosnell of Spartanburg and President-Elect Sam Cornwell of Charlotte.

Gen. Jacob E. Smart

Administrator Gives NASA's Goal

By TONY DENDY
News Editor

General Jacob E. Smart, USAF (Ret.), Acting Administrator of Administration, NASA headquarters, spoke to approximately 30 students and faculty members Thursday night on the mission and goals of NASA, with partcular emphasis on the upcoming flight of Saturn V to the moon.

Friday morning in chapel he also spoke on the political problems of Europe.

General Smart of Ridgeland, S. C. is the former Deputy Comcander-in-Chief of the U. S. European Command. He retired from the Air Force July 31, 1966, after thirty-five years of service. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1931.

In World War II he commanded the 97th Bombardment Group in Italy. Shot down and captured in 1944, he remained a prisoner of war until the spring of 1945.

In 1950, following graduation from the National War College, he was appointed Commander, 32nd Air Division.

The General has been the recipient of many medals and decorations. Among these are are Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Medal with three oak leaf clusters, Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross, Purple Heart, Order of the British Empire, and other foreign decorations.

General Smart stated that the three-man flight of Saturn V, which is expected to come before 1970, is only a part of the NASA program.

See GEN. SMART, P. 4, Col. 3

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Best Interest of College Needs Clear Definition

On Tuesday, January 17, the students of Presbyterian College were first informed that the college President had refused to offer Dr. H. L. Ingle a contract for the coming academic year. Dr. Weersing said that Dr. Ingle's service at the college was no longer in the "best interests of the college."

To Dr. Weersing the meaning of the hackneyed phrase "best interests of the college" must have some definite meaning. The definition used by Dr. Weersing will do much to shape the future of this college as long as he is President.

Because Dr. Weersing's interpretation of the "best interests" is so vital to the future of the college, it is essential that his definition be explained in clear and concise terms. The terms of the definition must be free of vagueness.

At the present time students feel uneasy because Dr. Ingle's service to the college was within their definition of the "best interests of the college." It is cause to concern that two major parts of an organization conflict in definition of the basic principles of operation and goals of the organization. Must not the definitions of the "best interests of the college" of all concerned be the same of the college is to progress.

It is time for an open and frank discussion of the "best interests of the college by all segments of the college community. A dialogue is needed so the phrase "best interest of the college" may be studied, debated, and evaluated intelligently. In such a dialogue all can present varying views in the hope that an acceptable solution will be achieved.

It is time for serious evaluation of the "best interests of the college" — not evasion of the basic question of definition.

c. w. e

Support The Blue Hose

In the last four days the PC basketball team has won two tough conference games. These wins are evidence that PC has a very talented ball club that deserves the support of every student. In the coming week the team will play two home games which will give the student body the opportunity to show its support for the Blue Hose. Leroy Springs Gym should be packed with spectators for these home games.

Staff

Editor ..... Charles Eagles
Business Manager ..... Kirk Peavy
Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Bus. Mgr. ..... Robert Gualtieri
News Editor ..... Tony Dendy
Copy Editor ..... Don Flowers
Feature Editors ..... Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Contributors ..... Jim Roberts, Gene Sullivan, Tom Cain, Mike Simons, Jim Loyd, Richard Smart

Three Students Discuss Dismis
Letters Indicate Concern, Dism

Dear Editor:

Since last week when the student body learned that Dr. Ingle has not been offered a contract for the coming year, a great deal of controversy has arisen among the students. Perhaps now the students have had enough time to gather their thoughts and calm their emotions, so that they can look at the issue reasonably and try to see what the implications are.

The students now realize that this action is perfectly legal and that the administration does not necessarily have to give the students a reason for it. Complications have arisen, however, which make it obvious that the administration should give the students this reason whether it is obligated to do so or not.

The complications begin when we lear that Dr. Ingle was actually commended for his achievements as a teacher! As long as the causes for this action remain ambiguous, we can only assume that the free thinking and controversial ideas of Dr. Ingle are not welcome at P. C. This makes us fear the possibility that P. C. wil become the type of institution which is opposed to change and which is not willing to tolerate ideas which conflict with the common, orthodox opinions that everyone is supposed to take for granted.

Even if this is not the reason, as long as we are given no other answer we can see no other alternative. The greatest danger lies in the fact that other professors at Presbyterian College, as well as prospective faculty members, may also come to this conclusion.

Many of us feel that P. C. students are mature enough to come in contact with ideas which will enable them to formulate religious values that are m ingful than an infant
a loyalty to our cou more sincere than a tism.

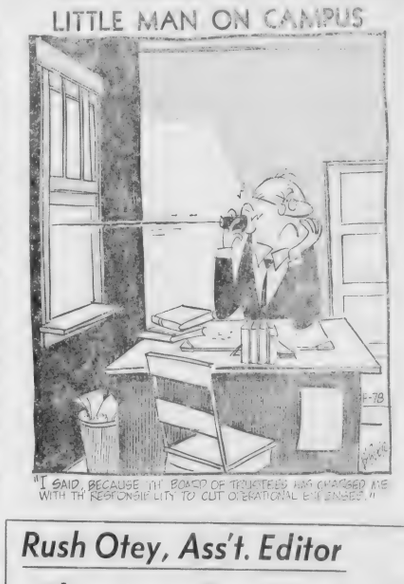
Sincerely
Jerry Mebane

Bell and Rousey

Dear Editor:



The concern of the s
over the dismissal of Ingle took a familiar week with vague
comment responses,
ferral to "proper chan
dent protest has once against the sea-wall
strative evasiveness which it is expected
its energy harmless
the guise of cooper
friendly interest all th enlightenment have be leaving the student bo
wildered state.

It would be rather tious at this point to itive consideration of enness to constructive
from students or facu
bers who after all are cerned with educationa
It must be recognized
byterian College is a itself which can ignor
istic principles as we
"signs of the times."

It would seem, howe
the students deserve
some remotely concre
tion of "the best interes college." Some feel have been given reaso
pect that these undefi
ests are not compat
their own values and They certainly deserve
tion on this matter in make decisions conce
very important period careers.

The search for truth acquisition of knowledg
primary aims here.
seen both processes
and we therefore view of ambiguity descendin scene as particularly able. With all due resp concerned,

Jim Bell and Bryso

ome May Call It Justice, thers 'Kangaroo Court'

y Bryson Rousey

uesday, the tenth of Jan-
my roommate emerging Charlie's Place found a ticket on his windshield structions to pay fifty o the metropolis of Clin-hin three days. Little did ect that this seemingly icant citation would lead
most exciting legal strug-
Clinton in recent times.
aceful and law-abiding stu-
e-enclosed in the envelope rnes, a nickel and twentynnies, put a stamp on the e and placed it in a ox only one block from lice station. Then feeling
t to society paid, he went y.

rstandably he was someaken aback the next Satur-hen he was accosted by cal gendarmes and ord-
pay a $2.50 fine for fail-pay a parking ticket. They ed that his payment was ost office where it had reall week because of in-ent postage. No court sum-was issued; he was merely ed of the extra fine.

the next week I accom-
my roommate to the po-
ation where he protested fairness of their action.
the envelope had a return
, neither the post office police department both-inform him of the situa-till the payment had be-delinquent. The officer on k responded by pointing use of pennies in pay-which because of some lo-
ularity is considered of-
My roommate respectnied any malevolent in-nevertheless he was orto pay the fine in court
day at 9:00 a.m or face ant for his arrest. Once feeling the issue to be se-within the American legal he returned to the dorm.

peace of mind, however,
ain shattered when half an ater two officers entered mitory with a warrant for rest. Unable to restrain pulse to protest, my naive pointed out the inconsisbetween their actions and their statements. A well-wishing onlooker, who questioned them as to why they were so concerned about this ghastly crime while failing to prevent an extortionist from leaving town with a large sum of student's money the day before, was threatened with arrest for interference. Then my roommate having no available cash was escorted from the dorm amid cries of "police brutality!!" He was allowed to cash a check in town, he was booked and once again he was reprimanded for the heinous offense of paying a parking ticket in pennies.

The next morning bright and early we ascended the stairs to the courtroom above the police station. We entered a small unpainted cubicle overlooking the back alley of Clinton. The furnishings consisted of ten bottomless wicker chairs, a small narrow bench, and the judge's podium.

After we had waited twenty-five in these reassuring surroundings, the chief of police entered with an unfamiliar gentleman. The stranger, who had the appearance of a local dime store clerk, mounted the judge's stand, stated the charges and asked the familiar question, "How do you plea?"

Immediately we braced ourselves for another Scopes monkey trial. "Not guilty, sir," my roommate repried, and then proceeded to apologize fo rthe inceeded to apologize for the inplained as an "honest mistake."

Then the police chief sitting at the head of the courtroom with the magistrate related the circumstances from the viewpoint of the police. He failed, however, to mention that my friend had come by to settle the matter of the extra fine. The truth was further distorted when the chief stated that my colleague had previously been given a summons to appear in court. Our attempts to explain this, however, were overriden just as our protests against the highly irregular arrest procedure were ignored.

Instead the "judge" moved on to the more important principle of the pennies. "Why," he asked accusingly, "did you use pennies instead of a fifty-cent piece?"

My friend explained that he regarded pennies as legal tender and attached no overt significance to their use. At this time I pointed out that half-dollars have been rather scarce in recent months. To what I thought was a significant fact in my "client's" behalf, the"judge" replied: "Who asked you? We didn't ask you nothing." Meekly I apologized, and without further ado the court announced a verdict of guilty and leveled a fine of $2.50.

The fifty cents, which by now had arrived through the mail, was returned to this newly convicted miscreant and once again the presence of tht twenty-five pennies was pointed out to him. Then my "client" asked to collect the balance of his ten dollar bond but was met with refusal. To his inquiry as to what the extra charge was for, the "judge" responded, "for causing us so much trouble."

"But," I said, "what is the legal tedminology for the extra fine or charge?"

"Just for causing us so much trouble," he replied once again.

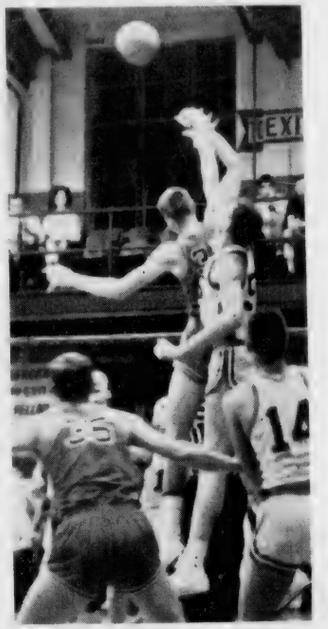
"Do you call an American court of justice a lot of trouble?" I asked indignantly as the executors of this kangaroo court descended the sairway. My plea was ignored and I thought aloud, "What a joke!!" as we left the station.

Art Finds Winning Combination; Blue Hose Defeat Bears, Indians

Presbyterian College's latest victory was at the expense of arch-rival Newberry, 83-73. The Hose were led by forward Richard Quillen with 27 points. Playing their best game of the season, PC jumped off to an early lead and fought back on several occasions to raise their conference record to 2-5.

The PC roundballers take a 5-12 record and a two game winning streak into a week of heavy action, including one away game and two away games. Tomorrow PC journeys to Boone, N. C. to try to avenge a previous crushing defeat at the hands of the Appalachian Mountaineers.

Next week the Hose come home for an encounter with a tough Guilford team on Monday and a big Elon squad on Wednesday. Guilford is led by 6'8" 240 pound center Bob Kaufman. As PC fans well remember, the big center is particularly effective against the relatively small Hose squad.



PC broke into the conference win column Tuesday night by upsetting a highly touted Lenoir Rhyne team in a thrilling 58-57 game. In this game the Hose showed that they could compete favorably against superior height, as the Bears sported three starters over the 6'5" mark. The game was won in the closing seconds as Richard Quillen sank a jump shot.

The Hose have been led by Quillen, averaging 22 points and 10 rebounds per game. Ken Martin is the only other man averaging in double figures with an 11 point average.

Doug MacCleod has been inserted into the starting line-up lately and has been tougher in each game. Center Dave Hudson has sparked the team with his aggressive rebounding and defensive work. He had his best game scorewise against Newberry, his 20 points being second only to Quillen's total.

Rounding out the starting five is Bobby Quillen, the playmaker and defensive ace. Back-up guard Woody Carter injured his ankle in the game with Lenoir Rhyne and will be out of action indefinitely.

The height situation has been helped by the return to action of 6'8" center Jim Kiser. Out of action for nearly a year with bad knee and broken fingers, Kiser has seen action for short periods of time and has looked impressive in spite of his weak knees.

Dave Hudson Jumps Against Lenoir Rhyne

IM Basketball Season Begins With Hint of Excitement

The Kappa Alpha Order is exactly where the prognosticators said they would, on top, after their first three tilts of the season. The K.A.'s crushed the Pi-Kapps 66-33 behind the wicked shooting of Joe Gettys and Rufus Bratton, then wrecked the Wrecks 66-17 behind the 30 points of their 1-2 punch. They then outlasted the Theta Chi's 55-49 in the best game of the young season.

The Theta's were big contenders before the K.A. loss. They crushed the Wrecks 54-10 and edged the PiKapps 30-20. Robbins and Dorn were outstanding in all games.

The Bandits looked good in their first two games as they edged the Renegades 39-22 behind the play making and scoring of Mike Thurston. In their second game they cut the hapless Pi Kapps 32-18 with balanced scoring.

The Pushers won two straight also by cutting the PiKa II 53-23 behind fast breaking, Gary Leonard. They cut the Worms 70-18 as Leonard popped 22 and Sulivan had 16.

Red League

The Pikas burst out in championship form as they outlasted the Vetville five 44-24 behind Protinsky and Blanchard and then crushed a strong Alpha Sig quintet 56-34. Blanchard again led the surge.

The Sigma Nu's looked good as they stomped the Chargers 55-11. Markette and Williams proved hard to stop as each contributed 14 points.

A tough Alpha Sig team stormed over the tired Oxen 48-22 before losing to Pika.

Led by Coach Fred Chapman, the fabulous Faculty outran the K. A. II 35-25 as Bob Waters and Joe Nixon led the charge.

The heavy and crushing Chargers overpowered the Hogs 69-7 as Dr. Love and the wrecking crew opened up their fast break and pressing zone defense. It proved too much for the Hogs.

Several other teams in both leagues have played only one game and thus are not included in the results.

omeattaaMisedcit

LENOIR RHYNE GAME
PRESBYTERIAN

	G	F	T
Quillen, R.	10	5-5	25
Martin	4	2-4	10
Hudson	1	0-0	0
Quillen R.	3	0-0	6
MacLeod	3	1-2	7
Carter	2	2-2	6
Dickerson	0	0-0	0
Kiser	1	0-0	2

NEWBERRY GAME
PRESBYTERIAN

	G	F	T
Quillen, R.	11	3-6	25
MacLeod	3	2-4	8
Hudson	8	3-7	19
Martin	5	6-8	16
Quillen, B.	3	6-7	12
Dickerson	1	1-2	3
Stine	0	0-0	0
Kiser	0	0-0	0

Schedule Changes For Tennis Released

Coach Shakespeare informed the Blue Stocking Wednesday of this season's revised tennis schedule:

March 27—Ohio University, at Clinton.

March 30—University of Georgia, at Athens.

April 8—Davidson College, at Davidson.

April 11 or 12—Erskine College at Clinton.

Although regular tennis practice will begin the last week in February, the team has been holding several days of informal practice. Coach Shakespeare observed that this year's team should be as good, if not better, than last year's team.

Election Coalitions Questione

Rush Otey, Ass't. Editor

Presbyterian College is embarking on a new era. Not only are the physical facilities rapidly changing, but so is the entire attitude of the school as a whole.

From an all men's school only a few years ago, we are now fully co-educational, and will become even more so when girls begin to occupy Bailey Hall after Georgia Hall is completed.

From a supposedly all "dry" school, the new drinking rule, if passed, will allow drinking on campus providing the person drinking is gentlemanly or ladylike.

Rat Season will undergo several transformations if it is continued.

During these times of change, a strong slate of student leaders is needed. We need people to lead us whom we can trust and whom the faculty and administration can trust.

We need people who will readily listen to all students at all times. We need people to lead us who will establish stronger ties of communications between the student body, student government, faculty, and administration.

If we are to have such a group of leaders, we must realize in the upcoming elections that the system of coalitions which we have previously followed is not in our best interests as it now stands.

Coalitions mean that the best politi not necessarily the best qualified candi be elected. Coalitions mean that the vote freshmen, especially those in fraterni be swayed without the voters knowing ifications of each candidate.

Coalitions mean that many impor pointed positions will be held by those ported the winning candidate and not qualified.

It would be foolish to suppose that tem which has been so long adhered t students can be eliminated entirely. If it to remain a part of student life, it mus proved.

Before coalitions are formed, it wou
the best interests of all if a caucus syst introduced, in which it would be expect candidates for major offices to be quest their platforms by groups of students.

Caucuses could be aligned along d
lines.

Caucuses could be aligned along d would allow all students to see a can person, to ask him questions about his tions, to see how he responds in a press situation, to see how he communicates to others.

It's time for a change. It's time that politics out into the open here at PC.

ROADWAY
Cinema
FRI.-SAT.
First To Fight
ring CHAD EVERETT
N.-TUES., JAN. 30-31
runk To Cairo
Audie Murphy, George
ERS and Marianne KOCH

C. THOMAS
JEWELER
Time That Counts"

WELCOME,
C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
Court Square —

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Every litter bit hurts
YOU
Trash? Litter? Empties? Don't heave them overboard! Carry a litterbag in your boat. Hold everything for the first trash container on shore or take it home for proper disposal. Remember—our waterways belong to all of us. Litter pollutes the waters, fouls propellers, spoils fishing fun and costs tax dollars! Every litter bit hurts . . . YOU. America's beauty is your duty. Please help
KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL
Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council.

A Natural Phenomenon

'Super Nigger' Makes Campus Tour

One of the biggest attractions to appear on the Presbyterian College campus since 1880 has been making command performances in the various dorms and fraternity houses during the past year. A gray haired Negro man, age unknown, was welcomed to Smyth Hall the night of January 25 for his latest exhibition. This incredible individual proceeded to eat pieces of a razor blade, coke bottles and a light bulb. He then broke a room key with his teeth and followed by swallowing a lighted cigarette. After performing various dances for his applauding audience, he passed his hat about the crowd to collect donations. When this was done he fastened a safety pin through his left ear lobe and left the building. Shouts and clapping followed the man as a Blue Stocking reporter pushed through the crowd to obtain an interview.

Affectionately known as "Super Nigger," he claims to have appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show and on the pages of "Ripley's Believe It Or Not."

Super Nigger said that his stomach has been X-rayed by technicians at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, and Duke Hospital in Durham. According to the Negro, doctors in these hospitals have informed him that his stomach contains a certain acid which dissolves glass and metal.

Because of his widespread popularity on campus, rumor has indicated that "Super Nigger" is in line for a performance in Chapel. A later edition of The Blue Stocking will carry the date of this appearance, if such does materialize, so that interested persons may attend.

THE SCENE WAS Smyth B last Wednesday night as star attraction prepares to show his talents by eating a light bulb.

The Greeks

By RICHARD SMART

The Alpha Sig's are proud to announce the success on January 21, 1967. Due to the diligent patrol of th by the Clinton Police Department, there were no pinnings or engagements. Congratulations are to be "Wop" Thompson for appearing with a date and fo ling rumors that he was "gay." Pledged this week was of Macon, Georgia. A plastic Jesus goes to Sam Lyon neys to Mary Baldwin College this week-end. Brot Week are Alex Burgin and Sam Lyons.

The "Order" enjoyed a pleasant holiday and a pursuing their annual growth in preparation for the blow out.

The PiKA's basketball team have a two game win This is due in part to the tremendous speed of Otto P the amazing stamina of Donald C. Blanchard. Brothe gomery recently became engaged to Miss Phillis Pool this the announcement Brother Daniel took a short stro stars. Brothers of the Week are "Hot-O," the mad buc and "Sleepy" James Allred.

The Pi Kapps are proud to announce the engagemer er Tom McPhail to Miss Sue Anna Newsome. Rick Sta named "worst newspaper publisher" by the publica mittee of a news-starved faction. Brother of the W Duane Armistead.

All is well at the "Sig" shed. There have been no nings. All affairs seem intact. John Griggs has rec pledged. Jim Brumbelow has been repledged after a Georgia. Bill Myers is looking for a ride to Winthrop week-end. The basketball team is still in its winning

The Theta Chi's are glad to have Brother Mike from his stay in the hospital. Congratulations are given Pledge officers, Bob Thrower was elected President; Vice President; Bob Wilson, Treasurer; and Ken Ter tary. Alumnus Baker Bedsole was married to Miss JoA ling, of Columbus, Ga., over the Christmas holidays.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE Cleaners

. . . and . . .

Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specia
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washet
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1

Cato's "First in Fashions"

New Shipments Received Each Week . . .

Open Your Personal Charge Account

Limit Up To $50 — Payments $2 a Wee

No Waiting Period — Open Yours Nov

Free—2 Pair of Hose With Original Charge Purchase

Campus News Briefs

Blue Stocking Rated For Semester

The Blue Stocking issues of second semester of 1966 have received a rating of second class. The rating was given by critics of the Associated College Press of the University of Minnesota.

The rating of second class is given to the majority of entries and represents "good" to "very good" work. Fred L. Kildow, Director of the Associated College Press, said in a letter to the Blue Stocking that the paper had been "doing a good job in a workmanlike manner."

The ACP uses certain basic standards in the field of coverage, writing, and physical properties in judging entries. Sports coverage and writing received very good to excellent ratings. The physical properties — makeup, typography, and headlines — received 1190 out of 1300 for a nearly excellent rating.

Head of the staff at the time of judging was Woody Hall. The Business Manager was Joe Stevens. Charles Eagles was Managing Editor, Rush Otey was News Editor, and Bill Bassham was Sports Editor.

Draft Test

Bulletin of Information and Application for the Selective Service Qualification Tests to be administered on Saturday, March 11, Friday, March 31, and Saturday, April 8, 1967, are now available in Mrs. Taylor's office in Douglas House.

There are four examination centers designated for South Carolina—Charleston, Columbia, Spartanburg, and Clemson. Specific test center addresses will be indicated on tickets of admission to take the test.

To be eligible to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test an applicant on the testing date (1) Must be a registrant who intends to request occupational deferment as a student, (2) Must not have previously taken the test.

Colonel Donald H. Collins, South Carolina Director of Selective, advises that scores made on the test will provide local boards with evidence of aptitude for continued study. The scores will not be the only determining factor to ascertain eligibility for student deferment but will be considered with other information by the local boards in determining whether to defer individual registrants for further study.

Application for the test must be postmarked not later than Friday, February 10, 1967. Details are available from Mrs. Taylor in Douglas House.

Chapel Schedule

Monday: Business and Economics Club Presents Mr. Bob Stover, Trainer of sales personnel for large corporations, who will speak on "Success and What It Embodies."

Tuesday: Dr. William B. Ward, Eastminster Presbyterian Church, Columbia, S. C. — Worship Service.

Friday: To be announced.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus for interviews with seniors seeking employment: Boy Scouts of America, January 30; Rich's of Atlanta, January 31; Proctor and Gamble Companies, February 1; Burlington Industries, February 2 and 3; Whites of Atlanta, February 3. More details are available at Mr. J. P. Daniluk's office.

Gen. Smart

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 4)

"NASA seeks to enhance man's knowledge of the facts of nature. The trip to the moon is a measure of success and not an end in itself," he stated.

General Smart based his talk on a series of slides which showed an artist's conception of the moon shot, landing and the return trip to Earth.

When asked about the financial appropriations for NASA, General Smart said that the five billion dollars which NASA gets annually is approximately the same amount that girls in the U. S. spend on cosmetics. He further said that 90% of these funds are spent through the research facilities of universities and industries.

Another question from the audience was about NASA's policy regarding UFO's. General Smart said that the only UFO's were not from outer space, but were from the universe.

He went further to say that he would welcome visitors from outer space because their life span would be so much greater than ours. He also indicated that NASA and the USAF did not try to hide any so-called evidence of UFO's.

When General Smart ends his tour of colleges in the Southeast, he will return to NASA headquarters in Houston.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy

Stationery, School Supplies

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .

Where you'll find all fashions for men

NORTH BROAD STREET

The Blue Stocking

KLV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friayd, February 3, 1967 No. 13

ent Council ks On Election, king Rule, Dance student Council met Wed- evening of this week and ed several matters in- the drinking rule, which en much in debate of late. w approach to the rule is ed as "no ungentleman- unladylike conduct." Bob stated that he had talked ersons on the Board of s who were enthusiastic this new approach. How- nothing in this direction en accomplished yet. discussed was the upcom- ring Swing" weekend. The of debate here was r or not to allow activities day night. It was decid- Thursday night will be d in the weekend. How- student class attendance ay will determine wheth- ring Swing" will continue ree-night basis in the fulection date for new stu- ouncil officers was also ed. It was decided that nary election will be held day, March 15, and the ection on March 17. proposed amendments to stitution were brought up cussion also. However, re tabled for further con- on at the next meeting. et Vass, a freshman rep- tative to the council, gave ress report on the trash mmittee. She is to meet r. Beaty to decide on nt of trash cans about mpus in an attmept to grounds in good order.

THE BOYS IN VETVILLE can move out soon (That'll be the day!) Clear weather is favoring the completion of Georgia Hall. The new men's dorm is scheduled for occupancy second semester next year.

Greek Weekend Has Dance with Ravenettes

Steve Knoche, President of the Inter-Fraternity Council, announced that next weekend will be annual Greek Weekend sponsored by the IFC. The IFC has booked the Ravenettes of Atlanta to perform at a dance Saturday night. The Ravenettes consist of four female Negro vocalists with a back-up band. The dance will be in Greenville Hall from 8:00 p. m. until midnight.

Five of the social fraternities contributed one hundred dollars each to provide the entertainment for Saturday night. The dance will be closed to all except members of the five farternities, special guests approved by the IFC, and dates. Guests must pay an admission charge of two dollars and fifty cents per couple.

The individual fraternities will hold parties Friday night. The decision as to whether or not these parties are open is at the discretion of the fraternity.

Revenue Act of 1918 Subject of Article By Dr. H. L. Ingle

The winter edition of the North Carolina Historical Review contains an article by Dr. H. Larry Ingle, Assistant Professor of History at Presbyterian College. The article, published in January, is entitled "The Dangers of Reaction: Repeal of the Revnue Act of 1918."

An outgrowth of research for doctoral dissertation at the University of Wisconsin, the article deals with the fight in the United States Congress over the repeal of the excess profits tax. This tax allowed those business enterprises that benefitted most from the United States' involvement in World War One to pay a substantial portion of the costs of the American war effort.

Dr. Ingle's doctoral dissertation is about Claude Kitchin, a Democratic Congressman from North Carolina from 1901 to 1923, who served as Democratic majority and minority leader and as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. It is entitled "Pilgrimage to reform: A Life of Claude Kitchin." The University of North Carolina Press has expressed a desire to review the dissertation in consideration for publication in book form.

Feb. 15, 1967

SCA Plans Annual RE Week

By MIKE GOWER

Religious Emphasis Week this year will be on February 15, 16, and 17. Mike McGehee, President of the sponsoring Student Christian Association, announced that the theme for the program is "Is Christianity Relevant?" This year a minister, an athlete, and a businessman will speak at the morning chapel services. Leading the evening discussion groups will be two ministers and a DCE.

Chapel will be held as usual on Wednesday and Friday. On Wednesday chapel will meet at 9:00 a. m. TTHS classes will meet at 10:00 a. m. Thursday 10:35 classes will meet at 11:00 on Thursday.

In the evenings each discussion leader will meet with two groups of students. Any group interested in having them come should contact Monk Milligan—this includes fraternities, clubs and dormitories.

This period of religious emphasis will not be seeing if Christianity is relevant by the usual stories. The speakers promise not to be of the football team-life analogy type. These speakers will speak on issues and questions that are pertinent to the college campus, like —if Christianity does relate to today's life, then how and why does it relate; if Christianity is important, why is it; and if there is really a revival of Christianity, why does it come now and is it a real revival? These and other questions like them will be given answers that may not seem satisfactory to the questioner, but they will give some insight to the question.

Last year there was a good response to this week because it had something to say to the audience. This year promises to be even better than last year because of the qualities of the speakers and the realistic question to be talked about—"Is Christianity Relevant?"

C. Players to Present e Fantasticks' Next Month

PC Players and the PC Department, in a joint will produce the now- off-Broadway musical, Fantasticks," Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 16, 17, and 18 in Belk Auditorium.

"The Fantasticks,' known for its simplicity, gaiety and mellow philosophy, has recently earned the distinction of having the longest consecutive run for an off-Broadway play in New York theater history. It opened at the Sullivan Street Playhouse in Greenwich Village on May 3, 1960, and is still running.

It is the story of a boy and a girl (Matt and Luisa), purposely kept apart by their fathers because they know that is the surest way to get them together. After a romantic, airy first act—in which Matt rescues Luisa from a mock abduction staged by the fathers, the Narrator (El Gallo), a worn-out Shakespearean actor (Henry), and an Indian (Mortimer)—the play's tone turns more somber and mellow.

Matt runs head-on into the coldness and brutality of the world. Luisa forsakes him for the older and more experienced man of the world, El Gallo. Both learn the theme of the play: "Without a hurt a heart is hollow"; and they are finally reunited: sadder, wiser, but more able to cope with the world as it is.

There have been over seven hundred productions of "The Fantasticks" by professional, amateur, and college groups. See FANTASTICKS, P. 4, Col. 3.

strar Announces ve Dec. Grads

egistar's office announc- twelve students complet- requirements for gradua- December 10, 1966. The received Bachelor of degrees in Business Ad- tion: Allan B. Callaway atur, Ga.; William V. , III, of Chamblee, Ga.; Lawson of Union; and hton Grantham, III, of m F. Monroe, of Laurel C., and Charles L. Foun- r., of Miami Springs, ceived degrees in mathees in economics were d to Charles E. Browder Ellenton, and Fred M. Anderson.

S. Murchison received lor of Arts degree in his- l political science; Rich- Rhame of Clinton re- a degree in psychology; H. Williams, III, of Mon- Ala., received a degree ogy; Helena L. Woody ville, Tenn., received a n sociology.

Military Inaugurates 'Doom Squad'

By BILL SCOTT

The Military Science Department of Presbyterian College, beginning this semester, has initiated and carried out plans to solve one of the cadets' most baffling problems: what to do on Thursday afternoons between the end of drill and the serving of the evening meal. Previously, our male students have been relaxing during this break from the rigors of the afternoon, preparing psychologically for a long night of study. But now, more intriguing experiences may await.

If one is lucky enough, or deserving enough, this period is not wasted. Under certain circumstances, the already embattled cadet may remain after drill to work off any demerits incurred for appearance or lack of knowledge. The recipients of these misdemeanor slips, who appear for forty-five minutes after drill for supplementary exercise and training, have come to be called "The Doom Squad."

Even though this new policy has only been in effect about three weeks, it has managed to stir up unheard-of reactions from the cadet corps. More and more of the male students have been clean shaven and well-groomed on Thursday afternoon! No doubt this new policy has created a boom for the barber shops in our fair city. There is even a rumor that at the present rate, the barber chair deficiency of the city is so acute that several new shops have to be opened for business. This is very good from the barbers' viewpoint; but, the students have had to take substantial cuts in their weekend allowances.

TWO PROMINENT MEMbers of the 'Doom Squad', Eddie Miller and Jack Coward, put their rifles in the rack after elongated drill period.

In the past, the students have always taken a dim view of any new policy originating from Jacobs Hall. The present situation is no exception. However, it is argued that this new policy cannot harm the students in any way. A shave and haircut every week is not out-of-the-ordinary even if certain groups on campus seem to think they are. Also, isn't extracurricular physical activity one of the male students' favorite pastimes?

The new policy of the Military Department is recognized as one designed to reform. On this count it has performed mightily. But reform cannot long exist on the Presbytedian College campus to any appreciable degree. Realizing the male on this campus will not always conform to "SOP," the "Doom Squad" will undoubtedly remain as one of those activities most participated in by the student body.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor — Charles Eagles, Editor — Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Georgia State Faculty Questions School's Aim

(Editor's Note—The following are excerpts from an article in the January 26 issue of The Signal of Georgia State College of Atlanta.)

By RICHARD CROKER
Assistant News Editor

One hundred forty-nine members of the teaching faculty of Georgia State have sent a letter to President Noah Langdale—who forwarded it to the chancellor of the University System of Georgia, Dr. George L. Simpson—regarding a statement the chancellor is reported to have made concerning the future of the college.

The chancellor told the SIGNAL, "I was delighted to have faculty people taking such an interest in Georgia State." He also said that he is taking under consideration certain points brought out in the letter.

As a result of this letter and a student protest meeting attended by approximately 100 students, there were some fears that State would lose some of its faculty amid accusations of infringement of academic freedom and of inciting students to riot and demonstrate.

. . . . . .

The letter, however, requested a statement of the role which is to be played by Georgia State in the future . . . .

The professors said in their letter, "Each day we make practical decisions based on our understanding of the future of the college; we advise students, evaluate our relation to other schools, talk to potential graduate students, attempt to hire new faculty members and plan for our own futures. All these activities are of necessity influenced by our assumptions about the direction of the college's development . . . If our function as seen by the Chancellor and the Board of Regents is to be more limited and less complex than that which we had been led to anticipate, then we should be informed so that we can reshape our concepts and plans—or encourage them to share our vision."

The administration of the College was quick to come to the defense of the chancellor, and stated that they hoped that he would make no "definition" of the board's expectation for the college.

. . . . . .

It is a general feeling that if it is the opinion of the Regents that it is "an illusion to think we're ever going to do any better at any other institution" than we're doing at the University and at Tech, then, to quote one faculty member, "The faculty will disperse rather rapidly to greener pastures."

Does It Sound Familiar?

Much like Georgia State College's administration, Presbyterian College's administration is now being asked to explain the plans for the future of this college. The basic purpose and goal is stated in the college catalog. This idea should be made clear to all concerned with PC.

The explanation given by the President should be the same to all involved. He should tell the same thing to the faculty, the student body, the Board of Trustees, the supporters of the college in South Carolina and Georgia, the alumni, and the accrediting institutions. He should be sure that these groups all interpret what he says in the same way he does.

At the present some people obviously do not understand and interpret the stated objectives of PC in the same manner as the President. The letters to the editor of the last three weeks are clear evidence of this.

Students, past, present, and future, have the right to know what the nature of this institution of higher learning is and will be. Only if the character of the school is clearly defined can students decide where their loyalties deserve to lie.

Staff

Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Business Manager ..... Robert Gualtieri
Managing Editor ..... Tony Dendy
News Editor ..... Jim Roberts
Copy Editor ..... Don Flowers
Feature Editors ..... Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Contributors ..... Tom Cain, Mike Gower, Don McNair, Bill Riddle, Gene Sullivan, Sandy Lynn

Letters to the Editor

PC Graduate Praises Dr. Ingle Loyd Discusses 'Best Interest'

Dear Sir:

In an editorial entitled, "Best Interest of College Needs Clear Definition," you called for a dialogue on the question of just what the "best interests" of this institution involve. The question I ask you, the student body, the faculty, the Administration, and all those connected with the college is:

Why, instead of "serious evaluation," "study," and "debate" of the basic questions, do our administrators and policy-makers not give the purpose and goal that they presently follow an honest chance to work?

According to the Presbyterian College Catalogue, the College "seeks to provide the essential training necessary to produce resourceful, enlightened, and competent leaders in the church and in the nation. To this end Presbyterian has maintained a reputation for "first-class scholarship, high moral character, and a spirit of warm-hearted Christian fellowship," and "that education in the liberal arts tradition can be achieved successfully only through a program which is characterized by academic excellence, and through those non - academic activities which contribute to the growth of able minds, sound bodies, and strong moral character; that Christian commitment demands that the pursuit of learning take place in a framework of genuine intellectual freedom undergirded with a concomitant sense of responsibility to the church and society."

I contend that this definition of purpose is sufficient to involve this college in a progress in education unequaled in the history of modern education! The definition is there! The definition is sufficient!

The President has [illegible] that Dr. Ingle has [illegible] acterized by acade[illegible] lence." Dr. Ingle's [illegible] professor on the fac[illegible] college attests to a [illegible] tant sense of respons[illegible] church and society."

The dismissal of [illegible] doesn't make the de[illegible] valid one iota. The[illegible] shows that our Presi[illegible] only failed to encour[illegible] tice, but also has ref[illegible] tract to a professor [illegible] practicing the definit[illegible]

Who then has failed [illegible] the best interests of t[illegible]

Sincerely,
Jim Lo[illegible]

Dear Editor:

I read with interest [illegible] rial and various stud[illegible] concerning the dismi[illegible] H. Larry Ingle.

While at PC I to[illegible] courses under Dr. In[illegible] with many other [illegible] found him to be one [illegible] dynamic, intellectuall[illegible] ing and morally enri[illegible] I have ever known.

Dr. Ingle is a man [illegible] no racial prejudice. H[illegible] whose mind is open to[illegible] bility of new and di[illegible] terpretations and app[illegible] history and current af[illegible]

Dr. Ingle is a man [illegible] Christian convictions [illegible] to do such things as [illegible] tively for improved [illegible] among culturally and [illegible] cally deprived children[illegible]

While talking with [illegible] Weersing several day[illegible] assured me that these [illegible] of Dr. Ingle were not [illegible] tors in his dismissal. [illegible] sing further stated tha[illegible] sonally admired and [illegible] up for Dr. Ingle's rac[illegible]

I sincerely hope t[illegible] Gettys and Dr. Weersing[illegible] to find a professor [illegible] somehow fill the void [illegible] be caused by the absen[illegible] Ingle.

Sincerely,
Jim Murch[illegible]
Class of '6[illegible]

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Alex Erwin, Ass't. Editor

Prerequisite For Graduation?

It really takes a strong-willed, determined soul to participate in chapel services at PC and not change his outlook or attitude toward the church. This country was founded on the right of freedom of worship; yet some places often require forced attendance.

The thought that progress is the key to cultural expansion should be prevalent. The Roman Catholic Church was not able to retain control over its people; the result was a break in tradition.

How many people attend chapel that really desire spiritual enlightenment? Wouldn't these people attend chapel whether it be required or not? Let's be realistic in approaching a problem which has lain dormant too long. The situation could possibly be improved by establishing a reason for attending chapel. Our "proctors" have formed their beliefs and concepts in this world, perhaps some of the students have formed their and outlooks on all facets of life.

It sometimes appears that cont[illegible] figures in the political or religio[illegible] are not asked or allowed to spea[illegible] Don't we as students have a right t[illegible] —a choice of whether or not we [illegible] see the other side of life

The original issue, required [illegible] accomplish very little in gaining [illegible] and guidance in the "Word." A[illegible] who can develop an attitude of r[illegible] if chapel is placed in the same [illegible] as a required class. It's just anot[illegible] we have to attend with the same [illegible] of unexcused absences allowed.

Chapel becomes even more se[illegible] meaning when attendance is enfo[illegible] means of punishment for failure [illegible] ticipate in the required number [illegible] It doesn't seem to matter if you a[illegible] tive or awake—just so you are [illegible] there's someone in your seat.

Clay vs. Terrell In Heavyweight Championship Bout

BILL

[illegible] eyes of the boxing world will be turned toward [illegible] trodome in Houston this Monday night when chal[illegible] r Ernie Terrell faces champion Cassius "Muhammed [illegible] Clay for the heavy-weight boxing championship of [illegible] orld.

[illegible] bout will finally solve who is the heavy-weight [illegible] pion for boxing fans as both boxers claim the title. [illegible] ll is recognized by the World Boxing Association [illegible] makes him the champion in the state of New York [illegible] Clay is recognized everywhere else.

[illegible] has been a long haul for Cassius Clay to reach the [illegible] This writer can remember watching Clay as an ama[illegible] in Louisville, Ky., Clay's hometown. At this time he [illegible] skinny kid who had a lightning fast left jab. As a [illegible], Clay never lost a fight on those late Saturday af[illegible] on matches sponsored by the Mayor's Youth Pro[illegible]

[illegible]lay had begun his reputation locally and got a chance [illegible]vance as he entered the Golden Gloves Champion[illegible] Surprisingly enough, the kid made it from the [illegible]hter house district of Louisville to Chicago and the [illegible]pionship bout of the Golden Gloves in the heavy[illegible]t division. A now forgotten name was the victim of [illegible]hnical knockout and Clay was the champ.

[illegible]he next step came in the form of a trip to Rome [illegible]present the United States in the Olympics. Clay came [illegible] to Louisville with the thing he went to Rome after [illegible]old medal.

[illegible]pon his return, he announced that he was turning [illegible] with the one goal being to become the youngest [illegible]-weight champion in the history of boxing. It is [illegible]y of mention that Clay had a gag newspaper printed [illegible]ad the headlines reading that he had knocked Floyd [illegible]rson out to win the championship. Ironically, they [illegible]neet four years later, but it was with Patterson as [illegible]hallenger and Clay as the champion.

[illegible]lay began to fight his way toward the top of boxing [illegible]o earn his chance at a shot at the championship. He [illegible]n't take the usual road of a boxer to become known [illegible]se that would take too long. So Clay devised the [illegible]he behind the direction of Willy Faversham and ten [illegible] Louisville businessmen to get notoriety. Instead of [illegible]loved by the crowds, why not be hated by them? [illegible]ea worked and publicity by the carloads came along [illegible]it. People would come for miles to see this loud [illegible]h get shut up. The only trouble was that no one shut [illegible]p, and his record began to grow.

[illegible]ith publicity came a chance to fight better known [illegible]rs such as Brian London or Doug Jones but always [illegible] his eyes on the championship. Still the "Louisville [illegible] continued to shout that he was the greatest or recite [illegible]y as to what round he would end the fight in. His [illegible]ation grew and the crowds grew with it every time [illegible]epped into the ring. He became the first boxer to [illegible] Madison Square Garden in almost a decade when he [illegible]t Doug Jones.

[illegible]inally, his chance came. He was to meet the formi[illegible] Sonny Liston for the championship. Few people [illegible] Clay any chance to win against a man who had man[illegible]led Patterson in the first round in two straight fights. [illegible] when the crowds cleared, the world had the youngest [illegible]y-weight boxing champion in its history.

[illegible]hat was nearly three years ago and still no one has [illegible] the "Lip" up. As a matter of fact no one has mark[illegible]m let alone put him down. But now he faces perhaps [illegible]most formidable opponent of his career. Many ex[illegible] feel that if there is anyone in boxing today who can [illegible] Clay, it will be Terrell.

[illegible]errell is the first boxer that Clay has faced who will [illegible] a definite size advantage. Clay stands 6-3 while [illegible]ell is 6-6. The question is can Clay fight his usual [illegible] fight against such a big man.

[illegible]lay has devised the double clutch Ali shuffle to keep [illegible]ell off balance and a welcome target for that feared [illegible]jab. Who will win the fight? I leave you with this [illegible]a.

I hate to stay up late
So I'll put Ernie to sleep in round eight.
Some kind soul should warn Mr. Terrell that
To play with Clay is to play with HELL!

Presbyterian to Face Wofford; Revenge Sought For Earlier Loss

By TOM CAIN

Coming off a three-game losing streak, the Presbyterian Blue Hose will face the Wofford Terriers Saturday night in Spartanburg. The Hose will probably be without the services of freshman defensive ace, Bobby Quillen, who has blistered feet.

Wofford, who previously defeated the Hose in the early season Tip-Off Tournament, will start a front line averaging over 6' 10." The Terriers, however, will play without their leading scorer, Bill Kendall, who quit because of academic reasons. The Wofford attack this time will be led by 6' 8" center, Willie Pegron, who is very effective on defense against the opposition's big man.

Wofford will be one of the strongest rebounding teams Presbyterian has faced this year, and Coach Musselman believes the key point of the game will be whether the smaller Hose can rebound with the taller Terriers. To defeat a team of this caliber, Coach Musselman says Presbyterian must not get into foul trouble early, and they must play an almost errorless game.

In this week's games, foul trouble and floor mistakes hurt the Blue Hose, especially in the Elon game. Led by big men, Henry Goedeck and Bill Bowes, Elon was able to keep a three to one point lead over Presbyterian throughout the second half. With three minutes remaining in the game, the Blue Hose threw the ball away three straight times without getting a shot at the basket and lost 51-49.

Against Guilford, lack of height hurt the Hose as Guilford's front line of Kauffman, Young, and Fellus began to control the boards in the second half. Guilford's little All-American, 6' 8," 240 pound, Bob Kauffman, lived up to his rating by scoring 43 points.

In recent weeks Coach Musselman has been pleased with the team's full court defense, basic offense, and the improvement of big men, Dave Hudson and Doug McLeod. If there was more height on the bench for the front line and more experience and poise among the freshmen and sophomores, the coach believes the Blue Hose could have won more of their close games.

Against Wofford Saturday, PC will try to get back in the win column by starting regulars, Richard Quillen, Ken Martin, and Hudson and McLeod. Freshman George Dickerson will start in place of the injured Bobby Quillen if necessary.

PiKA's, KA's Lead IM Basketball Play

By GENE SULLIVAN

Heavy quiz schedules, coupled with the varsity's two home games this week, left a lull in the intramural basketball season. The PiKA's, however, cruised to their third straight win as they overpowered the Oxen 60-33.

A shaky Sigma Nu team outlasted a cold Crusher attack to add their second victory, and Coach Fred Chapman's faculty five outdid the Chargers for their second win. The standings through February are as follows:

Blue Lague	W	L
KA	3	0
Bandits	2	0
Pushers	2	0
Theta Chi	2	1
Renegades	1	1
PiKA II	1	1
Snakes	1	2
Worms	0	3
Wrecks	0	3
Pi Kappa Phi	0	3
Red League	W	L
Pi Kappa Alpha	3	0
Sigma Nu	2	0
Faculty	2	0
Alpha Sig	2	1
Vetville	1	1
Crushers	2	1
KA II	1	2
Hogs	0	2
Chargers	0	3
Oxen	0	3

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

PC Twenty Game Statistics

Player	G	FGA	FGM	Pct.	FTA	FTM	Pct.	RB	Avg.	TP	Avg.
R. Quillen	20	411	184	44.8	94	67	71.3	207	10.3	435	21.8
Martin	20	188	81	43.6	83	64	77.1	79	4.0	226	11.3
B. Quillen	20	147	52	35.5	53	31	58.5	79	4.0	146	7.3
Hudson	20	105	46	43.8	28	15	53.6	83	4.2	197	5.4
Carter	17	108	44	40.7	25	16	64.0	36	2.1	104	6.1
Dickerson	20	86	27	31.4	49	28	57.1	72	3.6	83	4.2
MacLeod	19	65	24	37.0	37	27	73.0	53	2.8	75	4.0
Stine	15	57	26	45.6	10	8	80.0	19	1.1	60	3.5
Kiser	6	16	6	37.5	3	1	33.3	22	3.7	13	2.2
Walther	8	10	3	30.0	2	0	0.0	4	0.5	6	0.8
Totals	20	1442	555	38.5	409	274	67.0	778	38.7	1384	67.2
Opponents	20	1382	594	42.9	507	351	69.2	821	41.1	1439	77.0

Conference Standings

	CONFERENCE GAMES			ALL GAMES
Team	W	L	Pct.	W	L	Pct.
High Point	7	2	.778	12	5	.706
Appalachian	10	3	.769	12	4	.750
Lenoir Rhyne	9	3	.750	13	4	.765
Guilford	8	3	.727	12	4	.750
Catawba	7	4	.636	11	8	.579
Western Carolina	5	6	.455	7	11	.389
Atlantic Christian	4	6	.400	12	6	.667
Newberry	2	7	.222	8	13	.380
Presbyterian	2	8	.200	5	15	.250
Pfeiffer	2	10	.167	4	10	.285

BROADWAY Cinema
WED. and THURS.
David Janssen in "Warning Shot"
With Joan Collins

FRIDAY- SATURDAY
MON.-TUES.-WED.
"Monkeys, Go Home"
With Dean Jones and Yvette Mimieux

fight birth defects / JOIN MARCH OF DIMES

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Campus News Briefs

PaC SaC Schedules Picture Session

The PaC SaC staff would like the following groups to meet at the designated times and places on Monday night, February 6, 1967:

Student Christian Association (Senior and Freshman Cabinets): Douglas House Lounge—7:00 P. M.

Blue Key: Neville Hall Mezzanine—7:20 P. M.

Honor Council: Trustee Room (Belk)—7:35 P. M.

Proctors: Bailey Lounge—8:00 P. M.

Entertainment Committee: Douglas House Lounge—8:15 P. M.

Freshman Control Board: Douglas House Lounge—8:30 P. M.

Junior and Sophomore Class Officers: Douglas House Lounge—8:40 P. M.

Please be there in coat and tie.

Staff Changes

Editor Charles Eagles announced several changes in The Blue Stocking staff. Tony Dendy will now serve as Managing Editor. Taking Dendy's old post of News Editor is Jim Roberts. Sandy Lynn will be Greek Editor, replacing Richard Smart.

As a regular feature will be a column by Rush Otey and Alex Erwin. The Assistant Editors will alternate weeks.

OWS Officers

Susan Gilbert resigned as President of the Women's Council because of health reasons.

Marvis Harrop, Vice-President, became President, in accord with the Constitution.

Angie Reyes Marshall was married over the Christmas holidays, so she resigned as Chairman of the Judicial Council. Paula Evans became Chairman.

Elections for new officers of the Women's Council and Chairman of the Judicial Council will be elected the first week in March.

Chapel Schedule

Monday, February 6—Professor Bell Wiley, Department of History, Emory University, Lecturer on the South Carolina Foundation of Independent Colleges.

Wednesday, February 8—Worship Service, Dr. Fred Poag, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Spartanburg.

Friday, February 10—To be announced.

Trash Cans

The Student Council is presently working with Mr. Campbell and Mr. Beaty on a project designed to make the campus of Presbyterian College more attractive. From the appearance of our campus, it often seems as though the students take little pride in how the campus looks. Cigarette butts, gum and candy wrappers, paper cups, and other "garbage" seem to find obtrusive places to display themselves. This certainly detracts from the inherent beauty of our campus. To remedy this situation, trash cans have been ordered and will be placed where they are obviously needed. It would be greatly appreciated if everyone did his part in using the trash cans. You won't miss these new containers when they appear on the campus—they will be waiting with open arms for your trash!

Spring is coming and the lawns will soon be green again—that is, if everybody helps keep them that way. In another effort to make our campus more attractive, let's try to eliminate all of the "grass-treading." Sidewalks ultimately lead to our destinations, so why not avoid the grassy detours. To paraphrase the words of that famous bear (affectionately called "Smokey"), only YOU can keep our campus clean and green"

Letters Policy

The Blue Stocking welcomes letters to the editor from any of its readers. Letters should be typewritten, double-spaced, and not more than 300 words. All letters must be signed.

The letters should be in The Blue Stocking office in Douglas House by 8:00 p. m., Wednesday.

The Blue Stocking reserves the right to edit all letters.

Incomplete Grades

The Registar's Office emphasized that any student who received an "incomplete" grade at the end of first semester and expects it to be eradicated must have the final grade turned in by Monday, February 6. Otherwise, the "incomplete" will become permanent.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus to interview seniors seeking employment:

Tuesday—Cannon Mills; Wednesday—J. P. Stevens and Co.; Friday—Royal Globe Insurance Co.

Fantasticks

Continued From P. 1, Col. 2.

Performances in such cities as London, Mexico City, Stockholm, Istanbul, Belgrade, Tel Aviv, and Johannesburg, have won rave reviews.

Tim Helgeson will perform the part of Matt, and Jill Clark is Luisa. El Gallo is portrayed by Ray Combs. Other roles feature Danny Brown as Matt's father, Sam Hobson as Luisa's father, Rick Stall as the Shakespearean actor, Randy Ferebee as the Indian, and Chuck Osborne as the Mute.

Dr. James L. Skinner is in charge of acting, Mr. Charles T. Gaines is supervising the music, and Miss Mary Anne Petnnington is handling the setting and staging.

PHOTO CREDITS

All photos by Blue Stocking Photographer David Hood.

The Greeks

By SANDY LYNN
Greek Editor

The Sigma Nu's are proud to announce that Brother Bobby Staton was made chairman of the White Star Ball, which is to be held in Columbia (possibly Ft. Jackson) later in the semester. Bill Meyers reports that all is well at Winthrop! The Sigma Nu basketball team remained in the win column by edging a bruising and determined team of Crushers. PC Homecoming queen Susan Alexander is engaged to Brother "Forker" Bucheit. Miss Jo Garrett of Limestone is engaged to Brother Bob Herlong. Congratulations to new Sig officers: John Benson—alumni officer; Billy Mills—Greek reporter; Richard Crozier—historian; Mickey Reeves—scholastic chairman. New pledge officers include Wayne Harris, President; Chuck Sharman, Vice-President; and Holbrook Raynal, secretary-treasurer.

The Theta Chi's have pledged Ted Ellefson, Fred Ewan, and Bob Harrison. Mike Luke has lavaliered Miss Carol Turmlinson of PC. Thanks to the ball-handling ability of Jim Bell and the fantistic lay-ups of Jaime Amaya, the Oxen were able to hold the PiKA's to a mere 60 points last week. The Bell-Air Motel in Charlotte is recommended by brothers Mike LeFever and Rusty Tatum. With inspiration from Leighton Ford the Theta's are ready for a big IFC weekend.

The Alpha Sigs have pledged Shuford Wall from North Augusta. Reports are coming from Smyth C that Brot Page should lock Brooks Styles has pused this weekend of the week are Ru John Greer.

The PiKA's will be weekend as "the ma led the Mardi Gras New Orleans yesterd ketball team came weekend but managed defeat the Oxen 60-3 was very unselfish a ed to score only Pledge Shell Dula f technical of the sea the Crushers. Broth Reid is engaged to —Goat Ride maybe. ficers include Tommy president; John D president; and Stan retary-treasurer. Re er Leighton Grantha ally graduated.

From the Order, Brothers have been the mirrors lately to the beards are doing, Sjoholm, that is. Kappa attempts to Verse suffered a ne when the Order faile rate enough heat in tains. The KA's are h and the Victors for G end.

Newest Pi Kap Br David Austin and D who were initiated Su David Templeton has ed "biggest event" Hall by his "daught now call him "Baldy. of the Week is Jack P

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 3,800 new paper editors on our list of subscribers to T Christian Science Monitor. Editors from over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" re the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's on daily international newspaper. Unlike loca papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it consider most significant and reports it, interprets it analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further int the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like t be reading, we will send it to you right away a half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspaper men themselves read the Monitor — and wh they invariably name it as one of the five bes papers in the world.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR
FOCUS

The Christian Science Monitor
1 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115
Please enter a Monitor subscription for the name below
I am enclosing $_____ (U. S. funds) for the perio checked. ☐ 1 year $12 ☐ 9 months $9 ☐ 6 months $
Name_____
Street_____ Apt./Rm. #_____
City_____ State_____ Zip_____
☐ College student_____ Year of graduation_____
☐ Faculty member
P-CS-1

Bob Stover

Salesman Starts Students Toward Success

Mr. Robert Stover, Sales Manager for the Southwestern Company of Nashville, Tenessee, spoke Monday in the chapel program sponsored by the Business and Economics Club on "The Meaning of Success and How to Attain It." Mr. Stover's visit to the Presbyterian College campus was designed to accomplish two things: to speak in chapel and to the Business and Economics Club seminar Monday afternoon and to help recruit prospective student dealers for the coming summer.

Mr. Stover is a 1964 graduate of Murray State College, in Murray, Kentucky, and became involved in sales work through another division of the Southwestern Company. The English and Business major worked his way through college solely through sales in the Company's Student Bible Sales Program and because of his outstanding success was offered a contract to work full time with the company in his present Sales Manager position. During the winter months Mr. Stover travels to most of the schools in a six-state area recruiting prospective salesmen for the coming summer. Approximately one-third of each summer is spent training these students in a special 4-day sales school in the art of selling the Webster Student Handbook Set and the remaining time is utilized visiting the crews for which he is resopnsible. Each student salesman in Mr. Stover's organization is given individual attention and advice as to how he may maximize his sales.

The Southwestern Program was first introduced to the Presbyterian College campus when Jim Ritchie worked with them during the summer of 1965. Ritchie's success attracted the attention of several other men on the campus and this past summer seven more were to be found knocking on doors from Charleston to South Bend, Indiana. Last summer's participants in the program included Jim Ritchie, Frank Markette, Ed Gregory, Jimmy Elliott, Robin Williams, Earlie Rash, and Bill Riddle. These men have earned over $17,000 over the last two summers by selling the Southwestern books door to door.

Official Southwestern Company earning figures for the last summer reveal that their student salesmen have done some rather startling things. For example, the average profit per day for all student salesmen was an incredible $28.27, while the average profit per day for first year student salesmen was $23.44.

BOB STOVER

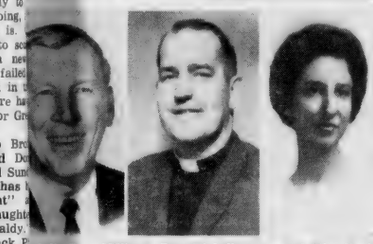
Equally amazing were the 1966 monthly earning statistics—student salesmen was $735.02 and the average profit per month for first-year student salesmen was $609.44. Small wonder they retailed, through its more than 3,500 student salesmen, over $11 million in merchandise.

'ell Qualified' Speakers

nnual RE Week Seeks Relevance of Faith



by MIKE GOWER
Staff Writer

Christianity relevant to to- society? Can a college stu- really stop and think that has something to say to Mike McGehee believes these and other questions be answered in Religious ious Week, February 15, nd 17.

year the week will have main speakers and three sion group leaders. These are well known speakers as Mike McGehee, presi- of the SCA, says, will have hing to say to each mem- the college.

HAPEL SPEAKERS

liam Robert Martin, Dean dents at Union Theological ary, will be the speaker on esday at the chapel pro- On Thursday Bill Curry orgia Tech and Green Bay r football fame will be the er. Friday's speaker will bert P. Perkinson, a real and insurance executive.

left: Rev. Milligan, Rev. Eichelberger, and Miss Hopkins

DISCUSSION LEADERS

Supporting these speakers as discussion leaders will be Anne Ramsay Hopkins, a Director of Christian Education at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Charlotte and a native of York; the Reverend Mr. Max Milligan, minister at the Clairmont Presbyterian Church, Decatur, Ga., and Moderator of the Atlanta Presbytery; and Hugh Lee Eichelberger, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church, Hendersonville, N. C., and a native of Clinton.

Mike McGehee says that the main speaker and the discussion leaders are very well qualified not only by their training, but also by the experiences gained in their fields of work.

SPEAKERS' BACKGROUNDS

W. R. Martin is responsible for student activities at Union. He has gone to The Citadel, Davidson, and the University of Edinburgh. Bill Curry has done youth college work. A. P. Perkinson has spoken recently to Davidson on matters of interest to students and presented a very interesting program.

Anne R. Hopkins went to King College and Presbyterian School of Christian Education. Rev. Max Milligan has had much experience in counseling; and H. L. Eichelberger returns as a discussion leader from two years ago. He has been Chaplain Intern at Grady Memorial Hospital and did graduate work at Columbia in Pastoral Counseling.

McGehee and all the SCA Cabinet feel that the speakers with all this experience will be most ably equipped to deal with such a complicated question as "Is Christianity Relevant?"

SCHEDULE CHANGE

All the chapel meetings will be at 10:00. All TTS 10:00 classes will meet Monday at 10:00; TT classes will meet at 11:00 on Thursday.

At the chapel programs on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday the theme of "Is Christianity Relevant?" will be discussed. Each speaker will explore the theme from his own vantage point. The discussion leaders will be available to speak with groups in the evening at their fraternity suites, dormitories, or meeting places. Anyone interested should see Monk Milligan.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, February 10, 1967 | No. 14

Today's Poll Shows Students Want Changes In Present Drinking Rule

By RUSH OTEY

Results of a student poll taken today in chapel with 74% of the student body participating indicated a strong dissatisfaction with the present drinking rule and an overwhelming desire for a change.

Approximately 70% of those participating stated that they consume alcoholic beverages. Only twelve of the 491 students completing the questionnaire felt that the present rule is effective. Only six students affirmed that the present rule determined whether they would drink or not.

When asked if parental opinion affected their drinking habits, 287 replied that parental approval makes no difference, while 201 answered that they consider their parents' approval or disapproval of their drinking. Approximately 57% of those answering the questionnaire stated that their parents use alcohol.

The results of the poll showed that 455 of 485 students feel that "people whose use of alcohol beverages causes them to act in an unladylike or ungentlemanly manner should be subject to disciplinary action. However, only 225 said they would report any misconduct due to drinking to the Judicial Coucil even if a behavior clause were used rather than the present rule, while 254 said they would not.

OTEY'S ANALYSIS

Today's poll affirmed what has been known among students and administration for a long time. Most PC students drink, and they are going to drink no matter what the college's rule may be. Most students feel that the present rule is unenforcible and therefore desire a change.

Before the poll was taken, a rule based on a behavior clause had a much better chance of passing than it does now after the poll. Student response to Quesion 9 may well have killed such a rule. "Would you report to the Judicial Council(s) any misconduct due to drinking if a behavior clause were used rather than the present rule?" Only 225 of 479 students answered this affirmatively.

If less than half of the student body would so willingly disregard the honor system here, then any new rule would be just as in-

Continued on Page 4, Col. 3

e PC Students Attend arlotte, Columbia Meets

students participated in nferences last week. San- n, Lillibet Vass, and Reed went to the First Annual rn Universities' Student ment Association's Re- Convention (SUSGA) in atte. Jack Howard and 'Connell attended a block- conference in Columbia.

CHARLOTTE

esentatives from Colleges ginia and the Carolinas rt in the SUSGA Regional tion. The meeting lasted ys in which there were discussion groups on va- hases of college life.

COLUMBIA

sored by booking agents, ference in Columbia was d by colleges from as far s Michigan, Indiana, New Florida, and Alabama. of the schools in South a were represented.

purpose of the meeting enable individual colleges name talent cheaper by several schools in an book the same group in t period of time.

discussions were fea- during the day and talent strations at night. The was sponsored by the for promotional purposes. O'Connell and Howard, presented the PC Student ainment Committee, said earned much about the procedures involved in booking entertainment for weekends and in working contracts.

Professors Discuss Conservatism

Last Wednesday, Mr. William A. McArthur and Dr. H. Larry Ingle of the PC History Department presented their views on conservatism in the United States. The college's Young Republicans Club sponsored the discussion.

Ken Durkee, the president of the YRC, introduced the speakers and asked Dr. Ingle to begin the discussion. Ingle started by saying that whether a person was a conservative or a liberal begins with the person's basic view of man. "Conservatives have a definite idea of what can be done by man," stated Ingle.

In Ingle's opinion, conservatives do not think man is basically good. Ingle maintained that a conservative fears that somebody is going to take something from him. The things conservatives fear losing, according to Ingle, are status, property, and power, among other things.

Dr. Ingle cited four historical figures as good conservatives: Alexander Hamilton, John Quincey Adams, Herbert Hoover, and Robert Taft. To Dr. Ingle, these men were intelligent, forward-looking, and sophisticated.

Historically, the conservatives in the U. S. are in a bad position because the American Revolution was liberal, according to Ingle.

After several questions form some of the 28 people present, Mr. MacArthur presented his basic views on conservatism. He agreed with Dr. Ingle's basic definition of the conservative's view of man.

MacArthur believed, however, that the American Revolution was not entirely liberal but was really a Whiggish Revolution in which "conservatives were trying to stop the growth of centralization of power."

In MacArthur's opinion, the Constitution set up a "government of laws, not of man and therefore reflects the conservatives' distrust of man."

"The greatest threat to liberty is the state," said MacArthur. He maintained that the state is the creation of radical philosophies and that the liberals will not save the country from statism, so the conservatives must.

MacArthur said that basically what conservatives want is an ordered society. This desired order is natural and inescapable, according to MacArthur.

Dr. Ingle (left) and Mr. McArthur listen to question.

Eight PC Coeds Vie For Miss PaC SaC

Eight PC coeds are nominated for the title of Miss PaC SaC of 1967. The girls are Diane Adams, a senior from Simpsonville; Mary Anne Arnett, a junior from Aiken; Betsy Cooper, a sophomore from Columbia; Peggy Ellison, a freshman from Greenville; Adele Nowell, a freshman from Rutherfordton, N. C.; Martha Jean Smith, a freshman from Newberry; Lena Strickland, a freshman from Atlanta; and Lilibet Vass, a freshman from Dillon.

The contestants were chosen by the annual staff. The winner will be chosen by an impartial and anonymous judge.

Skip Weldon, Editor of the PaC SaC, said, "The staff has decided it is time for such since we have sufficient number of coeds."

The winner of the title will receive a two-page spread in the 1967 PaC SaC. The decision of the judge will not be announced until the annual is given to the students.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor | Charles Eagles, Editor | Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Mission Accomplished At Thursday's Drill?

The Department of the Army Field Manual 22-100 in paragraph 4 defines military leadership as "The art of influencing and directing men in such a way as to obtain their willing obedience, confidence, respect, and loyal cooperation to accomplish the mission."

Was the stated mission of yesterday's drill accomplished? Did anyone seriously expect to accomplish the mission in several inches of snow?

Did the leadership laboratory on last Thursday aid in gaining the cadets' "willing obedience?" Their "confidence?" Their "respect" in the truest sense of the word?

And finally, did the drill aid the prospect of future "loyal cooperation" in accomplishing the "mission?"

These are questions that should be seriously considered by all involved.

Give REW Speakers A Break- Listen to Them

It is quite appropriate that the letter concerning chapel speakers and attendance appears the week before Religious Emphasis Week begins.

The students have been assured that the RE Week speakers will be interesting. Perhaps all of the speakers will not appeal to all students. But, this year there are three main speakers, each from a different field. At least one speaker will probably appeal to each student.

Before a student can like a speaker, however, the student must have his mind on the speaker—not on sleep, the next quiz, or a newspaper.

Give the speakers during RE Week a chance to get their messages across and maybe sleep in chapel will not be necessary.

Rush Otey, Ass't. Editor

Let's Kill The Dead Horses

There are dead horses on campus.

A quick glance over past issues of The Blue Stocking reveals that there are certain issues, many of them minor, which are eternally plaguing PC students and the Administration. These issues are dead horses.

An editorial in the October 8, 1948, issue dealt with the problem of Rat Season. Some freshmen had complained. Others were having a great time.

The October 21, 1955, issue complained of a lack of usable parking space on campus. The issue of April 8, 1966, contained a similar criticism.

An edtior pleaded for lighted tennis courts in 1956. The tennis courts still are unused at night, despite a similar editorial in 1965.

The same problems and inadequacies in the chapel system here were pointed out at least once every year from 1960 through 1967.

There are other dead horses. A "Reading Day" before exams was proposed in May of 1959 and in April of 1966, and in December of 1966 there was no official "reading day" proclaimed by the Administration.

Coalitions in campus elections were discussed in a 1960 Blue Stocking, and again in 1967.

The Dining Hall is a dead horse.

There has been much discusion about the dead horses. The problems and issues are well-defined, but there have been no answers or solutions. Why?

There has been much apathy and lack of action. The Student Council has at times failed to actively pursue answers to the problems before it. There have been committees, but no final committee reports.

At times when the Student Council has taken action, it has been met with ignorals and no answers from the Administration. A case in point is a letter written by the Student Body Secretary to the Academic Dean last September concerning a proposal made by the Student Council and Honor Council recommending the use of Blue Books to be supplied by the college for all major hour quizzes. Two months later, the Student Council had not even received an acknowledgement of this letter. This is not merely an isolated case; it is an all too common occurrence.

The first task of the 1967-68 Student Council should be to get some answers on these dead horses. The task of the student body should be to make sure the Student Council performs its tasks well. The task, even the duty, of the Administration should be to listen, to care, and to act if at all possible.

Dead horses stink up the campus.

Letters to the Editor

Sam Waters Questions 'New' P

Dear Editor:

It is a genuine relief to learn what the "new" Presbyterian College stands for. Relief? Yes, but relief in the sense of ending the suspense which has ominously hovered over the college since Dr. Weersing's inaugural address three years ago.

Now that the clouds have been dispelled, the goals of the president may straightway be sought after openly and in total self-confidence. May he practice such determination in the future for a vacillating position is never an honorable position.

However, what appears to me as the tragedy in the revelation of our "new" aims is the incongruity between the purposes set forth by the college catalogue and those by the president. (Jim Lloyd enumerated the former in a past issue.) Dr. Weersing, whom I have always held in high esteem personally, is a very competent and efficient savant. With rare winsome qualities he undoubtedly serves in what a large majority could call the "best interests of the college."

In spite of his competence, however, he is not incapable of making less than competent decisions at times. Dr. Weersing, I fear, has in such a moment dismissed incompetently a competent professor.

Without eulogizing the attributes of Dr. Ingle, I will for a moment contend that he is an excellent and open-minded professor, a devout and open-minded Christian, a noble and open-minded crusader for the natural rights of mankind—in short, an invaluable leader in that essential process we call learning, all within the college catalogue's definitive requirements.

We who now hold a Presbyterian College degree are duly proud of the academic strides our school has made under Dr. Gettys' leadership. His program's success surpassed in five years what many would have termed next to impossible. The rating of last spring is a tribute to his endeavors. Accordingly, his faculty is the backbone of his progress. Their reputation in many ways affects the recruitment of good professors as the demand for them increases.

The dismissal of Dr. Ingle, however, is a major setback in that it repudiates the direction of Dr. Gettys' program. Moreover, it places the present faculty in an awkward position, since they must either remain docile under the "new" program or submit to their principles of academic freedom and search for greener pastures elsewhere. Either way a state of tension will exist in face of the possibility of an impending purge.

For Dr. Weersing to state that, as far as the name and progress of the college is concerned, his action is innocuous, is in fact an untruth. Far from injuring personally or professionally the standing of Dr. Ingle, the action will revert menacingly upon the guilty college like a monster of the Clarence Darrow type. God forbid his church's colleges from making headlines under such an indictment! And Dr. Weersing is far too alert an administrator to overlook this.

Everything Presbyterian College does or fails to do in the future will have a direct effect on the instrinsic worth of one's degree. If the college sinks to sub-standard academics, the outside world will scornfully laugh when a graduate admits his association; if, on the other hand, the college rises to the level of academic excellence, then the opposite reaction may occur. In any case it is dishonorable for a student at that institu posedly trained for cl to stand knowingly by with his brain in his

Notwithstanding wha said in support of or to the president's decis renew Dr. Ingle's co college community w far-reaching effects. Dr. Gettys will have t suading good men to to the Presbyteria cause. It has come to tion that already one pect since the presi nouncement has sent The end is not yet in

I appeal therefore lege officials to re "new" program, using a seasoned hindsight, seer-like foresight to tiously evaluate the d this institution. I feel ent definition is incorr stance and somewhat vision.

To the faculty I ap continued strong stand demic freedom in thi academic community.

To the students, all are directly affected for continued expressi cern to responsible o this noxious action.

SAM C. WATE

(Editor's Note: Mr. a former editor of Stocking. He is now d uate work in history a versity of South Caro

Student Endorses Chap

Dear Editor:

For quite some time I have been forced to sit quietly and keep out of the discussion concerning the chapel system here at PC, but the outrageous column by Alex Erwin in last week's Blue Stocking has compelled me to speak out.

To put it bluntly, I am in favor of required chapel attendance. Every student here should be confronted with a religious speaker at least once a week since this is a church-supported institution.

The true "intellectuals" on campus (if there be such!) who constantly condemn chapel would not do so if they were truly liberal. The true liberal is always open to new ideas, and should ever be open to a rehashing of older ones. To the true intellectual, any idea of any man is precious and to be revered, no matter if that idea is in conflict with those of the intellectuals.

Students here have no legitimate gripes to make about having to attend chapel, for they knew this was a rule when they applied for admission.

I would hope that the erant among those aga el would look at their havior and try to refor they would not disturb worshippers in attenda Mr. Erwin, it is very worship God with alar ringing, newspapers pages of books rustl snores being offered prayers. In my opinio no place for such unge behavior at PC, no m disdainful one may be son speaking or of his Ungentlemanly and tian behavior in chap themselves a sign that needed more and more and to save the lost. I with an open mind, a ship experience can after all, at 10:00 a. the noise of snoring a Try it sometime.

And so, Mr. Erwin— have mercy on your po erated soul! It's a g that He is more tole open-minded than you

—A

(Editor's Note: The name has been withheld obvious reasons.)

Staff

Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, B
Assistant Business Manager ..... Robert
Managing Editor ..... Tom
News Editor ..... Jim
Copy Editor ..... Don
Feature Editors ..... Karen Weaver,
Sports Editor ..... Bill
Contributors ..... Tom Cain, Mike Gower, Don Bill Riddle, Gene Sullivan, Su

Six Games Remain In Basketball Season

BILL

Presbyterian College Blue Hose are en- their final drive as the season draws to a The Blue Hose now have a 6 and 16 rec- the season with six games remaining. If n win three of those games, they will be ly assured of a spot in the conference ment on March 1-4 in Lexington, N. C.

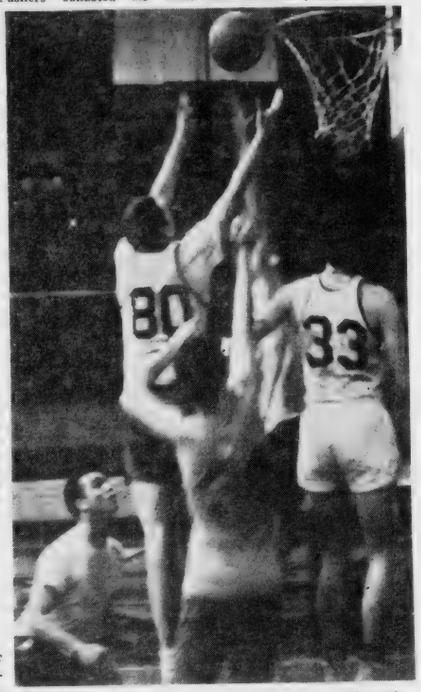
Blue Hose have come on stronger in the ree weeks by winning three of their last games including this week's upset of Wof- A big factor in recent games has been ay of guard Ken Martin. Ken amassed 58 in the two games against Wofford to some of the slack created by the injured of Richard Quillen. This spurt has raised ason's scoring average from about ten per game to 13.1.

illen is still proving to be one of the top in the state and is a definite contender l-State honors. Richard is averaging 21.1 e and leading the team in rebounds with average. His recovery will be a big factor in the Blue Hose's fortunes on their two-game road trip into North Carolina this weekend.

Two players who haven't received much publicity but have been tremendous helps to the Blue Hose are Dave Hudson and Doug MacLeod. These two boys have come along very fast and have helped PC get that second shot. These two combined for 21 rebounds against Wofford. Bobby Quillen has also proved to be capable for his outstanding defensive ability.

There are two home games left this season and both are with conference opponents which may prove to be critical games. I would like to urge all students to give their full support to the basketball team in these two games because they have been playing their hearts out for you. A word of sportsmanship should be thrown in here. It is not a very good image for the school to have a student threaten to punch out an opposing player because he goes into the crowd chasing a loose ball.

What can be said about the rest of the basketball season? Keep the faith, Baby!



Faculty, KA's, Pushers Win In Intramural Basketball

By GENE SULLIVAN

Kappa Alpha Order had to hold on for all its worth this week as a determined Bandit rally fell short by one point. The KA's had a 29-25 lead with three minutes remaining, but Thurston and Atkinson tied the score with 1 minute left. The Bandits then stole the ball and missed a final shot; Forbes whipped the rebound to Rufus Bratton who scored to give the Kappa's their fourth straight win.

In other league action the Pushers outlasted the Theta Chi's 54-47 to keep their record unblemished. The Bandits added another victory over the Snakes, and the PiKA second team came on strong as they cut the Snakes.

The Red League saw a stunning upset Wednesday night as the revitalized Faculty behind Art Musselman upset the previously undefeated PiKA's 33-32. This was the first PiKA loss in three years. The Sigma Nu's kept their record spotless, creaming the Chargers by a large margin, and the Alpha Sig's pulled together for their third win of the young season.

Theta Chi's and Pushers jump for rebound in game this week.

artin Leads Hose Over Wofford; ose to Play Elon Tomorrow Night

by TOM CAIN
Staff Writer

by Ken Martin's 32 points a tough defense, Presbyte- defeated Wofford 51-49 at C gym February 7.

lling by three points during pening minutes of the sec- half, the Blue Hose came behind to lead 39-31 on four ht baskets by Martin. ng catch-up ball the rest of ame, however, Wofford tied core at 42-42. With the lead ing five times during the ng four minutes, Wofford a 49-45 lead with a minute n the game.

er Ken Martin sank a jump Wofford's Johnny Hendrix d a one-and-one foul shot. ontrolled the rebound, and ard Quillen hit a jumper to e score. Wofford's Willie am then had a chance to the game for the Terriers, e missed a one-and-one foul er the rebound, Jim Kiser fouled, and the Wofford kicked the ball and was d for a technical foul. After hit the first of a one-and- Martin shot the technical, PC had its victory over Woffore Tuesday's ball game, Wofford had defeated Presbyterian 60-51 at Spartanburg. Ken Martin had scored 28 points in that game, giving him a 30-point average for the Wofford games this week.

On Saturday night, February 11, PC will try to continue its winning ways by traveling to Burlington, N. C., to face the Elon Christians in a conference game. Monday night, the Blue Hose will play Guilford away in another important conference game, for if PC wins three of its last five games, they will obtain a spot in the conference tournament.

Spring Football Practices Begin In Snowy February

By MIKE SIMONS

Spring football practice got underway this weekend amid temperatures that hardly seemed like spring. The team did not get to practice two days before the snow came.

Commenting on spring practice, head coach Cally Gault had this to say, "We've got a good team out this year, with some new boys who haven't played before at PC. It's too early to tell yet, but we should have another good team if we can come up with adequate replacements for some of our seniors who graduated. Team morale is high and we are looking forward to a good spring practice. Coach Gault said that fundamentals will be stressed in the spring drills.

PC, co-owners with Lenoir Rhyne of the Carolinas Conference title, returns a strong nucleus headed by quarterback Bill Kirtland, second team All-Stater, and Dan Eckstein, two-way all-conference team player at halfback, corner man Ronnie Jordan among the backs, and such linemen as Jim Sullenburger, Tommy Campbell, Eddie Walker, Dowl Thompson, Johnny Bankhead, Richard Munn, and Richard Reed.

Gone will be such stalwarts as Sam Williams, Jim Johnson, Bob Warren, John Monk, Sam Lyons, John Helms, and Allan Harris. How well these men are replaced will be a key factor in the success of the Blue Hose next season.

BROADWAY Cinema

FRIDAY-SATURDAY
DAVID McCALLUM in Three Bites of The Apple
Sylvia Koscina, Harvey man, Domenico Modugno, Tammy Grimes.

ONDAY-WEDNESDAY
e Venetian Affair
ert Vaughn, Elke Sommer, cia Farr, Karl Boehm, Boris loff, Roger C. Carmel, and iana Paluzzi.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

Now Monarch Notes On
Joseph Andrews
New Testament
Hard Times
Hamlet
Ibsen
Dryden
Vanity Fair
Wuthering Heights
Pride and Perjudice
The Rise of Silas Lapham
Tennessee Williams
Tess of The D'urbevilles
Rape of The Lock
The Red and The Black
Crime and Punishment
PC Bookstore

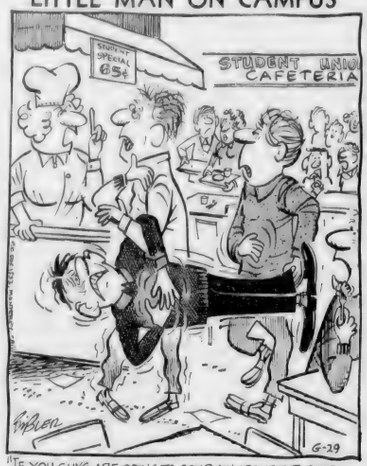
Campus News Briefs

Greek Weekend Begins Tonight

The second semester social calendar moves into full swing this weekend with the first exclusive Greek Weekend. Beginning on Friday, the various fraternities will have record parties in their respective suites.

On Saturday, a joint IFC party will be held in Greenville Hall from 8-12. This party is for fraternity men only and no others will be permitted to attend. There will be a charge of $2.00 per couple for those fraternity men who did not contribute the original $100.00 for the party. The Ravenettes will provide the entertainment Saturday night.

Placement



The following representatives will be on campus to interview seniors seeking employment:

Monday, February 13—American Lava.

Thursday, February 16—Board of Public Instruction.

Thursday, February 16—North Carolina National Bank.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

TODAY'S POLL, Cont. from P. 1

effective as the old rule. This single fact will definitely not be in the students' favor when the rule is voted upon by the faculty. A rule based on behavior is workable, but in the eyes of the administration powers it will not be acceptable unless it is enforced. It must be enforced by the entire student body and not just the Student Council or Honor Council.

Whether a new rule will be passed remains to be seen. Whether it will work if passed is also an unanswered question. At any rate, today's poll may be taken as a mandate for a change.

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 3,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR
FOCUS U.S. grade: Where and how?

The Christian Science Monitor
1 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115
Please enter a Monitor subscription for the name below.
I am enclosing $..... (U. S. funds) for the period checked. ☐ 1 year $12 ☐ 9 months $9 ☐ 6 months $6
Name.....
Street..... Apt./Rm. #.....
City..... State..... Zip.....
☐ College student..... Year of graduation.....
☐ Faculty member
P-CN-45

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Every litter bit hurts
YOU
Trash? Litter? Empties? Don't heave them overboard! Carry a litterbag in your boat. Hold everything for the first trash container on shore or take it home for proper disposal. Remember—our waterways belong to all of us. Litter pollutes the waters, fouls propellers, spoils fishing fun and costs tax dollars! Every litter bit hurts . . . YOU. America's beauty is your duty. Please help
KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL
Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council.

The Greeks

By SANDY LYN
Greek Editor

The ASP's will have a Valentine party in their fraternity suite Friday night from 8-12. Pledge Bob Gustafen will present his interpretation of "Cupid" until he runs out of dry diapers. He will be shooting 90-proof arrows as he flits around the suite with his tiny white wings. The ASP's also plan to attend the IFC party Saturday. Brother (?) of the Week is Morrow Thompson.

From the Pi Kap's, a party will be held in the fraternity room Friday night from 8:00 till . . . to kick off IFC Weekend. Brother Jim Barnhart can be heard telling his war stories about the Mardi Gras; glad to see that he can remember the trip. Worried members will now be gratified to know that the newspaper of the chapter is now out—will wonders never cease. Brother of the Week is Dan Roberts.

From the Kappa Alpha Shed, a party will be held in the "house" from 8-12 Friday night. Brother Al Wilson was presented a pledge scholarship cfiation from the national office for last year. After three years Brother Joe Gettys has finally begun to grow a beard, but is still looking for someone to room with. A small band of fuzzy-faced counter-insurgency troops, known as "Cowards" have been seen putting in overtime hours on Thursdays. Maybe they are gung-ho? Newest KA pledge is Ashton Blount from Gainesville, Ga.

The Theta Chi's will be having a closed record party in the fraternity suite Friday night. Pledge Rick Patrick has lavaliered Miss Judy Simpson of PC. Brother Ken Dodds is making plans to go into public relations upon graduation. The pledges will soon begin work on their Pledge Project for the room. Russ Tatum is fired up for the weekend.

This weekend the PiKA's are resting up for the real Greek Weekend. The basketball team, which had a three-year winning streak, was knocked from the undefeated ranks by a Mussel-man-led faculty tea game all the way. Da one of the original "C Cavaliers," became PiKA to take a d Hall. Fear not, rumor there will be others Brother Eckstein is to Miss Martha Jean PC. "Happy" is back now after a 30-day riod. We hope that his trip to Columbia "Great White Hunte Dick Smart, is still for the duck that he the back with a ch The Mardi Gras caravan ed safely. Brother W he is in favor of long periods. Brothers of are Dan Montgomery lie Reid. Jim Helms to Miss Terry Cheek Forest.

Congratulations are for Brother "Turtle" who is now pinned to sie Reddick, keeping ole Sigma Nu traditi riage is ecstasy; "O Markette and "Old La just celebrated No. 1, Gov. Maddox's mansio lanta: Sigma Nu pledge Butt" Breedlove and Harris obtaining the G signature on an egg. dental side excursion pledge trip also result freshments and a tou house, conducted by Lady. No axe-handles w ted, the boys reported. lations to "T-baum" To gardner, Jimmy Br David Ballard, "Daddy Gravely and Phil W hoodThursday night. S basketball continues to the court. A certain yo were initiated into the from the "Hall" was b lent of a half dozen red her birthday—affectiona by Brother Robin Willia could be the start of so BIG.

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAS
West Main Street Clinton, S.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 83

fight birth defects / JOI
MARCH OF DI

The Blue Stocking

XLV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, February 17, 1967 No. 15

V. HUGH EICHELBERGER discusses relevant problem t Vetville residents.

Faculty Sets 2.25 QPR For Upperclassmen Cuts

By DICK QUERY

In a special meeting held on February 10, 1967, the academic advisory and absence committees and the faculty approved a new cut system that will become effective in August, 1967, for the 1967-1968 school term. The new system will include the following provisions:

1. Students enrolled in M. S. 101, 102 will be allowed only
   1 absence for personal reasons other than cause. Students enrolled in M. S. 201, 202 will be allowed only
   2 absences for personal reasons other than cause. Students enrolled in M. S. 301, 302, 401, 402 will be allowed only 3 absences for personal reasons other than cause.
2. All classes not covered by rules which require a more strict attendance requirement (as for example, labs, drill, M. S.) shall be governed by the following:
   a. Freshmen are allowed three absences for personal reasons, or, on classes not meeting three times per week, absences ,not to exceed 7 per cent of the total number of classes scheduled.
   b. All upperclassmen (as certified by the Registrar) who have a cumulative QPR or a previous semester QPR of 2.24 or under, or both, shall be allowed three absences for personal reasons other than cause.
   c. All upperclassmen (as certified by the Registrar) who have both a cumulative QPR and a previous semester QPR of 2.25 or over may take absence at their discretion up to, but not exceeding 25 per cent of the total number of classes scheduled.
3. Chapel. All students, including freshmen, are allowed to take a number of absences for personal reasons which does not exceed 25 per cent of the total number of chapel-convocation exercises scheduled in a semester.
4. Existing regulations not specifically affected by the foregoing proposed changes will remain unchanged.

Student opinion on the new cut system ranges from one extreme to another even though the new provisions were not publicly announced until this issue of the Blue Stocking. Some are for it, but many are against it. One student was heard to say, "It's the best thing that could have happened to me." Another said, "Guess I'll have to pull my grades up now."

But support for the new cut system is limited to the vast minority, with most students completely against it. Students ask: Why is a 2.25 QPR required to have upperclassmen cuts when it takes only a 2.00 QPR to graduate?

Variety Marks REW As It Closed Today

By BILL SCOTT

gious Emphasis Week end- lay and many students deemed it a success. The "Is Christianity Rele- was dealt with in a va- ways. Three chapel pro- presented the back- ds of thought for discus- roups held among various t and dorm groups.

n W. Robert Martin, Dean dents and Director of Ad- us at Union Theological ary, was the main speaker ednesday. He made the in his sermon Wednesday context of the words of in the first century is ad- lly different from that of ventieth century, but that sues are the same today ould therefore be relevant.

Bill Curry, former start- ffensive center for the Champion Green Bay rs, was the featured speak- ursday morning. He made spiring, attention-holding citing parallels from his ence as a football player relevancy of Christianity ay, Mr. Albert Perkin- ., a Charlotte Insurance al Estate executive, gave insight to the relevancy of Christianity to the business world.

The traditional REW discussion groups, led by Miss Anne Hopkins, Mr. Hugh Eichelberger, and Mr. Max Milligan, Jr., lived up to reputation. Everything from the moral issues concerning drinking and sex to the relationship of God to the world was discussed. The discussions were very enlightening, however many students left them with the feeling that they should have lasted longer than 45 minutes.

Mike McGehee, President of the SCA, did a fine job in selecting the speakers and discussion group leaders for this year. He proved that religion can be presented to the PC student in a way interesting to him.

SGA Election Schedule Set; Advice Given on Letters

The Student Council met Wednesday night and set the election dates for Student Council elections. The seven members present also discussed the rat season, the present proctor system, and the cut system.

The deadline for students to sign up to run for President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer of the student body and chairman of the Honor Council was set as 3:00 p. m. on February 24. The nominating ballot for these offices will be February 27.

Speeches by the three candidates for President will be at 7:30 in Belk Auditorium on February 29. The final ballot for the five campus-wide offices will be on March 1.

The deadline for signing up to run for class representatives on the Council will be March 15. The election by classes will be March 17.

The Council also approved several recommendations on rat season to be presented to the Student Activities Committee of th faculty. There was some discussion about the ratting of women students which possibly resulted in unladylike activity.

See COUNCIL, Page 5, Col. 3.

General Mabry and Colonel Hollis

Military Ball to Honor Two Alumni; Army Band, Villagers to Perform

General George L. Mabry and Colonel Joel M. Hollis will be the featured guests at this year's Military Ball. The annual event is sponsored by the Society of the Scabbard and Blade and will be held on February 24 in Greenville Dining Hall.

General Mabry, who will be accompanied by his daughter, Gail, is a PC graduate and Congressional Medal of Honor winner. He is presently stationed at Ford Ord in California.

Colonel Hollis is also a graduate of PC. His wife will come with him. He is a winner of the Legion of Merit with an Oak Leaf Cluster. Colonel Hollis is presently stationed at the Atlantic Command in Norfolk, Va.

The music for the dance will be provided by the Fort Jackson Army Band and the Villagers Combo. The dance will be from 8:00 p. m. until 12:00 midnight during which time the Fraternity suites will be closed.

Scooter Holcombe, head of the Scabbard and Blade, has announced that all PC students and their dates are cordially invited to attend the dance. The dress for military students is class A greens with white shirts. Other male students should wear dark suits. Girls' dress will be long or short formal.

Midway through the dance the senior cadets and their dates will be presented in a sabre arch ceremony.

GEN. GEORGE MABRY will be the featured guest at the Military Ball.

by Pennington Exhibit Next Week

exhibition of the recent art of Mary Anne Pennington, ctor in art at Presbyterian e, will be on display in ouglas House student cen- campus, beginning next ay and continuing through 10.

exhibition will include ngs, drawings and works ulpture rendered by Miss ngton in recent months. oined the PC faculty last t after receiving her mas- fine arts from Richmond ssional Institute and has en- wide acceptance of her am here by students who participated this semester non-credit art course.

Pre-law Scholarship Endowed by Family Of Late T. H. Stukes

The Taylor H. Stukes Honor Award, in memory of the late Chief Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court, has been endowed at Presbyterian College through a gift from his wife.

President Marc C. Weersing announced Wednesday that Mrs. Stukes, who continues to reside in Manning, has designated that the interest from this investment and a plaque be given annually to the pre-law student of greatest promise in the junior class at PC. The yearly award of approximately $500 will be made available for the recipient's senior year.

Taylor Hudnall Stukes, in whose name this award is given, was born in Manning. He practiced law there, served in the state legislature and was elected to the State Supreme Court in 1940. He served as chief justice from 1956 until his death in 1961. A Presbyterian elder for more than 30 years, he was moderator of the Synod of South Carolina in 1956.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor | Charles Eagles, Editor | Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Cut Restrictions Unfair; 2.25 Cutoff Too High

The new absence regulations passed on February 10 by the faculty are being heatedly discussed by members of the student body.

Students as a whole seem to be against this rule. Many feel that both personal freedom and academic freedom are being violated. Other students are understandably upset because fewer cuts mean fewer long weekends, fewer days of sleeping late, and fewer days of cutting class to study for quizzes.

Faculty members were concerned about present attendance regulations because, according to their statistics and opinions, students who cut the most classes made the worst grades.

The faculty is to be commended for its interest in the student. Some action in regard to the cut system was needed since 238 of 461 upperclassmen fall below the new 2.25 cutoff point for eleven cuts per semester.

However, the new rules are unfair in theory if not in practice. If only a 2.0 QPR is needed for graduation (only a 1.8 for the rising senior class), why should one have to achieve a higher QPR to receive a realistic number of cuts?

Absence from class does not always result in poor performance academically. Both class absence and poor academic performance may be at least partially related to a professor's failure to make a class stimulating for a student.

For the sake of academic and personal freedom, for the sake of the straight "C" student, and in an effort to develop a more well-rounded student body, we implore the faculty to retract its present rule of both a 2.25 cumulative GPR and a 2.25 GPR for the preceding semester, and to substitute a more realistic, modernistic, and acceptable 2.0 cumulative GPR as a basis for determining class absences.

Letters to the Editor

Profs' Parental Instinct Questic

Dear Editor,

There are two questions I would like to ask the faculty: why do students come to college and what are most of our parents paying for when they send their child to college? Are our parents in reality paying for their child's education or for "baby sitters" for their children? Is it not fair to assume that a student should be able to determine what and when he will be able to cut as well as for what class he will sign up?

If the student is not able to determine what and when he can cut then it is my contention that the student has a hell-of-a lot more to learn than his "baby-sitters" will be able to teach him.

I would think that a good portion of a college education is to learn self-discipline. Another part is to obey rules, however ridiculous they seem to be. If a person cannot be given free cuts after his freshman year and be able to use them discreetly, how far will he go after he graduates?

If a person can't be given free cuts, then why would Duke University, with as high a rating as it has, have gone to this system? It certainly would seem that they did not do it because one man or small group of men thought it would give the students more time to "party."

I am sure we all appreciate the interest our professors show in us, but I would rather imagine that most of us left our home and parents to get away in part from the domination of our parents so that we could be able to look at a problem and solve it for ourselves, or with any assistance that we may need from time to time. It would seem to me that the same should be true for the cut system.

Jim Barnhardt

Dear Editor:

I would like to commend PC's Pilgrim for speaking out and voicing an opinion on a controversial subject. I feel compelled, however, to point out several inconsistencies in his presentation.

Most obvious is the tone of self-righteousness and condemnation with which Mr. Erwin's "outrageous letter" is attacked. Pilgrim would do well to investigate Christ's views on self-righteousness and His advice to condemn not lest you be condemned yourself.

The fact that PC is a church-supported institution and that students come here aware of chapel requirement is a point well made. Logically, however, this is only a way of avoiding the issue by appeal to authority and force.

Th true intellectu should be open to old, but not neces and everything tha cruited to fill a All ideas should b pression in proper not necessarily rev they are espouse men and politician ity is an importan and has played a both Christian evolu American heritage.

Our Pilgrim frie basic problem to b Christian behavior rowmindedness of body. As one wh cut in four years o neither sleeps nor s "services" I would some legitimate God have mercy on generate soul. F last week these ass sisted of a series that few could find er to worship or lives.

First, we were re in on a judo exhibit to us that Christians sics, and that the erate student body to serve as audience tional problems of th Later on that week astounded to learn champions got their not from Wheaties. divine inspiration. where the ancient G modern non-Christian will to win.)I do not rate these as indivi but as chapel speake viously did not relate dents. Consequently was made of the thir most sacred. Who wa

Almost everyone, body first of all, can Realistically, howeve be more fair to lay th the system itself. P conflict is between a week and an in of talent to fulfill this semester certainly in a possibility.

Then perhaps schedule could be alt clude fewer services services, and thereb flict might be eased en low a meaningful pa emerge. Administrativ however, appears to a laissez-faire policy doubtful that a problem be recognized much upon.

Meanwhile I think number of students fe about the quality of c grams rather than an sentment against the self. So I feel that the in our midst should prayers or redirect the concern is surely no s

Bryson

Alex Erwin, Ass't. Editor

'Degenerated Soul' Answers Pilgrim

I am aware that PC is a church-supported institution and that there should be religious programs made available to its students.

The Pilgrim said, "ungentlemanly and un-Christian behavior in chapel are in themselves a sign that chapel is needed more and more to reform and save the lost."

Ungentlemanly behavior in chapel also illustrates the fact that the service is failing to reach some members of the congregation. If chapel were not required, I would venture that there would be very little ungentlemanly or un-Christian behavior present. Those who attended the service would be there because they desired to be. The atmosphere would be more appropriate for the occasion. Those people who did not attend chapel would not be present to disturb the religious atmosphere.

The Pilgrim also stated that if there were any intellectuals on campus, they would not condemn chapel if they were liberal. The connotation of the word liberal is quite contrary to what Mr. Webster says. A liberal is one "not bound by orthodox tenets or established forms in political philosophy; independent in opinion; not conservative, having tendency toward democratic or republican, as distinguished from monarchial or aristocratic . . ."

How can a liberal intellectual avoid the issue of "required" chapel?

The statement that the Pilgrim asserted concerning the difficulty with which a sincere worshipper is confronted in developing a reverent attitude in chapel is apparent except for the fact that the "truly tolerant" would have no cause to reform since he is the one that "suffers to be without hindrance."

How can the prevailing atttiude be removed if one is forced to attend chapel? Should not you be more "tolerant' to those among you who feel that "required chapel" is an injustice.

Pilgrim—

Does your church have a seat checker?

Does someone lock the doors when the service begins?

Does your church suspend its members for failing to attend a set number of services?

Perhaps there is a "Quaker-waker" or "custodian of reverence" suspended from the rafters with a long staff to which a club is fixed to one end and a feather to the other. The club is to be used to maintain silence and to prevent talking, and the feather is quite effective in arousing a would-be sleeper.

I commend you—Puritan—to the Scripture, the Letter of James, verses 14 and 17 of chapter 2:

"What does it profit my brethren, if a man says he has faith but has not works? Can his faith save him? . . . So faith by itself, if it has no works, is dead."

As to the reference you made of my degenerated soul," I try to remember that "God is Love" and "judge not that ye be not judged."

"For we all make many mistakes, and if any one makes no mistakes in what he says, he is a perfect man, able to bridle the whole body also." James III, ii.

Staff

Assistant Editors — Alex Erwin, J
Assistant Business Manager — Robert
News Editor — Jim
Copy Editor — Don
Feature Editors — Karen Weaver,
Sports Editor — Bill
Cartoonist — Jim
Photographer — Da
Contributors — Gene Sullivan, Tom Cain, Di
Mike Simons.

Bill Bassham

An Interview With Bill Curry

I am sure that the students on this campus were as impressed as this writer with the talk given by Bill Curry in chapel this morning. Mr. Curry combined some good football stories with a message with real meaning that was benefitting to all.

I interviewed Curry after chapel and got some very interesting answers. Curry commented on the Green Bay Packers and Coach Vince Lombardi. "It was a great experience to play on the best team in professional football. I became much more attached to the rest of the team than I had ever been before. They are all a great bunch of guys. I'll always hold a place in my heart for the Packers.

"Lombardi is a great coach who has the respect of everyone on his team. His main theme is discipline. He has a set of rules to follow and everyone had better follow them whether he is a super-star or a poor sub."

Curry told this story on Lombardi to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes after chapel. The whole team was very tight before the Dallas game this year. When Lombardi came into the dressing room everyone immediately shut up as was the custom. Another rule is that you don't speak to Lombardi until he speaks to you and then you only say, "Good morning, Coach Lombardi. How are you, sir?" Lombardi walked up to Fuzzy Thurston, who is the team clown, and asked him if he was ready. Thurston replied, "How about you Vince, baby?"

I asked Curry what he thought of the er Bowl. He replied. "I felt very privileged to play in the first such game and of course to win. I do feel that the AFL teams are about two years behind the NFL. They need more interleague games to get used to the more experienced play of the NFL. The exhibition games this fall should help some, but of course everyone will be playing their rookies."

Curry said he thought one of the biggest reasons for Green Bay's success was quarterback Bart Starr. "Bart spent five years on the bench before he got a chance to play, but instead of becoming discouraged, he was compiling a notebook of facts that have made him the best quarterback in pro football. He has facts on all the defensive players in the league as well as what other quarterbacks did in particular situations. Bart calls the right play almost all the time. If we don't go, it's because we don't execute the play correctly.

I asked Curry how he felt about being traded to the New Orleans Saints. "I will miss playing with the Packers and my teammates, but I'm looking forward to the challenge of playing with a new team. I have a great respect for their coaching staff and only hope that we can field a presentable team.

"Paul Hornung will be playing down there if he can get his neck straightened out. We have some fine players coming to New Orleans and it will be good to be playing in the South again."

He also commented on the comparison of football in the Southeastern Conference as to that in the Big Ten upon my prompting. "Don't even try to get the argument started because it's like arguing over religion—you'll never settle anything. We were constantly arguing over which conference was superior. Luckily we had more Southern boys than Yankees on the team."

Curry ended by expressing his feeling toward PC. "I have really enjoyed being here and am very impressed with the students. I hope that they got something out of my talk. The thing that impresses me with the school is the friendliness of the students."

And we, Mr. Curry, were impressed with you. He is going to the Candler School of Theology at Emory in the off-season. He doesn't know if he'll go into the ministry, but for the first time in his life he is taking courses for what he can learn.

I would like to thank the student body for the attention and courtesy they showed Mr. Curry. A note of appreciation should also go out to Mike McGehee for the work that he and the SCA have done to improve Religious Emphasis Week.

JG BOWLES HITS for two points in leading the Theta Chi's victory over the Snakes.

shers, KA's Victorious IM Basketball Action

Pushers and KA's each new victories to their rec his week. The Pushers sur a cold first half to walk from the Wrecks, 53-33, the efforts of Gary Leonard E. G. Lassiter.

Gettys led the KA's to their straight win by pounding coming Renegade team led andel Caldwell and Monk an.

etermined Snake team led liant" charge against the beaten Theta Chi's, but the fell seven points short. Ed and Doug Bowles turned in excellent performances for the Theta's in their 46-39 win.

Intramural basketball season is nearing the halfway mark. Each team is expected to play at least nine games.

BLUE LEAGUES

Team	W	L
Pushers	4	0
Kappa Alpha	4	0
Bandits	3	1
Theta Chi	3	2
Renegades	3	2
PiKA II	2	2
Snakes	2	3
Worms	0	3
Wrecks	0	4
Pi Kappa Phi	0	4

RED LEAGUE

Team	W	L
Sigma Nu	4	0
PiKA	3	1
Faculty	3	1
Alpha Sig	3	1
Vetville	3	1
Crushers	3	1
KA II	1	3
Oxen	0	4
Chargers	0	4
Hogs	0	4

Hose, Pfeiffer, Newberry Compete For Last CC Tournament Position

By TOM CAIN

As the season enters its final week of action, Presbyterian, Newberry, and Pfeiffer are competing for the eighth position in the Carolinas Conference Tournament to be held at Lexington, N. C., on March 1-4.

The eighth seeded position in the tournament will be decided by Wednesday night, as PC meets Newberry at home Saturday night, Pfeiffer at Rock Hill on Monday, and Western Carolina at home on Wednesday. Because of the conference role that teams are positioned according to wins, the Blue Hose must win all three of their remaining games to play in the tournament.

The first time Presbyterian faced Newberry, they defeated the Indians by ten points at Newberry. The Blue Hose have outplayed Pfeiffer this season, and indications are that the game will be a close contest. Western Carolina,, PCs last regular season opponent, already is assured of a position in the conference tournament. This game will be the only time this season that Blue Hose fans will get a chance to see Little All-American Henry Logon in action, a player many experts think is a future pro prospect.

In this past week's action, Presbyterian defeated Piedmont 82-80 at Demorest, Ga., in a non-conference game Wednesday night, Ken Martin led the scoring for PC with 2 points, 17 of them in the first seven minutes of the second half. The game was tied in the last seven minutes, but clutch baskets by Woody Carter and Dave Hudson put the Hose ahead to stay.

On Monday, February 13, Guilford defeated PC, 97-54, at Greensboro, N. C. The turning point in the game was the first ten minutes of the second half, when Guilford ran up a twenty-five point lead over a cold shooting Presbyterian team. Little All-American center, Bob Kauffmon, got 27 points and 27 rebounds for Guilford, while Richard Quillen led PC scorers with 18 points. Guilford ran its league - leading record to 14-2. Presbyterian is now 2-10 in the conference.

Men or Mice?

(Editor's Note: The following appeared in the February 10, 1967, edition of the Wofford College "Old Gold and Black." On February 7 the Blue Hose defeated the Wofford Terriers 51-49 on PC's home court.)

By DOYLE BOGGS

It's certainly very hard to sit down after losing any basketball game and write an optimistic column; it is doubly tough after a loss to PC, even if the game was handed to the Blue Hose by the man in a striped shirt.

Coach Alexander and his players have worked very hard to make up for the loss of Bob Kendall, and they have done just that. The fact that a couple of very poor officials let a screaming crowd of Presbyterian students intimidate them can't alter that fact.

Wofford Scrimmage Pleasant Surprise For Coach Gault

Presbyterian met Wofford in a football scrimmage Wednesday, and Head Coach Cally Gault said he was "pleasantly surprised' with the team's performance.

The offensive backfield drew praise from Coaches Gault and Bob Waters, with special notice given to halfbacks Bob Hackle and Gene Robbins, and fullback Ronnie Jordan. Waters said quarterback Bill Kirtland was "right on target with his aerials." Danny Fry was running well at second unit offense.

Line Coach Billy Tiller praised Peter Mallory, Bob Murray, Jack McCaskill, Shell Dula, and Ed Pauling, while Coach Joe Nixon said Richard Reed and Richard Munn looked sharp on pass receiving.

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

One Big Drunk

Pleasure Seekers Visit Mardi Gras

By MACK SINGLETON

Mardi Gras is a French word meaning "fat Tuesday." This well-established tradition in many Catholic countries consists of a celebration before Lent, which begins on Ash Wednesday. The Mardi Gras custom was brought to the U. S. by the French, who founded the city of New Orleans and has remained a custom in this historic city, which attracts visitors from all over the U. S.

The celebration lasts about a week and consists of elaborate parades and widespread revelry throughout the picturesque French Quarter in New Orleans.

MARDI GRAS "SHOCK"

The historical and colorful aspects first attracted our attention concerning the proposed trip. Being typical, naive students from a small, Christian college such as PC, we weren't acquainted with the disgraceful behavior of many of the pagans who attend this event. We were indeed shocked by the unlimited use of alcohol by nearly all the people taking part.

PARADE ACCIDENT

We arrived in New Orleans full of anticipation of a weekend of sightseeing and relaxation. To our dismay, the streets were crowded by riotous individuals with apparently no concern for proper dress and decorum. We were somewhat relieved with preparations and anticipation of our first parade.

Mardi Gras parades are truly spectacular, with elaborately decorated floats, numerous bearers who demonstrate the typical Negro's delight in performing for the white man's money that is thrown out into the streets by spectators.

Each float is occupied by about twelve costumed participants who throw beaded necklaces and commemorative coins to the crowd. The spectacle was marred, however, by the accidental fall of one of the men from a float. Our sympathy was reduced when we were told by a bystander that the man was indeed drunk.

"PAT O'BRIEN'S"

Since it was now dark, our unsuspecting group decided to tour the French Quarter at night. However, to our utter dismay, the crowd grew so large that our group was forced into a doorway for refuge.

The proprietor immediately demanded $5.00 per person in exchange for some coin tokens, which we gladly paid for refuge from the tumult outside. Our group was horrified to find out that we were in such an infamous pit of iniquity as Pat O'Brian's.

ONLY ORANGE JUICE?

However, we soon found out that we could exchange our coin tokens for souvenir glasses. We were further delighted that free orange juice was in the glasses.

We're still unable to explain why none of us can relate the succeeding events that took place. We must have come into contact with some other respectable Christian people, because we somehow managed to escape from that wicked city, by the end of the weekend without incurring any harm from the heathens.

"WARNING!"

Our trip home carried us through the heart of our beloved Southland. Our worst traffic problem, however, was encountered in a small 3 traffic-light mill town in South Carolina, but luckily our trip was at an end.

We are thankful that we were able to return and warn others.

DR. GOLDFINGER, Ft. Jackson physician, made his debut at MS II medical exams this week.

The Greeks

By SANDY LYNN
Greek Editor

The Theta Chi's have adopted a little girl through Children, Inc. Her name is Cecilia Osario and she is a four-year-old child from Chile. New Theta Chi alumnus advisor is Mr. Tommy Hall of Clinton. He is a charter member from the class of '45. Brothers Gene Robbins and Ed Dorn are happy to announce that they have finally graduated from Spelling 102. "The Sabers" are playing Saturday night at the Military Ball. "Dog" Tatum and "Flash" Wilson acquired stock in B. F. Goodrich this past weekend. Brother Tatum has lavalliered Miss Sandra Gibbs of King's Business College. Pledge Ken Terrell has lavalliered Miss Brenda Gambrell of Ware Shoals, and Mike Luke pinned Miss Carol Tumlinson of PC.

We want to wish the Pi Kap's good luck on their publication. A meeting was held Tuesday night to which some local alumni were invited. Those who were present were informed of the current business and projects of the chapter. Brother of the Week is Jim Barnhardt.

The PiKA's completed plans for Military Ball. The Saturday night party will be held at the Joanna Moose Club—refreshments will be served. "Super" Glover amazed his many fans by eating a lit cigarette last weekend. Brother Don Blanchard and pledge David Jameson would like to urge everyone to vote for Mona Milligan for Proctor of the Year. Plans are underway for the Founder's Day Celebration which will be held March 3, and includes Pi Kappa Alpha Chapters from Wofford and Western Carolina. Brothers of the Week are Allan Harris and the other "heavies" from PC.

The Alpha Sigs are all quiet this weekend trying to save money for the upcoming Milo Ball. The Wrecks are to be congratulated this week for holding the Pushers to an 18-point win. Samuel A. Lyons has reveived Brother of the Week honors.

The Sigma Nu "Sweetheart" Grandma Markette came through and made sure no one was left out Valentine's Day, giving all the Snakes a feeling of being wanted. The basketball team took the week off to jell (sic) for the coming games. In a surprising upset "Daddy" Gravely is the new RF Champion. Everything else seems to be running true to form with Brad due to get pinned as Spanley due for his monthly date. The Sigma Nu's wish the PiKA's would ease up a little; they are cutting the Snakes out of complete domination of Clinton Hall.

From the Kappa House, the girls from Georgia dropped Rose on Coulon and Tuck. Beau Bowman got a new meat (his first) Christie still can't get a date at Converse. Brownie wants everybody to know he's dating at Winthrop this weekend. Been a long winter, Bag, and the cold weather isn't even here. Brother Gan has volunteered to be an escort in the Miss Clinton Contest, provided he can take Lilibet. Here we go again, John-John.

Campus News Briefs

PaC SaC Schedules Picture Session

Monday, February 20, is the last time PaC SaC pictures will be scheduled; if you are not there you will not be included in the picture.

Tau Phi Pi—Douglas Lounge, 7:00.

Busines and Economics Club, Douglas House, 7:10.

Young Republicans, Neville Mezzanine, 7:20.

Young Democrats, Neville Mezzannie, 7:30.

F. C. A., Douglas House Lounge, 7:40.

Christian Vocations, Douglas House Lounge, 7:50.

Baptist Student Union, Douglas TV Lounge, 8:00.

Westminster Fellowship, Douglas TV Lounge, 8:10.

Long Rifles, Bailey Commons Room, 8:20.

Drama Club, Belk, 8:30.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus to interview seniors seeking employment:

Monday, February 20 — Civil Service, Citizens and Southern National Bank, Atlanta.

Tuesday, February 21—Riegel Textile Plant.

Wednesday, February 22—Citizens & Southern National Bank, Augusta, Ga.

Thursday, February 23—Woodside Mills, U. S. Public Health Service.

Friday, February 24 — Duke Power Company.

Dr. Shinn

Dr. Roger L. Shinn, professor of applied Christianity and dean of instruction at Union Theological Seminary in New York, will speak in chapel on Friday, February 24. Dr. Shinn's appearance is sponsored by the South Carolina Independent College Association.

Formerly on the faculty of Heidelberg College and Vanderbilt University School of Divinity. Dr. Shinn is the successor to Rienhold Niebuhr at Union. He is widely recognized as a theologian who has the ability to communicate with college under-graduates.

Dr. Shinn is a native of Germantown, Ohio, and holds the A. B. degree from Heidelberg College, the B. D. from Union, and the Ph. D. from Columbia University, as well as a number of honorary degrees.

He is active in church, community, and learned organizations, and is the author or editor of more than twenty books which inclue "Beyond this Darkness," "Christianity and the Problem of History," "The Existential Pasture," and "The Educational Mission of Our Church."

While at PC Dr. Shinn will also speak to Dr. Hay's contemporary religion class and Dr. Moorefield's 301 class on the new morality.

COUNCIL, Cont. Fr. P. 1, Col. 4.

Reed Bolick made a report of his participation in a regional conference in Charlotte sponsored by the Southern Universities Student Government Association. He made certain suggestions for improving the proctor system at PC. The Council delegated him to talk to Mr. Daniluk and the head proctor about his suggestions on behalf of the Council.

The cut system was discussed briefly but no action other than a letter to the President was taken because the Council had not been officially informed or consulted about the rumored recent action by the faculty.

The Council also approved the following guidelines for students and organizations which write to the members of the Board of Trustees concerning the drinking rule:

1. do not be dogmatic, merely give your opinions in a calm and clearly stated manner;
2. mention the fact that evidently a change has been needed for some time;
3. ask for an end to hyprocisy and indicate that you feel a change to ladylike or gentlemanly conduct would be advantageous;
4. add anything else which might aid the students' case.

BROADWAY

FEBRUARY 17-21
DON KOTTS in Reluctant Astronaut
Leslie Nielson, Joan Freeman, Jeanette Nolan, Arthur O'Connell.

STARTS WED., FEB. 22
The Greatest Story Ever Told

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

SALE TUESDAY
10% OFF ON ALL BOOKS
PC Bookstore

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 3, 1967 | No. 16

Board of Trustees Will Meet Monday

Adoption of an operating budget for the coming year will be a main consideration of the PC Board of Trustees when they meet in their regular spring session next Monday and Tuesday.

Trustees are scheduled to arrive Monday afternoon and assemble in committee that night. The board will meet in full session the next morning under the leadership of Chairman Robert M. Vance of Clinton.

In addition to the 1967-68 budget, the twenty-nine trustees will consider the various areas of current operations and will review the progress of the PC development program.

Two other regular items scheduled for this spring session are the election of new trustee officers and the selection of honorary nominees to be cited at commencement exercises on May 14.

David Berry Chosen President Of SGA in Election Thursday

Mac Smith New Honor Council Head

By ALEX ERWIN
Assistant Editor

David Barry, a rising senior from Union, was elected 1967-68 Student Government Association by defeating Bob Wyrick by a margin of 157 votes.

Berry polled 334 votes from a total of 511 votes cast representing 83% student body participation.

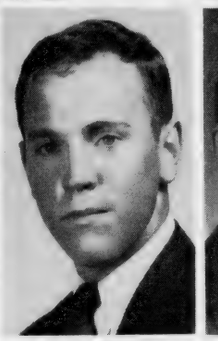
Berry remarked, "Certainly I am most pleased with the results of the elections. I thank each and every student that voted and hope that the 83% voting response from the student body indicates their interest in their student government.

"To be sure, I am well aware of the responsibilities of the position which I am to assume. The pledges, promises, and ideas which I voiced to those students with whom I spoke were matters and things, which I feel, can and will be accomplished.

"I challenge every student of this college to observe closely the actions and representation of the upcoming student council. Don't hesitate to make constructive criticism; yet don't hesitate to support and cooperate with the student government whcih you have elected.

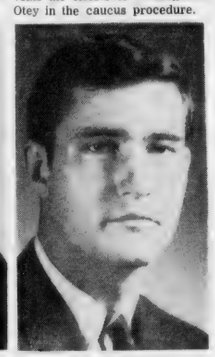
"Again I say thank you for your turnout and support, please continue it and join in with us in making every aspect of PC bigger, better, and more improved for '67-'68."

Bob Staton, a rising senior from Emporia, Va., defeated Sandy Lynn for the position of Vice-President by capturing 275 of the 505 votes cast.



Dick Query, a rising junior from Charleston, won the post of Secretary by a vote of 314 to 190 over Sherwood McKay.

John Walther, a rising junior from Virginia Beach, Va., captured the Treasurer's position by a vote of 332 to 169 for Dan Roberts.



The Honor Council Chairman for 1967-68 is Mac Smith, a rising senior from Atlanta. Smith defeated James Powell for the post, compiling 338 of the 487 votes cast.

The date for the installation of the newly elected officers hasn't been established.

Bob Warren and Rush Otey instigated the initiation of the caucus system which enabled all interested students to meet and converse with all the candidates. The 83% participation of the students in the election perhaps reveals the efforts of Warren and Otey in the caucus procedure.

DAVID BERRY

MAC SMITH

Miss Brandt to Begin New Education Major

A new program in elementary education is being inaugurated at Presbyterian College, with Miss Dorothy Brandt, a native of Walhalla, added as a faculty member to help develop it.

She will join the PC teaching staff next August, at which time she is expected to receive her Phd degree from the University of Texas. As Dr. Brandt, she will hold the rank of associate professor, serving in the education department under Dr. George M. McGuire.

MISS BRANDT

Dean Joseph M. Gettys, in making the announcement Tuesday, said the development of the elementary education program follows a trustee decision to broaden PC's curriculum for the growing coed enrollment. He added: "Our entire teacher education program has a basic concept different from the usual approach.

"The Presbyterian College program is built on a liberal arts base, with 24 hours required in a major field, plus enough professional education courses to meet teaching requirements, instead of just having a major in elementary education. The graduate is better qualified to teach because of greater knowledge in the particular subject field."

Dr. Gettys pointed out that Miss Brandt is well equipped to help develop an outstanding program in elementary education at PC to go with the present secondary level program. For the past two years, she has been a teaching associate at the University of Texas, with special responsibility as a supervisor of student teachers.

She holds the MED degree from Texas, has done graduate work at Peabody College, participated in workshops at the University of South Carolina and has 11 years of teaching experience in the elementary sschools of Westminster and Walhalla. She received her BS degree from Newberry College.

From among its graduates each year, Presbyterian College sends a number in public school teaching, in addition to those who enter directly into business or the army or go on for specialized study in graduate and professional schools.

Holidays Begin

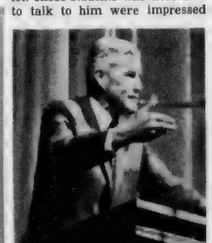
Beating the calendar to the punch, Presbyterian College students will start ushering in Spring tomorrow with the start of the annual week-long spring vacation.

The break in academic work comes earlier this year than in previous years because of the new schedule which set the second semester to begin on January 9 and end with commencement on May 14.

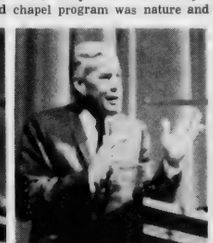
Danforth Lecturer

Bugbee Spoke on Existentialism, Van Gogh

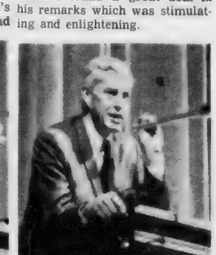
An Analysis
By JERRY MEBANE AND HANK PARKS



PC students were fortunate this past week in having an opportunity to hear one of the most stimulating speakers to visit our campus in recent years. Dr. Henry Bugbee is a graduate of Princeton and the University of California at Berkeley. He has been associated with many universities in the nation, including Stanford, Harvard, Penn State and the University of Montana, where he will teach this spring.



Students discovered that in addition to being an eminent philosopher, Dr. Bugbee is an extremely amiable conversationalist. Those students who were able to talk to him were impressed by his friendliness and his sincere desire to talk to them about their own interests and ideas.



On Monday morning, Dr. Bugbee lectured on the subject, "What is Existential Thought?" His discusion centered around the work of the French existentialist Jean Paul Sartre. He related the growth and popularity of existentialism to the conditions in France after the second World War. Earlier Dr. Bugbee had addressed Dr. Moorefield's Philosophy 301 class on the philosophy of existentialist, Gabriel Marcel. Dr. Bugbee was especially qualified to discus this topic, as a result of his personal friendship with Marcel.

The subject of Wednesday's chapel program was nature and art in the work of Vincent Van Gogh. Dr. Bugbee related his discussion to the events of the artist's life. He referred to significan passages in Van Goh's letters to his brother. After chapel, Dr. Bugbee spoke to one of Dr. Morgan's classes on the subject of Augustine's "Confessions." His penetrating discussion disclosed some of the profound implications of a work which is frequently underestimated by students.

Although Dr. Bugbee's insights were sometimes difficult for many students to comprehend, a perceptive student who was willing to listen attentively to his lectures found a great deal in his remarks which was stimulating and enlightening.

Dr. Henry Bugbee speaking on the work of Vincent Van Gogh in Wednesday's chapel service.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor | Charles Eagles, Editor | Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Destruction Must Stop

Sometime during the night of February 25, a campus vending machine was murdered and robbed by a malicious student.

It is ridiculous that a person of average intelligence would commit such an act, whether he be drunk or sober.

Destruction of property is a sign of immaturity and a disgrace to an academic community. Destruction of property is harmful to any proposed change in the existing system which would place more responsibility and freedom in the hands of students.

How long will these murderers and robbers be tolerated in the student body? When will students realize that each destructive act is like a knife in the back of progress?

A person who would commit such an act is like a sore which infects each student. It is time that students eliminate the sores from the PC campus before their infection is fatal to the possibilities of a more student-governed and student-controlled college.

R. O.

SGA Officers Need Support

There are severe problems in communications existing on this campus—between faculty and students, administration and students, and student leaders and students.

Probably the most basic line of communications is that of the students and student leaders. Before the student government officers can try to be an effective voice for the students, they must be informed of the prevailing student opinion on campus.

In the past students have failed to inform their representatives and have failed to be informed about the actions of their representatives.. Information must pass both ways in an effective student government.

Student responsibility does not end with the election of student government officers. Students must support the student government on a day to day basis.

PC Players and Musicians to Stage Popular Musical 'The Fantasticks

By KAREN WEAVER
Feature Editor

The Fantastiks has been playing at an off-Broadway New York theatre for the past seven years, and still plays to to packed houses every night. It recently became the longest consecutively running off-Broadway production in New York's theatre history.

Already a modern theatre classic, this musical hit has seen more than seven hundred productions all over the world, in such cities as London, Mexico City, Stockholm, Istanbul, and Belgrade. Its songs, "They Were You," and "Try to Remember," are being sung, whistled, and hummed in every language, and a fifty-minute adaptation has appeared on NBC Television Network's Hallmark Hall of Fame.

In an unprecedented move, the Presbyterian College administration has presented the PC Players and PC Music Department with close to $1000 for the production of this musical. This is the first play of its kind to be staged at Presbyterian, and the drama and music departments have been working since January to present an unforgettable performance. The Fantastiks will run the evenings of March 16, 17, and 18 in Belk Auditorium.

This reporter was premitted a peek preview of this deligtful production, and found that an enthusiastic cast has created a professional performance. Critics from all over South Carolina will review the play.

This is the story of a boy and a girl, purposely kept apart by their fathers, who know that is the surest way of bringing them together. The fathers pretend to feud until they learn their children are in love, then stage a mock abduction to end the feud. The boy fights off actors hired for the occasion, and Act I has a "Happy Ending." But in Act II, the lovers learn that all is not romance and moonbeams and that without a hurt the heart is hollow." They are finally reunited; sadder, wiser, but more able to cope with the world as it is.

The players have accomplished a first-quality entertainment which is far over their heads. They capture the youthful excitement of first love and the bittersweet feeling of losing a dre

The spine-tingling musi scores, the enchantment of lighting effects, and the mu warm philosophy of the s blend into an impressive and lightful experience for the au ence.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"TRY TO BE ON TIME, MISS LAMONT — WHEN YOU COME IN LATE IT DISTURBS TH' WHOLE CLASS."

Turtles Needed May 6 For International Race

(Editor's Note: The following is for real.)

One of the biggest of traditional college events is about to take place, and Presbyterian College is invited to participate. American University's Turtle International '67 will be held on May 6, 1967. Jack A. Goldenberg, head of the program, said that this year's event "promises to be the biggest and best yet."

Turtle International, a thirty-five foot dash for turtles, six inches and under, is open to all colleges and universities in the world. The purpose of Turtle International is greater than just a turtle race. Each five dollar entry fee will go to the national fund for Muscular Dystrophy.

Schools expected to participate include the Marine College of Southern California, the Apprentice School of Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, and the Potchefstrom University of South Africa.

The deadline for applications is March 6. Any PC student wishing to enter a turtle for PC should contact the President of the student body.

Some of the race rules and regulations as announced by Goldenberg include: "The maximum shell size will be six inches (suggested minimum — three inches—the big guys might run over the little guys)," "No turtle will be allowed to wear or have in his possession any artificial aids (i.e. turtle skates, grease on belly, etc.)" "Turtles may not be touched or physically stimulated during the race by any other means than cheering or uttering turtle love calls," and "The race will be started by the offi ial turtle starters."

Turtle International will pur chase a turtle for any college the college wishes to enter th competitions but does not hav a turtle. This will cost an extr one dollar. All turtles must b water terrapins.

Goldenburg stated that "ther will be prizes for the three w racers and their schools. Th winning turtle will be given royal welcome along with h trainer, and both will be hon ored guests at the dance the ev ning after the race.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
Walt Disney's
FOLLOW ME, BOYS
With Vera Miles

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
GIGI
Leslie Caron, Maurice Chevalie

STARTS WED., MARCH 1
THE COOL ONES

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Rush Otey, Ass't. Editor

RE Week Just a Beginning

Well, Jesus, RE Week is over for another year. Once again we have pondered for a while the proverbial issues that we were expected to ponder—sex, drinking, football, business—you know, the whole works. Once again we have had to pretend that these things really concerned us or interest us.

We heard from the preacher that the issues of our time are basically the same issues of your time, so that what you said and did can apply to us today.

The football player gave us another angle. For some of us he was more practical than the preacher because he spoke of interesting and humorous incidents and used words and feelings which were familiar to us. For others he was more of a farce because he used too many feelings and not enough intellect.

And the businessman, Jesus, told us about how people become more self-reliant in their own eyes and more set in their ways as they grow older.

All three of these men who spend their lives in different worlds told us that you are relevant.

We are pretty mixed up here, Jesus. Some of us know that what you said and did has meaning —know it instinctively, intuitively, from personal experience. Some of us say "No" to you altogether, and others are still longing and aching and crying for answers.

Some of us do not even care and do not stop to think what if you did hang there on the cross that day, what if you did die for all men, what if your preaching was true, what if the tomb was empty that morning, what if you are still around to take hold of us and mold us into new men.

For three days, Jesus, you were emphasized. Three days can seem like a long time when we are sitting in an auditorium or in a stuffy dormitory room talking about things which for many of us make no difference in the way we live. When we have studying to do, basketball to think of, dates to make, and all, three days is a long time.

But, you know what? Three days really is not long enough. We talked of you and thought of you then, but you have not been mentioned in my dormitory since then, except in an exclamatory manner.

Some men have looked for you all of their lives and have never come to grasp with the answers. Other men like Billy Graham can say with certainty, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." Before his execution by the Germans, Diedrich Bonhoeffer said, "For me this is the end of life; for me this is the beginning of life."

Who are you, Jesus? What do you mean to us, if you mean anything at all? We tried to know for three days, and we did not find. Could it be, Jesus, because three days can only be a beginning at the most, and for a beginning to have an end there must be a middle?

Three days is not enough for us college students to decide. Jesus, give us a middle for our meager beginning. Amen.

BILL

Basketball Teams Begin Final Action

It's tournament time again. All over the nation thousands of people are going out to support their team's chances for winning the big tourney whether it be high school or college.

The main topic of interest for us is the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament in Greensboro, N. C., next weekend. Although the regular season play has not been completed, it appears that the top seeded team will be North Carolina.

The Tar Heels have lost only two conference games this season—one to Clemson in the North-South doubleheader and the other to Carolina in Columbia on Wednesday night. The nationally third ranked Tar Heels will be the odds on favorite to walk away with tournament honors. Standouts Larry Miller and Bob Lewis will lead UNC's fortunes.

Duke still has a chance for top seedings if they defeat UNC in Chapel Hill on Saturday. The Blue Devils have been hard to beat after several season losses. Coach Vic Bubas feels that his players have reached their peak and are playing as well as they can. If they have ever been ready to take the championship, it will be now.

All-American Bob Verga and Bob Reidy have been carrying the load for the Blue Devils. Duke is used to playing under the strain of tournaments, and it is this fact that makes many feel that they will come out of Greensboro as number one. North Carolina has had a way of winning the close ones this year, and tournament tensions could affect this.

Behind Duke and UNC are two dark horses in Clemson and Carolina. Both teams have four conference losses. Clemson, however, defeated the Gamecocks twice this year.

The Tigers have defeated both UNC and Duke in reglaru season play this season. Jim Sutherland and Randy Mahaffey have been big guns. Clemson could very easily surprise everyone and walk away with honors.

Carolina has come a long way in a season riddled by bad luck. Mike Grosso was declared ineligible. Then the Gamecocks were put on probation by the NCAR. Finally, Duke refused to play Carolina as was permitted by ACC commissioner, Jim Weaver.

So the year that was supposed to have been "the year" turned out to be a catastrophe. Carolina has done extremely well behind the steady play of Skip Harlicka, Frank Standard, Gary Gregar, and Jack Thompson.

I doubt if the Gamecocks can win the ACC since it's not being played in Columbia. But Carolina can beat anyone in the conference on a hot night as can be attested to by Wake Forst and Maryland.

Rounding out the conference is NC State, Maryland, Wake Forest, and Virginia. Any of these teams can upset the leaders. Wake Forest pushed UNC to the limit both times they met this year. Virginia upset Carolina and Clemson in successive games in the last week. So no team can be ruled out as a possible dark horse.

The winner of the tournament will go to the Eastern regional of the NCAA. The winner of that will earn a ticket to the finals in Louisville on March 17 and 18.

I think the four teams to make it to Louisville will be UCLA from the West, Houston from the Mid-West, Louisville from the Mid-East, and Princeton from the East. I don't think that there's any doubt but that UCLA behind Lew Aleinder will be the next national champion.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. | CLINTON, S. C. | Phone 833-1028

Tennis Team Meets Jacksonville U. In First of 22 Matches in Season

When Presbyterian faces Jacksonville University in its first tennis match of the season on March 7, the Blue Hose will be starting their hardest tennis schedule ever. Heading the opposition on the PC schedule will be national powers Toledo University, Georgia Tech, University of Florida, and the University of North Carolina.

Presbyterian's first four matches will be played on a round trip through Florida during the spring holidays. The Blue Hose will face Jacksonville University, Florida State, and powerful University of Florida. As the season progresses PC will meet, along with the nationally ranked teams already mentioned, the University of Georgia, Howard University, Davidson, Clemson University, and the University of South Carolina.

The captain of this year's team is senior Larry Connely, while newcomers Jaime and Juan Amaya are expected to be key members of the team. Returnees from last year are Robby Hibbits, Hart Cobb, Howdle Letzring, and Doug Haney.

In preparation for this season, the team has been practicing nearly every day since the middle of January. Before leaving for the Florida trip, PC will have a practice match with Greenville High School Saturday morning at the Clinton High courts.

'67 Tennis Schedule

Date	Opponent
March 7	Jacksonville U.
March 8	Jacksonville U.
March 9	U. of Florida
March 10	Florida State
March 16	Furman U. (H)
March 17	Pfeiffer (H)
March 18	U. of South Carolina
March 22	Clemson U.
March 27	Ohio U. (H)
March 28	U. of Toledo (H)
March 30	U. of Georgia
March 31	Newberry (H)
April 3	The Citadel (H)
April 4	Harvard U. (H)
April 5	East Carolina (H)
April 8	Davidson
April 10	U. of Georgia (H)
April 13	Wake Forest
April 14	U. of North Carolina
April 15	Duke University
April 17	Appalachian
April 19	Georgia Tech (H)
April 21-22	State Tournament

Lt. Col. Benjamin F. Ivey accepts the trophy from the rifle team for their second place in the Western Carolinas Conference rifle match. Members of the team are, from left to right: John Askew, James Beard, Evin Pamplin, Danny Watt, (Col. Ivey), and Jim Weis.

Blue Hose Lose Playoff 81-64

By TOM CAIN

Having been defeated by Presterian twice during the regular season play, Newberry bombed back at Prosperity Gym on Monday night to defeat the Blue Hose 81-64.

With both teams tied for eighth place, a play-off game was necessary to determine who would be the eighth seeded team in the Carolinas Conference tournament. Following the clutch playing of Bill Murphy, Tommy Miller, and Buddy Moore, Newberry left no doubt to the fans at the game who the final representative at the tournament would be.

After leading at haltime, 35-32, Newberry hung onto a four to ten point lead throughtout the second half. When PC's Ken Martin fouled out with 6:02 left to play, Newberry was clearly ahead 60-51. Then Newberry's Miller and Moore led a rally in which they outscored PC 22-14 in a six-minute span.

High scorers for Newberry were Bill Murphy with 22 points, while John Smith also contributed 22 and Steve Annon scored 15. PC's leading scorers were Richard Quillen with 17, while Ken Martin collected 14.

The game ended the season for Presbyterian, who finished with a 9-20 record, while Newberry had a 12-20 record.

Rifle Team Second in Match, Looks Toward State Tourney

The rifle team recently placed second in the Western Carolinas Conference rifle match. Clemson University won the match with a total score of 1330. The PC team fired for a 1265 score.

Bob Thrower, a freshamn from Atlanta, led the team with a score of 265. His top scoring placed him third in individual firing in the match.

The conference is composed of teams from Clemson, Wofford, Furman, Davidson, and PC.

The members of the PC squad are Thrower, Fred Lockwood, John Askew, Evin Pamplin, Danny Wyatt, Jim Beard, and Alan Weis. Coached by Sgt. Creel and Sgt. Maj. Jowers of the Military Department, the team has won over sixty per cent of its matches.

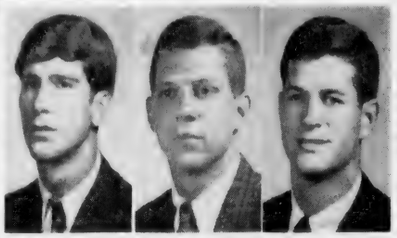
Matches were held with teams from the University of Georgia, South Carolina State, Mercer University, Georgia State, and several Carolinas Conference and Western Carolinas Conference teams.

On March 10 the rifle team will compete in the South Carolina state tournament. Last year the PC team finished fourth in the state event.

Campus News Briefs

Physics Lab Dedicated Today

Ceremonies dedicating Presbyterian College's main physics laboratory in memory of John Leonard Franklin, late business and church leader of Atlanta, were held on campus this afternoon.



A gift of $50,000 from the John and Mary Franklin Foundation of Atlanta established the memorial to perpetuate the name of the man who founded the Audichron Company and headed it until his death in 1961. The instruments he invented provide the automatic time and temperature announcements for telephone customers throughout the country.

A North Georgia minister early in his career, Franklin and his wife became members of Atlanta's Peachtree Road Presbyterian Church in 1924 and he served as an elder there for 36 years.

Mrs. Franklin was at Presterian College for the Friday program. And Dr. Eugene T. Wilson, who served as their Peachtree church pastor, participated by reviewing John Franklin's life.

PC President Marc C. Weersing presided over the luncheon program, and other participants included: Trustee Chairman Robert M. Vance of Clinton, acknowledging the gift in behalf of the college; John O. McCarty, Audichron president and secretary of the Franklin Foundation board of trustees, responding; and Physics Professor Neill G. Whitelaw, highlighting the physics careers of PC graduates.

A bronze plaque, designating the Franklin Physics Laboratory, was unveiled in the facility located on the first floor of the new Richardson Hall of Science.

Left to right, Bobby Staton, Dickie Query, and John Walther were elected Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer of the Student Council in campus-wide election Thursday.

"If A Man Answers"

Showing Tuesday, March 14, in Richardson at 8 o'clock P. M. will be "If A Man Answers." This smash comedy is a farce about the daughter of proper Bostonian John Lund, who falls in love with and marries "up-and-coming" commercial photographer Bobby Rarin.

She worries that her young husband may take too great an interest in his beautful models and goes to Mama for advice. Mama gives her a manual for the "Care and Feeding of Man's Best Friend, the Dog" with the advice that man must be pampered and trained just like a pet.

The plan is a huge success, until Darin discovers the plot and begins behaving like an irate mastiff.

To soothe the beast, Mama suggests the harmless invention of a rival to make Rover sit up and take notice. Mama agrees periodically to call her daughter by telephone and "if a man answers, hang up." The results are hilarious.

Library Rules

The Library Committee of PC announced several changes in the library regulations on February 23. The college and community library, in accordance with other college libraries in this area, will adopt the following regulations effective March 15, 1967: the fine for outside books (other than those on reserve) will be inreceased from 2c a day to 5c a day; and no magazines will be allowed to leave the library under any circumstances.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus the week of March 13-18 to interview seniors seeking employment:

Monday—First National Bank of South Carolina, Columbia.

Tuesday—American Oil Company, Atlanta; and the Trust Company of Georgia, Atlanta.

Thursday — Sears, Roebuck and Company, Columbia.

Friday — First National Bank of Atlanta.

Choir Spring Tour

The forty-six members of the Presbyterian College Choir embark tomorrow morning on their annual Spring Tour. This year's tour will be highlighted by stops in St. Petersburg and Orlando, Fla., and the prospect of a "free, sight-seeing' day in either Deland of Daytona, Fla., according to Charles T. Gaines, PC Director of Music. The tour will last throughout the entire Spring Break, the Choir returning late Sunday evening, March 12.

The Spring Tour is looked forward to each year by the members of the choir. Choir President Richard Waters stated—at one of Clinton's more exclusive watering holes—that "The people in the choir have all worked hard throughout the Fall semester. We're looking forward to a successful trip and to having a lot of fun." Previously this semester the Choir has taken weekend trips to Atlanta, both of which were described by Choir Director Gaines as "very successful." Throughout the tour Alan G. Cook will serve as accompanist for all the Choir performances.

The Choir's repertoire includes samples from the entire musical spectrum—from Brahms to Randal Thompson to the ever popular Negro Spirituals. As a special addition to the Choir's normal program, the Madrigal Singers are featured on five selections.

Preparation for the production of "The Fantastiks" on March 16-18 continues. Above are Sam Hobson, Jill Clark, Tim Helgeson, and Danny Brown in a rehearsal scene.

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

The Greeks

By SANDY LYNN
Greek Editor

Alpha Sigma Phi

The coming Spring Holidays will find the Alpha Sigs journeying to sample equal parts of skiing and "mountain dew." Ins are now being taken on whether or not Jerry Holland can brea the umbilical cord and join them. Everyone is watching wit interest to see who will win the "Most Beautiful Crop of Hair" co test. Straight, short, brown-haired Sam Lyons, and long, blon headed "Wop" Thompson are fighting a nip and tuck battle.

Congratulations to Brooks Styles whose date for the Milo Ba ran up an unprecedented string of 6 victories on Morgan's pi ball machine. Captain's bars were seen appearing on Sam Lyon shoulders this week after he displayed his unsurmountable charm to General Mabry's daughter at the Military Ball. Mike McGehe

Kappa Alpha

The KA's are making final plans for Old South to be held h Myrtle Beach March 17, 18, and 19. The KA's basketball team continues to set a torrid pace behind the shooting of Joe Gettys, Rufus Bratton, and Tim Yancey. New chapter officers will b elected after the spring break.

Theta Chi

After a great Military Ball, the Theta Chi's now have plans underway for Spring Swing Weekend. In the meantime, the pledge party has been set for March 18 to keep everyone in shape. Its theme will be the "Roaring Twenties." The Rebel Reunion has been set for April 28-29 at the University of Alabama.

Pledges Bob Thrower and Doug Bowles have now become au thorities on Confucius quotations. Brother Jerry "High School" Mebane hopes that everyone has a great Spring Vacation. Brother George Latimer has lavaliered Miss Brigit Baucom of Winthrop College.

Pi Kappa Alpha

From the PiKA's, the Saturday night Pledge Party was a roar ing success, except for the absence of two of the pledges. They are to be commended though for their efforts to help stamp out po lice brutality. Pledge Stan Kemp was chosen Pledge King and was given the arduous task of placing the garter on the Pledge Queen, while John Denny sat in the corner and cried. Brother Ed banks also kept the county cops on their toes this weekend. Final plans are being made for the annual Founder's Day celebration which will be held at the Mary Musgrove Hotel Friday night.

Sigma Nu

This past weekend was a big success for the Sigma Nu's thanks to the great performance by Brow. He was ably assisted by the "Green Apple Gallops," better known as the "Screamies." It was really a big success since Mike Maynard and "Low Butt" Breedlove got bids. The pledge class is in the process of complet ing their second news letter to recent alumni who are in the armed services. Brother John Benson has recently sent a news letter to all alumni of the chapter outlining recent news and progress. Jo Stevens' cabin will be open for the next two weekends and all ex penses can be charged—payable by the University of Georgia. Since the basketball intramural schedule has been run so well, the team has had time to jell 8 or 9 times and should be rough in the coming games.

THE P. C. PLAYERS AND THE P. C. MUSIC DEPARTMENT PRESENT
MARCH 16 - 17 - 18
Students .50 — Adults 1.00
Tickets On Sale in Book Store
THE INVENTIVE MUSICAL
The Fantasticks
Book and Lyrics By Tom Jones; Music By Harvey Schmidt

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 17, 1967 No. 17

PC Board Officers: Hugh S. Jacobs of Clinton, Secretary; Dr. Eugene T. Wilson of Atlanta, Chairman; receiving congratulations from Robert M. Vance, retiring chairman; and James A. Chapman, Jr., of Spartanburg, vice-chairman.

Board Acts on Schedules, Drinking, and Curriculum

Assembled for its annual spring meeting last week, the PC Board of Trustees took action on several matters other than the normal busines.

Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, Academic Dean, will have chapel Wednsday in order to interpret for the students the recent action of the Board of Trustees.

DRINKING RULE

Representatives of the Student Government Association and the faculty met with the Student Activities Committee of the Board and discussed a change of the present drinking rule. The Board voted that the existing rule with regard to the use and possession of alcoholic beverages be maintained.

The Board instructed Dr. Weersing to appoint a committee to consist of a representative group from the faculty, staff and student body to continue a study of the problem and to report to the Student Activities Committee of the Board when they have reached a meeting of the minds.

SIX-DAY WEEK

The Board voted that "Inasmuch as Presbyterian College is on a semester system, the college continue operation on a six-day school week and that all classes be fifty minutes in length, without exception."

This action would eliminate the Monday and Friday, and Tuesday and Thursday seventy-five minute classes. The Board maintained that while some courses may be taught in class more effectively in seventy-five minute periods, students will have more time for preparation in fifty-minute schedules.

According to the Board, the semester system lends itself to a six-day week as the quarter system to a five-day week.

The Board stated: "If Saturday attendance problems arise from too many allowed absences, or too full social program or to many cars (problems suggested by members of Academic Advisory Committee), the faculty and administration, through proper channels and committees, should exercise a more rigid contract over students whose primary reason for being in college is to get an education."

CURRICULUM CHANGES

The Board approved a curriculum of six hours of required study in Bible and three hours in religion or philosophy. The faculty had recommended that the curriculum include six hours of required Bible. The Academic Dean was instructed to work out a three-hour elective course on the junior-senior level designed to integrate areas of knowledge in curriculum using the existing faculty.

The Board believed that these requirements would provide means of providing students with a more distinctive liberal arts education in a Christian context.

CONTRACT TO DR. INGLE

A motion was approved that the Board receive as information and express appreciation to the Executive Committee for delving the matter of non-renewal of a contract to Dr. H. Larry Ingle.

BAILEY HALL FOR GIRLS

The Board voted to use Bailey Hall for women students beginning August, 1968. The necessary remodeling will be undertaken at the appropriate time.

GENERAL BUSINESS

The Board also approved honapproved a record budget of $,-909,000 for 1967-1968. New Board officers were elected as follows: Dr. Eugene T. Wilson, chairman; James A. Chapman, Jr., vice-chairman; Hugh S. Jacobs, secretary.

Th Board also approved honorary degree recipients and commencement speakers for this May.

Dunlap, Williams, and Jourdan Led Voting in Today's Council Election

Election of class representatives was completed today. Sixty per cent of the juniors participated. Eigthy-two per cent of the sophomores and sixty-nine per cent of the freshmen voted.

Senior Representatives

Joe Dunlap led the balloting for rising senior class representatives with fifty-five votes. Sandy Lynn received forty-three votes and was elected also.

Dunlap and Lynn defeated Bill Bucheit and Randy Grant who received thirty-seven and ten votes, respectively.

Junior Representatives

In a close race, Robin Williams and Al Wilson were elected to the council. They received eighty-five and eighty-two votes, rspectively.

John Lown got sixty-five votes and Danny Wyatt got seventy-three votes from the rising junior class.

Sophomore Representatives

In another close race, Ferdie Jourdan received sixty-one votes and Billy Bryant fifty-seven votes to win seats on the council. Fifty-two votes were cast for Bobby Quillen and fifty-one for John Griggs.

In Wednesday's primary election, Grant, Lynn, Dunlap, and Buchheit received 10, 41, 42 and 33 votes, respectively. Bob Wyrick got two write-ins and McLaughlin got one.

For the junior posts in the primary Jim Allred, Bill Scott, Sherwood McKay, Don Matthews and John Denny were eliminated.

Tom Cain, Annette Riddle, John Taylor, and Bill Beatty were eliminated in the sophomore primary.

Burnside and Three Students Attend Meet on Government

Dr. Ronald Burnside presided as program coordinator at the third annual Intercollegiate Seminar on Legislation and Government. Held in Columbia March 14-15, the Seminar was sponsored by the Christian Action Council.

Delegations from many colleges and universities of South Carolina were present. Bob Herlong, Will Scott, and Jim Roberts represented PC.

Tuesday ,March 14, the delegates heard House Speaker Solomon Blatt "kick off" the proceedings by lecturing on "The Legislative Process."

Blatt was followed in the activities of the first day by Lt. Governor John C. West and Richland County Rep. Travis Medlock. After visits to the Senate and House of Representatives, the day was concluded by a panel discussion on "Voting Trends in South Carolina."

Participating on the panel were Dr. Ronald Fowler of USC; Marshall Mays, former Republican candidate for Lt. Governor; and Matthew Perry, legal counsel for the South Carolina NAACP.

The agenda for the second day included a "Session on the Courts," a discussion on "Issues Before the Senate," and another visit to the Senate. Also during the second day the delegates had lunch with several state legislators and visited the South Carolina Highway Deparament. The Seminar was concluded with a speech on "Churches and Responsible Citizenship," by Dr. Joseph Stukes of Erskine College.

Fantasticks Postponed

"THE FANTASTICKS" which was to have been produced March 16, 17, 18, has been moved to March 30, 31, and April 1. Above are Jill Clark, Tim Helgeson and Danny Brown at a recent rehearsal.

Smith Signs Pro Contract

James Smith, after talking with representatives of a number of professional football teams, has signed as a free agent with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League. James, who hails from Sylvania, Ga., broke all sorts of records for pass receptions this year as a PC senior. His contract reportedly includes a $2000 bonus just for signing and $14,500 guaranteed for his first year, provided he survives the preseason cuts. Good luck, Smitty!

Campus Academic Societies Have Sixteen New Members

The Faculty has approved seven sophomores and nine seniors for membership in the Sophomore Academic Society and Sigma Kappa Alpha.

SIGMA KAPPA ALPHA

Requirements for membership in the honorary Sigma Kappa Alpha are a grade point ratio of 3.2 and completion of six or seven semestrs at PC or the equivalent in summer schools.

Sigma Kappa Alpha was chartered in 1959 in cooperation with the Blue Key.

The new members of Sigma Kappa Alpha are James Allison Bell, Carlos Emanuel, Paula Evane, Susan Helen Gilbert, William Woodward Hall, Jr., James Henry Johnson, Jr., Henry Bryan Parks, David Bryson Rousey, and Morrow Bradford Thompson.

SOPHOMORE ACADEMIC SOCIETY

Eligibility for membership in the Sophomore Academic Society requires enrollment at PC three or four semesters, a grade point ratio of 3.2 or better and evidence of leadership and character. The Society was conceived and organized as a project of the PC Blue Key.

The new members of the Society are Vicki Ann Brown, Lewis Judson Caldwell, Michael Grant LeFever, Wilbur Rush Otey, III, William Henry Scott, III, Martha Almyra Smith, and Danny Knox Wyatt.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor — Charles Eagles, Editor — Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Board Is Qualified?

It's happened again!

With its decisions of the past week the Board of Trustee has joined the now popular movement to stifle any possible freedom and initiative of the student body and faculty.

The decision to refer the proposed drinking rule to still another committee for a "meeting of the minds" can be called nothing except perpetuating hypocrisy. The one unequivocable fact of which the Board should have been made aware was that a "'meeting of the minds" had already been reached by those minds most qualified to meet in this case—the minds of the students and faculty.

The students and faculty know from direct experience what kind of rule is realistic and enforcable. They are the parties who should be heard regarding such a rule, and not on administration which has little personal contact with campus reality, and certainly not a Board of Trustees which spends approximately 96 hours per year on campus.

The tabling of the proposed rule is a direct slap in the face of an overwhelming majority of students and faculty members. Because of this deliberate inaction, the students and faculty are now forced to spend another year with the ridiculous present rule, while the members of the Board go on their merry ways.

The decision of the Board to recontinue a full-scale six day school week with all classes being fifty minutes long is an action which should have been left entirely up to the faculty and administration.

What qualification does the Board possess to rule on a purely academic and administrative matter? Why is a group of non-educators qualified to decide the length of class periods or the length of the school week? This action can be interpreted as a demonstration of the Board's lack of faith and confidence in the faculty and administration—those whom it hires as academicians.

If Presbyterian is to remain one of the top Southern schools, if this institution is to continue attracting a well-rounded student body and a qualified faculty, it is mandatory that the Board of Trustees become more realistically acquainted with the existing situations on campus.

It is time that the opinions of those who are most qualified to have opinions be considered when such far-reaching decisions are made.

It is time for the purposes, areas of responsibility, and methods of operation of the Board to be re-evaluated, no matter what this might involve.

It is mandatory that a change in the attitudes and outlooks of the Board of Trustees occur before the cause of contemporary education and individual freedom at PC is sold down the river.

Staff

Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Business Manager ..... Robert Gualtieri
News Editor ..... Jim Roberts
Copy Editor ..... Don Flowers
Feature Editors ..... Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Cartoonist ..... Jim Brewer
Contributors ..... Tom Cain, Gene Sullivan, Mike Simons, Mike Gower, Bill Riddle, Jim Roberts
Photographers ..... David Hood and James Howard

Draft Ten Year Olds First?

Ann Arbor, Mich (CPS)—Considerable atention is being focused on President Johnson's new plan to draft 19 year olds first on a "Fair and Impartial Random system of selection (FAIR)." Unfortunately everyone is ignoring any new plan to change the draft based on a "Fair and Reanonable Classification Evaluation (FARCE)."

The FARCE study, which included extensive consulation with Selective Service Director Hershey, students, draftees, college administrators, and parents concludes that 10 year-olds should be drafted first.

The average 10 year-old would make a great soldier. Unlike his soft older brother, the average 10 year-old is in top physical condition. Since he hasn't been corrupted by SDS and New York Times anti-war propaganda he'll lack mental reservations about fighting. And fresh from hours of TV viewing and model building he'll be thoroughly versed in modern combat techniques.

Training 10 year-olds at Fort Dix would be simple. For example search-and-destroy techniques could be taught under the code name of "hide and go seek." And the young soldier would need minimal training in how to handle a spiked yo-yo or napalm-filled squirt gun.

The government could save money equipping the new troops: smaller soldiers obviously need smaller uniforms.

Taking the 10 year-olds away from their homes and sending them to Vietnam would provoke less hardship than it does for today's soldier. There would be far less disruption of family and professional life.

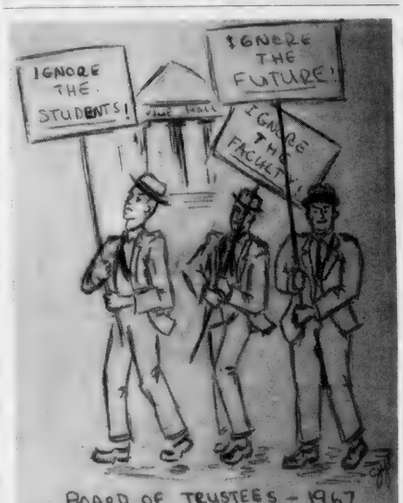
With their sharp reflexes 10 year-olds would make good pilots. Certainly the young fliers with their acute sense of timing would be less apt to bomb civilian targets than today's pilots.

Even if there were occasional misfires, 10 year-olds would still be the best men for the job. From a public relations standpoint it would be much better to blame a child for bombing a school than a grizzled Air Force reservist. Besides, who ever heard of a 10-year-old imperialist.

In the field the new soldiers could develop worthwhile innovations. Besides tin can walkie-talkies the young fighters might use kites instead of smoke bombs to point out targets to pilots.

The new soldiers would great reduce discipline problems in t service. One of the most freque complaints from Saigon is th American soldiers have turn the city into a brothel. Not o would 10 year-olds end this b they would curb the social d ease rate.

Also there would be no ne to fly soldiers out of Hong Ko or Hawaii for "rest and relax tion" trips. The 10 year-ol would be satisfied with a sh by Soupy Sales and Batman.



The new troops would al help curtail black market act ties. Many PX items like raz blades and shaving cream wo not be sold any longer. Besid who would want to buy hot ca ies of Mad Magazine and Sup man?

Bubble gum, incidentall would of course replace beer, a though the 10 year-olds wou have to be careful not to ch in the field. The pops could p them away to the enemy.

Many choice incentives co be offered to the new soldie For example an Eagle Boy Sco badge could be promised on t turn to civilian life for any b who kills 10 Viet Cong.

While this plan does have defects—Bob Hope would ha to stay home during Christma and junior high school enro ment might drop—overall it in the national interest.

Not only does it aid the mi tary but it helps the college What could be better than 5,000-man VFW chapetr on t Berkeley campus to keep stud revolts down?

Movie Review

'Beach Party' at PC

Next week's campus mo will be "Beach Party," with B Cummings, Dorothy Mal Frankie Avalon, and Anne More copy has been devoted reviewing this film and the quels that follow it than to a other series of films in rec years.

The plots are totally unrea tic. The films are peopled handsome young people who dulge in youthful hijinks m of surf boards, teenage jarg endless twisting, and a feel that this is all life amounts

Sound like fun? It is — young people all over the co try have been flocking to theaters to see this one and countless sequels and imitatio

Alex Erwin, Ass't. Editor

Big Brother in 1967?

At the latest meeting of the Board of Trustees, held March 6 and 7, the Board voted that:

"Inasmuch as Presbyterian College is on a semester system, the college continue operation on a six day week and that all classes be 50 minutes in length, without exception."

The Board's concern was based on the premise that the primary consideration is the best education posible for the largest number of students and that students would have more time for preparation for 50-minute classes.

It appears that the students and their interests are of little concern to this educational institution. Most forms of democratic government have three separate branches of power in order to prevent domination by any one branch. Therefore, it appears that the bargaining power of the students holds little weight in the eyes of the illustrious entrepreneurs of this institution.

The "village virus" that Sinclair Lewis used to explain what happens to an in vidual who settles in a small town co trolled by tradition and judged by socia is prevalent at PC. The virus at PC quickly spreading—infecting the would individuals that are interested in develo ing PC into a well-rounded educational stitution.

There's a great deal more to educat than just attending classes. When a st dent leaves PC, there won't be anybody make his decisions for him.

Maybe after all this is 1984 at PC a we are the inhabitants of that society th go about their daily tasks without questi or concern. We readily accept what superiors demand because we no lon possess the powers of individual thoug or reason.

The members of George Orwell's wo didn't have an organization that was stigated for the benefit of its membe All we have is the Student Governme Let's hope they're not a part of "Big Bro er!"

Missionary to So. Viet Nam Talked About Work and War

The Rev. Samuel M. James, Southern Baptist Missionary to Vietnam, spoke Monday in Chapel. The missionary's appearance here was a part of the Baptist Student Union's and the Student Department of South Carolina Baptist Convention's attempt to bring relevant speakers to the college and university campues of the state.

Rev. James has been stationed in Saigon for two years prior to his current furlough. James serves as pastor of Grace Baptist Church where he worked in two Baptist chapels and with Bible classes held in other locations.

Realizing his opportunity to serve to his fullest capacity, James utilized off-duty American Baptist service men to teach the Vietnamese both English and scripture. In this way, he was able to actively participate in while supervising the overall Baptist evangelistic program for the city. A part of his ministry was composed of both teaching men who wished to become preachers and holding the chairmanship of the organization of Southern Baptist missionaries in Vietnam.

The Rev. James related the staggering challenge of the mission field with particular reference to Vietnam. As an example, he said that one convert at Grace Baptist Church, Saigon, turned out to be a former Viet Cong, trained and experienced in political indoctrination. The convert became disillusioned with communism and, after hearing Mr. James proclaim the new life available through faith in Jesus Christ, he was converted to Christianity.

Knowing nothing of the man's communist background until he went to visit him, James learned that the man had given himself up to the police. After his release from the rehabilitation period, the man became a baptized Baptist Christian.

Mr. James expects his main assignment after furlough to be to develop a Vietnamese Baptist theological seminary.

Mr. James said that his experiences during four years of Navy duty led to his decision to become a missionary. While in Japan James was deeply disturbed to find he could not explain his Christian faith to a Japanese whom he met on a train. Upon returning to his ship late that night he sat down in an empty ammunition room and, by flashlight, earnestly read the New Testament. "After several hours, I began to see who Jesus really is,' related James. "He became more than an influence in my life or a proper name on the pages of the Bible. He became my living Lord in whom my longing soul found satisfaction."

Later, while still in the Navy, James was stationed in the Aleutian Islands where he helped begin a religious revival among the men stationed there. While in the Aleutians he committed his life to Christian service, and on his first Sunday as a civilian he publicly declared his decision to become a foreign missionary.

A native of North Carolina, James is a graduate of Wake Forest College and Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

REV. JAMES

College Will Entertain Scholarship Hopefuls

Sixteen outstanding high school students from four states arrived on the PC campus today as finalists competing for Founder's Scholarships to attend PC next fall. Two more students will arrive tomorrow.

Col. A. J. Thackston, Dean of Students, said that the young scholars will compete for ten grants ranging up to $5600 each for four years of study. Selection is based on the qualities of intellect, leadership, character and need, and runners-up become eligible for consideration for other grants.

Friday evening at 6:00 an informal reception will be held in the Douglas House lounge for the visitors at which time they will meet the heads of the departments and the administrative heads. At 6:30 these people will have dinner in the small dining hall. Nine student leaders from PC will sepak to the visitors at this time.

Saturday morning there will be another informal reception. The visitors will then meet the entire faculty. Later in the morning the high school students will be tested and interviewed by the members of the faculty scholarship committee.

The 1967 group, composed of nine men and one woman from South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, and Florida, are:

Miss Tommie Noel Ellis and George P. Phillips, both of Greenville; Miss Lyla Ann Boyd of Pendleton; James E. Brown of Chester; Philip M. Cheney of Augusta; Miss Linda Jane Corder of Roswell, Ga.; Carl W. Dohn, Jr., of Macon, Ga.; Frederick S. Ellison of Rock Hill; Paul R. Fallaw of Clinton; and Miss Nancy P. Gilmer of Anderson.

Miss Frances E. Gregory of Greenwood; Charles V. Hunter, Jr., of Atlanta; Michael G. Medcalf of North Augusta; Miss Diane Rice of Williston; Miss Belinda Sue Ritter of Rome, Ga.; Miss Pamela J. Smith of West Hollywood, Fla.; James A. Taylor of Liberty; and Miss Carol S. Thomas of Glade Valley, N. C.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, March 17, 1967 — No. 17

Bassham Elected President

PC Dominates Press Convention; Blue Sock Given First Place Award

By TONY DENDY

PC made its presence well known at the South Carolina Collegiate Press Association convention last weekend. Students from PC swept three of the association's top offices and The Blue Stocking of 1966 won the title of best paper of colleges of less than two thousand enrollment.

Bill Bassham, sports editor of The Blue Stocking, was unanimously elected president of the SCCPA for 1967-68. Bobby Staton of the PaC SaC staff was elected treasurer, and Alex Erwin was appointed corresponding secretary.

The Blue Stocking's award was based on news and sports coverage, writing, style, and mechanics. This was done in spite of the fact that PC was not judged on individual articles because they arrived too late. Woody Hall was editor of the 1966 volume of The Blue Stocking.

FRIDAY ACTIVITIES

The Friday agenda included a tour of the Columbia State-Record and the R. L. Bryan Publishing Company which prints most high school and college annuals in South Carolina. Friday night the delegates listened to an address by Dr. Reid Montgomery, managing secretary of the South Carolina Press Association.

The assembly then divided into discussion groups. Ed O'Cain of R. L. Bryan Co., talked with the yearbook delegates. The State's managing editor, Bob Pearce, spoke to the newspaper representatives.

SATURDAY ELECTION

Saturday afternoon elections were held. Those students elected other than Bassham and Staton were Carol Mullinax of USC, vice-president; Butch Gray of Baptist College, recording secretary. Brenda Hooker and Dawn Schulin of Columbia College, and Charles Cole of The Citadel, were elected representatives at large.

AWARDS BANQUET

Saturday night, William D. Workman, editor of The State, spoke at the banquet. Miss South Carolina, Barbara Harris, gave out the awards. The awards were:

Best Magazine — Chronicle of Clemson (over 2,000), and Echo of Furman (under 2,000).

Best Yearbook—Taps of Clemson (over 2,000), and Y's and other Y's of Converse (under 2,000).

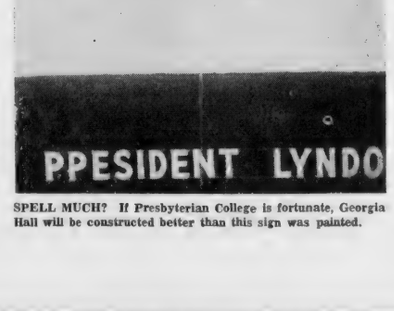
Best Newspaper — Gamecock of USC (over 2,000), and The Blue Stocking of PC (under 2,000).

WOODY HALL, former editor of The Blue Stocking, holds trophy the paper received for being the best small college paper in South Carolina. Alex Erwin and Bill Bassham, new officers of SCCPA, brought the trophy from the convention in Columbia.

Frampton Concert Monday Sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi

By MIKE GOWER

Last year students on this campus kept seeing signs saying "Mac Frampton Is Coming." This year the campus is covered with signs reporting "The Triumphant Return of Mac Frampton.' Who is this person and what makes him of such a special interest?



Mac Frampton is a native of Orangeburg, South Carolina, who now attends the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. When he came here last year, he was not a total stranger to the PC campus for he had played the piano here for various summer activities connected with the presbytery.

When he had his concert last year, he amazed the audience with his versatility and virtuosity. This year he will have an even larger range of music. In his selections there will be something for everyone.

For those who like the classics he will play three selections; the composers to be selected are Chopin, Debussy, and Schumann.

He will also have a request section where people from the audience can request songs.

Mac Frampton will perform here March 20 at 8:00 p. m. Tickets cost one dollar and may be purchased from any Pi Kappa Phi pledge or at the door.

SPELL MUCH? If Presbyterian College is fortunate, Georgia Hall will be constructed better than this sign was painted.

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

THE 1967 TENNIS SQUAD of PC which plays South Carolina tomorrow consists of members, left to right, Larry Connelly, Hart Cobb, Juan Amaya, Doug Haynie, Robbie Hibbitts, and Howdy Letzring. Coach Shakespeare is at the right.

Blue Hose Netters Anticipate Best In Facing Strengthened Opponents

By MIKE SIMONS

An uncertain future lies ahead for the Presbyterian College tennis team, according to Prof. Jim Shakespeare, who also doubles as tennis coach.

PC looked to be in for a year of rebuilding after graduation cost the services of the number one and two men from last season, Bob Harris and Pete Collins, respectively. A few breaks, however, went the Hose's way and now Shakespeare probably at least has as strong a team as last season's squad which finished second in the state tournament while compiling a 13-9 record. Shakespeare said that he didn't consider this to be a rebuilding year, but pointed out several factors which could determine PC's record for the season.

"First of all," he said, "we are facing a more difficult schedule than we did last year, and several of the teams we played last season have greatly strengthened squads this year." He noted that South Carolina, Clemson, The Citadel, and Wake Forest, among others, are considerably stronger than last season. PC defeated all these teams handily, with the exception of Clemson.

The number one man for South Carolina last year is now playing number four, and The Citadel's top man last year has been moved down to three, giving some indication of the strength of this years's clubs. Also, Shakespeare pointed out, the new ruling that some schools can play freshmen athletes in varsity competition will strengthen several schools on PC's schedule.

The schedule is one of the most difficult seasons in recent years, according to Shakespeare, with the likes of Florida, Florida State, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Harvard, and North Carolina facing the Hose.

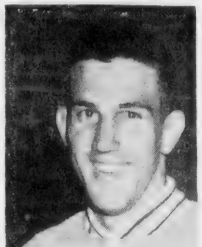
A freshman, Jim Amaya, is currently playing number one for PC, while Howdy Letzring, who did not play last season, is holding down the number two spot .

Larry Connelly returns at his familiar number three position, while Doug Haynie moved up a notch to number four. Hart Cobb has moved up one position to number five, while Robbie Hibbits rounds out the top six. Juan Amaya and Jim Cassady provide back-up help if anything should happen to the first six men.

PC will not compete in the Carolinas Conference Tournament this year since it will take place after commencement.

In summing up the prospects for the upcoming season, Shakespeare said, "While we are about as strong as last year, it will take a good team effort and some upsets to have a really outstanding record, but the team is capable of doing it."

March Sports Spotlight



March 18—Tennis	South Carolina—Columbia
March 21—Baseball	Catawba—Salisbury, N. C.
March 22-23—Golf	Tournament, Michigan State Host Team, Tryon, N. C.
March 22—Tennis	Clemson—Clemson
March 24—Golf	Rochester—Fountain Inn
March 25—Golf	Rochester—Clinton
March 27—Golf	Ohio—Clinton
March 27—Tennis	Ohio—Clinton
March 28—Golf	M. I. T.—Clinton
March 28—Tennis	Toledo—Clinton
March 30—Tennis	Georgia—Athens
March 31—Track	St. Andrews—Clinton
March 31—Tennis	Newberry—Clinton
March 31—Baseball	Catawba—Clinton
March 31-April 2—Golf	Tournament Wofford host team, Orangeburg

Richard Quillen Named to All-CC Basketball Team

Richard Quillen, starting forward for the Blue Hose, was named to the All-Carolinas Conference basketball team for 1967. Lenoir Rhyne led the team with two players—R. D. Carson and Aubrey Cochran.

Averaging 20.1 points per game, Quillen led the Blue Hose and was fourth in the Carolinas Conference. The 6'1" forward also led the Blue Hose in rebounds.

The other seven positions on the ten-man squad went to Bob Kaufman of Guilford, Danny

RICHARD QUILLEN

Bauchamp of Appalachian, Henry Goedeck of Elon, Larry Jones of Atlantic Christian, Gene Littles of High Point, Henry Logan of Western Carolina, and Dave Snyder of Catawba.

Logan led all CC scorers with a 30.2 average for Western Carolina. Kaufman averaged 25.5 and Littles 22.8 points per game.

Fortune and Frank McGuire

BILL

Ten years ago Frank McGuire took his North Carol Tar Heels to the Atlantic Coast Conference tournam and came away with a championship. That was the ye UNC went on to win the NCAA and cap an undefeat season.

Ten years later McGuire was back but this time he w at the helm of a different team—the South Carolina Gam cocks. Ironically, the team to beat in this tournament w North Carolina who had not won the title in that ten-ye span.

The tournament was set up for the story-book finis Since the Mike Grosso incidence, tension had been hig between Carolina and Duke. This tension had caused t Blue Devils to cancel their two games with the Gamecoc this season.

The seedings came out showing that if Carolina a Duke both won in the quarter-finals that they would me in the semi-finals. The Blue Devils easily disposed Virginia while the Gamecocks scored a close win ov Maryland.

It was here. The game that Carolina fans had be looking forward to all season had finally arrived. Du behind All-American Bob Verga rated a steady favor over South Carolina.

Referee Charlie Eckman made it clear to both tea that this would not be a free-for-all. Any act of getting little too rough would result in expulsion from the gam

The Greensboro Coliseum was packed to standi room capacity only for the game. For almost two hou the fans there as well as thousands more saw a typic ACC tournament game.

From the outset of the game, it was nip and tuck w neither team being able to get the upper hand. At t half, the score was tied. Carolina managed to pull a to a five point lead in the closing minutes, and it look as if the dream had come true. But Duke and Verga we not dead and came right back. When the final buzz blew, Duke was on the right end of a 69-66 score.

The game that perhaps Frank McGuire wanted m to win more than any other in his career, had been lost

Ironically it was the North Carolina Tar Heels und Dean Smith who won the tournament. It may be interes ing to note that ten years ago when UNC won it, they we on to the finals of the NCAA where they had to pl against an invincible great by the name of Wilt Chambe lain. UNC defeated Chamberlain and Kansas to win t national championship. This year many say that UCL with giant Lew Alcindor cannot be beaten.

It was a long season for McGuire and his Gamecock This was to be his year, but fortune did not see it that w There were the up moments such as the upset of UNC, a there were the down moments such as the loss to Clemso

It was a long season for someone like Jackie Thompso who got little recognition for his play. Jackie may n score but he was the quarterback who made the team g His dribbling and passing techniques carried the Gam cocks at times.

It was a long season for Gary Gregor who was t leading rebounder in the ACL and in the top ten in t nation.

It was a long season for Frank Standard who play a crucial part of the season on an ankle that he co hardly walk on. Yet he was the team's second leadi scorer and rebounder.

It was a long season for Skip Harlicka who was t leading scorer but had to play in the conference shade of the Vergas, Lewis's, and Longs.

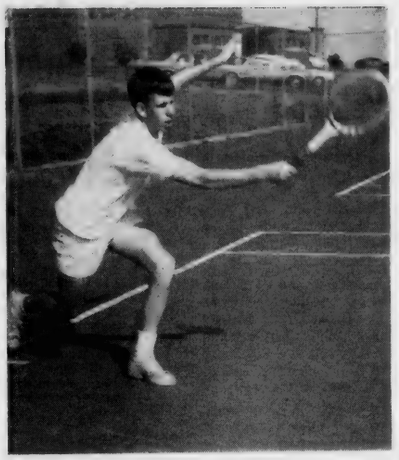
It was a long season for Lynn Burkholder who start at mid-season with the pressure of taking the place wh would have been held by Groso.

Perhaps the longest season for anyone was Al Sal doir. Sal came to Carolina destined to be a star but ne quite reached his predicted stardom until the tournam Sal came off the bench both days to score over 20 poin

Although there is a hope for many for next season take the place for the one already lost. But for some l Sal, there will be no tomorrow.

With 14 Returnees Track Team Faces Season Hopefully

By TOM CAIN



With fourteen lettermen returning from last year's third place finish in the Carolinas Conference meet, the Prsbyterian track team is looking forward to a successful season under Head Coach Joe Nixon.

As Coach Nixon looks at the coming season he plainly states, "We should have a good team, especially in the running events. We will be hurt by the loss of Doug Allen in the field events, but if several boys come through we will have a pretty good season."

In the running events, Dan Eckstein heads the sprinters, while James Challen is a strong performer in the 880 event. Ellis Jenkins, Carlton Manley, and Monk Milligan lead the distance runners, with Richard Reed and Dowl Thompson performing in the hurdles. Help in these events is expected to come from freshmen Doug Bowles and Ricky Little.

In the field events Robert Hope competes in the pole vault, while John Walther high jumps for the Blue Hose. Jim Bush and Terry Dye participate in the shot put and javelin events, but help must be found in the discus event. Basketball starter Dave Hudson is expected to help in some of the field events.

With this group, Presbyterian will compete in five dual meets, two triangular meets, and the Davidson Relays. Toughest competition for the Blue Hose will come from High Point, who finished first in the conference last season, Catawba, and rival Wofford, who was defeated twice by PC last year.

LARRY CONNELLY, A senior from Charlotte, is caught in the act on the Clinton High tennis courts. Connelly is number three man and captain of the Presbyterian tennis team.

PC Beats Furman 9-0; Battles USC Tomorrow

By MIKE SIMONS

The Presbyterian College tennis team takes a 4-3 record with them tomorrow when they journey to Columbia to take on a formidable University of South Carolina net team.

Saturday's match against Carolina should provide observers with an insight into the future of the PC netters, since USC has a greatly improved squad over last year's team, which the Blue Hose defeated 8-1. Ned Burke, number one for USC last season, plays number six this year .

The Hose ended up 2-2 on their annual Florida tour over the holidays, polishing off Jacksonville twice, 8-1 and 7-2, while losing to powerful teams from the University of Florida and Florida State University, 5-0 and 9-0, respectively. The Florida match was cut short by rain.

PC soundly trounced Furman 9-0, taking every match in straight sets except for number three doubles where Hart Cobb and Robbie Hibbits were pushed to the full three sets before defeating Tommy Martin and Danny Brown 4-6, 6-3, 6-0. Larry Connelly, playing number three, did not lose a single game all afternoon, taking both singles and doubles in love-sets.

James Powell, Doug Catoe, and Mike Thurston battle for a hand fought game between the Bandits and the Theta Chi's.

PC Loses Opening Doubleheader To Guilford Quakers 9-2 and19-0

By TOM CAIN

Led by a consistent hitting attack and steady pitching, Guilford's Quakers romped past Presbyterian 9-2 and 19-0 in a baseball doubleheader at Clinton Thursday.

During the five-hour doubleheader, the Quakers bombed six PC pitchers for a total of twenty-six hits. Leading hitters for Guilford were right fielder Searcy, who collected five hits, and utility man Surface.

In the opening game Guilford pitcher Parker allowed the Blue Hose only three hits, while striking out nine batters. Presbyterian scored their first run in the fifth inning on a triple by Charlie Chapman scoring Gene Robbins. Pitcher George Lindsay immediately followed Chapman's hit with a single to close the PC scoring for the game.

Guilford opened their scoring in the first inning on a double by Searcy and an error which allowed two runs to score. The visitors then scored one run in the second inning, one in the third, and five runs in the fifth. Although scoring nine runs in the game, Guilford collected only nine hits off loser George Lindsay, but nine PC errors helped the Guilford offense.

During the second contest, the Quakers collected a total of seventeen hits, with pitcher Burchette allowing PC only four hits while striking out eleven in a shutout victory. Guilford immediately began to score by getting four runs off Paul Ferguson in the first inning while they added at least one run in every other inning.

After Ferguson's first inning stint, Coach Elliott pitched Rad Free, Bob McBee, and Bob Hackle. McBee collected the Blue Hose's only extra base hit of the game by doubling to lead off the third inning. Mel Davis ran for McBee, but he got no further than third as PC lost its only threat of the game.

Presbyterian now travels to Salisbury, N. C., to face Catawba on March 21, as they try to get in the winning column.

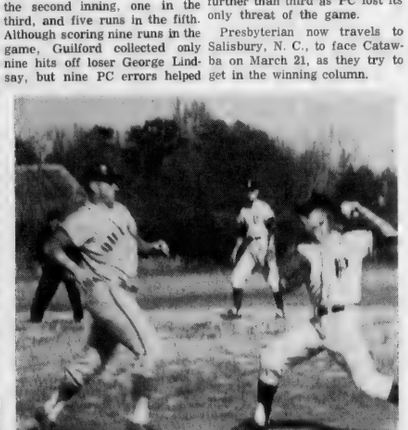
PC Golfers Lose to Carolina But Defeat East Tenn. State

The Presbyterian College golf team has won two of its three matches thus far this season on the way back to defending its state title.

Coach Gerald Wells has four of last year's top six back to form the nucleus of this year's squad along with two newcomers and a returnee. This lineup makes the Blue Hose favorites to defend their title.

Junior David Sale returns as the number one golfer. Replacing the number two slot vacated by the graduation of Bill Kellam is Tim Yancey. Yancey did not complete last year due to being ineligible. Sophomore Ashton Blount returns in his number three place.

Rounding out the top six are sophomore Steve Albright, junior Allan Parsons, and freshman Terry Clyburn. Freshman John Akers is the seventh man.



Commenting on the season outlook Coach Wells said, "I feel we have a stronger team this year and are a definite threat to repeat as state champs.

The Blue Hose defeated East Tennnessee State 11-10 and lost to South Carolina 11-10 in a tri-meet in Columbia on Thursday. David Sale was medalist for PC with a 73.

David Sale commented after the match on the loss to South Carolina: "I'm not real distrubed over the loss. Any time you only lose by one point to South Carolina on their home course you aren't doing badly. We're going to come out fine this season."

Earlier in the week PC defeated Erskine College by a score of 9½ to 8½ at Fountain Inn. Tim Yancey took medalist honors for the match with a 70.

The Blue Hose have two matches next week with Rochester University. Both will be played at Lakeside Country Club.

Gene Robbins puts out Guilford runner at first and fires ball to home for double play try in action yesterday.

Pushers, Sigma Nu's Have First Defeat In Intramural Play

By GENE SULLIVAN

Two perviously undefeated teams met their matches in intramural basketball as the Snakes edged the Pushers 27-26 behind the hustle of Bucheit, Gravely, and Hibbits. The Pushers failed to find the range from the floor and had only two baskets in the second half.

The Sigma Nu's pushed the PiKA's to the hilt before failing 40-43 under an outside barrage led by "Buzzard" Donovan. The Nu's trailed by 11 at one point before Blanchard and Donovan fouled out. The PiKA's held on for the final two minutes. Higgins, Myers and Maynard kept the offensive alive.

A strong Crusher team added a five-point victory over the Oxen then bowed to the Faculty 50-40. Coach Musselman popped in 25 for the cause. In a later game Musselman added another 25 to stop the Alpha Sig's 45-33.

The Order kept on their winning ways by slaughtering the Worms 92-26 behind Forbes, Gettys and Bratton.

As the season's end approachers, plans for an eight-team single elimination tournament are being made. The top four teams in each league will play in the tourney.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

THE GREEKS...

'Old South' Weekend

THETA CHI

The Theta Chi's second team in basketball has set a record of two straight victories, with wins over the faculty 34-33 and the KA II by forfeit. The Pledges are giving the brotherhood a party Saturday night at Peck's.

Congratulations are in order for "Bashful Bob" Thrower for getting a date for this weekend. Glad to hear that Brother John Rohrs rallied for a day and decided to study. The "Soul Set" has been signed for Saturday night of Spring Swing. Brother John Rohrs has lavaliered Miss Dottie Oliver of Albany, Ga.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

From the PiKA's, the Nassau boys made it back in fine shape. Brothers Chapman and Warren enjoyed their visit to the "Bahama Star." The II basketball team has a string of 3 straight victories. The PiKA's will use the Easter holidays to warm up for Roman Holiday March 31-April 1.

Brother Smart had a smooth trip to, from and at Kansas City over the holidays. Brother Larry Yonce is pinned to Miss Nina Sheppard of USC. Jack Howard is lavaliered to Miss Mimi McCauley of Greenville.

New Pi Kappa Alpha officers are: president—Sandy Lynn; vice-president—Mel Davis; secretary—Charles Weston; treasurer—Reed Bolick; sergeant-at-arms —Mickey Hampshire.

SIGMA NU

This week, the Snakes pulled a fantastic upset victory over the Pushers who were previously undefeated. Bobby Staton, after copping treasurer of the South Carolina Collegiate Press Association, was seen chasing a young lady all over the Capital Cabana in Columbia, and Alex "Lover" Erwin, recording secretary of the same organization, is still looking for a juke box.

Brothers Robbie Hibbits and Hart Cobb kept in shape over the holidays by three sets of doubles (Mill rules) at Reeves' and Horne's Country Club. Eddie Bolton is now engaged to Miss Vivian Rogers of Clinton Hall. Jim Brumbelow is pinned to Pam Williams of Atlanta, Ga., and pledge Wayne Harris is lavaliered to Miss Mary Jo Maddox.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

The Alpha Sig's are happy that the Gatlinburg Skiers had a wonderful time skiing? We would like to send get well wishes to Ray Combs and Hunter Ramsuer. These choir trips must really be something! By the way, if anyone would like to hear about the ski trip, ask Jimmy Page, we think he remembers some of it. Jim Bruce has returned from a rollicking trip to nassau. Will Scott is Brother of the Week.

KAPPA ALPHA

After months of hard labor, the KA's will put their beards to good use this weekend at the annual Old South Ball at Myrtle Beach. Joe Gettys and Rick Sjoholm are going anyway. Thursday marked the last extra drill for the KA's, too. New officers are: No. 1—Joe Dunlap; No. 2—Shep Marsh; and No. 3—Mike Coulon. Pledge John Irwin is lavaliered to Claire Conover. The chapter would like to extend him an invitation to let her meet us.

Campus News Briefs

Mathematician Spoke

Dr. Clayton V. Aucoin, chairman of the Clemson University mathematics department, delivered three lectures at Presbyterian College this Thursday and Friday as part of the Mathematics Association of the American Lecture Series.

He spoke at 12 o'clock and again at 4:30 on Thursday in Neville Hall, room 101, and at 9 a. m. Friday in Neville 206. In addition he consulted with the PC mathematics staff, interested students and administrative officials.

The nationwide lecturership program is designed to strengthen college mathematics programs, stimulate faculty and students, and to help motivate able students toward careers in this field.

Placement

The following representatives will be on campus to interview seniors seeking employment:

Monday, March 20 — General Electric Credit Corporation, Greensboro, N. C.

Tuesday, March 21—U. S. Plywood, Orangeburg, S. C.

Wednesday, March 22—J. C. Penney Co., Atlanta, Ga., Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa.

Thursday, March 23 — Cone Mills, Greensboro, N. C.

Friday, March 24—Rock Hill Telephone Co.

Funds Needed For Entertainment

Larry Yonce, chairman of the Student Entertainment, requests that a few students on campus be a little more considerate of their fellow students with regard to the upcoming Spring Swing Weekend.

In a recent interview with The Blue Stocking Yonce stated "without ful cooperation of the some 200 students who haven't paid their $2.50 entertainment fee, Spring Swing is in danger of not reaching its full potential. The committee is going to an all-out campaign in the dining hall next week and it would be appreciated if those students who haven't paid the fee would do so at this time."

Presses Stop

Due to the Easter holidays the paper will be published next week. The next issue of The Blue Stocking will be during the week of March 27-April 2.

Books Lost

Mrs. George Taylor, Douglas House hostess, asks that the student that borrowed the "B" and "X, Y, Z," volumes of the World Book Encyclopedia from the lounge to return them immediately.

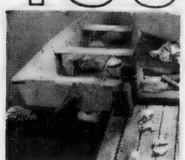
Chapel Schedule

Week of March 20-25

Monday — Student body meeting and installation of new officers.

Wednesday: Dr. Gettys—"Interpreting Actions of Board of Trustees."

Friday — Worship Service of Good Friday, Dr. Lewis Hay.



Week of March 27-31

Monday — Professor Edmund Feldman, Department of Fine Arts, University of Georgia, to present an illustrated lecture "Interpreting Painting: The Contemporary Scene."

Wednesday — Worship Service Rev. Eugene Randolph, Dorsville, Ga.

Friday—General L. S. Hoch, Detroit, Mich., "Our Asiatic Troubles."

Every litter bit hurts YOU

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL
Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council

BROADWAY Cinema

FRI.-SAT., MARCH 17-18
Hercules, Samon and Uulysses
With Kirk Norris and Lana Orfei

MONDAY and TUESDAY MARCH 20-21
Boy, Did I Get a Wrong Number!
Bob Hope, Elke Sommer and Phyllis Diller

STARTS WEDNESDAY MARCH 22
ELVIS JRESLEY in Easy Come, Easy Go

PITTS MENS SHOP...
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1628

If you're 16-22 you can be an Ambassador. Tell the people you meet about America while traveling in the friendliest way, via bicycle and train, staying in Youth Hostels as unique as a chateau, as simple as a university dormitory. Travel in small co-ed groups with a trained American Youth Hostels leader as chaperon who'll take you to famous and untouristy places.

You'll get a travel wardrobe from Lady Wrangler's or Mr. Wrangler's Young Ambassadors Collection and you'll be supplied with a bike and saddlebags.

Go to the store nearest you that sells Lady Wrangler or Mr. Wrangler Sportswear. Look for the Young Ambassadors Collection and get your application form. Scholarship applications close May 5, 1967.

Lady Wrangler Sportswear, 1407 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10018.
Mr. Wrangler Menswear, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10001.

Win a free 6-week all-expense-paid Young Ambassador tour of Europe.
Lady Wrangler and Mr. Wrangler Sportswear will send 90 young people abroad this summer as Young Ambassadors traveling with American Youth Hostels.

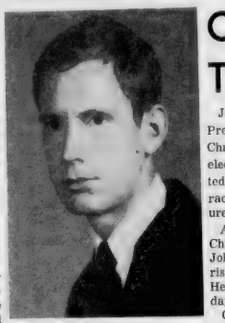
Belk's Department Store
112 Musgrove — Clinton

AYH American Youth Hostels

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 7, 1967 — No. 18

Blue Stocking For First Semester Rated by ACP



The Blue Stocking issues of first semester of this year received a rating of second class by the Associated Collegiate Press. The judging was by critics at the University of Minnesota.

The majority of entries received a second class rating. The rating of second class represented "good" to "very good" work. Fred L. Kildow, director of the Associated Collegiate Press, said in a letter to The Blue Stocking that the paper had done "a good job in a workmanlike manner."

Judging took into consideration the size of the college and the frequency of publication. The Blue Stocking entered as a weekly from a college of less than 700 enrollment.

The ACP used certain basic standards in the fields of coverage, writing, and physical properties in judging the entries. In the physical properties area The Blue Stocking scored high with 1510 out of 1700 points. Especially ystrong were front page makeup and headlines.

Sports coverage and sports display rated high.

JAMES CHALLEN

Challen, Hudson Elected Today To Top SCA Positions for 1967-68

James Challen was elected President of next year's Student Christian Association in today's election. Dave Hudson was elected Vice President. Results of the races for Secretary and Treasurer were unavailable.

A rising senior from Memphis, Challen defeated John Lown and Johnny McCallum. Hudson is a rising junior from Myrtle Beach. He defeated Danny Wyatt in today's election.

Candidates for the office of secretary were Maxine Fell and Diane Mayo. Ferdie Jourdan and Doodle Dingle ran for Treasurer.

PRIMARY ELECTION

In the primary election Wednesday, Challen led the balloting for President with one hundred and seventy-four votes. John Lown received one hundred and five votes and Johnny McCallum received seventy-five votes.

For Vice President Dave Hudson gathered two hundred and eight votes. One hundred and forty-nine votes were cast for Danny Wyatt.

Maxine Fell edged Diane Mayo in the primary election for Secretary of the SCA. Miss Fell received one hundred and eighty-one votes to Miss Mayo's one hundred and seventy-one votes.

In the race for Treasurer in the primary, Ferdie Jourdan led Doodle Dingle. Jourdan received two hundred and thirteen votes. Miss Dingle received one hundred and thirty-seven votes.

Spring Swing Weekend Scheduled April 13-15

Larry Yonce, chairman of the Student Entertainment Committee, has announced that the first Spring Swing Weekend will be kicked off by a dance featuring the Tams. The dance will be in Greenville Hall and will last from 8-12 p.m. Dress will be casual.

The Tams are internationally known for such hits as "I've Been Hurt," "Until Me," "What Kind of Fool" and "You're Riding for a Fall."

The dance Friday night will feature the Chantells from Burlington, N. C. It will also be in Greenville Hall and the time will also be from 8-12. Dress for this affair will be semi-formal, however.

Saturday afternoon weather permitting, there will be an outdoor concert in front of Richardson Hall with the Dixie Cups. This will be from 3-5 p.m. In case of inclement weather, this concert will be held in Belk Auditorium. That night the fraternities will have their respective parties.

Col. Benjamin Ivey, right, tells Richard Hay, Bobby Byard, and Ed Dorn that they will receive military scholarships for the next two years at PC. They are juniors and plan to go into advanced ROTC next year.

Two New History Professors Join PC Faculty for 1967-68

Two professors who will receive their PhD degrees this summer will join the Presbyterian College faculty as history teachers in the fall. Dean Joseph M. Gettys announced Thursday.

They are: David C. Needham, who succeeds Larry Ingle in the teaching of American Hisotry; and Charles H. Coker, replacing William J. McArthur in European history.

Dean Gettys said that each man was his first choice for the position. They will join Dr. Ronald Burnside, department chairman, in giving PC a strong program in history.

Needham is a Plainfield, N. J., native now completing his doctoral studies at the University of Georgia. His major field of concentration is recent American History, with dissertation on the Progressive Era, and he also is interested in American diplomatic and American social and intellectual history.

Needham earned his BA from Hope College, his MA from Ohio University and has taught as a graduate assistant both at Ohio and Georgia. He is 30, married with one daughter, a US Navy veteran and member of the Reformed Church of America.

Charles H. Coker is a native of Taylors and Wofford College graduate before his earning his MA at the University of South Carolina. He is completing his PhD work on fellowship at South Carolina.

Coker's major field is modern European history, and he also has had concentrated work in medieval and British history. He is 33, single and a member of the Episcopal Church.

Student Council's Progress In Many Areas Announced

The Student Council is currently active in several areas of campus life. In its first three weeks of office, the Council held three meetings. One hundred per cent of the members have attended each meeting.

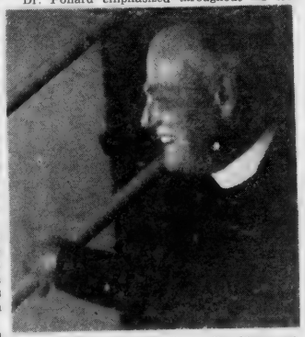
A glassed-in bulletin board has been placed in the dining hall. The bulletin board will be used for important announcements concerning the student body. Mrs. Bowers has agreed to start posting weekly menus. Sandy Lynn, Chairman of the Dining Hall Committee, worked with Mrs. Bowers on this matter and will continue to do so to attempt to bring about further changes.

After meetings between the Faculty Absence Committee and representatives from the Student Council, a letter from the Student Council voicing its unanimous approval of five proposals concerning cut regulations was forwarded to the Absence Committee. These proposals were all approved by the Faculty at their monthly meeting on April 5.

New absence regulations include the banning of special restrictions for students on academic probation, the lessening of the penalty for overcutting chapel, and the use of military science cuts for either classes or drills which are not designated as mandatory.

A Publications Board has been appointed by David Berry. The purpose of this board is to coordinate various publications such as The Blue Stocking, the PaC SaC, and The Knapsack. Charles Eagles will serve as chairman. The Student Council felt that by linking the different publications together, the ideas and techniques of the staffs can mingle, hopefully resulting in improvements in all publications.

'The World Is A Spaceship'



Pollard Predicts Famine, Terror

By RUSH OTEY

"Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea and over the birds of the air and over every living thing that moves upon the earth."

Using this statement from Genesis 1 as a key to understanding the 20th Century, Doctor William G. Pollard, nationally-known physicist and theologian, addressed the PC student body in chapel Wednesday.

Dr. Pollard emphasized throughout his lecture that until this century, man has been "a relatively small species on a vast earth", and that not until the present time could man realize full dominion over the earth. "Man has been fruitful", Dr. Pollard professed, "but he has not multiplied because he has exercised little dominion over organisms. Famine and plagues have kept man the fertility of the soil and the world of microfrom multiplying and therefore from assuming dominion."

Dr. Pollard relaxes back stage after his speech in chapel Wednesday.

"Today man has taken over the planet, and by the end of the century "nothing will be able to live on earth that neither meets man's needs nor is allowed to live in national parks."

Dr. Pollard drew a comparison between the earth and a spaceship on a journey through space. Like a space ship the earth is faced with the problem of harnessing energy to run its instruments and of keeping an adequate supply of food and water for its crew.

The speaker pointed out that in the past man has misued limited reserves of fossils fuels. "We have been using these things in a one-shot production. Waste and pollution have fouled up our water and atmosphere . . . We must build a cycle in which there is no waste or pollution . . ."

Dr. Pollard stated that in using fossil fuels, man has not drawn from the primary energy source in the universe. Today man is developing the use of nuclear energy which will result in much cheaper electric power.

"The problem of the food and water shortage is also a technological problem," Dr. Pollard affirmed. He said that the water supply may be increased by either diverting quantities south-

See p. 8 - col. 3 - The World

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor | Charles Eagles, Editor | Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Merits Commendation

Students are very quick with criticism of the administration; students should be equally quick with commendation.

The administration should be commended for its part in the production of "The Fantasticks." The administration invested money in the work of an amateur, nonexistent Drama Department.

Although there was not a drama professor here this year, the administration assured others, through its support of "The Fantasticks", that PC would have an active drama program.

Appreciation is expressed to the administration.

Friend or Enemy?

"Do not look for rationality within these pages," said the first issue of The Blue Spectre. "We are fighting an irratoinal foe, and one takes on the character of his enemy in battle."

Students should keep in mind the above statement while reading the "sequel to The Blue Stocking."

In some instances the articles appearing in The Blue Spectre are open to serious question as to their factual content. When the factual content is in doubt and the reliability of the irrational Blue Spectre questionable, are the people writing The Blue Spectre any better than their "irrational foe," the administration.

Are the editors of The Blue Spectre guilty of acts similar to the ones they accuse of their foe? Is there "hypocrisy" within the pages of The Blue Spectre? Is there "A Questoin of Integrity" involved in the statements of The Blue Spectre? Is there a "Discrepancy?" in the charges of The Blue Spectre and The Blue Spectre itself?

Once the character of the enemy has been assumed by a friend, what distinguishes friend from enemy?

In future editions of The Blue Spectre perhaps the writers will give the students a more objective picture of events and separte fact from comment. This would help students separate friend from enemy.

Letter to the Editor

Rousey Defends Cut Rules

DEAR EDITOR:

After much thought in a time of stress and confusion, I feel compelled to file a minority opinion about one of the current "issues." I would like to suggest that the frustrated complaining of students against the faculty's change of the cut system are basically without grounds.

Because of present conditions, it would be beneficial for the student body and faculty to enjoy unity in action and feeling. One way this can be accomplished is for the students to move toward a greater understanding of the faculty's action and a more penetrating self-analysis of our own motives.

The fact is the overall grades of the student body indicated a desperate academic problem. Also there was a correlation between the indiscriminate taking of cuts and the grades of individuals. Therefore action was taken. Perhaps 2.25 was too high a requirement basis for the limitation; but then maybe the faculty is a better judge of this than I.

Actually after nearly two years we, the student body, were not developing responsibility along with freedom in this area. From the nature of many complaints it appears that while hounding for the right to act as adults we are really seeking the carefree existence of childhood. While in college we are deferred from such responsibilities as military service and earning a living.

How many "free cuts" do our fellow adults in these institutions get? Perhaps the student body would do well to quit crying over this issue and realize that the faculty, at least, really cares about the welfare of the students.

Bryson Rousey

Rush Otey, Ass't. Editor

Coed Rats Are Ladies Too?

The past two Rat Seasons for women students have not been as purposeful as they should have been.

To a great extent, Rat Season for women has been no more than a time for several of our more masculine coeds to assert their masculinity over our new arrivals. A "young lady" yelling at the top of her lungs is not a pretty or becoming sight. Actions such as this present a poor image of PC coeds.

There have been humorous incidents which everyone enjoyed, including the butts of the jokes. There have also been incidents connected with ratting of women which have in themselves threatened the very existence of Rat Season for men, a tradition long established and revered long before the advent of coeds.

If one of the purposes of men's Rat Season is to help change a high school boy into a college man, then should not the purpose of women's Rat Season be to help change a high school girl into a college woman? Therefore, different methods must necessarily be employed lest we change high school girls into college men.

Proposed changes for both Rat Seasons stress orientation as an increasingly important aspect. For thewomen this is a step in the right direction towards what such a program should ideally be.

A Rat Season for women should be concerned primarily with acquainting the freshmen coeds with school and dormitory ru and traditions, with each other, and w upperclassmen. It is my contention that t could be done well without the use of "pi ing" for coeds, mud pies, bags over t heads, or athletic events such as footb games or tug-of-wars among the coeds.

In order to keep intact the entertainm features of women's Rat Season, perha there could be a program produced, directe and performed by the Rats before the enti student body. This would enable the fres men coeds to be introduced to the stude body in a more womanly and mature ma ner than before, and could also be develope into a highly entertaining event.

Before further plans for women's Ra Season are completed, it would be wise fo the Women's Council and the Women's Co trol Board to study ratting programs of an women's colleges and to pattern the pr gram here after these instead of after men Rat Season.

There are undoubtedly those who wi cry that I am being Victorian and placin women on a pedastal. Perhaps I am expec ing too much, after all.

There will be those coeds who violentl oppose any changes in the present system but ladies, they can only blame themselve when the phrase "Cow Palace" raises i ugly head next fall.

It is up to you, o residents of Clinto Hall, to be women or men — whichever yo prefer.

Dipsy-Doodle Test

To Check Your Observations

This test has been prepared by several members of The Blue Stocking staff to test the genius of PC students. To avoid wild guessing you should remember that all wrong answers count 45 points off. All right answers count ½ point.

There is a score range of -720 to a possible plus 8. Anything below 0 is failing. One, some, or all of the suggested answers to a question could be correct.

1. Where do you go for truth?
   - The Blue Spectre
   - Dr. Weersing
   - Wyatt Chapel
2. What is your favorite leisure activity?
   - Chapel
   - Campus movies
   - Bark at the moon
   - ? ? ?
3. What do you consider the most scenic spot in Clinton?
   - Vetville
   - The police station
   - PC trailer park
   - Wall Street
4. Who writes The Blue Spectre?
   - You
   - Me
   - The faculty
   - The Pilgrim
5. What is your favorite magazine?
   - Sky and Telescope
   - Presbyterian Outlook
   - The Watchtower
   - PC Literary Magazine
6. What is your favorite meal at Greenville Hall?
   - Hamburger casserole and potatoes
   - Potatoes and hamburger casserole
   - Hamburger casserole with cheese and potatoes
7. What would you call 96 PC men in a bathtub?
   - Bathing beauties
   - Hamburger casserole
   - The Dead Sea
8. How many professors will return next year?
   - None
   - One
   - All but one
9. What is the big issue on campus?
   - Use of profanity
   - Best interests of the college
   - Playing golf on Sunday
   - God is Dead
10. What is your favorite song
    - PC fight song
    - The Green Berets for Chris
    - Our Lord
    - Cantate Domin—somethin
11. Who are the most effectiv people on campus?
    - Sophomore Academic Soc ety
    - Intramural chairman
    - Long rifles
    - PaC SaC staff
12. How do you let off steam
    - Murder a vending machine
    - Murder a gnome
    - Write a letter to the Editor of the Blue Stocking
    - Throw bottles at the grate
13. Who was the most enlight ening visitor to campus this year?
    - Dr. Henry Bugbee
    - Super N —— or N —— Board of Trustees
    - T.V. repairman.
14. What is your favorite T.V program?
    - G.E. College Bowl.
15. What is your favorite brand of peanut butter?
    - Glove Kid
    - Captain Gogo
    - Skippy (crunchy)
    - Monarch ketchup
16. What are the best reasons for having Saturday classes?
    - Something to do
    - One way to sober up
    - Keep people from leaving their cars on weekends
    - Prevent people from making D's
    - The best interests of the college

Staff

Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Business Manager ..... Robert Gualtieri
News Editor ..... Jim Roberts
Copy Editor ..... Don Flowers
Feature Editors ..... Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Cartoonist ..... Jim Brewer
Contributors ..... Mike Gowere, Mavis Harrop, Gene Sullivan, Dick Query, Mike Simons, Tom Cain
Photographers ..... David Hood and James Howard

Miss Pennington makes a correction on the sign in front of Georgia Hall. She changedPpesident to President.

Student Opinion Widely Varied About Anonymous 'Blue Spectre'

By JIM ROBERTS
News Editor

A new publication appeared on the campus twice during the past two weeks. Entitled the Blue Spectre its writer or writers and publisher of publishers are unknown. The only clue to the identity of the person or persons publishing the Spectre is that they have access to a mimeograph machine.

The Blue Spectre prints opinionative articles concerning topics which have been widely discussed this semester by those concerned with the college.

Interviews with several students were made after the second edition was distributed last Wednesday. These students were asked to comment generally on the publication.

John Greer: "All it is doing is spouting words. It takes more than words."

Don McNair: "Although I question the degree of maturity which is being shown by the author (s), I think the Blue Spectre reveals in a very interesting way that PC is being prostituted by the powers that be."

Cleve Dobbins: "It is good and bad."

John Griggs: "I think that the Board of Trustees should read it."

Bill Bassham: "It will hurt the students more than it will help. The name of the author (s) should appear on the articles."

Stan Sibley: "I thing it's great, but the author should reveal himself."

Joe Dunlap: "Whoever is putting this paper out has the right to do so, but from a few of the articles I have read, I infer that the author (s) is not presenting the true picture; that is, he has not talked to both sides. For example, the article on the golf team confused some of the facts."

Jim Brumbelow: "Taking into consideration the situation that is presently confronting P. C. students, it is my opinion that the Blue Spectre is expressing the over-whelming view of the majority of the students here at P.College, and should be looked at with due consideration."

Ronny Colvin: "I like it, but it goes to extremes. I'd like to know who's printing it."

Bryson Rousey: "I think it is hilarious; the anonymity gives it color and serves as great publicity. I don't agree with all its views but I feel that everything written in it could be published openly just as well."

Jerry Mebane: "I sympathize with its views to a great extent, but personally I would not be afraid to sign my name to something controversial. I feel that we can do this without fear at P. C. The administration here does not punish one for his criticism. I do think most of the criticism in the Blue Spectre is justly deserved."

Hugh Reid: "I kind of went along with it, but I think it was a little too emotional."

Gilmer Nix: "What are you talking about — the Blue what?"

Eleven High School Seniors Given Founder's Scholarships

Eleven high school seniors from South Carolina, Georiga, Florida, and North Carolina will receive Founder's scholarships for next year at PC. Each scholarship will pay an hononrary stipend up to $1400.00 per year for four year.

The eleven Founder's Scholars for next year are Lyla Ann Boyd from Pendleton, S. C.; Philip Mathems Cheney from Augusta; Linda Jane Corder from Roswell, Ga.; Tommie Noel Ellis from Greenville; Paul Robert Fallaw from Clinton; Nancy Payne Gilmer from Anderson.

Also, Frances Alneida Gregory from Greenwood; Diana Claries Rice from Williston, S. C.; Pamela Justin Smith from West Hollywood, Florida; James Albert Taylor from Liberty, S. C.; and Carol Saxon Thomas from Glade Valley, N. C.

These competitive awards are based on intellect, leadership, character and need. Preliminary tests were administered at the local high schools to all applicants. A group of Finalists recently visited the campus for interviews and other tests.

The recipients were chosen by a committee made up of faculty and administrative members.

Local Baptist Minister Speaks On Drinking Rule on WPPC

Reverend J. D. Stephens of the Friendship Baptist Church in Clinton blasted Rush Otey and the PC student body in a paid religious broadcast on WPCC Sunday March 19 at 1:00. The Reverend Stephens condemned the drinking reform movement by the student body. The following excerpt was taken from the broadcast:

(Editor's Note: In order to reproduce the sermon as closely as possible, the speech is written in the dialect in which it was spoken.)

. . . Well you take all this talk today about the college students being free to drink, have all the premarital relations with the opposite sex and it's alright. It's all right? What about that? Talk about this new morality, this new morality. This day that you can, it just depends on what ever situation you find yourself in. That's all just what ever situation you find yourself in and its backed up with real love there's nothing wrong with it.

I have something that I wanta read. Today's polls show students want change in present drinking rule. Students want changes in present drinking rule. You'd think that that's coming from somt state university wouldn't you. Yould think that that's coming from some heathen land wouldn't you. You might be shocked if I were to tell ya where this was printed. Where it came from.

(Pause)

Here in this paper here, the assistant editor to the Blue Stocking published a Presbyterian College here in Clinton approximately 74% of the students took part in this. 70% of those who participated stated that they consume alkehawl, alkehawlic beverges. Only 12 of the 491 students completing the questionaire felt the present rule is effective.

Only 6 students affirmed that the present rule determined whether they would drink or not. When asked if perenal opinion affected their drinking habits 287 replied that perenal approval makes no difference I'm gonna drink it anyhow. 57% of those answering the questionaire stated that their parents use alkehawl.

225 said that they would report misconduct due to drinking to the judicial court and so that ieft 254 saying that they would not report any misconduct due to drinking du da judicial council report even if their behavir was added to the present rule. And then this assistant editor which is by Rush Otley most PC students drink and they are going to drink no matter what the college rule may be.

(Pause)

Religious School! Step over to Bob Jones University see how many of em make the boast of that an get along with it. I'm not one of their sponsors but I'm sayen that you can't: you can't! have a hard rule and say your gonna have to go by it but we're living in ttat day when we wutha outlaw the rule, we wana go and live like we piese.

Yes (puse) we'r gonna drink its nobody's business an issa shame of how some so called supposed ta be educated young men and young women live today. Yawd think think that they were morons that had never been insidt of a Church or a school from many of our schools today when ya find them gatherin on the beaches and gatherin with their drinken sprees and drinken parties and having BLOW OUTS! Youd think theyd never heard about God nor even education.

Somebody told me yesterday, "well preacher I tell the reason of all this is ignorants people are ignorant they are illiterit," I said no sir! ! I beg your pardon iss not illitericy thas a cause of it. My nayber you can educate men but educatin um do not get them right. There's some of the greatest fools we've got today is educated fools inthis country.

It is not education, although I thank God for good education to hep men but it is SALVATION that men need today.

AMEN

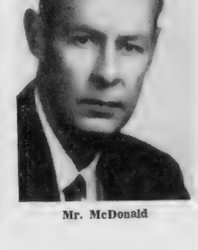
WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

Military Historian and Ga. Minister To Receive Honorary Doctorates

A military historian and a Presbyterian minister, both natives of South Carolina will be awarded honorary degrees at Presbyterian College's 87th commencement exercises on May 14, President Marc C. Weersing announced last week.

They are: Charles B. McDonald, deputy chief historian, Department of the Army, a PC alumnus from Little Rock in Dillon County, to receive the doctor of letters degree; and the Reverend Fitzhugh M. Legerton, Charleston native now serving as pastor of Atlanta's Oglethorpe Presbyterian Church, doctor of divinity.

MacDonald, who received his BA degree from Presbyterian College in 1942, has been on the staff of the office of the chief of military history in the Pentagon since 1948. In his positions as chief of the World War II branch and then as chief of the general histories branch, he supervised the preparation of volumes on World War II, Korea and the German campaign in Russia. He became deputy chief historian last year and recently spent an orientation tour in the Republic of Vietnam in preparation for supervising the writing of the official history of the U. S. Army in Vietnam.



A recognized authority in this field, Charles MacDonald is the author of three volumes of official World War II history. Three other books published commercially are: Company Commander, translated into five languages; The Battle of the Huertgen Forest, one of the "Great Battles of History" series edited by Hanson W. Baldwin; and Europe First: The Oxford History of the United States in World War II in Europe, now in progress for Oxford University Press.

MacDonald gained first-hand knowledge of World War II action through his service as a decorated infantry officer with the 2nd Division in the European Theater. He is married to the former Joyce Barling of London, England, and they have a son and a daughter.

Fitzhugh Legerton, who will be awarded the honorary doctor of divinity, has been pastor of the Oglethorpe Presbyterian Church since 1950. He has distinguished himself in the work of the Georgia Synod, having served as chairman of its homes and educational institutions committee, 1961-64, and on the board for Atlanta Area Presbyterian Homes.

He was recently named to the permanent committee on theology of the General Assembly, Presbyterian Church, US, and to the board of trustees of Oglethorpe College. Earlier in his career, Legerton was moderator of Atlanta Presbytery, its recording clerk for 11 years, and served as president of the Greater Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association and of the interdenominational North DeKalb Ministers' Association.

Fitzhugh Legerton came to the Oglethorpe pulpit directly from Princeton Theological Seminary, where he received his ThM degree in 1950. He earned his BA from the University of Pennsylvania in 1946, after completing Navy training there, and his bachelor of divinity from Union Seminary in Virignia in 1949.

Mr. McDonald

Rev Legerton

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor | Charles Eagles, Editor | Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Merits Commendation

Students are very quick with criticism of the administration; students should be equally quick with commendation.

The administration should be commended for its part in the production of "The Fantasticks." The administration invested money in the work of an amateur, non-existent Drama Department.

Although there was not a drama professor here this year, the administration assured others, through its support of "The Fantasticks", that PC would have an active drama program.

Appreciation is expressed to the administration.

Friend or Enemy?

"Do not look for rationality within these pages," said the first issue of The Blue Spectre. "We are fighting an irratoinal foe, and one takes on the character of his enemy in battle."

Students should keep in mind the above statement while reading the "sequel to The Blue Stocking."

In some instances the articles appearing in The Blue Spectre are open to serious question as to their factual content. When the factual content is in doubt and the reliability of the irrational Blue Spectre questionable, are the people writing The Blue Spectre any better than their "irrational foe," the administration.

Are the editors of The Blue Spectre guilty of acts similar to the ones they accuse of their foe? Is there "hypocrisy" within the pages of The Blue Spectre? Is there "A Questoin of Integrity" involved in the statements of The Blue Spectre? Is there a "Discrepancy?" in the charges of The Blue Spectre and The Blue Spectre itself?

Once the character of the enemy has been assumed by a friend, what distinguishes friend from enemy?

In future editions of The Blue Spectre perhaps the writers will give the students a more objective picture of events and separte fact from comment. This would help students separate friend from enemy.

Letter to the Editor

Rousey Defends Cut Rules

DEAR EDITOR:

After much thought in a time of stress and confusion, I feel compelled to file a minority opinion about one of the current "Issues." I would like to suggest that the frustrated complaining of students against the faculty's change of the cut system are basically without grounds.

Because of present conditions, it would be beneficial for the student body and faculty to enjoy unity in action and feeling. One way this can be accomplished is for the students to move toward a greater understanding of the faculty's action and a more penetrating self-analysis of our own motives.

The fact is the overall grades of the student body indicated a desperate academic problem. Also there was a correlation between the indiscriminate taking of cuts and the grades of individuals. Therefore action was taken. Perhaps 2.25 was too high a requirement basis for the limitation; but then maybe the faculty is a better judge of this than I.

Actually after nearly two years we, the student body, were not developing responsibility along with freedom in this area. From the nature of many complaints it appears that while hounding for the right to act as adults we are really seeking the carefree existence of childhood. While in college we are deferred from such responsibilities as military service and earning a living.

How many "free cuts" do our fellow adults in these institutions get? Perhaps the student body would do well to quit crying over this issue and realize that the faculty, at least, really cares about the welfare of the students.

Bryson Rousey

Rush Otey, Ass't. Editor

Coed Rats Are Ladies Too?

The past two Rat Seasons for women students have not been as purposeful as they should have been.

To a great extent, Rat Season for women has been no more than a time for several of our more masculine coeds to assert their masculinity over our new arrivals. A "young lady" yelling at the top of her lungs is not a pretty or becoming sight. Actions such as this present a poor image of PC coeds.

There have been humorous incidents which everyone enjoyed, including the butts of the jokes. There have also been incidents connected with ratting of women which have in themselves threatened the very existence of Rat Season for men, a tradition long established and revered long before the advent of coeds.

If one of the purposes of men's Rat Season is to help change a high school boy into a college man, then should not the purpose of women's Rat Season be to help change a high school girl into a college woman? Therefore, different methods must necessarily be employed lest we change high school girls into college men.

Proposed changes for both Rat Seasons stress orientation as an increasingly important aspect. For thewomen this is a step in the right direction towards what such a program should ideally be.

A Rat Season for women should be concerned primarily with acquainting the freshmen coeds with school and dormitory r and traditions, with each other, and w upperclassmen. It is my contention that could be done well without the use of "pi ing" for coeds, mud pies, bags over heads, or athletic events such as food games or tug-of-wars among the coeds.

In order to keep intact the entertain features of women's Rat Season, perha there could be a program produced, direct and performed by the Rats before the en student body. This would enable the fre men coeds to be introduced to the stude body in a more womanly and mature m ner than before, and could also be develop into a highly entertaining event.

Before further plans for women's R Season are completed, it would be wise t the Women's Council and the Women's Co trol Board to study ratting programs of ot women's colleges and to pattern the pr gram here after these instead of after me Rat Season.

There are undoubtedly those who s cry that I am being Victorian and placi women on a pedastal. Perhaps I am expe ing too much, after all.

There will be those coeds who violent oppose any changes in the present syste but ladies, they can only blame themsel when the phrase "Cow Palace" raises ugly head next fall.

It is up to you, o residents of Clint Hall, to be women or men — whichever prefer.

Dipsy-Doodle Test

To Check Your Observations

This test has been prepared by several members of The Blue Stocking staff to test the genius of PC students. To avoid wild guessing you should remember that all wrong answers count 45 points off. All right answers count ½ point.

There is a score range of -720 to a possible plus 8. Anything below 0 is failing. One, some, or all of the suggested answers to a question could be correct.

1. Where do you go for truth?
   - The Blue Spectre
   - Dr. Weersing
   - Wyatt Chapel
2. What is your favorite leisure activity?
   - Chapel
   - Campus movies
   - Bark at the moon
   - ? ? ?
3. What do you consider the most scenic spot in Clinton?
   - Vetville
   - The police station
   - PC trailer park
   - Wall Street
4. Who writes The Blue Spectre?
   - You
   - Me
   - The faculty
   - The Pilgrim
5. What is your favorite magazine?
   - Sky and Telescope
   - Presbyterian Outlook
   - The Watchtower
   - PC Literary Magazine
6. What is your favorite meal at Greenville Hall?
   - Hamburger casserole and potatoes
   - Potatoes and hamburger casserole
   - Hamburger casserole with cheese and potatoes
7. What would you call 96 PC men in a bathtub?
   - Bathing beauties
   - Hamburger casserole
   - The Dead Sea
8. How many professors will return next year?
   - None
   - One
   - All but one
9. What is the big issue on campus?
   - Use of profanity
   - Best interests of the college
   - Playing golf on Sunday
   - God is Dead
10. What is your favorite song PC fight song
    - The Green Berets for Chr
    - Our Lord
    - Cantate Domin—somethi
11. Who are the most effecti people on campus?
    - Sophomore Academic So ety
    - Intramural chairman
    - Long rifles
    - PaC SaC staff
12. How do you let off steam
    - Murder a vending machine
    - Murder a gnome
    - Write a letter to the Edito of the Blue Stocking
    - Throw bottles at the grad
13. Who was the most enlight ening visitor to campus this year?
    - Dr. Henry Bugbee
    - Super N —— or N —— Board of Trustees
    - T.V. repairman.
14. What is your favorite T.V program?
    - G.E. College Bowl.
15. What is your favorite bran of peanut butter?
    - Glove Kid
    - Captain Gogo
    - Skippy (crunchy)
    - Monarch ketchup
16. What are the best reason for having Saturday classes?
    - Something to do
    - One way to sober up
    - Keep people from leaving their cars on weekends
    - Prevent people from makin D's
    - The best interests of the college

Staff

Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Business Manager ..... Robert Gualtieri
News Editor ..... Jim Roberts
Copy Editor ..... Don Flowers
Feature Editors ..... Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Cartoonist ..... Jim Brewer
Contributors ..... Mike Gowere, Mavis Harrop, Gene Sullivan, Dick Query, Mike Simons, Tom Cain
Photographers ..... David Hood and James Howard

Miss Pennington makes a correction on the sign in front of Georgia Hall. She changedPpesident to President.

Eleven High School Seniors Given Founder's Scholarships

Eleven high school seniors from South Carolina, Georiga, Florida, and North Carolina will receive Founder's scholarships for next year at PC. Each scholarship will pay an hononrary stipend up to $1400.00 per year for four year.

The eleven Founder's Scholars for next year are Lyla Ann Boyd from Pendleton, S. C.; Philip Mathems Cheney from Augusta; Linda Jane Corder from Roswell, Ga.; Tommie Noel Ellis from Greenville; Paul Robert Fallaw from Clinton; Nancy Payne Gilmer from Anderson.

Also, Frances Alneida Gregory from Greenwood; Diana Clarles Rice from Williston, S. C.; Pamela Justin Smith from West Hollywood, Florida; James Albert Taylor from Liberty, S. C.; and Carol Saxon Thomas from Glade Valley, N. C.

These competitive awards are based on intellect, leadership, character and need. Preliminary tests were administered at the local high schools to all applicants. A group of Finalists recently visited the campus for interviews and other tests.

The recipients were chosen by a committee made up of faculty and administrative members.

Military Historian and Ga. Minister To Receive Honorary Doctorates

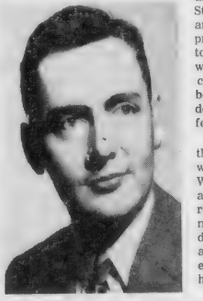
A military historian and a Presbyterian minister, both natives of South Carolina will be awarded honorary degrees at Presbyterian College's 87th commencement exercises on May 14, President Marc C. Weersing announced last week.

They are: Charles B. McDonald, deputy chief historian, Department of the Army, a PC alumnus from Little Rock in Dillon County, to receive the doctor of letters degree; and the Reverend Fitzhugh M. Legerton, Charleston native now serving as pastor of Atlanta's Oglethorpe Presbyterian Church, doctor of divinity.

MacDonald, who received his BA degree from Presbyterian College in 1942, has been on the staff of the office of the chief of military history in the Pentagon since 1948. In his positions as chief of the World War II branch and then as chief of the general histories branch, he supervised the preparation of volumes on World War II, Korea and the German campaign in Russia. He became deputy chief historian last year and recently spent an orientation tour in the Republic of Vietnam in preparation for supervising the writing of the official history of the U. S. Army in Vietnam.

A recognized authority in this field, Charles MacDonald is the author of three volumes of official World War II history. Three other books published commercially are: Company Commander, translated into five languages; The Battle of the Huertgen Forest, one of the "Great Battles of History" series edited by Hanson W. Baldwin; and Europe First: The Oxford History of the United States in World War II in Europe, now in progress for Oxford University Press.

MacDonald gained first-hand knowledge of World War II action through his service as a decorated infantry officer with the 2nd Division in the European Theater. He is married to the former Joyce Barling of London, England, and they have a son and a daughter.



Fitzhugh Legerton, who will be awarded the honorary doctor of divinity, has been pastor of the Oglethorpe Presbyterian Church since 1950. He has distinguished himself in the work of the Georgia Synod, having served as chairman of its homes and educational institutions committee, 1961-64, and on the board for Atlanta Area Presbyterian Homes.

He was recently named to the permanent committee on theology of the General Assembly, Presbyterian Church, US, and to the board of trustees of Oglethorpe College. Earlier in his career, Legerton was moderator of Atlanta Presbytery, its recording clerk for 11 years, and served as president of the Greater Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association and of the interdenominational North DeKalb Ministers' Association.

Fitzhugh Legerton came to the Oglethorpe pulpit directly from Princeton Theological Seminary, where he received his ThM degree in 1950. He earned his BA from the University of Pennsylvania in 1946, after completing Navy training there, and his bachelor of divinity from Union Seminary in Virignia in 1949.

Mr. McDonald

Rev Legerton

Student Opinion Widely Varied About Anonymous 'Blue Spectre'

By JIM ROBERTS
News Editor

A new publication appeared on the campus twice during the past two weeks. Entitled the Blue Spectre its writer or writers and publisher of publishers are unknown. The only clue to the identity of the person or persons publishing the Spectre is that they have access to a mimeograph machine.

The Blue Spectre prints opinionative articles concerning topics which have been widely discussed this semester by those concerned with the college.

Interviews with several students were made after the second edition was distributed last Wednesday. These students were asked to comment generally on the publication.

John Greer: "All it is doing is spouting words. It takes more than words."

Don McNair: "Although I question the degree of maturity which is being shown by the author (s), I think the Blue Spectre reveals in a very interesting way that PC is being prostituted by the powers that be."

Cleve Dobbins: "It is good and bad."

John Griggs: "I think that the Board of Trustees should read it."

Bill Bassham: "It will hurt the students more than it will help. The name of the author (s) should appear on the articles."

Stan Sibley: "I thing it's great, but the author should reveal himself."

Joe Dunlap: "Whoever is putting this paper out has the right to do so, but from a few of the articles I have read, I infer that the author (s) is not presenting the true picture; that is, he has not taiked to both sides. For example, the article on the golf team confused some of the facts."

Jim Brumbelow: "Taking into consideration the situation that is presently confronting P. C. students, it is my opinion that the Blue Spectre is expressing the over-whelming view of the majority of the students here at P.College, and should be looked at with due consideration."

Ronny Colvin: "I like it, but it goes to extremes. I'd like to know who's printing it."

Bryson Rousey: "I think it is hilarious; the anonymity gives it color and serves as great publicity. I don't agree with all its views but I feel that everything written in it could be published openly just as well."

Jerry Mebane: "I sympathize with its views to a great extent, but personally I would not be afraid to sign my name to something controversial. I feel that we can do this without fear at P. C. The administration here does not punish one for his criticism. I do think most of the criticism in the Blue Spectre is justly deserved."

Hugh Reid: "I kind of went along with it, but I think it was a little too emotional."

Gilmer Nix: "What are you talking about — the Blue what?"

Local Baptist Minister Speaks On Drinking Rule on WPPC

Reverend J. D. Stephens of the Friendship Baptist Church in Clinton blasted Rush Otey and the PC student body in a paid religious broadcast on WPCC Sunday March 19 at 1:00. The Reverend Stephens condemned the drinking reform movement by the student body. The following excerpt was taken from the broadcast:

(Editor's Note: In order to reproduce the sermon as closely as possible, the speech is written in the dialect in which it was spoken.)

. . . Well you take all this talk today about the college students being free to drink, have all the premarital relations with the opposite sex and it's alright. It's all right? What about that? Talk about this new morality, this new morality. This day that you can, it just depends on what ever situation you find yourself in. That's all just what ever situation you find yourself in and its backed up with real love there's nothing wrong with it.

I have something that I wanta read. Today's polls show students want change in present drinking rule. Students want changes in present drinking rule. You'd think that that's coming from somt state university wouldn't you. Yould think that that's coming from some heathen land wouldn't you. You might be shocked if I were to tell ya where this was printed. Where it came from.

(Pause)

Here in this paper here, the assistant editor to the Blue Stocking published a Presbyterian College here in Clinton approximately 74% of the students took part in this. 70% of those who participated stated that they consume alkehawl, alkehawlic beverges. Only 12 of the 491 students completing the questionaire felt the present rule is effective.

Only 6 students affirmed that the present rule determined whether they would drink or not. When asked if perenal opinion affected their drinking habits 287 replied that perenal approval makes no difference I'm gonna drink it anyhow. 57% of those answering the questionaire stated that their parents use alkehawl.

225 said that they would report misconduct due to drinking to the judicial court and so that ieft 254 saying that they would not report any misconduct due to drinking du da judicial council report even if their behavir was added to the present rule. And then this assistant editor which is by Rush Otley most PC students drink and they are going to drink no matter what the college rule may be.

(Pause)

Religious School! Step over to Bob Jones University see how many of em make the boast of that an get along with it. I'm not one of their sponsors but I'm sayen that you can't: you can't! have a hard rule and say your gonna have to go by it but we're living in ttat day when we wutha outlaw the rule, we wana go and live like we plese.

Yes (puse) we'r gonna drink its nobody's business an issa shame of how some so called supposed ta be educated young men and young women live today. Yawd think think that they were morons that had never been insidt of a Church or a school from many of our schools today when ya find them gatherin on the beaches and gatherin with their drinken sprees and drinken parties and having BLOW OUTS! Youd think theyd never heard about God nor even education.

Somebody told me yesterday, "well preacher I tell the reason of all this is ignorants people are ignorant they are illiterit," I said no sir! ! I beg your pardon iss not illiteriey thas a cause of it. My nayber you can educate men but educatin um do not get them right. There's some of the greatest fools we've got today is educated fools inthis country.

It is not education, although I thank God for good education to hep men but it is SALVATION that men need today.

AMEN

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's
Men's Shop
— Court Square —

n 'The Fantasticks' stic Performance

EW BY JIM LOYD

The Fantasticks was the culmina- and a delay for illness. The hard -notch production and the illness sure of an evening of fine enter- ne hundred first-nighters.

holds the all-time record for the New York play, enjoyed by ably enjoyed most by those who beyond that road" we call life. ontinue to out-do themselves with ons. Students at P. C. will not for- will anyone who saw it.

tastiks was comparable to any ama- produced this play. This is more iders that no one in the cast has sic makes this play, and the mu- epartment does it justice although ines from the script were lost due weak voices and too loud piano. sic of this production was "fantas- brought out the romantic side of audience. The humorous numbers serious songs evoked thought.

and El Gallo have the leads in nor characters has his moment in cy" of the audience. Tim Hegle- as Luisa and Ray Combs as El oad of difficult music with unbehe audiences will remember the d will better appreciate "Try to a success because the supporting Rick Stall and Sam Hobson were ll as were Danny Brown and Ran- ebee keep the audience in stitches have a field day with soft shoe gh there remained the callow Matt olding hands and singing "Meta-with this production can be as- k has not been in vain and that nt, transform the world.

Tim Helgeson, Randy Ferebebe, and Rick Stall look over script.

Hank Parks on bass and Mr. Gaines on piano provided part of musical acompaniment.

All Photos by J. F. Howard

Combs and Jill Clark practice their lead parts.

Miss Pennington applies makeup to Danny Brown.

Students help Dr. Skinner get stage in order for opening night.

Dr. Skinner gets fired up.

Gene Sullivan, Eddie Bolton, Lilibet Vass.

Desk-top Philosophers Show PC Is Among Nation's Best

According to a reliable source, PC students rank high nationally in the area of desk-top philosophy. Although bathroom walls are relatively clean here (at least the men's rooms are) and the student body is falling behind in this national pastime, much may be learned from examining the works of desk-top philosophers.

In many respects these works are dull and uninteresting. Some of these philosophers show no originality, and their works consist solely of initials, Greek letters of fraternities, and names of young ladies from the shores of Myrtle Beach to the shores of the Mississippi River.

Many alumni will forever be remembered because they left their names on their desks. "Kilroy was here."

Another aspect of the desk-top philosophers is there insistence that almost everything has vacumm - cleaner characteristics. Among these are PC, the administration, all six fraternities on campus, independents or GDI's, Wofford and Davidson, girls' schools, quizzes, certain coeds, certain male students, and various professors.

Apparently most desk-top philosophers use pen-names in their writings. A few notable ones are "Ear," "Cool Tom," "Rughead," "Blowtorch," "Woot," and "Sooty Dog."

Since it is a complete philosophy, much of the desk-toppism is concerned with theology. One prominent philosopher proclaimed that "God is a 100,500 foot jellybean." Another, apparently involved in the quest for the historical Jesus, announced his discovery that "Jesus was a dropout."

A third writer urged active Christianity by use of the slogan "Kill a Commie for Christ."

An unknown member of the evangelical wing urged college students to be more serious-minded — "Wine, Women, Song, Viet Nam." Another predicted the end of the world by flatly announcing that the last time will be 4:00 on Thursday.

Many statements of the popular philosophy are mystical and do not seem to follow a set pattern. "Mickey Mouse is a FAG." "No more land in the West." "Can't we solve our problems among ourselves." "I'm afraid of Virginia Wolfe." "Just because you didn't get a bid.', "In the ear." Hopefully the inner meaning of these mottos will soon be revealed. and there are branches of desktoppism which are fatalistic and which believe that "all is done." Others are moralistic and follow the maxim of "To thine our self be true."

Certain truths of desktoppism are revealed in key single word. A few of these recently discovered are; "Behold," "Violate," "Next."

During a dull class on a spring day, ponder the truths on the top of your desk. They can make class an educational experience.

Examination Schedule

Thursday, May 4	9:00-12:00	Open
	2:00-5:00	Fine Arts
Friday, May 5	9:00-12:00	TTS 12:00
	2:00-5:00	MWF 1:30
Saturday, May 6	9:00-12:00	TTS 11:00
	2:00-5:00	MWF 12:00
Monday, May 8	9:00-12:00	TTS 10:00
	2:00-5:00	MWF 11:00
Tuesday, May 9	*FOREIGN LANGUAGES
Wednesday, May 10	9:00-12:00	TTS 9:00
	2:00-5:00	MWF 9:00
Thursday, May 11	9:00-12:00	TTS 8:00
	2:00-5:00	MWF 8:00

*Detailed time and rooms for Languages will be provided by the Language Department.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler

Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts

103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1028

Honor Council, Control Boards, SEC Appointed by Student Council

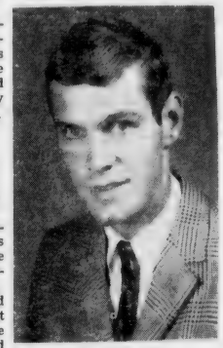
After meeting Wednesday and Thursday nights, the Student Council announced appointments to the Honor Council, the Student Entertainment Committee, and the Freshman Control Boards.

HONOR COUNCIL

Four seniors and five juniors were named to the Honor Council. The senior members of the Honor Council are Carol Tumlinson, Jerry Mebane, Richard Quillen, and Bob Wyrick. Mac Smith was recently elected chairman of the council. Hart Cobb, Sandi Pitchford, John Lown, Rush Otey, and Jimmy Page are the juniors appointed to the Honor Council.

The male members of the new Honor Council will also serve as the men's judicial board.

STUDENT ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE



Dan O'Connell, a rising senior from Spartanburg, was appointed chairman of the Entertainment Committee for next year. Also named to the SEC were Jack Howard, Tony Dendy, Jim Roberts, David Gravely, Alex Erwin, Billy Mills, Peggy Ellison, and Don Matthews.

MEN'S CONTROL BOARD

Eddie Bolton and Gene Sullivan, rising seniors, were appointed co-chairmen of the Men's Freshman Control Board. The eight others chosen for the board were Wayne Robinson, Tommy Campbell, Jack Coward, Art Sammons, Reed Bolick, Charlie Reid, Cleve Dobbins, and Chuck Sharman. Alternates were Andy Barnett, Andy ooper, and Terry Dye.

WOMEN'S CONTROL BOARD

Lilibet Vass, a rising sophomore was chosen chairman of the Women's Control Board. The others chosen are Nan Smith, Lucy Garrett, Deborah Brown, and Ann Ledbetter.

Dan O'Conneli

Letter to the Editor

Lewis on PC Spectres

Dear Editor:

For four years now I have been content to be an average, mediocre college scholar, secure in the knowledge that my duly elected agents were capable of representing me before the Faculty and the Administration, and through influencing these two to ultimately influence the Board of Trustees — that stodgy group of old men whose sole reason for living being apparently to run PC.

Recently however I have been shaken out of my complacency by certain patriots whose undaunted courage allows them to speak out boldly, castigating the Administration and Board of Trustees for darin gto encroach upon the hallowed student perogative of determining by what rules this college shall be run.

But even more worthy of note is the challenge of these dauntless "Spectres" have issued to "Old Plummer" to debate the question of the ultimate aims toward which this college is toward which this college is striving.

Our unknown heroes have in so doing acted very courageously in attacking this thin, wispy man who in his spare time established a home for orphans and a college that these same orphans might be better educated.

It is regrettable that "Old Plummer" is unable to accept their challenge . . . but if he could, our unknown heroes would not be unknown any longer, and everyone knows that wouldn't do.

As all true heroes have shrines erected to them in time, I should like to suggest we get busy and fix one up for our own dauntless crusaders while they are still among us to appreciate our efforts, whoever they may be.

In view of their obvious concern for our spiritual welfare I would suggest that it be located in a convenient corner of Wyatt's providing of course that the hordes of pseudo-religious students who frequent it do not object.

As to the actual composition of the shrine I have little to suggest other then a Budweiser or two, a couple of hamburgers, or maybe one of Harry's specialities. But, then again, do "Spectres" have appetites?

Sincerely,
Kenneth N. Lewis

PC Opens Office For Georgia Synod

Presbyterian College has established a Georgia office in Atlanta, to help service the synod which also supports PC. Dr. Eugene T. Wilson has assumed the position of Georgia representative there on a part-time voluntary basis.

Dr. Wilson, a PC alumnus, recently retired after serving for thirty ytars as pastor of Atlanta's Peachtree Presbyterian Church. He is the newly elected chairman of the Presbyterian College board of trustees. In his work of helping to present the PC program to the churches and individual friends, he maintains an office in the new Presbyterian Center in Atlanta.

Physics Lab Dedicated Last Wednesday

Ceremonies dedicating Presbyterian College's main physics laboratory in memory of John Leonard Franklin, late business and church leader of Atlanta, were held on campus March 29.

A gift of $50,000 from the John and Mary Franklin Foundation of Atlanta established the memorial to perpetuate the name of the man who founded the Audichron Company and headed it until his death in 1961. The instruments he invented provide the automatic time and temperature announcements for telephone customers throughout the country.

AA North Georgia minister early is his career, Franklin and his wife became members of Atlanta's Peachtree Road Presbyterian Church in 1924 and he served as an elder there for 36 years.

Mrs. Franklin was at Presbyterian College for the Friday program. And Dr. Eugent T. Wilson, who served as their Peachtree Church pastor, participated by reviewing John Franklin's life.

PC President Marc C. Weersing presided over the luncheon program, and other participants included: Trustee Chairman Robert M. Vance of Clinton, acknowledging the gift in behalf of the college; John O. McCarty, Audichron president and secretary of the Franklin Foundation board of trustees, responding; and Physics Professor Neil G. Whitelaw, highlighting the physics careers of graduates.

Mrs. Franklin and friend view plaque in Richardson Hall of Science in memory of her husband.

Football Seating Needs Changing

BILL

The PC athletic year is growing to a close but there are still a couple of problems to be solved before next season.

A small problem that has developed into a serious one is the seating of students at home football games. The section now being used has been the same size for several years while the size of the PC student body has grown. The present seating section is not big enough to hold the student body let alone dates or friends visiting for the weekend.

Anyone who is not in the stands well before game time will find himself looking for a place to sit for most of the first quarter. Then you may end up offending some hard paying town people by sitting in the aisle next to them. This has often led to ill feelings between the two groups.

This same problem was faced at Carolina three years ago. University officials solved the situation by moving the student section to the far side of the field. It seems that this is the answer to our problem too.

Instead of being shoved in a small section with poorer field adavntage, the students could be given a larger section in a good section of the field. It would also alleviate any problem between town people and students during games. I hope the athletic department can find means to move the student body next year.

There will still be room for visitors on both sides of the student section and in the old student section.

Another problem that we should face is that of the cheerleaders. It is a shame that a stigma has been attached to being a PC cheerleader. There are several boys on campus who are capable from prior experience in high school but will not try out. I think the student body might support the cheerleaders more if they had a hand in selecting them in perhaps a chapel.

It would also be beneficial if the new cheerleaders could go to a cheerleaders camp or school this summer to have some professional help in planning their program. To be truthful, I don't think it has been effective at all since I've been here. And at times it has been more of a farce. Many times the really spirited cheers are started by the members of the student body rather than the cheerleaders who tend to think we are all beautiful tenors who can sing any cheer.

A noisy student body is very beneficial to a team as any member of the football or basketball team will tell you. A simple yell that is familiar to all will easily accomplish this purpose.

If the student body would not label a person going out for cheerleader a fool and instead support them, PC might have some cheerleaders to be really proud of. If nothing is changed, it will be the same thing next year of laughing at our cheerleaders or making jokes about them to our dates. Then when a cheer is needed it will start from the student body which is usually spread throughout the stands. Will you support a change? If so please let the Blue Stocking know so something can be followed up to change the situation.

A final word connected with school spirit is due after the contest to name the PC mascot was announced today. I hope all students will support this contest since it is their mascot and idea in co-operation with the Walter Johnson Club. If the student body gets behind this project the new look in PC spirit can be something that we can all be truly proud of.

The above section of this article was written last week before the new cheerleaders were elected. The same still holds true though. I do sincerely hope that the new cheerleaders can improve and that perhaps the suggestion for a cheerleader school can become a reality.

More cooperation and help from the Student Government Association is needed. The students and the cheerleaders could also help the situation by working more closely with each other. Something must be done.

PC Tennis Team Takes 8-5 Record Into Return Match With Georgia

By MIKE SIMONS

The Presbyterian College netters take an 8-5 record into a week of tough tennis action, highlighted by a return bout Monday with the University of Georgia, at Clinton.

PC journeys to Davidson tomorrow for a match with the Wildcats. Thursday the Blue Hose embark on a trip to North Carolina for matches with Wake Forest, Duke, and University of North Carolina.

Georgia defeated the Hose 7-2 earlier in the season. Coach Jim Shakespeare noted that it could easily have been 5-4 because most of the matches were very close.

CITADEL MATCH

Despite a few recent injuries, the Hose netmen fared well last week, winning all three of their matches. An 8-1 win over state rival The Citadel started the week's action. In the match Robbie Hibbits pulled a muscle in his singles match. Hibbits did not play Tuesday but was back in action Wednesday.

ROBBIE HIBBITS

VICTORY OVER HARVAR

One Tuesday the Hose defe a touring Harvard Univer squad 6-3. The Hose sweep three doubles matches splitting the singles. The three men for PC were vic ous. Jim Amaya and Ho Letzring won easily, and La Connelly had a little more d culty but won in three sets

John Amaya played in number six position and in n ber three doubles due to Hibb injury.

EAST CAROLINA MATCH

Against East Carolina Wednesday, the Hose swept doubles and singles en route a 9-0 shellacking of the Pirat Hibbits returned to the lin but Larry Connelly laid John Amaya again played n ber six and won 6-0, 6-1. Hibb was the only Hose singles p er whose match went the three sets, winning 1-6, 6-4, while nursing his pulled mus Hibbits sat out the doub play, and Jim Cassady took place. Cassady teamed w Letzring to win 6-2, 6-3.

After the Harvard match te captain Larry Connelly was h ly optimistic about the outl for the rest of the season. C nelly commented, "I have b pleased with our play so far t season and we should impr even more.

"We are looking a lot bet especially in doubles, and should finish the season succe fully."

Football Grants Given to 11 for '6

After having football tryo for several weekends since e December, head football Co Cally Gault and his staff h given football scholarships to t eral high school seniors for n year's season.

From South Carolina, PC given scholarships to seven pl ers. Clinton High's Francis C per and Henry Simmons, h 5' 9", 150 lb. halfbacks, head backfield candidates, while t Clenaghan High's Frankie Ba a 6' 2" 230 lb. tackle, leads lineman candidates for next ye At the quarterback position, has recruited 5' 10" 145 lb. McNeill of Lower Richland Hi School in Columbia. Other li men include: Bill Tate, 5' 9" lbs., from Allendale; Rowla McLaughlin, 5' 10" 207 lbs., fr Florence; and Robert Hix, 6' 1

From Georgia PC has recru ed three players. The linem candidates are Andre Bruye 5' 11" 185 lbs. from New County and Steve Skein, 6' 206 lbs. from Decatur. The ba field candidate is Elliott Pe a 5'9" 163 lb. quarterback, fr Workington, Georgia.

From Silver Springs, Ma land, the Blue Hose have recru ed Pete Colie, a 6' 1" 209 lb. ta le. Other players are still be sought, however, by the coachi staff, but academic performan will decide whether several pla ers will come to Presbyterian

Before the recruiting start this winter, the staff particular wanted defensive backs, en and linemen. Since early winte however, the coaches have b to look for the better ballplaye regardless of their postions, a hope they will fit in at any p sition if a change is necessary

Walter Johnson Club Has Contest to Name PC Mascot

A contest to name the new PC mascot was announced today by Walter Johnson Club president Claude Crocker. The costest is open to all PC students with a prize from the Walter Johnson Club being awarded to the winner. Entrees should be turned into the Blue Stocking room in Douglas House.

The idea for a PC mascot was first started in sports stories in The Blue Stocking. The Student Council followed with research to find the origin of the term Blue Hose. President Bob Warren asked the Walter Johnson Club for their support early this year. The result was David Templet at Homecoming this year.

A printed symbol is now being used on all athletic stationery as well as Walter Johnson Club stationery. Copies have also been printed which are suitable for framing and are on sale at the athletic department.

Claude Crocker commenting on the contest had this to say. "This idea was the students and we are anxious to have them name it. This is a characterization of the long famous PC spirit and we are hoping for student identification with the mascot."

Intramural basketball champions, the faculty team poses after defeating the PIKA's Thursday night. Kneeling are Creel, Stallworth, Burnside, and Nixon; standing are Marr, Waters, Musselman, cunningham, and coach Chapman.

PC Trackmen Win Second; Defeat Appalachain 78-56

By TONY DENDY

The Presbyterian trackmen, fresh from an 85-81 romp over St. Andrews, dominated the running events while edging Appalachian State Teachers College 78-68 in a dual meet Wednesday at Boone, N. C. This was the second consecutive win for the Blue Hose and their first in Carolinas Conference competition. Dan Eckstein paced the Hose as he won the 100 and 200 yd. dashes and ran one leg of the victorious 440 relay team.

100 yd. dash — Eckstein (PC), Austin (A), McNair (PC), 10.2

220 yd. dash — Eckstein (PC), Cooper (A), Austin (A), 23.3

440 yd. dash — Cooper (A), McCallum (PC), Greer (PC), 52.3

880 yd. run — Challen (PC), Kennedy (A), Lown (PC), 2:02

Mile Run — Milligan (PC), Little (PC), Jenkins (PC), 4:52

Two MMile Run — Jenkins (PC), Milligan (PC), Childress (A) 10:50

High Hurdles — Mayhem (A), Reed (PC), Thompson (PC), 15.8

Intermediate Hurdles — Mayhem (A), Reed (PC), Thompson (PC) 40.4

440 Relay — PC (Eckstein, McNair, Bowles, McCallum), 45.2

Pole Vault — Hope (PC), Linn (A), McClary (PC), 11' 6"

High Jump — Reed (PC), Walther (PC), 5' 10'.

Broad Jump — Austin (A), McNair (PC), Bowles (PC), 20' 7"

Shot Put — Bush (PC), Kennedy (A), Ammer (A), 42'

Discus — Appalachian (?), 133' 4"

Javelin —Mance (A), Cosby (PC), Bush (PC), 153' 3'.

Triple Jump — Mayhem (A), Crozino (A), Reed (PC), 41' 2"

Mile Relay — Appalachian, 3:34

Winless PC Baseballers Face Five Tough Teams

By MIKE SIMONS

Five games, including two doubleheaders, highlight baseball action for Presbyterian this week as the Hose attempt to improve on an 0-5 record under the tutelage of Art Musselman and Jimmy Elliott.

Tomorrow PC travels to Misenheimer, N. C. for a pair of games against Pfeiffer, then to Hickory, N. C. on Tuesday for a twin-bill against Lenoir Rhyne. They will return home for a single game Friday against Wofford.

The Hose have had rough sledding so far this season, finding it difficult to combine both hitting and fielding at the same time. In the home opener against Guilford, the Hose lost 9-2 and 19-0. In the first game nine PC errors helped Guilford to score the same number of unearned runs off ace-hurler George Lindsay.

Lindsay has been the mainstay of the Hose mound corps for the last two years and currently stands 0-3 on the season, with a quite respectable earned-run average. Rad Free has been the other starter, with Bob McBee, Paul Ferguson, Robert Hackie and Free pitching in relief.

Hitting has been a weak spot for the Hose as they have been unable to come up with the big base hit when they needed it.

The infield is fairly well set, with Gene Robbins at first, Charlie Breedlove at second, Robin Williams at short and Larry Bullie at the hot corner with Mike Thurston catching. Hackie is in center, flanked by Bobby Byard in right and Charlie Chapman in left.

Hackle has been the main offensive force for PC, aided by Williams and McBee, the latter rapping a double against Guilford for the Hose's only extra base hit of the game.

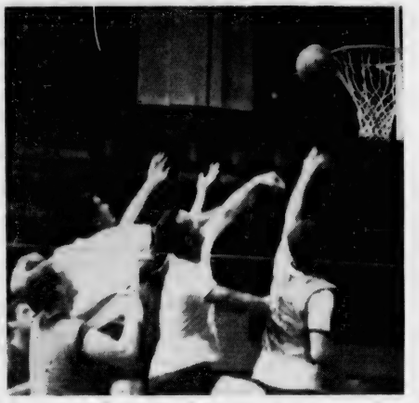
April Sports Spotlight

8—Tennis—Davidson College ..... Davidson, N. C.
8—Baseball—Pfeiffer College ..... Misenheimer, N. C.
10—Golf—University of Georgia ..... Clinton
10—Tennis—University of Georgia ..... Clinton
11—Baseball—Lenoir Rhyne College ..... Hickory, N. C.
11—Track—High Point., Pembroke Col., ... High Point, N. C.
13—Tennis—Wake Forest College ..... Winston-Salem, N. C.
14—Tennis—University of North Carolina ..... Chapel Hill, N. C.
14—Baseball—Wofford College ..... Clinton
14-15—Golf—State Intercollegiate Tournament ..... Hampton, S. C.
15—Tennis—Duke University ..... Durham, N. C.
15—Track—Wofford College, Mars Hill College ..... Spartanburg

Musselman Leads Faculty to Crown With 54-45 Victory Over PiKA's

By GENE SULLIVAN

A strong Faculty Five survived a tense PiKA effort to take the intramural basketball trophy for 1966 - 1967. Buddy Protinsky led a late PiKA rally, but it fell short under clutch shooting by Dr. Burnside. Art Musselman again headed all scorers. This was the second PiKA loss this year, both coming at the hands of the Faculty. Second place went to the PiKA's this season.



The Sigma Nu's edged the Bandits 54-50 in the consolation game behind hot outside shooting by Howard Higgins. After star guards Vin Atkinson and Mike Thurston fouled out, the Bandits lost their touch to finish in fourth place in the overall standings.

In fifth place are the KA's who lost their first round game to the Sigma Nu's 51-45. Following them are the Pushers who sustained a first round loss to a strong Faculty surge 61-50. Seventh position goes to Vetville who came on strong and hot during the latter part of the season. The last position is occupied by the Theta Chi's who had a small scrappy team but couldn't get the big rebounds.

For his fine all around effort at coaching, and his ability to come through with clutch recruiting, W. F. Chapman has been named "Coach of the Year" by Blue Stocking sports casters.

Plans are now underway for the annual swimming meet to be held next Wednesday. The track meet will be held after federal inspection the following Thursday Softball competition should begin Monday.

The PiKA's lead the overall standings by a mere twenty-five points over the Bandits. The Bandits won football and placed fourth in basketball. The PiKA's placed second in both sports.

Musselman drives through the Bandits for a lay-up. Defending are Ferdie Jourdan, Johnny Bankhead, and Mike Thurston. The Faculty won.

Prepare For State Meet

Golfers to Play Georgia at Lakeside

The Presbyterian College golf team has an important match on Monday with Georgia at Lakeside Country Club before heading to Hampton next weekend for the South Carolina Collegiate Golf Tournament.

DAVID SALE

Earlier this week the golf team pushed its season record to 8-1 with an impressive tri-match win over Wofford and Furman at the Terriers home course. Team captain David Sale was the match medalist with a 70. PC's only loss of the season came to South Carolina in Columbia.

The Blue Hose will have their greatest competition in the state tournament coming from Carolina and Wofford. Each team will play six men with the top four scores being counted. The score is kept by total team score. PC defeated Wofford last year in a sudden death playoff.

The team is composed of three juniors, two sophomores, and two freshmen this season with David Sale serving as captain.

The Blue Hose defeated MIT and Illinois in a tri-match on Monday with David Salie being the medalist with a score of 71. The Blue Hose then defeated the Illinois in a dual match on Tuesday with Tim Yancey being the medalist with a 70.

PC has only two more matches left before the state tournament in which the Blue Hose are defending champions. The tournament will be held in Hampton on the 14th and 15th of April.

Coach Gerry Wells said, "I think the team is coming along fast this season and has an excellent chance at repeating as state champs."

Campus News Briefs

Dr.C.R.Smith Speaks

DR. SMITH

Dr. C. Ralston Smith, director of development for "Christianity Today," religious periodical, will speak to the Presbyterian College student body next Wednesday morning.

"He Fell Asleep in Church" will be the subject of his 10 a. m. address in Belk Auditorium. The public is invited.

Before joining the religious magazine last year, Dr. Smith was for 18 years pastor of the Oklahoma City First Presbyterian Church. He earlier served the Pine Street Church of Harrisburg, Pa. The call to the ministry came after he had spent more than four years with the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company in hometown Philadelphia.

Dr. Smith received his BA degree from Asbury College in 1934, his ThB from Princeton Theological Seminary, and was awarded an honorary DD by the College of the Ozarks.

BROADWAY Theatre

FRIDAY
"A Hip Country Boy Crashes The Swingin College Crowd"
C'MON, LET'S LIVE A LITTLE
Bobby Ve,, Jackie Deshannon, The Pair Extraordinaire
3:15, 5, 7 nd 9 p. m.

SATURDAY ONLY
WILD WILD WINTER
1, 3, 5, 7 and 9 p. m.

MON. - WED. April 10-12
"GAMBIT"
3:15, 5, 7 nd 9 p. m.

Coming April 13
"Bullwhip Griffin"

Chapel Schedule

Moday — To be announced

Wednesday — Worship Service, Dr. C. Ralston Smith, Director of Development for the inter - denominational weekly, "Christianity Today"

Friday — Administration, pre-registration for fall semester.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

THE GREEKS...

Spring Swing Coming Up

The Interfraternity Council elected officers for next year on Wednesday afternoon. Rusty Tatum (Theta Chi) was elected president; Pat Stogner (Pi Kappa Alpha) was elected vice-president; Hart Cobb (Sigma Nu) was elected secretary-treasurer. They have already begun work on rush season for next year, which will probably extend from ten days after Rat Season until Nov. 17, with no "hands off" period included. Rusty hopes to strengthen the IFC for next year and has plans in mind which include revision of the present constitution and an IFC rush booklet for the freshmen. With six fine representatives from the fraternities, the new officers are looking forward to unifying and strengthening the fraternity system on our campus.

SIGMA NU

The Sigma Nu's elected officers last week. Congratulations to Bobby Staton, Commander; Andy Cooper, Lt. Commander; Alex Erwin, Secretary; and John Benson, Treasurer. The Sig basketballers defeated a tenacious KA team in the basketball tournament, but lost in the semi-finals to the PiKA's. Plans are underway to add on to the house; work hopefully begins next week.

White Star was a complete success coupled with a Saturday afternoon jaunt to the Cup. Brother Billy Mills is pinned to Miss Greer Brooks; Brother Tom Baumgardner is lavaliered to Miss Martha Crawford, and Brother Phil Ward is pinned to Miss Tommie Ann Johnson.

Holbrook Raynal is lavaliered to Mary Means of Winthrop and Bobby Staton is lavaliered to Merry Jordan of Columbia College. David Gravely still has a good crop of cobwebs in his mail box.

THETA CHI

New Theta Chi officers are: Jerry Mebane, President; Gordon Wilson, Vice President; Mike LeFever, Secretary; Terry Alexander, Chaplain; Richard Galloway, Treasurer. Jerry Mebane says that after driving six hundred miles, coeds are still the best dates. Pledge Doug Bowles is glad that he will be able to wear his fire chief hat Spring Swing Weekend. Congratulations are in order for Bill Scott for getting the Fraternity paper out. The Hilt. Terry Alexander is the newest Theta Chi Brother.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

The Alpha Sig's would like to congratulate o newest Brother, Ray Combs. Plans are set f Spring Swing, with the "Soul Kings" entertaining Saturday night. Brothers of the Week a Ray Combs who is lavaliered to Miss Cin Thompson of Clinton Hall and Dan Crisp, wh has recently pinned Miss Allison Ramseur a Wesleyan College.

KAPPA ALPHA

The Kappa Alpha's report that pledge trainin is being completed with brotherhood initiation sceduled for some time in April. The KA's hel an Easter Egg Hunt at Thornwell prior to th holidays. New IFC representative is Butch Tuc There is a rumor out that Tim Yancey has a package coming in the mail from Winthrop Tough luck, Pear! Congratulations to Alex Ba ton who is engaged to Miss Nancy Stump of Wi throp. New KA officers are I — Joe Dunlap, I — Shep Marsh, III — Mike Coulon, IV — Joh Gaw, V — Bill Bassham, VI — Louis Hart, V David Berry, VIII — Bud McNeese, and I Al Wilson.

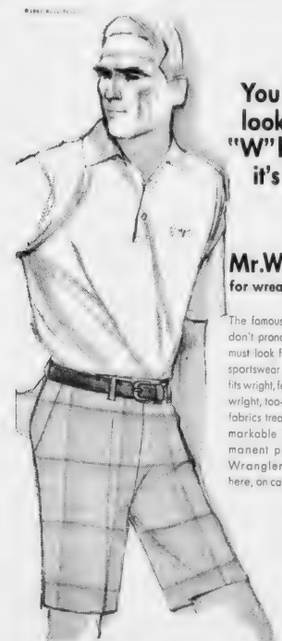
PI KAPPA ALPHA

The traditional Easter Egg Hunt for the chil ren at Thornwell was held the Thursday before holidays, and was greatly enjoyed by both t children and the Brothers. The bar stools a finally here and they are high enough for t bar. "Roman Holiday" was held last week en at Lake Greenwood. The afternoon party wa capped with the annual "chicken fight," whic was a tremendous success this year. For detai of the fight, see either Pat Burton or Ansley Sc ville. Pledge Stan Kemp had an "exciting a experience" thanks tot "Tricky" and "Daniel Brothers of the Week are Ted Chalgren, wh pinned Miss Betty Bean of Columbia, and Jo Singleton who has become engaged to Miss B Thompson.

PI KAPPA PHI

From the Pi Kap's, "The Impalas" will pla for the Saturday night party of Spring Swin The party will be held at the Moose Lodge i Joanna. New officers are president — Lar McLaughlin; secretary — Dan Roberts; trea surer — Dave Austin; historian — Jack Phillip warden — Don Taylor; chaplain — Jack Aver pledgemaster — Andy Barnett; IFC represent tive — David Templeton.

The World Is a Spaceship Cont'd from p. 1 - col. 4



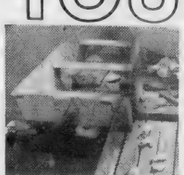
ward which now flow uselessly into the Arctic Ocean, or by using nuclear power and by converting sea water into fresh water. More water is needed to irrigate lands to produce more food for the world population, which will double by the turn of the century.

Striking a sobering tone, the physicist-theologian prophesied that even with advancing technology the human race cannot avoid "the most awful catastrophe of history. By 1970 famines involving the death of up to one hundred million people will strike India, Pakistan and China . . . By the 1980's there will be famines all over the world except North America."

Dr. Pollard predicted that these harsh conditions would naturally result in vast political and spending millions on a space race, we will be economic changes around the world. Instead of forced to spend money on producing food and water.

In conclusion Dr. Pollard spoke of another step to come in human evolution, with emphasis to be placed on the social and sociological aspect of life rather than on the individual. He commented, "This change will come out of suffering and agony and will not be planned; it will be wrought out of the terror of the last part of this century. It will require the greatest effort of all human history.

Dr. Pollard ended on a note of realistic optimism. "This will be both a great and terrible age, a challenge to those who have faith and courage, a great opportunity to contribute to the future of mankind . . . When man came into existence 35,000 years ago, it was inevitable that this particular species would completely fill and subdue the earth to its purposes. Man exercises his dominion as thoroughly as the crew of a space ship. That is the key to the twentieth century."



You have to look for the "W" because it's silent.

Mr.Wrangler®
for wreal sportswear.

The famous silent "W": you don't pronounce it, but you must look for it if you want sportswear that looks wright, fits wright, feels wright. Made wright, too—many in no-iron fabrics treated with the wremarkable Wranglok® permanent press finish. Mr. Wrangler sportswear is here, on campus, in your size.

Belk's Dept. Store
Clinton, S. C.

Every litter bit hurts YOU

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL
Published as a public service in co operation with The Advertising Council

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 14, 1967 — No. 19

Inspecting officer closely looks over cadet's trusty M1 rifle during yesterday's federal inspection. Looking on are Jim Bruce, left, and Grady Marshall, Battalion Commander, right.

Students Get Positions On Faculty Committees

Non-Voting Representation

In its regular monthly meeting last week, the faculty approved students on a number of faculty committees. The students' representatives will serve in a non-voting capacity.

Beginning next fall, students will regularly meet with the following faculty committees: Absence, Student Activities, Religious Activities, Fraternities, Athletics, and Lectures and Entertainment.

At the discretion of the committee chairman, student representatives may be excluded from an executive session of the committee.

The procedure for appointing the student representatives has not been completely formalized. Now under consideration is a plan by which the representatives will be nominated by the Student Council. The nominees will come from within the Student Government Association. The nominations will be given to the faculty Committee on Appointments for submission to the President of the college in accordance with the by-laws of the faculty.

The action of the faculty culminates many months of work and study on the part of the Student Government Association and the faculty. Study of the possibilities of students of faculty committees began in the administration of Henry Lovett, president of the student body in 1965-1966.

Further study and work was done this year by the student council under the direction of President Bob Warren, and later, President David Berry. Bobby Staton has been in charge of recent Student Council activity in this area.

In the past student leaders have been able to appear before faculty committees only upon the request of the committee.

Newberry Professor

Cooper: Man Has Created His Own God

By DON McNAIR

PC's guest chapel speaker on Monday of this week was Dr. John Cooper of Newberry College. Dr. Cooper participated in the PC Human Relations Club's seminar on the "Death of God" theology, and has recently published a book on this subject.

Cooper remarked that each generation of man creates a God in its own image—gods are born, live, and die with every age of man. We are each living the death of the previous generation's God; "what happens to one ultimately happens to the other." He stated further that the God cast in the middle-class tradition of today is dead, for this "God" no longer has meaning.

According to Cooper, mankind is entering an era in which the old "supernatural," concepts of God and the dualistic concepts of theology are no longer relevant. Humanity is coming to the realization that its existence must be understood in terms of its present life-situation and not in terms of a laying up of treasures in heaven.

This realization is accomplished by action. Modern man demands that he be left alone to develop his own capabilities. In light of this, Cooper says, the Church cannot sustain itself and will be dissipated unles there is a radical change and a movement away from dogmatism and a spiritualism based on ancient Greek concepts.

Cooper stressed heavily the opinion that man must be a responsible creature within the concepts of radical theology. He also expressed concern that there must be an inward movement toward elemental piety and a new "mysticism." This new holiness must be free of Puritanical morality, for "holiness is not a moral function."

Two New Biology Professors Join PC Faculty for 1967-68

Two professors will join the PC biology department next fall, Dean Joseph M. Gettys announced Wednesday. They are Dr. James D. Stidham and Miss Jane P. Holt. They will work with the returning professors Dr. A. B. Stump and Mr. F. W. Harrison.

DR. STIDHAM

Dr. Stidham, now engaged in post-doctoral work at the University of Miami's Institute of Marine Science, will come as an associate professor of biology. He has been working since last September on a National Institute of Helath fellowship in marine biology.

After receiving his BS from Milligan College in 159, Dr. Stidham had earned his MS and PhD from the University of Tennessee.

A Tennessee native, Dr. Stidham has taught at Maryville College and also served as a teaching and research assistant while doing graduate work. His wife holds a doctorate in educational psychology from the University of Tennessee.

MISS HOLT

Miss Jane P. Holt will serve as an assistant professor of biology. She received a BS from Montreat College and an MS from Emory University. Her specialty is embryology.

She has taught for two years at Peace College and since 1957 has taught at Catawba College. She has done summer work at the University of Oregon, the University of Louisville, and the University of Minnesota.

Class Officer Elections Monday VOTE!

Fabulous Five Play Without Tams; Dance, Concert, Parties to Come

The first PC Spring Swing weekend started on a sour note. The internationally known famous Tams, who are locally infamous for their habit of not showing up for contracted engagements, lived up to many expectations by not appearing for the dance last night in Greenville Hall.

The evening was not a total loss, however, as Bob Collins and the Fabulous Five performed excellently for the student body and its guests. The Fabulous Five were supposed to back up the Tams. The performance apparently appeased the student body, which was in high spirits both before and after it was announced that the Tams were not to appear.

Tonight the Dynamics Shanteles from Burlington, N. C., will provide the music for a semi-formal dance to be held in Greenville Hall from 8:00 to midnight.

Tomorrow afternoon the Dixie Cups will be in concert from 3:00 until 5:00. This concert will probably be held in Belk Auditorium if the expected rainy weather should arrive. Otherwise, the concert will be held in front of Richardson Science Hall on the East Plaza as previously announced.

Saturday night the six social fraternities will have individual parties.

The Fabulous Five's drummer was able to perform even though there was not adequate light for the photographer.

Stribling and Erwin Elected To Head PaC SaC Staff

In Monday's student body election, Sarah Stribling was elected editor and Alex Erwin business manager of the 1968 PaC SaC. Both candidates were unopposed, but there were several write-ins.

Miss Stribling is an English major from Atlanta. She is a rising senior and worked on the PaC SaC staff last year.

The new business manager, Alex Erwin, is a Sigma Nu from Laurinburg, N. C. He is a rising senio rand an English major. He has served in several capacities on the Blue Stocking staff.

Several staff positions for next year's annual were announced yesterday by Editor Stribling. Mac Smith will serve as asistant editor and Jerrw Mebane will be the senior class editor.

Class editor Susan Smith will be assisted by Joy Glenn, Ann Harwell, and Annette Riddle.

Robin Williams will work as organizations editor. Mike Simons will serve as Williams' assistant. Bobby Staton will be the fraternity editor.

The feature editor will be Don Matthews. Military editor will be Cliff Shefield. Don McNair will be the faculty editor.

The sports section will be handled by Danny Wyatt. He will be assisted by Tommy Greer. The student photographer will be David Hood.

Commenting on the new staff, Miss Stribling said, "The staff is well-balanced with several rising sophomores and juniors taking key positions. Most of the members have had previous experience on annuals."

1967 Annual Giving Has Record Goal

An ambitious goal of $125,000 is the target for PC's Annual Giving program, Alumni and Public Relations Director Ben Hay Hammet, announced this week.

He said the new record goal compares to the $113,813 mark established by the program last year. In setting the 1967 objective, the alumni board of directors will aim to secure $65,000 from alumni, $45,000 from friends, and $15,000 from non-alumni parents attending PC.

Hammet pointed out that since 1959, the Annual Giving program has produced a total of $563,326 for PC. The contributions have come from almost ten thousand individual gifts.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor — Charles Eagles, Editor — Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Although It Is Slow

The placement of student representatives on certain faculty committees next year is truly a giant step toward better relations between the student body and the faculty. Although progress in this area was somewhat slow in coming, the fact is that it did come. This is cause for encouragement.

It is hoped that these representatives will effectively speak for the students concerning matters that closely affect the students. It is also hoped that the faculy committees will listen to the students' ideas and give them due consideration.

Proctors For Whom?

The student proctors for the coming year will be appointed in the coming weeks. It is now an appropriate time to clarify the duties and the responsibilities of the proctors in relation to the Student Government Association and the Administration.

At the present time the line of authority in which the proctors operate is hazy at the very best. The proctors now serve two masters: the Administrative Assistant and the Dean of Students through the head proctor, and the Student Government.

Because the proctors are hired and paid by the Administration, they are responsible to it. The proctors are also students and, therefore, are responsible to the Judicial Boards and the Honor Council.

In many instances the proctors could rightfully report student misdemeanors to either of the two sets of authorities. This ambiguity of responsibility often causes the proctors to be uncertain as to what action to take.

If the students are to have student government, it seems reasonable that the proctors should be directly responsible to the Judicial Boards and the Honor Council. By placing the proctors in a more definite position under the one authority their responsibilities would be clarified, and the organization of the student government strengthened.

Alex Erwin, Ass't. Editor

Let's Have 'Wonderful' Saturday

"One of the biggest challenges facing undergraduate education," says Dean John Stephens of Atlanta's Emory University, "is to give students 'an incentive to educate themselves.' Emory thinks it has the answer to the challenge: 'Creative Wednesday,' during which there are no classes or student activities, leaving the school's 2,187 undergraduates free to unwind, read, study, take up hobbies, or just catch up on their sleep."

The preceding quote was taken from the April 14 issue of "Time." Dean Stephens continued to elucidate by giving statistical evidence that "Wonderful Wednesday" has paid off at Emory. Teachers reported that classroom attendance had improved; professors felt that the new program forced them to improve their lectures.

Emory University employs the quarter system —a quarter system that entails a four-day week and not a five-day week. PC is on a semester system that presently operates on a six-day week. Next year PC students will not have an opportunity to schedule their classes to avoid Saturday classes.

I do not advocate a "Wonderful Wednesday" for PC, but the Time account does lend support to a revision of the recent decision by the Board of Trustees.

If Emory can satisfactorily operate an a four-day week, it seems logical to assume that PC can function equally well on a five-day week.

The students are not my only concern. Faculty members are equally adversely affected by required Saturday classes. Few professions today engage in six-day weeks. Company employees and skilled workmen seldom work more than five days and are usually compensated sufficiently for overtime.

The seventy-hour week has passed—except i college students and professors.

As exams are nearing, the prospective student should carefully review the steps required to make an "A". The following artic appeared in the Tennessee Oracle and was printed in Pageant Magazine. "Ten Ways to G Through College Without Even Trying."

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippin dealing with his subject. If you can't find cl pings dealing with his subject, bring in any cl pings. He thinks everything deals with his su ject.

2. Look alert; take notes eagerly. If yo must look at your watch, don't stare at it unb lievably and shake it.

3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How True To you, this seems exaggerated. To him it quite objective.

4. Sit in front near him (applies only if yo intend to stay awake). If you're going to all t trouble to make a good impression, you might well let him know who you are.

5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell; if h looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly he has told a joke.

6. Be sure the book you read during the le ture looks like the book from the course. If yo do math in psychology class and psychology a math class match the books for size and color.

8. Ask for outside reading. You don't hav to read it, just ask.

9. Ask any questions you think he can answer Also, avoid announcing that you have an answe to a question he could not answer, and in you little brother's second grade reader, at that.

10. Agree with his views. If he is a staun Republican, refrain from asking him why th Democrats have won so many elections.

Terrible Calamity Beseiged College

By KAREN WEAVER
Feature Editor

Last week the campus of an isolated southern college was beseiged by so terrible a calamity that its inhabitants remain even now in a state of incredulous amazement and horrification.

Presbyterian College, an exclusive and rigorous private institution, is inhabited by a core of wealthy, intellectual young adults who retire each September from their respective families to exclude outside society and diligently study classical and scientific teachings. They emerge every nine months for a three-month interlude, to report to their parents and continue independent research in their fields.

Until last week, this renowned but secluded campus was the intellectual Utopia of the southern United States. The only splash in this lake of peaceful endeavor was the occasional disagreement of a student with his professor over a minor scientific or theological point.

Now all is changed, and only with time will the disarrayed pandimonium be restored to tranquility.

It was Thursday of last week. The scholars had returned from partaking of their midday fare, and had closed themselves in their cloisters for the afternoon's perusal of ancient books of learning. The only sound outside Bailey archive was the humming of bees and the rustling of new leaves in the fragrant spring breeze.

Suddenly the shadow of a hulking form appeared in a side door, blocking the sun's rays and causing a chill in the marble hall. Breathing heavily, the unknown creature stumped down the deserted corridor, peering through tiny red eyes at the room numbers.

Eventually he stopped at a door, and, turning the knob with a clumsy paw, swung the door open. The two students at their desks were bent in silent concentration, and were at first oblivious to the intrusion.

As the monster tried to focu his eyes, for he was apparently seeing two images of the same boy, an equally malforme shape appeared behind him. On of the boys, alerted to danger by some sixth sense, turned t rest his eyes on the snorting monstens — Grendal and hi mother could not have presented so loathsome a spectacle or a pungent an odor of swamp wate as these two hairy creatures.

One monster, peering stupidly at a student, advanced toward him, while its odorous compan ion held the other boy pinned to his cair.

For the next few minutes th only sounds to be heard were th sickening thuds of flesh against flesh and the labored grunts o the monster.

When these sounds subsided all that remained was a pool o blood encircling the form of on student kneeling silently over hi prostrate brother.

The injured boy, after tossing feverishly on his pallet for sleepless days and nights, is recovering from his wounds and is ex pected to regain his health eventually.

The students' panic and intense speculation have gradually decreased, and their desire for revenge has given way to pity for the twisted mind of the creature whose agony drove it to release its tortured conflicts on an in nocent boy.

Intellectual pursuit continues today in this isolated inhabitation, but the serenity that formerly pervaded campus life has been replaced by an unspoken uneasines that chills the peace loving hearts of the dedicated students and professors, who fearful of letting down their guards for an instant, search the evening shadows and sti nights for signs of the return of a maligned and murderous sav age.

College Library Is Full of Poems

By DICK WOLFSIE
The Collegiate Press Service

Washington, D. C. — Last month I had nothing to do so I stormed into the library, approach the desk, and yelled, "I hate this place, and I want to blow up the whole building.'

The librarian was calm and collected. "You'll have to fill out a card," she said.

This experience has caused me to question the sanity not only of the library, but the entire University. Yesterday I went to the circulation desk and filled out a card for the "Holy Bible." For the author, I combined humor with exactness and wrote down, "God."

The librarian quickly returned the card with an appropriate scowl and said, "Whatya think this is, a game? You forgot the first name and middle initial."

Sometimes, in a moment of weakness, I use the Xerox machine (The "X' stands for—excuse me, I'm broken again). One day, after printing three thousand VARSOTY INN,' and two thousand 1965 calendars, I decided to try my luck, once more, at the circulation desk.

You will find, if you go to the library enough, that a book you are looking for is not "out." More often it will be in the bindery, lost, in the reserve room, or just playing it cute.

Last week I tried to take out a book, and the librarian gave me a card that said, "BOOK LOST, WILL TRACE." I never knew what that meant, until I accidentally stumbled into the head librarian's office and saw him sitting on the floor with ten rolls of tissue paper—tracing a book.

Yesterday I went to the periodical room. "Have you got Time?" I asked.

'Pick me up at seven,' responded the librarian.

"I don't think you understand," I explained. "How about Life?"

" O.K," she giggled. "I'll be ready at six.'

Some day when I'm old and gray and my three-year-old son asks me about my school library, I'l show him a picture of our grand super-structure reaching high into the sky. He'll carefully count the number of floors and say, "Gee, Daddy, your library had five stories."

"Yes son," I'll admit, "and a whole book of poems."

Staff

Assistant Editors — Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Business Manager — Robert Gualtieri
News Editor — Jim Roberts
Copy Editor — Don Flowers
Feature Editors — Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor — Bill Bassham
Cartoonist — Jim Brewe
Contributors — Mike Gowere. Mavis Harrop. Gene Sullivan, Dick Query, Mike Simons, Tom Cain
Photographers — David Hood and James Howard

Alex Erwin, Busines Manager of next year's PaC SaC, and Sarah Stribling, Editor, confer about plans for the 1968 edition of the yearbook.

Dr.Gettys Announces Special Plans For 1967 Summer School Sessions

By BILL SCOTT

In an interview Wednesday, Academic Dean Dr. Joseph M. Gettys announced plans for the 1967 summer school. The first session of the summer school begins on June 5 and ends on June 7. The second session begins on July 10 and ends on August 11.

SPECIAL MATH

Dr. Gettys stressed two special programs available this year. The first applies to high school seniors and to PC students needing special help in mathematics. Miss Amelia Nichols, an honor graduate of PC and now a graduate student at Clemson University, will teach a non-credit course during the first session of summer school. Dr. Gettys urged all students who are having trouble in mathematics to take advantage of this opportunity.

TEACHER WORKSHOP

Under the general direction of Dr. George McGuire, a summer worshop for teachers will be held at PC June 5-23. Dr. McGuire will be assisted by Dr. Alvin Munson, a member of the University of South Carolina faculty.

The courses to be offered concern the teaching of social studies and mathematics in elementary school. If enough people enroll, a course in social studies in secondary schools will also be taught.

REGULAR COURSES

Dr. Gettys also announced the regular courses to be offered and the professors who will teach. During the first session from 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. the following courses will be taught:

Biology 101—Freeman; Economics 201—Chapman; Economics 332—Cunningham; English 201—Prater; History 391—Burnside; Math 103—Campbell.

Also, Political Science 301—Halsall; Psychology 201—Pressau; Religion 201—Stallworth; Sociology 205—Reid; Spanish 201—Adams; non-credit Math—Nichols.

First session from 10:30 to 12:30, the following courses will be taught:

English 350—Prater; Economics 315—Cunningham; Economics 318—Chapman; French 101—Outz; History 201—Burnside; Math 104—Campbell.

Also, Political Science 305—Halsall—Psychology 307 — Pressau; Religion 202—Stallworth; Sociology 201—Reid; Spanish 101—Adams; Art 203—Pennington.

SECOND SESSION

During the second session from 8:00 a.m. to 10:30 a. m., the following courses will be taught:

Art 101 or 301—Pennington; Biology 102—Harrison; Economics 202—Chapman; French 202—Harris; English 202—King; History 365—MacArthur.

Also, Religion 110—Hay; Sociology 312—Reid; Spanish 202—Glover.

Second session from 10:30 to 12:30, the following courses will be taught:

Art 205—Pennington; English 102—King; French 102—Harris; History 202—MacArthur; Religion 331—Gettys; Sociology 302—Reid; Spanish 102—Glover.

Most of these courses will be offered only if six or more enroll.

Letters to the Editor

Women Rats: Pro and Con

Dear Editor:

The column in last week's issue entitled "Coed Rats Are Ladies Too?" was the worst I have ever read. Besides leveling unjust charges at undeserving individuals, the column was not written in a factual manner.

The author inferred that other girls' schools did not engage in "unladylike" activities as a part of their orientation programs. What a joke!

The author also happened to be a male known to be prejudiced against PC coeds. I have already seen him darkening the doors of Clinton Hall, so how should he know what goes on there? Of course I had just as soon he remain afar. Skinny runts like him do little to enhance the image of the glorious PC male.

What is so wrong with powder-puff football, mud pies, or bags over the head? Every girl has some fun in her, so what's wrong with her enjoying life?

Does the author suggest we do nothing except sit around in our rooms powdering our noses and learning to be prudes?

A Concerned Coed

Dear Editor:

. . . last week's column by Rush Otey was the best in a long time.

I am surprised and shocked that no one has attacked girls' Rat Season before. This is definitely an element of campus life which could be eliminated. It does nothing to put forth a respectable image for PC. It does much to support the argument that coeducation at PC was a step in the wrong direction.

If the usual complacent attitude among the coeds prevails, we will all be grossed out again next fall.

A Concerned Male Student

'Fail Safe' Stars Henry Fonda

The campus movie April 18 will be "Fail-Safe," with Henry Fonda. The idea that one day our nuclear-armed missiles, planes, and who knows what other weapons in our arsenal may get out of control and reduce a friend or enemy to ashes has haunted the last decade.

Fail-Safe dramatizes this possibility by having one of our SAC planes accidentally go beyond the fail-safe limit and wing its way to Moscow with a full nuclear bomb load.

Fail-Safe clutches the audience from the very beginning and streaks to its conclusion with a pace and intensity of tension and suspense guaranteed to take the starch out of the most jaded movie-goer.

Matthews, Roberts Attend YD Meeting

The Young Democrats of South Carolina held their biennal convention in Columbia April 7-8. PC delegates were Don Matthews and Jim Roberts.

Democrats from ages 18-40 heard Congressman John Tunney (D-Cal.) urge progress in social reform in the keynote address. South Carolina Congressman W. J. Bryan Dorn, North Carolina Congressman Thomas Gettys, and South Carolina Senator Ernest F. Hollings also addressed the convention.

State Representative Thomas Smith of Florence County, was elected President of the Young Democrats Saturday afternoon. The vote showed a landslide victory over Smith's opponent, Calhoun Thomas of Richland County.

In the race for third vice-president Jim Roberts of PC was defeated by Richard Sullivan of the USC. law school. The election for this office was the only one filed for by college students. It was the closest race of the day, as Sullivan's margin was only about 20 votes.

The Democrats put away differences following the elections for a party at the Hotel Wade Hampton Saturday night.

Governor Robert McNair and outgoing president Dr. Don Fowler received awards for distinguished service. Former State Senator P. Bradley Morrah of Greenville, was named Democrat of the Year by the Young Democrats.

Dr. John F. Anderson

Churchman to Talk at Awards Day

By BILL SCOTT

The Annual Awards Day here at PC will be on Friday, April 21. Featured as main speaker will be Dr. John F. Anderson, Jr., Executive Secretary of the Board of Church Extension of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. He has served in this capacity since September, 1965.

SPEAKER

Dr. Anderson will deliver a speech entitled "The Cult of the Uncommitted." He received a BA degree from Austin College, BD degree from Union Theological Seminary of Virginia, and his ThM in 1953 from Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary. He has also received an honorary D. D. from Austin College in 1953.

Dr. Anderson has been pastor of several large churches in Texas. During World War II, he served as chaplain in the Marines in the Pacific Theater. The father of three children, Dr. Anderson is a native of Dallas, Texas.

JOHN F. ANDERSON, JR.

AWARDS

Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, Academic Dean, will present awards honoring PC's outstanding students. Some of the awards to be presented are: The Kappa Alpha Athletic Cup, an award presented by the American Legion, The Chemical Rubber Company science award, The Tau Phi Pi Whitelaw award, The Neill G. Whitelaw Scholarship, a Business and Economics Club Award, Three Oeland Scholarships in the fields of History, Science, and English, and The Frank Dudley Jones history award.

Dr. Gettys will also present certificates to members of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, The Sophomore Academic Society, and the Sigma Kappa Alpha senior academic society.

Arts Festival in Two Weeks To Feature Judged Exhibits

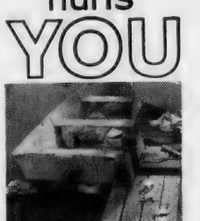
The Clinton Music Club is sponsoring a Spring Arts Festival on the PC campus on April 28, 29, and 30. The main attraction will be a judged exhibit featuring works by local artists and PC student artists.

Students interested in entering work are requested to pick up blanks at the desk in the PC library, fill them out and return them to Miss Mary Anne Pennington, head of the college's Art Department, by April 19. The exhibit will be in the Board meeting room of Belk Auditorium.

Exhibitors are expected to limit themselves to three entries, and each entry must be accompained by a registration fee of fifty cents. Entrants will be separated into three classifications; professional, adult, amateur, and student, for a more equitable competition.

Entries will be hung on April 26 and must be presented ready for exhibition. Paintings must be framed, drawings matted, sculpture mounted ready for display and crafts organized for a fully effective display.

The judging will take place April 27, and first, second, and honorable mention ribbons will be awarded in each of the following categories: painting and drawings, sculpture, and crafts (such as weaving, ceramics, pottery, etc.).



The outdoor exhibit, which will be mounted on April 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., is open to artists of all ages. The only stipulation is that exhibitors must provide their own lengths of clothesline. Stakes will be provided and the exhibitors will then be responsible for setting up and supervising the display of their own works.

Other activities during the Spring Arts Festival will include a concert on the evening of April 28 by the PC Choir, and the high school chorals from Clinton and Anderson. The next afternoon's fectivities will include a puppet show, a hootenanny, a band concert and singing by a barber shop quartet.

Sunday afternoon the PC Choir will present its annual recital.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Every litter bit hurts YOU

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL
Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council.

Th PC golf team which is participating in the state tourney this weekend is, from left to right, Steve Albright, David Sale, Terry Clyburn, Tim Yancey, John Akers, Alan Parsons, and Ashton Blount.

Golf Team Playing in State Meet; Trying to Repeat as S.C. Champs

By JOHN HARDY

The PC golf team began play in the South Carolina State Tournament earlier today. The tournament is being held this year at the Hampton Country Club in Hampton, today and tomorrow. The Blue Hose are defending state champions.

Coach Gerry Wells expressed optimism that the Hose will repeat last year's performance and win the state crown. Last year, however, the Hose had to play a sudden death play-off in order to defeat Wofford.

PC's stiffest competition is expected to come from the University of South Carolina. Other teams participating in the tournament include Erskine, Furman, Wofford, and the College of Charleston.

Each team will field six men in team competition. In addition there will be an individual tournament. Only the low four of the six scores of each team will be counted each day.

Members of the six-man team are David Sale, Tim Yancey, Ashton Blount, Steve Albright, Alan Parsons, and Terry Clyburn. John Akers will be playing in the individual tournament.

The Hose spent the early part of the week after the Georgia match preparing for the State Tournament.

GEORGIA MATCH

In a match Monday at the Lakeside Country Club, a strong University of Georgia team downed PC. This was only the second defeat for the Blue Hose. The team has compiled a 9-2 record, the other loss being to USC on their home course.

Georgia's Pete Davidson was medalist with a two-under par 70. Tommy Barnes also led the Bulldogs with a 71. Tim Yancey and Terry Clyburn posted 74's for PC.

SUMMARY: Barnes (Ga.) def. Sale (PC), 3-0; Clyburn (PC) def. Hill (Ga.), 2-1; Davidson (Ga.) def. Yancey (PC, 3-0; Miller (Ga.), tied Blound (PC), 1½-1½; Tyre (Ga.) def. Parsons (PC), 2-1; Hudgins (Ga.) def. Albright (PC), 2-1.

April Sports Spotlight

15—Golf—State Intercollegiate Tournament	Hampton
15—Tennis—Duke University	Durham
15—Track—Wofford, Mars Hill	Spartanburg
17—Tennis—Appalachian	Boone
19—Tennis—Georgia Institue of Technology	Clinton
19—Baseball—Appalachian (Doubleheader)	Clinton
19—Track—Guilford College	Clinton
20—Golf—Augusta College, Mercer	Saluda
21-22—Tennis—State Intercollegiate Tournament	Columbia
21—Baseball—Elon College (Doubleheader)	Clinton
22—Baseball—Wofford College	Spartanburg
22—Track—Davidson Relays	Davidson
24—Golf—Pfeiffer, Appalachian	Boone
25—Golf—University of Georgia	Athens
25—Baseball—Newberry College	Newberry
26—Track—Catawba College	Salisbury
28—Golf—Wofford College	Clinton
28—Baseball—Newberry College	Clinton

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

BROADWAY Cinema

FRIDAY-SATURDAY
The Adventures of Bullwhip Griffin

MONDAY-TUESDAY
Not With My Wife, You Don't
Tony Curtis, Virna Lisi, George C. Scott

STARTS WED. FOR 3 DAYS
Doctor, You've Got To Be Kidding
Sandra Dee, George Hamilton

fight birth defects / JOIN MARCH OF DIMES

Orioles Should Repeat as Champs

BILL

It's finally arrived! Yes, the time of the year for the national pastime, baseball, has come. The salary holdouts are over. The trades have been completed. Spring practice is finished with the teams' rosters filled. Now is the time for the long hard drive for the World Series in September after a murderous 162-game schedule.

The big question now is who will be the class of the two leagues. Last year it was Los Angeles in the National and Baltimore in the American, with the Orioles emerging as the winner of the series.

Let's look at the National League's outlook first. The National League always seems to have a tougher race than the American League. Last year while the Orioles were winning the senior circuit by nine games, the Dodgers were eking by in the junior circuit by a game. It has seemed near impossible for a winner of the National League to repeat itself.

I think the team to beat in the National this year will be San Francisco. The Giants have the power hitting of all-time great Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and newly acquired Bob Bailey. A strong pitching corps headed by Juan Marichal and Bob Bolin do the job for the Giants. The Giants also strengthened their relief pitching by getting ex-Giant Mike McCormick back.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have seemed like the team to beat for the last two seasons only to falter late in the season. The Pirates can always depend on steadies Roberto Clemente, Willie Stargell, and Mattie Alou. They also strengthened an already standout infield with the addition of Maury Wills. Bob Veale and old-timer Vernon Law could hold the key to the pitching question.

A dark horse contender is the Cincinnati Reds. The Reds are trying to bounce back from perhaps the worst trade in the history of baseball when they traded Frank Robinson. The Reds have Vada Pinson, Floyd Robinson, and Pete Rose for power. The pitching will be the key to the Reds' success. They have had the trouble in the past few seasons of their pitchers not being able to put two good seasons back to back. Jim Maloney, Jim O'Toole, and Sammy Ellis will be the key to the mound success.

Our own Atlanta Braves may surprise everyone if they play the way they did in splotches last season. Hank Aaron, Joe Torre, Lou Johnson, and Felipe Alou are the Braves' plate power. Tony Cloninger and Ken Johnson are the core of the mound troops.

Los Angeles won't do any better than a fifth place finish. The weak hitting Dodgers won't be able to count on Sandy Koufax for 25 wins this season, and that will be the difference.

In the American League it appears that a new dynasty may have begun with Baltimore. Any opposing pitcher would dread to face the death row of the Robinson boys—Frank and Brooks, and enormous Boog Powell. A young but surprisingly tough pitching corps led by Jim McNally, Jim Palmer, and Steve Barber completely mastered opponents last season.

After the Orioles it will be a dog race for the other positions. The tougher teams should be Cleveland, Detroit, and Minnesota. It really doesn't matter because the Orioles will win their second consecutive pennant.

What will happen in September? The National League should give Baltimore more competition than last season, but the Orioles should repeat.

Dillard Boland, Jeweler
Diamonds - Watches - Silver - Gifts
103 E. Pitts St. CLINTON, S. C. Phone 833-1021

Steve Albright tees off at the Lakeside Country Club during a practice round in preparation for this week's state tourney.

Blue Hose Netters Try to Rebound After Ga. and Wake Forest Losses

By MIKE SIMONS

A rough schedule is on tap for the Presbyterian College netters this week as they face North Carolina, Duke, Appalachian, and Georgia Tech, plus the state tournament coming up next Friday and Saturday in Columbia.

The Hose netmen currently stand 9-7 on the season despite several injuries which have weakened the squad considerably.

In action last week the Hose lost both their matches, one with Southeastern Conference power Georgia and the other with Wake Forest. The Georgia Bulldogs shellacked the Hose 9-0, although several of the matces were close and could easily have gone the other way. For instance, number five man, Hart Cobb, pushed his opponent to the limit in both sets before losing 6-4 and 7-5.

Wake Forest surprised the Hose with a 7½-1½ triumph over the Blue. Last season PC whitewashed the Deacons 9-0, but Wake Forest fielded a much stronger team this season and turned the tide on the Hose. This match was another one which could have gone either way, with two of the singles and all of the doubles matches going to the full three sets. Number two man, Howdy Letzring, was the only PC player to win, as he defeated Ed Parker in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

Wake Forest's number one man, Mike Ruberstein, defeated Jim Amaya 6-2, 6-2.

The number fixe and six singles went three sets as Cobb lost 6-4, 2-6, 6-0, and Robbie Hibbits lost 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Letzring and Amaya teamed up in number one doubles and lost in a marathon match, 7-5, 6-8, 6-2. Doug Haynie and Hibbits won the first set 6-4, but lost the next two 6-2 and 6-3. The number three doubles was called because of rain in the third and decisvie set, after Larry Connelly and Cobb had split the final two sets 4-6 and 6-4.

The remainder of the North Carolina tour will be a real challenge to PC, especialy the UNC match. Last year UNC defeated the Hose, 9-0, as PC could take only 13 games in the singles competition. Everyone except Cobb had at least one love set. Duke defeated the Blue by a 5-4 count last season in a match that could have gone either way. Every singles event except for the number two match went the full three sets.

Though not as strong as last season, Georgia Tech still presents formidable competition for PC, but the home court edge could give the Hose some impetus for an upset over the Yellow Jackets.

The Hose figure to handle Appalachian without much trouble as they defeated the Appa 9-0 last season, the first conference loss for the Mountaineers in 35 conference outings over the past few years. The Apps won the Carolinas Conference title last season.

Cach Jim Shakespeare expressed optimism over the team's chances for the remainder of the season as he said, "The team has done a fine job this year in spite of some injuries which have handicapped us severely. We're really looking forward to the state tournament and feel we could surprise a few people. We'll just have to wait and see."

Baseball Team Seeks Win In Next Week's Five Games

By MIKE SIMONS

The Presbyterian College's baseballers face a light week of activity, with a single game against Wofford today at Clinton and doubleheaders against Appalachian on Wednesday and Elon on Friday.

The Hose hope to improve on their 0.9 record on the season and have seven chances to do so. The Blue still haven't found the right combination of pitching and hitting to get into the win column.

In a doubleheader against Lenoir Rhyne, PC fell 3-0 and 7-1, getting only one hit against three pitchers in the second game. George Lindsay pitched the first game for the Hose and gave up three runs, all of them unearned. So far this season Lindsay has pitched 36 innings and has given up just five earned runs for a 1.26 earned run average.

Rad Free pitched the first five innings of the second game, giving up six runs, two of them earned, with six Hose errors behind him. Bob McBee came in for the last inning and gave up one unearned run while striking out the side.

Commenting on the team, assistant coach Jimmy Elliott said, "We've got a better team than our record indicates and I think we'll win some ball game before the season is over."

Among the regulars, excluding the pitchers, the leading hitters are catcher Mike Thurston and centerfielder Robert Hackle. Pitchers McBee, 1 for 1, and Lindsay, 3 for 9, have 1.00 and .333 batting averages, respectively. Charlie Breedlove leads in walks received, with 12 free passes given to him.

Ten PC Players Receive Letters For Basketball

Ten varsity basketball letters are being awarded by Presbyterian College for participation during the 1966-67 season, Athletic Director Cally Gault announced.

He said the group includes one senior, two juniors, four sophomores, and three freshmen.

The Blue Hose basketball lettermen are:

Steve Stine of Aberdeen, Md.; Richard Quillen of Kingsport, Tenn.; Ken Martin of Estill, Ky.; Dave Hudson of Myrtle Beach; Jim Kiser of Gaffney; Doug McLeod of Hingham, Mass.; John Walther of Virginia Beach, Va.; Woody Carter of Price, Ky.; George Dickerson of Spartanburg; and Bobby Quillen of Kinsgport, Tenn.

Ten-Game Schedule Faces Blue Hose Footballers in '67

The Presbyterian College Blue Hose will play a ten-game football schedule in 1967, Athletic Director Cally Gault announced.

The Blue Hose will face the same ten opponents that they played last season on their way to posting a 6-4 record and a tie for the Carolinas Conference title. PC has seven conference games scheduled next season along with the three non-conference opponents.

Presbyterian will open its season on September 16 against Frederick and ending on November 23 in the annual Thanksgiving Day clash with Newberry College.

Here is the 1967 football schedule for PC:

September 16 — Frederick at Portsmouth, Va.; 23 — Lenoir Rhyne at Hickory, N. C.; 30—Wofford at Clinton; October 7—Elon at Clinton; 14—Davidson at Davidson, N. C.; 21—Guilford at Clinton; 28—Catawba at Clinton; November 4 — Appalachian at Boone, N. C.; 18—Western Carolina at Cullowhee, N. C.; 23—Newberry at Newberry.

PC Runs With Terriers Tomorrow at Wofford

By TOM CAIN

Playing probably its toughest meet of the season, Presbyterian's track team placed third in a tri-meet with Pembroke College and High Point College on Tuesday afternoon. Pembroke scored 75 points to place first, while High Point scored 55 points to finish second.

PC's only first place came in the pole vault. Robert Hope cleared the bar at 11 feet, 6 inches, while Cecil McCleary placed third in the same event. Don Eckstein contributed to the Blue Hose cause by placing second in the 100-yard dash and by finishing third in the 220-yard dash.

In the distance events, Ellis Jenkins was second in the two-mile, while James Challen finished third in the 880-yard run and second in the mile run. Richard Reed placed third in both the low hurdles and high hurdles events, and Johhny McCalum won fourth in the 440-yard dash.

In the field events, Reed again helped PC by placing in the high jump along with John Walther. Aside from the strong showing in the pole vault, Dave Hudson finished fourth in the javelin event for all of PC's points in the field events.

Tomorrow, Presbyterian will face Wofford at Spartanburg in dual meet. Wofford has defeated PC once this year by twenty points. In that meet James Challen set a school record in the 880 with a time of 4.30.8. After the meet Saturday, Presbyterian's next meet will be on Wednesday, April 19, against against Guilford at Clinton.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .
SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry
Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Campus News Briefs

Cunningham Gets Grant for Study

Dixon Cunningham, instructor in business administration at PC, has received a $2,500 matching fellowship grant from the Presbyterian US Board of Christian Education to pursue additional graduate study toward his doctorate.

PC as the nominating college, will match the board's grant and give Cunningham a leave-of-absence to begin next fall. He was one of four faculty members of church colleges to receive a matching fellowship.

Cunningham joined the PC faculty in 1965 after receiving his master's degree in business administration from the University of South Carolina. His undergraduate degree is from Erskine College. He plans to enter the University of Virginia next fall for his doctoral work.

Student Employment

Applications for campus employment for the school year 1967-1968 will be acepted in the office of the Administrative Assistant until April 15, 1967. All positions require the applicant to have a 2.00 qpr or higher.

Women are eligible for appointment as chapel checkers, book store clerks, and Clinton Hall receptionists.

The following positions will be available:

Men's Lormitory Proctor.*
Clinton Hall Receptionist.
Chapel Checker.
Book Store Clerical Help.
Mail Clerk.
Car Checker.
Study Hall Proctor.
Douglas House Proctor.

*Requires statement in application that student will accept any assignment offered.

A separae letter of application is required for each position. Each application should include the reason employment is desired.

Scabbard and Blade

The following third-year military science students were tapped into the Scabbard and Blade Society last week: Richard Quillen, Joe Dunlap, David Berry, Sandy Lynn, Vin Atkinson, Shep Marsh, Jeff Raines, Randel Caldwell, Bobby Staton, and Grover Ford.

The new officers for the Society are Quillen, President; Atkinson, Vice-President; Caldwell, Treasurer; and Raines, Secretary.

Business and Economics

At the monthly meeting of the Business and Economics Club, new officers were elected. President for the coming year is Richard Quillen.

Other officers are Sandy Lynn, vice-president; Bill Scott, secretary; and John Walther, treasurer.

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

JOHNSON'S MEN'S SHOP
CANOE — ROYALL LYME — JADE EAST
West Main Street Clinton, S. C.

Europe is waiting for you—
Where the boys and girls are

European Jobs

Luxembourg—American Student Information Service is celebrating its 10th year of successful operation placing students in jobs and arranging tours. Any student may now choose from thousands of jobs such as resort, office, sales, factory, hospital, etc. in 15 countries with wages up to $400 a month. ASIS maintains placement offices throughout Europe insuring you of on the spot help at all times. For a booklet listing all jobs with application forms and discount tours send $2 (for overseas handling & air mail reply) to:
Dept. M, American Student Information Service, 22 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 8,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR
FOCUS on the world's news and issues

The Christian Science Monitor
1 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115
Please enter a Monitor subscription for the name below.
I am enclosing $_____ (U. S. funds) for the period checked. ☐ 1 year $12 ☐ 9 months $9 ☐ 6 months $6
Name_____
Street_____ Apt./Rm. #_____
City_____ State_____ Zip_____
☐ College student_____ Year of graduation_____
☐ Faculty member
P-CM-46

WELCOME,
P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

The Greeks

By SANDY LYNN
Greek Editor

KAPPA ALPHA

The following pledges were initiated into the brotherhood Tuesday night: John Akers, Rufus Bratton, B Beatty, Bobby Johnson, Tommy Johnson, Hugh Reid, Jo Taylor, Paul Wilburn, and Carlton Kelly. Congratulations to Tim Yancey for pinning Miss Margaret Hicks and to Pearl Jernigan for pinning Miss Marty Crawfor

Plans for Spring Swing include a thirteen-piece ba called the "Counts' for a closed party. The location the party is a mystery.

Brother Tommy Geer is offering drive education any person who would like to become a better drive Finally, Brown Bag is ending his social career this wee end with a blind date.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

The Saturday night party for Spring Swing will held in the fraternity suite from 8:00 to midnight and wi be closed.

The pledges will be kept busy next week with pre-init ation week being held from Monday through Thursda Initiation will take place Thursday night. The pledg recently completed their pledge trips and will be happy answer any questions about their trips if they can remem ber anything.

Brothers Mike Donovan, John Monk, and Bob Warn set a record for fund-raising last Wednesday. Broth Pat Stogner is the new IFC vice-president for next ye Brothers of the week are Mackey Singleton and Kit Ba nery. The softball team won its opening game by a close score of 19-9.

THETA CHI

The Theta Chi pledges are enjoying their annual "He Week." The softball team is off to a fast start with t wins and no losses. The team, featuring 'Babe" Ellefs is averaging twenty-two runs a ball game.

The "Soul Set" will play for the Spring Swing pa Saturday night at Lake Greenwood. The rumor is out th Brother Jimmy Bell really has a date for the weekend but so far it is just a rumor.

Brothers Jerry Mebane and "flash" Gordon Wilso have been appointed delegates to the Rebel Reunion to b held at the University of Alabama. Brother Dodds is to b congratulated for getting a haircut for federal inspection

PI KAPPA PHI

The "Lapels" will play for the closed party Saturd night at the Joanna Moose Lodge. New PiKapp brother are Terry Clyburn, Mike Gower, Clint Massey, and Joh Oswalt. Brother of the week is "Porky" Avery for h rifle arm displayed in the softball game Tuesday.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

The Alpha Sigs are planning their annual Hawaiia Holiday tnis Satudday night with the "Soul Kings." Th pledges have finally found out where Stomp Spring is. I is hoped that Brothers Jimmy Page and Jim Brewer wi know where it is by Saturday night. Congratulations t to "T.H.E" for being the "one that got away."

Rick Corley is brother of the week for no special rea son.

SIGMA NU

Seven pledges were initiated into brotherhood thi week. They are Holbrook Raynal, Mike Maynard, How ard Higgins, Wayne Harris, Ted Hall, Chuck Sharman and James Hufham. The addition to the house is coming along fine and should be finished in a couple of weeks The softball team also started the season out on a win ning note this week. The Nu's hope they will continue t do as well in the future.

PITTS MENS SHOP . . .
Where you'll find all fashions for men
NORTH BROAD STREET

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Saturday, April 22, 1967 No. 20

Men's Judicial Bd. Tries 4 Students; All Found Guilty

The Men's Judicial Council has released the following resume of recent action:

April 14—Two students were found guilty of violating Article XI, Section I, Paragraph F of the Presbyterian College Constitution which reads: "Drinking: no student shall be while on campus or off the campus—representing the college—found drunk, drinking, or having in his possession intoxicating liquors.

They were placed on restriction for the rest of the school year.

April 17—Two students were found guilty of violating Article XI, Section I, Paragraph G of the Presbyterian College Constitution which reads: "College Property: Each student shall guard all college property with care and shall not suffer it to be impaired while it is under his control. This care shall mean that he will not abue or suffer it to be a bused by another so far as it may be within his power to prevent."

These students, having voluntarily turned themselves in, were given a warning and ordered to pay for the damages incurred.

April 17—Two students were found guilty of violating campus restriction; they were suspended for the remainder of the school year.

Awards Honor Top PC Students; Quillen, Hope, Ligon Class Heads

Dr. J. F. Anderson

By BILL SCOTT

Friday was awards Day on the PC campus, highlighted at the ten o'clock chapel hour by the presentation of awards to students and also by Dr. John Anderson in an address to the student body. Thirteen awards were presented along with certificates to many who have excelled on campus.

Dr. John Anderson, Executive Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, spoke on "The Cult of the Uncommitted." He reminded the students that in this changing world of today, in which new developments are continually influencing our way of life, that it is time for commitment toward what we hold as valuable."

The "fantastic explosions" of the population and education have forced us into a depersonalized and secularized world. Dr. Anderson said we should realize the impersonality and secularism and begin to make firm judgments as to our own situation. "We had better not suspend judgment too long on what life is all about."

The real threat that we face today, Dr. Anderson said, is the threat of the non-committed intellectual. Until we discover who we are we can't discover where we are or what we are doing. We must have a "personal commitment to great ideas." Commit yourself to some One, to God. "If you are only committed to yourself, you are committed to that which is most miserable."

The new class presidents are, left to right: Richard Quillen, Laine Ligon, and Robert Hope.

The awards presented to students at chapel by Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, Academic Dean, were as follows:

The Kappa Alpha Athletic Cup was presented to James H. Johnson, Jr., a senior from Georgiana, Ala.

The American Legion Award and The Frank Dudley Jones Award were presented to Robert W. Herlong of Manning.

The Chemical Rubber Company Awards in the fields of Physics, Chemistry, and Math, were presented to Roger Thomas Ivey of Winter Park, Fla.; John Barron Taylor of Chester; and Robert A. Strozier, respectively.

Daniel Peyton Hartley of Mt. Pleasant, received the Neill G. Whitelaw Scholarship. John Taylor received also the James M. Oeland Science Award.

The Oeland English Award this year went to Michael Grant LeFever of Lancaster, Pa. Miss Elizabeth Myers of Orlando, Fla., received the Oeland History Award.

Those receiving certificates for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities were: James Henry Johnson, Susan Helen Gilbert, William Woodward Hall, Jr., Paula Evans, Carlos J. Emanuel, Robert W. Warren, Michael L. McGehee, Robert W. Herlong, Max Milligan, III, and Hugh W. Weldon, Jr.

For membership in the Sophomore Academic Society those receiving certificates were: Viciki Ann Brown, Lewis Judson Caldwell, Michael G. LeFever, Wilbur Rush Otey, III, William Henry Scott, III, Martha Almyra Smith, and Danny Knox Wyatt.

Those receiving certificates of membership in the Sigma Kappa Alpha senior academic society were: James Allison Bell, Carlos J. Emanuel, Paula Evans, Susan Helen Gilbert, William Woodward Hall, Jr., James H. Johnson, Jr., Henry Bryan Parks, David Bryson Rousey, and Morrow Bradford Thompson.

One Run-off Needed

Class officers for next year were elected this week. A run-off will be held Monday for vice-president of the sophomore class. The candidates are Stan Kemp and Johnny Grigsg.

SENIOR CLASS

In the senior class Richard Quillen defeated Andy Cooper for president, 61-16. Randel Caldwell downed Robbie Hibbits, 60-29, for vice-president. Mel Davis was elected secretary-treasurer over Shep Marsh by a 59-28 margin.

JUNIOR CLASS

Robert Hope defeated David Gravely for president in a run-off, 82-63. They previously tied with 79 each.

Richard Crozier won the vice-presidential race by 86 to 28 margins over Bob Murray and Jim Allred. Hart Cobb defeated Mike LeFever for secretary-treasurer, 88-69.

SOPHOMORE CLAS

Laire Ligon was elected president of the rising sophomore class by defeating Holbrook Raynall, 62-39. Johnny Griggs and Stan Kemp tied for vice-president with 41 each. And then ran-off to a 58 each tie. Another run-off will be Monday.

George Dickerson downed Mike Maynard, 83-19, in the race for secretary - treasurer of the sophomore class.

3 Seniors Will Receive Gold P's at Graduation

Three outstanding seniors will be presented Gold P's at commencement exercises on May 11. Gold P's are annually awarded to those graduating seniors who, in the opinion of the faculty, have performed meritorious service in extracurricular activities other than athletics.

The 1967 recipients are Susan Gilbert, Woody Hall, and Jim Johnson.

Miss Gilbert is a biology major from Blakely ,Ga. She served this year as President of the Organization of Women Students at PC. She was also named to Who's Who in America's Colleges and Universities.

Woody Hall is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. He is an economics major from York. He is past editor of The Blue Stocking. He was named to Who's Who also.

Jim Johnson was Chairman of the Honor Cuncil last year. He is a pre-med major from Georgiana, Ala. He wa salso president of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity last year. He also appeared in Who's Who.

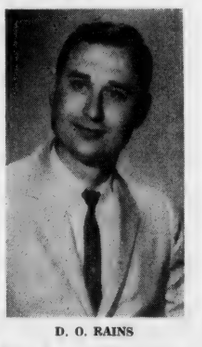
Hall and Johnson are members of the Blue Key national honorary leadership fraternity.

Last year, Jim Stanford, Henry Lovett and Sam Waters were awarded Gold P's at commencement.

GILBERT HALL

JOHNSON

Twenty-eight Page Edition Of 'Figs and Thistles' Coming



This year, Presbyterian Colleget has revived the publication of a literary magazine. During the '30's this magazine was named "The Collegian." In its rebirth it will be known as "Figs and Thistles," a name taken from a portion of Edna St. Vincent Millay's works. The editors of "Figs and Thistles" for this year are John Gaw and Don McNair.

The magazine will consist of 28 pages of various writings. Two essays, a short story, and a number of poems will be included in this first issue. The range of topics is very broad; from the plight of formal education to the sheer beauty of nature. Also the art work of John Weigel will be exhibited.

"Figs and Thistles," according to its editors and its contributors, is an attempt to combat apathy on PC's campus; it is an expression of honesty, emotion, beauty, interest and opinion. The editors hope that it will stimulate intellectual involvement, constructive criticism, and interest, especially the interest of those students who feel that they have creative ability in the fields of writing and art.

The publication date for "Figs and Thistles" is tentatively May 3. However, the editors and the publishers, Jacobs Brothers of Clinton, hope that there will be an opening in the press schedule before then.

All students are urged to obtain a copy. "Figs and Thistles" will probably be distributed in Greenvile Dining Hall.

D. O. RAINS

New Drama Professor To Join PC Faculty

Next August the PC faculty will be strengthened by the addition of a drama professor. Dean Joseph M. Gettys announced this week. Mr. Dale Osborn Rains will teach speech and drama next year at PC.

Mr. Rains has attended Lousiana College, Northwestern State College, and holds a BA and MA from Baylor University.

Mr. Rains taught in the public schools of Bay City, Texas, from 1960-1963. He taught speech, drama and English. Since 1963, he has been teaching in the secondary schools of LaPorte, Texas.

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor — Charles Eagles, Editor — Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Assistant Editors ..... Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Business Manager ..... Robert Gunifieri
News Editor ..... Jim Roberts
Copy Editor ..... Don Flowers
Feature Editors ..... Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor ..... Bill Bassham
Cartoonist ..... Jim Brewer
Contributors ..... Dick Query, Mike Simons, John Hardy, Gene Sullivan, Tom Cain, Jack Howard, Don McNair, Mike Gower.
Photographers ..... David Hood and James Howard

Our Money's Worth

In the student government budget for next year which is now being formulated, there are provisions for work scholarships for the editor of the PaC SaC and for the student intramural chairman.

The PaC SaC editor will receive two hundred and fifty dollars, and the intramural chairman will receive three hundred dollars. They will be the highest paid members of the student government.

The work involved in organizing the various intramural sports is recognized. If, however, the intramural chairman receives three hundred dollars, the students have the right to expect three hundred dollars of work and service.

It should be remembered that part of the responsibilities for the intramural program are assumed by the athletic department. Also, the SCA is directly responsible for the intramural program because the intramural director is appointed by its president, and the entire program is sponsored by the SCA.

The least that students should expect next year is a formal schedule at the beginning of the year of the sports to be played. In the past some sports have been added or deleted at the last moment. Dates could be allowed for rained-out events, and weeks of quizzes could be avoided.

In the same manner, the students should expect a top-notch PaC Sac on time. If the time schedule as it now stands is impossible, as some seem to believe, it should be changed. The editor also should be expected to earn the money he receives.

In regard to the PaC SaC, it should be remembered that the student government officers are partly responsible for the annual because the PaC SaC is part of the student government association.

Next year it is hoped that the intramural chairman and the PaC SaC editor will truly earn the money they receive by diligently performing their duties.

English Student Evaluates USC (and PC?)

(The following are excerpts from a letter from a former English student to the editor of the USC Gamecock. His observations are interesting in that many of them could apply equally to PC.—Editor.)

My criticisms of USC (I haven't the space to comment on the States) revolve around the principles for which a University exists.

In the first place, a British university attempts to inculcate in the student the idea of self-discipline. Therefore we have a great deal of time and freedom to do our work, sometimes, admittedly, too much time. However, you feel the need to be continually kept up to the mark with quizzes and tests.

In addition your system assumes a "well-rounded" man to be more beneficial to society than one who, has in Britain, spent three years at college specializing in his chosen field. Your system, I believe, fails to produce the scholar, the genuine article as it were.

Student attitudes at USC, I thought, were passive to all but immediate and local topics; I rarely heard or participated in discussions on national events. This I put down to the conservatism and provincialism of South Carolina.

I disliked the fraternity system because I felt it throws too many people of the same background and interests together when the principle of a university is to encourage the mixing of many people of all walks of life and backgrounds.

But if the fraternity system, like football, satisfies your characteristic craving for "togetherness" then good luck to it!

On the social side, I felt there were too many unnecessarily strict rules. Surely learning how to use freedom must be a principle of a university, for, theoretically, responsibility follows from the use of freedom.

This is true anyway for the majority of students in England but the petty restrictions on the USC campus destroyed the idea of freedom.

In sum then, the people of South Carolina are among the friendliest I have met, but USC unfortunately doesn't instill in the student the kind of qualities that a British university does—one that I personally feel are of more use in later life.

It has many admirable attributes, and perhaps my criticisms are unfair. I should like very much to hear any replies to, or defense of, these criticisms . . .

I should add that America intrigues me, and that I look forward very much to my return.

An Edifice of Southern Culture

By KAREN WEAVER
Feature Editor

Near the border of maintenance buildings which divide the east from the west campus of Presbyterian College stands Vetville, an edifice of southern culture. Here some of the finest scientific minds of our century have roomed during their college years, and in these hallowed rooms genius continues to abide. Tourists from all over the nation flock annually to stand a respectful distance from Vetville and gaze in awed silence.

Brochures printed by the Historical Preservation Society of America explain and picture certain parts of the interior of Vetville. Due to pressure exerted by the Historical Preservation Society, neither the interior nor the exterior is ever renovated, and Vetville today retains all its natural rugged splendor.

Visitors are strictly forbidden admittance to the rooms of Vetville, and it was with much difficulty that this reporter, armed with a Fulbright and a press pass, gained entrance to the venerable mansion. Guided by one of the twenty-two natives of Vetville, I stepped upon the verandas of Vetville one balmy afternoon last month.

My first adventure was hazarding the missing and broken planks, which left gaping holes through which I could perceive alligators basking in the shafts of sunlight. My guide soon noticed my perterpation and remarked that approximately twelve alligators were trapped in the foundation, and that occasionally a newly hatched offspring would make its way into the plumbing and pop out of the sink's spigot into the surprised face of a native Vetvillian.

I quickly noted this in shorthand on my pad, as I was ushered into a typical room. As I listened to the guide's information, I leaned an elbow against the wall and was alarmed to find I had created a peep hole into the adjacent room. My anxiety was reduced when my guide indicated similar holes, which dotted the walls like printed wallpaper.

There were insects of every genus flying or crawling about. My guide generously explained that the windows, as well as the screens and the roof contained apertures which admitted anything smaller than a goat.

I noted this observation, as I was ushered into a typical bath room. It contained a tin shower stall whose interior walls were covered with moss and lichen. I was given to understand that the natives fish with bait caught in the showers.

The boys in Vetville share a variety of interests. A polo club holds weekly meetings which sometimes continue all night. Demolition crews have been organized each semester to keep the phone ripped off the wall and the coke machine out of order. Equally effective are the Binocular Club, which surveys the girls' sun deck in session, and the Arthur Murray Dance Club, which holds a dance every Saturday night and pipes music all over campus.

A popular springtime activity is sitting outside by a fire watching television.

Shaving cream fights serve the dual purpose of relaxing the boys during quiz week and feeding the fauna.

At the conclusion of my tour I drove away from Presbyterian College with a heart tight in speechless contemplation of this unique view of modern life in a pre-Civil War environment.

Letter to the Editor

'A Really Concerned Cow' Replies

Dear Editor:

I would like to sincerely apologize for the really unkind and unnecessary remarks made by "A Concerned Coed" in last week's paper. If this coed were really concerned, she would not have made certain of those remarks because it is remarks like that that cause many of the male students at PC to resent and/or to hate us coeds.

Personally, I would like to see the author of that article on coed rats "darken the doorway" of our noble and honorable "Cow Palace," sometime, as well as others with similar opinions on coeds, but I'll readily sympathize with any of them for not wanting to because of the attitudes of some of my fellow cows.

Until the coeds at PC accept the fact that we are still relatively new on campus and that our first actions determine our future reputation at this school, then we coeds will continue to be resented, undated, and unaccepted by many of the male students here at PC.

I also strongly feel that if the coeds would go out of their ways to try being more helpful and showing more interest in student government affairs that they might find a real place on campus more readily.

Concerning the letter from "A Concerned Male Student" on rat season, I would like to say that having a more "lady-like" rat season will not change the fact that a girl's rat season is a real and undeniable necessity. And, no matter how lady-like it is, it will not change the campus feeling towards coeds in any way. I have heard much discussion on this and have also heard that it was the administration that insisted on a more "lady-like Rat Season."

I sincerely hope (and trust that in this coming year, though most of the girls' rattling will not be carried on under the public eye, the freshman girl will not have things any easier or rougher — especially if I have anything to do with it!

Thank you for letting me air my views. I wanted to do so because I truly love PC in spite of its problems and various idiosyncrasies and I will do all I can to help PC in any way!

A big thanks to each of you for putting out such a great paper!! Keep it up!

A Really Concerned Cow

Rush Otey, Asst. Editor

Minor or Semi-Gripes

Having been engulfed by a steady flow of hour quizzes and spring fever I have nothing major to write about but only an accumulation of minor gripes and semi-gripes.

To begin with, we are confronted with a question. What has happened to the committee to study the present drinking rule which was supposed to be appointed by Dr. Weersing as designated by the Board of Trustees in their last meeting? This committee has not even been appointed during the seven weeks since the Trustees' meeting. The Trustees meet again in October, and if a meaningful "meeting of the minds" is to take place, the committee of faculty and staff members and students should at least be appointed before school ends in three weeks.

One aspect in which the student body should improve is their interest in current affairs. Less than half a dozen students attended the student body meeting held last Wednesday, not even enough to make the meeting worthwhile.

I would issue a plea at this time for more students to work on the publication of the Blue Stocking. Fifteen or twenty students at the most work each week on this endeavor, while at Davidson over fifty names were listed as staff members or contributors in the lastest Davidsonian which incidentally has attained an All-American rating for ten consecutive semesters.

The Blue Stocking is always in need of reporters for news and sports, writers for feature and editorial material, typists, proofreaders, and designers for layout. There is no doubt in my mind that with a few more dedicated staff members the Blue Stocking could achieve a much better rating and could be of much more interest to the active student body.

In order to include a concrete suggestion in this column of bits and pieces, I advocate the abolition of the system of class officers. Presently these officers serve no

See p. 6, Col. 1 — More Gripes

Mr. K. N. Baker Completes 29th Year on PC Faculty

By BILL SCOTT
Feature Editor

When graduation rolls around, Mr. Kenneth N. Baker will have been a member on the Presbyterian faculty for twenty-nine years. Mr. Baker, as Professor of the Economics and Business Administration Department, has been a major reason why PC has been successful in placing many prominent men in the world of business.

A native of South Carolina, Professor Baker attended elementary and high school in Greenwood and graduated in 1917. The following September he enrolled at the University of South Carolina and in 1921 he received his A.B. degree from the University. Later, in 1936, he obtained his M.A. from the same institution.

Mr. Baker enrolled at Peterson's College of Commerce and was graduated in 1922. For several years he worked as a stenographer and bookkeeper.

During the years 1923-1926, Professor Baker was principal of Clinton High School. He always liked PC while he was in Clinton and expressed the desire that if he continued teaching he would like to become a member of the PC faculty.

In 1921, Mr. Baker was instrumental in forming Beta Pi Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order here on campus. Even now some forty years later he remains an Alumni Advisor to the Chapter.

From 1926-28, he attended the Walton School of Commerce and the Midwestern School of Commerce in Chicago. Holding four jobs, he worked his way through on his own.

Completing four years of required work in only two years, Professor Baker was an honor graduate in his class.

After leaving Chicago, Mr. Baker was employed by several auditing and business firms. He also held a position with the government, being in charge of the insolvent division of banking.

From 1931 to 1936, he was a faculty member at Newberry College. He came to PC in 1936 and has remained here these 29 years. During some of PC's darker hours, Mr. Baker willingly kept teaching without pay for the benefit of the students. Mr. Baker specializes in the business section of the department, teaching such courses as business law, corporate finance, and first and second year accounting.

He is well known for the high caliber students who graduate from PC. His emphasis on common sense and fundamentals are no doubt the basis for his success.

One student commenting on his courses under Mr. Baker said, "There is always something of real value in one of his lectures that really makes a lot of good sense when he talks."

Mr. Baker has many hobbies, such as gardening, woodworking, and the repair of office machines. He also has a workship which is one of his pet projects. Aside from hobbies, he has always been active in local, civic and fraternal organizations.

MR. BAKER

Federal Inspection

PC Impresses Officers

By ROBIN WILLIAMS

On Wednesday and Thursday, April 12 and 13, an inspection team consisting of three officers and two non-commissioned officers conducted the annual U. S. Army General Inspection for Presbyterian College's ROTC Battalion. The inspection team was under the comand of Colonel Robert C. Hutchinson, Jr., Professor of Military Science at Florida Southern College.

Prior to coming to Presbyterian College, Colonel Hutchinson and his team had inspected two other college ROTC units in this area. Colonel Hutchinson stated after completing the inspection that "Presbyterian College's ROTC unit is the best of the three that we have inspected. I was particularly pleased and impressed with the appearance and performance of the cadet battalion. The cadet leadership is outstanding."

Lieutenant Colonel Benjamin F. Ivey, Jr., the Professor of Military Science at Presbyterian College, had these remarks: "Colonel Hutchinson and his team conducted a thorough inspection of all aspects of our ROTC program and our cadets were ready and equal to the task. I am extremely proud of the performance of our professinal competence of our student leaders. The performance of the Ddum and Bugle Crps was outstanding and drew special acmalim from the members of the inspection team."

"The performance of the cadet battalion can best be summed up by saying that the traditional Blue Hose spirit existed in full measure during the inspection—another job well done."

PC's Four Delegates Attend YR Convention

The Young Republican Convention was held last April 8, at the Jack Tar Hotel in Greenville. Delegates from YR clubs all over the state attended. The number of delegates depended upon the total membreship of each club, and USC, 9 delegates; Clemson, 15 delegates; Newberry, 6 delegates; Furman, 5 delegates; PC, 4 delegates; SJC, 4 delegates; Winthrop, 3 delegates; Converse, 2 delegates; and Erskine, with one delegate attended.

Delegates from PC were David Hood, Jim Therrell, Andy Phrydas, Buddy Williams, and Ken Durkee, as alternate.

Miss Vicki Brown ran for chairman of the state board and lost by one vote in the Clemson caucus, which with 15 votes held the key position. Clemson votes by the unit rule. Andy Phrydas was defeated by a very narrow margin in the race for second co-chairman. The final winners of the state seats were Calvin Means of Newberry for chairman, Nick Atria of USC for 1st co-chairman, Harris Beach of Clemson for 2nd co-chairman, Laurie Viggiano of Newberry for corresponding secretary, Eirnly Wilson of Winthrop for recording secretary, Rick Huffman of SJC for treasurer.

The convention proved very instructive in the "art" of politics, and everyone atending had a very enjoyable time. The keynote speaker, Jim Duffie, Republican representative from the 2nd district, gave a well-planned and informative speech on the techniques of politics and the rising future of the Republican party in the South.

The YR Club of PC looks forward to the next convention, and it is likely, from a poll taken after the convention, that next year they will succeed in obtaining the chairman's seat. A party was held in Capri's afterwards.

BROADWAY

SATURDAY — ONE DAY
Destination Inner Space
Scott Brady, Sheree North, Gary Merrill

MON.-WED., APRIL 24-26
The Professionals
Burt Lancaster, Lee Marvin, Robert Ryan, Jack Palance, Ralph Bellamy, with Claudia Cardinelle as Maria.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV — Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Saturday, April 22, 1967 — No. 20

Students To Receive Annual Late; Printer's April 1 Deadline Not Met

According to Harold Jacobs, of Jacobs Brothers Printing Company in Clinton, this year's PaC SaC will not be released until after May 11. This late release date is due to the fact that many of the sections were not at the printers by the April 1 deadline. One of the many factors which caused this was that because of the early graduation date, a good portion of the spring activities occurred after April 1.

Editor Hugh Weldon says that if the book had been composed and set in type before the deadline, it would have lacked many of the spring activities, especially the sports. As it stands now, many of these later activities as well as commencement exercises will not be included in the annual.

Weldon and Sarah Stribling, the new editor, have sugested two alternatives for solving this time problem. One is to use last year's photographs and materials on the late spring functions and the other is to compose the annual after school is out and either mail the books to students and/or give them out at the beginning of the following fall semester.

The latter plan is not in effect for two reasons, tradition and economy. It is the tradition at most schools that the annuals be given out at the end of the second semester; this way it means more for the graduating seniors. If this tradition was not followed, the mailing costs for wrapping materials, postage, and clerical work would become almost intolerable. According to Ben Hay Hammet, the mailing cost this year will probably be absorbed by the business office with no increase in the students' fees.

Mr. Hammet continued by saying that this present tradition was carried out because students do not mind missing the continuity and more extensive coverage of spring activities afforded by a later release of the annual. Weldon, however, feels that if an even later release idea was used, it would remove a great deal of the tension and pressure on the editor which is now felt by having the annual come out at the end of the second semester.

Students can expect to receive their yearbooks by mail as soon as the books are printed, probably in the latter part of May.

SGA to Send Four Students To SUSGA Meet Next Week

By DICK QUERY

With less than three weeks left in the school year, the Student Council has much to do.

Four student body representatives will attend the 1967 Southern Universities Student Government Association annual convention April 27-29 in Mobile, Ala. Schools from ten states will be represented at this convention, and discussion groups will be held on such subjects as the inter-fraternity council, the student government association, honor and judiciary councils, school spirit and proctor systems.

"We have learned from past SUSGA conventions that many ideas for improvement can be obtained," said David Berry, current student body president. The PC representative in addition to Berry are Dan O'Connell, Alex Erwin, and David Gravely.

Within two weeks the SGA budget for 1967-68 is expected to be completed. Members of any organization who feel that their particular group should be included under the SGA budget should contact Treasurer John Walther immediately.

Because of the lack of pay telephones on campus, a Student Council committee was appointed to look into the possibilities of obtaining some more pay stations which would be open at all hours. As a result two new pay stations will bt installed within the next two weeks. One will probably be placed on the second floor of Douglas House, and the other will probably be in Neville Hall. The Student Council has expressed the hope that students will protect the privilege by seeing that no damage is done to these new facilities. Any damage will result in the removal of these new pay stations.

Committees which will complete their work by the end of the school year are those on the Reading Day, the Proctor System, and the Matriculation Pledge. The Council is in hope of obtaining a Reading Day before exams next year. It also ftels that the entire Proctor System needs to be revised so that better proctors will be chosen, the penalties will be more effective, and that the proctors will have more authority vested in them. There is also hope that the matriculation pledge will be revised in order to eliminate some outdated and impractical clauses of the pledge.

A letter has been sent to Dr. Weersing voicing a proposal for a two-chapel per week system. It is felt by the Student Council that by initiating such a system, the quality of programs can be improved which will hopefully lead to more interest on the part of the student body.

A study is being made of in the intramural program in the hope that it can be improved and more effectively carried out in the future.

Next Campus Movie Is "Major Dundee"

The last campus movie will be "Major Dundee," to be shown in Richardson on next Tuesday evening at 7:30.

One of the most rousing Civil War stories to hit the screen, "Major Dundee" is a hard-hitting, slinging document of the Apache masacre that sent the US Cavalry crashing across the Mexican Border in hot pursuit.

Led by Major Dundee in defiance of orders, Company B is made up of misfits, criminals, and confederate prisoners. Second in command is Captain Benjamin Tyreen, fellow graduate of West Point and former close friend of Dundee.

Fighting on opposing sides during the war, their friendship has given way to seething hatred. Now, Tyreen and his fellow confederates have been given the choice of fighting the Apaches or facing a firing squad. Dundee is to be the loser in either case. Tyreen has vowed to kill him in a duel if the Apaches don't get him first.

Yarborough
Studio and Camera Shop
Phone 833-1900
Cameras - Film - Processing

Reed, McCallum Lead Track Team To 117-28 Victory Over Guilford

Richard Reed breaks the tape in the 100-yard wash Wednesday. He won with a time of 10.6 seconds.

By TOM CAIN

Making its strongest showing of the season, the PC track team defeated Guilford 117-28 Wednesday in Clinton.

Led by Johnny McCallum and Richard Reed, PC won every track event of the dual meet. McCallum won the 220-yard dash with a time of 24 seconds, and won the 440-yard dash in 53.5 seconds.

Reed won the 100-yard dash with a time of 10.6 seconds, the 120 high hurdles in 16.7, and placed in the 220-yard dash.

John Lown won the 880-yard dash. James Challen won the mile run. Ellis Jenkins won the two-mile run. Don Taylor won the 330-yard intermediate hurdles with a time of 43 seconds. Monk Milligan and freshman Rick Little each placed second in two events.

The Hose slipped in the field events, losing three first places to Guilford in the pole vault, the high jump, and the javelin. Jim Bush won the discus and shot put events. Doug Bowles won the broad jump, with a jump of 21 feet. Reed won the triple jump with a distance of 40½ feet.

The Blue Hose won both of the relay events. The 440 relay team won with a time 46.1 seconds. The PC mile team won with a time of 3:46.

SATURDAY'S MEET

Last Saturday PC finished second in a triangular meet with Wofford and Mars Hill. Wofford won with a total of 89½ points, PC had 55 points, and Mars Hill placed last with a total of 36½ points.

Richard Reed led PC with first places in the 330 mile hurdles, the broad jump and the triple jump. Crout of Wofford won the 100-yard dash, the 220, and the 440. Wood of Mars Hill won the shot put, discus, and javelin events.

James Challen got PC's only other first place in the mile run. Ellis Jenkins finished second in the two-mile run. Rick Little finished second in the 880-yard dash. Second place in the javelin was taken by Dave Hudson. PC finished second in the mile relay.

Robert Hope vaults over the bar for a first place finish in Wednesday's track meet with Guilford.

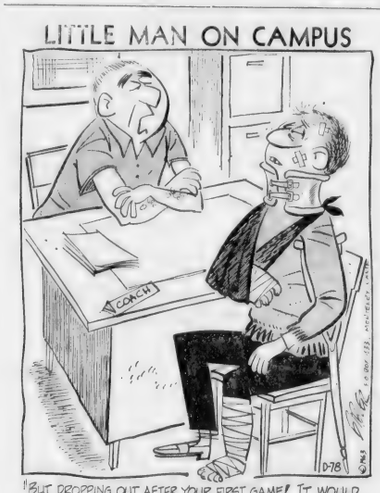
PiKA's Lead IM Baseballers With Perfect Record of 4-0

By GENE SULLIVAN

Pi Kappa Alpha, by posting a perfect record, has assumed first place in the intramural softball standings. In their first game they led the Spencer nine, 19-7, behind "Butterbean" Harris' fatball. They next disposed of the Bandits 15-10, outhit the KA's 21-12, and then cut a determined Sigma Nu rally 9-7.

The Theta Chi's, backed by a good hitting attack and sharp infielding beat the Pounders, then cut the Alpha Sig's. The twice-defeated Bandits then pulled an upset by edging the Theta's 8-5 after losing to the Order and the PIKA's. The Theta Chi's then rallied to beat an inexperienced Spencer team.

A dark horse team, the Pounders, composed of independents and other "dead weight" crushed Spencer then lost to the Alpha Sig's and Theta Chi's before rebounding to swat the winless Pi Kapp's.



After losing their first tussle with the Theta Chi's, the Alpha Sig's have come on strong to give the league a shakeup in standings. They beat the Pounders, then a tough KA team 14-11.

Spencer and the Pi Kapps fought it out in the battle of the winless and spencer got the best of that one.

The Sigma Nu's are 1-1; they beat the PiKapp's and lost to the PiKA's.

Standings of Wed., April 19

	W	L
PiKA	4	0
Theta Chi	3	1
Alpha Sig	2	2
Pounders	2	2
Sigma Nu	1	3
Kappa Alpha	1	3
Bandits	1	3
Spencer	1	3
Pi Kapp	0	4

Sale Leads PC Golfers By Augusta 455-460

By JOHN HARDY

The Presbyterian College golfers defeated Augusta College 455-460 in a match played Thursday. The University of Mercer forfeited to Presbyterian when they were not present at tee-off time. The Hosemen have now boosted their record to 11-2. The match was played at Persimmon Hill Country Club, a neutral coures in Saluda. The match was medal play with total aggregate score determining the winner. David Sale was medalist in the match with a 36-35 for an 18-hole total of 71. Sale played a superb round of golf, hitting 17 greens in regulation. The scores for PC were: Tim Yancey, 75; Alan Parsons, 75; Ashton Blount, 77; Steve Albright, 78; Terry Clyburn, 79. The golfers' next match will be April 24 against Pfeiffer and Appalachian at Boone, N. C.

STATE TOURNAMENT

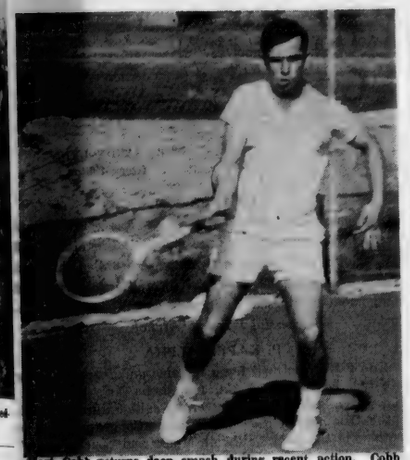
The University of South Carolina captured the State Tournament which was played April 14-15 by defeating the Presbyterian team by three strokes. The tournament was played at the Hampton Country Club in Hampton. The Blue Hose won the Little Four Championship by defeating Erskine, Newberry, and Wofford. Ashton Blount was medalist for the Little Four with a 71-73 for a two-round total of 144, par for 36 holes. Blount also placed third in the Inidivdual State Tournament. Freshman Terry Clyburn, who is undefeated in match play, captured seventh place with a three over par 147.

Tim Yancey prepares to hit a wedge shot to the green at Lakeside Country Club. He shot a three-over par in Thursday's match.

The Cleaning Center for PC Students . . .

SUNSHINE
Cleaners
. . . and . . .
Laundry

Quality Work — Quick Service — Shirt Specialists
Expert Shoe Repair and Self-Service Washeteria
Florida Street Behind Post Office — 833-1492



the child born less than perfect...

...shadows many lives

One family in ten knows the tragedy of having a defective child. Almost 80% of all birth defects can be treated. Your March of Dimes contribution helps to finance more care and more research to find ways to prevent birth defects.

fight birth defects
JOIN MARCH OF DIMES

Hart Cobb returns deep smash during recent action. Cobb plays number five in singles and plays on the number three doubles team.

Netters Lose to U. of Georgia But Defeat Apps and Duke

The Blue Hose netters split their four matches during the past week to finish with a winning season, 11-9.

The Hose ended on a losing note, however, as a strong Georgia Teach team blanked PC, 9-0, with only the number two doubles going to three sets. In this match Doug Haynie and Robbie Hibbits took the first set from Steve Menks and John Taylor, 6-1, but dropped the next two, 6-3, 6-0.

The Hose easily defeated Appalachian, 6-0, in a rain-shortened match. PC also defeated Duke by a 7-2 score.

Defending ACC champion, North Carolina, white-washed the Hose, 9-0, but PC made a good showing in spite of the final outcome. Although UNC lost the services of ranking player, Bitsy Harrison, they are still a genuine powerhouse, ranking among the best in the nation in tennis.

Jim Amaya threw a scare into Carolina's Gene Hamilton before losing, 6-4, 6-2. Both Howdy Letzring and Larry Connelly went the full three sets, as Connelly won his first set 6-3 over Bronson Van Wyck before dropping the next two 6-4 and 6-0. In doubles the story was much the same as Hort Cobb and Connelly pushed their opponents to the limit before falling 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

PC Takes 11-9 Mark into Tourney; USC, Clemson Are Favored to Win

By MIKE SIMONS

The PC net men take an 11-9 record into the State Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament held today and tomorrow at the Maxcy Gregg courts at the University of South Carolina.

The tourney should be one of the closest in recent years, with any one of several teams given a chance to take home the championship trophy. The host USC team ranks as one of the pre-tournament favorites along with defending champion Clemson.

In their only meeting of the season Clemson edged Carolina 5-4 by taking the final doubles match, but the home court advantage will be an all-important factor in the state meet.

PC looms as a dark-horse candidate, their only intrastate losses coming at the hands of these two favorites. Another team which could bring a few surprises is The Citadel. On a given day the Cadets could make it rough on anyone they play. Erskine is also asigned a dark-horse role for the tourney.

Clemson will be out to make it three state championships in a row, as they finished eight points ahead of PC, their nearest contenders, in last season's tuorney. This year before the Tigers dethroned the Blue Hose from their long-standing number one position by one point.

Carolina would like to take the tournament and attain the tennis prestige which has been missing for so long on the USC campus, and this could well be the year of the Gamecock. USC boasts a strong squad liberally sprinkled with sopohomores, including Bobby Heald and Jay Schlosser.

Since PC lost to Clemson and Carolina by scores of 9-0 and 8-1, respectively, they would have to be considered long shots.

The competition for individual honors is also shaping up to be a battle royal wih several candidaes in he running for op singles honors.

Clemson's Zulfi Rahim is the defending state intercollegiate champion after defeating PC's Bob Harris last year. Rahim may not be able to defend his title this season for the simple reason that he may not be playing number one for the Tigers in the state meet. David Cooper has been alternating with Rahim at the top spot, and it will be up to Clemson coach Duane Bouley to decide which man wil play the number one position. Cooper seems to have the edge at this writing.

USC's Heald or teammate Schlosser figures to be among those battling it out for top individual honors, as does The Citadel's Tee Hooper.

PC's Jim Amaya also has an excellent chance to cop the state singles crown although he lost to both Cooper and Schlosser in regular season play. Amaya has progressed rapidly as the season has progressed, and if he plays up to his potential, he could bring home the singles trophy.

In number one doubles competition the team to beat seems to be Clemson's Rahim and Cooper, who are undefeated for the season.

Clemson and Carolina are nearly even on down the line, but PC, The Citadel, or Erskine should come up with some upsets.

Commenting on the outlook for PC in the state tournament, Coach Jim Shakespeare said, "We're going to do down there and do our best in the tournament."

Team captain Larry Connelly was cautiously optimsitic over PC's chances, saying, "The field is very strong and evenly balanced this year, possibly more so than in any other season. I think the team will surprise a few people with their showing in the state tourney."

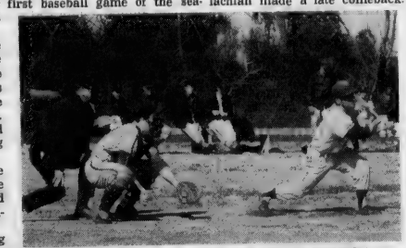
Baseballers Win Three

By TOM CAIN

With key hitting and consistent pitching, the PC baseball team was able to extend its one-game "winning streak" yesterday by sweeping a double-header from Elon. The Blue Hose won 4-3 and 3-2, with the last game lasting eight innings.

In the second game Mike Thurston singled to lead off the eighth inning when the score was tied 3-3. Gene Robbins was safe at first on an error while Thurston moved to second base. One out later Bobby Byard tripled to deep left field driving in the winning run.

PC scored three runs in the sixth inning of the second game on hits by Thurston, Hackle, and Robbins after Ed Pauling reached first on an infield error.



Bob McBee was the winning pitcher for PC in the first game. He gave up five hits in six innings of relief work.

Rad Free turned in the best pitching performance of the year for the Hose in the first game. He gave up only one hit while striking out men in pitching the complete seven innings.

PC scored its three runs of the first game in the first two innings. The first run came on a walk to Breedlove, a double by Robbins, and a run-scoring single by Hackle.

In the second inning Larry Bullis singled and scored with two out on Rad Free's base hit. An error by the rgit fielder enabled Free to advance to third base. A following single by Breedlove scored the PC pitcher easily.

Backing up Paul Ferguson's two-hit relief pitching with timely hitting, Presbyterian won its first baseball game of the season 7-4 against Appalachian on April 19. Playing the second game of a doubleheader, the Blue Hose scored all their runs in the first innings and held on in the last two innings as Appalachian made a late comeback.

Breedlove swings away in rrecent win for PC baseball team.

After John Griggs had walked in the first inning and scored on the centerfielder's error, Bob Hackle walked to lead off the second inning for the Blue Hose. Ferguson walked after Hackle and Larry Bullis singled bringing home Hackle with PC's second run. Two more singles by Charlie Breedlove and Griggs, and an error by the Appalachian shortstop produced the other three runs.

In the Presbyterian half of the third inning, Bullis homered scoring Ferguson ahead of him, sixth and seventh runs. In the Appalachian half of the sixth inning, Byrd hit a three-run homer off Ferguson, but the Blue Hose had already won their first game of the year.

In the first game of the doubleheader, Presbyterian got only two hits, one by Hackle and the other by catcher Mike Thurston. Appalachian scored four runs in the first inning, two in the second inning, and one in the sixth inning, handing George Lindsay the loss for PC.

Presbyterian's record for the year is now 1-9, with their next games against Elon at Clinton and Wofford at Spartanburg on Saturday.

True Sporting: Hill Climbing

BILL

A sure sporting event will be able to be observed this weekend in Chimney Rock, N. C. That is a hill climb.

Many feel that a hill climb is the toughest form of car racing. It has the three main parts of racing combined in it—speed, maneuverability, and endurance. Drag racing requires only quick acceleration. Stock car racing needs more speed than maneuvering.

One of the few in this area is the 21st annual Rock Sports Car Hill Cimb. Observers will be able to see all the popular sport cars in their run for the top. Saturday has been set aside for trial runs with the actual race being scheduled for Sunday. The winner will receive a $2000 purse.

An interesting part of the activities this weekend will be the personal duel between John Scott of Columbia and Ted Tidwell of Augusta.

Scott has driven in 19 of the 20 Chimney Rock Hill Climbs and has come away with 23 trophies in that time. He is also the defending champion and course record holder. Scott drove his 289 Cobra to a record time of 2:10.5 last year. Most critics felt that the Cobra had too much power to perform in the hill climb but Scott and car owner, John Seibels of Columbia, made believers out of the skeptics.

Tidwell won at Chimney Rock in 1965 in a Porsche GTS and at that time established the course record of 2:11.2. This year Tidwell is back with but one aim in mind. That is to win the title back from Scott and set a new course record of his own. Tidwell is coming back in a Lotus 23 to battle Scott. The race should break down into a test speed versus maneuverability.

These two men along with about 40 more will make up the field or hopefuls. All are eyeing the eventual distinction of going beneath the two-minute mark. This should come as the course record has been lowered more and more each year. This has come about due to better drivers and faster cars.

The course is 1.9 miles long and has thirteen hairpin curves. The grade of the hill reaches eight percent. It should prove to be a very enjoyable event to all those who are able to attend.

Business Graduates Hired

Graduates of the Economics and Business Administration programs offered at Presbyterian College have chosen employment in one of several fields, Dr. Fred Chapman announced this week.

The fields which these people have elected to enter are banking, insurance sales and adjustment, retail sales, management trainee programs, accounting, and civilian government service.

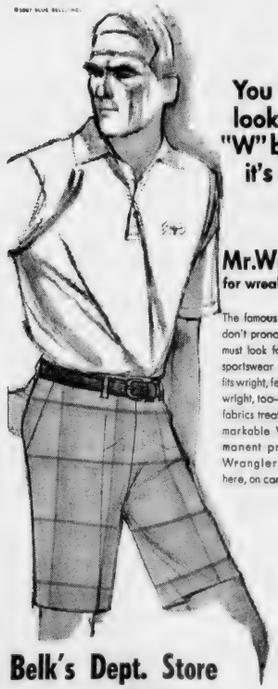
Graduates have accepted employment with such banks as the Citizens and Southern National Bank of Atlanta, the First National Bank of South Carolina, the Bank of Georgia, and the South Carolina National Bank.

The U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has also offered employment. In the area of retail sales, some graduates plan to work for such companies as Sears Department Stores, Rich's Department Stores, and Davison's Department Stores.

The IBM Corporation has accepted applications from PC graduates, as has the Humble Oil Corporation and the Gulf Oil Corporation. Two food store chains, the Kroger Cmpany and Winn-Dixie, Incorporated, have offered employment.

Several utilities, among them Southern Bell Telephone and the Southern Railway, have accepted applications from PC graduates. Insurance firms such as Crawford and Liberty Life have offered employment.

Many of these employment positions were offered with full knowledge that a military obligation must first be rendered. The salary range was approximately between $5700 and $7200, with an automobile occasionally included.



In addition, several graduates of the program are planning to attend graduate or profesional schools. Two majors are planning to attend the University of South Carolina and Clemson University, respectively, with stipends ranging between $1800 and $3240. Offers with stipends were also extended by the University of Florida and the University of Georgia.

Cont'd. from p. 2, Col 5

purpose. They exist only as "honors" and as pawns for fraternities to use during rush. Unless some purposeful duties are assigned to these nebulous nine, and unless they carry out more of a useful function in the future, these positions should be eliminated. I estimate that over twenty man-hours were wasted by the Student Council on these elections which ultimately result in nothing worthwhile.

Much could be said about the major deficiencies this year's intramural program and the slackness within the PaC SaC staff, but now these are water over the dam. We can only hope that persons involved with these aspects of campus life in the future will look on this year and quoth, "Nevermore!"

Having presented you with a jumble of probably meaningless minor criticisms, and being engulfed by a steady flow of spring fever I am inclined to stop and bid you a fond adieu.

You have to look for the "W" because it's silent.

Mr.Wrangler®
for wreal sportswear.

The famous silent "W": you don't pronounce it, but you must look for it if you want sportswear that looks wright, fits wright, feels wright. Made wright, too—many in no-iron fabrics treated with the wremarkable Wranglok® permanent press finish. Mr. Wrangler sportswear is here, on campus, in your size.

Belk's Dept. Store
Clinton, S. C.

Jokers Pull Joke

The Jokers Three Productions "rgerets" that the Tams never received the PC contract for the night of April 13. The contract was misiaid when the agent through which the Student Entertainment Committee was working quit his job.

The contract was never sent to the Tams, according to the Jokers Three.

The Jokers Three will return the $300 deposit made by the SEC, and has made a promise for Moses Dillard and the Dynamic Showmen with the Nomads possibly for next year for $400.

Chapel Schedule

All seniors must go to chapel Monday. After the regular chapel service, they will practice for graduation.

Wednesday — Worship Service with Chaplain Thomas Stallworth.

BE MY GUEST, BUT PLEASE...

Only you can prevent forest fires!

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Sadler-Owens Pharmacy
Stationery, School Supplies

WELCOME, P. C. STUDENTS
•
Adair's Men's Shop
— Court Square —

The Greeks

By SANDY LYNN
Greek Editor

PI KAPPA PHI

The party last weekend was a bg success. Rosey w presented at the party to Rose Queen Dottie McDo of Charlotte, N. C. New officers were installed this week. Brother of the week is Neill McKay for his re engagement to Marsha Montgomery of PC, and the clusion of a successful term as Archon.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

The PiKA's softball team remains undefeated, ha defeated the Bandits, KA's, and Sigma Nu's this w "It was really hot" in the fraternity suite Saturday ni as the Originals helped blow it out. Congratulation Brothers of the week Caldwell, Monk, and "Lucky Dr Glover. Thanks to pledges Jameson and Chapman playing "Smokey the Sot."

SIGMA NU

The Nu's have broken even so far in softball, wi win over the PiKapp's and a loss to the PiKA's. (gratulations to Steve Lehman who was voted into brotherhood Tuesday night. Brothers Crim and Hi managed to pick up brown helmets over the weekend brother Erwin has finally found his place in the w The addition to the house is coming along fine, and u the direction of Hedden, should be finished in the two weeks.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

The Alpha Sig's would like to announce that Sa Alexander is the Tambourine Girl of 1967. Alpha Pl currently readying for next week's visit by Ed Mad administrative secretary of the national office. (gratulations are extended to Brother Ray Combs who ned Miss Carol Thompson of PC and also to Brother J McGehee who has pinned Miss Karen Raines of Col bia College. By the way, Miss Nancy Hollis has lava ed Brother John Greer; we now send social forms to C The softball team is off to a wondeful start, due to sliding of "Strawberry" Lyons. Brothers of the week Combs, McGehee, and Greer.

KAPPA ALPHA

The Kappa's enjoyed a quiet weekend during Sp Swing with a small combo party Saturday night. The M award goes to the whole Order, except for Smith Bu and the other SGA officers. We were glad to see Bob Johnson could make it back Saturday. Plans for the ca ing weekend include the Hill Climbs. Hero of the w is Tommy Greer for his outstanding softball game.

THETA CHI

The annual Theta Chi Senior Supper was a great s cess Wednesday night. It honored Senior Brothers G Bowie, Starling Ray, and Jim Bell. Congratulation Brother George Latimer, who is pinned to Miss Brit Baucom of Winthrop, and Brother Starling Ray, wh engaged to Miss Billie Carol Still. "The Soul Set" p vided music for a typically out-of-sight Theta Chi pa at Lake Greenwood Saturday night, and what's m they were on time!

HOWARD'S PHARMACY
"YOUR REXALL DRUG STORE"
Drugs . . . Fountain Service . . . Gifts
ON THE SQUARE

TOWN - N - COUNTRY
CENTER
Ye Olde Malt Shoppe — Minit Mart
Washeteria — Barber Shop

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLV | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, April 28, 1967 | No. 21

U. S. Steel Honors PC Alumni Program Headed by Hammet

Presbyterian College won first place nationally in the United States Steel 1967 Alumni Giving Incentive Awards competition among small private co-educational colleges, the American Alumni Council announced today.

Under this program, recognition and monetary awards are given to those institutions which, by decision of a panel of impartial judges, have recorded outstanding achievement in their annual alumni funds, either for improvement or for sustained performance.

Presbyterian College, cited for improvement, will receive a $1,000 check, a certificate and the US Steel trophy. These will be presented during the American Alumni Council 52nd General Conference in San Francisco at the opening banquet and awards session on July 12.

The PC program is headed by Ben Hay Hammet, director of alumni and public relations. Presbyterian has ranged high in previous years, but this represents the first time the college has received one of the top national awards of the US Steel Foundation.

In reporting on the award, George J. Cooke, Jr., executive director of the American Alumni Council, wrote to PC President Marc C. Weersing: "On behalf of the judges, the American Alumni Council and the United States Steel Foundation extend congratulations to all who had a part in bringing this new distinction to your college."

Dr. A. Hollis Edens Will Deliver Commencement Speech May 14

By DAN ROBERTS

Two days of activity will mark the 87th PC commencement exercises as PC prepares to award approximately one hundred seniors diplomas. The commencement speaker will be Dr. A. Hollis Edens, former president of Duke University.

Saturday night will feature the annual Senior-Alumni dinner. Alumni President Sam Cornwall will introduce the speaker, Charles B. MacDonald, Deputy Chief Historian of the Department of the Army, will be here to receive an honorary Doctor of Letters at graduation exercises the next day.

The pace quickens on Sunday as the traditional Baccalaureate Service is held at 11:00 A. M. in Belk Auditorium with the Rev. Fitzhugh Legerton delivering the morning address. He will also receive an honorary Doctor of Divinity that afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Weersing's reception is to be given for the graduating Seniors and their parents at 2:00 at the President's home.

Later, about 4:15, the Commencement itself will begin. In addition to the presentation of awards, the commissioning of 16 graduating ROTC cadets and the delivery of diplomas, Dr. A. Hollis Edens, former president of Duke University, will deliver the main Commencement address. He will talk on "Conversation-Education."

Edens did his undergraduate and Masters work at Emory University in Atlanta, and received his PhD. from Harvard.

Dr. Edens served as president of Duke from 1949 to 1960. After retiring from Duke in 1960, Dr. Edens became executive director of the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation and is now serving as an advisor of the Anne Stouffer Foundation.

DR. A. HOLLIS EDENS

Through the years, Dr. Edens has held such positions as the president of the National Commission of Accreditation, president of the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the Methodist Church, executive committee member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the member of two presidential committees on higher education. Dr. Edens was the vice-chancellor of the University System of Georgia, an Emory University dean and currently serves as a member of the Emory Board of Trustees. Many years of work and eight honorary degrees later, Edens is one of the most revered educators in the nation.

LEGERTON

MacDONALD

Edens is married to the former Mary Bussell and they have one child.

Seniors and their parents will be guests of the college at a noon-day meal in Greenville Hall on Sunday.

Blue Key Taps Seven Rising Seniors In Annual Spring Rituals Monday

The PC chapter of the Blue Key National Honor Fraternity tapped eight new members— seven students and one faculty member—in its annual spring ceremony Monday in chapel.

The new men, chohen on the basis of leadership, character, and scholarship, are Robert E. Staton, Henry M. Smith, David P. Berry, Richard T. Quillen, Joseph W. Dunlap, Robert D. Lynn, Charles W. Eagles, and Professor Earl B. Halsall.

Mr. Halsall, Professor of Political Science and advisor to the IFC, was given an honorary membership.

At the initiation ceremony Wednesday night, the officers for next year were elected. They are Bobby Staton, president; Sandy Lynn, vice-president; and Charles Eagles, secretary-treasurer.

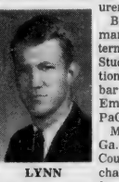
Bobby Staton serves as Commander of the Sigma Nu fraternity and vice-president of the Student Government Association. He is a member of Scabbar dand Blade. Staon is from Emporia, Va. He was on the PaC SaC staff this year.

Mac Smith, from Marietta, Ga., has served on the Honor Council for two years. He is chairman of the Honor Council for next year. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order. He is assistant editor of the PaC SaC and will serve in that capacity next year, too.

David Berry is President of the Student Government Association. He is from Union and is a member of Scabbard and Blade. Berry is also brother in KA fraternity.

Richard Quillen is from

See KINGSPORT, P. 5, Col. 3.



BERRY

DUNLAP

EAGLES

LYNN

QUILLEN

SMITH

STATON

HALSALL

ROTC Awards Day Program Recognizes 15 Top Cadets

Yesterday the Military Science Department of PC conducted the annual ROTC Awards Day ceremonies. Awards were presented to the outstanding members of the cadet corps by dPM Lt. Col Benjamin F. Ivey, Dr. Joseph M. Gettys, and John Horne, representative of American Legion Post No. 56 of Clinton.

The Certificate of Meritorious Leadership was presented to Cadet Lt. Col. Grady A. Marshall, the battalion commander. The Superior Cadet Awards for MS I, II, III, and IV were presented to Jim Ritchie, James Powell, Danny Wyatt, and Sherwood McKay, respectively.

Other awards presented included the following: ROTC Military Achievement Award to Evin Pamplin; Wysor Saber to Jim Ritchie; Scabbard and Blade Medals for MS IV and III to Grady Marshall and Randy Grant; Association of the U. S. Army Medal to Richard Quillen.

Also, Reserve Officers of South Carolina Medal to James Powell; Sons of the American Revolution Award to Bill Kirtland; Wysor Medal to Sherwood McKay; American Legion Medals for Scholastic Excellence MSIV to Max Milligan, American Legion Medal for Military Excellence MS IV to Bob Herlong.

Also, American Legion Medal for Scholastic Excellence MS III to David Berry, American Legion Medal for Military Excellence MS III to Joe Dunlap; Hudson Military Award for MS IV and MS III to Max Milligan and Jim Bush, respectively.

Rifle team trophies were given to Fred Lockwood for the highest individual score, to Bob Thrower for the highest average, and to Danny Wyatt for the second highest average.

Blue Power Is Coming

Dear Students:

In an effort to revamp the cheerleading program we would like to include the entire student body in our plans. In order to give the student body a better chance to participate in promoting spirit and supporting our teams, the Blue Hose Boosters is being formed.

To promote more school spirit the Blue Hose Boosters will help with pep rallies and publicize all sports events. The Blue Hose Boosters will also form caravans to support our teams at away games and will partially sponsor the cheerleaders.

This is the pefect opportunity to make school spirit something to be proud of at PC. This is an important step in our altogether new program for 1967-68. The organizational meeting for the Blue Hose Boosters is in Belk Auditorium at 7:45 Tuesday night. This is the chance we, as PC students, have been asking for to show that Presbyterian College will progress in coming years.

THE CHEERLEADERS

The Blue Stocking

Published weekly by and for the students of Presbyterian College. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the S. C. Student Press Association. Second-class postage paid at Clinton, S. C. 29325.

Tony Dendy, Mng. Editor — Charles Eagles, Editor — Kirk Peavy, Bus. Mgr.

Assistant Editors — Alex Erwin, Rush Otey
Assistant Business Manager — Robert Gualtieri
News Editor — Jim Roberts
Copy Editor — Don Flowers
Feature Editors — Karen Weaver, Bill Scott
Sports Editor — Bill Bassham
Cartoonist — Jim Brewer
Contributors — Bruce McCutchen, Jack Howard, John Hardy, Dan Roberts, Karen Bremer, Robin Williams, Sandy Lynn.
Photographers — David Hood and James Howard

Positive Functions

Last month we received a bulletin from the United States Student Press Association that described the Blue Stocking and PC too well.

Ken Winter, co-director of USSPA's 1966 summer seminar in issues of higher education, pointed out weaknesses in the coverage of college newspapers.

Mr. Winter described several conditions which he believed must be achieved before a college can function will, before it can do anything positive: ". . . . "there must be adequate resources: faculty, money, buildings—mainly money; and there must be the absence of impediments to th positive functions: outside meddling, censorship in speech and writing, stupid rules, grading, etc. Let me call the attaining or preserving of these esentials for merely a decent place where thins can happn the maintenance functions."

Winter continued by saying that ". . . college papers . . . write almost exclusively about these maintenance functions—when one breaks down, as in a censroship crisis; when one is restored or buttressed, as when a new source of money is found . . ."

He emphasized that newspapers and colleges should be more concerned with other subjects. He called them ". . . . the positive functions—the ideas and events that make it worth having, attending and maintaining a college in the first place; the kinds of things that 'education is all about.'

"(oT distinguish again: a maintenance function is necessary but not itself interesting; it is noticed only when it breaks down; a positive function is intrinsically interesting, it is that great moment in your education, and the people or ideas that produce such moments.)"

Winter maintained that college newspapers concentrate too much on the maintenance functions, and not enough on the positive functions. We agree.

However, is the lack of coverage by the Blue Stocking of these positive functions due to neglect or is there generally a lack of concern with the positive functions on this campus?

It is hoped that next year all groups on the campus will take more interest in "what education is all about" and make PC truly a college worth maintaining and attending.

A Modest Proposal---'67

(Editor's Note: The editor received the following note yesterday: "If you will be present at the corner of Maple and South Adair at the stroke of twelve tonight, you will receove something of vital importance. Sincerely, Isaac Bickerstaff.'. Reprinted here is the manuscript which was hurled from a speeding vehicle.)

It is a melancholy object to those who are familiar with Presbyterian College when they hear the institution being denounced, deprecated, and slandered at every pass, and when they see mounting feelings of distrust, suspicion, aid isolation in the students, the faculty, and the administration. I think it is agreed by all parties that the present state of the college is deplorable, and therefore whoever could find out a fair, cheap, and easy method of resolving these conditions would deserve so well as to have his statute set up as a preserver of the institution.

For my own part, having turned my thoughts upon this important subject and maturely weighed various solutions, I have concluded that any improvement depends solely on a thorough application of psychiatric principles to the situation at hand. The crux of the problem became clear to me while I was perusing the March, 1967, Archives of General Psychiatry. My attention was riveted on the following statement by William S. Appleton, M. D., in his article, "Concentration, the Phenomoneon and Its Disruption." "Required to postpone or diminish sexual and other gratifications while in College, the adolescent or young adult unconsciously displaces his frustration onto the institution."

Suddenly it seemed incredible that no one had previously recognized this condition as the underlying cause of the problems which presently beset our venerable institution. With equal alacrity the means of resolving any adverse conditions here became imprinted in my consciousness, and I cannot but believe that the immediate enactment of this means wil speedily rectify the situation that exists.

I shall now therefore humbly propose my own thoughts, which I hope will not liable to the least objection.

I have been assured by a very knowing Californian member of the Berkeley Sexual Freedom League that a free expression of sexual drives leads to increased powers of concentration, aid love of God and country. I believe I am not being presumptuous in including, among these other beneficoal results, increased love of Alma Maetr.

In consequence I submit the following two-fold scheme to alleviate the widespread repression of these drives which is now prevalent among the students at Presbyterian. First, I propose that birth control pills be freely distributed to the female students. Secondly, I propose that a group of courtesans be subsidized to visit each men's dorm on alternate nights to give vent to all the pent-up tensions of the male students.

A corresponding group of males of easy virtue need not be employed for the coeducational students, for there are bound to be a sufficient number of civic-minded male students who will volunteer to serve the needs of Clinton Hall. In fact it is not too improbable to anticipate that within a few years this program might be completely self-sufficient. The ramifications of this scheme offer nothing but gain to all groups concerned.

Such a plan should certainly be acceptable to the administration, or it would transform the problem from a complex one involving values, personalities, and emotions to a relatively simple one involving only finance, implementation, and coordination. Moreover, no one can doubt the administrative ability to deal satisfactorily with such matters the recrection of several new buildings and the continued erection of other building and funding programs attests to its competency in this area.

The faculty also should be pleased with this plan, for removing the cause of student frustration it would increase the student's ability to concentrate. The resulting improvement in academic success would raise the academic standing of Presbyterian. The faculty would doubtlessly receive credit for this advancement, and consequently they could demand with justification more academic freedom, such as the right to determine the curriculum, more security against failure to get new contracts, and larger salaries.

Finally, the students stand to benefit the most from such a program, for they would achieve a hitherto unimagined degree the primary goal of a college: gratification. No longer would frustration from repressed sexual drives manifest itself in aggression directed toward bulletin boards, candy machines, windows, head proctor or administrative assistants, or the institution in general.

Rather, the energy from these drives would be channeled into natural, healthful outlets. Dressing, formerly the primary means of tension reduction would cease almost entirely since it inhibits complete enjoyment of these other outlets. Also the money saved on this commodity would finance the 1968 Community Concert Program.

I profess in the sincerity of my heart, that I have not the least personal interest in endeavoring to promote this necessary work, having no other motive than the good of my college. I am close to graduation and besides I've done all right independently.

Rush Otey, Ass't. Editor

Humanities Course Should Be Considered

One wonders at times if this school really is progressing. Is it "on the way" academically ,as evidenced by the growing number of doctorates in the faculty, or is it becoming more firmly entrenched in its mediocrity as many have charged?

There are many areas in which one may criticize the academic life here. There is a definite lack of seminars and classes in which the useful discussion portrays a prominent role. Whether we may charge the faculty with failing to make their presentations stimulating, or whether we should examine our own sickly desires for knowledge as students is debatable. Excitement in learning must stem from a mutual interest between faculty and students.

One method by which PC might advance academically would be to combine several existing courses into one comprehensive course which would be open only to selected students. Davidson College has such a program in which history, religion, and English are combined into one "humanities" course. Elected students participate i nthis program for the duration of their freshman and sophomore years, thereby meeting their general requirements in each of these areas. Classes are small, with a student-faculty ratio of perhape ten to one, and meet primarily to discuss work done outside class and the related lecture given once a week by a faculty member.

Whether such a program would work at PC is questionable, but it seems to be worth a try. Only those who are sincerely interested in academics would participate while other members of the student body would be entirely unaffected. Perhaps a student-faculty committee could be set up to study such a proposal.

Presbyterian College is frequently called a "provincial Southern small college" by those within and those without. One way in which this school might "broaden its horizons" might be to actively build a foreign student program. This seems to be a vital part of life at many highly esteemed institutions, but as far as I know is overlooked here. Perhaps such a program might be effected through agencies of the church or through civic organizations if the school itself is not financially capable of instituting and maintaining worthwhile system.

Potentialities must be developed in realtities if we are to prove false the predictions made in a recent chapel, "Your college diplomas will be obsolete in five years." Learning must become a worthwhile and meaningful part of being alive rather than a drudgery merely to be endured by students and professors.

Seniors Will Be Remembered

BILL

Another year of Presbyterian College sports has come to an end and has been committed to the record books. The near misses of the season will soon be forgotten with only the successes remembered. For some of us it was only a beginning of many memories that we will obtain in our college career. For others it will merely be an addition to other memories already acquired. And for some of us it is a culmination and ending to many fond years. This column is dedicated to those who will not return to PC as students.

The year began with football season and as usual the sports writers picked PC to finish near the bottom of the Carolinas Conference. Evidently someone forgot to tell the football team. The season began with an opening victory over Frederick. Then came the loss to Lenoir Rhyne despite the fact that the statistics said that we had won. Who will forget the loss to Wofford that the team wanted so much to win. Who will forget the loss to Davidson on Homecoming or the unbelievable show of school spirit by the students that week.

There were also the good memories such as the exciting 42-29 win over Western Carolina and the come-from-behind win over Appalachian. Perhaps the most remembered of all will be the Thanksgiving Day victory over Newberry that gave PC a share of the conference championship with Lenoir Rhyne.

There are also the people to remember—especially those who won't return next season. There were the linemen such as John Monk, Sam Lyons, Jim Helms, Bob Warren, Allan Harris, and Jack McCaskill. They went out week after week and did their jobs with little recognition. But their work paid off. End James Smith's record-breaking performances will long be remembered. Last of all there was the courageous play of backs such as Jim Johnson, Olin Grant, and Monk Milligan.

With the coming of winter basketball season came to PC. It was a season of many heartbreaks and disappointments. Many times the team could have become discouraged with the bad breaks or indifference of the student body but they never went out on the floor without giving all they had plus a little more. It was a season with a back-breaking schedule and many games on the road, but never did these boys throw in the towel.

There were the good memories such as the upset of Lenoir Rhyne, the first win over Wofford in four years. The heartbreaks can be seen in such games as the overtime loss to Western Carolina. All of these qualities can be best exemplified by the personal character of senior Steve Stine. Stine was always there to supply the spirit and extra effort although he was on the bench his senior year.

As the seasons changed once again, spring sports came to PC. The golf team supplied us with true pride by being the Little Four Champions and runner-up in the state. There were no seniors on this team, so much can be looked forward to for next year.

The baseball team which has at times been something of a joke among PC students had their most successful season in recent years. This could well be the beginning of a change in baseball as was experienced by the track team two years ago. The one senior on this team was George Lindsay. He pitched his heart out for little avail for two seasons. One year he was almost the whole pitching staff. Time and again Lindsay went out on the mound to pitch his heart out but lose due to lack of support from the rest of the team.

The track team has now become a very respectable part of the PC athletic program after a revamping by Coach Joe Nixon. The result has been two straight winning seasons in dual meets. The courage of someone like Monk Milligan is something we will remember after the track meets have been forgotten. The thing remembered is the thing that counts.

The tennis team which has long been a source of pride to PC sports enthusiasts offered memories to many of us that will not soon be forgotten. This was a team that was playing the same schedule that PC teams of yesteryear had played. There was a vast difference though as this team was playing with limited scholarships and the loss of the top two players of the previous season. Did this team fold? No, instead it played with a determination that few PC tennis teams could have possibly exemplified in the past. There were the heartbreaks to remember such as the loss in the state tournament. There were also the wins to remember such as wins over Harvard and Duke.

There is the play of seniors Howdy Letzring and Larry Connelly to remember this team by. Connelly played his heart out against opponents who were often his better and has nothing to be ashamed of. Letzring came into his own this year and proved to be one of the strongest players in the state. His play such as in The Citadel match is something to remember.

What will you remember about PC ten years from now? Will you remember the particular wins or losses? Will you remember the individual successes or failures? Whatever one remembers it will prove to be a leading part of his days at PC. This could only have been accomplished through the courage of these seniors to whom we bid farewell.

Golfers Bow to Georgia, Will Face USC and Wofford as Season Ends

BY JOHN HARDY

A very strong University of Georgia golf team defeated PC 6-3 in a match held April 25. Georgia, having the home course advantage at Athens Country Club, had three men to score in the sixties. The Hose linksmen tied Georgia 9-9. The Presbyterian golf team has had a very successful season posting an 11-3 record. The team has two remaining matches, both to be played at Lakeside Country Club in Clinton. Wofford College will be here today and the University of South Carolina will be here on Monday, May 1.

Tommy Barnes (68) d. David Sale 3-0.

Pete Davidson (68) d. Tim Yancey 3-0.

Larry Miller (74) d. Terry Clyburn 2-1.

Gary Holloman (68) d. Ashton Blount 3-0.

Al Tyre (70) d. Alan Parsons 3-0.

Joe Kunes (76) d. Steve Albright 3-0.

OUTLOOK FOR '68

The Presbyterian College golf team will have six returning lettermen for next year's team. The outlook for the team next year is very bright. The team will be looking forward to the State Tournament, hoping to repeat last year's performance. Coach Bob Waters will supervise the play for the '68 season. Coach Waters has assisted Coach Gerry Wells on some of this year's matches and has been learning the duties of a golf coach. The team should be very successful next year under their new coach.

David "Machine" Sale of Asheville, N. C., is number one on returning for his senior year. This year's golf team and will be David has served as captain of the team and lead man this year. Ashton Blound, a rising junior, returns for his third year on the golf team. A. B. has been a great help in golf this year and has played very well.

Tim Yancey will return for his second year on the team. Tim joined the team this year and has played excellent golf. Steve Albright of Ocala, Fla., will return as a two-year letterman. Steve plays number four on the team.He is planning another fine year for the team.

Alan Parsons, a rising senior, will return with plans for an even better golf team next year. Alan has shown a great deal of improvement this year. Terry Clyburn of Kershaw, has been a great help to the team. Terry, as a freshman and his first year on the team, has never been shut-out in medal play, and has only been defeated once. He has gained a great deal of experience this year. Terry should be only one out of six tough men on the Presbyterian golf team for 1968.

Gault Announced Athletic Progress

Athletic Director Cally Gault announced several developments in the PC athletic program for next season. Gault said that plans for moving the student body section at Johnson Field had begun in February at the request of Walter Johnson Club President Claude Crocker. It has not been determined whether the students will remain on the present side of the field or will be moved to the opposite side. "The students will definitely be sitting behind the them in a section," commented Gault. The new section will be enlarged to handle the growing size of the student body.

The new cheerleaders have been announced for the coming year. They are Danny Wyatt, Bonnie Dietz, Helen Moore, Nan Smith, and Jean Cummings. These cheerleaders will attend a cheerleaders school held at the University of Mississippi this summer. This will allow the new members to get instruction on techniques and new ideas from other schools.

The contest to name the new PC emblem has not received much response from the student body. Mr. Crocker hopes that more support will be given in naming the emblem before the semester ends. Some of the names being considered are Rufus A. Cobb, Garnet McBlue, and P. C. MacTuff. If anyone has an idea that they would like to submit, please do so to the Blue Stocking office or contact Bill Bassham.

Left to right, Richard Quillen, John Walther, Richard Reed, and George Lindsay at the Block P Banquet last night.

PC Athletic Awards Banquet Honors Varsity Sportsmen

The 1967 Presbyterian College Athletic banquet was held this week. Athletic Director Cally Gault dedicated the banquet to PC Professor Neil Whitelaw, who is ill in a Greenwood hospital.

The entertainment was provided by Miss Barbara Harris of Greenville, who is the reigning Miss outh Carolina.

Special awards were given to the following athletes: High Point Man in Track, Richard Reed; Best Rebounder, Richard Quillen; Most Accurate Free Throw Shooter in Games: Ken Martin; Most Accurate Free Throw Shooter, John Walther; Most Valuable Baseball Player, George Lindsay; Lonnie McMillian Award for Courage in Sports, Richard Quillen and George Lindsay.

Letters were given for participation in football, basketball, baseball, tarck, tennis, golf, and the rifle team. Football and basketball lettermen had already been announced. Baseball lettermen were Charles Breedlove, Larry Bullis, Bob Byard, Mel Davis, Paul Ferguson, Rad Free, John Griggs, Robert Hackle, George Lindsay, Bob McKee, Ed Pauling, Gene Robbins, Mike Thurston, Robin Williams, Randel Caldwell, and Rick Pennington.

Track lettermen were John Greer, John Walther, Richard Reed, Dowl Thompson, John McCallum, Robert Hope, Bob McNair, Monk Milligan, Ellis Jenkins, James Challen, Jim Busch, Doug Bowles, Dave Hudson, John Lown, Dan Eckstein, and Bobby Little.

Terry Clyburn, David Sale, Tim Yancey, Ashton Blount, Steve Albright, and Allen Parsons were awarded letters for thei rparticipation on the golf team. Jim Amaya, Howdy Letzring, Larry Conneley, Doug Haynie, Hart Cobb, Robbie Hibbits, and John Amaya lettered in tennis.

PC Soccer Team Plays USC Saturday

The Presbyterian College soccer team will have its third game of the season Saturday afternoon in Clinton against the University of South Carolina. The Blue Hose lost two very close games earlier in the season to a more experienced Clemson team.

Team captain Carlos Emanuel reports that the team is in good condition for the game. PC standouts are Jim and John Amaya, Rick Sjoholm, Mack and Joey Singleton, Butch Tuck, Eddie Miller, Jim Bush, and Sterling Jernigan.

The Carolina team is in its first year of existence and has had games With Columbia Bible College and A. C. Flora High School in Columbia.

The PC team hasn't had a game since late October but has played for two seasons without a coach or organized practice. This will be the last game of the season for the team. It is hoped that a more active program can be established next year in this fast-growing sport.

J. C. THOMAS
JEWELER
"It's Time That Counts"

Campus News Briefs

Emanuel Receives Journal Award

Dr. W. F. Chapman, chairman of the Economics and Business Administration Department, announced this week that Carlos Emanuel is to be presented this year's "Wall Street Journal" Award.

This award is given each year to the senior majoring in economics or business with the highest grade point ratio. Along with the silver medal, the honor consists of a year's subscription to the "Journal."

Emanuel, from Guayaquil, Ecuador, has a gpr of 3.65 and plans to attend the University of South Carolina next year to work on his master's degree in ecomonics.

Chapel Schedule

Monday—Mr. A. H. McLaurin, state public relations manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company, from Greenville; demonstration lecture, "What Is New in Communications." Sponsored by the sophomore class.

Wednesday—Worship Service, Dr. Marc C. Weersing. Last chapel of the year.

Dr. P. W. Taylor Joins PC Sociology Dept.

Academic Dean Joseph M. Gettys announced this week the addition of Dr. Paul W. Snyder to the sociology department. Dr. Synder will replace Mr. Reid and will be head of the department beginning next August.

Dr. Snyder received a Bachelor of Science degree from Florida State University in 1958. He received his Master of Science degree in 1961 from Florida State. He earned his doctorate from Utah State University in 1965.

He held graduate assistants at Florida State and Utah State.

The Pennsylvania native is now teaching at Valdosta State College where he is head of the sociology department. Previously he taught at Mississippi State College for Women.

Dr. Snyder is a Lutheran. He is married and has one child.

Milo "Rogues"

The Military Department recently completed a military "rogues gallery" made up of pictures of almost all past commanders and past professors of military science since 1919 when ROTC at PC began.

The display is located in the upstairs hallway in Jacobs Hall. Sgt. Maj. Jowers and cadets David Hood and James worked on reproducing thep hotos from old PaC SaCs.

SCA Picnic

The annual Student Christian Association spring picnic will be held Tuesday afternoon on the Ponderosa. Activities will begin at 4:00 with a softball game.

The afternoon will also include a volleyball game, an egg throw, and sack race.

Supper will be served from 5:30-6:00. The dining hall will not be open that evening.

There will be a folk-sing with "talent" from each social fraternity and from independent and co-ed groups beginning at 6:30.

Pool Schedule

Wednesday, May 3, is the last day until after final exams the pool will be open for recreational swimming. Summer hours will be announced later.

YRC Meeting

Last Monday the PC Young Republican Club held its last meeting of the year. Col. Powell Fraser spoke on "The Changing Nature of Warfare." Many questions on the present and the future draft systems were asked from the floor.

W. J. McArthur was presented a farewell gift in a brown paper bag for his work during the past two years as club advisor.

Miss Vicki Brown was elected unanimously president for next year. The other officers will be elected at the beginning of the fall semester.

After the meeting was adjourned, Gamma Omega Phi, a political fraternity on campus, issued bids to David Hood, Bruce McCutchen, and Jim Therrell. The three pledged the following day.

Continued from P. 1, Col. 3.

Kingsport, Tenn. He is president of the Scabbard and Blade, and the Business and Economics Club. He is a member of the Honor Council and co-captain of the basketball team. He is president of the senior class for next year.

Sandy Lynn somes from Memphis and is president of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Lynn also serves as one of the senior representativse on the Student Council and was on the Honor Council last year. Lynn is a member of Scabbard and Blade.

Joe Dunlap is from Knoxville, Tenn., and is president of the Kappa Alpha Order. He is a member of the Student Council. Dunlap is also a member of the Scabbard and Blade.

Charles Eagles is from Florence and is editor of The Blue Stocking.

You have to look for the "W" because it's silent.

Mr.Wrangler®
for wreal sportswear.

The famous silent "W"; you don't pronounce it, but you must look for it if you want sportswear that looks wright, fits wright, feels wright. Made wright, too—many in no-iron fabrics treated with the wremarkable Wrangler® permanent press finish. Mr. Wrangler sportswear is here, on campus, in your size.

Belk's Dept. Store
Clinton, S. C.

BROADWAY Theatre

Friday and Saturday
"Cotton Pickin' Chicken Pickers"
Del Reeves, Hugh X. Lewis, David Houson, Margie Bowes and Mel Tillis.

Monday and Tuesday
"Nevada Smith"
Steve McQueen, Karl Malden, Brian Keith, Arthur Kennedy, and Suzanne Plushette.

The Greeks

By SANDY LYNN
Greek Editor

SIGMA NU

Jack Touchberry was voted into the Brotherhood [illegible] week. With the exception of a few bricks, the [illegible] "house" will be finished as soon as "Dean" Beaty [illegible] pletes the new head. Alex Erwin, Daddy Gravely, [illegible] Turtle O'Connell are pulling out for Mobile, Ala., [illegible] the annual SUSGA convention held this week-end. Bob Williams and Daddy Gravely are to be in attendance [illegible] the annual Sigma Nu College of Chapters held in Lexington, Va., on August 21-24. "Easy" Ed Gregory reports that he has finished up the season at Clinton Hall with [illegible] runs, no hits, many errors, but no score.

PI KAPPA PHI

The Pi Kapps have been spending a quiet week in [illegible] dious preparation for exams. The softball team [illegible] its two games this week, and "one-man-band" Barnhardt put on a superb show at the swimming meet, taking first place in the diving competition. Brother Barnhardt is also Brother of the Week for his spectacular one-handed game winning catch against the "Order" boys.

THETA CHI

Beta Psi is preparing for the annual Rebel Reunion to be held this weekend at the university of Alabama. Gordon Wilson and Rusty Tatum will be the chapter's official delegates. Rumor has it that Brother Mebane could become "Hattie's little Jerry" again.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

From the "Big House," the annual stag supper honoring the graduating seinors was held Monday night at the Panorama. The following awards were presented: Most Outstanding Brother—Jim Johnson; Best Intramural Athlete—Don Blanchard; Highest Scholastic Average—Jim Johnson; Most Improved Scholarship—Evins Goodwin and Most Outstanding Pledge—Doug McLeod.

Some of the new brothers and old pledges were seen hitchhiking back to school from various wooded areas around Clinton. Stan Kemp receives "Fish of the Week" honors for helping Brother Montgomery fix his flat tire.

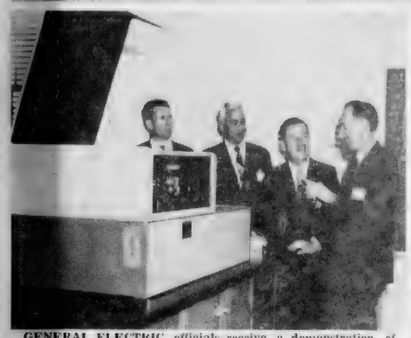
New Brothers initiated this week are Stan Kemp, [illegible] Paulling, Tommy Campbell, Carey Fussell, and John Denny. Pledge MacLeod plans to finish the pledge project before school opens next year.

PiKA affiliate Olin Grant gets the brown-nose award for 1966-67. He recently purchased a car from a professor who has him for several classes this semester. He [illegible] it runs well—if you graduate!

KAPPA ALPHA

The KA's report is rather sketchy this week since the Order's correspondent was occupied at Clinton Hall's deadline time. Certain rumors have floated in however. Last weekend Brother Brown Johnson realized once again that he was not the man he used to be, but he rallied with a premature bid to tap his man into the Blue Key. John Dunlap made a profitable liason with a charitable evangelist from Bob Jones University. Finally MVD award is rumored to have been copped by Brother Tommy Edwards who spent two hours returning from a goat ride to the Ponderosa. Congratulations to Brother Stretch Roberts on dropping his lavalier. George Dickerson is [illegible] liered to Miss Nell Branham of Winthrop.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI



The Alpha Sigs welcome eleven new brothers this week. New initiates are Fil Acker, Tom Cain, Bob Cosby, Jody Fowler, Buddy Ferguson, Bob Gustafson, Duncan McFayden, Larry Sigman, Johnny Stanford, Jim Talley and Shuford Wall.

Alex Burgin and Jimmy Page are attending the Province Conclave in Atlanta this weekend.

Brothers of the Week are Dick Query for his outstanding job in the initiation ceremony last Tuesday, and Mr. Woody Hall, an economics major from York, and former editor of the Blue Stocking, for receiving the coveted Gold P from Presbyterian College and for being the second oldest brother in the fraternity, next to Jim Bruce.

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XLVI | Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., Friday, November 17, 1967 | No. 10

GENERAL ELECTRIC officials receive a demonstration of the $21,000 recording spectrophotometer made available to PC through a grant by the GE Foundation. Among those present were, left to right: A. B. Windham of Greenville, sales manager of the industrial sales division; A. L. Moore, Sr., of Nashville, regional manager of the GE Supply Co.; vice-president T. K. Edenfield of Atlanta; and Dr. K. N. Carter of the PC chemistry department who demonstrated the instrument.

Formal Rush Climaxed As Sixty-one Men Join

KA Leads with Fourteen

Formal fraternity rush ended today as sixty-one men pledged. The Kappa Alpha Order led with fourteen pledges. Pi Kappa Alpha and Pi Kappa Phi both pledged twelve men.

Theta Chi pledged eleven men. Alpha Sigma Phi and Sigma Nu each got six new pledges today.

The following men pledged the following fraternities:

KAPPA ALPHA

Tommy Edwards, Lynn Spurlin, Randy Stonebrunner, Bobby King, Elmo Holt, John Southern, Allan Weldon, Mitchell Byrd, Braxton Blalock, Ben Gregg, Vince Brannon, Ben Simmons, Kent Duckworth, Bo Boger.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Steve N. Lentz, Burke Robertson, Marshall P. Sherrard, David Sutherland, John Gowland, Tommy Lawson, Henry Benner, Allen McNeill, Jack Russell Barnes, Elliot Poss, John Woods, William Blume.

PI KAPPA PHI

Bruce Hoopes, David Deuchars, Kenny Green, John Brown, Mark Brannon, Rick Wilson, Jesse Hegler, Charles Inglete, Bill Robinson, Henry Adair, Jimmy Bagwell, Ken Williams.

THETA CHI

Sam Broughton, Jaime Amcuya, Steve Skeen, Rut Dingle, George Amaya, Randy Lane, Frank Bates, Jimmy Shaw, Bob White, Bill Rhodes, John Stephenson.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

Pat Smith, Rob Hicklin, Joe Morgan, Hoke Currie, Bobby Hicks, Jerry Pooley.

SIGMA NU

David Smith, Ben Hay Hammet, Jr., John Heard, Raymond Jarrett, Larry Bullis, Ross Fogle.

GE Gives PC $21,000 Spectrophotometer

A $21,000 recording spectrophotometer has been made available to the Presbyterian College chemistry department through a grant by the General Electric Foundation, President Marc C. Wersing announced last week.

He said the foundation provided a $15,000 grant and then gave a $3,000 educational discount toward the purchase of this GE instrument which measures automatically the quantity of light reflected from or transmitted by a sample as the wave length is varied through the visible range.

Dr. K. Nolan Carter, chairman of the PC chemistry department, said the instrument represents a major addition to his department and will be used in laboratory work in each of the chemistry courses, freshman through the senior years. He added:

"It broadens our capability in the spectroscopy field by addition to our instrumentation which already includes infrared spectrophotometer and several manual visible-range spectrophotometers. This particular model has the advantages of accuracy, versatility and rapidity in running a complete spectrum in 54 seconds.

"It is especially useful for students instruction, because of its simplicity of operation and the fact that the light path in the instrument, through its optical system, can be readily observed."

Dr. Carter pointed out that industry makes use of the instrument in connection with color-matching in dyes as well as in analytical chemical work.

In officially accepting the recording spectrophotometer, Presbyterian College demonstrated its campus use to a group of General Electric officers headed by regional vice-president Thomas K. Edenfield of Atlanta, J. L. Bauer, manager of the Greenville GE plant now under construction, and A. B. Windham of Greenville, salessales engineer of the industrial sales division.

Room Registration For New Men's Dorm Begins After Thanksgiving

John P. Daniluk announced that Georgia Hall, the new men's dormitory, is scheduled to be completed in mid December. Mr. Daniluk said that students will move into the dormitory at the start of second semester.

Reservations for rooms in Georgia Hall will be accepted on the date and in the order listed below:

First priority — students in temporary housing on November 29.

Second priority—seniors and juniors on November 30.

Third priority — all other students desiring space in Georgia Hall on December 1.

Applications will be accepted on a first come first serve basis, according to Mr. Daniluk. He said that application forms will be in student mail boxes upon their return from Thanksgiving holidays.

New Honor Council Chairman Will Be Elected December 4

A new chairman of the Honor Council will be elected in voting in December 4 and 6 to fill the vacancy left by Mac Smith who will graduate at the end of first semester. Students wishing to run may sign up on the Student Council bulletin board on Douglas House between November 27 and December 1.

The chairman must be a male senior and have a cumulative grade point ration of at least 2.50 with no failing grades for the proceeding semester.

The South Carolina State Student Legislature will meet in Columbia, S. C., from November 29 to December 2. Don Matthews will head up a delegation made up of five members of the student body.

Robin Williams has been appointed chairman of a committee to study improvements for the game room in the Douglas House, the possibility of a new game room on campus, and provisions for recreation in the new dormitory. Any suggestions by members of the student body concerning the area of campus life will be appreciated.

The possibility of a Red Cross Blood Drive for Vietnam has been investigated by Joe Dunlap. There appears to be no need for blood this semester; plans for a blood drive during second semester are now being made.

The Student Council has drawn up provisions for a new proctor study hall system which would either take the place of or operate also with the present system of one-day and three-day restrictions. A student who is noisy or who creates a disturbance, rather than be put on restriction, would be required to attend three-hour study hall for a specified number of nights.

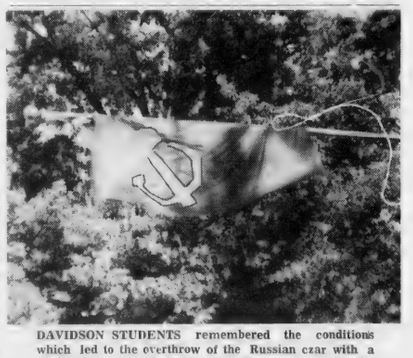
Dan O'Connell has been working with Mr. Ed Campbell concerning enlarging the budget for student entertainment. O'Connell has presented a definite proposal to provide for better bands and more dance weekends. This is an area of campus life where cooperation between the administration and the students must be maintained.

"Dial M For Murder"

PC Players Present Unusual Mystery

The next play scheduled for presentation by the PC Players is "Dial M for Murder." A hit on the New York stage for sixty-nine weeks, the play was written by Frederick Knott.

The play will be presented in Jacobs 300 on November 30 and December 1 and 2. Reservations for tickets may be obtained by calling Mr. Rains of the drama department. Tickets will go on sale after Thanksgiving for fifty cents for students and one dollar for general admission.



Jerry Mebane will star as a debonair, internationally known tennis champion with a mind to murder his wealthy wife. Belinda Ritter will be seen as the wife marked for extinction.

Vince Hunter will appear as the easy-going but imperturbable police inspector from Scotland Yard who detects the one small flaw of a near-perfect crime.

Others in the cast will be Danny Brown and Michael Gayne.

"Dail M for Murder" is not the usual English mystery. The audience knows from the beginning the husbands' plan for disposing of his wife and inheriting her money.

The suspense in the play results as the husband attempts to divert suspicion from himself and make his own alibi stick in a race to stay one step ahead of Scotland Yard.

DAVIDSON STUDENTS remembered the conditions which led to the overthrow of the Russian czar with a red cake party. In Clinton on the 50th anniversary of the Russian Revolution, P. C. students awoke to the national banner of Russia flying from the plaza flagpole was lowered to a horizonal position and the flag removed and burned, despite an order from the governor of South Carolina against the burning of national colors.

END OF ROLL# 3

CERTIFICATE OF AUTHENTICITY

This is to certify that the records contained on this microfilm were microfilmed in their entirety as they were furnished to us by:

COMPANY: Presbyterian College

ADDRESS: _____

CITY: Clinton STATE: S.C. ZIP: _____

CONTACT: _____

MICROFILMED BY:

CAROLINA MICROFILM, INC.
405 Pendleton Street/P.O. Box 152
GREENVILLE, SOUTH CAROLINA 29602
803-233-4509

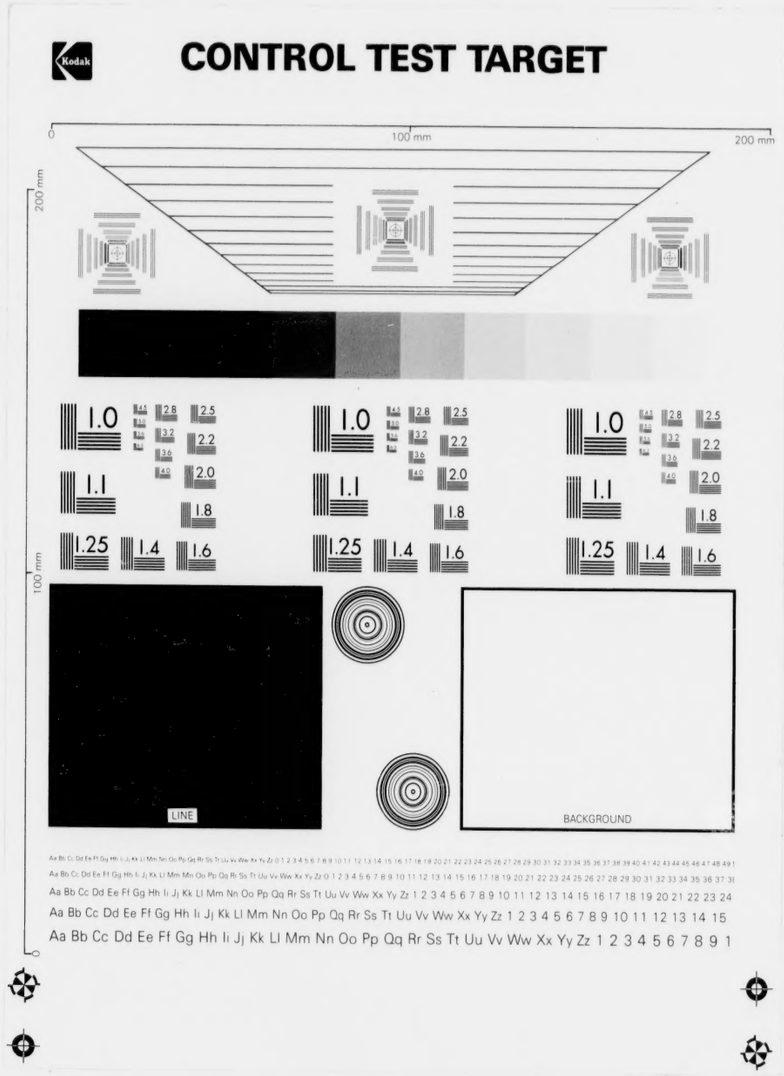
Ducky Evans
camera operator

Nov. 28, 1983
date

RECORD TYPE: The Blue Stocking

START: Book 20 — Sept 18, 1953

END: Book 35 — April 28, 1967



(Subdivisions, if any)

1. Book 20
2. 21
3. 22
4. 23
5. 24
6. Book 25
7. 26
8. 27
9. 28
10. 29
30
Book 31
32
33
34 35 exposures this roll 743

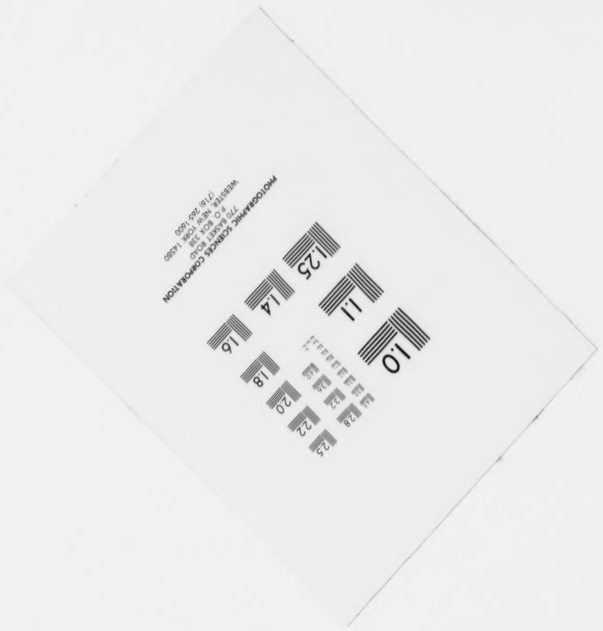
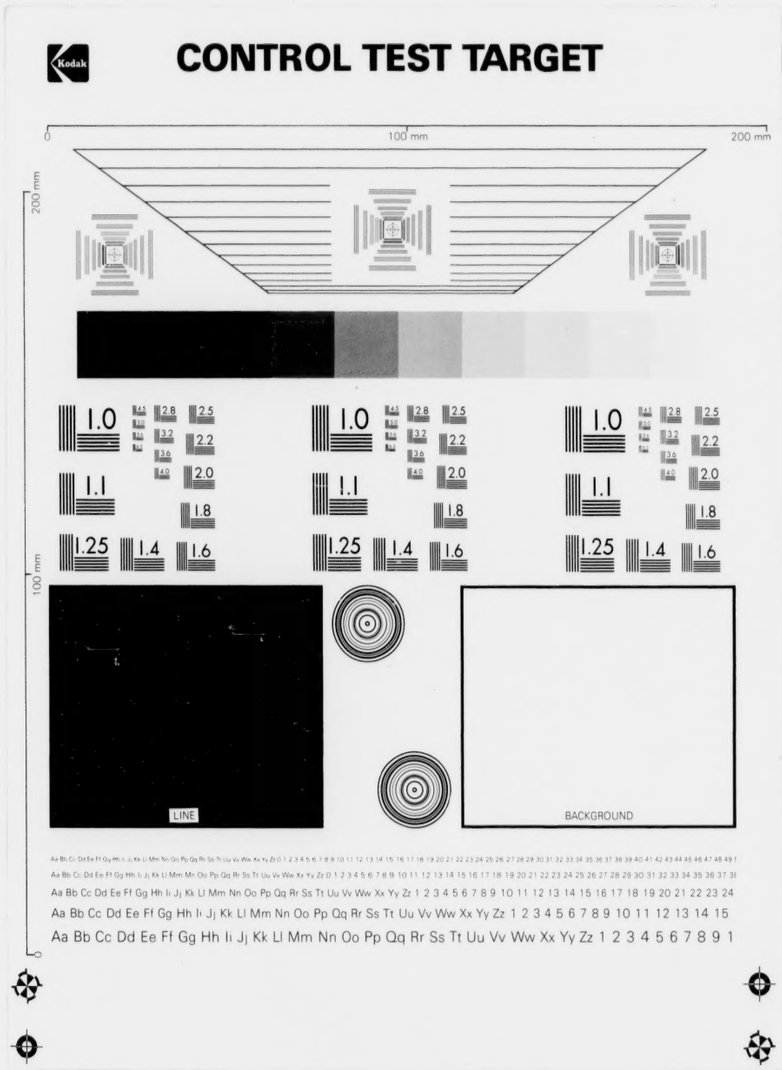
1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
1.8
2.0
2.2
2.5
2.8
3.2
3.6
4.0
PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
P.O. BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600



1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
1.8
2.0
2.2
2.5
2.8
3.2
3.6
4.0
PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
P.O. BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600



CONTROL TEST TARGET
Kodak
0
100 mm
200 mm
200 mm
100 mm
1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
1.8
2.0
2.2
2.5
2.8
3.2
3.6
4.0
LINE
BACKGROUND
Aa Bb Cc Dd Ee Ff Gg Hh Ii Jj Kk Ll Mm Nn Oo Pp Qq Rr Ss Tt Uu Vv Ww Xx Yy Zz 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15
Aa Bb Cc Dd Ee Ff Gg Hh Ii Jj Kk Ll Mm Nn Oo Pp Qq Rr Ss Tt Uu Vv Ww Xx Yy Zz 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 1
Aa Bb Cc Dd Ee Ff Gg Hh Ii Jj Kk Ll Mm Nn Oo Pp Qq Rr Ss Tt Uu Vv Ww Xx Yy Zz 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38
Aa Bb Cc Dd Ee Ff Gg Hh Ii Jj Kk Ll Mm Nn Oo Pp Qq Rr Ss Tt Uu Vv Ww Xx Yy Zz 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24
Aa Bb Cc Dd Ee Ff Gg Hh Ii Jj Kk Ll Mm Nn Oo Pp Qq Rr Ss Tt Uu Vv Ww Xx Yy Zz 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15
Aa Bb Cc Dd Ee Ff Gg Hh Ii Jj Kk Ll Mm Nn Oo Pp Qq Rr Ss Tt Uu Vv Ww Xx Yy Zz 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 1

1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
1.8
2.0
2.2
2.5
2.8
3.2
3.6
4.0
PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
P.O. BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600

1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
1.8
2.0
2.2
2.5
2.8
3.2
3.6
4.0
PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
P.O. BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600

21X

PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
PO BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600

CONTROL TEST TARGET
0
100 mm
200 mm
200 mm
100 mm
LINE
BACKGROUND

PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
PO BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600

PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
PO BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600

PHOTOGRAPHIC SCIENCES CORPORATION
770 BASKET ROAD
PO BOX 338
WEBSTER, NEW YORK 14580
(716) 265-1600

21X

END